Aoudad Sheep Population Increasing In Area

The transplanted aoudad sheep population in the Panhandle continues to increase, with an estimated 19 per cent more sheep this year roaming the Palo Duro Canyon and Caprock areas.

This year's helicopter survey, covering four Panhandle counties, was conducted by Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologists. It shows an estimated 1,400 to 1,500 sheep in the total herd. This is an increase of 200-300 from the 1975 census.

Good habitat and the dispersal of sheep over a relatively large area are the two most cited causes for the increase.

"Ever since P&WD began its stocking effort in 1958 we have experienced continued population increases," said Charles Walker, P&WD big game program director.

Aoudad sheep are listed as game animals in eight Panhandle counties. A permit to hunt this mountainous terrain dweller is required. The counties include Armstrong, Briscoe, Donley, Hall, Floyd, Motley, Randall and Swisher. This year's hunting season in these counties runs from November 13-19.

In other Texas counties, aoudads are not considered game animals and may be hunted year-round, with no permit required.

The stocking effort by P&WD began nearly 20 years ago, with the introduction of 44 aoudads secured from New Mexico.

Although the larger aoudad sheep herds are confined to the western area of the state, aoudads are hunted on ranches throughout Texas.

Aoudad sheep hunt permits are issued to landowners by P&WD based on total population figures. With the population increase of 200-300 sheep, P&WD officials said about 300 additional permits would be issued this year.

According to last year's harvest figures, some 246 permits were issued to landowners, which accounted for a total harvest of 100 aoudads.

Aoudad hunting in the Panhandle started in 1963. Every year since then there has been an increase in the overall population as well as in the number of sheep harvested. Hunter interest has increased substantially.

Landowners were to receive their permits for the week-long season during the first part of November.

A survey of landowners, aoudad hunters and deer hunters will be conducted after the deer and aoudad season. The survey is intended to determine landowner and hunter preference regarding season dates and hunter success.

First of Texas' goose seasons opened October 30 east of U. S. Highway 81 and runs through November 12.

Migratory game bird experts at the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department remind waterfowl hunters this early 14-day season is for so-called light geese only, which includes snow, blue and Ross' geese.

Season on all species of geese east of U. S. 81 is November 13-January 23.

P&WD officials say purpose of the longer season on light geese is increased hunter opportunity to harvest the more abundant snow and blue geese.

Season on all geese west of U. S. 81 is November 2-January 23.

October 30 was also opening day on sandhill cranes in Zone A—that portion of Texas including the Trans-Pecos, western portion of Permian Basin and western Panhandle. Zone B sandhill crane hunting does not start until December 4.

Sandhill crane hunters in both zones must obtain a free federal permit from the Parks and Wildlife Department. The permits are part of an effort by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service to learn more about sandhill crane hunters and the number of birds they harvest.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Commissioners reaffirmed their commitment to re-establish the desert bighorn sheep in Texas and return it to the game list.

The commission approved a plan to provide for the acquisition of additional bighorn sheep broodstock through cooperative big game restoration programs with other states and countries.

Shaylyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rick Elmore of Tokio and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Mullin, underwent surgery at Methodist Hospital in Lubbock Tuesday, November 9. It had been discovered that the small child has only one kidney and the tube to the kidney needed surgery to correct a problem. The latest report was that the parents might be able to take their daughter home on Tuesday of this week.

JACK TYLER HOME
Jack Tyler of Plainview, former resident of Quitaque and brother of Mrs. L. V. (Dutch Payne) Thrasher, has been in and out of Central Plains Hospital in Plainview for several weeks. Mrs. Thrasher reported to the Tribune last week that he was permitted to return to his home on Sunday, November 7. His address is Route 3, Plainview, and he would like to receive cards from his friends in Quitaque.

The American Quest

First came the convictions... solid rock-like convictions... about man and his rights... convictions about God and the gifts with which He generously blessed mankind. Then, came a search to implement these convictions; the result was our Declaration of Independence.

American liberty like America itself had its beginning in the quest for spiritual identity. In the wilderness itself the pilgrim fathers searched and labored to build a civilization based on their religious convictions. They probed their minds and hearts and discovered that they shared a common vision of "one nation under God." Again, the Declaration was the inspired result.

If our third century is to be one of "independence," like the two that have preceded it, all of us must continue this quest, and maintain this eternal vigilance of faith and religious commitment.
