Outstanding Christmas Decorations Recognized

The Christmas lighting at homes and businesses was especially pretty in Quitaque this year with more people than ever before joining in to help make the season more festive. "We the Women" has, for the past several years, recognized the outstanding homes and businesses and have added their names to the plaques which hang in the Community Center.

It would be difficult to say that one place was more beautiful than another but the judges determined that among the most attractive and worthy of being recognized was the home of Rusty and Janice Henson, and Rice Dry Goods for the outstanding business. The Henson home was lighted all along the roof line, along the fence around the front of their home and twinkling lights placed in the cedar trees to make a "Fairyland" effect. Rice Dry Goods featured a lighted Christmas tree in its front window, decorated with hand-made ornaments along with snowmen and a rail fence, making a very attractive winter scene.

Another outstanding event during the holiday season was the "Open House" at Heads and Heels. Katy and Mary went all out for this occasion and their

Caution Urged

James Cathey, area Energas manager, stopped by the Valley Tribune Wednesday morning and asked the editor to step out to his pickup to see something. He had a rattlesnake in the pickup that he had killed in his garage.

It is believed that rattlers are blind in the wintertime and they will strike at anything they hear. This is to caution everyone to please be careful.

beauty shop was beautifully decorated with not a sign of "business paraphernalia" in sight. They were gaily dressed in black tuxedos with red cummerbunds and bow ties. The party added a lot of warmth and spirit to Christmas Eve.

The holiday season was made more special for everyone with the beauty and cheer that was shared throughout the community. It's wonderful to see a group of people strive for unity and excellence wherever they are.

The rain has been very good for the wheat, but it has slowed and damaged the cotton that is left in the fields. It was reported to the Valley Tribune that approximately one-half of the cotton crop has been harvested to date.

The rainfall in October was .75, November, 2.05, and December 2.90, with a total of 5.70 inches since the beginning of October.

Recipes Needed For Community Cookbook

30 YEARS AGO

December 23, 1954

The following article came out in the Memphis Democrat week before last: "A new page was written in Hall County history when two women served on a jury for the first time. Mrs. Nadine Baisden and Mrs. Jessie Coker were part of a six person jury hearing a case."

Mrs. Baisden said she recalled the incident very well and said it was a case involving a couple where the woman beat her husband up. It was held in the office of Guy Smith, then Justice of the Peace. She said her late husband, Emmitt, never let her forget that she was on the case there they fined the man $25 for his wife "beating him up." She said he teased her about it many times.

The O. R. Stark family was together for Christmas celebration. Sherry and Rick Braden with their two daughters, Emily and Sarah, arrived on Christmas Eve from Nacogdoches. Randy and Linda, Amy and Amber and Scotty and Donna with Misti, Brandon, Samantha and Micah all came to their parents home for gift opening on Christmas Eve. Mr. and Mrs. Louie Hartgraves of Sweetwater were present.

The Randy Starks hosted a brunch on Christmas Day and the group again gathered for Christmas dinner at the home place.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Liebrum and their children, Amy and Michael from Nacogdoches arrived on Wednesday and the Bradens joined them for a skiing trip to Red River, New Mexico on Friday.

The Tribune received a renewal from Mildred (Foster) Barbian this week. She says she enjoys the "Trivia" questions and answers. She reports they are having good weather in Springdale, Arkansas, and lots of rainfall. She says she didn't get around to sending Christmas greetings and takes this means to wish everyone a Happy and Blessed New Year.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hamner had their Christmas dinner on the Sunday before Christmas with the following helping them enjoy the day: Mr. and Mrs. Robert McElroy and Sherri of Post; Mr. and Mrs. Ricky Ferguson, Kent and Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Hamner, Cassie and Jendy of Memphis.

Reminder: The Sesquicentennial Committee would like to remind those that would like to place recipes in the cookbook to please bring them by City Hall in Turkey. We would like to have a deadline of January 15. We have collected only 28 recipes so far, and desperately need your help in making the cookbook a success.

Mrs. Willis Walker returned Friday from a ten-day visit with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hefner in Denver. Her niece, Mrs. Kenneth Miller of Vega met her plane in Amarillo and brought her to Turkey. Mrs. Miller spent the night with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Meacham, and returned home on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Lane had Christmas dinner with their son, Mr. and Mrs. Birt Lane and family in Plainview.

"The gift God gave the world is sometimes lost amid all the tinsel and jingle. Some of us need the admonition of a little girl, when her parents were setting up a Christmas creche. She said only, 'Make sure Jesus shows.'"

The above was taken from Bro. Frank Roberson's newsletter and the Tribune editor thinks it is well to pass it along.

Mr. and Mrs. Lon McKay had their children on Sunday before Christmas for a dinner. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Corky Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Scotty Davis and Shelbie Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight McKay and Jody, and Mrs. Dwight McKay's son and wife, Bryan and Drenda, all of Amarillo, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Justus, Jeff, Chad and Jake, Mustang, Oklahoma, Mrs. Clyde Dudley, Lisa and Eric, Arlington, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Sperry and Steve, Idalou,

He and Eldon Martin drove back to Mustang and reported the house was badly damaged. The roof was destroyed, some furniture and some clothing. The company for whom he works covered the house to protect it and took the clothing that was smoke damaged to the cleaners.

Melvin and Eldon came back to Quitaque for Christmas Day, and Melvin and family drove to Mustang the next day. Mrs. McKay says they rented a home to move into until theirs can be repaired. It is a brick home or they would have lost everything.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack McFall of Silverton came by Christmas Day and his mother, Mrs. Delila McFall, accompanied them to Bridle Bit to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sid McFall, where they all had Christmas together.

 The 1984 Christmas has and gone, New Year is memory, and Valley School back in full swing. Students have returned with a variety of Christmas gifts. Articles of jewelry are players. All-in-all, every reported that "Christmas very nice."
 The state legislature meeting in its regular beginning about the middle of January but schools are getting firm interpretation rules passed during the session last summer. In the middle of the school year schools are coping with which were scheduled to first of school. It is struggle and often frustration when trying to enforce about which state officials reluctant to help. The but the entanglements of red left school officials, students and parents sufficient answers to questions. As the commissioner of Education commented to a group of teachers, "If you call Austin to get the answer you will call another office of the and perhaps you will be the one you want to hear."
 There has been one development on the state worthy of notice. The Board of Education met on December 8 and gave what was a final decision concerning the beginning date of the student eligibility for extracurricular participation. It was previously reported that a student failing one subject during the third six weeks period would be ineligible to participate in complete fourth six weeks period. On the Valley School calendar, that would have affected student failing during the first six weeks which ended January 10. That has now changed. Now, according to the State Board's interpretation, eligibility question has moved another six weeks toward the end of school means that a student must pass all subjects during the fourth six weeks in order to be eligible to participate in extracurricular activities during the fifth six weeks period.
 This information has been distributed to schools after January 10th the rule would be in effect. Now

The Superintendent's Corner

by Wilburn Leeper

The 1984 Christmas has come and gone, New Year is just a memory, and Valley School is back in full swing. Students of all ages have returned to school with a variety of Christmas alms. The kindergartners have a lot of new Santa gifts which will become interesting show-and-tell activities, a lot of other kids are sporting new and attractive clothing, and there is a scattering of other new things such as articles of jewelry and tape players. All-in-all, everyone has reported that "Christmas was very nice."

The state legislature will be meeting in its regular session beginning about the middle of January but schools are still getting firm interpretations on rules passed during the special session last summer. It is now the middle of the school year and schools are coping with mandates which were scheduled to begin at first of school. It is a real struggle and often frustrating when trying to enforce rules about which state officials are reluctant to help. The bureaucratic entanglements of red tape has left school officials, teachers, students and parents without sufficient answers to relevant questions. As the interim Commissioner of Education recently commented to a group of educators, "If you call Austin and fail to get the answer you want, then call another office of the Agency and perhaps you will hear what you want to hear."

There has been one recent development on the state level worthy of notice. The State Board of Education met December 8 and gave what we hope is a final decision concerning the beginning date of the rule on student eligibility for extracurricular participation. It was previously reported that any student failing one subject during the third six weeks period would be ineligible to participate for the complete fourth six weeks period. On the Valley School calendar, that would have affected any student failing during the current six weeks which ends January 10. That has changed. Now, according to the latest State Board's interpretation, the eligibility question has been moved another six weeks further toward the end of school. That means that a student must have passed all subjects during the fourth six weeks in order to be eligible to participate in extracurricular activities during the fifth six weeks period.

This information has been distributed to schools after most of us had told our students that after January 10th the new rule would be in effect. Now, we are back to the old rule which provides for passing four subjects seven days prior to the contest in order to be eligible. The fourth six weeks ends February 22, right in the middle of the basketball playoffs.

Ruthie Postelle stopped by last week to say hello. Ruthie is an ex-student at Valley and is now enlisted in the Air Force and stationed in San Antonio. Her parents lived in Quitaque and pastored the Assembly of God Church before moving away. It was good to visit with Ruthie.

Loads of Valley ex-students were home for the holidays. Many of them are enrolled in college while others are employed at good jobs. It is always good to see and visit with these who are making Valley School proud. Ours is more and more becoming a proud heritage.

Valley varsity basketball teams are playing in the Canadian Tournament this weekend. Last year we received numerous favorable comments about the conduct of our players from this tournament and expect more this year. Patriots, good luck at Canadian!

Mr. and Mrs. John King were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Hawkins in Turkey on Sunday before Christmas. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. James Hawkins of Mesquite, Mr. and Mrs. Wayford Hawkins of Garland, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Hawkins and family of Turkey.

Texas Ag Leaders Call For Wiser Farm Spending

Agriculture and rural communities cannot stand any further deterioration. Members of the National Farmers Union Executive Committee last week called for wiser farm spending and better management of agricultural programs. Meeting in Denver for a quarterly meeting, they announced the organization will take the lead in building momentum for a 1985 food and farm bill that will serve the nation's entire population, not just family farmers.

Mike Moeller, President of the Texas Farmers Union and Chairman of the NFU Executive Committee, said that the drastic proposed Reagan budget cuts will do serious harm to the social standards of the over two-hundred rural Texas counties, and will also affect the urban areas.

"Agriculture is one of the main industries of Texas and unlike oil and gas we can continue to harvest an abundance of agricultural products in Texas until the end of time; but only if the farmers and ranchers are allowed to make a profit when they come back every year and produce inexpensive food and fiber," says Moeller, himself a farmer in Hays and Guadalupe counties.

"The Reagan cuts, if enacted will drive thousands of farmers and ranchers out of business and affect Texas rural society as never before. The closing and disruption of rural schools, hospitals, and businesses would have a tidal wave effect throughout the Texas economy."

Moeller, of the NFU Executive Committee, spoke in opposition of a reported Reagan Administration plan to slash farm program spending in half by 1988. While the NFU leaders agreed that federal farm spending has been high for the last few years, they said the proposed new cuts would throw out farmers with the bath water.

Instead, Moeller and the governing body of the family farm group call for a responsible management to bring current programs under control and to direct benefits to those that need them worse—middle sized farm operations.

They quoted a figure showing that the Reagan Administration tab for the controversial Payment-in-Kind program was seven times larger than farm spending under any previous administration, Republican or Democrat, because the cost and the commodity does not make up much of the final product cost," they said.

Moeller and his fellow committee members said they aim to form a positive cooperative coalition to insist that agricultural products receive a fair price.

"The key to this coalition building is to work with all interested groups. Many Texas agriculture groups have voiced opposition to the Reagan budget cuts. We invite them to participate in this coalition; their participation may well help preserve rural Texas."

The Texas Farmers Union and the National Farmers Union are general farm organizations representing family farmers and ranchers.

Where the Fish Are

Granddad loves to fish. Secretly, I think he likes to talk about it equally as well. He spends hours with his friends arguing the pros and cons of "angling." The other day I overheard a lengthy controversy about the best place to fish. Granddad ended the whole matter with these words of wit and wisdom, "If you ask me, the best spot to fish is out there where the fish are—so let's get going!"

This special brand of humor greatly appealed to all of his friends and it remained in my mind long after they had left. It seemed to answer those nature lovers who claim that they can worship God out of doors as well as in church. For certainly, the best spot to worship God is where God is.

Worship means not only moments of adoration and praise but also thoughts channeled toward God. The Church has the living presence of the Lord and inspires spiritual thoughts through hymn, prayer and litany.

Yes, the best place to lift up the heart is in the house of God.

Results of Herbicide Weed Control Study Announced

Which herbicides do the best job of controlling weeds in conservation tillage systems in the Southern Great Plains? That was the question Dr. Allen Wiese, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Weed Scientist, answered with research started in 1979. He presented his discoveries at the American Society of Agronomy Meetings in Las Vegas, Nevada. About 4,000 scientists and agribusiness people attended the event. Wiese stated his research showed that Glean, the new herbicide, did an exceptional job of killing weeds and eliminating tillage during fallow periods in any cropping sequence where a wheat crop followed herbicide application. Atrazine did the job when sorghum was the subsequent crop. His research was conducted at the USDA Conservation and Production Research Laboratory at Bushland. The scientist evaluated herbicides for conservation tillage in dryland crops of continuous wheat, wheat followed by sorghum, and sorghum followed by wheat on a clay loam soil.

Applying herbicides to fully tilled wheat in March was the best time to reduce tillage operations between crops of continuous wheat. The most effective herbicides proved to be Glean alone, Glean mixed with Surflan, and a mixture of 2,4-D and Surflan. One year, weeds were controlled all summer eliminating the need for tillage. This was possible because the previous crop of wheat failed and no volunteer emerged. Wiese pointed out that in most cases, Glean or Glean mixtures applied to wheat in March will eliminate two to three tillage operations. Volunteer wheat must be controlled with tillage or sprays with either Roundup, Paraquat, or Gramoxone.

Atrazine at three pounds per acre active ingredient mixed with either 2, 4-D, Paraquat, or Gramoxone were the most effective herbicides to use in a wheat to sorghum cropping sequence. In most cases, the mixtures controlled existing weeds and eliminated growth of volunteer wheat and broadleaf weeds from wheat harvest to sorghum planting 11 months later. Summer annual grass, witchgrass and stinkgrass, sometimes emerged and had to be plowed or controlled with a postemergence spray of contact herbicide. The researcher found that Glean at 0.25 ounces per acre applied to wheat stubble injured sorghum planted 11 months later.

Glean at 0.5 ounce per acre sprayed on sorghum stubble in April controlled volunteer sorghum, pigweed, and other broadleaf weeds that emerge early in the summer. Summer annual grasses that frequently emerged in July and August, following Glean application, were controlled easily with a contact herbicide. The researcher found that Igran, Bladex, Sencor, Lexone, or Atrazine could be used to reduce tillage operations in the fallow between sorghum and wheat.

Another interesting fact came to light during the studies. Wiese found that when soil was not tilled, the number of operations needed to control weeds was markedly reduced. In the three-month fallow between wheat to sorghum or sorghum to wheat, three sprays with contact herbicides controlled weeds and volunteer. This replaced five tillage operations. Wiese speculated that plowing covered weed seed and protected them from the elements. Later, tillage operations move seed to the soil surface where they germinate readily. Plowing also aerates the soil making conditions more favorable for germination.

Wiese summarized his research by stating that Glean and Atrazine are the two herbicides that make conservation tillage possible on dryland in the Southern Great Plains. "The cost of the herbicides will be paid by reduction in tillage operations," Wiese said.

Williams Files Bill To Ease Teacher Paperwork

State Sen. Lindon Williams (D-Houston) has pre-filed two proposed bills in the Texas Legislature to relieve the state's schoolteachers of the burden of increased paperwork and to facilitate the operation of tutorial programs for students.

On November 30, Williams filed the two pieces of proposed legislation to clear up misinterpretation of the education reforms enacted last summer by the state Legislature. The purpose of the bills is to enable schoolteachers and school districts to implement the reforms with greater ease and to achieve the results desired by the reform effort.

The paperwork reduction bill will require the Texas Education Agency to conduct yearly accreditation audits of local districts to ensure that they are implementing the intent of the bill.

The tutorial bill seeks to allow school districts to use volunteers, such as college students or accelerated high school students in tutorial programs, instead of requiring that only certified classroom teachers tutor. If passed by the Legislature, the bill also would entitle classroom teachers to extra pay if they tutor in addition to teaching.

Not requiring classroom teachers to tutor also would reduce paperwork by relieving teachers of the extra work required to formulate tutorial lesson plans in addition to their lesson plans for regular classes.

In seeking to reduce the burden of paperwork, Williams' bill echoes the sentiments of teachers, their representative groups, and Texas Governor Mark White, who earlier this month urged the State Board of Education to examine and alleviate the paperwork burden so that teachers can spend less time filling out forms and more time teaching.

"By filing this bill, we are sending a clear message to educators that the State Senate is serious about allowing teachers time to teach," Williams said.

Just as the state's elected leaders legislated the education reforms, so must they be willing to clarify and fine tune the legislation to make the legislation practical, Williams explained.

"The bureaucracy must take the first step in eliminating duplication of effort, record-keeping and paperwork," the senator added.

Williams already has drawn praise for his efforts from the 40,000-member Association of Texas Professional Educators (ATPE), the state's second-largest teachers' association.

"Senator Williams filed these bills and pledges to work cooperatively with ATPE to improve the working conditions of Texas teachers," said Mike Morrow, ATPE executive director.

Williams represents Senatorial District 6, which includes part of Harris County.

Atoms and Apple Cores

Mark will be fourteen years old this month. He is very thoughtful these days. Many an hour is spent on the back lawn with watercolors and pad, mostly thinking or dreaming.

Boundless curiosity is his, and "why," a certain response to every answer he receives. Besides painting, he likes to hunt, swim, golf, read, and putter in the basement with test tubes. Only recently, girls have been included with rifles and missile shots as a favored topic of conversation.

He talks about God, too. In his pursuit of answers to the universe, he instigates family discussions that range from ethics to eternity, from atoms to apple cores.

It's small wonder that I thank God daily for His Church and its teachings. Its truths help me answer with assurance the questions Mark asks in his search for understanding.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Cigarette Smoking Poses Economic Burden On American Taxpayers

While most Americans know that cigarette smoking causes heart disease, few recognize the tremendous economic cost of this health risk. Nearly one-third of all Americans smoke cigarettes, but all Americans bear the economic burden of smoking, a staggering $51 billion annually.

Most of this cost is shared by medical care for smokers and lost productivity at the worksite. These costs are passed on to all people who pay taxes, carry insurance or purchase consumer goods.

Smokers run a 70 percent higher risk of contracting disease or dying from a serious illness, so they receive a greater share of tax and insurance benefits. When indigent smokers fall victim to smoking-related diseases, taxes pay for programs to support them, including disability benefits. If death occurs, Social Security benefits help support the surviving family.

As a whole, smoking-related disease and death help to raise insurance premiums for everyone. An increasing number of health and life insurance companies now offer reduced rates to non-smokers, realizing that non-smokers are better risks than smokers. Even auto insurance companies are offering these discounts to non-smokers since smokers are shown to have higher accident rates.

Insurance premiums are also pushed upward because cigarettes are the number one cause of fires, resulting in over $300 million in property damage yearly.

Consumer prices fall victim to the economic burden of smoking. Smokers lose 21 percent more days from work and spend 15 percent more days disabled. These costs to businesses are passed on to consumers in the form of higher prices.

But no price can be placed on the number of lives taken by smoking each year. Smoking-related diseases account for nearly 900 deaths each day, and fires from cigarettes cause 2,300 deaths annually.

This drain on our nation's resources is not necessary. According to James M. Atkins, M. D., President of the American Heart Association in Texas, much of this cost to our society is preventable.

"All one must do is quit smoking. Since smoking is the number one cause of heart and lung disease, the benefits of quitting are immeasurable," said Atkins. "Many businesses are beginning to realize the economic benefits when employees quit smoking, and are looking to the American Heart Association for assistance."

Smoking cessation programs are now provided by hundreds of employers. Studies show that the total savings for a smoking employee and employer will exceed $34,000 if that employee quits smoking.

"Although smoking kills over 325,000 people each year, nearly a third of the population continues to smoke," said Atkins. "Maybe if Texans knew just how much smoking costs everyone, they would think twice before lighting up."

For more information about smoking, contact your local American Heart Association office.

Mrs. Gafford Hosts Christmas Party For Nuevo Study Club

Mrs. George Gafford was hostess for a Christmas party for members of Nuevo Study Club in her home Thursday, December 20, at 4:00 in the afternoon. The home was beautifully decorated in the Christmas motif, complete with a tree. Members brought gifts for residents of the various nursing homes in the area where Turkey residents are staying.

During the business session, it was voted to send $25 to Girlstown at Whiteface.

Mrs. Gafford was program leader and gave an interesting program on Christmases at the White House. She said trees are donated by different states and are usually about 70 feet tall. She said Calvin Coolidge began the custom of having a tree in 1924. The New Year's Reception became an annual affair in the early 1900's, but was held very early when John Adams was president. In 1909 Teddy Roosevelt shook hands with 8,513 persons, so the guest list had to be restricted in later years. Most presidents spent Christmas at their homes, but Mrs. Gafford said that Franklin Roosevelt spent 11 out of 12 Christmases in the White House.

The hostess served a delicious refreshment plate to the following: Mmes. Nadine Baisden, Dessie Mae Robertson, Virginia Degan, Faye Armstrong, Kathleen Green, Marcella Patterson, Mayme Adamson, Marjorie Bain and Mayme Blume.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Eudy of DeSota and Angela Eudy of Texas Tech, Lubbock, visited in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Burl Pierce and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Eudy during the Christmas holidays.

The traditional Christmas Eve dinner was held in the home of U. F. and Ann Coker on December

24. This was the twenty-third consecutive year they have hosted this affair.

Those attending were Paul and Jean Padgett, Fort Worth; Keith and Jan Lane and children, Jonda and Jeffrey of Greeley, Colorado; Kay Clay and daughters, Sherry and Tammy of Ringling, Oklahoma; Kim and Lisa Coker of Sugarland; Linda and Mark Hamilton, Lubbock; Brenda Coker of Junction; Tina Clay, Flomot; Frank and Cindy Lane and children, Laurie, Robyn and Michael, Tink and Estelle Lane, all of Turkey, and the host and hostess.

Visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michie Maupin during the holidays were Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Maupin and son of Chicago, Illinois; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Medford, Great Bend, Kansas; Mr. and Mrs. Butch Hughes and Ricky, Flomot; Donna and Milton Mann, Susan and Matthew, Higgins; Jerry and Pat Maupin, Melissa and Amy, Quitaque; Ethel Simmons of Childress; and Fara and Mark Webb and Nathan of Lubbock.

Mrs. Elva Self spent three days before Christmas in Tyler with her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Elwayne Self. She reported that her son was ill but was feeling better. On Christmas Day she visited her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Setliff and daughter, Jo, in Plainview and they spent the night with her on Sunday night, December 30.

Those enjoying Christmas in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Blakney were Mr. and Mrs. Jackie Christian and Paula of Amarillo; Mrs. Eunice Christian, Mr. and Mrs. Glynn Christian, Robert and D'Lynn of Memphis; Mr. and Mrs. Craig Christian and Cameron of Guthrie; Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Christian and Cody of Matador; Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Albus, Charlie Rickman, Larry Christian, Toni Dodson and Carla Christian of Lubbock; Mick Christian of Lockney, and the host and hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Smith of Miami, Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Owens and Mr. and Mrs. Jed Owens, all of Tulia, and Bart Owens of Quitaque, enjoyed a Christmas dinner with Mrs. Solon Owens.

Mr. and Mrs. Millard McNabb of Seminole visited Mrs. Virgie Barrett during the holidays and she accompanied them to Amarillo. Mrs. Barrett visited her other daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Clovis Hill, and Mr. and Mrs. McNabb visited their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moring and son. All the group had Christmas dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Moring.

According to a Boston University scientist, there's mounting evidence that toxic waste dumps cause illness among people living nearby, reports the National Wildlife Federation. Dr. David Ozonoff found an increased incidence of nausea, fatigue, respiratory problems and headaches among residents living near a once highly toxic dump site two years after its chemical wastes had been removed.

Every year from October to January about 3,500 bald eagles cluster on the banks of Alaska's Chilkat River for a salmon feast, says National Wildlife magazine. The eagles fly from as far away as Washington state to join the dinner party that is not held anywhere else in the world.

Opposition Continuing To Nuclear Waste Dump In Texas

The possibility of locating the U. S. high level nuclear waste dump in Deaf Smith County drew quick criticism from the president of the state's largest family farm organization last week.

Mike Moeller, president of the Texas Farmers Union and a farmer in Hays County, says the decision by the Department of Energy, "Flies in the face of reason."

Commenting shortly after the December 19 announcement by the federal agency, Moeller said, "Who would think that anyone would actually consider placing the deadliest material known to mankind under prime Texas farm and ranch land?"

"Deaf Smith County is one of the most productive agricultural areas in Texas and the damage that can be done to the marketing of Deaf Smith and Texas agricultural products nationwide is too awful to think about."

"This is an issue that all Texas farmers and ranchers should get involved with. Each one has something to lose if the Department of Energy located their waste dump in Texas. Most U. S. citizens don't know the difference geographically, between Deaf Smith County and Duvall County and don't care. People just won't want to eat anything produced anywhere near nuclear waste."

Moeller also noted the present effects of the proposed nuclear dump.

"Farmers in close proximity to the proposed site report a probable decline in property value of up to thirty percent and that was before Deaf Smith County was named a finalist and before U. S. Senator-elect Phil Gramm told these farmers near the proposed site not to worry."

Moeller was referring to a campaign promise made by Gramm in which he and Secretary of Energy Donald Hodel claimed that Gramm would be able to keep the dump site out of Texas. The campaign promise drew criticism from several groups who accused Gramm and the Reagan Administration of making unkeepable promises for political gain.

"This further illustrates the lack of understanding the Reagan Administration has of agriculture," says Moeller. "Farming and ranching can't simply relocate anywhere—agriculture needs clean air, clean water, and good land to feed a hungry nation. We certainly don't need the Reagan Administration burying high level nuclear waste under that good land."

If you think you stay cooped up all winter, put yourself in the claws of a pregnant polar bear. In late October or November, after eating heavily to form a solid layer of blubber, an expectant polar bear digs a den in a thick snowbank and crawls in, says International Wildlife magazine. Not until six months later, by early April, will she dig out with her cubs.
