WoodyStock 2002 To Benefit Young Burn Victim

WOODYSTOCK 2002, the fifth annual benefit music and fun event will be held at Lake Mackenzie June 7 and 8. Woody Miller was burned in an industrial accident, and died five months later. Woody's cousin, Todd Holly, organized the first Woodystock Benefit to help woody's family. Now each year a burn victim is chosen to receive the funds raised.

When Jacob Rice was two years old, his mother's ex-boyfriend forced him into scalding water and nearly burned him to death. He suffered second and third degree burns over most of his body. To make matters worse, the boy's mother did not seek medical attention for four days. He has undergone seven surgeries and will need more in the future.

While Jacob was in University Medical Center, a surgical technician, Lori Cantrell was heartbroken to see the boy go through all he had to overcome alone. His mother had given up her parental rights and his father's rights were taken away. The ex-boyfriend was in jail. When Jacob's first spoken word to Lori was "Mom", she decided to begin the adoption process.

Jacob now has a new home and family, including his brother, Stetson, who is also adopted, and his new mom. He also has a new name, Levi, which he chose himself.

WoodyStock 2002 will feature live music from numerous bands, a drum circle all day, fishing contest, a benefit auction of donated merchandise, and games for the kids. There is no admission charge except the $2 gate fee at Lake Mackenzie. Fun for the whole family, so come out and donate to a worthy cause. Camping and RV hookups are available for a small fee, plus motorcycle and ATV riding and a lot of nice people! See you there!

Relay for Life, Helping Our Neighbors In Need

I was diagnosed with breast cancer in July, 1999 after having a biopsy in Amarillo. They did a CAT scan the same day and called me three days later and told me I had three spots on my liver and two on my lungs. I got an appointment at M.D. Anderson in Houston and they did another CAT scan and bone scan. My prayers were answered because the spots were not malignant on my lungs and liver. I had a lumpectomy and 18 lymph nodes removed and again, prayers were answered. It all came back clear. I had six rounds of chemo, one every 21 days.

They have made so much progress in the medications that they give for nausea that I was really only sick one day from the chemotherapy. After finishing the chemo I had seven weeks of radiation.

My grandson was born the sixth week of my radiation. Every time I see him I thank God that He has allowed me to live and be a part of Brayton's life.

Someone asked me once how I got through all of this by myself. I never felt alone once because of how my family and friends were there to help me. God gave me many signs to let me know He was right beside me.

COOK'S CORNER

BY VIRGINIA SAILSBURY

WHEW! What a busy week for the cook! There is lots of stuff going on this time of year, and it all seems to pile up at once. Last week I printed some of the COLD SOUP recipes that Dianne Washington had sent in. Here are a few more of them. They sound good and the HOT weather is coming, so try one.

COLD TOMATO CREAM
2 1/2 cups tomato or V-8 Juice
1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt
1/2 cup sour cream
3 tablespoons chives
Dash Tabasco
Mix all ingredients in blender. Chill and serve.

LEMON SOUP
2 quarts chicken broth
3 celery stalks, chopped
1 carrot, chopped
1 large onion, chopped
Salt and pepper to taste
3 egg yolks
Juice of 1 lemon
Lemon slices

Simmer broth, celery, carrot, and onion for 1 hour. Add salt and pepper to taste. In double boiler top, beat egg yolks and slowly add lemon juice; beat. Strain broth and add to egg mixture while both are still warm, stirring quickly. Serve with a slice of lemon on top. Good both hot or cold. Makes 16 cups.

COLD BEET SOUP
16 oz. canned beets, drained
2 cups tomato or V-8 juice
1/4 cup French dressing with oil and vinegar base OR 1/4 cup Italian dressing
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
4 heaping tablespoons sour cream
1/2 cucumber, thinly sliced
Chives, chopped

Blend all ingredients in blender until beets are minced. Serve with thin slices of cucumber and chopped chives on top.

COLD ASPARAGUS SOUP
14 oz. chicken broth
10 oz. canned asparagus, drained
2 cups sour cream
Dash cayenne pepper
Salt, lemon juice, curry powder to taste
1 cucumber, peeled

Puree all ingredients in blender. Strain to remove stringy parts. Chill and serve.

Thanks for the recipes, Dianne. If YOU have a recipe that YOU would like to share with the readers, please send it in. The following requests are still waiting for YOUR reply:

Mari of Lubbock wants a CHOW-CHOW recipe.
Charlotte of Childress wants a recipe for PICKLED GARLIC like the Peanut Patch used to sell.

JUNE of Richland Hills would love to have SPRY SHORTENING OATMEAL COOKIES from the '50s.
Robert of Tennessee would like HOT, SPICY FRIED CHICKEN Recipes.

Does anyone know how to make a Tunnel of Fudge Cake? It was a Pillsbury Bake-off winner, but the company no longer makes the dry frosting mix used in it.

If you have a question or an answer for Cook's Corner, there are three ways to send it:

Cotton News

From Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

NCC Farm Bill Meetings Well Attended

As expected producers across the High Plains took advantage of the chance to hear about the new Farm Bill and to ask questions about various aspects of the program during a recent round of National Cotton Council sponsored information meetings. The meetings were cosponsored by Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. and the Texas Cotton Ginners' Association. The NCC meetings provided a comprehensive overview of Farm Bill information that has been reported by both the NCC and Plains Cotton Growers over the past few weeks.

It was obvious from the questions asked by producers at each meeting that they have been following the Farm Bill closely and have a good grasp on the programs and what they are designed to do.

Producer questions were mostly about specific components of the Bill, many of which are still unknown and subject to final Farm Service Agency interpretation.

Considerable interest about the Conservation Security Program (CSP) was also evident from producers who quickly recognized that many of the practices they have either been considering for their operation or have already implemented could qualify them for additional payments.

Considered a "working lands" program the CSP is designed to provide growers with incentive payments for implementing and maintaining conservation oriented activities and cropping practices that benefit the environment and wildlife.

Also high on the interest scale were questions about the new Peanut Program and its implementation; questions concerning the mechanics of the Base and Yield Update provisions; and the method and timing of program payments.

Continuous monitoring of the implementation process is underway by PCG staff and the National Cotton Council in order to keep producers up to date as possible. Additional information will be published as it becomes available from USDA.

Farm Bill Resources On The Internet

There are many resources for producers becoming available on the Internet to answer questions about the Farm Bill and how implementation will apply to an individual's operation.

For starters, if you want to study the letter of the law you can find the full Bill text and the narrative Statement of Managers at: <http://agriculture.house.gov/fconfrpt.htm>. This page allows you to download two documents to your computer in Acrobat .PDF file format. These are large files, both being many hundreds of pages long. However, you can search for specific words with the documents on line by using the binocular icon (the "find" feature) within the tool bar of the Acrobat Reader®.

Shorter summaries of the 2002 Farm Bill are also available in .pdf document format at: <http://agriculture.house.gov/fconsum.pdf> for the short six page summary. For the longer seventeen page comprehensive summary the USDA also has a web page on the Farm Bill at: <http://www.usda.gov/farmbill.html>.

National Cotton Council analysts have created an Excel spreadsheet for calculating farm program payments under the various contract acreage and program yield options of the Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002. It is available to NCC members from the web site at: <http://www.cotton.org/membersvc/Calculating-Farm-Program-Payments.cfm>. This area of NCC's web site requires a user ID and password for access.

The Texas Cooperative Extension is gradually building a wealth of information at: <http://agecoext.tamu.edu/>. Click on the link to "2002 Farm Bill Educational Materials" above the map on the Extension web page or go direct to the site through this link: <http://agecoext.tamu.edu/2002fb/>. Base and Yield Update Evaluations Software is scheduled to be available soon.

Louisiana State University has also produced an Excel spreadsheet that analyzes farm base acreage and program yield updates. It can be downloaded from the following link: <http://www.agecon.lsu.edu/FarmManagement.htm>. PCG will provide more information on resources as they become available.

Texas Farm Bureau Calls For Zoning To Regulate Cattle TB

The president of Texas' largest farm organization told members of the Texas Animal Health Commission last Wednesday, that zoning the state for the purpose of regulating cattle tuberculosis is a better approach than regulating the entire state.

Donald Patman, a grain, cotton and cattle producer from Waxahachie, testified before the TAHC last Wednesday. He cited the work of the TB working group, a consortium of producers groups and animal health experts.

"A majority of the TB working group feels that the "zone" approach would be the most viable option because it would concentrate the efforts to control the disease to specific areas," Patman testified. "This could reduce the need for additional funds, personnel and equipment, and it would allow the rest of the state to continue operating without restrictions."

Patman said the Texas Farm Bureau counts about 100,000 cattle producers among its membership. Two outbreaks of bovine tuberculosis in 2001, one in south central Texas and one in southwest Texas, will prompt the federal government to revoke Texas' TB free status. Patman said the zone approach will cause hardship for producers in the affected areas, but those areas can regain their "free" status if no additional infections are reported for two years.

"The Texas Animal Health Commission should complete a feasibility study that would include an economic analysis and development of a plan for a zone approach to deal with tuberculosis in Texas prior to implementing a statewide testing and identification program," Patman said.

Federal regulations mandate a loss of TB free status when a state has two or more infected herds disclosed within a 48 month period. Texas will move from the TB free status it has held since November 2000, to modified accredited advanced status, the second highest rung in an international five tier ranking system for cattle TB eradication.

The loss of free status will immediately impact producers who move or sell breeding cattle out of state. Breeding cattle are exempted from the interstate testing requirement only if they are from a TB accredited free herd, one that is tested for TB yearly and is enrolled in the T AHC's accreditation program. Cattle moving to an approved feedlot or those that are consigned directly to slaughter are exempt from the requirement.

If sellers arrive at the livestock market with untested breeding cattle, the market management will need to designate the untested animals as "Texas Only" cattle, restrict the cattle to slaughter only, or they will have to make arrangements for having the animals tested so they can move interstate," explained Dr. Linda Logan, Texas' state veterinarian and executive director of the Texas Animal Health Commission. "Producers can avoid delays in moving their cattle, if they'll have their accredited veterinarian test animals prior to sale."

A TB skin test takes 72 hours to complete and must be conducted by an accredited veterinarian.

By: Brandon McGinty, CEA-Ag, Briscoe County Spray Weeds With Vinegar?

USDA scientists have the first scientific evidence that vinegar is a potent weedkiller. It is inexpensive and environmentally safe as well. Researchers tested vinegar on major weeds in greenhouse and field studies. They hand sprayed the weeds with various solutions of vinegar, uniformly coating the leaves. The vinegar had an 85 to 100 percent kill rate at all growth stages. Canada thistle, one of the most tenacious weeds in the world, proved the most susceptible. Spot spraying cornfields with 20 percent vinegar killed 80 to 100 percent of weeds without harming the corn. If vinegar were sprayed over an entire field, it would cost $65 per acre. If applied to local weed infestations only, it costs around $20 to $30.

"Texas Cotton Production" Handbook

Anyone seeking current Texas cotton production information can easily find it in a new Texas Cooperative Extension handbook, "Texas Cotton Production - Emphasizing Pest Management."

The 76 page, spiral bound book is the state's first ever compilation of information about all aspects of cotton production in Texas. The book is designed to help Texas producers, consultants and agribusinesses optimize yields and maximize profits. It is offered as an aid to help cotton operations be as profitable and environmentally sound as possible.

The guide follows the entire year's production cycle, from preplant to post harvest and covers soils, weeds, insects, fertilizers, weather, plant diseases and irrigation systems. The book is organized according to the various states of the cotton season. The format gives the reader an overview of all the factors that must be considered in any given period.

It also provides concise, scientifically backed information on variety selection; planting decisions; irrigation systems; replant decisions; disease, insect and seed control; effects of natural enemies in cotton; fertility; harvest aids; timing of harvest; and tillage systems.

The authors of the book are Drs. Chris Sansone, Extension entomologist, San Angelo; Thomas Isakeit, Extension plant pathologist, College Station; Robert Lemon, Extension agronomist, College Station and Bill Warrick, Extension agronomist, San Angelo.

The book was made possible through a grant from the Texas Department of Agriculture's Integrated Pest Management Grant Program. Copies are available at $15 each for orders of fewer than 50 copies. The price drops to $10 each for orders of 50 or more.

For more information, call Dr. Chris Sansone at (915) 653-4576; the book can be obtained through Texas Cooperative Extension, Distribution and Supply, P.O. Box 1209, Bryan, Texas 77806. For credit card orders, you may call toll free (888) 900-2577. Orders should be accompanied by the product identification, which is "B-6116."
