ARB To Hear Taxpayers Protest Starting On July 8

Taxpayers in the Briscoe County Appraisal District will have an opportunity to protest values proposed for their property for local taxes. The district's appraisal review board (ARB) will begin hearing taxpayer protests on July 8th.

After the ARB concludes its hearings and approves final property values, local governments will use these values to assess property taxes to property owners for 1987. The ARB is a group of citizens who live in the appraisal district and are appointed by the district's directors. Their responsibilities are outlined by the Texas Constitution, which requires that property be appraised equally and uniformly and that exemptions and productive valuation are properly granted.

Property owners appear before the ARB and may protest any of these seven specific actions of the appraisal office:

- the appraised or agricultural value of the property;
- the unequal appraisal of the taxpayer's property compared to other property in the district;
- inclusion of the property on the appraisal records;
- denial of a partial exemption, such as a homestead exemption;
- denial of agricultural use, open space or timber productivity exemption;
- identification of the taxing unit or units in which the property is located.

-- determination that the taxpayer is the owner of the property; and

-- any other action of the appraisal office that adversely affects them.

Carlye Fleming, chief appraiser for the district, outlined the steps for a property owner to file a

July 4th Celebration Planned For Turkey

The Turkey Volunteer Fire Dept. will host their Annual Hamburger cookout and fireworks display Sunday night, July 5 at the City Park.

Serving will begin at 7:00 p.m. or following evening church services.

Fire Chief, Lavon Gafford has announced they will once again have live entertainment by "the Sound Drifters" led by Manuel Cruz of Quitaque and as an added bonus the Fire Dept. will be giving away a Quasar 19 in. color t.v. with remote control and other features. Donation for the drawing are $3.00 each or 10 for $25.00.

All proceeds go to the ambulance fund.

protest. First, the property owner must file a written "notice of protest" with the ARB. This must be filed by June 30 or within 30 days after the taxpayer receives a notice of appraised value from the chief appraiser, whichever is later.

However, if the ARB sends a property owner a notice of any other kind or change in the appraisal records, the property owner has only 10 days to file a protest.

Official forms for a notice of protest are available at the appraisal district office. "A letter from the taxpayer is also acceptable," Mrs. Fleming said, "as long as it identifies the property owner and the property which is the subject of the protest and indicates dissatisfaction with some decision or action of the appraisal office."

Each protesting taxpayer may offer evidence or argument either in person or by filing an affidavit with the ARB. Taxpayers should be aware that the ARB has no authority over tax rates or taxing unit spending and will not hear protest of those matters.

The ARB will schedule hearings as property owners file protest and will inform them of the time, date and place of their individual hearings at least 15 days before the schedule appearance date. Mrs. Fleming said that protest hearings will be held for one

Labor Strike in Turkey

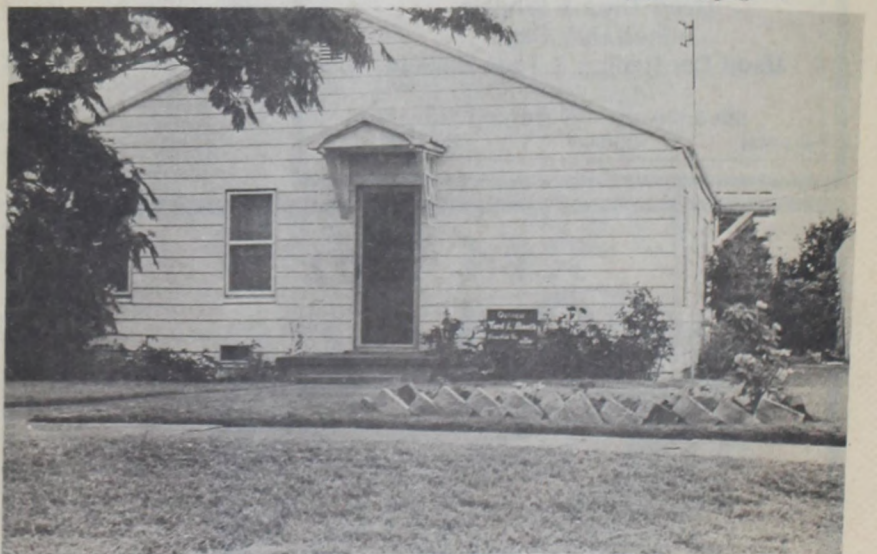

by Curtis Tunnell

As Turkey had a compress and the cotton was pressed to standard size here and then put in train cars and shipped to Galveston where it was pressed again in a high density press. Then put on boats bound for other ports and foreign countries. At this size about four times as many bales could be loaded in any given space, compared to regular gin size bale.

At this time the compress at Turkey was a modern up to date compress and belonged to the same company as the Childress press. Cotton was weighed in and sampled seven days a week during the fall months but only pressed about two days per week. On the pressing days a crew came out of Childress to run the machinery. The Turkey crew would stencil load and double deck cotton in the train car.

Now about the strike that happened at the compress. We had worked hard all day long or at least we thought we had. The two managers came out on the job and told the men they would have to work until 2:00 a.m. and finish up the pressing job then they would take all the hands down to the cafe for a midnight meal. But the word was passed around for all the men to walk off their job at a given time. This we did, so after a few threats by the managers and counter threats by working men. It was decided the company would treat all the hands to a steak supper with all the trimmings then the pressing job would be finished. To my knowledge this was the first time and the only time Turkey had a walk off the job strike. There was no need to strike for higher wages for they paid thirty cents per hour and at the end of a 10 hour day this would give you a big $3.00 for that day.

Later years the building which included a tall 65 foot tower and housed all the machinery including the tall steam press, and the two large boilers, became a roost for hundreds of pigeons. And in the winter time hundreds of starlings moved in and took over. It was a sight to be seen early in the morning when the starlings was leaving out for their feeding grounds. To gain altitude they would circle back over the sheet iron buildings and it would sound like small hail falling on the roof but it was only the starlings spitting out the hackberry seeds they could not digest during the night.

By Nadine Baisden

Independence Day, July 4th, marks the signing of Independence in 1776. I celebrated July 4, 1976 in Houston. I was there visiting with my daughter, Marsene Patterson, awaiting the arrival of my granddaughter, Karen Patterson, who was born July 11, 1976. I remember the Pattersons were having a yard picnic with all their neighbors present. The parents were helping their children shoot their fireworks. The noise got too loud for my ears, so I went into the house to watch TV and all TV channels were celebrating the Bicentennial with fireworks, so inside the house was as noisy as the outside.

Speaking of noise, Turkey really had a quiet time this past weekend. All our TV's were off as the TV tower owners had been promising due to so many failing to pay their dues, therefore, we who had paid by yearly check are in the same boat as those who haven't paid--no TV.

The tower is the least expensive way for Turkey to receive their TV programs. Those satellite systems are too expensive for fixed income people, the cable is twice as expensive as the tower, either of those two systems would not help the farming area people, so come on, local people, let's pay our dues, we need our TV programs back on the air.

When all is said and done, we usually wish we had done more and said less.

A wonderful thing about vacations is that they make you feel good enough to go back to work, and poor enough that you have to.

If you don't think we communicate with our hands, try describing a corkscrew without twirling a finger.

July Clinic Schedule

Immunization clinics offering vaccines that give protection against several childhood diseases are scheduled for July. Protection is against polio, diphtheria, lock jaw (tetanus), whooping cough (pertussis), measles, rubella, and mumps.

The Texas Department of Health is charging money to help with the cost of keeping the clinic open. The amount of money charged will be based on family income and size, and the ability to pay.

After the ARB approves the records, it can hear a protest under only circumstances which affect the owner's tax liability.

Kaylene Green, Criss Morrison Wed In May

Mrs. Michael Kelly McMurtry

The First United Methodist Church in Turkey was the setting Saturday, May 23, 1987, for the marriage of Miss Gracie Kaylene Green and Raymond Criss Morrison. The Rev. Dennis Flaughter officiated the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Green of Turkey. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Murry Wayne Morrison of Lubbock. Grandparents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Green of Turkey, and Mrs. Robert Chambliss of Plains.

The groom's grandparents are Mrs. George Ray Colvin of Turkey and Mr. and Mrs. Murray Morrison of Quitaque.

At the center of the altar decorations was an arched candelabra decorated with greenery, baby's breath, and a large blue and silver bow. Identical candelabras flanked the altar, and baskets of white mums completed the setting.

The unity candle, decorated with silver and blue bows, stood at the side of the altar, to be lighted by the couple at the end of the ceremony.

Pew markers were large silver and blue bows accented with greenery and baby's breath.

Miss Melissa Maupin, pianist, presented a prelude of traditional wedding music, then accompanied Miss Iva June Johnson as she sang "Surround Me With Love," "Doubly Good to you," and "The Wedding Song."

Mrs. Kathy Green of Sam Rayburn, Texas, sister-in-law of the bride, served as matron of honor. Miss Lori Clay of Lubbock served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Robin Myers of Lubbock and Cari Morrison, sister of the groom, also of Lubbock.

Attendants wore identical gowns of ice blue satin with an overlay of silver lace, fashioned with a boat neckline and puffed lace sleeves. The back featured a deep neckline and large ice blue satin bow at the waist. Their skirts, with slightly dropped waists, were tea length. Attendants carried a single longstemmed white rose and pearls.

The bride carried a cascade of white roses, white and blue carnations accented with silver leaves, and blue and silver streamers. For something old and blue, the bride wore her mother's blue garter. She borrowed a diamond pendant necklace from her maid of honor, Lori Clay. Her wedding dress and veil were something new.

She carried a white lace basket filled with blue and silver love knots and wore a wrist corsage of blue and white carnations.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white tissue satin, accented with a sweetheart neckline edged in Venice lace. The princess ballgown bodice with lace medallion and cameo trim featured ballgown sleeves trimmed in wedgewood lace. The full skirt was highlighted with rows of baby ruffles of wedgewood lace, organza flowers and satin ribbon which flowed into a semi-cathedral train. Her fingertip veil of lace-edged illusion was attached to a wreath of white satin, roses and pearls.

For something old and blue, the bride wore her mother's blue garter. She borrowed a diamond pendant necklace from her maid of honor, Lori Clay. Her wedding dress and veil were something new.

Mr. and Mrs. Criss Morrison

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding a violet crepe dress with pleated skirt and lace collar. Mother of the groom wore a blue dress with diadon top and three-quarter length sleeves. Their corsages were blue and white carnations.

Immediately following the wedding, a reception was held in Fellowship Hall of the church. A lace cloth with ice blue underlay covered the bride's table, which was centered with the bridal bouquet. The three-tiered wedding cake was iced in white and accented with silver bows. Punch was served from a silver punch bowl.

Serving at the bride's table were Miss Karen Ramsey of Plainview and Miss Mary Dowd of Amarillo.

The groom's table was covered with a gray cloth, centered with a car decorated with blue and silver ribbon. Coffee was served from a silver service and assorted fingerfood was served from silver platters.

Peery-McMurtry Vows Exchanged In Ceremony

Before several hundred guests, an enchanting candlelit ceremony united Mary Sinia Peery and Michael Kelly McMurtry at First Baptist Church with the Rev. Jerry Miller officiating.

The sanctuary platform was elaborately decorated with double brass archways, fresh white spider mums, white gladiolas, baby's breath, and greenery. Organ music was played by La Rue Garvin as a prelude to the ceremony, and Ty McMurtry, vocalist, sang the selection "To Me" which was chosen by the bride and groom.

Presented and given in marriage by her father, Mary chose a signature gown designed from the Collection of Cora dLeon for Dynasty Bride, Inc. She wore a white sheath portrait gown of white shimmer organza over french satin. Styled with an off the shoulder, sweetheart neckline, the gown featured french pouf sleeves, sparkle organza decorated with alencon lace, and full bloom roses outlined with pearls and sprinkled with jewels.

Ornate sleeves were edged with center-scalloped pearl droplets. Pearled roses and leaf designs encrusted the bodice and cascaded onto the dropped waist. The hipline was graced with tightened pleats of peau de iridescent satin, jeweled and pearled into the fabric. Spraying into a full calypso, the skirt was adorned with jewels and pearls embossed into the fabric, and was edged by a rolled ruffle full of sparkle organza twist of ruffles. A deep V-back plunged to the waist and was enhanced with a dramatic bustle bow in shimmer satin. Her cathedral train was a flounce ruffle gathered into an entire circle, and her signature headpiece was a beaded forehead ornament with jewels and pearls flowing into her hair. It featured a fine spray of bridal illusion netting that was shouldertiplength.

She carried an arm bouquet of six long-stemmed white calla lilies wrapped individually with gold sparkled ribbon.

Matron of honor was Jon Etta Ziegler of Silverton. Bridesmaids were D'Lane Proctor of Turkey, Nadine Cargill of Kress, and Lee Ann Nuckols of Canyon. They wore pink opera-length satin dresses featuring an open sweetheart neckline, puffed sleeves, and V-backs accented with bows. They carried arm bouquets of liliun Journey's End tied with white ribbon. Their headpieces, designed by the bride's sister, featured a pouf of illusion netting with tiny pink roses and strands of pearls flowing into their miniature veils.

Candlelighter was Rhenda Peery of Bowie, niece of the bride. She wore an identical dress with veil as that of the bridesmaids.

Mother of the bride chose a black tea-length crepe evening dress with a pearl and silver sequined ornament on the shoulder, designed by Ursula of Switzerland. She also wore a wrist corsage of white roses.

Mother of the groom wore a cream tea-length evening gown with matching iridescent sequined ornament on each shoulder.

She wore a waist corsage of white roses.

Wayne McMurtry of Houston, father of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Ty McMurtry of Amarillo, Bill Settle of Amarillo, and J. T. Nuckols of Canyon. Pat Peery, sister-in-law of the bride, registered the guests.

After exchanging wedding vows and the lighting of the unity candle, "The Lord's Prayer" was sung to the couple by Ty McMurtry. The song was a final benediction and the wedding party exited to the strains of the wedding march.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the church. Reception assistants were Pat Peery and Lynelle McMurtry. The bride's table featured a white 3-tier wedding cake with white silk gardenias, ballerina freesia, stephanotis, and greenery. The top of the cake was adorned with papier mache bride and groom dolls which were over 50 years old. This cake ornament belonged to Mary's great-grandparents and were used to top their 50th Wedding Anniversary cake. Crystal clear sparkling punch was served along with pink and white mints shaped into roses, doves, and bells.

The groom's table carried a tropical theme with brass appointments. It featured three ice sculptures and fresh whole pineapples decorated with grapes, chunked pineapple, strawberries, and cherries on wooden skewers, and a watermelon cut in the shape of a basket, filled with honeydew, cantaloupe, and watermelon balls.

Trey Zeigler, nephew of the bride and Ryan Nuckols, nephew of the groom, passed out miniature champagne glasses filled with rice. They were covered with pink net and tied with tiny black ribbon around the stem of the glass.

The couple will reside in Amarillo following a wedding trip to Cozumel, Mexico and various other points of interest. The bride is a hairdresser and the groom is self-employed.

It's vacation time! Or are you one who thinks it's easier to stay home than to pack the kids in the car and travel with them while they say, "How much further is it?"

It's true that traveling with children is not the most relaxing undertaking, but it's important to involve them in family vacations. I well remember the vacations I had as a child. They can be fun and educational experiences by keeping in mind the needs of young children.

First of all, involve children in planning for the trip. Have travel brochures sent to them or buy them an inexpensive camera.

Have realistic expectations about children's behavior and what they will get out of a trip. Young children will not enjoy walking through museums or eating in elegant restaurants. They will also get very tired riding, (as will the adults.)

Keep children amused during a long trip. Take along games, paper, books, crayons or small toys and also a few surprises. Organize the toys in containers that will keep them from being all over the car or kicked out the door at every stop. Vary quiet play with songs and games.

Plan vacation activities that both children and parents will enjoy. You may be impressed with the Grand Canyon but children are excited by simple pleasures like hotel elevators. Find parks or playgrounds wherever you visit, and be sure and leave time for physical activity on car trips.

Try to match your travel schedule to a young child's sleeping and eating needs. Allow for naps and early bedtimes as well as familiar food.

Take along "sanity-savers" like snacks, wet washcloths, pillows, and a change of clothes in the car. Since kids are not the best of travelers, you must be extra patient, tolerant, and understanding.

Don't forget, if you have children staying home by themselves at any time this summer, call for the free lesson series, "Responsible Self-Care for School-Age Children." This includes four lessons for parents and four for children. The information concerns preparing your child to be safe when alone, making nutritious snacks, accepting responsibilities and entertaining themselves.

The Dreamland Cemetery meeting was held last Thursday night as scheduled. Another hold-up is in effect about the right of Way on the Farm to Market road at the Cemetery. The highway department hopes to give right of way on each side of the Farm to Market Road to the cemetery, but will have to work this problem out before proceeding in the matter.

During the business meeting a vote was made unanimously for the fence to be built all around the old cemetery and the west, south and east sides of the new cemetery. The north side of the new cemetery will not be fenced, due to new property to be added there later. The fence will be solid concrete blocks 34 inches high on a concrete footing. Local contractor bids will be accepted. Project construction date is scheduled for August 1.

Do You Remember?

Turkey Enterprise
July 3, 1947

Some real estate transfers in Turkey have been made the past few days and we don't mean a sandstorm.

W. L. (Billy) Nall has bought the home place of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Setliff in the south part of town and will move to town when it is convenient for the present tenant to give possession.

Prof. Harris, who was recently elected superintendent of Turkey Schools to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Lee Vardy has bought the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson and will move his family here from Slaton.

Tobe Hill, who has been living in Amarillo, has bought the four room house of Mrs. J. A. Adams across the street from Turkey hotel it was reported, and has moved to Turkey with his family.

Cole Boswell bought the home of Lee Vardy and moved in when the Vardy family moved last week to Slaton.

A large concourse of friends gathered Monday at the home of Jeff Lyles to put his crops in order. Among the crew of workmen, were 27 tractors and 28 hoehands. The tractors had finished plowing the crops by 8:20 a.m. and the men with the hoses completed that job at 10:15 a.m., putting all of his crops in A-1 condition.

Mr. Lyles is in a Childress hospital in very serious condition as the result of a stroke suffered last week.

A reunion of the Case family was enjoyed Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Case at Claude. Relatives from Turkey enjoying the affair were Mrs. Vera Case, Martha and Bob, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Eudy, and son, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tutor and son, and Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Mullin and son.

Workmen are busy tearing out the wooden floor and putting down a concrete floor in the building recently purchased by Cole Boswell from John Sharp. Work on the building started Wednesday.

Doc Conner is hobbling around on crutches as the result of a badly sprained ankle received Monday at the Rorie farm where he was helping with the wheat harvest.

A birthday party was given in the home of Mrs. Joe Hill on June 27th for her daughter, Eloise Ann. Games were enjoyed and ice cream and cake were served to the following: Sue Hedrick, Gail and Randall Bockleman, Jack Bell, Sandra Meacham, Sue and Louis Cargill, Bridget Williams, Linda Kay Houston. All mothers were also present. Ann received many nice gifts. Those who sent gifts but were not present were Anna Jean Blakney and Elgin Conner.

The J. H. Young families all got together Sunday for a reunion at Roaring Springs. They all carried picnic lunches, ate dinner and supper at the picnic grounds and made a full day of it. The whole party went swimming except Mr. and Mrs. Young and Granny McCay, who said they were "too old". They all enjoyed lolling in the shade of the large trees and for their picnic meal, everyone went amply prepared with well filled baskets of food of all kinds and chicken galore.

Enjoying the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Young and Mrs. Young's mother, Granny McCay, Mr. and Mrs. Truman Young of San Antonio, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Fletcher and children of Canadian, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Young and children of Memphis, Mr. and Mrs. David Young and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Young and son, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Eudy and son, all of Turkey, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Roberts and children of Matador and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. McCay of Coleman.
