Let the People Rule. MUCH FAVORABLE comment has been voiced by Austin critics who had occasion to observe the service rendered by Judge Carl Runge of Mason, who was called upon to preside in the Travis county district court a few days ago during the hearing of the troublesome highway injunction suit filed by Mr. Ferguson and others.

Characteristic of Judge Runge's work in this important and hotly contested suit was the dignity with which he presided, his ability to keep the situation under control even when opposing counsel were discussing some of the highly controversial questions involved in the hearing, and the definite and clear cut rulings he made.

But here is a fact that is sufficient to cause all of us to wonder. Although he has demonstrated his outstanding ability as a judge, not only in the special service at Austin but in a long period of service in his district, Judge Runge was defeated this year for re-election. It may be, of course, that an even more talented jurist is to take his place, but the chances are that his defeat was occasioned by some consideration having no connection whatever with his service to the state and to the cause of justice.

A Year of Beginnings.

NINETEEN HUNDRED and thirty-two years will be recorded in history as the year of transition, of changing from the old to the new, largely due to the year's political activities, marked by the popular demand for the retirement of the old and the inauguration of the new administration of public affairs, the year marked the climax of the period of distress which began late in 1929, and closed the era of retrenchment. The new year, therefore, is to a year of beginnings as everybody turns to new tasks or takes up old tasks in a new spirit; and since it is a year of beginnings it is to be a year of hope.

As to us, should we have a spirit of determination, we can wait patiently and alertly for the "breaks" which will give us desirable advantages, and by doing so may be able to identify them when they come, or we can undertake industries to make the "breaks" without waiting for them. The latter, it is to us, is the better course. Economic recovery in this section, existing conditions, is dependent almost solely upon agriculture. Crop must be harvested and on a favorable market before it can be a noticeable loosening of the grip of depression. This, of course, can not be accomplished in one year, and possibly not in two or three years. The problem, therefore, is to discover an auxiliary stimulant to local business and industry which will be able to reduce the responsibility placed upon agriculture and thus to hasten the work of reconstruction and recovery. We can increase the buying power of our people by buying power; and in the world of industry we can accomplish this by accomplishing what is fundamental to a new year, a new year of hope.

FORTY-THIRD SESSION TEXAS LEGISLATURE WILL BE MOST EXCITING OF RECENT YEARS

New laws for the state highway department, which receives the balance of the gasoline tax together with a portion of the registration fees of motor vehicles for road work, are likely to be prominent before the session.

Mrs. Ferguson has vigorously attacked the present highway commission of three members. One term only expires during her term. To gain control, either more members must be provided by legislation or the entire commission be made elective, as proposed in her platform.

Oil and cotton, leading state industries, both caused special sessions of the legislature. The cotton legislation was entirely nullified by court action. The oil legislation, once amended, still is under test.

The success with which it meets in stabilizing the industry will probably determine if new oil laws are to be made. The present law controls production, as Mrs. Ferguson proposed. It does not regulate retail prices, a proposal which she made a part of her plan.

Cotton Legislation Agricultural Commissioner J. E. McDonald is expected to ask the legislature to agree to cotton control under a federal compact, since individual action by the states has failed. Plans for pink boll worm control will also be before the session.

Motor truck laws of the last legislature, apparently have stood the test of the courts, both state and federal. Efforts to liberalize some of the provisions are being planned.

Plans for a Texas Centennial in 1936 will be laid before the legislature, the constitutional amendment to permit state participation and support having been adopted.

Location of this celebration and restricting bills presage a spirited fight. Efforts of the last legislature to change Congressional and legislative districts failed. They will be revived and judicial districting will be added, this session, unless there is submitted a constitutional amendment to abolish district courts.

Abolition of the fee system of paying public officials will require submission of a constitutional amendment but fee reforms may be expected to form a lively part of the session. Already organizations of fee officials are urging legislation along this line.

Renewed efforts may be made to pass bills permitting consolidation of city-county governments, as a saving to the taxpayers. County consolidations also have been proposed.

Renovation of the business law also promises to have a prominent place before the new legislature. The state anti-trust law, among others, will come in for attack as no long-remembered measure of the last legislature. Efforts to create a public utility commission are almost sure to be revived as well as the efforts of various industries including the ice manufacturers to have them declared utilities, with the consequent fixing of rates and regulations.

Recap of the Robertson Insurance Law is being agitated. This law requires life insurance companies to invest a certain percentage of their reserves in Texas. Instead of encouraging Texas investment, the advocates of repeal say it has kept money out of the state.

But law making is not alone the duties of the House and Senate. Each branch faces some individual duties.

The House session will open with a spectacular fight between Coke Stevenson, Junction, and A. P. Johnson, Carrizo Springs, for the speaker's post. The two are on opposite sides of the state road bond issue fight and many other hard-fought measures of the last legislature. Lines are being sharply drawn.

The Senate, which does not choose its presiding officer, will have the task of approving or disapproving the appointments of the Governor.

PRESIDENT OF WARD CO. VISITS HERE

Sewell P. Avery, Chicago, president and head of the board of Montgomery Ward & Co., visited the Montgomery Ward & Co. retail store here last night. Spent the night at Hotel Brownwood and went from here to San Angelo this morning.

He was accompanied by Edwin G. Boose, Chicago, first vice president; C. L. Ettleson, Fort Worth, regional manager and J. R. Denny, also of the regional office.

Mr. Avery came to Texas from Chicago to visit three of the company's stores in this state—Brownwood and San Angelo. It is his first visit to the state since he became president of the company.

C. L. Stewart, local manager, and his employees were complimented very highly by Mr. Avery on the physical appearance of the store, the merchandise selection and the volume of business attained in 1932.

Former President U. S. C. C. In addition to his duties as head of the large department store organization, Mr. Avery is president of the United States Gypsum Company and a member of the board of directors of the University of Chicago. He is also a past president of the United States Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Avery became head of Montgomery Ward about a year ago.

Mr. Stewart said today he and the employees at the store felt honored by Mr. Avery's visit and his commendations. Brownwood people will be glad to know, Mr. Stewart thinks, that Mr. Avery was much pleased with the location of the retail store in this city and section.

During the past year the Brownwood store has been visited by most of the high officials in the organization. Others who have visited are Mr. Frye, R. H. Pöglar and R. C. Moore, all vice presidents in charge of various activities.

The party motored from Fort Worth to Brownwood via Ranger and will return to Fort Worth from San Angelo.

Calvin Coolidge was born on Independence Day, July 4th, 1872, in Plymouth, a country village in the Vermont Hills, the son of John C. and Victoria Moor Coolidge. He was descended from John and Mary Coolidge, who had settled in Watertown, Massachusetts, about 1630, and his ancestry ran through a long line of farmers who lived in Massachusetts until his great-grandfather moved into Vermont. His father was the village storekeeper as well as a farmer, and so the son had a double training under his father's care, plowing and digging in the fields and selling and figuring behind the counter. Here were developed in him the industry, frugality and self-reliance which shaped the course of his life. His mother died when he was 13 and four years later he lost his only sister, but a warm bond of sympathy developed between him and his step-mother.

Mrs. Coolidge—

latter group who valued his friendship and liked to smoke a cigar with him and talk things over.

Reaching the presidency upon the death of Warren G. Harding in 1923, Mr. Coolidge was confronted with problems of rehabilitation arising from the world war and the depression of 1921, and almost at once the country was shaken by the scandals which were revealed in the naval oil leases, the justice department and the office of the custodian of alien property.

With serenity and calmness he rode out these storms and gradually instituted a policy of governmental economy and mutual helpfulness in assisting Europe to work out its post-war problems. Such was the success of this program that when he ran for president in 1924 he was returned to office by a popular plurality of 7,000,000, the greatest that had been accorded a candidate for the presidency up to that time.

The manner of his leaving the presidency aroused a national interest comparable with that of his induction into that office by his father in a lamp-lit room of the latter's Vermont farm home.

Back to Old Home

Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge on the afternoon of the inauguration of Herbert Hoover, his successor, left Washington for their old home in Northampton, Massachusetts, to occupy the same modest home where they started life in 1905, when Mr. Coolidge commenced his public career as city solicitor of that municipality.

As early as the spring of 1927 there was widespread opinion that if Mr. Coolidge wished to be re-elected he had only to indicate it. By his own confession, this view was shared by Mr. Coolidge himself, regardless of the popular tradition that a president must retire after his second term.

In a magazine article published after his retirement, Mr. Coolidge declared he wanted to retire for several reasons which he proceeded to enumerate.

First of all, there was his own health and that of Mrs. Coolidge. "It is hazardous," he wrote, "to attempt what we feel is beyond our strength."

In addition, he considered it impossible for one man to serve successfully in the presidency for more than eight years as a review of the careers of those who had served two full terms had shown him that the latter part of their tenure of office is devoid of constructive accomplishments.

"The nation was startled when on August 2nd, 1927, the president issued his famous statement: 'I do not choose to run for president in 1928.'"

It was interpreted variously throughout the country. Many saw in it a sincere wish for retirement, but still a willingness to accept the nomination should an insistent demand arise. Others looked upon it as a final decision that he would not be a candidate for re-election.

There were many, too, who regarded as a shrewd attempt to avoid the third term issue by having himself drafted for office.

This confusion was clarified by Coolidge in an address before the Republican National Committee following December. In six sentences which were added at the last minute to a prepared statement, the president declared that he "eliminated" himself entirely from the presidential race and adjourned to continue "the duty of selecting another president."

HUNT TO BE AT BANGS SUNDAY

Dr. J. W. Hunt of Abilene, president of McMurry College, will deliver an address on prohibition and repeal at the Baptist church at Bangs Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. An announcement received today from Maurice Bell of Bangs. A large crowd is expected to hear the address, Mr. Bell states.

Dr. Hunt will be the principal speaker at the prohibition rally to be held in Brownwood, in Howard Payne auditorium, Sunday afternoon.

LUCAS AGAIN HEADS TEXAS FARM BUREAU

DALLAS, Jan. 5.—(AP)—H. G. Lucas, Brownwood, was chosen president of the Texas Farm Bureau Federation today as members closed their two-day sessions. Mrs. M. S. Hudson, Hale Center, was named vice president and W. B. Melton, Nacogdoches; Dr. Fain Moore, Coolidge; G. C. Buchanan, Sugarland; E. N. Corey, San Antonio and J. P. Elms, Littlefield, were named new directors.

The naming of Mr. Lucas as president makes the second time he has been elected to the office. He served as president of the Federation a few years ago. Mr. Lucas also is president of the National Pecan Marketing Ass'n and head of the Texas Cooperative Council. For several years he has been prominent in the state and nation as a leader in interest of agriculture.

The Farm Bureau Federation meeting at Dallas followed a two day joint session of the Texas Cooperative Council and the Federation as called by Mr. Lucas to discuss problems of the agricultural and livestock interests of Texas.

THREE BURNED TO DEATH AT TATUM, N. MEX.

LUBBOCK, Texas, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Burns and their six weeks old baby were burned to death in a fire which followed an explosion at their home in Tatum, New Mexico, Wednesday, according to reports received here today.

A two year old daughter of the Burns and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Otis L. Burns, 23, were burned seriously and her condition is considered very critical. Incomplete reports today were to the effect that a five gallon can of kerosene near a stove exploded.

REPEAL OF LAW FAVORED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The Senate judiciary committee charged with the study of prohibition repeal proposals voted today to report a repeal resolution for the submission to state legislatures with protection for the dry states and with authorization for congress to legislate against the return of the open saloon.

The Collier 3.2 per cent beer bill passed recently by the House and sent to the Senate for action, is still in the hands of a sub-committee but it is likely that the bill be reported out and placed before the Senate for debate and vote at an early date.

Putnam Citizen Here to Identify Stolen Property

The three were arrested for the burglaries of the U. R. Groom and L. A. Skaggs homes here.

Orr identified the stolen property and took it back to Putnam. He said it was taken from his home several weeks ago. Police said today the three will be filed on for burglary in Callahan county.

Flood Drives Many Lowlanders From Homes in Missouri

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Scores of families fled today before the flood waters pouring through four levee breaks along the St. Francis river in southeast Missouri and northeast Arkansas.

Two rapids in the levees on the Missouri side of the river sent the water over approximately 40,000 acres of lowlands. North of Kennett the break came with a roar and the lowland settlers, awakened from their sleep, fled to boats that were held ready for such an emergency.

The flight of the lowlanders was orderly and many farmers filled the boats with canned foods.
