FFA Encampment Is Opened Here at Noon

The object seen floating through the sky above Cisco yesterday was reported to be one of the stratosphere cosmic ray balloons released at San Antonio in Dr. Robert Millikan's cosmic ray study experiments. A series of ten balloons are being sent into the air during the study. Two had been sent yesterday. The first was sent aloft Sunday morning. It had not been heard from. The second burst at a high altitude.

Equipped with delicate recording instruments the first balloon, unheard from, may have been the object which drifted over Cisco Wednesday, attracting a great deal of attention.

A nephew of Mrs. Charles Brown, Billy Graves Noble of Midland, has been appointed to the art staff of the Jamboree Journal, official publication of the first national scout jamboree to be held at Washington. The following article from the Midland paper gives an account of the appointment:

"Billy Graves Noble, first class Boy Scout of Troop 54, has been appointed to the art staff of the Jamboree Journal, Boy Scout publication of the first national Jamboree at Washington, D. C.

"The Journal is published by boys of the various councils of the whole country, one boy from each council being designated to serve as staff writer or staff artist. Billy will represent the Buffalo Trail council.

"The Journal will start its publication on August 20, and will issue 50,000 copies per day for 12 days. One thousand boy reporters will work daily on this, one of the 150 largest newspapers in the United States.

"This will not be the Midland boy's first adventure into the realms of journalism. During the past school session he wrote and printed serials, selling them to his school mates.

"He will submit samples of his cartoon work before leaving Friday, August 16, for Washington with the Midland group of scouts."

The Garland Nances today were going through the Carlsbad Caverns at Carlsbad, N. M. S. H. Nance, father of Garland, received a wire at noon telling him where his son, his son's wife and their two children could be found.

RESCUE PAIR
Man and Woman Are Rescued From Perilous Mountain Side by Rangers

YOSEMITE, Calif., Aug. 8.—Crawling down the steep side of a granite mountain where a misstep would have meant a 2,000-foot plunge to death, park rangers yesterday rescued Miss Elizabeth Lorimer, 23, of Chicopee, Mass., and her injured companion, Robert Pate, 35, of Inglewood, Calif.

Miss Lorimer appeared little the worse for the ordeal, although she spent the whole night hanging to the rock for her life. She was clad only in a costume of hiking shorts.

Pate, badly injured, had to be lowered to the valley floor on a stretcher with ropes. By mid-afternoon the rescuers had lowered him to a point 500 feet above the valley level, but progress was slow because of his condition.

The girl was on a rock shelf 200 feet below Pate. Their plight was learned about 6 p. m. Tuesday when they managed to light signal fires which were sighted from the valley floor.

Apparently they had a few matches, for brush fires they lighted in the meagre vegetation called attention to their plight last night. But there was not enough wood to keep them warm.

Miss Bert Welty has returned to her home in Granite City, Ill., after a visit with Mrs. A. V. Clark.

3 FATALLY BURNED WHEN CARS COLLIDE

Two Women Killed in Wreck, Third Dies in Hospital

ITALY, Texas, Aug. 8, (AP)—Misses Alma and Lovie Allen, 28 and 25 years of age, of Sherman, were burned to death today when the automobile in which they were riding, caught fire after a collision with a small truck in the highway north of here. Their mother, Mrs. H. L. Allen, 54 years of age, died in a hospital at Waxahachie soon after the accident. H. L. Allen, the father, 56 years old, was critically burned. His condition is reported to be most serious.

The accident occurred when the Allen car attempted to pass others which were stopped at a railroad crossing.

New Members of Rotary Here Talk Of Instruction

A classical talk of instruction to two new Rotary club members by J. B. Cate and an interesting description by E. P. Crawford of experiences on the 3,500-mile trip through 12 states which he and his family recently made, were the principal features of the Cisco Rotary club meeting today noon.

Miss Cathryn Russell, daughter of President O. J. Russell, was club pianist for the day.

The new members to whom Mr. Cate addressed his talk were Lee Heltzel and Frank Langston.

Mr. Crawford described his visit to the New Orleans Rotary club, to the Presbyterian encampment at Montreat, N. C., and to other points of interest and also told of the agricultural conditions, including the enormous rice production they saw.

Visitors for the day were introduced as Bill Howell and Bill Polk of Breckenridge; Jim Horton of Eastland and Donald Traynor of Cisco.

P. R. Warwick was in charge of the program.

The lad was lost while mountain climbing with Robert Henderson Tuesday.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8, (AP)—In the first estimate of this year's cotton crop, the department of agriculture today predicted a production of 11,798,000 bales of 500 pounds each, which is 2,100,000 bales above last year's production.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace simultaneously announced "adequate credit facilities" will be available for the orderly marketing of the crop.

The indicated production included: Louisiana 611,000 and Texas, 3,851,000.

Increased Gas Rates Are Asked In Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Aug. 8, (AP)—The Lone Star Gas company today applied to the city council for permission to increase its domestic rates in Fort Worth an average of 129 per cent.

The application was filed by Roy C. Coffee, general attorney for the company, during a hearing before the council on a proposed ordinance reducing the rates an average of 20 per cent.

The new schedule proposed by the gas company follows: First 200 cubic feet 75 cents per 100 feet.

Next 800 cubic feet 10 cents per 1200 feet, making $2.30 for the first 12,000 feet.

Next 2,000 feet 80 cents per 1,000.

Next 7,000 feet 60 cents per 1,000.

All over 50,000 feet 45 cents per 1,000.

The present rates are $1.25 for the first 1,000 cubic feet, 67 1-2 cents per 1,000 for the next 19,000 feet; 65 cents for the next 10,000, scaling down to 50 cents for the last 50,000 feet. The city is seeking a reduction to 75 cents for the first 3,000 with a commensurate reduction in other steps.

GOLD CLAUSE SUITS BAR BILL PASSED

"Repudiation Bill" Is Charged by Republican Opposition

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 8, (AP)—The administration resolution to close the courts to gold clause suits against the government after six months, was adopted in the senate today. The vote on the resolution was 58 to 24. The measure was attacked by opponents as the "repudiation bill," and cries of repudiation were directed from both sides of the senate chamber. Confident of its passage in the senate democratic spokesmen hardly bothered to reply to the statements that it would endanger the government's credit and cast a shadow over government integrity.

The bill now goes to the house for consideration of the senate amendments. The bill is designed to close the last loophole left by the supreme court's gold clause decision.

Passage Forecast
The passage of the resolution was forecast yesterday when the senate agreed to a limitation of debate. Although Senator Glass, (D-Va.) and others opposing the bill had not spoken, there were no objection raised to the limitation.

A personal clash between Senators Connally (D-Tex.) and Schall (R-Minn) which drew a command from Vice President Garner for the blind Minnesotan to "conduct himself according to the rules" offered the only fireworks of the debate.

Schall interrupted a speech by Connally to observe that government censorship prevented congress from obtaining information from the operations of the treasury's $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund.

"What would the senator do with it, if he got it?" Connally asked.

"I would not present it to the senator from Texas because it would be like putting pearls before swine," Schall replied.

Connally termed this remark a "coarse and brutal insult." He also said that most of Schall's speeches were filled with "slandrous, slimy charges against the president and every responsible official."

Garner's rebuke came when Schall attempted to reply but Connally refused to yield to him any further.

Flood Waters Cause Million Dollar Damage

COSHOCTON, Ohio, Aug. 8, (AP)—Flood waters of the Tuscarawas and Walhonding rivers, which have already caused damage estimated at more than a million dollars, surged together at their confluence here today, and swept southward into the overflowing Muskingum, toward Zanesville, where the crest is expected to be reached at noon.

The high waters of the Ohio has already taken two lives and a third is missing. Zanesville officials have ordered residents in two sections of the city to vacate their homes.

Scores of dead cattle, sheep and pigs littered the streams. Virtually all railroad service throughout the area is halted. Farm crops standing in the fields are destroyed. Shocks of grain and sections of buildings are being swept down the swollen streams.

FUNERAL TODAY

Wife of Eastland Attorney Dies Wednesday; Services at 4 p. m. Today

EASTLAND, Aug. 8.—Mrs. Mattie Bishop Judkins, 58, wife of a well known lawyer of this section, Frank Judkins, died Wednesday at 1:30 a. m., at her residence in Eastland at 910 South Bassett street.

Death was attributed to blood-poisoning from infected teeth.

Funeral services are planned Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the Methodist church in Eastland with Rev. Rosemond Stanford, pastor, officiating. Interment will be held in the Eastland cemetery.

Relative of Sam Houston, figure in Texas history, Mrs. Judkins was born Miss Mattie Patterson in Tennessee on Oct. 9, 1877.

She came to Texas as an infant with her parents, Miss Patterson was reared at Snyder, where she was married to Frank Judkins on Nov. 5, 1906.

She taught school at Snyder, El Paso, Odessa and Eastland, where she and her husband moved in 1919.

A daughter, Miss Mary Pearl Judkins, who is touring in the east was to arrive by plane from Washington, D. C., to attend the funeral services.

Other survivors are her husband, a daughter, Mrs. Max Ready, Eastland; two sisters, one who lives in California, and Mrs. Earnest Wright of El Paso, who will attend the services.

ATTENDANCE WILL EQUAL LAST YEAR'S

Assembly to Be Held at Lake Auditorium This Evening

Registration at the FFA encampment at noon today had reached 300, with the arrivals running somewhat less than indicated by the pre-registration figures yesterday, when registration cards were received for 400 boys and their instructors. The usual attendance runs about 200 above the reservations, Camp Director J. M. Bird said. On the basis of the Wednesday figures it was expected that a new record, exceeding last year's figure of 500, would be set.

Sudden menace of the cotton leaf worm, causing many to stay away to do poisoning work in the fields, was blamed for the slackening in attendance.

However, a number fully as high as last year's is anticipated.

Opens at Noon
The first meal was served today noon, formally opening the encampment. This afternoon preliminaries in various contests, including water sports, baseball and so forth, will be held.

Feature of today's program, however, will be the general meeting in the lake auditorium tonight when Dean Thomas J. Davis of John Tarleton college is scheduled to make the principal address. A. J. Spangler of the same college will preside. It is open to the public.

Friday the major part of the contests will be held. Friday night the boys will attend a show at the Palace theater.

BIBLE THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

Comfort ye, comfort ye my people, saith your God. Speak ye comfortably to Jerusalem, and cry unto her, that her warfare is accomplished, that her iniquity is pardoned: for she hath received of the Lord's hand double for all her sins.—Isaiah 41: 2.

I have not much to give of earthly things— But gratitude is in my heart, and sings, and sings. Help me to give a word to one in need, To smile on one whose smile is fled. Help me to lead One who has strayed, back to the path of Love again; Help me to help another see there is no pain. —MARTHA A. THOMAS.

With emphasis upon higher living, one's thoughts are temporarily withdrawn from one's every day activities, and we think of the things that are eternal. We learn anew that the kingdom of God is within us.—Robert Lewis Weis.

Lobby Probe Good Reading

THE senate's probe of lobbying activities on the utilities bill will serve to stir up a grist of good newspaper reading for a period. So far as producing any tangible results, however, the investigation will end about where it started. Fees drawn by the large law firms, such as the Hurley firm, whose associations with the government in official capacities in times past give them a peculiar advantage over others, are surprising to us folk who are accustomed to think in hundreds rather than thousands or millions. The legal representative whose services before a congressional committee are worth $25,000 or $50,000 is a mighty valuable representative. It is quite easy to understand why a $10,000 or $15,000 federal cabinet or departmental position for a few years term is appealing to such a man. Men like Hurley, Joseph Tumulty and numbers of others who have held high positions in the public limelight retire to reap handsome profits from the knowledge and the intimate contacts and influence they have gained while in official places. There is nothing illegitimate in this, of course, except that it does serve to weaken a respect for the positions held, just as the school teaching profession has been weakened in the public respect in times past because of poor salaries.

THE same condition is increasingly true with respect to state government. The low salaries that are paid public officials do not make the offices themselves attractive. The idea of the governor of the state of Texas drawing a salary of only $4,000 is the height of state parsimony and disrespect for the high office to which it seeks to call its best talent. Moreover, it is the poorest sort of judgment for the reason that it places the office under constant threat of ulterior design.

A Step In Tune

TRANSFER of pupils from outlying school districts into Cisco for high school purposes foreshadows a development in school organization in Texas that is bound to come. The very pressure of circumstances commands obedience to a new era. A community, isolated by road conditions, may be content with or even jealous of its institutions, small as they may be in comparison with the institutions of the city, but once let a paved road pass through that community and its people be given cars and the trend is toward the city. The community, far from being a self-centered and more or less independent economic and social unit, becomes a member of a group united in an area of common interests and sympathies. The family 10 miles away actually become neighbors instead of the people whom to visit once a month or less frequently was an event. An automobile and fast roads have vastly increased the space upon the globe that one human being can occupy, and a man's habits of thought and action, his ideals and his ideology are governed by his associations.

IT is the duty of a community that aspires to something more than mere selfish existence, to serve this trend of the times with all its heart and mind and soul. Unless it does so, it is not itself keeping abreast of the times and is foredoomed to stagnate. More conscientious and virile communities will rise to the need and wear the rewards of success in adequately serving the interests of its area. The same swift roads and swift transportation that are not so much destroying the smaller communities as making the whole land a vastly more satisfactory place in which to live, will govern the results of town reaction to this condition. Between ten and twenty miles there is today but little choice. Tomorrow's automobile may reduce the time for twenty miles to what now would be required to go ten. The important factor in the equation, then, is the community sense of responsibility and its attitude.

A TOWN, claiming a trade territory or the leadership of a section, owes the best service of its institutions to that area. Thus community responsibility is translated in terms of institutional responsibility. Its churches and its schools cannot righteously exist to themselves. The schools of Cisco owe their best educational service to the Cisco trade territory. The program they are now undertaking with reference to the transfer of pupils here for high school purposes is logical and right. It is a step in keeping with the march of conditions.

FFA Promise

HUNDREDS of Future Farmers of America and their teachers will be here until Saturday afternoon in the annual FFA district summer encampment at Lake Cisco. The attendance, from pre-encampment indications, promises to equal or exceed any previous attendance. Established six or seven years ago, the institution has proven immensely popular. Its success became so pronounced at once that scores of similar encampments were held over the state at one time, drawing heavily from the attendance here during one season. But few of the rival camps survived. In most cases facilities for holding them were lacking and facilities are essential. These, at Lake Cisco, are ideal, as the annually increasing interest will testify.

CISCO is happy to welcome the FFA boys and their instructors. The work that is being done through the medium of the Future Farmers of America and vocational agriculture education is a great one, due to exert a tremendous influence upon the future of the farm and ranch.

MORE and more by instilling the inquisitive and competitive instincts into the minds of the men who will manage and operate the agricultural industry of the future, will the efficiency of this industry be heightened. The farmer has been among the last to realize that he is on a competitive basis. His attitude, so far as the conduct and improvement of his business is concerned, has been more or less fatalistic in tone. He felt himself one of many in the same ship, but it did not occur to him that not only was his particular ship in competition with other ships, but that he himself was in constant competition with his neighbors for markets. The realization of this hitherto little appreciated fact will stimulate energies that will benefit the whole field of agricultural enterprise just as its special fields, such as the breeding of fine stock, have been vastly improved by competitive efforts.

BY bringing these young men together, offering them inducements in contests with their fellows, putting their interests and their industry upon a competitive plane, such a program as they represent will serve to stir up enough real ability to guarantee agricultural enterprise of the future the initiative to lift it out of the rut and give it a real objective.

County Court—Cases Filed

Texas Central Oil Co., vs. L. E. Lockhart. Mrs. F. W. Allen vs. R. C. McNabb.

Matters in Probate—Orders

In re guardianship of Sterling Jackson McLellan, minor. Application of Mrs. Hallie McLellan, mother of said minor, to transfer the guardianship from Eastland to Harris county. The court had previously appointed Perry Sayles of Eastland, temporary guardian upon the resignation of a former guardian, and since which time Mrs. Hallie McLellan and her son, the said Sterling Jackson McLellan, have changed their residence to Houston, Harris county. In the application of Mrs. McLellan it is recited that by reason of such removal, it is desired to have the guardianship transferred to Harris county, as the said minor, who is now 17 years of age, makes his home with his mother; that she is looking after him, including the expenditure for his maintenance and support of the $15 per month authorized by the county judge of Eastland county, and that the estate of said ward could be more economically and conveniently administered if the guardianship is transferred to the county in which mother and ward maintain their residence. It appearing to the court that the statements in the application were true, and the temporary guardian, Perry Sayles, cannot remove to Harris county; and it further appearing to the court that letters of guardianship have been issued to Rolland Bradley in a cause now pending in the county court of Harris county, of the estate of said ward, it was ordered that the guardianship be removed from Eastland county to Harris county, Texas; and that said guardianship in Eastland county, in all things be terminated as soon as the requirements of the order become effective; and it was further ordered that the county clerk as soon as all papers required by law shall have been placed of record in Eastland county, make a certified transcript of such papers, orders, bonds, etc., and transmit the same to the county clerk of Harris county.

At the time of this hearing the final report of Perry Sayles, the temporary guardian, was filed, together with a statement of the receipts and disbursements of funds of his ward that have passed through his hands; also a request that he, as temporary guardian, be allowed the sum of $40 in full settlement for his services, compensation and commissions. The final report of the temporary guardian was approved by the court and it appearing that the sum of $40 was a reasonable sum as compensation for such guardianship, the same was allowed, and the temporary guardianship terminated.

Human and Other Nature

By W. F. BRUCE

Franklin D. Roosevelt is getting to be like certain dishes of victuals, spinach or okra or the like, more or less unpalatable but taken for some good and essential food elements known to be in them. The republicans, some of them, just set down their foot that they wouldn't even taste of the stuff, unless they had to get some things they like. Others have eaten rather gingerly at the administration table, accepting these messes somewhat for appearance's sake, while stoutly denying any great relish for them. Still other very loyal supporters of the program have gone in wholeheartedly as if the diet were exactly to their liking. On the whole I believe there are some economic and social ingredients in the administration menu that are good for the healthy growth of the body politic. But I do not like all that is mixed in.

Anti-administration tendencies in recent elections are good signs if they mean a check on extreme political dictation and industrial regimentation; or a rejection of certain "brain-trust" theories about overproduction that have led to deliberate destruction of goods while some are suffering for those very things and that have led to an unbalanced price condition; or if they mean a rebuke to the policy that has placed revenue and license above human welfare and has encouraged and thrown open to the public all the temptation and moral looseness that goes with the traffic in intoxicants. But if it is a revision to old wornout business methods that mass wealth and impoverish the people, that make one man's success proportional to another's failure, then the signs are bad.

Martin Parmer, Who Died at Age of 94, One of Oldest to Live in County

One of the oldest citizens who ever lived in the Cisco country was the late Martin Van Buren Parmer.

At his death in July, 1932, he was the oldest native Texan, having been born in Shelby county, May 21, 1838, and was 94 years and two months old at the time of his death.

Mr. Parmer celebrated his 91st birthday in 1929, at which time there were present four of his children and 34 grandchildren, besides the great grandchildren. His living children, at that time and in attendance on this celebration, were Mrs. Myrtle Agnew, wife of Neil Agnew, Mrs. W. J. Tickner, W. L. (Bill) Parmer and Martin Van Buren Parmer, Jr.

Mr. Parmer came to the Cisco country in March, 1879, and lived here continuously until his death in 1932.

The story of his life, in which he depicts many incidents of interest, not only in Eastland county, but other sections further east, when practically all of Texas west of Dallas, was the frontier, is taken from a story published many years ago. At the time of the celebration of his 91st birthday the writer published an account of this event in a local paper.

His Autobiography

Following is the life story of Mr. Parmer, in which he recounted how the people lived, and the vicissitudes they experienced. It will be found interesting to us moderns, surrounded as we are by practically all of the conveniences of the time:

"I was born in Shelby county, Texas, May 21, 1838. This country was very thinly settled at this date. People had to farm for a living, there being very little live stock in the country. All settlers lived in log houses covered with three or four foot boards. We had no nails but used rib poles, laid the boards on them and then laid weight poles on the boards. The chimneys were put up of sticks and clay. Farm implements consisted of a bull tongue plow, a two wing shovel and a hoe, all made at the blacksmith shop. We broke the land with those plows, then laid it off, dropped the corn and covered it with the hoe. In those days corn, sweet potatoes, pumpkins and peas were the main crops. Money was very scarce and not much needed, as we lived on what we raised, and as for our clothing, we planted one or two acres of cotton, the family picked the seed out with their fingers and the women carded, spun and wove it into cloth. We tanned our own leather, made our own shoes and hats. Our work stock consisted of oxen, and a horse in harness was scarcely ever seen in those days. We broke our land and cultivated our crops with oxen. We were a free people, had a free country, free grass, free timber. This is not so today. My father would work all day and near night would shoulder his old flint lock rifle and go out in the woods and kill his meats as we needed it. Deer was plentiful then. This is just a little sketch of the way people lived in Shelby county in those days.

"In 1844-45 father collected a few cattle and pulled out for the wild, wild west. We landed in Navarro county and stopped where Corsicana now stands. There were three families of us in that part of the country at that time. There were mustang ponies, a few buffalo and game of all kinds including lobo wolves in abundance. At times the wolves would kill cattle. I have seen fifteen to twenty in a bunch.

"From Navarro county we went to Johnson county and settled near where Grandview now stands. There was only about five families there. From there we moved where Jack county now is, the county not having been surveyed out then. Three families of us settled on Keechi creek, ten miles south of where Jacksboro now stands. This country was full of game of all kinds, turkey, antelope, bear, buffalo and lots of Indians. They did not do much stealing and killing until 1857. The first killing done by the Indians in Jack county was that of the Cameron and Mason families in 1858 in Lost Valley. The next was two families on the west fork of the Trinity river, four miles north of Jacksboro, and happened in 1860.

"In 1861 I was married in Jacksboro to Mary Jane Backus. A little later on I was mustered into the Confederate service. We elected our own officers and I was chosen lieutenant and put at the head of the scouting party. We had a little fight with the Indians and killed one. I took his bow and quiver off him. I found a white man's scalp tied to his quiver. This was three miles from our ranch on Keechi. As we went back to the

A motor accident on a mountain road near Madrid, Spain, cost the life of Prince Alexis Mdivani, above, divorced husband of Barbara Hutton and Louise Van Alen, American heiresses. ranch we met some men following the trail of the Indians. They told us that the Indians had killed William Youngblood and scalped him. I told them I had the scalp and gave it to them. They carried it back and put it on him before they buried the body. They killed killed neighbors of our all around neighbors of ours all around us.

"At this time meat was no object but bread was. We had to go one hundred miles to mill. On account of the Indians stealing them we had to buy horses from one to three times each year. We got tired of this and in 1867 gathered together a herd of eight hundred cattle and started to market. I took my family to Navarro county to stay until I came back. We went north, thinking we would find a better market. We drove about six hundred miles without seeing a road, no settlement and no person except at Fort Arbuckle and only a few soldiers there. The first settlement we struck was Abilene, Kansas, and only a depot, one store and one saloon was there. It took six months to make the trip.

"I never took my family back to the ranch until 1869. We

IF YOU LIVED 100 MILLION YEARS AGO!

You'd find that Nature had already been at work for millions of years—mellowing the crude oils which today are refined into Sinclair Motor Oils. Generally speaking the oldest crudes make the toughest and most lasting lubricants.

Sinclair Opaline and Sinclair Pennsylvania each give lubricating films capable of withstanding pressure of more than 3 tons per square inch. And you will find that Sinclair Motor Oils do not evaporate and distill out in the heat of fast driving.

Levinsky Easy Victim of "Brown Bomber's" Dynamite

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
COMISKEY PARK, Chicago, Aug. 8.—King Levinsky last night went the way of all flesh that has contacted the lethal blows of Joe Louis, Detroit's sensational brown bomber.

After two minutes and 21 seconds of fighting, Levinsky, battered to the floor three times, squatted on the ropes of the ring and pleaded for mercy. Chicago's glorified ex-fish peddler, hopelessly beaten in those exciting two minutes, sat on the bottom rope of the ring in a neutral corner, and appealed to Norman McGarrity to stop the battle.

"Don't let him hit me again. I am through," Levinsky pleaded through chalk-like lips.

Louis, fighting savagely from the start, stood immobile in midring, waiting for Levinsky to get up as he gazed into the far recesses of Comiskey park, home of the White Sox, that held 40,000 bewildered spectators.

Referee McGarrity took the beaten Levinsky by the arm and helped him to his corner and into the arms of his stunned handlers.

Belonged to Past

Thus the battle, scheduled to go ten rounds, ended.

From the start it was obvious that Levinsky, who had fought them all, belonged to the past. In those dramatic few minutes, Levinsky landed only one solid punch, a long right hander behind Louis, ear.

Louis' first half dozen punches landed on the half-frightened Levinsky's head and knocked him on his haunches. He regained his feet at the count of two, only to be knocked to the canvas again for the count of five. Another barrage of vicious punches dropped him for the third time for another count of five.

In desperation Levinsky attempted to escape, but Louis knocked him sagging into the ropes. As Levinsky began to sag, Louis ripped two cruel left hooks to the body. By this time Levinsky was backed into the corner and he calmly dropped his weary 197-pound frame to the bottom rope and sat there. Then he began mumbling his plea for mercy to the referee, the first plea he ever made to any man.

Technical Knockout

Louis' victory will go into the record books as a technical knockout. In stopping the Chicago wallop in two minutes and 21 seconds, Louis accomplished a quicker victory than Max Baer, who knocked the Kingfish unconscious in two minutes and 53 seconds of the second round of their battle in the Chicago stadium last December.

The sudden ending stunned the great crowd. The spectators could hardly believe that Levinsky, who had unflinchingly waded into Tommy Loughran, Mickey Walker, Primo Carnera, Jack Sharkey, Max Baer three times, even the Manassa Mauler himself, Jack Dempsey, without fear, could fall such an easy victim to the dynamite from Detroit.

Levinsky presented a pathetic sight as he squatted down on the ropes. The screaming spectators had been on their feet since he was knocked down the first time, waiting for what would happen next. When Levinsky was led to his corner, a great groan swept the crowd, then cheers broke out for the 21-year-old negro who in 24 professional fights in twelve months had chalked up 20 spectacular knockouts. Levinsky was his twentieth victim.

The poker faced Louis, standing in midring while his beaten foe was being led to his corner, accepted the cheers of the crowd with no emotion. He stood there, his face expressionless while Referee McGarrity raised his right arm. Then he shuffled off to his corner to receive the grins and handshakes of his handlers. There wasn't a drop of perspiration on Louis' brow. He appeared as if he had just had a massage and hair cut.

Levinsky, still dazed when he reached his dressing room, grunted: "It was an accident, that might happen to anybody." Whatever he meant drew no further explanation. His handlers only shook their heads.

The farmers of Kimberly starved while their children played with diamonds. But what a difference it made after it was advertised.

Every successful business man is a constant advertiser—that's why he is successful.

thought the Indian troubles were over and we returned. I employed hands to gather some cattle to take to Shreveport. We got them gathered and was going to start with them on Monday. On Sunday I went to a neighbor's house and returned. I had not been back more than ten minutes when wife stepped out on the porch. She said: "Yonder is somebody driving horses." I went to the door and saw that it was Indians. They had the house surrounded. I secured my two seven shot rifles and commenced firing on them, but they succeeded in getting away with all our horses. If I had been a few minutes longer in returning they would have murdered my family. I secured a yoke of oxen, hitched them to the wagon, put my family in it and left there. I never took them back there to live.

"Wife and I went through all the Indian troubles together. She had many narrow escapes as well as myself, but we lived through it all and are still living. She has been a faithful companion. I have followed the Indians as long as eleven days without a bite to eat except what wild game we could kill on the trail, and this roasted on the camp fire without salt or anything else. While on these trips I have been caught in snow storms. Then we would kill buffalo and make tents of the hides, flooring them with the same material. We enjoyed it all, as we were accustomed to this kind of life. I have been in many fights with the Indians, and this is only a light sketch of frontier life in those days. What I have here stated is part of my own experience, none of it second hand.

"We left Jack county in 1869 and stayed away until 1879 and then sold out there and moved west. We located in Eastland county in March, 1879. This country was very thinly settled at that time. I settled four miles west of Cisco where I now live. Our nearest railroad was Firt Worth. I stretched my tent where I now live, cut logs and built a house, covered the ground for a floor. As the summer came on the water gave out and we had to carry it one mile in buckets for house use. We drove our stock four to five miles to water. To avoid inconvenience we moved to Post Oak creek, near Deep creek, and stayed there until it rained. I brought a nice bunch of cattle to this country with me. I had a good rifle and knew how to use it. We never suffered for meat, milk and butter. The country was full of game. For a time I had to go one hundred and twenty miles for bread, but had done this before coming here. There were no wire fences here then, as everything was in the open and free, and I did not think that I needed any land as I had free access to it all anyway, but I took up 160 acres of school land. I put in a farm, which seemed useless in this dry country, but after the first year I made enough for bread. This was the main item, though I had to take my wheat sixty miles to have it ground into flour. My crop was principally wheat. A good many people came to this country at this time and took up land but the drouths and crop failures caused them to leave and give up their homes. They would come to me and ask if I was going to stay, and I told them that I came to stay."

EASTLAND, Aug. 8.—C. T. Lucas, service station operator, was a new city commissioner for Eastland Wednesday.

He was elected, sworn in Tuesday night.

Lucas won the commissionership over Donald Kinnaird, former mayor, in Tuesday's election to fill the vacancy created by resignation of O. F. Harvey, June 5. Lucas polled 372 votes to Kinnaird's 162.

The victor was sworn in as a new member Tuesday night at 9:05 p. m., at a meeting attended by Commissioners C. W. Hoffmann, T. M. Johnson and H. O. Satterwhite. Commissioner Ben Pryor was absent.

The vote was under total for the April 2 election when approximately 700 ballots were cast.

"The vote has given me a greater understanding of my obligation towards Eastland and my duties," Mr. Lucas stated.

"I intend to be guided by a spirit of what is best for all during my tenure as city commissioner."

"Co-operation, suggestion and ideas extended to a city commissioner which make for the best interests of all are earnestly solicited," Mr. Lucas stated.

Amendments in Simple Language

Editor's Note: The Citizen-Free Press presents below summaries of the proposed amendments to the constitution of the State of Texas to be voted in August 24. The amendments, numbered this year for the first time, will be discussed in order. The briefs were written in the department of state, which like the Citizen-Free Press, in publishing them, has no desire to be placed in the position of endorsing any, but is actuated solely by a desire to acquaint the public with the contents of each.

The Texas constitution at the present time provides that the state is without authority to furnish free text books to other than public schools. Proposed amendment number seven on the ballot for the August 24th election would permit the state to supply free textbooks to all schools, private and parochial. Such textbooks, it is presumed, to be the same as used in the public schools.

Advocates of this amendment state that this would entail no additional expense because the state now purchases more books than are necessary. However, this point is merely one of the claims made and has not been substantiated by the secretary of state. Advocates point out that they pay taxes to support public schools but that if they choose to send their children to private or parochial schools the least the state can do is to supply the textbooks free.

Probably the most important and less publicized provision of this amendment is the fact that it proposes to rewrite Section 5 of Article seven of the constitution so

Youthful Figure of Otto Casts Shadow Over Europe

Pretender to Austrian Throne Trained Since Childhood for Royal Duties

By KARL AEURLICH
International Illustrated News Writer
BRUSSELS, Belgium—What can Europe expect of young Archduke Otto, exiled pretender to the Austrian throne, if the Hapsburg dynasty is restored?

Some answer to that important question can be gained from a review of the training and background of the 22-year-old archduke. His chances of winning back the former power and glory of his ancient line has brightened considerably in recent months with the growing royalist sentiment in Austria. It is to Empress Zita, his mother and companion in exile, that Otto owes everything.

The widow of the deposed late emperor, Karl IV, has conspired ceaselessly to place her son on the throne.

It is at Steenkerckelle, not far from Brussels, that Otto and his mother, the former Bourbon princess, and her seven other children, have lived in exile for the past 10 years. When they were forced to leave Austria, they lived for a time in Spain.

Otto, Solitary Youth
Otto's daily life, education and training have been carefully planned for the day when he might assume the Austrian throne. He has a doctor's degree in political science from the famous University of Louvain and has been schooled in history and economics.

By nature the young archduke is a reserved, quiet and rather austere youth. His restricted life and rather cold demeanor have made him a somewhat solitary person, lacking any intimate friend or associate except his mother.

Members of the royal household describe Otto as an industrious student, inclined to plumpness, tall, good-looking, melancholy-eyed, talented, possessed of a retentive rather than an original mind, and serious.

Exiles Lead "Simple Life"
Probably the most outstanding educational accomplishment is his mastery of languages. The young prince speaks French, German, Spanish, Italian, Hungarian and English.

One of his German instructors at the university taught him something of military theory, but he has learned his facts without the experience of actual military maneuvers.

The pretender to the throne, his mother and her seven other children all live a comparatively simple life. Their income is modest for their station (some say approximately $40,000 a year) and the royal family cannot afford to hold lavish court ceremonies.

But now, more than ever before since the fateful day 17 years ago when the Socialists gave the royal family the alternative of forever renouncing their claims, or leaving the country for a lifetime exile, the star of the Hapsburgs promises to shine with its former splendor.

as to permit the appointment of school funds on some other basis than scholastic population. For many years there has been considerable agitation in certain quarters to abolish the "school census" or scholastic population system of apportioning school funds and substitute in lieu thereof of the "average attendance" basis or some other basis. The legislature would determine just how this was to be done, if this Amendment is adopted.

If adopted this proposed Amendment Number Seven would mean, in effect: (1) that the state would furnish free textbooks to pupils in all the schools of Texas; and (2) that a new basis for apportioning school funds other than the scholastic census basis, could be set up.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

By JULIAN CAPERS, JR.

AUSTIN.—A lurid and amazing story of violence and trickery utilized by hot oil operators to outwit and evade the efforts of the Texas railroad commission to curb the flow of illegally produced oil in East Texas was revealed here this week. The occasion was the transfer of the hearing of the house oil investigation committee, headed by Rep. Augustin Celaya, Brownsville, to Austin. The $1000 investigation of the billion-dollar oil industry gathered leads in East Texas, then brought them here where Rail Commissioner Chairman Ernest O. Thompson and Commissioner C. V. Terrell testified for four days.

The story of the fight of the "G" men to curb and destroy the midwest gangs of criminals is no more interesting that the detailed chronicle of the efforts of the rail commission's agents to halt the illegal operations of a group of about 100 oil and refinery operators who have persistently defied the law in East Texas. Thompson told in detail how the hot oil operators had utilized every known trick, and invented some new ones. Shrewd lawyers, fattening from the tremendous profits of "hot" oil, have aided and abetted the criminal operators at every stage. He told how some of a group of 25 refinery operators had evaded injunctions by transferring their property overnight to new owners, every time the courts would enjoin one set of operators; how, when that set was plugged, they armed themselves, and openly defied the rail commission agents, refusing them entrance to their refineries, and instructing their employes to refuse to give their names, when evidence of violation of injunction orders was sought.

"We solved that by posting our men around the refineries, where they peeped through windows, and obtained descriptions of the men who were working in defiance of the court's orders; then we swore out John Doe warrants, accompanied the sheriff to the scene, and pointed out the violators," Thompson said.

When legal trickery failed, some operators resorted to the practice of posting an automobile loaded with armed thugs in front of and behind each truck leaving the refinery dock with illegal oil. When rail commission agents tried to stop these trucks to arrest the drivers, these thugs blocked their cars off the highways, threatened the agents with guns, and rushed the trucks through. Thompson appealed to the state adjutant general, and rangers rushed to East Texas soon stopped that.

"Railroad commission agents are not employed by law to carry firearms," Thompson pointed out. Thompson's testimony showed that with additional funds granted at the last session of the legislature, the commission has been able to expand the force, hire experts for various technical duties, and has reduced the flow of hot oil to about 7000 barrels daily. Operation of refineries running exclusively on hot oil has been completely halted by co-operation of the rail commission and the attorney general, he said. Illustrating the methods resorted to by the hot oil operators, Rep. Sidney Latham, of the committee, exhibited a copy of a telegram which he said was sent to the Kilgore office of the commission.

grant a tender to 132,000 barrels instructing the man in charge of oil for one concern. It was signed by the names of Thompson and Smith.

"The signatures are forgeries," said Thompson. "We never order tenders approved, except on explicit court orders. That's what we have a tender board for, and we've never yet overruled the tender board." Latham said that a tender for the oil was granted by the Kilgore office on the strength of the faked telegram.

Latham declared the committee found evidence of an inadequate system of bookkeeping and record-keeping in the Kilgore office. Thompson agreed with him that it should be strengthened, and stated that the commission had hired expert accountants to revamp the system, as soon as the legislature made available funds for this work.

"We have done the best we could under great difficulties," Thompson said. "At times, we have had only 40 employes in East Texas, to watch the operation of 18,000 oil wells and 84 refineries."

Rep. Latham began a line of questioning with reference to the commission's personnel in East Texas, pointed out that the records showed some of the employes had formerly been farmers, one an undertaker, another a dancing teacher. His questioning apparently was intended to infer criticism of the commission, but he quickly dropped this line of questioning, when Thompson said:

"Most of these are jobs paying around $112 a month. The duties are to watch highways for trucks, and to guard refineries to see how much they are producing. Honesty and common sense are the chief qualifications, more important than technical training or experience in the oil business. Perhaps the former undertaker would be useful in locating 'dead' wells."

Thompson offered to discharge all the employes mentioned by Latham, if the committee desired, but Latham quickly dodged any such responsibility.

"We don't want to get anybody's job," said the Longview legislator. Thompson had previously mentioned that members of the legislature wrote many letters of recommendation to the commissioners for applicants for jobs with the commission.

GOLD CLAUSE SUITS BAR BILL PASSED

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 8. (AP).—The administration resolution to close the courts to gold clause suits against the government after six months, was adopted in the senate today. The vote on the resolution was 58 to 24. The measure was attacked by opponents as the "repudiation bill," and cries of repudiation were directed from both sides of the senate chamber. Confident of its passage in the senate democratic spokesmen hardly bothered to reply to the statements that it would endanger the government's credit and cast a shadow over government integrity.

The bill now goes to the house for consideration of the senate amendments. The bill is designed to close the last loophole left by the supreme court's gold clause decision.

Passage Forecast

The passage of the resolution was forecast yesterday when the senate agreed to a limitation of debate. Although Senator Glass, (D.-Va.) and others opposing the bill had not spoken, there were no objection raised to the limitation.

A personal clash between Senators Connally (D.-Tex.) and Schall (R.-Minn) which drew a command from Vice President Garner for the blind Minnesotan to "conduct himself according to the rules" offered the only fireworks of the debate.

Interrupted

Schall interrupted a speech by Connally to observe that government censorship prevented congress from obtaining information from the operations of the treasury's $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund.

"What would the senator do with it, if he got it?" Connally asked.

"I would not present it to the senator from Texas because it would be like putting pearls before swine," Schall replied. Connally termed this remark a "coarse and brutal insult." He also said that most of Schall's speeches were filled with "slenderous, slimy charges against the president and every responsible official."

Garner's rebuke came when Schall attempted to reply but Connally refused to yield to him any further.

Senate Group Ends Hearings on Tax Measure

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8, (AP).—After listening to the final blasts from organized business against the tax bill passed by the house at President Roosevelt's request, the senate finance committee today ended public hearings on the measure.

Chairman Harrison has called an executive session for Friday to consider revisions. He said he hoped that the bill would be ready for the consideration of the senate early next week.

Ellsworth C. Alford, who spoke for the United States chamber of commerce, said excess profit levies are "inequitable and uncertain." F. R. Gamble, of New York, executive secretary of the American Association of Advertising Agencies, urged exemptions of personal service corporations.

Increased Gas Rates Are Asked In Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Aug. 8, (AP).—The Lone Star Gas company today applied to the city council for permission to increase its domestic rates in Fort Worth an average of 129 per cent.

The application was filed by Roy C. Coffee, general attorney for the company, during a hearing before the council on a proposed ordinance reducing the rates an average of 20 per cent.

The new schedule proposed by the gas company follows: First 200 cubic feet 75 cents per 100 feet.

Next 800 cubic feet 10 cents per 1200 feet, making $2.30 for the first 12,000 feet.

Next 2,000 feet 80 cents per 1,000. Next 7,000 feet 60 cents per 1,000. Next 40,000 feet 50 cents per 1,000. All over 50,000 feet 45 cents per 1,000.

The present rates are $1.25 for the first 1,000 cubic feet, 67 1-2 cents per 1,000 for the next 19,000 feet; 65 cents for the next 10,000, scaling down to 50 cents for the last 50,000 feet. The city is seeking a reduction to 75 cents for the first 1,000 with a commensurate reduction in other steps.

Coffee said the company has never earned a fair return on its investment under the present rates and declared there was no justification for a reduction in rates at the present. He cites devaluation of the dollar, increased tax costs, increased regulatory expenses imposed by the preparation of reports and audits for regulatory bodies, increased material costs, labor costs and cost of supplies, etc.

Flood Waters Cause Million Dollar Damage

COSHOCTON, Ohio, Aug. 8, (AP).—Flood waters of the Tuscarawas and Wahoning rivers, which have already caused damage estimated at more than a million dollars, surged together at their confluence here today, and swept southward into the overflowing Muskingum, toward Zanesville, where the crest is expected to be reached at noon. The high waters of the Ohio has already taken two lives and a third is missing. Zanesville officials have ordered residents in two sections of the city to vacate their homes.

Scores of dead cattle, sheep and pigs littered the streams. Virtually all railroad service throughout the area is halted. Farm crops standing in the fields are destroyed. Shocks of grain and sections of buildings are being swept down the swollen streams.

EASTLAND, Aug. 8. — Mrs. Mattie Bishop Judkins, 58, wife of a well known lawyer of this section, Frank Judkins, died Wednesday at 1:30 a. m., at her residence in Eastland at 910 South Bassett street.

RESCUE PAIR

Man and Woman Are Rescued From Perilous Mountain Side by Rangers

YOSEMITE, Calif., Aug. 8.—Crawling down the steep side of a granite mountain where a misstep would have meant a 2,000-foot plunge to death, park rangers yesterday rescued Miss Elizabeth Lorimer, 23, of Chicopee, Mass., and her injured companion, Robert Pate, 35, of Inglewood, Calif.

Miss Lorimer appeared little the worse for the ordeal, although she spent the whole night hanging to rock for her life. She was clad only in a costume of hiking shorts. Pate, badly injured, had to be lowered to the valley floor by a stretcher with ropes. By mid-afternoon the rescuers had lowered him to a point 500 feet above the valley level, but progress was slow because of his condition.

The girl was on a rock shelf 200 feet below Pate. Their plight was learned about 6 p. m. Tuesday when they managed to light signal fires which were sighted from the valley floor.

Apparently they had a few matches, for brush fires they lighted in the meagre vegetation called attention to their plight last night. But there was not enough wood to keep them warm.

F large law firms, such as whose associations with t official capacities in times peculiar advantage over o ing to we folk who are ac in hundreds rather than millions. The legal representative whose services before a congressional committee are worth $25,000 or $50,000 is a mighty valuable representative. It is quite easy to understand why a $10,000 or $15,000 federal cabinet or departmental position for a few years term is appealing to such a man Men like Hurley, Joseph Tumulty and numbers of others who have held high positions in the public limelight retire to reap handsome profits from the knowledge and the intimate contacts and influence they have gained while in official places. There is nothing illegitimate in this, of course, except that it does serve to weaken a respect for the positions held, just as the school teaching profession has been weakened in the public respect in times past because of poor salaries.

A Step In Tune

TRANSFER of pupils from outlying school districts into Cisco for high school purposes foreshadows a development in school organization in Texas that is bound to come. The very pressure of circumstances commands obedience to a new era. A community, isolated by road conditions, may be content with or even jealous of its institutions, small as they may be in comparison with the institutions of the city, but once let a paved road pass through that community and its people be given cars and the trend is toward the city. The community, far from being a self-centered and more or less independent economic and social unit, becomes a member of a group united in an area of common interests and sympathies. The family 10 miles away actually become neighbors instead of the people whom to visit once a month or less frequently was an event. An automobile and fast roads have vastly increased the space upon the globe that one human being can occupy, and a man's habits of thought and action, his ideals and his ideology are governed by his associations.

It is the duty of a community that aspires to something more than mere selfish existence, to serve this trend of the times with all its heart and mind and soul. Unless it does so, it is not itself keeping abreast of the times and is foredoomed to stagnate. More conscientious and virile communities will rise to the need and wear the rewards of success in adequately serving the interests of its area. The same swift roads and swift transportation that are not so much destroying the smaller communities as making the whole land a vastly more satisfactory place in which to live, will govern the results of town reaction to this condition. Between ten and twenty miles there is today but little choice. Tomorrow's automobile may reduce the time for twenty miles to what now would be required to go ten. The important factor in the equation, then, is the community sense of responsibility and its attitude.

A TOWN, claiming a trade territory or the p of a section, owes the best institutions to that area. Thus responsibility is translated in institutional responsibility. Its d its schools cannot righteously mselves. The schools of Cisco best educational service to the territory. The program they detaking with reference to the pupils here for high school purical and right. It is a step in the march of conditions.

FFA Promise

S of Future Farmers of America air teachers will be here until afternoon in the annual FFA trimer encampment at Lake Cisco. nce. from pre-encampment in omises to equal or exceed any endance. Established six or ago, the institution has proven popular. Its success became so pronounced at once that scores of similar encampments were held over the state at one time, drawing heavily from the attendance here during one season. But few of the rival camps survived. In most cases facilities for holding them were lacking and facilities are essential. These, at Lake Cisco, are ideal, as the annually increasing interest will testify.

CISCO is happy to welcome the FFA boys and their instructors. The work that is being done through the medium of the Future Farmers of America and vocational agriculture education is a great one, due to exert a tremendous influence upon the future of the farm and ranch.

MORE and more by instilling the inquisitive and competitive instincts into the minds of the men who will manage and operate the agricultural industry of the future, will the efficiency of this industry be heightened. The farmer has been among the last to realize that he is on a competitive basis. His attitude, so far as the conduct and improvement of his business is concerned, has been more or less fatalistic in tone. He felt himself one of many in the same ship, but it did not occur to him that not only was his particular ship in competition with other ships, but that he himself was in constant competition with his neighbors for markets. The realization of this hitherto little appreciated fact will stimulate energies that will benefit the whole field of agricultural enterprise just as its special fields, such as the breeding of fine stock, have been vastly improved by competitive efforts.

BY bringing these young men together, offering them inducements in contests with their fellows, putting their interests and their industry upon a competitive plane, such a program as they represent will serve to stir up enough real ability to guarantee agricultural enterprise of the future the initiative to lift it out of the rut and give it a real objective.

Matters In Probate—Orders
In re guardianship of Sterling Jackson McLellan, minor. Application of Mrs. Hallie McLellan, mother of said minor, to transfer the guardianship from Eastland to Harris county. The court had previously appointed Perry Sayles of Eastland, temporary guardian upon the resignation of a former guardian, and since which time Mrs. Hallie McLellan and her son, the said Sterling Jackson McLellan, have changed their residence to Houston, Harris county. In the application of Mrs. McLellan it is recited that by reason of such removal, it is desired to have the guardianship transferred to Harris county, as the said minor, who is now 17 years of age, makes his home with his mother; that she is looking after him, including the expenditure for his maintenance and support of the $15 per month authorized by the county judge of Eastland county, and that the estate of said ward could be more economically and conveniently administered if the guardianship is transferred to the county in which mother and ward maintain their residence. It appearing to the court that the statements in the application were true, and the temporary guardian, Perry Sayles, cannot remove to Harris county; and it further appearing to the court that letters of guardianship have been issued to Rolland Bradley in a cause now pending in the county court of Harris county, of the estate of said ward, it was ordered that the guardianship be removed from Eastland county to Harris county, Texas; and that said guardianship in Eastland county, in all things be terminated as soon as the requirements of the order become effective; and it was further ordered that the county clerk as soon as all papers required by law shall have been placed of record in Eastland county, make a certified transcript of such papers, orders, bonds, etc., and transmit the same to the county clerk of Harris county.

At the time of this hearing the final report of Perry Sayles, the temporary guardian, was filed, together with a statement of the receipts and disbursements of funds of his ward that have passed through his hands; also a request that he, as temporary guardian, be allowed the sum of $40 in full settlement for his services, compensation and commissions. The final report of the temporary guardian was approved by the court and it appearing that the sum of $40 was a reasonable sum as compensation for such guardianship, the same was allowed, and the temporary guardianship terminated.

Ex parte Mrs. Ella Echols, application to have Robert M. Echols adjudged a feeble minded person. Upon a hearing of the evidence the court is of the opinion that the application should be granted, and the order of the court is that the said Robert M. Echols be adjudged a person of feeble mind, and it was further ordered by the court that he be sent to the state school for the feeble-minded at Austin.

In re estate of Everett E. Harper, N. C. M. Application of T. E. Knight, guardian, to invest certain funds of his ward in vendors lien notes. It appearing to the court there was on hand sufficient funds over and above those necessary for the maintenance of the ward, to make the above investment the same was approved, after it had been determined that the security was sufficient to guarantee the payment of the notes at maturity, and to protect the estate of the said Everett E. Harper, the said T. E. Knight, guardian was authorized to invest $300 of the funds of said estate in the vendors lien notes therein considered.

Ex parte S. M. Root. Application for license to sell beer approved and order issued to the tax collector to issue license.
In the matter of the estate of T. F. Wynn, deceased; Application of A. P. Newberry, administrator, to sell certain real estate, approved, and order of sale issued and report of sale approved.

FIVE REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD NOT

BUY FROM THE ITINERANT PEDDLER

- 1 He or his firm does not pay any local taxes.

- 2 He sells for a store that has headquarters in a distant city.

- 3 He is here today and gone tomorrow. No come back --- your local merchant wants you to be satisfied. You can always go back to him for an adjustment.

- 4 He calls at your home and annoys you---takes your time from your home duties.

- 5 The money you spend with the out-of-town peddler is gone---the money you spend with your local merchant stays here and helps to build Cisco.

Do not confuse representatives of local institutions with the outside peddler --- they represent legitimate business houses who are furnishing employment to local people, pay taxes and are entitled to an interview. Be sure and protect yourself. Ask the men who call at your home for credentials from local firms.

From the Chief of Police to the Housewives and Citizens of Cisco

THIS IS A WARNING to BE-WARE of STRANGERS posing as salesmen, solicitors or inspectors calling at your homes. THEY SHOULD NOT BE ADMITTED UNTIL THEIR CREDENTIALS HAVE BEEN CHECKED UP AND VERIFIED AND THAT YOU ARE SURE you are dealing with local people --- REPRESENTATIVES OF LOCAL FIRMS. IN MANY CASES and from our police records lack of caution on the part of householders in allowing STRANGERS ---without reliable credentials in the homes have resulted in costly property losses and bitter experiences. Often the man or woman calling today

---THE STRANGER --- is the "spotter" or "locator" for a professional who follows in a later date.

DO NOT PAY CASH IN ADVANCE TO STRANGERS--- On an order as too often we have had reports from our own citizens that THEY HAVE NEVER RECEIVED ANYTHING FOR THEIR CASH IN ADVANCE---much less the refund on the down payment.

DO NOT CASH CHECKS for STRANGERS --- or issue a check to a stranger on an order as many times these checks have been altered and later cashed by an innocent party.

IT'S BETTER TO BE SAFE THAN SORRY --- be absolutely sure you KNOW with whom you are dealing before granting admission to strangers to your home. IN CASE YOU ARE SUSPICIOUS PHONE THE POLICE AT ONCE --- Phone 539. DO NOT DELAY THIS --- as it will aid the police to locate the itinerant.

ONE NEED NOT BE AFRAID of OFFENDING the honest salesman known to you as a local citizen REPRESENTING LOCAL FIRMS, THEY HAVE THEIR CREDENTIALS WITH THEM --- welcome such investigation.

OLD TIMERS

R. H. Boon, Cisco Grocer Not Here So Long as Others, But a Thorough Citizen

Occasionally we select as a subject for this department some citizen who, in point of residence, has not been a resident of Cisco or the Cisco country as long as some others, but who is and has been thoroughly identified with Cisco, and its development. Such is the subject of this sketch. Not that he has ever thrust himself forward, for as he says: "I have never sought or held public office, as I have been kept quite busy attending to my own business, supporting my family and educating my children, as well as performing my duties as a citizen."

That fits the man, and he is known to practically every citizen of Cisco by the name of

R. H. Boon

Mr. Boon was born in Mansfield, Tarrant county, Texas, March 1, 1866, and came to Cisco during the year of 1917. He was married to Miss Elizabeth Byrd Bright at Weatherford, Texas, October 22, 1889. They are the parents of seven children, five of whom are living. One died at Weatherford at the age of 20 years, and another was killed in France during the world war while fighting in the American army under Gen. John J. Pershing.

The living children are Howard Boon, Mrs. Bob Scott, of Cisco; Mrs. C. H. Grist, of Larned, Kan.; Dan Boon, of Hamlin, Texas, and Allan Boon, of Sweetwater.

Coming to Cisco, Mr. Boon engaged in the wholesale flour and feed business in the old Holcomb building, located where the A. G. Motor Co. is now doing business. He remained at this location for about one year, then moved to the Mayhew building, corner West Eleventh street at E avenue, and in 1919 he and G. Jack Swindie formed a partnership and erected the brick building on East Ninth street, near the Katy tracks, where this partnership continued as a feed, flour and grain business until about 1930, when Mr. Boon sold his interest to his partner, and opened his present business at 208 West Eighth street, doing a flour, feed and seed business. He carries a full line of staple and fancy groceries, and enjoys a nice trade from a steady line of customers. He makes it a point to buy largely of country produce from those farmers who live in the Cisco country, and do their trading in Cisco.

Believes in Fair Dealing

Mr. Boon believes in fair dealings with his customers, and that is one of the reasons why his business has been a growing concern since he moved to his present location.

Then, too, he is a quiet, unostentatious citizen, attending strictly to his own business, and believing in the other fellow running his, as he does, according to his own notion. But there is no better citizen in Cisco, honest and upright, and courteous to all.

Before coming to Cisco he was with the flour mills of Fort Worth and Weatherford, so it was natural for him to continue this line on arriving here. For several years he was with the Cameron Flour mill at Fort Worth when it was the Cameron & Tatum mill. He was there in 1887 when Tatum, the junior member of the firm, had his foot caught in a conveyor, jerked into the machinery, and his body torn in two at his waist line.

I have seen fifteen to twenty in a bunch.

"From Navarro county we went to Johnson county and settled near where Grandview now stands. There was only about five families there. From there we moved where Jack county now is, the county not having been surveyed out then. Three families of us settled on Keechi creek (ten miles south of where Jacksboro now stands. This country was full of game of all kinds, turkey, antelope, bear, buffalo and lots of Indians. They did not do much stealing and killing until 1857. The first killing done by the Indians in Jack county was that of the Cameron and Mason families in 1858 in Lost Valley. The next was two families on the west fork of the Trinity river, four miles north of Jacksboro, and happened in 1860.

"In 1861 I was married in Jacksboro to Mary Jane Backus. A little later on I was mustered into the Confederate service. We elected our own officers and I was chosen lieutenant and put at the head of the scouting party. We had a little fight with the Indians and killed one. I took his bow and quiver off him. I found a white man's scalp tied to his quiver. This was three miles from our ranch on Keechi. As we went back to the ranch we met some men following the trail of the Indians. They told us that the Indians had killed William Youngblood and scalped him. I told them I had the scalp and gave it to them. They carried it back and put it on him before they buried the body. They killed killed neighbors of our all around neighbors of ours all around us.

"At this time meat was no object but bread was. We had to go one hundred miles to mill. On account of the Indians stealing them we had to buy horses from one to three times each year. We got tired of this and in 1867 gathered together a herd of eight hundred cattle and started to market. I took my family to Navarro county to stay until I came back. We went north, thinking we would find a better market. We drove about six hundred miles without seeing a road, no settlement and no person except at Fort Arbuckle and only a few soldiers there. The first settlement we struck was Abilene, Kansas, and only a depot, one store and one saloon was there; it took six months to make the trip.

"I never took my family back to the ranch until 1899. We thought the Indian troubles were over and we returned. I employed hands to gather some cattle to take to Shreveport. We got them gathered and was going to start with them on Monday. On Sunday I went to a neighbor's house and returned. I had not been back more than ten minutes when wife stepped out on the porch. She said: "Yonder is somebody driving horses." I went to the door and saw that it was Indians. They had the house surrounded. I secured my two seven shot rifles and commenced firing on them, but they succeeded in getting away with all our horses. If I had been a few minutes longer in returning they would have murdered my family. I secured a yoke of oxen, hitched them to the wagon, put my family in it and left there. I never took them back there to live.

"Wife and I went through all the Indian troubles together. She had many narrow escapes as well as myself, but we lived through it all and are still living. She has been a faithful companion. I have followed the Indians as long as eleven days without a bite to eat except what wild game we could kill on the trail, and this roasted on the camp fire without salt or anything else. While on these trips I have been caught in snow storms. Then we would kill buffalo and make tents of the hides, flooring them with the same material. We enjoyed it all, as we were accustomed to this kind of life. I have been in many fights with the Indians, and this is only a light sketch of frontier life in those days. What I have here stated is part of my own experience, none of it second hand.

"We left Jack county in 1869 and stayed away until 1879 and then sold out there and moved west. We located in Eastland county in March, 1879. This country was very thinly settled at that time. I settled four miles west of Cisco where I now live. Our nearest railroad was Firt Worth. I stretched my tent where I now live, cut logs and built a house, covered the ground for a floor. As the summer came on the water gave out and we had to carry it one mile in buckets for house use. We drove our stock four to five miles to water. To avoid inconvenience we moved to Post Oak creek, near Deep creek, and stay-

Martin Parmer, Who Died at Age of 94, One of Oldest to Live in County

One of the oldest citizens who ever lived in the Cisco country was the late Martin Van Buren Parmer.

At his death in July, 1932, he was the oldest native Texan, having been born in Shelby county, May 21, 1838, and was 94 years and two months old at the time of his death.

Mr. Parmer celebrated his 91st birthday in 1929, at which time there were present four of his children and 34 grandchildren, besides the great grandchildren. His living children, at that time and in attendance on this celebration, were Mrs. Myrtle Agnew, wife of Neil Agnew, Mrs. W. J. Tickner, W. L. (Bill) Parmer and Martin Van Buren Parmer, Jr.

Mr. Parmer came to the Cisco country in March, 1879, and lived here continuously until his death in 1932.

The story of his life, in which he depicts many incidents of interest, not only in Eastland county, but other sections further east, from practically all of Texas west of Dallas, was the frontier, is taken from a story published many years ago. At the time of the celebration of his 91st birthday the writer published an account of this event in a local paper.

His Autobiography

Following is the life story of Mr. Parmer, in which he recounted how the people lived, and the vicissitudes they experienced. It will be found interesting to us moderns, surrounded as we are by practically all of the conveniences of the time:

"I was born in Shelby county, Texas, May 21, 1838. This country was very thinly settled at this date. People had to farm for a living, there being very little live stock in the country. All settlers lived in log houses covered with three or four foot boards. We had no nails but used rib poles, laid the boards on them and then laid weight poles on the boards. The chimneys were put up of sticks and clay. Farm implements consisted of a bull tongue plow, a twisting shovel and a hoe, all made at the blacksmith shop. We broke the land with those plows, then laid it off, dropped the corn and covered it with the hoe. In those days corn, sweet potatoes, pumpkins and peas were the main crops. Money was very scarce and not much needed, as we lived on what we raised, and as for our clothing, we planted one or two acres of cotton, the family picked the seed out with their fingers and the women carded, spun and wove it into cloth. We tanned our own leather, made our own shoes and hats. Our work stock consisted of oxen, and a horse in harness was scarcely ever seen in those days. We broke our land and cultivated our crops with oxen. We were a free people, had a free country, free grass, free timber. This is not so today. My father would work all day and near night would shoulder his old flint lock rifle and go out in the woods and kill his meats as we needed it. Deer was plentiful then.

This is just a little sketch of the way people lived in Shelby county in those days.

"In 1844-45 father collected a few cattle and pulled out for the wild, wild west. We landed in Navarro county and stopped where Corsicana now stands. There were three families of us in that part of the country at that time. There were mustang ponies, a few buffalo and game of all kinds including lobo wolves in abundance. At times the wolves would kill cattle.

Actual work on the relocation of Highway No. One on Eighth street through Cisco was begun Tuesday when engineers of the state highway department began a preliminary survey for the purpose of establishing the right-of-way lines, the chamber of commerce directors were told last night. This work was continuing today.

Surveys must be made and field notes taken before the project can be definitely started.

WANT GAMBLING RESTORED MEXICO CITY, Aug. 8. (AP)—Gov. Agustin Olachea of Northern Lower California petitioned the Secretary of the Interior Tuesday to permit the reopening of border gambling establishments as co-operatives, workers and the government sharing half the profits. He said that 1,600 persons were out of work as a result of the closing recently of the Agua Caliente track and casinos and that without the revenue from gambling taxes the territory would have to be supported by the federal government.

38 DISTRICTS IN NEW RELIEF ORGANIZATION

AUSTIN, Aug. 8.—Location of the 38 district headquarters to administer relief in Texas, supplanting the county administrative offices, and the names of the district administrators were announced last week by the Texas Relief commission at the conclusion of a three-day training period here for district staff members.

While the county administration of relief will be completely eliminated, county offices will continue to operate until they have been replaced by the district offices, it was emphasized. Moreover, case workers will be maintained in the counties after district administration is set up and clients will not have to go outside their own county to obtain relief.

Abolishment of the county administration of relief in Texas was announced last week by State Relief Director Adam R. Johnson, who explained that curtailment of administrative costs in line with the reduced program of the Federal Emergency Relief administration, which is being partly supplanted by the Works Progress administration, necessitated the business end of the 253 county administrators' offices being taken over by district administrators, whose staffs will administer relief over a much wider area.

Allocation to Counties Under the new set-up, allocations will continue to be made to counties, but funds will be disbursed from the district offices. County relief boards will be continued as advisory bodies.

The 38 districts are outlined according to the pattern of the Works Progress administration districts in the state, with each WPA district, with a few exceptions, divided into two FERA districts. One of these two FERA district administrator offices in each WPA district has been located when possible in the town where the latter office is now located. The other office was located in a town in the district adjudged the most convenient from all considerations. The town must furnish office and commodity storage space and pay the utility bills of the office.

The district office for Eastland County is located in Abilene. The district administrator is R. C. Conley.

Eastland County will be grouped with Callahan, Jones, Shackelford, Stephens and Taylor under the new set-up.

PIONEER DIES

Ranger Woman, 80, Buried After Services Monday Afternoon

RANGER, Aug. 8.—Funeral services for Mrs. Esta Bundick, 80, pioneer resident of Ranger, were conducted from the First Baptist church of Ranger Monday afternoon with Rev. G. W. Thomas officiating, assisted by other pastors of the town. She died in a Ranger hospital after several days illness.

She was born in Gonzales on April 27, 1865, was married to R. H. Bundick in 1888, and in 1906 moved to Ranger.

Survivors include one son, Otto of Ranger and one step-son, R. H. Bundick, Jr. Other surviving relatives include two brothers, J. E. Hargis of San Antonio and T. E. Hargis of Bisbee, Ariz.

Interment was in the Evergreen cemetery.

Miss Bert Welty has returned to her home in Granite City, Ill., after a visit with Mrs. A. V. Clark.

DENIES THAT HE LOBBIED AT ANY TIME

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 8. (AP)—In a hearing punctuated by frequent clashes, Patrick J. Hurley, Hoover secretary of war, testified before the senate investigating committee Wednesday that this law firm received $100,000 in the last three years from the Associated Gas and Electric system, explaining that he represented the shareholders.

Hurley asserted: "I've never taken a case from any one that was incompatible with the public welfare."

The former war secretary denied that he ever lobbied, but he frequently accused committeemen of "putting words in my mouth."

Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary of President Wilson and now an attorney here, said he was employed by a number of utility companies for advice in connection with the Wheeler-Rayburn bill, receiving a total of $33,500.

NEW WOOL HIGH

Twenty-five and One-half Cents Paid for 18-Months Clip at San Angelo

SAN ANGELO, Aug. 8. (AP)—A new high of 25½ cents for the 1935 season was reported paid for eight-months wool here Tuesday night when Tom Ritchey, buyerg for A. W. Hilliard & Son, bought 225,000 pounds from the Val Verde Wool and Mohair company in Del Rio.

With this advance in the price of short wool, mutton and ewe lambs also rose to new price heights for the year.

Sale of 4,000 lambs in the Big Bend section at 7 cents for muttons and 7½ cents for ewes was reported. The ewe price was boosted ½ cent and the mutton 1 cent.

PLENTY PWA FUNDS

FORT WORTH, Aug. 8. (AP)—The limit on how much Texas can receive from the $4,000,000,000 (billions) PWA fund has been made sky-high, Col. Horatio B. Hackett, assistant administrator, said Saturday before taking off with his party by plane for Albuquerque, N. M. The new rules are, first come, first served, and the limit on amounts will be set only by the limitation of the fund itself, said Colonel Hackett, who landed here in a navy plane Friday to consult with State PWA Engineer Julian Montgomery and his staff. The fund likely will be overtaxed by October 1 at the rate that demands on it are coming in at this time.

Business Holds Up Well During July, Report Says

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Business activity was reported by the commerce department Tuesday to have shown resistance to summer-slump influence in July.

"Reports on retail sales and construction activity," the department's monthly survey of current business said, "indicates improvement on a seasonally adjusted basis. Freight car loadings have declined, while the available data do not indicate much change in the adjusted index of industrial production."

"Outstanding among July developments was the sharp recovery in the steel industry. After moving downward from February to the first week in July, operations expanded steadily from 34 per cent of capacity to 45 per cent in the final week of the month. Only part of the gain was attributed to the automobile industry which enjoyed a relatively large volume of sales during the month."

"The further increase in electric power production was also a favorable indication, although the movement of freight by the railroads has continued to lag."

"Lumber business has been better this month and building supplies generally have benefitted from the modest improvement in private construction operations."

TWO ARE FINED

Pair Apprehended in Act of Breaking Gas Pump Lock M. J. Stephens, one of two tourists charged with the theft of gasoline after two men were apprehended in the act of breaking locks on Nance Service station pumps early Sunday morning, was released Monday after payment of a fine in corporation court.

Stephens was accompanied by his wife and two children. Officers Pierce and Warren about 3 a. m. Sunday discovered two men in the act of breaking a pump lock at the Nance station. The two, they said, threw down a gasoline hose and got into a car in the driveway.

Earlier in the morning the Texas station at Third and E avenue was robbed of about 10 gallons of gasoline. The car and trailer driven by the two men bore Pennsylvania licenses.

New Market Is Created by Cisco Broom Factory

Attention has been called to the importance of the Tompkins Broom factory as an industrial plant in Cisco. Any factory, it matters not how small, is an asset to a town. The larger they are, the more men they employ, the greater their worth to the city, but even if they give work to only one or two people they are worth-while.

But the Tompkins Broom factory is an asset aside from the number of people given employment. Of course the product that is turned out, and the amount of money any enterprise brings into a community is appreciated. But this factory and the men behind it are doing more. They have created a market for broom corn. They have gone further than creating a market, they have instructed many farmers how to grow and harvest it and will assist them in marketing the surplus crop.

Planted Vacant Lots

W. H. Tompkins secured a large number of vacant lots near the location of his factory. This he planted to broom corn, of the dwarf variety, then he got in touch with a number of farmers and induced them to make an experiment. Finally about 500 acres was planted to this corn, and this crop is now being harvested.

The Press is informed that the yield is turning out very satisfactorily and much of it is producing as much as one-half ton per acre. This corn is said to sell on the market from $50 to $125 a ton. If these prices can be had for the corn, and not more than one-half ton is produced to the acre, it is more profitable than cotton, even if not more than the minimum price is realized, it was declared.

P. V. Ryan is associated with Mr. Tompkins as shop foreman and broom maker. It was Ryan who induced Mr. Tompkins to take up this line. "After meeting Mr. Tompkins I soon ascertained that he was a salesman, but of course knew nothing about making brooms. I told him I could make them and I knew he could sell them. Finally I sold him on the idea, and the result was the factory was put up and I began making the brooms, and Tompkins began selling them," he said. These

PARKING METER Public-on-Wheels Paying and Paying, But Appear to Be Liking It

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 8.—The new-fangled parking meter, on trial here this month for the first time in America, has been given a great big hand—full of nickles.

The public on wheels is paying and paying, and, as indicated to an ear-to-the-street today, is liking it.

In 12 days 200 of the little gadgets set on iron posts at 20-foot intervals along the curbing have taken in $745.09. It takes nickles to keep the police off, but people sometimes put pennies in, and the meters take them.

Orval Moiser, city manager, said all the merchants with whom he had talked about the meter were highly pleased.

Advertising is not an expense—it's the life blood of any business two men have been operating the factory and disposing of their product about as fast as it can be turned out. "Cisco was selected," he said, as the location for the factory by reason of its easy accessibility to many other towns, and wherever there is a town brooms are used.

"The Tompkins factory is making and disposing of about 25 dozen brooms each week, and about 35 dozen floor mops. The demand about meets the capacity of the factory," Mr. Ryan said.

With Growers the Past Week

Mr. Tompkins and Ryan were both out among the growers the past week, instructing them in harvesting, threshing and bailing the corn for market. Mr. Ryan said they would commence threshing this week, then the bailing.

"We will be able to consume a considerable part of the crop that is grown this year, and all that we cannot use will find a ready market at other factories over the state. There is always a demand for broom corn," Ryan said. "The threshing this week will be under their supervision."

If the farmers who have experimented with growing broom corn, the coming of the factory here will amount to more than the revenue it brings directly to the community, as they will have introduced another revenue crop that will bring outside money here.

Ciscoan, on Gulf Fishing Trip, Tells Of Seeing Bather Attacked by Shark

C. A. Shockley, who with Mrs. Shockley have just returned from a fishing trip to Corpus Christi bay, told of a most harrowing incident they witnessed while on this trip.

"A number of bathers, including our party, were on the beach one morning, and while not within speaking distance there was a man on the pier alone, in bathing suit. We saw him go into the bay from the pier, but he had hardly entered the water before he uttered a most despairing cry, and then began struggling. It appeared as if he was jerked under the surface of the water and arose again. When rescued from the bay a large portion of the flesh was torn from one of the man's legs. He was taken to a hospital where he was given surgical attention."

Mr. Shockley stated he did not remember the gentleman's name, but stated the attending surgeons said they would attempt to save the limb. It was supposed the man was attacked by a shark, feeding near the pier.

Otherwise a Joyous Trip

"Otherwise our outing was a joyous one," Mr. Shockley said on his return home. "En route we were accompanied by Carl Howard, of San Antonio, whom we were taking to his home. He had been visiting in our home since the marriage of our daughter."

"Going down we visited our daughter, Mrs. H. A. Lewis, and Mr. Lewis, at Hebronville, and reaching San Antonio we were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Howard, who joined us for the outing. We had fine sport, fishing and bathing. The deep sea fishing was especially enjoyed."

"The Humble company has several large boats at Harbor Island that are available to employees of the company. We caught all the speckled and sand trout that we wanted, and I was fortunate enough to land a skip jack, said to be second only to a tarpon in gameness. Whether this be so or not, this fellow gave me plenty to do before I landed him. Our party did most of our fishing about 15 miles off Harbor Island.

"While there we occupied a cottage right on the water's edge, and the gulf breeze was delightful for sleeping. We saw many boat races and other pleasing things. The bathing was worth the trip alone."

Mr. Shockley said he met quite a number of people who had fished in Lake Cisco, and they were highly complimentary regarding Cisco's inland resort. One said he really enjoyed the sport here more than he did at Corpus.

Levinsky Easy Victim of "Brown Bomber's" Dynamite

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
COMISKEY PARK, Chicago, Aug. 8.—King Levinsky last night went the way of all flesh that has contacted the lethal blows of Joe Louis, Detroit's sensational brown bomber.

After two minutes and 21 seconds of fighting, Levinsky, battered to the floor three times, squatted on the ropes of the ring and pleaded for mercy. Chicago's glorified ex-fish peddler, hopelessly beaten by those exciting two minutes, sat on the bottom rope of the ring in a neutral corner, and appealed to Norman McGarrity to stop the battle.

"Don't let him hit me again. I am through," Levinsky pleaded through chalk-like lips.

Louis, fighting savagely from the start, stood immobile in midring, waiting for Levinsky to get up as he gazed into the far recesses of Comiskey park, home of the White Sox, that held 40,000 bewildered spectators.

Referee McGarrity took the beaten Levinsky by the arm and helped him to his corner and into the arms of his stunned handlers.

Belonged to Past
Thus the battle, scheduled to go ten rounds, ended.

From the start it was obvious that Levinsky, who had fought them all, belonged to the past. In those dramatic few minutes, Levinsky landed only one solid punch, a long right hander behind Louis, ear.

Louis' first half dozen punches landed on the half-frightened Levinsky's head and knocked him on his haunches. He regained his feet at the count of two, only to be knocked to the canvas again for the count of five. Another barrage of vicious punches dropped him for the third time for another count of five.

In desperation Levinsky attempted to escape, but Louis knocked him sagging into the ropes. As Levinsky began to sag, Louis ripped two cruel left hooks to the body. By this time Levinsky was backed into the corner and he calmly dropped his weary 197-pound frame to the bottom rope and sat there. Then he began mumbling his plea for mercy to the referee, the first plea he ever made to any man.

Technical Knockout
Louis' victory will go into the record books as a technical knockout. In stopping the Chicago wallop in two minutes and 21 seconds, Louis accomplished a quicker victory than Max Baer, who knocked the Kingfish unconscious in two minutes and 53 seconds of the second round of their battle in the Chicago stadium last December.

The sudden ending stunned the great crowd. The spectators could hardly believe that Levinsky, who had unflinchingly waded into Tommy Loughran, Mickey Walker, Primo Carnera, Jack Sharkey, Max Baer three times, even the Manassa Mauler himself, Jack Dempsey, without fear, could fall such an easy victim to the dynamite from Detroit.

Levinsky presented a pathetic sight as he squatted down on the ropes. The screaming spectators had been on their feet since he was knocked down the first time, waiting for what would happen next. When Levinsky was led to his corner, a great groan swept the crowd, then cheers broke out for the 21-year-old negro who in 24 professional fights in twelve months had chalked up 20 spectacular knockouts. Levinsky was his twentieth victim.

The poker faced Louis, standing in midring while his beaten foe was being led to his corner, accepted the cheers of the crowd with no emotion. He stood there, his face expressionless while Referee McGarrity raised his right arm. Then he shuffled off to his corner to receive the grins and handshakes of his handlers. There wasn't a drop of perspiration on Louis' brow. He appeared as if he had just had a massage and hair cut.

Levinsky, still dazed when he reached his dressing room, grunted: "It was an accident, that might happen to anybody."

Whatever he meant drew no further explanation. His handlers only shook their heads.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Reimer and Mr. and Mrs. H. E. McCormick were visitors in DeLeon Wednesday for the Melon-Peach festival.

ed there until it rained. I brought a nice bunch of cattle to this country with me. I had a good rifle and knew how to use it. We never suffered for meat, milk and butter. The country was full of game. For a time I had to go one hundred and twenty miles for bread, but had done this before coming here. There were no wire fences here then, as everything was in the open and free, and I did not think that I needed any land as I had free access to it all anyway, but I took up 160 acres of school land. I put in a farm, which seemed useless in this dry country, but after the first year I made enough for bread. This was the main item, though I had to take my wheat sixty miles to have it ground into flour. My crop was principally wheat. A good many people came to this country at this time and took up land but the drouths and crop failures caused them to leave and give up their homes. They would come to me and ask if I was going to stay, and I told them that I came to stay."

Scorpion Too Much For Black Widow
Gene Lankford, of Gene's Tire shop, is having lots of fun these days demonstrating the deadly venom of the much-heralded black widow spider. First, he placed a rattler in the cage with the widow, but the spider failed to attack the snake. In fact, Gene said, the two seemed to get along as well as two congenial beings could. The snake finally overlaid and killed the widow.

Scorpion Too Much For Black Widow

Gene secured another spider and placed it in the box. A worm was put in the widow's cage, but it was not pugnacious. However, the worm had other intentions than to furnish a breakfast for the widow, as had numbers of her consorts whom she had devoured, so, instead of putting up a fight for its life, the insect spun a web around itself, and the crimson-breasted widow could not penetrate his armor.

Receiving no thrills from this anticipated encounter Gene secured a stinging scorpion—one of those fellows who carry the hinder parts of his anatomy elevated at an angle of about 45 degrees, the better to deal its death-blow to an antagonist—and placed it with the spider. The widow evidently had had previous experience with this kind of opponent, so when the scorpion would strike she would side-step, and for a time avoided its thrusts. In fact it was a game of dodging with both. The scorpion, becoming enmeshed in the armor of the green worm, provided a handi-capp that threw the widow off her guard. She underestimated the reach of the scorpion, who led with his fighting arm; the widow was just a split second slow; the scorpion landed. The widow went down for the count and was deader than the proverbial door nail in less time than it takes to tee it.

Other crimson-breasted spiders were placed with the scorpion, but fared no better than the first. It dispatched the killer widows as fast as they were placed in the box with him.

Gene now believes he has discovered one insect that will exterminate the dreaded widow spider. Perhaps he is right.

$150,000 MORE MONEY IS IN CIRCULATION

Cotton income in Eastland county was more than double in 1934 what it was in 1932, and almost equal to that of 1933, a very favorable year, it was announced by C. Metz Heald, county agent, on the basis of complete official three-year county cotton figures just received from the Agricultural Adjustment administration.

Eastland county farmers received for their cotton last year $254,731.64 compared to $107,606.60 in 1932 and $281,403.29 in 1934. The farm value of lint and seed last year was almost $125,000 more than it was in 1932, and added to this was $22,428.84 in benefit payments, he said.

Values were based upon yields and prices as furnished by the United States department of agriculture. The benefit payments include all those to April 30, 1935. The value of unsold Bankhead certificates held by farmers was not included in the amount of benefit payments. Texas farmers have about nine million dollars' worth of these certificates on hand, according to the Agricultural Adjustment administration.

Commenting on this huge increase in Eastland county farmers' cotton income from 1932 to the present, J. D. Guy, Carbon, Texas, pointed out that there was almost 150,000 more dollars of cotton money in circulation in the county the last 12 months than two years ago. This increased farm income has been the means of helping farmers stay in business, maintain their farms and homes, and remain customers of merchants, he states.

New Deal Loses Vote in Rhode Island Tuesday
PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 8, (P)—Rhode Island's first congressional district Tuesday turned its back on the new deal by electing a republican to the national house of representatives. Complete returns of all voting districts gave Charles F. Risk, who campaigned to "repudiate the administration's acts," had 12,969 majority over Antonio Prince, democrat. The last regular election the democrats won the district by 21,000 plurality. The district embraces the bulk of the state's cotton mills.

The special congressional election in Rhode Island constituted the first popular test of the Rooseveltian policies in 1935.

Clean Cut Test
In a district, whose constituency has been said to be as representative of American life as any in the country, Prince, Woonsocket democrat, state treasurer and former newspaperman, matched strength with Risk, Saylesville republican, a former district judge.

Their attitudes toward the new deal were clean cut. Demanded Prince in a recent campaign address: "Shall it be back to Hoover or forward with Roosevelt?" From Risk: "Repudiate the Roosevelt administration and its acts." The seat for which they battled was that vacated by Francis B. Condon (D), upon his resignation to accept appointment to the supreme court of the state.

Fashionable Newport, R. I., turned in a plurality for a republican mayor, with Henry S. Wheeler

FEAR GAMES LOSS
Nazi Acts Against Writers Seen as Fear of Jew Campaign Effect

BERLIN, Germany, Aug. 8, (P)—An authoritative source expressed the belief Tuesday that fear of losing next year's Olympic games on account of the campaign against the Jews and "political catholicism" lay behind the Nazi attempts to obstruct foreign correspondents. The loss of the games at Berlin would constitute a major setback for the Nazi regime, economically and politically.

New Market Is Created by Cisco Broom Factory

Attention has been called to the importance of the Tompkins Broom factory as an industrial plant in Cisco. Any factory, it matters not how small, is an asset to a town. The larger they are, the more men they employ, the greater their worth to the city, but even if they give work to only one or two people they are worth-while.

But the Tompkins Broom factory is an asset aside from the number of people given employment. Of course the product that is turned out, and the amount of money any enterprise brings into a community is appreciated. But this factory and the men behind it are doing more. They have created a market for broom corn. They have gone further than creating a market, they have instructed many farmers how to grow and harvest it and will assist them in marketing the surplus crop.

Planted Vacant Lots

W. H. Tompkins secured a large number of vacant lots near the location of his factory. This he planted to broom corn, of the dwarf variety, then he got in touch with a number of farmers and induced them to make an experiment. Finally about 500 acres was planted to this corn, and this crop is now being harvested.

The Press is informed that the yield is turning out very satisfactorily and much of it is producing as much as one-half ton per acre. This corn is said to sell on the market from $50 to $125 a ton. If these prices can be had for the corn, and not more than one-half ton is produced to the acre, it is more profitable than cotton, even if not more than the minimum price is realized, it was declared.

P. V. Ryan is associated with Mr. Tompkins as shop foreman and broom maker. It was Ryan who induced Mr. Tompkins to take up this line. "After meeting Mr. Tompkins I soon ascertained that he was a salesman, but of course knew nothing about making brooms. I told him I could make them and I knew he could sell them. Finally I sold him on the idea, and the result was the factory was put up and I began making the brooms, and Tompkins began selling them," he said. These

PARKING METER Public-on-Wheels Paying and Paying, But Appear to Be Liking It

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 8.—The new-fangled parking meter, on trial here this month for the first time in America, has been given a great big hand—full of nickles.

The public on wheels is paying and paying, and, as indicated to an ear-to-the-street today, is liking it.

In 12 days 200 of the little gadgets set on iron posts at 20-foot intervals along the curbing have taken in $745.09. It takes nickles to keep the police off, but people sometimes put pennies in, and the meters take them.

Orval Moiser, city manager, said all the merchants with whom he had talked about the meter were highly pleased.

Advertising is not an expense—its the life blood of any business

two men have been operating the factory and disposing of their product about as fast as it can be turned out. "Cisco was selected," he said, as the location for the factory by reason of its easy accessibility to many other towns, and wherever there is a town brooms are used.

"The Tompkins factory is making and disposing of about 25 dozen brooms each week, and about 35 dozen floor mops. The demand about meets the capacity of the factory," Mr. Ryan said.

With Growers the Past Week

Mr. Tompkins and Ryan were both out among the growers the past week, instructing them in harvesting, threshing and bailing the corn for market. Mr. Ryan said they would commence threshing this week, then the bailing.

"We will be able to consume a considerable part of the crop that is grown this year, and all that we cannot use will find a ready market at other factories over the state. There is always a demand for broom corn," Ryan said. The threshing this week will be under their supervision.

If the farmers who have experimented with growing broom corn, the coming of the factory here will amount to more than the revenue it brings directly to the community, as they will have introduced another revenue crop that will bring outside money here.

Ciscoan, on Gulf Fishing Trip, Tells Of Seeing Bather Attacked by Shark

C. A. Shockley, who with Mrs. Shockley have just returned from a fishing trip to Corpus Christi bay, told of a most harrowing incident they witnessed while on this trip.

"A number of bathers, including our party, were on the beach one morning, and while not within speaking distance there was a man on the pier alone, in bathing suit. We saw him go into the bay from the pier, but he had hardly entered the water before he uttered a most despairing cry, and then began struggling. It appeared as if he was jerked under the surface of the water and arose again. When rescued from the bay a large portion of the flesh was torn from one of the man's legs. He was taken to a hospital where he was given surgical attention."

Mr. Shockley stated he did not remember the gentleman's name, but stated the attending surgeons said they would attempt to save the limb. It was supposed the man was attacked by a shark, feeding near the pier.

Otherwise a Joyous Trip

"Otherwise our outing was a joyous one," Mr. Shockley said on his return home. "En route we were accompanied by Carl Howard, of San Antonio, whom we were taking to his home. He had been visiting in our home since the marriage of our daughter.

"Going down we visited our daughter, Mrs. H. A. Lewis, and Mr. Lewis, at Hebronville, and reaching San Antonio we were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Howard, who joined us for the outing. We had fine sport, fishing and bathing. The deep sea fishing was especially enjoyed.

"The Humble company has several large boats at Harbor Island that are available to employes of the company. We caught all the speckled and sand trout that we wanted, and I was fortunate enough to land a skip jack, said to be second only to a tarpon in gameness. Whether this be so or not, this fellow gave me plenty to do before I landed him. Our party did most of our fishing about 15 miles off Harbor Island.

"While there we occupied a cottage right on the water's edge, and the gulf breeze was delightful for sleeping. We saw many boat races and other pleasing things. The bathing was worth the trip alone."

Mr. Shockley said he met quite a number of people who had fished in Lake Cisco, and they were highly complimentary regarding Cisco's inland resort. One said he really enjoyed the sport here more than he did at Corpus.

Levinsky Easy Victim of "Brown Bomber's" Dynamite

By CHARLES DUNKLEY Associated Press Sports Writer COMISKEY PARK, Chicago, Aug. 8.—King Levinsky last night went the way of all flesh that has contacted the lethal blows of Joe Louis, Detroit's sensational brown bomber.

After two minutes and 21 seconds of fighting, Levinsky, battered to the floor three times, squatted on the ropes of the ring and pleaded for mercy. Chicago's glorified ex-fish peddler, hopelessly beaten in those exciting two minutes, sat on the bottom rope of the ring in a neutral corner, and appealed to Norman McGarrity to stop the battle.

"Don't let him hit me again. I am through," Levinsky pleaded through chalk-like lips.

Louis, fighting savagely from the start, stood immobile in midring, waiting for Levinsky to get up as he gazed into the far recesses of Comiskey park, home of the White Sox, that held 40,000 bewildered spectators.

Referee McGarrity took the beaten Levinsky by the arm and helped him to his corner and into the arms of his stunned handlers.

Belonged to Past Thus the battle, scheduled to go ten rounds, ended.

From the start it was obvious that Levinsky, who had fought them all, belonged to the past. In those dramatic few minutes, Levinsky landed only one solid punch, a long right hander behind Louis, ear.

Louis' first half dozen punches landed on the half-frightened Levinsky's head and knocked him on his haunches. He regained his feet at the count of two, only to be knocked to the canvas again for the count of five. Another barrage of vicious punches dropped him for the third time for another count of five.

In desperation Levinsky attempted to escape, but Louis knocked him sagging into the ropes. As Levinsky began to sag, Louis ripped two cruel left hooks to the body. By this time Levinsky was backed into the corner and he calmly dropped his weary 197-pound frame to the bottom rope and sat there. Then he began mumbling his plea for mercy to the referee, the first plea he ever made to any man.

Technical Knockout Louis' victory will go into the record books as a technical knockout. In stopping the Chicago wallop in two minutes and 21 seconds, Louis accomplished a quicker victory than Max Baer, who knocked the Kingfish unconscious in two minutes and 53 seconds of the second round of their battle in the Chicago stadium last December.

The sudden ending stunned the great crowd. The spectators could hardly believe that Levinsky, who had unflinchingly waded into Tommy Loughran, Mickey Walker, Primo Carnera, Jack Sharkey, Max Baer three times, even the Manassa Mauler himself, Jack Dempsey, without fear, could fall such an easy victim to the dynamiter from Detroit.

Levinsky presented a pathetic sight as he squatted down on the ropes. The screaming spectators had been on their feet since he was knocked down the first time, waiting for what would happen next. When Levinsky was led to his corner, a great groan swept the crowd, then cheers broke out for the 21-year-old negro who in 24 professional fights in twelve months had chalked up 20 spectacular knockouts. Levinsky was his twentieth victim.

The poker faced Louis, standing in midring while his beaten foe was being led to his corner, accepted the cheers of the crowd with no emotion. He stood there, his face expressionless while Referee McGarrity raised his right arm. Then he shuffled off to his corner to receive the grins and handshakes of his handlers. There wasn't a drop of perspiration on Louis' brow. He appeared as if he had just had a massage and hair cut.

Levinsky, still dazed when he reached his dressing room, grunted: "It was an accident, that might happen to anybody."

Whatever he meant drew no further explanation. His handlers only shook their heads.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Reimer and Mr. and Mrs. H. E. McCormick were visitors in DeLeon Wednesday for the Melon-Peach festival.

ed there until it rained. I brought a nice bunch of cattle to this country with me. I had a good rifle and knew how to use it. We never suffered for meat, milk and butter. The country was full of game. For a time I had to go one hundred and twenty miles for bread, but had done this before coming here. There were no wire fences here then, as everything was in the open and free, and I did not think that I needed any land as I had free access to it all anyway, but I took up 160 acres of school land. I put in a farm, which seemed useless in this dry country, but after the first year I made enough for bread. This was the main item, though I had to take my wheat sixty miles to have it ground into flour. My crop was principally wheat. A good many people came to this country at this time and took up land but the drouths and crop failures caused them to leave and give up their homes. They would come to me and ask if I was going to stay, and I told them that I came to stay."

Scorpion Too Much For Black Widow

Gene Lankford, of Gene's Tire shop, is having lots of fun these days demonstrating the deadly venom of the much-heralded black widow spider. First, he placed a rattle in the cage with the widow, but the spider failed to attack the snake. In fact, Gene said, the two seemed to get along as well as two congenial beings could. The snake finally overlaied and killed the widow.

Gene secured another spider and placed it in the box. A worm was put in the widow's cage, but it was not pugnacious. However, the worm had other intentions than to furnish a breakfast for the widow, as had numbers of her consorts whom she had devoured, so, instead of putting up a fight for its life, the insect spun a web around itself, and the crimson-breasted widow could not penetrate his armor.

Receiving no thrills from this anticipated encounter Gene secured a stinging scorpion—one of those fellows who carry the hinder parts of his anatomy elevated at an angle of about 45 degrees, the better to deal its death-blow to an antagonist—and placed it with the spider. The widow evidently had had previous experience with this kind of opponent, so when the scorpion would strike she would side-step, and for a time avoided its thrusts. In fact it was a game of dodging with both. The scorpion, becoming enmeshed in the armor of the green worm, provided a handicap that threw the widow off her guard. She underestimated the reach of the scorpion, who led with his fighting arm; the widow was just a split second slow; the scorpion landed. The widow went down for the count and was deader than the proverbial door nail in less time than it takes to tee it.

Other crimson-breasted spiders were placed with the scorpion, but fared no better than the first. It dispatched the killer widows as fast as they were placed in the box with him.

Gene now believes he has discovered one insect that will exterminate the dreaded widow spider. Perhaps he is right.

$150,000 MORE MONEY IS IN CIRCULATION

Cotton income in Eastland county was more than double in 1934 what it was in 1932, and almost equal to that of 1933, a very favorable year, it was announced by C. Metz Heald, county agent, on the basis of complete official three-year county cotton figures just received from the Agricultural Adjustment administration.

Eastland county farmers received for their cotton last year $254,731.64 compared to $107,606.60 in 1932 and $281,403.29 in 1934. The farm value of lint and seed last year was almost $125,000 more than it was in 1932, and added to this was $22,428.84 in benefit payments, he said.

Values were based upon yields and prices as furnished by the United States department of agriculture. The benefit payments include all those to April 30, 1935.

The value of unsold Bankhead certificates held by farmers was not included in the amount of benefit payments. Texas farmers have about nine million dollars' worth of these certificates on hand, according to the Agricultural Adjustment administration.

Commenting on this huge increase in Eastland county farmers' cotton income from 1932 to the present, J. D. Guy, Carbon, Texas, pointed out that there was almost 150,000 more dollars of cotton money in circulation in the county the last 12 months than two years ago. This increased farm income has been the means of helping farmers stay in business, maintain their farms and homes, and remain customers of merchants, he states.

New Deal Loses Vote in Rhode Island Tuesday

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 8. (AP)—Rhode Island's first congressional district Tuesday turned its back on the new deal by electing a republican to the national house of representatives. Complete returns of all voting districts gave Charles F. Risk, who campaigned to "repudiate the administration's acts," had 12,969 majority over Antonio Prince, democrat. The last regular election the democrats won the district by 21,000 plurality. The district embraces the bulk of the state's cotton mills.

The special congressional election in Rhode Island constituted the first popular test of the Rooseveltian policies in 1935.

Clean Cut Test In a district, whose constituency has been said to be as representative of American life as any in the country, Prince, Woonsocket democrat, state treasurer and former newspaperman, matched strength with Risk, Saylesville republican, a former district judge.

Their attitudes toward the new deal were clean cut.

Demanding Prince in a recent campaign address: "Shall it be back to Hoover or forward with Roosevelt?"

From Risk: "Repudiate the Roosevelt administration and its acts."

The seat for which they battled was that vacated by Francis B. Condon (D), upon his resignation to accept appointment to the supreme court of the state.

Fashionable Newport, R. I., turned in a plurality for a republican mayor, with Henry S. Wheeler.

FEAR GAMES LOSS Nazi Acts Against Writers Seen as Fear of Jew Campaign Effect

BERLIN, Germany, Aug. 8. (AP)—An authoritative source expressed the belief Tuesday that fear of losing next year's Olympic games on account of the campaign against the Jews and "political catholicism" lay behind the Nazi attempts to obstruct foreign correspondents. The loss of the games at Berlin would constitute a major setback for the Nazi regime, economically and politically.

GINNERS ACT TO PREVENT COTTON SNARL

HOUSTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—Texas cotton ginneries this week took steps to prevent a threatened tie-up of the Texas cotton crop as the result of an injunction by Federal Judge Randolph Bryant at Sherman to restrain enforcement of the Bankhead cotton act. Judge Bryant's order restrains the government from requiring ginneries to collect the cotton tax. Since the injunction was granted the government has refused to issue any more bale tags.

Counsel for the Texas Cotton Ginneries association filed a petition with Federal Judge T. M. Kennerly at Houston Monday asking that collectors of internal revenue be compelled to issue the tags to ginneries who agree to abide by the Bankhead act.

At Dallas C. K. Bullard, attorney, announced he planned to petition Judge Kennerly to release 65 or more gins from the provisions of the injunction by Judge Bryant. He declared the injunction virtually would prevent movement of this year's cotton crop because practically all ginneries in the state were made parties to the suit.

PLANS OUTLINED BY COMMITTEEMAN

ABILENE, Aug. 9.—Plans by which Texas ginneries hope to circumvent an injunction, issued recently by a Sherman federal court and which threatened a tie-up of the Texas cotton crop when the internal revenue department refused to issue any more bale tags in this state, were outlined by J. Walter Hammond of Tye Monday.

As a member of the state cotton committee, Mr. Hammond was one of ten men called to Washington last week to confer with the cotton section of the agricultural adjustment administration, on ways to get the Texas cotton crop on the national market.

No More Tags

When the court granted the injunction, the internal revenue department announced it would not issue any more tags in Texas—thus making it impossible to get the cotton crop on the national market, except bales for which tags already have been issued. Approximately 735,000 tags—enough for one-fourth the estimated crop—are in the hands of ginneries.

Saying the AAA was a farmers' organization administered by them, C. A. Cobb of the AAA summoned the Texas cotton committee to Washington to work out its own solution. Mr. Hammond represents the Abilene district, as one of eleven members of the state committee.

Ruling Expected

Solution to the problem is expected by a court ruling, which would be secured by ginneries not a party to the Wallace suit, individually and collectively, seeking to be excluded from the injunction. The internal revenue office said it would issue tags to those securing exemptions.

The advisory committee, returning to College Station last Thursday, took preliminary steps toward filing of the plea. Any gin or ginner in Texas—not participating in the injunction suit—may join in the exemption plea. Forms or affidavits to be signed by the gin owners have been sent the various farm agents. The blanks are yet to be filled out and, accompanied by $1, returned to the Farmers Protective committee of the Texas Agriculture association. The committee was organized for the specific purpose of handling the court suit.

The 735,000 tags already in the state for the 1935 crop are mostly in the southern part, where the ginning season is in full swing.

70 Carloads of Poultry Shipped

AUSTIN, Aug. 9.—Interstate shipments of poultry and eggs in Texas during June totaled 70 carloads, composed of 38 cars of poultry and 32 cars of eggs, against 87 cars for the corresponding month last year, of which 51 cars were poultry and 36 cars were eggs, according to the University of Texas bureau to business research.

"It is probable that this downward trend may be reversed in the not distant future when the prospective abundant and relatively cheap feed crop will seek an outlet through the development of animal enterprises including poultry production," the report said.

Receipts of eggs from outside states amounted to 20 cars—11 from Kansas, 2 from Missouri, 3 from Oklahoma, and 4 from Nebraska. In June last year a total of 28 cars were brought in from other states—25 cars from Kansas, 1 car each from Missouri, Nebraska and Iowa.

Meet Charlie Plumb, Creator of "Ella Cinders" in the Press Comics

His is a big square-built, square-shooter, in his middle thirties. His wife is just about as big as Ella Cinders. They live in the shade of the old avocado trees—forty of them—on three acres of San Gabriel, California. The crickets supply most of the excitement of their night life. The three Plumb children—Charles, Joan and Barbara—supply most of the excitement of their day life. They used to live in South Pasadena, but moved away because it was too big and bustling for them. They like ease, trees, quiet, youngsters and lots to eat.

Charlie was born in New Mexico, where his father was a mining engineer, but grew up in southwest Missouri, where he continued to be a mining engineer. He attended the school of journalism at the university of Missouri, where he discovered he was no journalist. So he got a job on a newspaper. The job he got was in the art department, so he became artist. He discovered that all newspaper artists are prepared at the drop of a hat or the flash of an eye to become millionaire comic strip men. So he thought that would be a good idea.

The idea came to life when Bill Conselman, who worked on the same paper—The Los Angeles Times—supplied it. The idea was "ELLA CINDERS." It was such a grand and glorious idea that— with Bill Conselman writing the continuity and Charlie Plumb supplying the drawings—Ella Cinders has come close to being the strip that outstrips all others. Charlie especially admires the work of N. C. Wyeth, Bateman, Arthur Rackham and Edmond Dulas. His hobby is fishing. His ambition is to invent blotless ink and a three-speed-roller-bearing drawing pen. When not drawing Ella, he sits in the shade of the old avocado trees and smiles. Who wouldn't?

Beginning Sunday, August 11, "Ella Cinders" will be a regular feature of the Cisco Daily Press 8-page Sunday color comic section.

Strong Pressure To Peg Cotton Prices Is Used

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—Strong political pressure for a 12-cent loan to help peg 1935 cotton crop prices has descended upon farm administration officials.

Some of the AAA bosses were disclosed to doubt the advisability of any loan at all. Others said privately they believed an advance of from 10 to 12 cents may be authorized.

Chester C. Davis, AAA administrator, said the amount of the loan probably will be announced shortly after the government estimate of 1935 cotton production. This will be issued Thursday.

Meanwhile, those favoring the 12-cent figure were reported to have turned their attention also to the White House and congress, as well as the AAA.

Same Situation

What worried the AAA was the possibility that with the cotton loan policy, the AAA and the Commodity Credit corporation may find themselves confronted with the same situation which gained criticism for the old farm board. The Commodity Credit corporation has advanced directly, or had guaranteed through private agencies, 12-cent loans totaling $271,775,525 on 4,454,039 bales of cotton. These figures do not include advances made on cotton held by the producers' pool. The pool now has 675,000 bales of spot cotton and 933,000 bales of futures.

The loans were due this year but have been extended until Feb. 1, 1936. Some officials said they did not believe that the government would be repaid unless the price of cotton reached 13 cents a pound.

8,300,000 Bales

The carryover of American cotton Aug. 1 was 8,300,000 bales, and the Bankhead allotment this year, 10,983,264 bales. However, some private estimates of the 1935 crop run as high as 12,000,000 bales. If the crop should be that large, an official said, the Farm Administration would be confronted with a delicate problem.

Suggestions have been made that the government take over cotton on which loans now are outstanding, and use this to establish the "ever-normal granary" sponsored by Secretary Wallace and authorized in the AAA amendments pending in congress. Under this plan, the government would use the cotton itself for benefit payments, instead of cash.

Mrs. I. Moldave left today for the Dallas market to purchase fall stocks for the Boston store. In Dallas she will attend the fall style show.

Moderate Gain in Stock Shipments To Fort Worth

AUSTIN.—A moderate increase was recorded in livestock shipments from Texas to Fort Worth stockyards and interstate points during June as compared with the similar month last year, the University of Texas bureau of business research said in its monthly report on the livestock trade. Forwardings totaled 4,465 cars against 4,182 cars a year ago, an increase of 7 per cent.

"The greatest increase occurred in shipments of sheep, 536 cars against 449 cars last year, an increase of 30 per cent; followed by cattle, 3,197 against 2,861 cars, up 12 per cent. Shipments of calves totaled 507 against 505 cars, practically no change. Hog forwardings dropped 52 per cent from 367 cars a year ago to 175 in June of the current year. Aggregate forwardings during the first half of 1935 were 29,473 cars against 28,255 cars during the corresponding period last year.

"Shipments to the Fort Worth market were characterized by a sharp drop in the number of hogs and an equally marked rise in the number of sheep. Los Angeles received about one third as many Texas cattle and hogs as in June last year, while a sharp increase occurred in shipments of cattle and no forwardings whatever of sheep were made to points in California other than Los Angeles, just the reverse of a year ago. Substantial increases occurred also in shipments of cattle—other than the large markets—to Colorado, Illinois, Kansas, Oklahoma, Iowa, Indiana and New Mexico, and of sheep to Colorado, Kansas, Missouri and Indiana.

"Districts of the state showing substantial increases in forwardings of cattle in comparison with June of last year were; east Texas, Trans Pecos country, south Texas and the coastal prairies."

NRS Labor Clearance Agency for Works

EASTLAND.—The National Reemployment service will be the clearance agency for labor in the Works Progress and Public Works administration programs, Crigler Paschall assistant district manager, was told at a meeting in Abilene.

Representatives in west Texas of the National Reemployment service were told of procedure to be followed in WPA work.

The service will be directly responsible for the qualification and selection of all workers on WPA and PWA projects.

Mr. Paschall stated Saturday that workers of every classification are shown on registration rolls of the NRS in this county. For any project approval in the government agencies, the office will be able to supply the workers needed.

His office is assuming a more important role than that before, Mr. Paschall stated. Under the United States Department of Labor, the office until recently only placed workers in private channels and government building. Now with its part in the WPA and PWA programs it is assuming an important function, Paschall indicated.

Slight Decrease in Employment Report

AUSTIN, Aug. 9 (AP)—Reports from 1,581 Texas establishments covering the week ending July 13 showed that a total of 75,760 employees were employed, a decrease of two-tenths of one per cent from the like week of the previous month and five-tenths of one per cent from the corresponding period last year, according to the University of Texas bureau of business research.

Aggregate payrolls of the firms were $1,762,000, an increase of two-tenths of one per cent over the previous month and 2.1 per cent greater than during the like period of last year. Cities showing a gain over the two comparable periods were Abilene, Austin, Houston, Laredo and Wichita Falls. Industries showing gains over both the previous month and the corresponding period last year were: Beverages, commercial printing, electric railway car shops, flour mills, foundries, machine shops, furniture manufacturing, ice factories, laundries and dry cleaning, meat packing and slaughtering, men's clothing manufacturing, petroleum refining, structural iron works and wholesale stores.

EASTLAND, Aug. 5.—Wanted in connection with a forgery charge, Jack Millwee of Rising Star was arrested by Loss Woods and then turned over to Fort Worth officers, the deputy sheriff announced.

TRANSFER OF PUPILS HERE IS APPROVED

The Cisco public schools will open for the 1935-36 term on September 9. This date was fixed at the meeting of the school board Monday night when the project for transferring pupils of eight outlying districts by bus to Cisco for high school purposes was approved.

The board ordered the purchase of two school buses to convey the transferred students to and from the school here. One bus will serve Shady Grove, Pleasant Hill, Grapevine and Central; the other will serve Reich, Friendship, Bluff Branch and Cottonwood.

50 More Students

Addition of these buses will bring about 50 more high school students to Cisco than would normally come and furnish their own transportation, it was said. Altogether, about 110 students will attend the high school from these districts.

No students will be transferred into the grades, and the facilities of the high school are ample to take care of this number without crowding or the addition of new faculty members, the board found.

Experience with an Easter holiday season to break the monotony of the long spring session last year was so satisfactory that the same holiday procedure will be followed this year. The calendar is as follows:

Holidays

Thanksgiving—Thursday and Friday, November 28-29; Christmas—December 20 to December 30, inclusive;

Easter holidays will begin on Wednesday before Easter Sunday and school will be resumed the following Monday.

There will be no New Year's holiday.

Election of Miss Ouida Hubbert of Graham, as home economics teacher succeeding Mrs. Howard Goss, resigned, took place at the meeting. Miss Hubbert, highly recommended by the state home economics supervisor, has taught in the Graham schools for seven years, has a BS degree from Texas university and two summers of work to her credit upon a master's degree.

Eddy Promoted

The board with reluctance accepted the resignation of J. R. D. Eddy, diversified occupation course supervisor, to become district supervisor of industrial education work in Texas. Successor to him here in the work that was organized only last year and secured full affiliation, will be named by Mr. Eddy and George Fern, state director.

"The board," said Supt. R. N. Cluck, "considers it an honor to the Cisco schools that a member of its faculty should be rewarded with such an outstanding promotion."

Explaining the transfer of students from outlying districts into Cisco, Mr. Cluck pointed out that the state will pay the Cisco schools between $60 and $70 average on each student so transferred, as well as $2 each per month for transportation charges. The transfers, he said, will be self-sustaining and constitute no drain on the Cisco system.

The Dothan and Sandy districts will continue to transfer their entire student bodies to Cisco.

HOLDS REVIVAL

The Rev. Elwin Skiles, son of Mrs. Asa Skiles is holding a revival at Pleasant Hill. Services are held each morning at 10:30 and each evening at 8:15. He is assisted by the Rev. E. S. James, pastor of the Cisco First Baptist church. Cisco people were invited to attend.

Daily Press Want Ads will get the job done.

SISTER HERE

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mayhew went to Gatesville Sunday to accompany Mrs. S. A. Richardson, sister of Mr. Mayhew's father, Aron Mayhew, to Cisco for a two week's visit. Mrs. Richardson's home is at Port Arthur.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Slatton, two miles south of Cisco, on Highway 23, Sunday morning about 9 o'clock, a son, weight 8 pounds.

There are now 47,488 different ways to benefit the farmer—including letting him alone.

A. D. Anderson and A. L. Foster have returned from Ruidosa, N. Mex., where Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Foster are spending the summer.

Mrs. R. E. Kizer and daughter, Jane are visiting in Dallas.

DRUMWRIGHT FINDS EAST OPTIMISTIC

Henry Drumwright, manager of John H. Garner's department store, returned from a two-week buying trip in New York and St. Louis Sunday afternoon to report the most enthusiastic market since the depression.

"Everywhere you go," he said, "the retail trade is buying and manufacturers declare they are doing all they can do. It's like going into a new world to go there, to see the enthusiasm that those manufacturers have. They think that better times are coming back as fast as they can, and that unless something unforeseen, like a bad political situation, interrupts, the movement, business this fall will be the best since 1929."

FDR Still the Power

Politically speaking, Mr. Drumwright said, Roosevelt is still the power in the east. Severely criticized by republican journals, the individual is still for him, he said found.

A willingness to gamble on new ideas and a radical change in styles distinguish the markets this year, Mr. Drumwright said. He found a great variety of styles decidedly different. Instead of the plain, everyday styles that were the rule during the depression years, he found the sample rooms and salons crowded with sports models designed with lots of snap, and lots of color as well as the smartly tailored ready-to-wear which is always modified with dignity. Ordinarily fall designs feature navy or sober browns and blacks. Navy is out this year, said Drumwright. Instead in the popular-priced ranges early fall showings feature greens, wines, shades of blue, blacks and rusts. Fur coats he found will play an important part in the fall wardrobe. Furs are cheaper now than ever, with coats that once sold for $250 to $300 being sold to retail profitably at $150. "Prices like that are bound to create business," he declared.

Doing More Business

"Manufacturers will tell you right off that they are doing more business than in five years. You can see it. The retail trade is really buying. Our New York representative said that the season seemed to be twice as big as anything since 1929.

"We bought the most complete stock of merchandise since the depression. Garner's has always felt that when conditions would justify, that its customers should be given everything possible for their selections.

"The showing that we will make this fall will represent a 100 per cent increase in purchases of stock by September 1 over the purchases for last fall's showing."

Same in St. Louis

In the St. Louis market, Mr. Drumwright said he found equal enthusiasm. The west Texas division manager for a large dry goods wholesale concern told him that, although the St. Louis buying season did not open until August 1 (today), he had already sold and had in the house more buyers than he had the entire market season last year. "He told me that he was more encouraged than he had been at any time during the last five years. I found that same sentiment all through the east. Not all those people can possibly be wrong.

"It certainly improves the business man's outlook to visit the east. I feel 200 per cent better after I have seen what is going on in big business."

Another convincing, if incidental, experience he encountered was the fact that although he spent 12 days in New York, he was not approached for a dime or a cup of coffee a single time, although on his last visit in 1930 he could hardly go two blocks without being asked at least a dozen times.

Building a Country Home? Here Are Decorating Hints

(Homemaking Helps)

By ELEANOR ROSS

NOW THAT leisure has become part of the national program, many little country homes are being used for winter week-ends as well as during the summer. And that is why so many folks are roving the countryside looking for little places that will be adaptable to their needs for an all-year-round country home.

There are many nice little places that are quite inexpensive, especially if the family is handy and can pitch in when it comes to repairing or adapting these cottages, farms, cabins or plain shacks. With this thought in mind, many of the shops exhibition houses, guaranteed to look as nice in winter with a blazing log fire, as when washed with the golden sunlight of a summer sun.

Not Modernistic

One such house, a five-room affair, is of great interest to all those who have a home in the country, or who hope to aspire to one someday. This display house has no brittle wicker furniture, nor is it modernistic with shiny chromium. It isn't fussy and it isn't formal. The whole place is a short cut to comfort and livability transplanted in country terms for city slickers.

Mostly the furniture is provincial without being peasanty or arty. The pieces are sturdy and simple but not primitive. The wood used is not maple, as is usually the case with country house furniture. Instead, a rich, glowing, warm walnut has been employed with delightful results. The chairs are lazy and comfortable, and the sofas have broad arms for books, papers or sewing things, so that there's no need of a raft of little tables here, there and everywhere.

Colors of Room

The living room has draperies of a magnolia-patterned, washable cotton, guaranteed to withstand winds and rains, no matter the season. The white walls are banded with green and the draperies are in blue, green and oyster white. The rugs are made of blue and white rope and the furniture has tan and brown-striped upholstery. Large circles of dark blue, bound in white rope, contain silhouettes of the continents. These make clever wall decorations. The large mantel is of tile.

The dining room walls are papered with tropical bamboo design in yellow and gray, and the rug is a bluish mixture over straw matting. There are no draperies at all; instead there is a wide window frame of bamboo and Chinese straw matting with glass shelves stretched across to hold little colored glass ornaments and pots of ivy.

Discount Rates on Warrants Are Unusually Low

AUSTIN, Aug. 9 (AP)—Although the state's general revenue fund is more than $5,000,000 in the red and official estimates of income are not encouraging, state employees are enjoying the lowest discount rates on state warrants in months.

The current discount is one per cent compared to three to five per cent during times when treasury prospects were brighter, by far, than at present. The reason is a "money" war between investors who had idle funds.

Employees report bidding for their warrants is very brisk. Several banks in the smaller towns adjacent to Austin have representatives who call regularly at state departments. They carry little black bags filled with cash and all the employee has to do is sign the warrant and take the money—less the one per cent.

One dealer in warrants constructed a small office building in the rear of the capitol to facilitate the business.

Employees are gratified at the happy turn of events but are wondering how long their good fortune will last, especially in view of the recent statement of the automatic tax board when it set the state tax rate. The general revenue fund deficit at the end of the next fiscal year was calculated at a few thousands short of $13,000,000.

Texas Is Given Soil Erosion Fund

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—Texas and Oklahoma dipped deeply today into a $27,500,000 fund allocated by President Roosevelt for soil erosion control.

H. H. Bennett, chief of the soil conservation service, announced $1,725,375, had been allocated to Texas for 10 new erosion control demonstration projects and continuation of three existing projects, while Oklahoma received $1,029,737 for seven new projects and continuation of two existing projects.

The 10 new Texas projects announced by Bennett, with the approval of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, will be located in Caldwell, Hays, Dallas, Titus, Nacogdoches, Erath, Tom Green and Coke, Oldham, Deaf Smith, Hartley and Sherman counties. Those to be continued are in Bell, McLennan, Milan, Smith and Dallam counties.

Six-Months-Old Infant Succumbs

The six-months-old infant of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Latham died Sunday night at their home on the Breckenridge highway in East Cisco.

The father of the child was ill in a veteran's hospital.

CLAIMS INFRINGEMENT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—The alphabetical new deal ran into a brand new snarl Sunday when one of its abbreviated institutions—the AAA—drew a protest from the American Automobile association. Thomas P. Henry, president of the Motorists' AAA, wrote a letter to Chairman Smith (Dem.) of South Carolina of the senate agricultural committee, urging that congress grant relief for infringement of its copyrighted insignia. He suggested that Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace's AAA be changed to ARE—agricultural readjustment administration.

STATE BANK LIQUIDATION IS ANNOUNCED

Liquidation of the Cisco State bank, with deposit: In the First National bank of an amount of cash equal to its deposits, was under way Monday.

Announcement of the transaction was made in the following statement:

"The Cisco State bank has deposited with First National bank in Cisco an amount in cash equal to its deposits and will liquidate its affairs. All of its depositors are requested to call at First National bank in Cisco at once and sign for the amount of their deposit when same will be credited to their account in First National bank in Cisco or the cash paid to them.

"All books, notes and accounts of The Cisco State bank are now located at First National bank in Cisco and all notes owing to The Cisco State bank will be collected by First National bank in Cisco.

"Mr. J. D. Lauderdale will be employed by First National bank in Cisco where he will be glad to meet and serve all of his old friends and customers of both banks."

Voluntary

The action was taken voluntarily by the Cisco State bank, owing to the desire of J. H. Reynolds, its president and principal owner of its stock, to withdraw from the banking field. Mr. Reynolds is an oil operator.

"I am not a banker," he said. "I did not think at the time the bank was organized, and I am convinced now, that there is not enough room for two banks in Cisco. Because of the present policies and activities of the government lending agencies, most of the collateral available to banks for loans is already mortgaged to the government, and banks have no business with second liens. Nine out of every ten farmers and ranchers owe money to the government.

"I think that the town will be better off with one strong bank than it would be with two sharing the field. I think the First National bank is thoroughly capable and able to take care of the needs of the community."

Very Liquid Condition

The Cisco State bank, President Alex Spears of the First National said, was in a very liquid condition. He expressed the First National's pleasure at the opportunity to cooperate with and serve the depositors of the liquidating institution. "We shall make a special effort," he said, "to serve them in every way possible."

The Cisco State bank was opened for business in the old Cisco banking Co. building on July 16, 1934. Officers were Mr. Reynolds; Guy Dabney, executive vice president; F. D. Wright, vice president; J. D. Lauderdale, cashier and Tom D. Stark, assistant cashier. L. L. Keough was director in addition to Mr. Reynolds, Mr. Dabney, Mr. Wright and Mr. Lauderdale. Miss Ester Hale was stenographer.

It was organized with a capital of $50,000 and surplus of $10,000. A statement of the condition of the Cisco State bank on August 3 was published today by Cashier Lauderdale. It appears in this issue of the Cisco Daily Press.

LEAF WORM INFESTATION IS SERIOUS

Leaf worm infestation has become severe enough to threaten destruction of the cotton crop, County Agent C. Metz Heald said this week after an investigation of condition in the county. The pest, he said, is easily controlled, however, the best method being to use calcium arsenate, otherwise known as arsenate of lime. It is the same material, he explained that is ordinarily used for the control of the boll weevil.

"Under ordinary conditions," Heald explained, "and where dusting machinery is available, it is applied in dry form. It should be applied in an even dust cloud. Five pounds per acre will ordinarily be sufficient, although in cotton of large growth it may be necessary to apply 10 pounds per acre. It should be applied preferably in the early morning while there is dew on the plant, although it is quite effective when applied in midday provided there is no wind.

"Those who are equipped with some kind of spraying machinery insist that it is more conveniently applied with water as a spray. If this method is preferred, the poison should be mixed with water in the proportion of three pounds to 50 gallons of water. The poison will quickly settle out of this mixture, and while application is being made, the mixture should be kept agitated so as to keep the poison suspended in the water. It should be applied in sufficient quantity merely to get a reasonably even covering of the mixture on the foliage.

"There has been complaint of a shortage of calcium arsenate. If this cannot be obtained, Paris green may be used. For dusting, this should be thoroughly mixed with some three to five parts of hydrated lime or cheap flour to one part of the poison and applied in the same quantity as the calcium arsenate or possibly a little more heavily. If it is to be sprayed use three parts of lime to one part of Paris green and mix so that there will be one and a half pounds of Paris green in 50 gallons of water.

"Mixtures of white arsenate and sal soda or lye are very apt to injure the foliage, and we do not recommend their use."

New Comm'r For Eastland Sworn In Tuesday Night

EASTLAND, Aug. 8.—C. T. Lucas, service station operator, was a new city commissioner for Eastland Wednesday.

He was elected, sworn in Tuesday night. Lucas won the commissionership over Donald Kinnaird, former mayor, in Tuesday's election to fill the vacancy created by resignation of O. F. Harvey, June 5. Lucas polled 372 votes to Kinnaird's 162.

Satterwhite. Commissioner Ben Pryor was absent.

The vote was under total for the April 2 election when approximately 700 ballots were cast.

"The vote has given me a greater understanding of my obligation towards Eastland and my duties," Mr. Lucas stated.

"I intend to be guided by a spirit of what is best for all during my tenure as city commissioner."

"Co-operation, suggestion and ideas extended to a city commissioner which make for the best interests of all are earnestly solicited," Mr. Lucas stated.
