BAIRD PUBLIC SCHOOLS CLOSING EXERCISES TONIGHT

Final commencement events of the Baird public school will culminate tonight with the graduating exercises of high school in the high school auditorium. Dr. T. W. Brabham, president of McMurry College, Abilene will deliver the address following which diplomas and certificates will be awarded the following:

Nila Pearl Appleton, Loyce Bell, Madge Bennett, Dorothy Bryant, Ellen Nunnally, Inez Lambert, Tressie Dungan, Jaunita Farrar, Doris Ford, Mary Lillian Harville, John Faye Hayes, Ernestine Higgins, Marie Hughes, Oma Lou Jester, Wyoma King, Billie Mae Maltby, Theda Purvis, Elsie Marie Russell, Lorene Walker, Velmarce Watts, Muriel Young, Angie McBride, Bob Austin, Jiggs Black, A. J. Bruce, Buckie Coats, George Crutchfield, J. D. Gorman, Kenneth Lahm, Bill McCoy, Willie Oscar McWhorter, John Schaffrina, Selwyn Settle, Tommy Stanley, Thomas West.

The seniors annual class banquet will follow, the exercises being held in the American Cafe. The commencement sermon was delivered Sunday night by Rev. Willis P. Gerhart, rector of the Episcopal church, Abilene at the Methodist church, the subject of his sermon being "A Courageous Life."

On Wednesday evening Harold Wristen presented his pupils in recital at the high school Auditorium.

The grammar school graduation exercises were held last night with Dr. D. W. Arnette, teacher of science in Hardin-Simmons University, delivering the address followed by presentation of diplomas and certificates by H. W. Smith, principal to forty-three seventh graduates. The seventh grade graduates were given a banquet at the Luncheon Club room which was served by the Quality Cafe.

Saturday morning at the Methodist church the Rural Seventh Grade graduation exercises will be held. Hon. Gerald Mann will deliver the address and B. C. Chrisman county superintendent will present diplomas to a class of fifty graduates.

T. & P. Cafe Being Remodeled

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Stanley are making considerable improvements on the T-P Cafe which includes the building of an open air lunch room on the north.

This being built with a five foot of native stone, stone columns on which will rest a canopy top with the space above top with the space above the wall screened.

They will also install all new booths, counters and floor coverings in the main dining room.

To Set Date For Pioneer Reunion

A meeting of all officers and committees of the Callahan County Pioneer Association will be held at the courthouse in county court room at 2:30 p. m. Saturday June 4th to set a date and make plans for the third annual reunion. All citizens interested are cordially invited and urged to attend this meeting.

J. S. Hart, Pres.
Eliza Gilliland, Sec.

WEDNESDAY CLUB

The Wednesday Club will conclude their year's work with a friendship luncheon on Saturday May 28th in the home of Mrs. B. L. Russell, Jr.

Mrs. Hickman will review "Orchids on your Budget", by Marjorie Hillis; Mrs. Brightwell will play "Minuet" by Paderewski; "Poems on Friendship" will be read by Mrs. Hargis. Reports of officers are to be given.

Beauty Contest Winner

Miss Earnestine Higgins (yah, yah, we predicted it all along) won the Home Economics beauty contest last Thursday in the affair sponsored by the Home Economics department. Earnestine's name will be engraved on a loving cup and the cup will be placed in the Home Economics room, and the names of contest winners in years to come will be added in rotation. Miss Higgins was selected out of twenty seven lovely contestants, each sponsored by town merchants. Judges for the contest were Mr. G. Scoggins and Mrs. Sophie Berman from Abilene.

Included in the program was an accordion duet by Gusolyn Hall and Charlyte Gilliland, and the presentation of Jo Ruth Arvin, winner of the evening dress contest at the Home Making Rally. This part was especially effective. Jo Ruth, looking her loveliest (in the dress she won with) stood in an old fashioned gold picture frame, then while Iva Dell Mitchell sang "Alice Blue Gown", she stepped from the frame, displayed her dress and resumed her position, giving a very good effect of a charming picture that came to life for a few brief moments.

Walker-Walker Marriage

Wilburn Walker and Miss Ava Walker both of Cross Plains were united in marriage at the Methodist church of Cross Plains Saturday evening May 14 at six o'clock with Rev. Floyd Thrash, pastor, solemnizing the single ring ceremony. Only witnesses were, Miss Elizabeth Tyson, Miss Rosa Van Lane and Leo Baum.

The couple left shortly after the ceremony for a short bridal tour, returning to the Cutbirth ranch Sunday night where the groom is employed, to make their home.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Walker well known Cross Plains residents.

She is a graduate of Cross Plains High School, having finished with the Class of 1928. The groom is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Walker, who live 12 miles west of Cross Plains.

To Select Postoffice Quarters

A. S. Page, of Dallas, Inspector in charge of postoffice quarters spent Tuesday and Wednesday in Baird receiving bids and inspecting quarters submitted for housing the Baird postoffice. This was necessary due to the fact that the lease on the present building will expire on August first. Buildings submitted as quarters were the present location, the Vaughn building, the Nitschke building the Foy and Hadley buildings. The local postmaster has no say as to selection of the postoffice quarters this discussion resting solely with the Federal Postoffice Department.

It will probably be two weeks or more before a decision will be made.

PTA Install Officers

The Baird PTA held its last meeting of the term May 12, 1938 at 3:30 p. m. in the history room of the high school.

The following officers were installed by Mrs. C. W. Coats:

Mrs. Earl Johnson, 1st Vice-president; Mrs. Joe Alexander, 2nd Vice-president, Mrs. W. B. Jones, 3rd Vice-president; Treasurer—Mrs. Hickman; Reporter—Viola Boatwright, Secretary—Miss Isadore Grimes; Chairman of room mothers—Mrs. W. A. Fetterley.

Mrs. Johnson took an active part in the installation in the absence of Mrs. Finley, the nominee for president.

Mrs. Hickman, Mrs. Coats and Mrs. Williams were appointed to plan for a summer "round-up", and plans were made for a study course.

These actions seem to indicate that the PTA will continue to keep busy through the summer.

FIRST GRADE SCHOOL NEWS

School will be out Thursday noon. But we will go back Friday for our report cards.

I sure do like to go to school. This was my first year in school. I had a good teacher this year. I will have a good one next year. This is my last piece for this year, so goodbye.

Billy Fred Hart

Ray Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Collins was carried to Griggs hospital Wednesday for treatment of a broken arm. The child was hurt in play at school. The bone was broken twice below the elbow but reports are that he is doing nicely.

Robert S. Burks Weds F. F. A. Elects Miss Dolores Morris Beauties Of Levelland

The marriage of Miss Dolores Morris and Robert S. Burks was solemnized in the home of the groom's mother, Mrs. A. J. Burks of Rowden, at high noon, on Saturday, May 14, 1938. The Rev. Joe R. Mayes, of Baird officiated with a ring ceremony.

The bride wore a blue crepe dress with rhinestone-trimmed bolero, and contrasting broad-brimmed hat and accessories to match. The beautiful corsage of pink rosebuds that she wore was a gift from the groom.

Mrs. Burks is an only daughter of Mrs. Florence Morris of Levelland, Texas. She has received her education at Levelland, Texas, and Texas Technological College, at Lubbock Texas. She has been teaching music in the public schools of McAdoo, in Dickens county the past year and has been re-elected to that position.

Mr. Burks is a member of a pioneer family of Callahan County. His youth was spent near Cross Plains, and Rowden, and his friends in this neighborhood tender their good wishes to the young couple. For the past few years Mr. Burks has been engaged in farming and ginning in Dickens County.

After the ceremony a dinner members of the family: Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Burks, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Burks and children, Charlie, Carroll, Joe Wayne and Baby Lorene, Mary Frances Wills, Abilene, Miss Elizabeth Burks, Cross Plains; Mrs. A. J. Burks, Parry Lee Burks, Girard; and Mrs. J. Q. Morrison and son Theodore of Baird.

The bridal party left Sunday afternoon for a honeymoon trip to West Texas, after which they will be at home near McAdoo.

Clyde Women Dies After Short Illness

Mrs. Gussie Smith, 80 years of age, died at her home in Clyde at 3:20 Thursday morning, May 19th following an illness of three days.

Mrs. Smith was born at Dangerfield, Texas, December 24, 1858. Later her parents moved to Paris, Texas where she lived until 1890, moving at that time to Grayson county. In 1934 she moved to Sweetwater and to Clyde in 1937.

She was married to J. D. Smith at Paris, Texas, in 1875, who died in 1926.

She was a member of the Methodist church since childhood.

Funeral services were held at the home in Clyde Friday morning at ten o'clock with pastor A. F. Click officiating assisted by Dr. J. T. Griswold.

Pallbearers were John Harris M. M. Woodward, John W. Robbins, J. A. Reed, Kenneth Dunlap, R. M. Pyatt.

Patterson Funeral Home had charge of arrangements.

Cattle Shipments

R. D. and Louis Williams of Putnam shipped five car loads of steers to the Iowanna Cattle Co. of Maquoketo, Iowa Tuesday.

Larmer Henry has shipped four cars of two year old steers to Dick Floyd at Warrenton Va. the past week. He also shipped a polo pony with the cattle. Henry also bought two car loads of mixed cattle from Ace Hickman.

Cattle shipments which have been quite heavy from Baird is light for this week.

Mr. and Mrs. T. T. O'Brian and small sons Keith and Dickey, are in town this week visiting Mrs. O'Brian's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bell.

In a special called meeting last Friday evening the F. F. A. boys of Baird High school thought they needed to add a feminine touch to their chapter so it was introduced and heartily accepted. After a thorough discussion they sought to elect a queen, favorite and a sweetheart from the senior, junior and sophomore classes. They in turn elected Jo Ruth Arvin as the queen, Marion Dyer as the favorite, and Betty McCoy as the sweetheart; they also elected Mrs. E. E. Jones as co-president.

In the latter part of the meeting they decided on a picnic to be held Thursday May 26th at deep creek. The girls elected are to be the honored guests.

The F. F. A. chapter and Vocational agriculture work is a new thing in Baird public schools. This is the first year the course has been given. The boys under their splendid advisor, Mr. E. E. Jones, have done excellent work this year and expect to progress more and more next year.

Election On Hospital To Be Held June 17

The election on the county hospital will be held on Friday June 17th the extension of ten days being necessary due to the delay in receiving necessary forms for publication of the notice.

A telegram from the attorney general's department yesterday gave an okay to the procedure.

In the meantime Dr. Ray Cockerell, president of the Callahan County Luncheon Club, will select a committee to proceed with a publicity campaign. The hospital is to cost around $35,000, the city of Baird to spend approximately $6,000 in its equipment, and the rest to be secured through a WPA loan.

Hugh Ross And Ann Cooper To Wed In June

Hugh Ross, permanent ranchman of Baird and Miss Ann Catherine Cooper, of Abilene will be married June 18th.

The announcement being made a few days ago by Mrs. O. T. Cooper, mother of the bride to be.

The marriage will unite two families whose paths have crossed over a long period of years, to form a rich friendship. They are families that have been leaders in east and northeast Texas Methodist circles. When Mrs. Cooper, then a very young girl moved with her family to Texas in 1896, they went into the Methodist church of Cleburne of which young Mr. Ross' grandfather, Dr. H. A. Bourland, was pastor.

The friendship grew in later years when the late Dr. O. T. Cooper was pastor of leading churches of north Texas towns (and later presiding elder of both the Sherman and Dallas districts) and Dr. Bourland was pastor of the First Methodist church at Dallas.

Both Miss Cooper and Mr. Ross are graduates of Southern Methodist university, where she was a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority and he held membership in Kappa Sigma social fraternity. Graduating from the school in 1934, Miss Cooper has taught for two years at Robstown and two years at Fair Park in Abilene.

Raymond Young of Clyde was a pleasant caller at The Star office Wednesday. Mr. Young is a candidate for district clerk. He is a young man 23 years of age, worked his way through ACC Abilene where he received his B. S. degree. Mr. Young is a cripple being a victim of infantile paralysis when an infant, and goes about on crutches. He says he has visited every section of the county and hopes to meet all voters before the July primary. He is a son of Ray Young, the local yards Monday, evening.

W T U C WILL CONDUCT TWO DAY COOKING SCHOOL

F. F. A. Newspaper Established

Last Friday night the members of the F. F. A. chapter of Baird voted to publish a farm newspaper. Their goal is to put out over 750 copies monthly while the paper is to include detailed F. F. A. chapter and 4-H club work, with local farm news and free ads from the farmers.

The officers were elected and will go into effect at the beginning of school for 1938-39. They are: Editor—Sterling Reynolds. Business Mgr.—Fenton Williams. Assistant Bus. Mgr.—Gene Finley. Art Editor—Troy Robinson. Distribution Committee—Hub Warren, Ben Russell, Gene Finley. Reporters—Charles Coats, L. W. McIntosh, Aubrey Ground. Advisor—E. E. Jones.

Health Work To Be Sponsored By PTA

This fall about fifty children will enter Baird School as beginners.

The Parent-Teachers association is making an effort to help each of these children enter school in as good physical condition as possible. Arrangements are being made to give each of these children an examination, free of cost, which will include eye, ear and teeth also the skin test for tuberculosis will be given those wishing it.

A committee from the Parent-Teacher group is making an effort to see the parents of these children. If you are not called on, please bring your child to Methodist church basement Friday June 3 between 2 and 4 o'clock.

The County Health Officer, Dr. Hamlett will give the Typhoid inoculation and the Diphtheria toxoid to all these children whose parents wish them to have it, on the same date at the Clinic held in the Methodist Church basement Friday June 3, from 2 to 4 o'clock.

On Baird Campuses

This is the last Campus Caper you'll read for this year and all because school closes today. The doors will be locked for the summer months and heads that have puzzled over the three r's all winter will be turned to the all important matters of fish bait and marble games.

The commencement exercises, last and most important of all school ceremonies, will be held to-night at eight o'clock with Rev. Brabham of McMurry making the address. Senior class banquet will be held immediately afterward in the American Cafe.

And by the way, the seniors celebrated Kid Day with an all day outing at Buffalo Gap Wednesday.

The rural school 7th grade graduation exercises will be held tomorrow morning at the Methodist Church and Mr. B. C. Chrisman, County superintendent, wishes to take this means of thanking Manager Pawkett of the Plaza theater for the courtesy he is extending the eighty five rural graduates in inviting them to attend the Matinee Saturday.

And before closing the books, we wish to thank Mr. Smith, Miss Pierce, Miss Ward, Miss Buster and the grammar school teaching staff for its splendid cooperation in making this column possible, also Mr. Williams, Miss Lowrie, Miss Price, Miss Willard, Mr. Leach, and the High School force who are also responsible for many articles printed. It's been fine with you, and we are looking forward to an even better season next semester.

L. Schnabel, freight claim agent of T and P gave a lecture on claim prevention to several score railroadmen in a parked car in the local yards Monday, evening.

The greater ease, comfort and convenience of electric cookery will be demonstrated for Baird women here next Tuesday and Wednesday when a two-day cooking school will be conducted by Miss Bonnie Duke, Chicago Cooking expert, under the auspices of the West Texas Utilities Company.

"I'm specially anxious for every woman in Baird to see the advantages of the new electric ranges," Miss Duke declared. "They are by far the coolest, cleanest and most economical method of cooking ever devised. Low electric rates in Baird make them a money-saving asset to just average homes."

Both men and women were invited to attend the demonstrations, regardless of the type of cookery now used, according to C. F. Elliott, local manager for the service company.

"Several complete menus for entire day of cooking will be prepared," Mr. Elliott said. "Recipes will be distributed free of charge."

He called attention to a two and one half cent electric rate in Baird for all current over 50 Kwh used for cooking purposes. The same low rate, he said, applies to all current used for lights and refrigeration over the 50 Kwh minimum.

"Savings on current and savings on food shrinkage combine to make electric cookery a matter of economy in most households," Miss Duke added. "But more important is the speed and coolness of the electric range in summertime when women detest hot kitchens and the lengthy time required to prepare meals. Such drudgery no longer is necessary."

The school will be held in the basement of the Methodist church at 2:30 p. m.

The electric refrigerator and other modern "electric servants" will be demonstrated in addition to the Hotpoint electric range.

Little Onion Sandwich Shop In New Home

The Little Onion Sandwich shop owned and operated by G. M. King and son Percy King opened yesterday morning for business in their new home first door north of The Star office. Everything is new, large roomy booths, new counters, comfortable seats every convenience for both ladies and gentlemen. All furnishing and equipment throughout is the most modern type. The building will be cooled with washed air, this system to be installed within a few days.

The shop is under the direct supervision of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. King and son Percy with an able corps of assistants who are ever mindful of the comforts of their patrons.

Abilene Women To Speak Here

Mrs. Morgan Jones, of Abilene who is quite a noted lecturer will speak to the Federated Church Societies at the Presbyterian church Monday, May 30, at 3:00 p. m.

Mrs. Jones spent all last summer in Palestine and will speak on her impression of the trip. Her lecture will be a rare treat to those who hear it, and all the women of the town are invited and urged to attend the meeting.

HOLIDAY NOTICE

The First National Bank of Baird will observe Monday, May 30, 1938, and Friday, June 3, as Holidays and will not be open on those dates.

W. H. Green is able to be out following serious injury to his leg while working in the oil fields at Mentone.

'Cookies' Awaken Bright Memories

Expert Gives Some Tips and Favorite Recipes

By EDITH M. BARBER

COOKIES! What a nice word that is. It has such a homey sound. It brings back pleasant memories of childhood whether the cookies came out of that ever replenished jar or out of the grocer's boxes. I wonder how that name came to be given to those sweet morsels, which, although they may differ so much in texture and in flavor have certain common characteristics.

The process of mixing cookies is simple and easy. Care must be taken in regard to the measurement of the flour, as toughness will result if too much is used. If the dough seems too soft to roll, chilling in the refrigerator will usually make it easy to handle. This is true whether the cookies are to be rolled or packed in a pan to be sliced after chilling.

Drop cookies are of several types. They may be thick like rocks, for instance, of moderate thickness, like some other fruit cookies and soft ginger cookies, or they may be waferlike. For the latter type it is a rather good idea to try one in the oven before the baking sheet is filled, in order to be sure that there will not be too much spreading. When I was a little girl the tryer, as we called it, was always the best cookie in the batch. In our household it was necessary to make three tryers to satisfy the interested audience.

Baking temperatures are important. A moderate or hot oven usually gives the best results, excepting in the case of those cookies which are made from a basis of egg whites. In this case a slow oven is essential. If you make cookies often you will find that baking sheets which fit your oven will save time. It is the baking, not the mixing, which uses up time.

Sugar Cookies.

- 1/4 cup shortening
 - 2 cups sugar
 - 1/2 cup milk
 - 2 eggs well beaten
 - Grated rind of one lemon
 - 1/4 teaspoon grated nutmeg
 - 4 cups self-rising cake flour
- Cream shortening, add sugar and cream until light and fluffy. Add milk to beaten eggs, mix well and stir in first mixture. Add lemon rind. Sift nutmeg with flour and then stir into first mixture. Roll out thin on floured board. Cut with a cookie cutter. Bake about 12 minutes in a moderate oven, 350 degrees Fahrenheit.

New Deal Cookies.

- 1 1/2 cups flour
 - 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - 3 tablespoons shortening
 - 1/2 cup sugar
 - 1 egg
 - 1 teaspoon vanilla
 - 1 tablespoon milk
- Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Cream shortening and add sugar gradually, creaming until light and fluffy. Stir in well-beaten egg. Add vanilla and milk and mix well. Stir in dry ingredients. Chill. Roll on floured board very thin and cut with cookie cutter. Arrange on greased cookie sheet and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees Fahrenheit.

Sugar Cookies.

- 1 cup butter
 - 1/2 cup sugar
 - 1 egg
 - 2 tablespoons milk
 - 1 teaspoon vanilla
 - 3 cups flour
 - 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- Cream butter, add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Stir in well-beaten egg. Add vanilla and milk and mix well. Stir in flour which has been mixed and sifted with baking powder. Chill. Roll on floured board to one-eighth inch thickness and cut into fancy shapes. Arrange on greased cookie sheet and bake about 15 minutes in a hot oven, 400 degrees Fahrenheit.

Macaroon Cookies.

- 2 egg whites
 - 1/2 cup sugar
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - 1 cup ground almond or Brazil nuts
- Beat the egg whites until foamy, but not stiff. Stir in the sugar and salt, then the ground nuts, and drop by teaspoonfuls on a baking sheet. Bake 12 to 15 minutes in a moderate oven, 375 degrees Fahrenheit.

Nut Wafers.

- 2 tablespoons butter
 - 1 1/2 cups brown sugar
 - 1 egg
 - 1/4 cup flour
 - 1 1/2 cups chopped nuts
 - 2 tablespoons water
- Cream butter with sugar. Stir in well beaten egg. Stir in flour and nuts. Add water, mix well and drop by teaspoonfuls two inches apart on a baking sheet greased with unsalted fat. Bake in a moderate oven, 325 degrees Fahrenheit, seven to ten minutes. Remove from the oven, cool one minute before taking from the pan.

A Modern Kitchen

Powder-blue walls of a modern kitchen frame a door that is painted soft red. Red cushions for the breakfast table seats match the red cupboard linings. A dark blue floor is divided from the walls by a white band at its edge and a deep blue baseboard. The dainty curtains at the triple windows show a touch of red.

Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS

WHAT a lady and a can of paint, between them, can't accomplish is nobody's business. Right now we're interested in Helen W's plans for her bedroom. Because her own ingenuity with paint is going to be the main expenditure on the room, but we're betting that it's going to have plenty of charm when it's finished.

It's a small farm-house room, just repapered in a yellow-flowered paper on a white ground. The ceiling has yellow paper with tiny white dots. The bed is old fashioned, a Jenny Lind type, painted ivory and the dresser is old and oak. The old washstand she's planning to use as a dressing table, taking off the heart-shaped piece across the top. The bedspread is a lovely quilt in pastel colors and the curtains are cream, draped and tied back.

But what she's really worried about is the paint to choose for the floor, woodwork and furniture and the material for the dressing table skirt.

We suggested that she paint the floor a soft gray, then have the dresser and bed painted the yellow of the ceiling. The woodwork we'd prefer in the ground white of the wall paper. The dressing table skirt would be nicest in yellow organdy or yellow dotted swiss, but must you take off the heart shaped frame at the top? It sounds quaint and delightful. Maybe you could use it as a frame for a mirror.

Another reader with a paint problem has a wood bed and an old dresser to be used in an attic room. The room is to be repapered, and woodwork and floor will be repainted. What colors? What paper? What should be done about the furniture?

Why not gray paper with a small all-over pattern of pink flowers and ribbons, something that can go over ceiling as well as side wall. Then for woodwork the gray of the paper and for the furniture the lightest pink in the floral. The floor we'd paint black, the bedspread and curtains we'd like in plain pink voile or dimity made with six-inch ruffles.

Nerve!

"It took as much courage as when I cut my hair," drawled Prissy Kent when we had exclaimed properly over her living room.

We could imagine that it had taken plenty of nerve. Because she'd used two marvelous paisley shawls for draperies at her windows. They were perfect in the room but imagine cutting them up!

"Well, I've kept them in moth balls for years, thinking they were too good to use," Prissy explained. "Then I decided that I might as well get some pleasure out of them. So there they are!"

Why not, indeed? We'd probably have felt the same way. She's just had their house done over, with knotty pine walls in the living room. Their maple furniture was pleasantly livable here, with its mellow tones and unassuming heartiness. Wide built-in book shelves with book bindings that made a medley of deep glowing colors patterned one wall. Opposite the two windows seem to need just the tones of a paisley shawl.

"At first, I thought I'd get a paisley print," said Prissy, "but the two real paisleys kept tempting me and making the prints look like nothing by comparison. So finally I just up and slashed right into them. Each shawl made a pair of draperies. I backed them with a strong rep made to extend enough at the top to fasten the rings to, so there wouldn't be strain on the shawls. Then I lined and weighted them and there you are."

Certainly they were perfect there. An old blue sofa and a pair of chairs in figured linen on a dull red ground were set off by the pine color of the rug. Blue pottery supplied accessory accents.

STREET SCENES IN BERLIN

Unter den Linden All Dressed Up.

Interesting Sights for the Visitor in the Handsome Capital of Germany

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

DESPITE the rapid pace of politics in Berlin today, pedestrians on the streets of the German capital are conspicuously unhurried.

Motor traffic, on the other hand, is unusually rapid. The drivers of the 620 omnibuses hurl their two-storied leviathans from stop to stop in lurching bursts of speed; the air brakes hiss with splenic suddenness.

The comparatively small number of motor vehicles in Berlin helps explain the village-like appearance of most streets. Counting private cars, trucks, and motorcycles, registrations for 1936 showed only a few more than forty thousand.

The traffic flow has a heartbeat of 30 seconds—half a minute of red light, an orange flash of warning of change, followed by half a minute of green. To one accustomed to the longer intervals of most American cities, it seems at first a little hysterical in its frequency of interruption.

Upon arrival one is petrified to see autos passing stopped streetcars. The law, however, permits such passing, with the injunction that it be performed with extreme care.

Look Out for the Cyclists.

The large number of bicycles on Berlin streets creates an additional hazard for the motorist, especially as the riders seem endowed with a sublime faith that the vagaries of their delicate vehicles will be unfailingly observed by truck and car behind. Yet, with it all, casualty statistics are not high. The city's fatalities from traffic accidents totaled 358 for 1935.

The traffic lights halt squads of cyclists: girls in unbecoming but practical divided skirts; delivery boys carrying bundles bigger than themselves; tenders of street lights pedaling precariously from lamp to lamp with eight-foot ladders strapped to their shoulders.

The Berlin resident receives four deliveries of mail a day on weekdays and one on Sunday for good measure.

Five thousand postboxes announce their presence on street corners with a lustrous surface of red—that shade which someone has described as "the color of audacity." Until within the last year they were a sober blue, but the color experts announced that they lacked visibility.

Special delivery obtains, but for those who desire extra-rapid service there is the fast-functioning pneumatic-tube system, reaching every section of the town. This is a convenience to the businessman and an undoubted blessing to exigent lovers.

Any list of the city's skyscrapers should include the new home of the Karstadt department store.

Columbus haus on Potsdamer platz and the handsome white building of the Shell Oil company, which rises from the verdant bank of the Spree in mid-city, are other contenders for dizzy honors, and neither exceeds ten stories.

Berlin is not suffering from lack of educational institutions, with its 13 universities, colleges, and higher technical centers, 147 high schools, and 603 grade schools.

University Once a Palace. Berlin (Frederick William) university, center of educational life, fronts on Unter den Linden across from the State Opera house. Such a dignified atmosphere of scholarship pervades the lovely gray building and its linden-shaded court that no one would suspect it was originally built as a palace for Prince Henry by his brother, Frederick the Great.

In the neighborhood of the university are several restaurants where one hears more English spoken than German. The guests are principally exchange professors from American colleges who come to Berlin for research.

The Schwarzes Ferkel (Black Pig) is popular with the teaching fraternity and is the locale for all meetings of the Berlin Harvard club. Tonndorf is another spot where the pedagogues exchange shoptalk over their veal cutlet and beer.

Modernism is not aggressively present today in painting and sculpture. The windows of the moderate-price art shops are filled with decorative prints and paintings designed largely to please the conventional taste. Scenes portraying fecund grainfields, mountain peaks piercing the upper ether, animal pictures, flower studies, predominate.

Only a few doors from the American consulate in Bellevue-Strasse, street of the better art dealers, there has recently been opened an exhibition of the latest styles in modern furniture. Designs compare favorably with similar showings in other European countries. Ingenious use is being made of materials hitherto unknown to furniture making.

"Has anyone ever regretted the demise of a statistician?" once wrote a disgruntled epigrammatist. Comprehensible point of view! But there are exceptions.

What Berlin Eats and Drinks.

At the head office of the city's bureau of statistics you find the chief a person of considerable humor. Surrounded by diagrams and graphs, he can feed you with such factual morsels as the following:

Seven hundred and twenty thousand loaves of bread go each day to Berlin homes; 11,000 tons of coffee made from malt are drunk each year and only two-thirds as much real coffee; some 50,000,000 people annually visit Berlin's 400 movie-houses; meat consumption is on the down-grade, having dropped in one year from 157 to 127 pounds per person; beer consumption has shrunk 40 per cent in the last eight years, a fact of much significance as foreshadowing the physique of the future Berliner.

Apropos of beer, it is interesting to discover that Munich, now the nation's beer capital, originally was the center of a wine country and learned the brewing art from northern Germany.

Now, however, the youth of Germany, striving for physical efficiency, scorn anything but the most moderate beer drinking. They predict that paunchy waistlines and bulging necks will be unknown to the next generation.

A characteristic sight as one explores the various sections of Berlin is the sport fields with children or young people going through setting-up exercises. With magnificent gusto they bend and twist, flexing muscles in unison with the rhythmic counting of physical instructors. There are 236 of these fields scattered about the city, and, in addition, 660 indoor gymnasiums.

Every German boy, regardless of social position, must, between seventeen and twenty-five years of age, give six months of labor service to the state. There are 1,200 camps throughout Germany, with 166 workers to a camp.

Irrigation of dry lands and swamp drainage are the exclusive tasks of these labor camps—no road making or other form of construction which could compete with paid labor.

Girls Volunteer for Work.

Service from the girls of Germany is not obligatory. However, it is the vogue to volunteer for such tasks as assisting workers in the fields or in the homes, caring for children, or substituting for an office or factory worker so that person can take a vacation without pay.

Stores are bedecked with announcements of autumn sales; windrows teem with merchandise, including conservative copies of Paris models to sell to women with small incomes.

Most of the people on Berlin streets are well dressed, if that term can be interpreted to mean the wearing of good and comfortable clothes.

Men's furnishing stores exhibit weird arrays of caricatured dummies, attenuated and globular, clad in coats as square-built as a New England woodshed. The salesman explains that this rectangular effect is the "American shoulder."

Beauty parlors flourish, a bewildering assortment of jars set forth in their windows. A few of the better-known American cosmetic lines are to be found.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy has been an effective social and political ally of both her father, former mayor of Boston, and her husband, ambassador to the Court of St. James. But the news that, in accordance with her husband's decision, she presented only seven American women at court is one of her rare appearances in the headlines.

The 11 engaging Kennedys have been viewed more or less en bloc in the news and Mrs. Kennedy has never been in a very sharp lens focus.

She was one of the prettiest of Boston debutantes, 30 years ago, a rollicking girl with black hair and eyes of Irish blue. Back home from her convent training, she taught her father "Sweet Adeline."

He was John F. (Honey Fitz) Fitzgerald, and in his campaigns he sang his way to memorable political fame—riding like a surfboard the long, lingering "swipes" of the song taught him by his daughter—"the flower of his heart."

Joseph P. Kennedy, her childhood playmate, was twenty-five years old when they were married in 1914.

Fortune and Family Grew Up Together He borrowed $2,000 for a down payment on a $6,500 house. Their fortunes grew as their family, with Mr. Kennedy president of a bank, in a year or two after their marriage.

Mrs. Kennedy once told a Boston drygoods clerk that she bought 200 suits and dresses a year. It takes a heap of shopping to make a home, like the Kennedys', and she became known among her friends as a paragon of household efficiency comparable to the one in Solomon's off-hand apostrophe to such skills and virtues.

Now she is mistress of the "castle" which was once J. Pierpont Morgan's home; also of a beautiful mansion in Bronxville, N. Y., a huge summer estate at Hyannisport, Cape Cod, and a villa at Palm Beach, built by one of the Wanamakers.

She is slender and girlish, comely and vivacious, weighs 115 pounds and takes size 14

Has Diamond a Potentate Might Envy net makes her gowns and she is envied by other women for her magnificent jewels—noteable among them being a ruby and diamond bracelet which, it is said, is matched only by the one the Aga Khan gave his princess.

But she never lets the children run to unseemly display, holding them to restraint in regime and dress. Even without all these adventitious fixings, say her friends, she would be an admirable ambassador's wife, with her own quite adequate equipment of tact, charm and intelligence.

MAN and boy, this journeyman has helped process a lot of explorers' and adventurers' copy through the news mill. If it was ghost-written, it had only slick and synthetic excitement, like Ersatz pastry, and if it wasn't it was usually dull. Happily in contrast are the doubtlessly authentic and personally written yarns of W. H. Tilman, leader of the British Mount Everest expedition, now getting under way.

These stories from the Tibetan base camp have a professional ease and fluency, along with a ring of integrity which gives assurance that Mr. Tilman is really writing them. There is no ghost on the job here.

Yarns From Mt. Everest Ring True Mr. Tilman is thirty-nine years old, a keen-faced, hard-muscled Britisher of medium stature, who has been exploring ever since he left college.

He has climbed mountains in the Alps and in Africa, including Mounts Kenya, Kilimanjaro and Ruvenzori. This is his fifth expedition to the Himalayas. The entrants in this high hurdle event are not youngsters. N. E. Odell is forty-seven, F. S. Smythe is thirty-seven and the others are all over thirty.

Rats Drink Ink at Night

Rats have been drinking black ink at night in the Swellendam, South Africa, city hall. Possibly they were blondes who wish to become brunettes, is one suggestion. P. Heyns, the municipal foreman, says he frequently has found his ink well, which he kept in a locked room, empty. Before leaving the office one afternoon he poured the ink into a saucer. Next morning it was empty.

Tonsils and Heart Disease

By
DR. JAMES W. BARTON
© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

SOME years ago it was common practice in a hospital near my home to see children attending a throat clinic Saturday morning, have the tonsils "snipped" off and the youngster back to school the following Tuesday or Wednesday. Large tonsils were all removed in those days.

Today, while a great many youngsters have their tonsils removed, it is usually because they have a sore throat often, or the tonsils are interfering with their breathing. Most physicians now believe that the tonsils are of value in filtering poisons from the blood and that they are best left in until the danger of all the diseases of childhood has passed.

As rheumatism and heart disease are the serious ailments following infected tonsils, it would be well to consider the effect of the removal of tonsils from this standpoint.

Better Have Them Out.

A report of the research study of 48,000 school children by Dr. A. D. Kaiser, Rochester, N. Y., who has done a great amount of research study on this question, is given in the Journal of Laboratory and Clinical Medicine. Dr. Kaiser states that while rheumatic disease occurs in children who have had their tonsils removed, it is less likely (by 25 to 35 per cent) to occur in those who have had their tonsils removed than in those who still have their tonsils.

It was also shown that when rheumatism did occur in those whose tonsils were removed the chances of developing heart disease were less.

Finally, the study made of 597 rheumatic children showed that the death rate among children whose tonsils were still in during the rheumatic fever was 13 per cent and only 7 per cent among those whose tonsils were out at the time of the first attack of rheumatism.

Fat and Starch Foods.

Those of us who lived before the automobile was invented will remember that there was not the large number of overweight men and women that we see today. Naturally the overweight of today is blamed upon the automobile, the elevator, the escalator in our stores, the electric washer, electric ironer, and all the other electrical appliances that lessen the work of men and women. Formerly walking to work or elsewhere was taken as a matter of course, whereas a journey of even half a mile today usually means the use of the automobile.

There is no question but that all these "labor saving" devices are a big factor in causing much of the overweight of today. A brisk walk of a half mile, or a more leisurely walk of a mile not only burns up some fat tissue, but by keeping off some fat and keeping heart and lungs more active, there is a natural desire to take more exercise rather than the desire to sit or lie down. There is really nothing like exercise to burn up fat and stimulate the desire for more exercise—a beneficial circle of events; rather than the vicious circle—less exercise, more rest, and so more fat.

However, in all fairness it cannot be said that overweight is entirely due to lack of exercise, because in most cases it is the excess amount of food, and food rich in food or fuel value, that is even more responsible for overweight than lack of exercise.

The two kinds of food that are most responsible for overweight are the fat foods and the starch foods. It is estimated that the people of North America have learned to eat two or three times as much fat food as was eaten 25 years ago, and at least five times as much sugar.

Fat is consumed chiefly in milk, cream, cooking fats, cheeses, salad dressings, egg yolk, bacon, fatty meats and fish, nuts, rich gravies, sauces, pastries and puddings.

Noted Jewish Patriot

The name of a Jewish patriot who helped finance Washington's army was Haym Solomon. He was born in Prussian Poland and came to this country while a young man. Because of his devotion to the patriot cause he was imprisoned in New York by the British, but escaped and came to Philadelphia, where he became a banker and amassed wealth, says the Philadelphia Inquirer. The services of this Jewish banker were called upon by Robert Morris and he advanced large sums of money to the government for which he and his heirs were never reimbursed. For two years he supported the Spanish minister and helped other diplomats. Haym Solomon was a member of the Congregation Mickveh Israel, occupying the site at Broad and York streets. He died in 1784.

Below, Joe Constamagna ran three and a quarter miles to win a waiters' race in San Francisco, balancing a glass of water on his tray without spilling a drop.

Contest winners always get their pictures in the paper, as does young Charley Baker (above) who won a balloon-busting contest. He's a shoe shine boy. Below are first and second place winners of a barrel rolling contest. It's foolish, but it's fun!

MAINTAINING PERSONAL EFFICIENCY

LESSON TEXT—Dan. 1:8-16, 19, 20; I Cor. 9:24-27.

GOLDEN TEXT—Every man that striveth for the mastery is temperate in all things. I Cor. 9:25.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How Daniel Pleas'd God.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Ten Times Strong.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—In Training for the Game of Life.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Liquor's Effect Upon Working Efficiency.

Personal efficiency is a subject which is receiving much attention in our day. There has never been so much accurate and usable information as we now have regarding diet, exercise, and medical care. The mind as well as the body has come in for attention and scores of books are available on the development and full use of the powers of personality. Some of these are trash, but others are helpful. Business is co-operating with the school and the home in giving boys and girls the opportunity to grow up to be useful and happy members of society. The church adds its important contribution, although we must confess that it is far from what it might be by the grace and power of God.

Having done all these things for the good of the people, we then largely destroy their value by permitting the use and sale of intoxicants which destroy personal efficiency and dull moral perception.

I. A Sound Mind in a Sound Body (Dan. 1:8-16, 19, 20).

Daniel and his three Hebrew companions had been brought to Babylon as captives, and were there chosen to enter the royal school for future service at the court. Every provision was made for the students chosen for that school. Their diet, however, included not only meat which was unclean to the Jew but wine, which Daniel knew to be undesirable. It took holy boldness to ask to be excused from that which the king had prescribed, but Daniel was blessed not only with courage, but with tact and courtesy. A ten-day test of a simple diet and water proved so successful that the plan was continued. At the end of the three-year course the Hebrews were not only physically stronger but mentally and spiritually superior.

The experience of Daniel and his brethren is not just an incident eagerly grasped at by "blue-nosed reformers" to prevent their neighbors from "enjoying" intoxicating liquor. The testimony of science, of business, of experience in all ages, proves that the use of even an amount of alcohol so small that the user does not feel its presence materially "reduces endurance, accuracy, and rapidity of muscular action of all kinds" (Emerson). It so cuts down the ability to think clearly and to react promptly to danger that it is absolutely taboo with such responsible workers as railroad engineers. It is not a stimulant, but a narcotic, which dulls the nerve centers. Dr. Edward Rosenow says, "The use of alcohol as a beverage is never justified. There is no such thing as the right use of beverage alcohol."

Such information as the above is available in publications of temperance organizations, books by various writers, and even in publications by state liquor commissions. It is published in newspapers and magazines and circulated by safety organizations and insurance companies. Yet, unbelievable as it may seem, the use of liquor is on the increase, and the rising toll it is taking in our country is simply beyond our ability to understand and describe. Who is there that will

"Dare to be a Daniel
Dare to stand alone,
Dare to have a purpose firm,
Dare to make it known."

II. Success in Life Calls for Self-Control (I Cor. 9:24-27).

Paul delighted in illustrations taken from the athletic field. He talked of running a race, of fighting a good fight. He knew the athlete's need of keeping his body under.

The one who serves his school or athletic association in physical competition gladly surrenders his personal liberty to the guidance of the coach. He eats carefully, sleeps full nights, exercises consistently, and above all does not use alcohol in any form. Listen to the words of great athletic coaches—Yost: "I would not waste my time trying to train or develop one who uses alcohol." Stagg: "Coaches and trainers are dead against the use of alcoholic liquors, even beer." Mack: "All the umpires together have not put as many players out of the game as old man booze."

Paul rightly points out that all these sacrifices are made by men for what is but a transient earthly crown. How much more should we do for the sake of our souls. Temperance instruction may well stress the physical and mental degradation that follows the use of alcohol, but above all let us teach boys and girls that its use has sent countless souls to eternal punishment and separation from God. We should be deeply moved by the loss of personal efficiency, but what shall we say about the loss of a soul?

Describes the Need for

IRON and COPPER

Shows How You Can Help to Avoid Anemia by Including These Blood-Building Minerals in the Diet

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

6 East 39th Street, New York City

OF ALL the nutrition problems that challenge the homemaker, none is more important than supplying her family's need for iron. This mineral is sometimes described as the supreme element in nutrition because it is an essential constituent of the blood.

How Blood Is Constructed

If you should examine a drop of blood under the microscope, you would observe that it is composed of red cells and white cells. In normal blood there are about 25 million times a million red blood corpuscles, owing their color to the iron-bearing protein hemoglobin. They carry oxygen to all the body tissues, and remove the carbon dioxide formed during the combustion of body fuel.

A reduction in the amount of hemoglobin in the blood may cause shortness of breath, quickened respiration and an accelerated heart action. Lack of appetite, weakness, and a slowing of all vital functions may also result from the diminished supply of oxygen to the tissues.

Lack of Iron May Lead to Anemia

In many young people the blood does not function normally, though frequently parents are unaware that anything is wrong. You may scold them for being lazy, for lacking interest in their work, or never heeding the things you tell them, when the real trouble is due to iron starvation which, if long continued, may lead to anemia.

The person who has a tendency toward anemia usually tires easily and lacks pep; complains of cold hands and feet; worries over trifles, and may have a complexion that is anything but rosy.

The great danger of an iron-deficient diet is that it deprives the body of its chief defense against disease. For when the quality of the blood is poor, one becomes an easy prey to infection. Moreover, if a serious illness occurs, lowered resistance makes it difficult to fight it off.

Two Forms of Anemia

Anemia may be due to loss of blood, deficient blood formation, or to increased blood destruction in the body. The different forms of the disease are sometimes classified as primary and secondary anemia.

Primary anemia is usually known as pernicious anemia. It is a grave condition in which the marrow of the bones has lost its power to make red blood cells.

Secondary or nutritional anemia may result from loss of blood in an accident, or it may follow a long, infectious illness. For any infection lowers the iron reserve in the body. But the most common cause is a diet lacking in sufficient iron over a long period of time.

How Much Iron?

It is believed that about 10 per cent of the total hemoglobin in adults is destroyed daily. And for this reason iron-rich foods must be included in the diet every day.

Investigators have found it difficult to determine the exact iron requirement, but according to the latest estimates, from 12 to 15 milligrams a day will not only provide adequately for bodily requirements, but will allow a reasonable reserve.

Women Need More Than Men

Women require more iron than men, in proportion to the body weight, to make good the losses that occur during the menses. Expectant mothers need a generous amount of iron, not only to provide for their own needs and for the normal development of the fetus, but to create a reserve supply in the baby's body which will last through the period of lactation.

The percentage of iron in the baby's body is about three times that of the adult. Nature has wisely designed this reserve to make up for the low iron content of milk which constitutes the chief food during the first six months of life. Nutrition authorities believe, however, that better health results when an iron-rich food, such as egg-yolk, is introduced very early into the diet. This helps to prevent the slight anemia which was formerly regarded as unimportant, but which is now recognized as making the baby more susceptible to infection and retarding growth.

Children's Requirement High

It is desirable to keep the iron intake at a high level throughout childhood, for it has been discovered that better health results when a surplus is allowed above the daily requirement. But there is a very special need for iron in girls from the beginning of adolescence through the eighteenth year.

Iron-Rich Foods

To maintain top health and prevent the possibility of nutritional anemia, the homemaker must learn to meet the daily iron requirement of her family and not leave this vital matter to chance. Iron-rich foods include egg yolk, liver, molasses, dried beans and peas, whole grain cereals, lean meat and green leafy vegetables. While milk has only a small amount of iron, experiments show that its iron is readily absorbed and is utilized to good advantage.

Eggs are such an excellent source of iron that one egg yields about one-tenth of the standard requirement. Lean meat furnishes a considerable amount, but liver is so much richer that it should be eaten frequently. Dried beans are inexpensive and when baked with molasses become a good source of iron.

It is a pity that parsley is so often used only as a garnish, because it has a higher iron content than most green leafy vegetables. Though potatoes contain only a moderate amount of iron, they are usually consumed in sufficient quantities to make them a significant source.

Copper Also Necessary

Investigation has demonstrated that adequate iron alone is not enough to prevent nutritional anemia, for the body cannot convert iron into blood pigment unless copper is also present. Therefore, in order to obtain the full benefits of iron, the diet must contain sufficient copper. Foods that supply copper in abundance are liver, nuts, dried beans and peas. Smaller but significant amounts are provided by whole grain cereals, dried fruits and poultry.

I shall gladly send to every homemaker a list of foods rich in both iron and copper, and also sample menus showing how to plan a balanced, blood-building diet.

I urge you to write for this material and keep the blood-building foods in mind when planning menus. Never forget for an instant that good blood is the best form of life insurance.

The ballots of said election shall have written or printed thereupon, the following:

"FOR THE ISSUANCE OF BONDS AND THE LEVYING OF THE TAX IN PAYMENTS THEREOF."
"AGAINST THE ISSUANCE OF BONDS AND THE LEVYING OF THE TAX PAYMENT THEREOF."

Each voter shall draw a line through one of the above expressions thus leaving the other as indicating his vote.

The said election shall be held under the provisions of Chapter 1 of Title 22 of the Revised Civil Statutes of 1925 as amended, including the provisions of Article 704 as amended by Chapter 382, passed at the First Called Session of the Forty Fourth Legislature and only legally qualified electors who own taxable property in the County and who have duly rendered the same for taxation shall be qualified to vote.

A substantial copy of this order signed by the County Judge and attested by the County Clerk shall serve as proper notice of said election. Notice shall be given in accordance with the provisions of Article 704 Revised Civil Statutes of 1925 as amended by Chapter 382 passed at the First Called Session of the Forty Fourth Legislature, supra. The County Judge is authorized and directed to have a copy of said notice posted at the Courthouse door in each of the election precincts in Callahan County not less than fifteen days prior to the date fixed for holding said election and the said election shall be held not less than fifteen days nor more than thirty days from the date of this order. He shall also cause said notice to be published on the same day in each of two successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation published within Callahan County. The date of the first publication to be not less than fourteen days prior to the date set for said election. Except as otherwise provided in said Article 704, as amended, the manner of holding said election shall be governed by the laws governing general elections.

PASSED AND APPROVED this 25th day of May, 1938.

With Baird Baptist

Joe R. Mayes, Pastor

Three fine people joined our church last Sunday morning and that is just what ever other Baptist who lives here and does not have his membership in our church ought to do, we invite you to come.

Next Sunday we want a large attendance at Sunday School, and then for the B. T. U. and night preaching service. I will not be here for the morning service but will be back for the night service, please let everyone take due notice and be here for the service.

The first Sunday in June is the time set for our revival meeting to begin Bro. S. L. Tidwell of Potosi will do the preaching and lead us in the meeting, he is a splendid young preacher just graduating from Hardin-Simmons is pastor of the church at Potosi. We are fortunate in getting him for the meeting, we will get right in there and help him, and just to the extent that we do we will have a good meeting.

Next Sunday the church over at Old Content Runnels county is having a special program trying to move themselves up a little, they have asked me to preach for them on that day, I have held five or six meetings there and I just had to go back to them for this special occasion. I will be there just for the day, will be back for the night service and I am anxious for the service to be well attended, it will be the last service we will have on Sunday before the meetings starts and we need to be getting down to our knitting.

Mrs. Bessie Ince, her sister Miss Ona Gleen Ince and daughters, Opal and Verna, and children, all of Abilene, visited Mrs. Bert Lacy Thursday afternoon.

ANNOUNCEMENT

We are now open for business in Our New Home, where we will be more than pleased to welcome our old customers—Also, many new ones. You will find wide comfortable booths, low counter with comfortable chairs and the very best of eats and drinks. Eat with us and taste the difference.

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to all for the splendid patronage given us and assure all that a warm welcome always await you.

Do you know that the taxes paid by your gas company last year amounted to about 72 cents per meter per month? So summer bills of a dollar or two hardly cover taxes—an operating cost over which we have no control.

Fresh Vegetables TASTE BETTER ... LOOK BETTER WHEN COOKED WITH GAS

FOR rounding out a healthful, well-balanced meal there is nothing like the first tender vegetables of early summer. How you cook them is all-important if their healthful vitamins and minerals, their natural flavor and color are to be retained. A 1938 gas range excels in boiling vegetables as they should be—with controlled heat, little water and in covered utensil.

Time, gas and food values are saved with the improved gas simmer burners. They provide the most flexible and accurately controlled cooking heat yet devised in a cooking appliance. At the click of a valve they give you the exact shading of heat required for any cooking job. Because of this exact temperature control, kitchen heat and humidity are held to minimum. See these new gas ranges and learn all about their many improvements that make cooking surer, cooler and easier.

Only the improved gas simmer burners on 1938 gas ranges give an accurately controlled boiling heat at the "click" of a valve. They save gas... keep kitchen cooler.

C.I.O. CANDIDATES LOSE

Pennsylvania Democrats Turn on Lewis . . . Earle Named for Senator . . . Republicans Happy

On the eve of National Air Mail week the first air mail and passenger service between Juneau and Fairbanks, Alaska, was established by the Pan American Airways as the first link in its route connecting southeastern Alaska with the interior. This photograph shows the scene at Juneau as the plane, a twin motored Lockheed Electra, was about to depart for Fairbanks.

Edward W. Pickard SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

Earle Beats C.I.O. Man

THE desperate primary battle among the Pennsylvania Democrats resulted in complete victory for Gov. George H. Earle and his state machine and equally complete defeat for the Duffey-Lewis-C. I. O. faction, whose candidates all the way down from senator and governor to minor county offices, were routed. Earle won the senatorship nomination over Mayor Wilson of Philadelphia.

Charles Alvin Jones, Pittsburgh lawyer, captured the gubernatorial nomination, beating Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America, who was on the Duffey-Lewis ticket. Jim Farley, national committee chairman, had projected himself into the hot fight by advising the compromise choice of Earle and Kennedy, but the governor indignantly told him it was none of his business, and the voters gave him a swat on the head by rejecting his advice.

Republicans were elated because the returns showed a ground swell back toward G. O. P. conservatism. The Republican total vote exceeded the Democratic vote, and this fact, together with the graft and bribery charges that enlivened the campaign of the Democrats, led the Republican leaders to hope the Keystone state would return to the Republican fold in November.

Judge Arthur James won a smashing victory over Gifford Pinchot, twice governor, for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, and this was another swat at John L. Lewis, for he was reported ready to back Pinchot if Kennedy lost. Senator James J. Davis was renominated by a heavy majority.

Both Senator Guffey and Lewis appear to have lost their claims to political leadership. Lewis had boasted that he controlled 800,000 C. I. O. votes in Pennsylvania, but the best he could do was 520,000. Earle, though he came out on top, was considered to have lost prestige greatly by the accusations of misrule made against his administration. His presidential aspirations were believed wrecked.

The C. I. O. has lost other political fights, but none so important as this. President William Green of the American Federation of Labor called the vote a complete "reputation of the C. I. O. leadership." He added:

"It now has become abundantly clear that no candidate who bears the C. I. O. brand can be elected to high office in this country. The primaries proved the C. I. O. is a political liability, not a political power."

Japanese Take Suchow

TOKYO gave out word that the Japanese forces had captured virtually all of Suchow, the important rail junction city in Central China. The assault force fought its way through a hail of Chinese fire and there was furious hand-to-hand fighting in the streets. Then other forces stormed the walls from other sides of the city.

A foreign office spokesman said Japan would now push on to Hankow, the capture of which is regarded as necessary from a strategic standpoint.

Some 200,000 Chinese troops were said by the Japanese to be trapped in the Lungai zone, but it was likely many of them would be able to escape.

F.D.R. Going to South America

ANNOUNCEMENT was made at the White House that President Roosevelt is planning an extended trip to South America this summer. It is expected he will leave from an eastern port aboard a cruiser, pass through the Panama canal and spend a month along the west coast of South America, going as far as Santiago, Chile, and stopping at the capitals en route. On his return the President probably will disembark on our west coast and sweep across the country on a special train, making speeches.

Following a brief trip to Annapolis to see the boat races between Harvard and the Naval academy, Mr. Roosevelt inspected the model community project at Arthurdale, W. Va. In the middle of June he will go to Massachusetts for the wedding of his son John and Miss Anne Clark.

Daladier Defies Italy

NEGOTIATIONS for a Franco-Italian accord came to an impasse because Italy sought to break up France's alliance with Russia. Premier Daladier was angered and to newspaper men he declared that France would defend her frontiers against "all attempts at violence, whatever the circumstances."

The direct cause of a break in the conversations was shipment of arms through France to loyalist Spain. Shorn of diplomatic technicalities, Italy seems to have demanded that France choose between Italy and Russia. Should she choose Russia, disrupting Britain's plans for a general European settlement, Britain might leave France to her own devices and proceed to reach an agreement with Germany.

Slattery Has West's Job

RESIGNATION of Charles West as undersecretary of the interior was accepted by President Roosevelt, and Harry Slattery of North Carolina was immediately named in his place.

The retirement of West marks a complete victory for Secretary Ickes in their long feud. Only recently Ickes dismissed all but one of West's office assistants and then turned the office over to Assistant Secretary Ebert K. Burlew. Their feud began when the President named West to the post without consulting Ickes. White House Secretary Steve Earle announced the President was looking about for another post for West.

Woman Ambassador?

THERE is a good chance that the United States will be represented at Moscow by a woman, for Mrs. Charles C. Broy is under consideration for the post of American ambassador to Soviet Russia, which Joseph E. Davies recently relinquished to become ambassador to Belgium.

Mrs. Broy, who is a Texan by birth, is the wife of an American foreign service officer and the widow of Representative Thomas U. Sisson of Mississippi. She was recommended for the ambassadorship by the chairman of the foreign relations and foreign affairs committees of congress, and has the backing of many prominent members of congress. If appointed and confirmed, she will be the first American woman to be an ambassador.

Mrs. Broy was officially presented to Secretary of State Hull by Senator Key Pittman, but the secretary has known her personally for 16 years.

Jersey Inquiry Ordered

CHARGES that free speech and other civil liberties have been suppressed in the Jersey City domain of Mayor Frank Hague resulted in Justice department orders for a "thorough investigation" of the situation there.

Attorney General Homer Cummings, announcing the inquiry, said it was prompted by newspaper reports and complaints received from many persons. It would be directed, he said, at determining whether any one in Jersey City has been deprived of civil rights guaranteed by federal law.

Red Tape Study

THERE have been frequent complaints that the government is requiring the filing of too many reports and the filling out of too many questionnaires by business. Now the President has ordered a study of these red tape demands by the central statistical board, asking Chairman Rice to see if it would be possible to consolidate the fact-finding activities of the various departments.

Plane Crash Kills Nine

NINE persons were killed in the crash of a luxury air liner on a mountainside not far from Los Angeles. The plane was being taken to St. Paul for delivery to the North-west Air lines, and it appeared the disaster was due to the desire of the pilot to save a few minutes by taking a shortcut route instead of keeping to the beam directed route through the mountains.

Ministers Are Recalled

DIPLOMATIC relations between Great Britain and Mexico were broken because of the dispute over Mexico's action in expropriating foreign oil properties.

President Cardenas

President Lázaro Cardenas of Mexico took the initiative by recalling Primo Villa Michel, Mexico minister at London, and ordering the closing of the legation indefinitely. The British government promptly directed Minister Owen St. Clair O'Malley to leave Mexico together with his staff, the legation being put in charge of Consul Gen. J. Dalton Murray.

While the suspension of relations is a direct outgrowth of the oil seizure, the immediate cause of Cardenas' action was what he considered Britain's "insolent" methods in demanding a claims annuity of $85,000, due since January 1 for damages to British interests in a revolution years ago. Foreign Minister Eduardo Hay handed a check for the amount to Minister O'Malley, told him of the recall of Minister Michel, and said: "May I be allowed, however, to call your excellency's attention to the fact that not even powerful states with ample resources at their disposal can boast of having fulfilled their monetary obligations."

Jobless Number 7,845,016

IN ONE of the final summaries of the unemployment census Director Biggers reports that the total number of registered unemployed in the United States is 7,845,016; and 61.3 per cent of the jobless are either under 25 or over 45 years of age. Of those registering, 5,833,401 said they were totally without employment and 2,011,615 said they had emergency jobs such as the Works Progress administration, National Youth administration, Civilian Conservation corps, and others. The census was taken in November.

Hanes in Treasury Post

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT nominated John W. Hanes, who has been a member of the securities and exchange commission less than five months, to be assistant secretary of the treasury.

It is likely that, before the end of 1938, Mr. Hanes will succeed Roswell Magill as under-secretary of the treasury. Mr. Magill, who is on leave from Columbia university, is anxious to return to his old position, it is reported.

Mr. Hanes may not assume his new duties until the reorganization of the New York Stock exchange is completed. He will be the first New Deal assistant secretary of the treasury who has been identified with Wall Street investment banking. When selected for the SEC he was a partner in the firm of C. D. Barney & Co.

With his wide knowledge of the securities business, the new appointee will be of value to the treasury, which faces important refinancing operations in the near future.

League Censures Japan

DR. V. K. WELLINGTON KOO, Chinese delegate to the League of Nations, had better luck in the Geneva sessions than did Haile Selassie, once emperor of Ethiopia, or Del Mayo of Spain. The council finished its business by adopting a resolution condemning Japan for its course in China and urging member nations to give direct aid to China.

Floyd Gibbons' ADVENTURERS' CLUB

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Monster From the Swamps"

By FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO EVERYBODY:

Well, sir, if I seem to be continually harping on the fact that adventures are things you meet up with most frequently at home, you can put it down to the fact that I am continually being reminded of it. Just the other day, while looking through a sheaf of letters I came to a story by a woman who had an adventure on a farm. Well—of course, there's nothing unusual in that. The funny part of it was that the farm was in this country, and the adventure was of a sort you'd only expect to run into in the jungles of Africa or South America, or to read about in some account of the grim battles between men and animals that the ancient Romans used to stage in their gladiatorial arenas.

The woman is Lottie Hawco—Mrs. John Hawco, of New York city. And the animal she fought with was a wild boar. I'll bet a lot of people—including me—didn't know there were wild boars in this country. But there are, as any South Carolina farmer can tell you. How they got here is an interesting story.

You see, the ordinary barnyard breed of pig is nothing in the world but a descendant of the wild boars you read about in tales of old-time Merrie England. Those boars were tamed and fattened and domesticated until, over the space of six or eight hundred years they became the fat, lazy, gluttonous animals you see in hog pens the country over.

How Pigs Get Wild and Dangerous.

But a pig will stay fat, and tame, and lazy only so long as he's kept in captivity and stuffed with chop suey from that well known galvanized iron can out on the back porch. Once he gets loose and goes back to the woods again and has to rustle for his own food—well—then he gets thin and tough and rangy. His tusks grow out, and in a generation or two he becomes a boar again—just as wild and as dangerous an animal as ever he was when he roamed the marshes and forests of old England in the days of Robin Hood.

There are plenty of those backsliding wild hogs in the back country of South Carolina, and the farmers hunt them down and round them up because they destroy the nests of the wild turkeys in the neighborhood.

The Boar Viciously Attacked Lottie's Mother.

And that brings us to Lottie Howco who, on February 16, 1931, was visiting with her mother and her sister, Inez, on a farm near Osborn, S. C., where a wild boar hunt was in progress.

A bunch of men from the neighborhood had been out all day, combing the marshes with packs of dogs, roping boars and herding them—alive—into a big high-sided farm wagon. They had just returned home with six or seven boars—big, vicious fellows, waisthigh to a man and weighing three or four hundred pounds—animals that could break a man's leg with their huge, crunching jaws and which frequently did dismember the fierce dogs that hunted them with one sweeping blow of their long, protruding tusks.

The men backed the wagon up to a strong enclosure and were untying the boars one by one and cautiously prodding them into the pen. Lottie, her mother and sister were standing near by, watching the proceedings—and then—suddenly—a terrible thing happened.

Attack by a Savage Boar.

The men had unloosed the largest boar and were prodding it toward the pen when it turned, squeezed between the wagon and the enclosure, and rushed into the open, gnashing its great teeth and foaming at the mouth. It headed straight for Lottie's mother, who was standing nearest the pen, and before she could turn to run, it was on her, throwing her in a heap to the ground, biting at her savagely.

It was the most terrible sight Lottie ever beheld in her life. Charlie, the foreman, stood with his mouth agape, too surprised for a moment to even move. Sister Inez, paralyzed with fright, clapped her hands over her ears and began to scream. Lottie herself was numb with terror, and for precious seconds—seconds that seemed like a lifetime—she stood rooted to the spot. All the rest of the men were on the other side of the pen, or on the wagon, too far away to reach the spot in time to do any good.

Then, all of a sudden, Lottie came to life. She can't explain what happened, but it seemed as if a spring inside her had suddenly been released. She sprang forward, threw herself on the snarling, screaming, rolling jumble of woman and beast, singled out the boar and began beating and mauling and scratching it with insane frenzy.

Surprised Him, So He Fleed.

The boar could have killed Lottie with one thrust of its sharp, pointed tusk. Lottie's mother had been saved from death thus far only by her long skirts and thick clothing. But taken by surprise, the boar couldn't quite figure out this wild new menace that came beating and kicking at his flanks—tearing and scratching at his eyes. It was a thing of fury. It didn't seem one whit afraid of the boar. And an animal will often reason that if you are not afraid of him, then he must have good cause to be afraid of you.

This one did just that. Snarling and grunting, he turned to flee from this inexplicable new attack. He got about three steps, and then he found himself tangled up in the ropes of the men who, by this time, had come around from the other side of the pen to deal with him. The next thing Lottie knew, she was back on the porch of the farm house with her mother, looking over herself for injuries. She doesn't even remember helping her mother to the porch, and to this day she can't figure out how she came out of that fight without a scratch on her body.

Barratry in Shipping

Barratry in shipping and navigation includes every wrongful act committed by the master or crew to the prejudice of the shipowner. The master must have deliberately violated his duty to his employer and acted against his better judgment, says Tit-Bits Magazine. Deviating from the ship's course to engage in smuggling is barratry. No act of negligence, inadvertence, or mistake amounts to barratry.

Cheerfulness Has Dual Value

Cheerfulness has a dual value in life. First, it helps you—then it helps you to help others—and it keeps on spreading out into the great throng of humanity, stirring the hearts of men as the gentle breeze stirs the leaves of the forest—returning to you in its endless course and all the while making the heavy load lighter and the dark road brighter for all.

Name Percival Is Greek

The name Percival is of Greek origin and means "courteous." Sir Percival was a knight of King Arthur's round table. Percival Lowell (1855-1916) Boston astronomer, wrote books and made important discoveries in astronomy, also established the Lowell observatory.

Oldest Lighthouse in America

The oldest lighthouse in America is Boston light station. Built in 1716, it was knocked down during the Revolution, rebuilt in 1783. It was then 69 feet high, lit by four whale oil lamps. The tower, 90 feet high, contains the original stones, in use more than 222 years, plus additions.

SEEN and HEARD around the NATIONAL CAPITAL By Carter Field FAMOUS WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENT

Washington.—Concession by even the most optimistic Republicans that the Democrats will control the next house of representatives by a wide margin makes the menace of the LaFollette Progressive party much more bearable to Democratic prognosticators than might otherwise be the case.

For the house of representatives, to be elected this fall, will elect the next President in December, 1940—IF a third party should prevent any Presidential candidate from getting a clean majority of the electoral votes.

Since the recent consensus of political experts was taken by Newsweek, the writer has checked carefully with some of the more optimistic Republicans to discover where they expect their gains in the house. The point is that a President is elected by the house, under the Constitution, when no candidate has an electoral college majority—by states, not by individual members. The majority of each state delegation determines how their state will vote in electing a President under such circumstances.

There are 15 states about which there is no doubt whatever. Many of them will have solid Democratic delegations in the next house. Since no political landslide is seen now even by the most optimistic of the Republicans there seems to be no chance that the Democrats will not have a majority in every one of these delegations.

These states are the group from Maryland to Texas, and include: Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Maryland.

Ten more states would be needed, as the Constitution requires a majority of all the states to elect a President in this manner. Which, as the present number of states is 48, would mean a total of 25.

No Hope for G. O. P.

Examining the Republican hope chests, it is interesting to note that there are more than ten additional states to those already named, in which there is no hope of the Republicans capturing a majority of the congressional delegations.

New York, surprisingly enough, has not had a Republican majority in her house delegation since the 1920 election, despite the fact that she rolled up an enormous majority for Coolidge in 1924, and went for Hoover by a small majority in 1928. Indiana has now only one Republican member of the house. A gain of two, or at most, three seats there is all that the Republicans hope for. Illinois is also apt to continue lopsidedly Democratic in her house delegation. So are Colorado, California, Oregon and Washington.

Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico have only one representative each, but that representative is just as important when the house is electing a President as New York or Pennsylvania. Not even the most optimistic Republican consulted by the writer since the Newsweek poll has any hope of electing a Republican congressman from any of these three little states.

And that makes the ten, which, added to the Southern states enumerated, totals twenty-five. But there are any number of possibilities to make up for any unexpected local upset.

Arouses Curiosity

Inquiries from all over the country are reaching senators and officials asking private advice as to what is on the horizon to have caused President Roosevelt to make his sudden appeal for prompt start on the construction of two battleships.

The general impression on the part of the inquirers seems to be that there have been events in the international situation which caused this sudden move.

It may be authoritatively stated that this is not the case. No one in administration circles pretends that everything in the international situation is rosy. Quite the contrary. But the international picture had nothing to do with the President's haste to get battleship construction started. In fact it is admitted by high officials that if the foreign situation were such that the President thought the United States were likely to be forced into a war within, say, a year, the procedure would be entirely different.

The President would then, it is pointed out, be insisting on a very different type of spending for the intervening period. He would want the money spent on types of weapons which could be completed before the war was over.

It just so happens that, no matter how much the work is hurried, building a battleship is a very slow proceeding. It cannot be cut much under three years. To complete a ship in two years would really be an accomplishment. And this would mean from the time the keel was laid.

Back in the World War days the construction of battleships was stopped so that the skilled labor employed on them could be utilized for something which might reasonably be expected to be finished in time to make its weight felt before hostilities were concluded.

Reason for Haste

The real reason for the President's haste on battleship construction is not preparedness but economics. He wants to get men working on this job as speedily as possible—in the mines, the steel mills, the factories and the shipyards. Literally it is part of the pump-priming plan.

This does not mean that the building of battleships is a species of made work. On the contrary, the President's feeling is that the need for the additional ships is very vital indeed. But not for the immediate future.

The answer to all this is Japan. The majority opinion among naval and military experts studying the situation, and advising the President, is that Japan has no intention of provoking a war with the United States in the immediate future. But the same experts believe that Japan is counting on a war with this country eventually, maybe five years from now, maybe ten.

The theory behind these fine new battleships is that each one constructed tends to make that war less likely. The experts in question note with extraordinary interest the comment in Japan on the construction of these ships. Japanese newspapers which usually print just what the high army and navy officers of that country want the people to know are rather bitter about these battleships which congress has been authorizing and appropriating for in the last few months.

When it is considered that these ships will not be completed for from three to five years, at the earliest, this resentment is very interesting.

Curious Puzzles

Some very curious and intricate puzzles are presented by the recent Florida Democratic primary. One of them is accentuated, curiously enough, by none other than Chairman James A. Farley, of the Democratic national committee, in a statement rushed out even before all the returns were in to claim a sweeping victory for the New Deal. Said Chairman Farley:

"The signal victory of Sen. Claude Pepper of Florida, a staunch New Deal advocate, over Rep. J. Mark Wilcox, campaigning for the senate seat on the straight-out issue of opposition to the New Deal," etc.

Now the interesting point raised by Chairman Farley, inadvertently, revolves around his own denunciation of Wilcox. For it would seem to be a logical deduction that every voter who marked his ballot for Wilcox is an anti-New Dealer.

Viewed as a contest between two party factions, or between two candidates, Pepper's victory was overwhelming. He had a lead of more than two to one over Wilcox.

But if viewed that the men and women who voted for Wilcox were anti-New Deal, then it would appear that one-third of the Democrats in Florida are against the present Democratic administration in Washington.

That is not enough to make any difference, probably, in the Florida election. No one expects any Southern state to elect a Republican to the senate.

The Pepper Problem

But in Northern and Western states such a loss would spell inevitable disaster in November. It is an axiom in politics that no party can afford to lose 10 per cent of its voters. The Florida primary would seem to indicate a loss of more than 30 per cent.

Another, and entirely different, problem is presented by the fact that Senator Pepper, in his campaign, laid a great deal of emphasis on old age pensions.

It was this campaign by Pepper which led Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Michigan, to comment that President Roosevelt and Dr. Townsend would have to roll dice to see who was really the victor in Florida.

Now the question is whether Florida is merely like California, in that a tremendous number of old people have moved there to avoid the more rigorous winters of their native states, or whether this sentiment of the old for security and of the young to be relieved of their obligations to their own old folks is merely typical of all states.

In short: Was Dr. Townsend right in his assumption that there is so much sentiment for his plan that if put in any real test it would sweep the country?

It is almost impossible, at the moment, for Washington politicians to do anything but guess at the answer. But this much is certain. The fact that Pepper was so extraordinarily successful will not pass unnoticed. Plenty of senators and representatives who have been worried about their chances for coming back are going to take a chance that the old age pension sentiment is very general indeed. What have they to lose? © Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

Star Dust

- ★ Andrea Steps Along
★ Lone Ranger Craze
★ All-Age Shaggers

By Virginia Vale

ANDREA LEEDS has been stepping right along since she did so well in a minor role in "Stage Door." She went on to do well in "Goldwyn Follies," is working now in "Letter of Introduction," and will play opposite Joel McCrea in a picture called, so far, "Youth Takes a Fling."

Which all goes to show that she was right when she refused to go on as just one more contract player. She felt that she wasn't getting anywhere, you'll remember, and got out of her contract, and all Hollywood said she was crazy, as she had just one performance to her credit at that time.

And then—"Stage Door" and all the opportunity in the world!

The "Lone Ranger" craze is growing every day. The actor who plays the "Ranger" in the screen serial may go on a personal appearance tour. National Broadcasting company has arranged for transcription rights of the radio program for the South, Canada and Australia—at present it's heard on a 42-station tie-up three times a week. There's talk of a circus stunt and of a cartoon strip for the newspapers. And the country will be flooded with books, cowboy suits, chewing gum, sweaters, and all the other merchandise that can be used in profitable tie-ups.

Charlie Chaplin's latest discovery, Dorothy Cummingore, has been given a contract by Warner Brothers, and you'll see her first in "Three Girls on Broadway."

The picture business being a bit slow at the moment, picture stars are doing quite a lot of vacationing. Miriam Hopkins and her husband, Anatole Litvak, the director, are at her charming little house in New York. Fredric March expected to have to cut his New York vacation short, and then got word that he might stay on indefinitely. Madeleine Carroll and Wendy Barrie are among the toasts of New York.

Bing Crosby can continue with his present radio sponsors for ten years if he wants to. It's said the advertising agency involved would like him to sign an agreement for that length of time, with the usual year to year options. His present contract still has eight months to run. Of all the Hollywood folks who have gone on the air, Bing has been the most successful and shows no sign of diminishing popularity.

Bing Crosby

Benny Goodman recently gave his second concert in Boston, before a packed house; as in Carnegie Hall, in New York, the first thing anybody knew the younger set in the crowd was out in the aisles beginning to "shag." An usher hurried forward to stop them, whereupon a conservative looking, middle-aged gentleman stopped the usher. Seems he'd decided to learn the "shag" and thought that was as good a place as any to begin.

ODDS AND ENDS... Paul Muni seems to be all set to do "The Life of William Tell"... When Frank Lloyd directs "If I Were King," with Ronald Colman, Frank's daughter, Alma, will play "Colette"... Joe Penner's new picture, "Go Chase Yourself," is his best one yet... Walt Disney divided $50,000 among the people who helped him to make "Snow White"... Max Baer is coaching Robert Taylor for "Knock Out"... The objection to Shirley Temple's making personal appearances has been that she was too young to appear behind the footlights... But Mary Pickford began when she was five, and it didn't seem to hurt her any... In "Four Men and a Prayer" you'll see Richard Greene, recently arrived from England, who, it is said, will be groomed for stardom... Now it's announced that Maude Adams' motifs tests were so successful that she will not appear in "The Young in Heart," but in a production giving more scope to her talents.

"Tomorrow night," he sibilated, "on the beach... at the laboratory camp. If it is clear we will be making some last observations of the stars... I will be waiting for you. I will manage it even if it is not clear... I will wait. Can you disguise yourself?"

She caressed his shoulder with a feline gesture that made him shiver. "Fear not! I will be there, prepared, starlight or fog!"

The Indian games and dancing were over, but the program Fray Lasuen had planned for the guests was to continue with some of the old Spanish dances, and another group began tripping to the music of some guitars and a flageolet. One figure stood out among them.

Induzuela scorned the Indian dances of her people, but had taken pains to learn those of the Spaniards, and while her face showed stolid and indifferent as she danced, her slim body was alive and graceful, supple as a sapling.

The others stopped dancing to admire her, and she stood alone. When she had finished there was a burst of applause led by the Governor.

"Ole!" he called. "Bravo, nina! Viva la nina de los ojos negros! Viva la morena!" With a gallant gesture he threw his hat at her feet. She picked it up gravely, and after a slight hesitation put it on her head, did another impromptu pirouette, and stood with her hands provocatively on her hips.

The Governor half rose to go to her and claim the sombrero with an embrace as was the custom. But La Gobernadora, who was staring at the performance with set jaw and disapproving eyes, clutched him before he could rise.

"Sit down!" she commanded. "Do not make a scene of yourself. Well done, moza," she called in a high voice, with a chill smile. "Well done, indeed." The Governor subsided automatically before he could protest, and the Indian girl, her face as smolder, carried the hat to him, presenting it with a contemptuous gesture.

La Perouse rose and stretched himself delightedly.

"Magnifique!" he shouted across the space to Fray Lasuen, who was moving toward them with a pleased smile. "One of the most interesting performances I have ever seen! These Indians, whom I had thought so crude, so stupid, can really do things, can they not?"

"Ah, Senor el Conde," replied the priest, "you must not underestimate my poor children. Perhaps you would like to come through the establishment again, and see what they have done?" he invited eagerly.

La Perouse protested hastily. "Non, non, non pere. I have already carefully examined the Mission San Carlos, you will remember, and have made notes about it all, and about you. Perhaps all Europe will some day read of this little place, and of your good works! Now, I am leaving you a souvenir of our visit. It is a mill, a hand mill upon which to grind barley. Thereby one woman can do the work of many, instead of grinding the meal by hand on stones as I have seen them do here. I will have it sent over tomorrow."

Lasuen began an exclamation of pleasure and gratitude. "And I am leaving something else, aussi, something for you, and for my host, his Excellency, the Gouverneur. Perhaps I am being presumptuous in thinking there is anything you need in this California, and I have been wondering what it could be that I might leave as a gift, and to insure the fact that you, perhaps, will not forget your French brothers."

He paused and looked about him, beaming. "It is two sacks of potatoes," he announced. "I noticed that you have none, either that you have planted or that grow wild. And these we have brought from South America. So I will leave one sack with you, Pere Lasuen, for your mission garden, and one for you, Monsieur le Gouverneur, for that garden of yours of which you are so justly proud!"

After the Governor and his party had ridden away from the mission, when the Indians had retired for the night, Fray Lasuen sat in his cell and wrote carefully in his journal:

"This has been indeed a day of historical importance. This day the potato has been introduced into California."

CHAPTER XXI

As the cavalcade of the Governor were mounting their horses to return from the fiesta at Mission Carmelo, Dagelet stooped for Eulalia's foot to assist her into her saddle. Suddenly he was good-naturedly jostled aside by Don Pedro, who, in sign language, made known to the young Frenchman that he would take care of the lady. Then, to Eulalia's surprise, instead of seating her on her horse, he took her in his arms, and tossed her into his own saddle, swung himself up behind her and said, "I think I will have you ride with me, chiquita, like a little peasant girl, tired and sleepy, from the fair. Que no?"

Eulalia tried to sit bolt upright to express her outraged dignity, but Don Pedro only pulled her closer and there was nothing to do but lean against him, in the circle of his arm, and be quiet.

On they rode, silent under the stars, with pine-needles thick beneath the horses' hoofs, and startled night birds rustling among the trees at the disturbance. From some of the riders came bursts of song, the twanging of a guitar. The horse ambled quietly, for no one seemed in a hurry to break the spell of the night. Eulalia abandoned her dignity, nodded and dozed.

La Perouse and Fages talked in low tones. They spoke of La Perouse's departure, and a little wistfully of his visit in California. The Frenchman had fallen under the spell of the country so beloved of Pedro Fages, and would leave regretfully, he told his host. "I have found a warm friend in the genial little Frenchman, with his quaint Spanish, learned in the mountains of his native South of France, among the Basques. He besides, Conde de La Perouse has his hands so full of important matters that it would not be fair to ask him to do it. Think! He has two great ships for which he is responsible, and many men, and machinery, and instruments, and plants, and food supplies, and ammunition, and... He stopped, for he realized he was talking to himself, and Angustias was crying in her shawl. Yes, he was talking to himself, he suddenly was aware that he was wishing that it was Don Pedro Fages who commanded the two ships, and the men, and was sailing away to find new worlds.

He spoke harshly, both to himself and the weeping woman. "No. Out of the question. I forbid you to ask him, mujer." Angustias drifted away, sniffing sadly.

Fages bent his head again over the sleeping Eulalia. There was a warm perfume from her relaxed body, and the weight of her sagging against him was delicious to his senses.

"Let him have his ships, and men and distant lands," he thought. "I have Eulalia." He lifted his head, and saw with eyes accustomed to the dark of the wooded hills, the more distant mountains. He breathed the heady odors of sea and pines that mingled in the air, and heard the ocean pounding restlessly on the cypress-decked cliffs.

"And I have my California," he said thankfully, lifting his face to the stars.

At the great gate of the presidio grounds good nights were said. "It has been a marvelous day," said La Perouse almost sadly. "And a beautiful night. I hope tomorrow night will be as clear, for we wish to make some astrological observations before we sail. We will not dismantle the observatory until the last moment."

Angustias, about to turn into the gate, heard him. "So!" she murmured. "Tomorrow night he will be on the beach at his funny tent! Perhaps... And she whispered her hopes to herself. "I have never been insubordinate," she muttered to herself. "But his Excellency doesn't know everything. Especially about a woman's heart," she added grimly.

At the door of the palacio Don Pedro lifted Eulalia from his horse and carried her into the house.

CHAPTER XXII

So the next morning Eulalia went about her preparations for departure.

Tears of self-pity blinded her as she packed. Lonely, insulated from the world in this most remote and desolate of the King's colonies, with nothing to look forward to but more loneliness, as the years passed; perhaps more children; and at last the final desolation of being laid in the Campo Santo of the Mission Carmelo. That was her life. For she was sure now nothing would ever happen to call Pedro Fages away from California. There were no more troubadours of the Franciscans, and El Gobernador served his King too well in this colony where few men wished to come and bury themselves to be recalled by the Crown.

Her jewels were already stored away in their case, and she was sorting out her clothes. Weeping, and recounting her grievances to herself, she filled a great leather chest, and as she sat on the lid to close it, a thought came that made her gasp with dismay. She could never get this bulky thing to the beach. There was no safe way of sending it... she couldn't carry it. For a moment she sat there, then a beautiful idea came to her.

She would make a bundle of her clothes, then she would dress in a peasant dress, like Induzuela, carry the bundle on her head, and barefooted, slip down to the beach in the dusk, her face covered by a concealing rebozo. She might escape unnoticed, for Pedro Fages was sending loads of provisions as a farewell present to his friends the French explorers, and many Indians were being pressed into service.

She giggled excitedly, hopped from the chest, opened it and gathered as many things as she could, piled them into a heap, then tied them in a blanket. She tried to lift the bundle, but could not budge it from the floor. Sighing impatiently, she began discarding heavier things, and at last had a weight that she could lift.

She wept again as she discarded the lovely gowns of brocade, velvet, satin and lace. Eloping was not so easy, after all. She had dreamed she could flee, unencumbered by baggage or impedimenta, to the waiting arms of an impatient and potential lover, but here she was struggling with bulky bulgy bundles of clothes, like a washerwoman.

All her lovely clothes! But then, she thought with satisfaction, the expedition would no doubt stop at the Filipino Islands, and there, in Manila, a real capital, she could buy new raiment. It would be better that way, for it was only too probable that her clothes, which she had had for more than three years, were demode, and in Manila she would find lovely things from Paris.

She lifted the load to her head, and experimented with a few steps. Yes, she could do it. She looked at herself in her mirror, and swayed there, her hands on her hips. In the mirror she saw the face of her baby, staring at her in amazement. Hastily she dropped the bundle and whirled on the child. The baby's Indian nurse came hurrying in after her, and stooped to pick up the child, but Eulalia stopped her. "Wait!" she cried. She sank to her knees and held her arms out to the baby enticingly. "Come, come to Mother, darling!" she cooed.

The baby only stared at Eulalia, nonplussed by such behavior on the part of the lady who generally ignored her good-naturedly. "Darling, please, my little darling, come to Mother... won't you?"

The nurse stood stolidly by, a jealous warmth in her dull eyes. At last the baby, finger in mouth, sidled to the nurse and buried her face in the woman's skirts.

Eulalia rose to her feet. "Take her out of here!" she demanded imperiously. "The nurse hugged the child close to her and hurried out of the room. "There, you see?" said La Gobernadora to the Madonna who was smiling sadly at her. "You see? She does not love me at all! She never comes near me! She prefers that black Indian woman, and her father! You see? It will never make the slightest difference to her whether I stay here or not."

She paced back and forth the length of the dirt floor. "As for young Pedro, he never sees me! He is with his father all the time. He cares only for him, and for his pony. Will he miss me? Does he need me? No, of course not. Absurd! No one wants me, no one needs me... I am going away... She cast herself on the bundle of clothes and wept.

"I am going away... and no one will care... I am going so far... on the ocean! I will be seasick, Oh, Dios mio!" She turned toward the Madonna and held out her arms. "Please, Our Lady of the Seas, make the ocean smooth, please, oh, please!"

After a while she sat herself at a table to write a note to her husband.

Chinese Use Brutal Trapping Methods to Capture the Fur-Bearing Animals

Game laws mean very little in China. In the more remote sections, where trapping is carried on extensively, the operators use bombs and poison to make their catches although this form of hunting is forbidden by law, but there are no wardens to enforce the provision, notes a writer in the Detroit News.

The Chinese hunter has many brutal methods of capturing wild animals which are just as injurious as the steel-jawed spring traps used by his American and European colleagues.

Thousands of animals suffer the torments of a lingering death in Szechuan and neighboring Tibet in a foot noose trap set in a runway and fastened to a bent-down sapling in such a way that, when the animal puts its foot into the fatal ring and springs the trigger, the noose tightens up, yanking the wretched victim into the air where it hangs suspended by one leg till death frees it from suffering. This type is used primarily in capturing the male little musk deer to secure the musk pod used only in the manufacture of perfumes, but more often than not it catches the female musk deer, the tufted deer and other small wild animals which are of little or no value. This trap is perhaps the most brutal and wasteful in use.

The more humane means employed in China is the deadfall, which is a heavy log raised from the ground in such a way as to fall on the quarry when it releases a cleverly set trigger. This is used extensively in the Manchurian forests where there are many kinds of fur-bearing animals. The set-gun is also employed and usually kills instantly but is extremely dangerous to a person walking along the runway on which it is set.

An Acre of Dirty Dishes In 12 months the average woman washes an acre of dirty dishes, 3 miles of clothes, 1 mile of glass and 5 miles of floors, declared a home service director of a gas association in London.

Ten Third Prizes $5.00 Each

ONLY a few days are left before the close of our big Cake Recipe Contest. For all entries must be postmarked not later than May 31, 1938.

But there is still time for you to enter a recipe. Send in the directions for that cake which your family says is the best ever... which you bake for company... or always send to the church fair.

It will only take a few moments of your time to write out the recipe and you have nothing to buy... no letter to write. There never was an easier contest! Just fill out the attached coupon calling for your name, address, the brand of shortening, baking powder and flour used in your cake. Clip the coupon to the recipe and mail it to C. Houston Goudiss, author of the "WHAT TO EAT AND WHY" series in this newspaper.

16 Cash Prizes.

The winning cakes will be selected by the experienced home economists on the staff of the Experimental Kitchen Laboratory that he maintains in New York City. The recipe adjudged the best will win $25.00 for the lucky homemaker who submits it. There will be five second prizes of $10.00 each and ten third prizes of $5.00 each.

Prize winning recipes, together with those receiving honorable mention from the judges, will be printed in a booklet, to be distributed nationally.

Simple or Elaborate Recipe.

There are no restrictions as to the type of recipe that may be submitted. Your favorite cake may be plain or frosted. It may be baked in layers or in a loaf—put together with a cream filling or topped with a meringue. It may be chocolate, maple, mocha, spiced, Devil's Food, a jelly roll or a Lady Baltimore. The proof will be in the eating!

That $25.00 first prize would come in handy for buying summer clothes or something special that you want for the house. You have nothing to lose, everything to gain, so why not write out your recipe—now. Attach the coupon and mail it to C. Houston Goudiss, 6 East 39th Street, New York City.

GARFIELD TEA

HELP KIDNEYS

To Get Rid of Acid and Poisonous Waste

Your kidneys help to keep you well by constantly filtering waste matter from the blood. If your kidneys get functionally disordered and fail to remove excess impurities, there may be poisoning of the whole system and body-wide distress.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be a warning of some kidney or bladder disturbance. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feet swell, nervous, all played out.

In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. A multitude of grateful people recommend Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

The State Of Texas:
In the District Court of Callahan County, for the 42nd Judicial District of Texas, June Term, A. D. 1938 To the Sheriff or any Constable of Callahan County—
Greeting:
You are Hereby Comanded, that by making publication of this citation in some newspaper published in the County of Callahan, State of Texas, if there be a newspaper published in said county (but if not, then in the nearest county where a newspaper is published), for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, your summon E. H. Johnson, R. E. Tuley, James Farr, W. D. Twitchell, Homer H. Sparks, Arza J. Noble, Lillian W. Noble and C. D. Haggarty whose residence is unknown to be and appear before the District Court in and for Callahan County for the 42nd Judicial District, to be holden in and for the County of Callahan, at the Courthouse thereof, in the City of Baird, on the first Monday in June A. D. 1938, being the 6th day of said month, file number being 9047, then and there to answer the petition of Louie M. Williams, J. N. Williams, W. W. Williams, E. H. Williams, L. L. Williams, N. H. Williams, L. A. Williams and R. D. Williams, filed in said Court, on the 4th day of May A.D. 1938, against U. S. Waugh, E. H. Johnson, R. E. Tuley, James Farr, W. D. Twitchell, Homer H. Sparks Arza J. Noble, Lillian W. Noble and C. D. Haggarty, and alleging in substance as follows, to-wit:

That on the 21st day of March, 1935, Plaintiffs executed and delivered to Defendants, U. S.

Waugh, E. H. Johnson, and R. E. Tuley, an oil and gas lease, which is recorded in volume 148, Page 35, of the Deed Records of Callahan County, Texas, covering the following described tracts of land, situated in Callahan County, Texas, being a part of the T. E. & L. Co. Survey No. 2298, and described as follows: First Tract: Being the North one-half of the North one-half of said Survey No. 2298, containing 80 acres, more or less. Second Tract: Beginning in the East line of said Survey at a point 336 varas South from the Northeast corner of said Survey and the S. E. corner of First Tract; Thence west 448 varas; Thence North 504 varas to the South line of First Tract; Thence East 448 varas to the place of beginning, containing 40 acres, more or less, and containing in all 120 acres, more or less. That said lease provided that it should remain in force and effect until the 22nd day of August, 1935, and as long thereafter as oil or gas, or either of them, is produced and saved from the leased premises. That Defendants, James Farr, W. D. Twitchell, Homer Sparks, Arza J. Noble, Lillian W. Noble and C. D. Haggarty, are claiming some, kind of rights and interest in said land. Plaintiffs allege that no drilling operations have ever commenced on said land under the terms of said lease by either of said Defendants or by any other person, that no oil or gas has ever been produced and saved from the leased premises; that no work of any kind with intent to produce oil or gas from said land has been done on said land since the 5th day of September 1937, and that said lease has terminated. Plaintiffs pray for cancellation of said lease and for removal of cloud upon the title of said land by reason of said oil and gas lease.

Herin Fail Not, but have you then and there before said Court this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.
Witness, Mrs. Will Rylee Clerk of the District Court of Callahan County, Texas.
Given under my hand and seal of said court in Baird, this the 4th day of May, A. D. 1938.
Mrs. Will Rylee
Clerk, District Court,
21-4t
Callahan Co., Texas.
