What is the excitement at Harry Meyer's? I see such a crowd about his door?

Why, he has just received a carload of those excellent "Our Leader" cook stoves, and, by the way, he is also selling the "Charter Oak" and "Buck's Brilliant."

Yes, but I know they are too high for these hard times.

No, sir; it would surprise you. He is actually selling those fine stoves as cheap as I paid for a common worthless stove a short while back. You see he sells everything in the Hardware and Queensware line at the lowest prices.

AN ORIGINAL ESSAY.

At the meeting of the Thessalonian Society held at the residence of T. E. Powell, Jan. 5, 1894, the following resolution was passed by a unanimous vote of the society, to-wit:

RESOLVED, That the original essay read by J. H. Wood be furnished the editor of THE BAIRD STAR with a request to publish the same.

THOUGHTS.

Those who live in the present age can very easily comprehend the meaning of this word and see its results. Many persons are "gifted" in various ways and have used these gifts to bless those around them. But the persons who think live not only to bless those with whom they come in contact but for all ages. Thinking men and women have molded Society and brought it from its primitive condition to its present state. They stand out as "land-marks" to mark the world's progress back to the morning of Creation, and guide, direct and shape its course to the evening of dissolution.

They do not always reap the harvest they sow but those who come up after them will get the benefits of their labors and feel that the world is better for their having lived in it.

If you trace civilization back through the "fog and mists" of centuries you will find thinking men and women bearing it up at all points. You will also find that it has attained its highest degree of development in those countries where thought has been left the freest and has reached its lowest degree in those where it has been most hampered.

Thoughts, rightly applied, are to the world as the pebble is to the ocean, starting in motion a small wave, widening in concentric circles until it has set in motion the ocean of waters, so it is with thought. One suggestion may put a wise man to thinking on some important subject and result in the discovery of some great principle that has been true from the morning of creation, but which had never been demonstrated, while the world had reaped no more benefit from it than if it had been a false-hood.

One suggestion has often put a great brain in motion like the wheels of a clock and from these mental operations have been evolved some force in nature that had lain dormant since matter was created. When some great brain has lifted the curtain from this force and by its method of demonstration has shown the world that this force existed another brain, more practical than theoretical, has converted this force into machinery and chained for social, commercial, or scientific purposes. Thus by the united operation of these two kinds of "Brain work," science has built a temple so high, that ignorance and superstition will never be able to reach its lofty summit.

In this magnificent temple one department has been set apart for art. The outlines of nature have been so perfectly and beautifully traced that we stand gazing like the Sphinx, at something we can see but cannot understand. We can only wonder why if God gave us power to make it why He did not also give us power to breathe into it the breath of life that it might live. But this power he has reserved to himself, not to convince man of his own weakness, but to make him feel the great truth that there can be but one God.

In this temple these thinking men have also set out an apartment for music. This has been so thoroughly studied that every cord touching the human heart may be made to vibrate in a "sweet success" of words of joy to see Dr. Windham, who has been quite sick for some time. Dr. Windham is better and strong hopes are now entertained that he will soon be in his usual health.

in four minutes the French had driven the English from the field and the name of Napoleon still shone like a "glittering star" in the heavens.

The sound of martial music has gone with the soldier on the battle field to cheer him on, as he "bore his breast to the front," while his comrades were going up to God under the shadow of the same flag. Its sweet, gentle, soft, and melodious sounds has touched the heart of the christian as he felt life fast ebbing, sinking, fading, and going down, like the lingerings of the evening sun, to rise no more until the "morning of the resurrection." By its power, as he lay where the evening of life almost touched the morning of the resurrection, he has been enabled to see hope's great "throbbing star."

Music is woman's strongest power, but man has done a good part of the thinking. He has developed a system of music; placed it in her hands and helps her when he can. Music is to woman what oratory is to man. What has been said of music is true of oratory. As masters of this wonderful power the names of Cicero, Demosthenes, Burk, Pitt, Webster, Clay, Calhoun and Benton, stand out like some "grim peak," on an isolated mountain, to cast its shadow on all below. But before the names of these men came before the nations they represented they spent years thinking on the great questions that have immortalized their names.

It was thought that caused Benjamin Franklin to send up his kite and bring down a spark of electricity from a cloud in the midst of a thunder-storm. He had conceived that lightning and electricity were one and the same thing. He began to think how he could demonstrate the fact. Immediately after he had proved it, he invented the lightning rod and other things too numerous to mention—all the results of his thoughts. Prof. B. F. Morse put the "finishing touch" to these thoughts when he conceived and perfected the telegraph, by which we can send our thoughts across the continent with the rapidity of lightning. By the combined thought of these two men we can "draw down the uncontrolled lightning from the heavens and chain it for commercial purposes."

Later on the great mind of Eddison grasped the thought and invented the telephone, dentophone, electric lights, and many other wonderful inventions. He was talking in a tube, noticing the sound echoing back he began to think. The result was the discovery of the telephone.

It was a plain, unadorned American woman, the wife of Gen. Nathaniel Green, of Revolutionary fame, that caused the cotton gin to be invented. One lady remarked: "If a machine could be made that would pick cotton it would be a good thing." Mrs. Green replied, "we have a young man working here who can make anything. I will see him about it, if it can be made he will make it." She presented the matter to him; he began to think about it and the world has reaped millions of dollars as a result of Eli Whitney's thoughts.

The vibrating of a chandelier in a church once set a great man thinking; as a result he discovered the present system of measuring time; invented the clock and watch and enabled us to carry the time with us in our pockets.

The dropping of an apple is said to have set Sir Isaac Newton to thinking upon the law of gravitation, resulting in the discovery and demonstration of the great law that governs planets and binds together sun, stars, and worlds.

When the first railroad train came thundering, it has been "set on," pulled by an engine, a lady teacher, quivering, charge of an entertainment will be given by the Baird High School Friday night at the Court House. Admission 25 cents. Come out everybody.

power of thought. This power has converted nature's material into the complicated forms of machinery, and by one touch of the hand could start the great wheels in motion.

It is said to have taken Sir Isaac Newton two years of hard thinking to discover and develop the "binomial theorem" in algebra. But now any intelligent school boy can understand it in four lessons.

It has not been the thoughts of any one person in any one age, but the combined thoughts of many persons in all ages that has reared the temple of learning above ignorance and superstition and planted the banner of progressive intelligence and truth upon its loftiest summit.

Far up amid the beautiful mountains of the Alleghany, at the foot of the "grim peaks" that overlook the proud waves of the Atlantic, there arises a small but beautiful stream. Gushing from the hillside it mixes its waters with other streams until at it form the great Monongahela. The Monongahela flows on until it meets the Alleghany. Here they meet, mingle, kiss each other and form the Ohio. The Ohio flows on and meets the Cumberland and Tennessee and finally reaches the Mississippi. (the great father of waters,) it is then known as the Mississippi. This great river flows on receiving the waters of the Missouri, Arkansas, Red and other rivers too numerous to mention, whose history is about the same as those we have traced from the "snow-capped peaks" of the Alleghany. They all empty their waters into the Gulf of Mexico. Here it is mixed with the ocean. A part of it can very easily be traced to the very northern portions of Europe, imparting warmth to the cold regions of Norway and Sweden. So it is with the thoughts that have given form, strength and beauty to science.

Theaters society... world's... position than Mr. Dunson. He is a candidate on his merits, investigate for yourself.

of the great deep of popular prejudice and passion.

Wrongs, crystallized by custom and panoplied with privilege and power, often become hoary with age. Monstrous evils, tending to crush out thought, would exist for centuries but the patient, uncomplaining multitude would watch the stars and wait for deliverance.

The battle frowned in dark and sombre terror upon the populace of Paris while king and courtier, philosopher and patriot passed away. It seemed eternal, but at last it fell. Thought was made free and the nightmare of the ages ended. The thinking man today on land and sea beholds under the clouds that toss around the Northern Pole and in the fire of an equatorial sun, the deeds of thinking men and women written in characters of gold upon their country's history.

Remarkable Letter Sent by a Love-Lorn Dandy to His Adored One.

A letter written by an amorous negro of Memphis was picked up on the street recently and carried to the office of the Commercial. The paper suppresses the name of the love-struck swain, but prints the effusion in full, as follows:

This leaves me well, and my sincere desire is that I will find you the same. Dearest girl, it has been so long since I have heard from you until I have come to the conclusion that I am a fit subject for the asylum, and if I am unfortunate in hearing from this epistle my heart will be rent in tears and the entire intellect will be brought down to desolation.

Dearest girl, I was in your city some time ago to see you, but failed to find your domicile. For I went up and down your streets from the dawn of the first command of our creator which made its approach from behind the eastern summit of his handiwork.

After Delivering Three Thousand Pounds of Meat and Two Thousand Loaves of Bread to the Hungry Ones of Brooklyn the Divine Gives Some Good Advice

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Jan. 7, 1894.—It seemed appropriate that Dr. Talmage should preach this sermon after his personal contribution of 3,000 pounds of meat and 2,000 loaves of bread to the poor who gathered shivering in the cold around the bakery and meat store of Brooklyn.

Who said that? The Christ who never owned anything during his earthly stay. His cradle and his grave were borrowed. Every fig he ate was from some one else's tree.

The first reason we have always the poor with us, is because of the perpetual overhauling of the tariff question, or, as I shall call it, the tariff controversy. There is a need for such a word and so I take the responsibility of manufacturing it.

In the distribution of public pie, for one THE STAR is in favor of rewarding the fighters in the Democratic party in preference to mug-wumps and new converts.

President Cleveland's heroic effort to convert the Republican party by a liberal use of public pie may be alright but a vast majority of the Democratic party don't think so.

It is about time for the Democrats in congress to do something. If they do not improve their opportunities in the next few months the Republicans will certainly secure the lower branch of congress this fall.

W. B. Hornblower, whom the President has nominated for justice of the supreme court, it seems, is not to be permitted to blow his horn on the supreme bench. The senate refused to confirm his appointment.

The Dallas News calls every Democrat a ward heeler who does not believe in that glorious humbug civil service reform,—at least that is what one might infer from its criticism of the The St. Louis Republic in Tuesday's issue.

The battle is being fought and the Democratic cause is no longer a fair are badly organized, the rhetorical pyrotechnics of an earlier day, is now electioneering in a workroom. Congress is a business body, and most of its work is done in the committee room, where the flamboyant rhetorician is given but little toleration. A hint to the wise: The man who has his printing done away from home, then comes to this office hunting a "free puff" is "coming to a goat's house for wool."

Our readers must not infer from this, however, that the Times is published in a goat shed.

For the second time in thirty-six years the Democrats succeeded in electing a president. Many of them think, however, that they are little better off so far as "turning the rascals out" than they would have been had President Harrison been reelected.

Jacksonville, Fla., is considerably wrought up because Gov. Mitchell is trying to prevent the Corbett Mitchell prize fight. Every law abiding citizen in the United States will, or should at least, endorse Gov. Mitchell's effort to prevent the fight.

Look out for the blue cross this week. We do not want to lose a single subscriber, but circumstances compel us to reduce expenses, therefore all who are in arrears must pay up before next issue or give some assurance that they will do so by the end of this month or this is the last paper they will get.

The Democrats are not responsible for the panic, the hard times or the drouth, and many other sins charged up against them by the populist press, but still they have enough sins to answer for, goodness knows! The first rattle out of the box they knocked out silver, thanks to Mr. Cleveland and a part of the Republicans.

If there is any truth in the scriptures the christian who loaneth his money to a brother at an extortionate rate of interest has a mighty slim chance of passing through the pearly gates of the New Jerusalem in the sweet by and by.

The Republican and Populist press all over the country are howling themselves hoarse at the Democratic administration, charging it with the panic, the hard times, the deficiency in the treasury etc.

Referring to a paragraph in my last letter I am informed by high official authority that W. D. Jones was appointed in the last Commissioner's court as roadoverseer. Now the joke is that nobody in the district knows anything about it nor even he himself, and the first time he heard of his new dignity was when I hitched up this morning before daylight to investigate the matter, drove to his place and informed Mr. Jones.

Maj. Sam Cutbirth has returned from St. Louis and the Territory. The health of the community is not very good. The rapid changes of the weather tell even on strong constitutions.

A CORRECTION.

Our attention was called to the following paragraph in our Belle Plaine letter in last week's issue, in which the County Judge and Commissioners Court are charged with a dereliction of duty, which on investigation we find does the Court, and County Judge E. E. Solomon especially, an injustice.

Ples West had the boys out last Thursday and Friday for a road-working. I don't know whether a road-overseer is appointed for the Baird-Belle Plaine road, vice A. C. Davis, who has left the precinct, but I know that this road needs the immediate attention of the overseer.

After our attention had been called to the paragraph we called upon Judge Solomon, also County Clerk L. N. Jackson, and learned the following facts: Dan Jones was appointed road overseer in November, but by an oversight his commission was not issued, but this has been remedied and Mr. Jones will soon have, if he has not already received his commission.

Now in regard to the delay in appointing a Justice of the Peace. Judge Solomon and Mr. Jackson, the county clerk, both informed us that Mr. R. E. Merchant was appointed at last term of court but from some cause failed to qualify. Judge Solomon says further that he has personally solicited several other parties at Belle Plaine to accept the office without success, and he was naturally surprised to find himself criticised for neglect of official duty under the circumstances.

Our correspondent this week corrects the error he had committed, but remarks: "That the fact still remains standing that we are practically without a Justice of the Peace and Notary Public," which seems to rather infer that some one is to blame for the vacancy.

Tom Hadley was in town Wednesday for the first time in a long while.

Will Boydston left Tuesday for Rockwall Texas to visit his parents.

A good many beef cattle will be shipped to market from Baird early in February.

Charley Shelton is now ensconced in his new residence in the northern part of the city.

Iley McWhorter was in town Tuesday receiving a car load of feed for his cattle.

Sheriff J. W. Jones who has had a week or ten days tussle with the grippe is out again.

Oscar Jones was laid up three or four days last week with the common complaint, la grippe.

We notice John Flores on the streets a day or two this week. John still sticks to the cows.

The Willing Workers Society will meet at Judge B. H. Webb's residence Feb'y 1st at 3 o'clock p. m.

Do you find a blue X on you STAR this week. Read another article and see what it means.

Brown Seay is building an addition to his dwelling, and making other improvements on his place.

G. O. Cresswell, H. Windham, O. P. Jones and Ellis Richardson will ship some cattle to market today.

Baird Lodge No. 522 F. & A. M. meets tomorrow (Saturday) night. Work in F. C. degree.

This week you will find a decided change in Vaughn & Co's. Miller Bros. B. L. Boydston's and D. W. Wristen's ads. Read them.

B. L. Boydston and wife returned last Sunday from Scottsboro, Alabama where they spent the holidays with Mrs. Boydston's parents.

Deputy Sheriff Asbury carried Bart Pentecost to Brownwood last week under attachment as a witness in District Court.

Mrs. A. G. Webb was called to Trenton, Tenn. last week to attend her mother, who is lying at the point of death.

Dr. Wilson of Baird, accompanied by his wife and Mrs. Herman Schwartz and children, paid us a call on Tuesday—Cottonwood Prodigious.

Mr. F. S. Gage, member of the city council, went to Dallas Wednesday on business. THE STAR may have some additional news next week about the water works.

C. O. Morris one of Callahan County's largest Stockmen, passed through on the train last Tuesday on his way to Cleburne, to look after some cattle he is feeding there.

The Big Springs Pantagraph pays Jack Hoffman, of Baird, who recently played in the concert there, a neat compliment. The Pantagraph says, Jack's personification of "Simple Simon" was simply perfect.

Mr. Joe Lea and bride stopped over in Baird Tuesday and spent one day with relatives. They left Wednesday for San Francisco, where Joe will make his headquarters as state agent for the N. K. Fairbanks Co.

The ice is broken and W. W. Dunson fires the first gun of the campaign in the county by announcing for County Clerk. If one intends to run for an office the sooner better. The campaign will be on much earlier this year than usual. Candidates are as thick as hops in most of the eastern counties. If you intend to run, fire away and let your friends know it by announcing in THE STAR. The price for ten months is no more than for one week. The first name announced heads the list of candidates announced for that particular office both in the announcement columns and on the ticket. Get a move on you and jump aboard the band wagon; the music has begun.

Mr. N. F. Rudmose and Martin Barnhill have bought a lot between the Schwartz furniture store and the old Oliver meat market. Martin Barnhill has already built a shoe shop on the lot and Mr. Rudmose is building a house for a barber shop which he will move into as soon as completed.

Squire Hugh Moore, of Tecumseh, was in town this week. He reports everything flourishing out in his neighborhood. He says the people have but little cash, but they are going right ahead improving, taking in more land and preparing generally for the coming contest with Dame Nature for a good crop. THE STAR hopes they will all win for when people hustle in earnest they deserve to succeed whether they do or not.

R. A. Corbett was in town this week bragging on his Chester white hogs. He is delighted that THE STAR man's prediction made last year did not come true as to his breed of hogs. We are glad he had good success with them, our experience with this breed a few years ago was not all satisfactory: We made an experience with them as range hog and they proved a failure. Mr. Corbett's experiment was on a different line and he says they are a decided success and we are glad our prediction was not verified.

We call attention to W. W. Dunson's announcement for District and County Clerk in this issue. As some of our readers are not acquainted with Mr. Dunson we will state for information of the public that Mr. Dunson has resided in this county for about four years. He lived for a year or two near Putnam where he still owns a small farm. Something over a year ago he moved to Baird and accepted a position at the Depot here as Chief Clerk. Always courteous and attentive to business he has, of course, made many warm friends. Mr. Dunson is a native of Alabama, and moved to Cisco about ten years ago where he resided until he moved to this county. He is a fine business man and a splendid scribe, two things very essential for the position to which he applies. Mr. Dunson was never a candidate before for any public office so he informs us. He is retiring in his disposition, which is rather a draw back as a candidate, but no disqualification as an officer. We cheerfully recommend Mr. Dunson to the votes of Callahan County, as a man in every way worthy of their support, and should he be elected we feel sure the people will not regret it. There will no doubt be a number of good men before the people for the office of District and county Clerk, but we do not believe any will be better qualified for the position than Mr. Dunson. He is a candidate on his merits, investigate for yourself.

SHERIFF'S SALE--REAL ESTATE. By virtue of an Order of Sale, issued on the 11th day of January, A. D. 1894, out of the District Court of Callahan County, Texas, in cause No. 324, styled M. W. Shelly vs R. P. Arnold, I did on the 11th day of January, A. D. 1894 levy upon the following described real estate, situated, lying and being in the County of Callahan, State of Texas, about 15 miles south-west from the town of Baird, to-wit:

A strip containing 13 acres, about one square acre in width off of the west side of the north-west quarter of section No. 54 of the lands set apart for the benefit of the Lunatic Asylum—said strip of land extending across the entire west end of said quarter section and being fully described in deed of date January 7th, 1891, to defendant R. P. Arnold.

And I will on the 6th day of February, A. D. 1894, between the hours of ten o'clock in the forenoon and four o'clock in the afternoon offer the said land for sale for cash at and in front of the Court House door of Callahan County, Texas, in the town of Baird.

LOVABLE GIRLS.

Girls that are fair on the heart-throat, And pleasant when nobody sees. Kind and sweet to their own folk, Ready and anxious to please.

The girls that are wanted are wise girls, That know what to do and say. That drive with a smile or a soft word The wrath of the household away.

The girls that are wanted are girls of sense, Whom fashion can never deceive. Who can follow whatever is pretty, And dare what is silly to leave.

The girls that are wanted are careful girls, Who count what a thing will cost. Who use with prudent, generous hand But see that nothing is lost.

The girls that are wanted are girls with hearts, They are wanted for mothers and wives. Wanted to cradle in loving arms, The strongest and truest of lives.

The clever, the witty, the brilliant girl, There are very few, understand. But O! for the wise, loving, home girl, There's a constant and steady demand.

A Chapter on Correspondence. It is well known that the art of letter writing is an art by itself; that it is an index of the culture of the writer and carries his personality in more ways than one.

For the mere manner of the letter, every season brings us new fashions in note and letter paper. A high-class stationer mentions the Worcester, gray wove, and antique parchment as among some of the best in vogue at the moment.

Postal cards are to be employed for a business message or an inferior. In polite society their usefulness extends no further.

There is a distinction, too, in the matter of address, "Dear Mrs. Hopkins" showing a less degree of intimacy than "My Dear Mrs. Hopkins."

Princess Louise and the marquis of Lorne have purchased a villa at St. Catherine's on the shore of Loch Fyne, Scotland.

and so through "Sincerely," "Cordially," and "Faithfully" with and without the adverbs "most" and "very."

Punctilious persons, either men or women, never avail themselves of hotel or clubhouse paper in notes of ceremony.

Just how they began talking of compliments not one of them could have told. Probably it was when the Chatterbox told the Distressed Damsel that "some one" had said such a pretty thing about her.

"Which accounts for the compliment," muttered the Chatterbox to her work. But then the Chatterbox was cross. She had been cut short in her career of chatter.

"Oh," said Aunt Mary, impressively, "I thought it was you!" "So did I," replied the other, distinctly aggrieved.

Among the other bright ideas of an English duchess, she caused an Eolian harp to be slung up close to the front door of her London home.

Here is another and even more simple method. Take pieces of button-hole twist and thoroughly wax them; tie each end firmly to a peg and thrust the pegs down the crevices between the two sashes of your southern or western windows.

FARM AND HOUSEHOLD.

EASTERN LESSONS FOR WESTERN FARMERS.

Fertility of the Soil Must Be Preserved—Cream in the Kitchen—Cheapest Ration for Poultry—Notes for Beekeepers—Household Hints.

It was the boast of many early settlers of Kansas that the soil was so rich that manure was an actual injury to it.

In feed lots where large numbers of cattle and hogs are fattened, manure of the most valuable quality is produced.

One great source of waste occurs in nearly every town in the state from the hauling of manure from public and private stables to some common "dumping ground."

Justs the butter. But the lower the temperature until the freezing point is reached the better.

A few weeks ago the Rural New Yorker sent out the following list of questions to parties who have been feeding raw cut bone to fowls:

1. Do you still consider cut bone an economical food for poultry?

2. How do you feed it—mixed with other food or alone—and how much per 100 hens?

3. Have you ever tried steaming or cooking it after cutting?

4. Have you ever fed it to other animals besides poultry?

5. What do raw bones cost you, and is it possible to develop a trade for the sale of this product?

6. What do you consider the cheapest ration you can get up for your hens?

Several answers were received. All responded in the affirmative to the first question.

In reply to the fourth question only one answer in the affirmative. He feeds it to his pigs and says they do well on it.

In reply to the sixth question one man said that the cheapest food he has found for hens for the production of eggs is cut bone.

Notes for Beekeepers. Pine is much the best wood for bee hives.

Household Hints. If through any blunder in cleaning a fowl the gall or other entrails are burst the taint which affects the meat may be easily removed.

A warm foot bath, with an ounce of sea salt, is almost as restful as a nap.

WHAT THEY READ.

A Little Talk on Literature for the Little People.

"There is nothing too good for the children," is the rule of the kindergarten.

Without a thought we buy a motley array of books had in color, lacking purpose, and empty of interest when the novelty is worn off.

We cannot too young lead the child to the highest, and we should do it without prejudice; or, as some one has said, "with as few adjectives as possible."

Courtesy and friendship demand that a gift be preserved and cherished; therefore give books worthy of it, especially to a child.

Give all the worth and quality you can afford to give, and no more, and let the receiver feel that you have chosen with care and love.

What is the difference between kindergarten literature and other literature? It is simply this: Stories and verses ordinarily "dished up" to a child are of a quality which covers over the young impressionable mind with a haze of sentimentalism and weak purposes.

There are few books but are the better for being lovingly read in communion with mother and books prepared from the kindergarten point of view are deep enough, sweet enough, and true enough to engross the child as well as the young.

Wash Out Your Mouth.

A leading New York paper calls attention to an antiseptic treatment of the mouth as a preventive of disease.

Inquisitive physicians have found secreted in the folds of the mucous membrane of the mouth the microbes of pneumonia, measles, scarlet fever and diphtheria.

More than in any other part of the body, and to prevent their entering the system a germ-destroying dentifrice should be constantly employed, especially after eating.

M. Unna of Hamburg recommends finely powdered chlorate of potash as a more effective germicide than the many tooth powders and mouth washes sold by the druggists.

You can't tell by the blossoms which of the apples will be wormy.
