WTU Files For Increase In Retail Electric Rates

West Texas Utilities Company has filed for an increase in its electric rates for retail customers.

Local Manager Wayne Lory said the application was filed Friday, June 8, a full year since WTU's last rate application, and is a systemwide request for higher rates. Simultaneous filings were made in all incorporated towns and with the Public Utility Commission of Texas at Austin for an increase in rural areas, unincorporated towns and in 21 municipalities which have ceded jurisdiction over electric rates.

The proposal would produce an annual increase in total retail revenue of $30,845,695. This amounts to 12.4 percent.

Lory said the additional revenue is necessary to carry out WTU's current heavy construction program, which includes a new coal-fired power plant at Oklaunion near Vernon.

"By the time these rates become effective, we will have spent $167 million on the Oklaunion Power station and related projects," Lory said. "Our last rate increase was not enough to carry us through this construction program, which is essential to continued reliable electric service to our customers."

WTU had requested an increase of $26.6 million in its filing in June 1983. A hearing in that case was held in Austin in September, and the final PUC order granting about half the requested amount became effective January 4, 1984.

The Oklaunion plant will be completed in late 1986, almost 10 years after WTU's newest existing generating unit was completed at Fort Phantom Power Station near Abilene.

Citing a "light at the end of the tunnel," Lory said WTU's spending should taper off as the construction program nears completion. Also, since coal is much cheaper for generating electricity than natural gas or oil, the fuel cost should be more stable after the new plant comes on line.

No major changes in rate structure are included in WTU's proposal. The requested rates would mean that a residential customer using 600 kilowatt-hours a month would pay $7.55 more each month for electricity. A commercial customer using 1,700 kwh would pay $19.37 more. These amounts include fuel costs.

WTU serves customers in 161 separate communities, 82 of which operate as active incorporated towns. The rate case filings were made in 61 towns, while information on the rate case was made available to the 21 incorporated towns which have ceded jurisdiction, to two inactive municipalities and to two unincorporated towns.

The 21 towns which have ceded jurisdiction and now rely on the PUC to decide their cases are Albany, Chillicothe, Dickens, Eldorado, Goree, Hedley, Lakeview, Matador, McCamey, Mertzon, Moran, Paint Rock, Presidio, Roaring Springs, Robert Lee, Roby, Rotan, Rule, Shamrock, Trent and Weinert.

The inactive municipalities are Odell and Sylvester. The unincorporated towns are Fort Davis and Ozona.

Yard of the Month Winner Announced

The Babe Chandler home was singled out as deserving the "Yard of the Month" recognition by "We the Women" for the month of June.

Louise and Babe Chandler have consistently maintained a beautiful and attractive yard. It takes a lot of work to have flowers, shrubs, trees and a lush green lawn in West Texas, and especially this year with so little rainfall.

There are a number of yards in town that are really shaping up. Bill Woods has put in a new lawn of native buffalo grass and when he gets it all up it will look great. H. G. Boyles has also been spending long hours painting the outside of his house and getting his yard in ship-shape condition. Lottie Owens has also put out that extra effort to make her yard look neat and lovely. There are a number of others who have worked hard and have done a good job. Down town, Mary's Drive-In looks good with a fresh coat of paint.

When people become discouraged because of drought, poor farm prices and bad economy, everyone should be more aware of putting forth the effort to make homes and yards in good condition. Run-down places, with weeds grown up and buildings in need of paint are depressing. With the Quitaque Homecoming right around the corner, now is the time to "think beautiful" and get things cleaned up around homes and businesses.

"We the Women" have recently bought new concrete car bumpers to place in the parking area at the Community Center. James Cathey has repaired the rock planters in the City Park. James Brunson has filled them with new dirt and they are now ready for the new trees and ground cover which "We the Women" are furnishing. All of these things will add to the beauty of the community.

ICE CREAM SUPPER PLANNED FRIDAY NIGHT

An ice cream supper will be held Friday night, June 15, at the Senior Citizens Room at 7:30 p.m. Proceeds will go for additional equipment for the ambulance. All senior citizens are asked to bring either ice cream or cake.

Man Bitten By Rattler Sunday At State Park

The Quitaque Emergency Medical Technicians were called to Caprock Canyons State Park Sunday to assist a man who had been bitten by a rattlesnake.

The EMTs who responded were David Brunson, Manual Cruz, Walter Wayne Taylor and Jerry Maupin. They report that Herbert McCormish, 54, was bitten by a 15-inch rattler which carried two rattles and a button. Mr. McCormish had just stepped out of his trailer, according to report from his wife, when the snake struck him on the foot. It was in the camping area.

He was taken by Quitaque ambulance to Central Plains Hospital in Plainview where the EMTs report he underwent surgery and was recovering fine when they left.

This story was written to caution people who are picnicking or hiking or just out walking, to look closely where they are stepping. The EMTs report that the snakes are out, now, and to be very cautious.

TURKEY METHODIST MEN TO HAVE PANCAKE BREAKFAST JUNE 25

The Turkey United Methodist Men's organization is planning a pancake breakfast to be held on June 25 from 6:00 until 8:00 a.m. at the Turkey Drive In Cafe. Proceeds from this will go to the Methodist Home Boys' Ranch, according to Rev. W. L. Armstrong, church pastor.

The menu will feature pancakes, syrup, bacon and coffee.

The parachute was designed in 1783 by Louis Lenormand, who designed it to save people who had to jump from burning buildings.

When broiling a beef steak, what's the best way to judge if it is done just the way you like it? Simply cut a slit in the meat near the bone and check the color to determine if it is rare, medium or well done. Because of differences in steaks and broiling temperatures, cooking times in recipes should be used only as guides.

Burlington Cotton Co., Greenville, South Carolina.

The panel was chaired by Bill Spencer, editor of Cotton Grower.

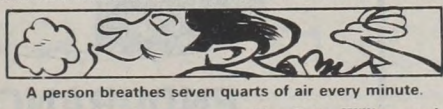

In talking about what is not wanted in cotton, the panelists said: the agent responsible for bysinosis; neps; reprocessed fibers; honeydew; contamination such as grease, kerosene, rubber and polypropylene; trash, bark, and other plant pieces. What is wanted—a one bale configuration; high strength, mature cotton that will dye properly; and cottons that are mature at a lower micronaire. HVI, they said, will enable mills to better measure fiber properties. And, they'll pay premiums for the needed qualities and discounts for the cottons that don't measure up.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jim Meacham of Midland and formerly of Turkey and Mrs. Zona Ruth Cammack of Matador.

Pre-nuptial musical arrangements were played by Mrs. Earlene Jameson of Flomot. Traditional music was selected. The traditional wedding march was also played.

Mrs. Carrie Norton of Lubbock sang "You Are a Miracle" after the father of the bride gave the bride away. She sang "Through The Eyes of Love" during the lighting of the unity candle.

The bride chose a traditional gown of white chantilly lace for her wedding day. The basque bodice featured a sabrina neckline dotted with pearls. Falling from the waistline, the full cathedral skirt fell into cascading ruffles the entire length of the gown to slipper length in front and swept into a cathedral train of ruffles in the back. For her headpiece, the bride chose a hat which was covered with Chantilly lace and outlined with pearls. The back of the hat had an arrangement of white silk flowers with a net bow.

She carried a cascading bouquet of pink tiger lilies and lace accented with baby's breath and other smaller pink flowers. The center of the bouquet featured two white orchids. All the flowers were silk.

For something old, the bride wore a silver wedding Band which was given to her by the bridegroom's mother. Her something borrowed was her wedding dress borrowed from her sister. She wore the traditional blue garter. Her something new was her wedding hat. She also carried a two-dollar bill, presented by her mother, for good luck.

The bride and groom were united in marriage before an archway of silk ivy and garlands with a pink bow at the top. Small palm trees were at each base of the archway and baskets of pink tiger lilies, gladioli and other small flowers were at the other side. Behind the archway was a table holding a bouquet of pink tiger lilies and ivy with a unity candle which the bride and groom lighted after saying their vows. Pink candles in silver holders were on either side of the unity candle which the mothers had lighted before the ceremony.

Pews were marked with ivy and topped with a pink satin bow.

Mrs. Cindy Lane of Lubbock, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Paula Lipscomb, Paula Helms and Melody Cruse were bridesmaids. Little Miss Erica Meacham of Memphis, niece of the bride, was the flower girl.

The matron of honor and bridesmaids wore princess-style floor-length dresses designed with square necklines and half-caped gathered sleeves which were worn slightly off the shoulder. The flower girl wore a dress of similar style but it was gathered all around at the bottom and had tiny satin bows at each gather. It was made of pink taffeta. They all carried bouquets of pink tiger lilies with lace backgrounds and ribbons and baby's breath and matching floral wreaths were worn in their hair.

Wilson Barton of Matador served as best man. Gary Simpson and Joe Warren, both of Matador, Tommy Cammack of Austin and James Baxter of Lubbock were groomsmen. Steve Wesley of Tulia, Kyle Hardin and Jim Meador, both of Matador, seated the guests.

Honored grandparents were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Meacham of Midland.

Following the ceremony, a buffet reception was held in the fellowship hall. Miss Sandi Lipscomb registered the guests at a round table covered with a white lace cloth accented with a rice tree.

The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth. The bridal cake centered the table and consisted of three double tier cakes. The center double tier towered thirteen inches atop a flowing fountain decorated with greenery and pink colored water. The two double tier side cakes connected to the main cake with lattice stairways supporting six miniature bridesmaids in pink and six miniature groomsmen in black. Each tier of the cake was a different flavor iced in basic white with scalloped ruffles and piping, enhanced with roses and buds in multiple shades of pink. The cake was topped with a miniature porcelain statue of a bride and groom standing under a white lace umbrella.

The groom's table was covered with a pink net cloth that had been gathered in several places all around. The table was outlined with green garlands and pink satin bows. The cake was German chocolate with chocolate icing. Various shades of pink roses and buds were in a spray atop the cake. The table also was accented with a top hat and cane. In between the bride's and groom's tables was a silver punch fountain, from which flowed a soft pink colored punch. A buffet table held a centerpiece of an arrangement of pink flowers. An assortment of finger sandwiches, sausage balls, cookies and tarts were served with nuts and mints. Julie Dorman of Lockney, DeAnn Craft of Kansas and Jenny Clay served refreshments.

The bride chose a long-sleeved white jumpsuit with a scarf in various shades of pink around her waist for traveling. After a honeymoon trip to Hot Springs, Arkansas, the couple is residing in Lubbock, where the groom is employed at Texas Commerce Bank and is also attending Texas Tech University. The bride is a graduate of Valley High School and attended Texas Tech.

A TASTE OF TEXAS logo and help from an award-winning country music band and a Texas folklorist are being used by the Texas Department of Agriculture to launch its new promotional campaign to identify and boost sales of the state's agricultural products.

"Texas food products are second to none in quality, and we are taking that message directly to consumers," said Susan DeMarco, TDA Assistant Commissioner for Marketing and Agricultural Development at a Capitol news conference. "The goal of the campaign is to encourage

Texas food shoppers to support the state's agriculture community by buying products raised, processed and packed in Texas. "Not only can this promotional program be of real benefit to Texas producers and processors, but the whole state can gain by keeping more of our food dollars in our local economy."

DeMarco announced that members of the Grammy award-winning Gatlin Brothers country music band are the official TASTE OF TEXAS ambassadors. Larry, Rudy and Steve Gatlin, who are recording the series of public service announcements free of charge at various studios around the country, while on their busy concert schedule, were on hand for the news conference. The public service announcements will air on radio stations across Texas and in other parts of the country.

"We did it because we're proud to be from Texas," the Gatlins said. "We did it because we know just how important agriculture is to the entire Texas economy. And we did it because we're proud to be associated with a quality promotional campaign."

Guich Kooek, the actor and Texas folklorist who narrated the video PSA for TASTE OF TEXAS was also on hand at the news conference to help launch the statewide promotional campaign. DeMarco also announced that about 40 Texas food processors have applied to use the new trademark on their labels, in their advertising and on other promotional materials. "Any Texas food company that uses our state's agricultural commodities in the processing of their products may qualify to use the TASTE OF TEXAS logo," DeMarco explained. "TDA will make available point-of-purchase materials to participating companies so they can get maximum market identification with the promotional campaign."

In addition to food manufacturers, TDA has encouraged Texas supermarkets to join the campaign. "We are delighted with the enthusiastic response from retailers and estimate that by June there will be over 1,000 retail food stores in Texas using the logo on shelf talkers, price cards and in newspaper ads," DeMarco said.

But the TASTE OF TEXAS campaign isn't just limited to the Lone Star State, DeMarco added. "On July 25 the TASTE OF TEXAS flag will fly over Faneuil Hall in Boston, and the Gatlin Brothers' public service announcements will air on Boston-area radio stations. Boston Mayor Raymond L. Flynn has proclaimed that entire week 'Texas Week' and July 25 is TASTE OF TEXAS Day in Boston."

Turning Cotton Into Money

By Quinton Perry
 What does it "cost" a farmer to turn his bale of cotton into money? If a farmer sells his crop on contract to a merchant he will normally pay warehouse charges and tax of approximately $3.18 plus the Cotton Research and Promotion fee of $2.30 per bale. This totals $5.48.

If the farmer uses the service of an agent to handle his contract and invoicing of cotton he customarily pays an additional $2.00 per bale. If the cotton is sold through a Cooperative Pooling arrangement the usual handling fee is $2.25 per bale or more. All the above figures are based on the farmer paying only one month warehouse charges.

When a merchant moves that bale into the Carolinas from a Mid South warehouse it costs $30.00 per bale. That 600 plus points. The costs are: warehouse loading charge (in most Mid South warehouses)—$7.50 a bale, just to get them to load the bale onto the truck or car; compression charge—$7.50 to compress bale to universal density; freight—$8.00 a bale. The interest rate of 11 percent (prime) on a 70 cent bale of cotton ($350 bale) for one month is $3.20; commissions for buying/selling, etc.—approximately $1.50 per bale. Also, there will be at least one month additional storage incurred in processing for shipment. Bank exchange—about 75 cents a bale, insurance—15 cents a bale, and hedging cost, 45 cents a bale. These figures do not reflect delays in shipment, delays in payment by the mill, rejections or claims for quality or possible loss in weight.

Suppose the farmer decides to hedge it on The New York Futures Market. In order to do this, he must store the cotton in a warehouse that is licensed to handle and deliver cotton on New York Futures contracts which are located in Galveston, Houston, Memphis, Greenville, South Carolina and New Orleans. It will cost him approximately $30.00 per bale to pay all expenses involved to complete this operation. If he sells his futures at 75 cents for December, he delivers his cotton and gets 75 cents for it, less any discounts for grade or staple. But he is out of pocket $30.00 or six cents per pound; therefore, he is back to 69 cents on a strict low bale of cotton.

Now, what does it cost to land this bale over in the Far East? This is where 80 percent of our export cotton has been going recently. It would cost approximately $60.00 per bale to land this bale out of the Mid South into a Southeast Asian market. It will cost about the same if you're moving into Europe, due to the freight rates and other fixed expenses.

Now, let's look at another cost that's involved in this cotton marketing process. Cotton is produced, harvested, and ginned once a year. In this country we use cotton 12 months out of the year. Somebody has to store and finance or "carry" this bale of cotton an average of six months a year... whether it's the farmer, merchant, or mill. So, what expense will that average bale of cotton incur during the six months? The approximate interest and storage on a bale for six months is $28.20. Selling cost to the farmer originally is $7.50 per bale, the cost of landing it at the mill—about $30.00 per bale. Add these up for a total cost of $65.70 per bale.

To get to market in the Far East with six months' storage cost and interest are:
 Ginning Cost $40.00 (per bale)
 Selling Cost $7.50 (average)
 Carrying Cost $28.2; (for six mo.)
 To land in Far East $60.00
 Total Cost—$135.70 per bale between trailer of seed cotton at gin to actual opening room in the mill.

There a lot of risk in marketing cotton.

So, if the farmer asks you how to sell cotton, tell him to sell to well established, well financed firms that are going to be in business year after year and will

Trouble Comes In Pairs

Seems like when trouble comes, it comes in pairs at the Dudley's.

Virginia Dudley got word Friday night a week ago of Keith Price's accident, resulting in broken bones, cuts and bruises. Then on Tuesday of last week, she got word that her son, Herbert Dudley of Lockney, had suffered a broken kneecap and is in a cast from hip to ankle. She said he would probably be laid up for about seven weeks.

He was watching a baseball game in Lockney when a flying bat hit him on the left knee, breaking the cap. Mrs. Dudley says sometimes it doesn't pay to go outside.

In a lighter vein, Mrs. Dudley had a little great-granddaughter, Amy Valdez, age three, honor their contracts regardless of market conditions at time of delivery. And, he can get paid for his bale when he gins it. That's the main thing because turning cotton into money is what he's growing it for.

staying with her for three weeks. Her brother, Davey Valdez, is playing baseball this season in Lockney and is visiting his grandfather, Herbert Dudley, there.

The children were brought down by their mother, Vickie Valdez, from Odessa.

FOR COOKOUT SUCCESS, START WITH GOOD FIRE

Whether it's beef burgers or beef steak you are cooking on the charcoal grill, a good fire is a key to success. To start the fire, pile briquets in a pyramid and ignite with the aid of an electric starter, liquid starter or kindling. The number of briquets needed will depend on the size of your grill and the amount of food to be cooked.

The fire is ready when the coals are covered with a gray ash and glowing in the center. At this point, spread the coals, in a layer so that they are just touching or up to an inch apart.

It's important when grilling beef to maintain a low to moderate temperature throughout the cooking period. Temperature can be controlled by adjusting the grid, rearranging, adding or removing coals, adjusting dampers or draft doors and using windbreaks.

She is special every day—
If we were handing out roses—
We'd hand her a large bouquet!
Maybe she isn't at all famous,
And she's not First Lady you see
Maybe she isn't important to many—
But she's the dearest on earth to me!

She is the mother of ten children
And has several grand and great ones, too—

We all depend on her so much—
Without her, what would we do!
She is our rock of Gibraltar
She is our strength and our guide
When we are confronted by problems,

In her we can always confide!
She always knows when we're sad,

And things aren't going so smooth—

And when we were growing up,
Our hurts she could always soothe!

And when we grew up—
And were out late at night,
We knew she would be waiting
For us there'd be a light!

And you know rearing ten children

Couldn't have been too great a blast.

But, oh! she did a good job of it,
We have memories that will always last!

And it's so good to go home—
And visit our Mom and Dad—
They make us feel so welcome,
That we've come, they're so glad!

Oh! we all travel home each Christmas,

Around the tree many memories recall—

But the family has grown so much—

We must rent the Community Hall!

We are all always so thankful—
That we can all be once more at home—

It will always be dear to us—
No matter where we might roam!

We want to say "thanks, Mom"—
To us you are the best—

To have had you for our mother—

We feel so very blest!!!
