City Council unhappy with spending and management

Council members for the City of Muenster continued their close scrutiny of spending and employee management at Monday's regular meeting. A major discussion concerned returning the maintenance of city parks to city employees. In previous years, the jobs have been contracted to private individuals. The past year's contract was held by Eddie Lamkin for the city park and Shirley Knabe for the baseball park for a cost of about $5,500.00.

Lamkin's father, Harvey, was present at the meeting and commented that they would not bid for the contract this year but if they did, the price would be more like $22,000.00. "I don't think you people realize how heavily that park is used during the busy seasons," said Lamkin. "Our whole family worked with Eddie to keep up with the trash, the restrooms, grass mowing, trimming and watering and most of that work had to be done when the place wasn't being used." Lamkin also described the costs of equipment repair and the work required at night.

Park Commissioner Arthur Hennigan said, "We have to keep city employees working." Councilman Aubry Tuggle said, "We just need a little better mower. You could do most of the outside area with the brush hog." Mayor Ted Henscheid said he thought it was fair to compare the costs before a decision was made, but the council ended the discussion with a 2-1 vote to have city employees maintain the parks this year.

Other action concerning the city park included acceptance of the following Park Board recommendations:

-Lights were approved for installation at the volleyball court by the Muenster Jaycees.

-The vandalized Air Force jet on static display will be returned to the Air Force or a recommended museum.

-Below-ground-level mounts for a temporary cover for the Germanfest Texas Stage were approved.

-The council will contact local civic organizations to request help cleaning out the creek.

During the parks discussion, an argument arose when Councilwoman Mary Ann Grant questioned Joe Fenton's choice of a cold, wet day in January to have city employees dig up and repair a sewer line. Responding to citizens' complaints, Grant had the job shut down and the employees sent to other jobs. Tuggle said there were nice days the previous week. Why do it in the mud? Grant called it irresponsible to make the men work while shivering and standing in knee-deep water.

Fenton responded later to the charge, saying that a certain amount of progress is necessary to keep up with required sewer line reconstruction mandated by the Health Department. "The men knew we were going to do it and they came to work dressed warmly. We were near the barn and intended to warm up if needed. During the digging, a 2-inch water line was broken and it had to be fixed. That's where the water came from. The men were prepared to work outside and, in my judgment, the conditions were not unreasonable."

Employee management questions were directed at City Administrator Joe Fenton, concerning the practice of using a welder owned by city employee James Harrison, at a cost of $12.00 per hour plus supplies. Councilman Tuggle proposed buying a new welder and torch to save the cost being paid to Harrison. Mayor Henscheid asked who was going to run it. Tuggle said, "We don't have to worry about an operator." Fenton stated that the city would have to pay more to require employees to perform more skilled tasks and accept more responsibility.

Councilman Hennigan said he suspected a conflict of interests in paying an employee for his equipment use and supplies. Tuggle added that from welding charges over the last two months, Harrison was costing over $25.00 per hour. "Other local welders I checked on are charging $17.00 and $22.00 per hour, supplies included. We could also use the unit as an emergency light plant."

Mayor Henscheid asked how much he proposed to save by buying new equipment. "That depends," said Tuggle, "I think we could pay for it in one year." Fenton pointed out that the last two months included welding jobs that were very much out of the ordinary and that emergency light had never really been necessary because backhoes or other equipment on the work site have directional floodlights.

Harrison, who was present at the meeting, said, "Just cancel me out of future welding."

Henscheid said, "I want to see more proof before we spend this money. What about checking used equipment for sale in the Metroplex?"

Tuggle then moved to buy a new Lincoln welder (cost $2,450.00) and Victor torch (cost $264.00). The council approved by a vote of 3-1. Henscheid asked where the money is coming from and Tuggle said, "From the money we will save."

The City Hall telephone system came up next. Fenton proposed buying a new telephone system from Muenster Telephone Corporation for $1,600.00 to replace the current 30-year-old system which he said was very complicated and giving problems. A maintenance contract will cost $336.00 annually and replacement phones about $130.00. He felt it would be more cost effective to have a new system from a local firm and avoid the costs of an out-of-town company for a phone system becoming worse every year.

The mayor asked where this money is coming from. "But, I guess if we can buy welders, we can buy phones," he said.

Tuggle said he'd rather just pay the repairs on the old system. The issue was tabled.

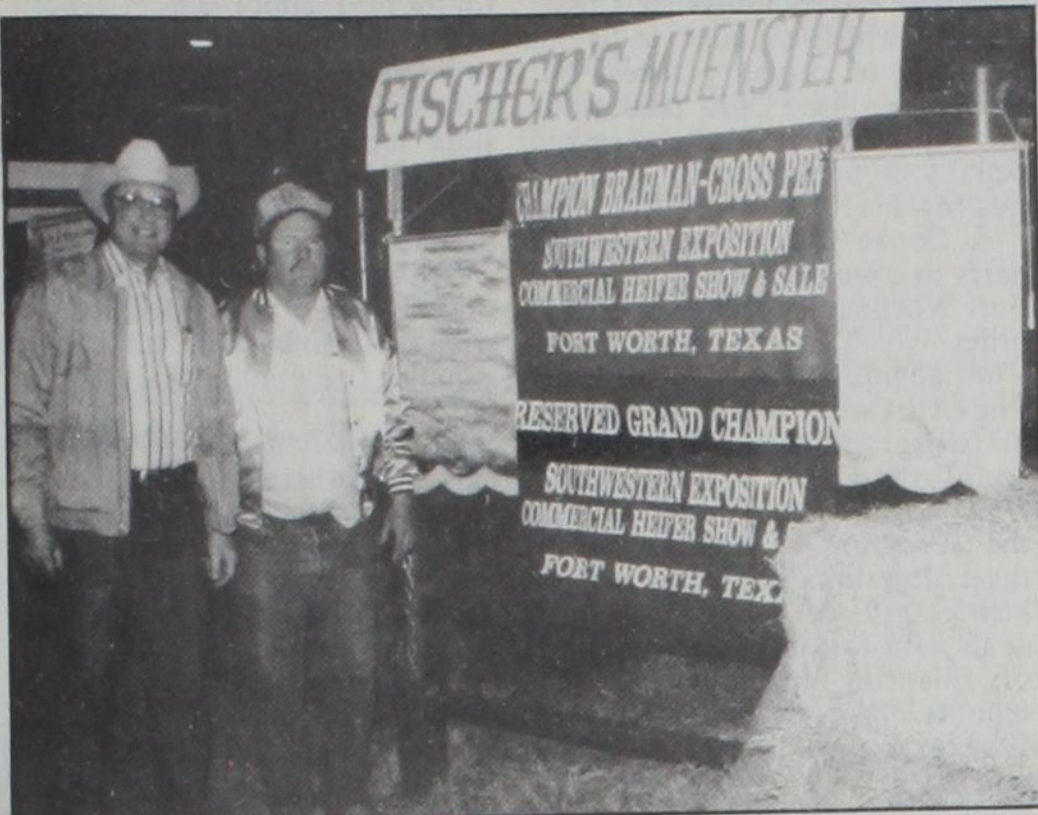

Fenton was questioned about several bills which were part of a total of $50,925.48 approved for payment.

Personnel evaluation and history forms were purchased for $100.58. Fenton said it was to implement the council directive to base employee advances on individual performance. "I wanted a fair and organized evaluation. This form provided it and a minimum order was required," he said. Grant called it unfair. "Why didn't you start this years ago, instead of waiting so late in the game," she said.

The council also questioned $155.00 for 55 gallons of hydraulic fluid, $457.15 for hardware to repair street signs, and $195.00 tuition and room for a manager's conference in Salado.

Fenton explained each one. The payments were approved. Other items receiving council attention included:

Fischer Ranch heifers are selected champions

John Fisher of Fischer Ranch returned to Muenster last weekend with two banners and cash prizes awarded to him because of the group of cattle that he had entered in the 4th Annual Southwestern Exposition Commercial Female Show and Sale at the Fort Worth Stock Show on Sunday, Feb. 2.

This was the first time that Fisher had ever shown any of his cattle. He entered a group of seven - six heifers with calves on their sides and one heavy springer. The cattle were black blaze-faced Simbrah Cross, all calved out by Brangus bulls and were bred back to red Limousin bulls.

One banner was awarded for Reserve Grand Champion heifer overall in the 1992 Commercial Heifer Show. The other was for the heifers as a group. They were named overall champions in the Brahman Division of the show. Judges for the event were Willard Jordan of San Saba; Tommy Stewman of Maryneal; and Bruce Brandenburger of Eden.

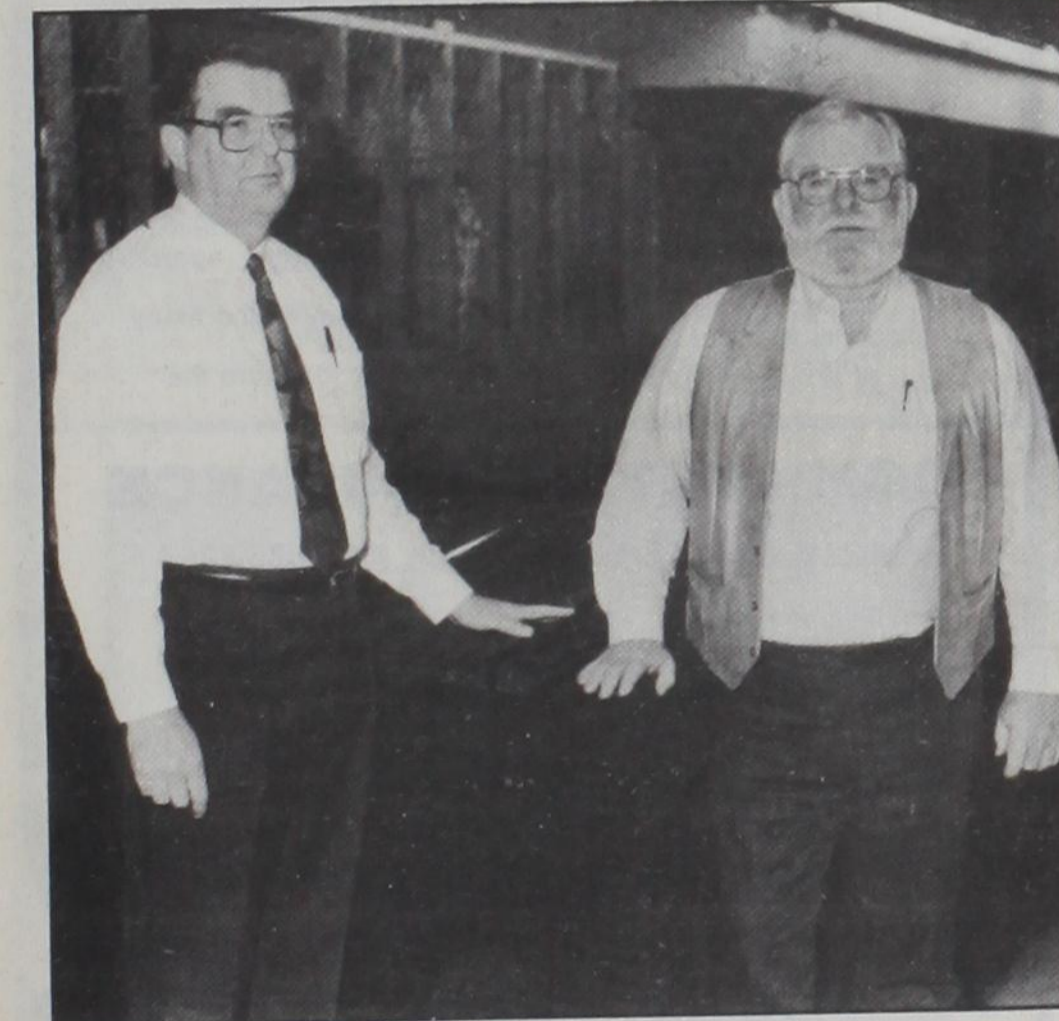

Charles Rollins, sales manager and auctioneer for the annual event, said of the Fischer Ranch pen of cattle, "They're my kind of cattle, moneymakers."

There were 550 head of heifers from 35 producers in Texas. These cattle were selected from 1,200 head offered from 71 ranches. Offered for sale were 67 pens, consisting of 7 to 10 head per pen. The cattle were graded on 80 percent uniformity, 10 percent PG status, and 10 percent flesh condition.

Fisher credits the wins to the efforts of several people. Weldon Sherrill, who does all of Fischer's cattle buying, Jim and Larry Vogel for the care of the animals; and Frank Cromeen for selling two pair to complete the pen, making them uniform in coloring. Fischer Ranch has owned all of the cattle for two years with the exception of the two pair purchased from Cromeen.

"I plan to enter again next year," said Fisher. He attended the sale in previous years and was pleased with the prices that ranchers had been getting on their cattle. Muenster and Cooke County were well represented at the Sunday sale by area cattlemen.

RMI is building first full production line

Renewed Materials Incorporated of Muenster has announced the beginning of its production stage of development. Production Manager Frank Keith said last week that the last seven months were spent in the laboratory phase and now they are scaling up to a state-of-the-art production line. RMI uses recycled tire rubber, including the cords and reinforcing to produce a board which is presently marketed as flooring for stock trailers. Keith said they have been designing for complete control and versatility on their first production line in order to maintain quality. The true production line is now being built with the able assistance of Jim Rosenbaum, the inventor and developer of the process.

The plant employs 12 people working three shifts, five days a week. Keith anticipates working seven days a week by the middle of this month and hiring more employees in four or five months. "We have found the local work force to be dependable, intelligent and able," he said. "Our surrounding community has been eager to help us with supplies, fabrication and building assistance."

RMI's raw material is ground-up tires with various additives included. The additives make it possible to vary the rigidity, hardness, cohesiveness and color of the product. The first production line and future expansion will be computerized. This all allows variance in the final board to allow a wide variety of potential future uses.

Keith said their marketing structure exists and is growing. Users are waiting for the RMI's board. "I envision that duplicate lines will be added to our initial production line and as we grow, facilities will be needed for handling and storage," he said.

The interview with Keith was followed immediately by an unexpected visit from a trailer manufacturer inquiring about the flooring. Keith said that happens frequently nowadays.

Beat Lindsay 38-26

Lady Hornets clinch district championship

Muenster's girls' varsity roundballers kept their slate clean Tuesday night in a 38-26 district win over Lindsay and earned the district championship. The Lady Hornets' 26-0 season record sums up their previous action this year.

In their fourth meeting with the Lady Knights, Muenster started off slow, allowing Lindsay to take a 10-6 first quarter lead. The Lady Hornets' press resulted in a couple of turnovers to take a 16-15 lead at halftime. "We started out scoring, then slow down or are shut down, not able to score," said Lindsay Coach George Thomason. "We missed shots we needed to hit while Muenster put in their open shots."

"The second half has been ours all year," said Coach Brian Strother. "All eight players played really well and we took care of the ball for our fourth win over Lindsay."

Muenster hit 6 of 7 free throws in the second half and, with shots by Theresa Kubis, DaLana Walterscheid and two 3-pointers by Danell Reiter, the Lady Hornets were up by 12.

Danell Reiter was Muenster's leading scorer with 12 points. Theresa Kubis connected with 10 and DaLana Walterscheid 8. Diane Pagel added 4, followed by Candice Abney and Kristi Bierschenk at 2 apiece.

Laura Lutkenhaus led Lindsay with 9 points. Jessica Fuhrmann added 8 with Susie Arendt sinking in 4, Janelle Hellinger 3 and Cassandra Fuhrmann 2.

"This was Leslie's (Klement) and Kristi's (Bierschenk) last home game; they played really well and have all year," commented Strother.

The Lady Hornets' streak of 26 games in a row has tied the school record. The team is looking forward to setting new records at MHS in the next couple of weeks.

"We want to thank all of the fans for coming to the games, you were great and, hopefully, you will follow us in our playoff run," concluded the jubilant coach.

Muenster plays at Windthorst Friday evening for a non-conference game before finishing the regular season Tuesday night at Saint Jo.

Graphics Unlimited will hold Open House Monday, Feb. 10

On Monday, Feb. 10, Pat Dennis will host a special Open House at her new business, Graphics Unlimited. The public is invited to come by anytime between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. to visit with Pat and her employees and to see the many services Graphics Unlimited has to offer. Ribbon-cutting ceremonies are set for 2 p.m.

Graphics Unlimited uses a desktop publishing computer system to set up items such as programs, brochures, mailouts, etc. for printing. "We have them camera ready and can deliver them to the client to take to a printer or we can take them to the printer ourselves and deliver them to the client completed," said Pat.

Doug Miller is the graphic designer for the business and he does all of the design work on the computer. Miller has 25 years of hands-on experience in the printing business. Kathy Bauer, marketing consultant, is the sales person who visits businesses and discusses job possibilities. Kathy has 15 years of sales experience.

The business opened its doors for the first time on Jan. 6, 1992 and has been busy since. "We've been busy and we haven't even been outside the city limits," remarked Pat. According to Ms. Dennis, they are the only business offering that particular type of service between Wichita Falls and Sherman and from Denton north to Ardmore.

"There have been questions concerning our competition with The Muenster Enterprise and we want to emphasize that we are working with their print shop," said Pat.

Some of the services Graphics Unlimited offers are typing, editing, artwork for books, brochures, gift certificates, logos, business cards, resumes, menus, annual reports, posters and more. "The possibilities are endless," Pat commented. "We can give a business a new look or image with their (the client's) input."

During Monday's open house, a drawing will be held for a set of personally-designed note pads and envelopes. Business hours are Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Graphics Unlimited's phone number is 759-2864.

"I hope that people will come in and give us the opportunity to show them what we can do," said Pat. "I thank the community for its past, and continuing, support."

Good News!

Blessed are you, and praiseworthy, O Lord, the God of our fathers, and glorious forever is your name. For you are just in all you have done; all your deeds are faultless, all your ways right, and all your judgments proper.

Letters to the Editor

Letter to the Editor:

In response to the January 4, 1992 Muenster Enterprise article by Mr. Steve Cooper, MISD Superintendent:

Once again we are being advised that the way to solve the state public school problem is MONEY. "Adequate funding," Mr. Cooper states, with "a large tax base that would meet educational needs." The larger tax base would be in the form of a new State Income Tax or a revamp of expanded sales tax with a corresponding reduction in property tax.

It all sounds so simple, you just lower property taxes and create a State Income Tax or raise the Sales Tax. Where does this leave the taxpayer? Paying more tax for sure. When have taxes in the state of Texas ever gone down? A lower property tax will just be accelerated along with the other taxes every time the state has a budget shortfall. With the way our bureaucrats are spending and wasting tax dollars, this will come sooner than you think.

Mr. Cooper's proposal has the taxpayer in a no-win situation. A higher or broader sales tax with a lower property tax will eventually lead to higher property tax. A sales tax and a state income tax with a lower property tax will give the state an EXTRA tax base to increase along with the sales and property taxes.

Has anybody heard of freezing spending, cutting the fat, being thrifty, getting by for less? Isn't this the message we should be giving our politicians? Mr. Cooper admits that "In education alone millions of taxpayers' dollars are wasted. Examples abound almost daily." Why is it then that we need a revamping or broader tax base for State Education? Why not give public education less money to spend so less can be wasted. Especially, since we all know that money is not the answer to our public school problems.

Yes, politicians should have the courage to stand up. Stand up for freezing state salaries and freezing state budgets. They should have the courage to handle public money with trust. They should change their thinking from how much they can spend to how much they can save.

Dear Editor:

There is not one single Democratic presidential candidate who is not preaching the glories of socialized healthcare.

But overlooked is that socialized programs simply don't work. Many Americans have been fooled on this topic because they are not being told: 1) the cost of these programs at current quality levels of services, and 2) how much they would have to give up if such was adopted.

For instance, the GAO reported some years ago that it costs taxpayers 72 cents of every federal tax dollar just to collect, administer and distribute entitlement program funds. Hence, only a paltry 28 cents reaches the intended beneficiary!

More: Canada's system is not the panacea that Democrats claim; instead, it is a fast-growing cancer on the Canadian economy. They pay less per capita for healthcare simply because they arbitrarily spend less.

The U.S. Medicaid program which covers only 32 million American costs the U.S. more than the Canadian program spends on 64 million Canadians. That means that we spend twice as much per capita for those on our lowest economic rung as Canada spends on their average citizen.

But there's more: 33 increases over 6 year's time has brought Canada a 150% increase in personal income taxes just to keep up with spiraling costs and declining services.

Average wait for a pap smear: 2 months; a coronary bypass: 4 months; hip replacements: 8 months; elective surgery: up to three years!

Meanwhile, they are closing out hospital beds and cutting staff in every Province! Some answer to our problem, huh?

Most of the blame for our present predicament lies at the feet of unnecessary and costly state and federal insurance regulations, burgeoning Medicaid and Medicare enrollments, and unlimited malpractice suit awards!

I urge my fellow citizens to wake up before the Democrats (and some Republicans) hoist another socialist weight upon the shoulders of the already staggering American taxpayer.

In short, get the government out of the way and we'll get the problems they caused straightened out very nicely, thank you.

Respectfully yours,

Unconstitutional Robin Hood plan spotlights two Cooke County lawsuits

by Elaine Schad

A Texas Supreme Court decision deeming the state's school finance system unconstitutional has thrown the ball back into the court of legislators, while heaping continued frustration onto taxpayers, school districts and taxing entities across the state, officials said.

The court, on a 7-2 vote, ruled last Thursday that the current system of requiring county education districts to collect and distribute property taxes violates the state constitution, which prohibits a statewide property tax unless approved by Texas voters as a constitutional amendment.

Adding to the confusion, however, is the fact that the Supreme Court has agreed that the system just deemed unconstitutional will stay in effect until June 1993. That means that county education districts, including the Cooke County Education District, will continue to collect and distribute tax money to the county's eight school districts through the 1992 tax year, officials said.

The ruling comes following the creation last year of 188 county education taxing districts by the Texas Legislature. The districts were created in an attempt to equalize funding between the state's property-rich and property-poor school districts. These new CEDs, deemed unconstitutional last week, will distribute an estimated $4.5 billion in revenue to Texas school districts by the end of the 1991-92 school year, according to a report from the Texas Attorney General's Office.

"I think there's a lot of concern on the part of most superintendents in the fact that they've given them (Texas Legislature) a year to take care of things again," said Muenster ISD Superintendent Steve Cooper. "It seems to create additional anxiety as we wonder what they're going to come up with this time," he said.

Meanwhile, at the Cooke County Appraisal District, which has the contract to administer the education district in Cooke County, Chief Appraiser Ross Fry said the office received "a tremendous amount" of certified mail this week, bearing postmarks by the Jan. 31 deadline for payment of 1991 property taxes. Many people were apparently waiting for the court decision, hoping that they may be able to delay or not pay their taxes due to all the confusion, he said.

"The money is coming in better than I expected," said Fry of the tax money being collected for the county education district. About 60 percent had been collected just before the deadline, he said. It will take about a week to process all the mail the district has received in the past couple of days, he said.

Cooke County is a party named in two lawsuits that are part of larger lawsuits involved with the constitutional question and questioning the payment of taxes, said Fry. The Bandero Land and Cattle Co. has filed suit in an Austin court protesting the payment of taxes under the current system deemed constitutional. The company has holdings in Cooke County which amount to about $270,000 in property taxes, but those taxes have been paid while the protest is pending to avoid penalty as prescribed by tax law, said Mr. Fry.

A Cooke County woman is a party to a second lawsuit, asking a Fort Worth court for a restraining order which would prevent her from paying about $670 in taxes. The CCED this week hired law firms to deal with the suits at no legal costs to the district, officials said.

Fry sees potential problems with the collection of 1992 property taxes, depending upon how well, or how poorly, the Texas Legislature deals with formulating a new way of financing the state's public schools. "We will have to collect 1992 taxes under the current law," said Fry. "With every other person coming in and complaining, we're going to get a lot of criticism if the legislature won't fix it until next summer," he said.

In the meantime, Cooke County school districts, and those statewide, at least have the assurance that they won't have to close their doors before the end of the current school year, said Cooper. There had been concern that, had the court only deemed the system unconstitutional, that county education taxing districts would be prevented from disbursing tax money that the schools need to stay open.

"What's being said defies logic, and often, illogical things end up in court," Cooper said of the ruling, which will allow an unconstitutional system to remain in place for at least another year. "At least it will give us some kind of continuity," he said. "As far as I'm concerned, the only thing it does is gives us one year as a base for planning."

With all the confusion that the Texas Supreme Court decision has brought on, what is in the future for Texas public school districts and for Texas taxpayers?

According to local officials, it's anyone's guess. Since 1992 is an election year, Cooper doesn't believe anything will be done at the state level until at least January 1993, when the legislature is set to begin a new session. That could push school districts into a financial corner again, wondering where their money is going to come from for the next school year.

The same old issues are expected to be brought forward - proposals for school district consolidation, state income tax, increasing the sales tax base or the sales tax - all of which are politically volatile, and therefore unpopular.

"It boils down to leadership," said Cooper. "Most people know what needs to be done, but it won't enhance their political situation," he said.

As for the Muenster ISD, quality education will remain, but many of the school districts in Texas are in a state of change, and could be affected dramatically in a negative way if something isn't resolved soon, said Cooper.

"I think the Muenster ISD is an island in an ocean of confusion. We're anchored, but we're one of the exceptions," said Cooper. "We'll have some stability for one year, but then we'll be back to square one again," he said. "All of us might be affected if we don't come up with something substantial."

MISD offers free study skills videos

by Superintendent Steve Cooper

MISD has purchased two study skills videos to use in grades 3-11. These videos have received national exposure and are titled "Where there is a will there is an A." One video is for elementary students and the other tape is for high school students. The tapes include practical study skills that encourage achievement and success.

Each campus either has shown, or has plans to show, these tapes to each student in the above mentioned grades. After this has been done, it is our intent to place the tapes in the library and allow parents to check them out to view, at home, with their child. We expect the tapes to be available by the first week in April.

Each video comes with a study guide that can be taken home and used by the parent and kept at home for future reference. We would encourage all parents to check out the appropriate video. Viewing it will enhance a parent's ability to help their child develop good study skills and contribute to a student's success at school.

The videos are beneficial for all students. Those who have good study skills will benefit from the review and reinforcement of existing skills and those who don't have the skill level they need will benefit from the acquisition of those skills because of the simple format used in the presentation.

Please contact either the campus principals, our counselor, or our librarian for further details.

-Robert Bauer requested that the council reveal information about a complaint made against him concerning trash disposal on his property. Though the council would not reveal the identity of the complainant, they said the matter was resolved with no problem. Bauer said he was glad there was no trouble and he "felt real safe to know that someone is really watching my property."

-A residential paving assessment was approved to be paid out on installments as a special case in which the property owner was elderly and in the rest home.

-The city will refund property taxes of $211.82 to Muenster Drilling Co. for incorrect collection in 1990.

-An offer from the Weinzapfel Family Trust to sell a parcel of land east of the Muenster City Park to the city was tabled.

After the meeting, council members were questioned concerning their evident dissatisfaction with some of Joe Fenton's actions. Grant questioned Fenton's failure to turn in receipts for expenses for a seminar in Austin. Tuggle recounted the welder story and indicated that something had to be done about the cost of $25.23 per hour plus supplies.

Concerning the park, Tuggle said, "With the number of employees the city has, after dropping garbage pick-up, I feel we had to either lay them off or justify the work they do. We don't want to lay off if we can justify the work."

Fenton responded to the questions Tuesday. "The arrangement with James Harrison for his welder was set up in a public council in 1984, $12.00 plus supplies over his regular pay and benefits, only shortly after I took this job. I couldn't have been playing favorites. Regarding the receipts in Austin: no one has asked me for receipts until you have now. I have most of them, but a few were just too impractical to keep, mostly meals while away from the conference. I simply asked for $100.00 to cover these items: 3 1/2-days' meals, tapes from part of the conference for future reference, gas to return from Austin, and $16.00 hotel-motel tax. That doesn't include $50.00 of my own money I used. Considering that while in Austin, I checked out some used police cars and ran some legal errands, in addition to attending the seminars, I'd say the expenses were certainly fair and the city got a good deal."

Feb. 2-8 is Public Health Week in Texas

The Texas Department of Health (TDH) and local health agencies will observe Public Health Week in Texas, Feb. 2-8, as proclaimed by Gov. Ann Richards.

This year's theme for the annual observance is "Celebrate Your Good Health!"

Dr. Robert A. MacLean, Acting Texas Commissioner of Health, said, "If a person enjoys clean air, safe water, non-contaminated food, dependable emergency medical care and modern disease control services, then he or she has reaped the benefits of the state's public health programs."

During Public Health Week, community leaders have been urged to help promote the health services available to their populations and to discuss emerging public health issues.

"The week is an opportunity for communities to take stock of their health resources and protections, and to compare their programs with those of other cities," Dr. MacLean said.

Stefan Bergmann, journalist, is guest from Germany

A week spent by Stefan Bergmann in Muenster, Texas "was most enjoyable because Muenster is the most German town I've seen outside Germany", he said.

Inspired to spend a "holiday" in the United States, after he learned of Dr. and Mrs. Martin Kralicke during one of their trips to Germany, Bergmann made plans to use his next vacation in this country. When that time arrived, he spent one week at home with his parents, the next in Florida and the third in Muenster.

In Florida, he rented a car, saw the Everglades, Florida Keys, Cape Canaveral, Orlando and Disneyworld. He said he was advised to avoid downtown Miami because of danger.

Varied visits and sightseeing trips were provided for him by his hosts, who met his plane at DFW on Tuesday, Jan. 21, at 3:30 p.m. That evening, he was their dinner guest with Mayor and Mrs. Ted Henscheid.

One day, he went flying with the mayor as his pilot, seeing the Red River, oil wells, agricultural areas, aerial views of Muenster and the routes of the Germanfest Fun Run and Bicycle Rally (always taking pictures).

He spent Wednesday as a guest of Jerry and Betty Rose Walterscheid on a trip to the Fort Worth Stock Show and Rodeo. Bergmann related, "I saw pictures of that event before, but now I was amazed at really how big it all is."

One day he took a walking tour of Muenster; visited The Muenster Enterprise; visited both schools, marveling at the educational opportunities provided, and was a guest of Eric Gray; enjoyed viewing the interior of Sacred Heart Church; visited Muenster Medical Center, Dr. Kralicke's office and Muenster Memorial Hospital; viewed several of the largest businesses; took note of the restorations on Main Street and the "ethnic influence" (always taking more pictures) and Muenster's restaurants; and drove to the scenic areas north of town.

One day, he was among dinner guests when Mary Ann Grant was hostess. On Sunday, he also attended Mass in Sacred Heart Church.

On Friday afternoon, Bergmann accompanied David Fette and the Scouts (Webelos) to the Red River as they began a weekend campout. He rode a bicycle back from the river, after dark. He said, "Pickup drivers were a bit surprised." But bicycle riding is almost old hat to him, as he related that, of the 260,000 population of Munster,

STEFAN BERGMANN

Germany, 55,000 are students and "everyone rides bicycles!"

Another day, the Kralickes and friends took him to Sheppard Air Base where plans were to interview student pilots from Germany. Bergmann was privileged to tour the installation and said he developed a new respect for the multiplicity and sophistication of instrument and control panels on airplanes.

In Wichita Falls, he also purchased a western hat. "Now I wonder at the reception I might get when I go back to work next Monday, Feb. 3."

He departed Tuesday, Jan. 28, at 8 a.m. from DFW; changed planes in Miami and arrived in Dusseldorf, Germany at 8 a.m. Wednesday. From there, he took the train to Munster, then to Ascheberg, arriving home before lunch on Wednesday, Jan. 29.

Interviewed by David Fette, Bergmann told that he was born in Ascheberg, Westfalen south of Munster. His parents are Dieter and Elfriede Bergmann and he has a brother, Rainer. He attended school in Ascheberg from age 6 to 10, and high school in Werne from 10 to 19 and college for three more years, where he studied, among other classes, Germanistik, "Signs of the German Language," Literature, Philosophy and Allgemeine Sprachwissenschaft, "Signs of All Language."

He has completed all of his college work, except final exams, which were interrupted when the daily newspaper, "Westfälische Nachrichten," accepted him. There he is known as a "Redakteur," a journalist engaged by a newspaper. He has experience in advertisement, page layout, reporting, writing and photography.

As he continued his interview with Dave Fette, he described his hometown of Ascheberg, which last year celebrated its 1,100-year anniversary. He said many family-owned farms surround the town and dairying and pork production are dominant. Most workers commute to Munster, and many mothers work outside the home to supplement the family income.

Religious affiliation, he said, is mostly Catholic and there are three churches - Sankt Lambertus (St. Lambert) and St. Anna and St. Benedict. Churches are usually crowded on Sundays and holy days. Priestly opinion, he said matters greatly in local affairs.

There are two favorite holidays. The biggest festival and party originated in the 15th century. It is Kirmes, celebrated in July. The newest is Sankt Lambertus Markt, a craft fair and sale, celebrated for the first time last year in September. And there are many clubs and societies.

Asked "what is your favorite food here?" he said, "Hamburgers, steak and Muenster cheese - and everything else. It's all so very good!"

Bergmann explained that soccer is a favorite team sport in Germany and that there are many squash enthusiasts. It is a two-man, extremely rapid game. Tennis and swimming are enjoyed and sometimes basketball.

He carried home with him a packet of pamphlets and brochures assembled by Muenster City Secretary Celine Dittfurth, including the new Germanfest souvenir magazine published by The Muenster Enterprise.

He added that his one disappointment was not being able to meet Police Chief Helen Tompkins, "the lady chief of police."

Stefan Bergmann offered this as his ultimate compliment with his goodbye, "Muenster is the most German town I've seen outside Germany."

I wish to thank all the people who gave me warm hospitality here in Muenster, Texas.

Special thanks to:

Betty and Martin Kralicke, Carol and Ted Henscheid, Gerald and Ron Walterscheid.

Weather causes delay on Era gym construction

by Elaine Schad

Era School District residents may not be able to have an air conditioned graduation in their new gymnasium come May, school officials said.

This winter's heavy rains have forced construction delays of the new 25,000 square-foot high school campus addition in the southwestern Cooke County community, said Era Superintendent Dale Smiley, who estimated that workers are now some 45 days behind schedule.

The estimated $1 million project includes the construction of eight classrooms, which include two science laboratories and a computer laboratory. A gymnasium, cafeteria, restrooms and a bookroom will also be built. The present library will be converted to up to two classrooms after the new building is completed.

Voters last March approved a $1.2 million bond to fund the project, which is needed due to the district's growing enrollment. Present enrollment is 354 students.

Hospital Auxiliary hosts Dr. Alfred Antonetti

Preceding the January meeting, Joan Walterscheid, Director of Nursing at Muenster Memorial Hospital, introduced Dr. Alfred Antonetti to the Hospital Auxiliary members and guests. Dr. Antonetti gave an excellent program on "Skin Lesions - Benign and Malignant." Refreshments were then served.

The Auxiliary meeting began at 8:30 p.m., with President Peggy Grewing presiding. Invocation was given by Betty Rose Walterscheid. In absence of Brenda Rigsby, minutes were read by Lora Hennigan.

Glenda Russell gave the treasurer's report. Peggy welcomed all the new members, and presented Past President Donna Biffle with a gift and a long-stemmed rose for all the things she accomplished last year.

The Auxiliary's business agenda included sign-up for telephone and refreshment committees, plans to celebrate the hospital's 28th anniversary, suggestions to increase Auxiliary membership, Germanfest work schedule, and the Auxiliary's fall fundraiser.

A motion was made and seconded to send a thank you note to the MMH kitchen staff for refreshments provided during 1991. Kathy Bauer reported on the wreath the Auxiliary sent to welcome Dr. Walsh.

The Christmas caroling project was reported by Donna Biffle, who said that 10 members participated by caroling at the hospital, St. Richard's Villa, the convent and numerous residences.

The meeting was adjourned by President Peggy Grewing.

DWI awareness to be promoted at program

The Star Flight DWI Awareness Program is coming to Muenster High School on Monday, Feb. 10, at 2 p.m. The program will be presented for grades 7 through 12 with both Sacred Heart and Muenster High School students participating. The public is also invited to attend.

The Austin EMS/Star Flight DWI Awareness Program is a dynamic, hard-hitting audio/visual presentation designed to reduce the number of alcohol-related injuries and fatalities. The award-winning program targets junior and senior high school students.

A question and answer period will follow the slide presentation, in order that the students may have a "one-on-one" interaction with the EMS crew.

Lunch was then eaten in the Sale Barn Kitchen. After that, the Tiger Cubs watched the cattle being auctioned. Tiger Cubs attending were Jack Biffle, Michael Voth and Wesley Koelzer. They were accompanied by Jim and Donna Biffle and Jayna. The Biffles arranged the outing.

The three Tiger Cubs met on Saturday, Jan. 25, in the home of Janet and Danny Voth to make placemats for the Blue and Gold Banquet in February. Their country was Germany and they designed mats with German artwork.

Skin Wellness stressed at meeting

A program on "Skin Wellness" was presented by Jan Cain, Mary Kay consultant, at the Jan. 20 meeting of Beta Kappa. Jan showed a video tape, told of the importance of using sunscreen, discussed prevention of skin cancer and answered questions from members.

Following the program, the regular monthly meeting was conducted by President Dolores Miller. Pam Dangelmayr reported on the status of this year's scholarship application. Forms will be available at both local schools in the counselor's offices. The forms will not be mailed to each senior student as they have been in the past.

The Social Committee announce plans for a Valentine's party on Feb. 15 in the home of Billie and Jerry Fleitman. This will take the place of the Christmas party and couple's party.

A Love Fund was opened for Stephanie Hoenig and a contribution was made to Kurt Hermes' Love Fund. Both are at the Muenster State Bank.

Jean Walterscheid and Ramona Felderhoff were appointed Germanfest chairmen. Last year's chairmen Dolores Miller and Connie Grewing will act as advisors.

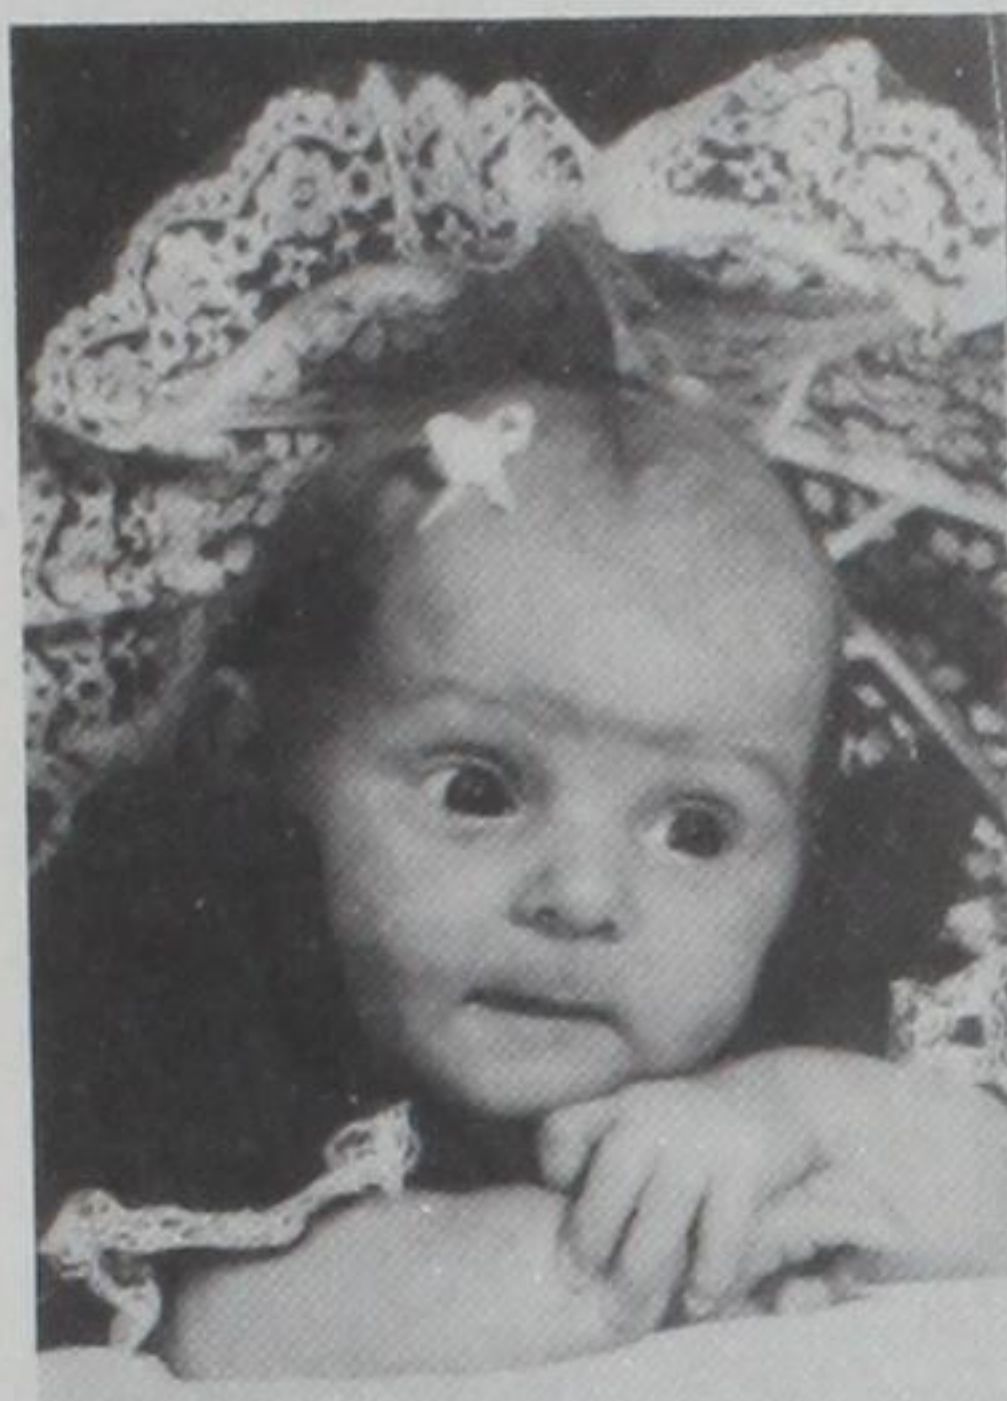

A collection will be held for St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital on Feb. 22. Donations will be accepted at the doors of Sacred Heart Church after all Masses.

Plans were made to attend "A...My Name Is Alice," a Butterfield Stage Play in which Beta Kappa member Christy Hesse had a part. This was the Ladies Day Out activity. Ten members attended the performance on Thursday, Jan. 30.

In other business, Jean Walterscheid and Sharon Felderhoff reported on gifts purchased for Littlest Angels; a nominating committee was formed to present a slate of officers at the February meeting; at the suggestion of the Jonquil chairman, Pam Dangelmayr, it was decided to discontinue birthday card greetings and, in the future, to acknowledge birthdays at monthly meetings.

The meeting was held in the meeting room of the Cooke County Electric Cooperative. Laurie Rohmer was the hostess.

Undefeated in 2nd round... Hornets sting Knights

"This was a great game for the boys, a game that showed persistence pays off," said Muenster Coach Brian Strother.

The old rivalry between Muenster and Lindsay continued Tuesday night at the Hornets Nest, with Muenster taking the win; this time, 57-51 in overtime.

It was a close battle with the teams even after the first quarter. The next period was back and forth, with the Knights taking a 4-point lead at halftime. Lindsay built a 12-point lead in the third quarter, but outstanding free throw shooting by Muenster closed the gap to 2 points going into the final quarter.

"We were doing good until we lost Kenny (Fleitman) in the third quarter with a knee injury," said Knights Coach George Thomason. "They took it to us when Kenny went out; he's hard to replace, with his height."

The fourth quarter was an edge-of-your-seat thriller with Muenster tying, but never able to take the lead. The quarter ended when Muenster turned the ball over to the Knights, then fouled. The player missed a one-and-one and the game went into overtime. The overtime was all Muenster outscoring Lindsay 6-0 for the 57-51 district win.

A big difference in the outcome of the game was free throws. The Hornets hit in 18 of 25 while Lindsay made 6 of 12. Fourteen of Muenster's charity points were made in the second half of the game.

Doug Hennigan and Steven Fisher sent in 14 points apiece to lead the Hornets. Mike Gobble added 11, with Justin Ramsey tossing in 8. Ryan Sicking and Kody Truebenbach each scored 2 with Jay Hennigan coming in 6. "Jay played great, cutting off the bench and taking over the point when Doug fouled out with 52 seconds in the game."

Ronnie Dieter tossed in 18 points and Patrick Corcoran right behind him with 15 to lead Lindsay scorers. Kenny Fleitman added 6 with Wylie Harris and Shane Huchton hitting 4 apiece and Travis Huchton and Will Thomason each scoring 2.

"The gym was packed and we want to thank our fans for being there cheering. The atmosphere was the best and the fans might have been the edge we needed," concluded Coach Strother.

Lindsay must win their final two district games, Era and Saint Jo, and Muenster needs to defeat Saint Jo Tuesday for the Knights to finish second place behind Muenster.

If Saint Jo upsets the Hornets, and Lindsay wins, a tie situation will develop, forcing a playoff game.

Lady Hornets win 57-43 over Alvord girls

"This was a game we really wanted, because a victory would clinch no worse than a tie for first place in the second round," stated Muenster Coach Brian Strother. "We want to win the district championship outright."

Muenster traveled to Alvord last week Friday, finishing the night with a 57-43 victory.

Alvord took a 3-point lead the first quarter, but Muenster turned up their defense and outscored the Lady Bulldogs 17-7 to take a 27-21 halftime lead. The Lady Hornets increased their lead the second half, scoring 30 points to Alvord's 22. "The two major differences in this game were free throws and whose bench was the strongest," said Strother. "Muenster won in both categories. The last couple of weeks our bench has been scoring as well as playing great defense."

In the fourth quarter, Muenster hit 11 of 18 free throws with DaLana Walterscheid hitting 6 of 8 for 10 points in the quarter.

Walterscheid was high scorer with 12 points. Dianne Pagel added 11 and Theresa Kubis 10. Candise Abney hit in 8 points and brought down 12 rebounds. Rounding out Muenster's scoring were Danell Reiter with 6, Amy Otto 4, Kristi Bierschenk 4 and Leslie Klement 2.

The win gave the Lady Hornets another victory in their flawless 25-0 season.

Hornets take on Bulldogs

After a trip to Alvord Friday night, the Muenster Hornets improved their district second-round record to 2-0 with a 72-67 win over the Bulldogs.

"This was a big game for us because we want to win the first seed in the district race," said Muenster Coach Brian Strother. Muenster played hard with a 9-point first-period lead. Steven Fisher came off the bench and hit 13 points the first half to assist in Muenster's 35-26 halftime lead.

Alvord started the third quarter with a 9-2 lead, but after a timeout, Justin Ramsey hit the next 7 points, then Doug Hennigan took the game over. "Doug hit the big shots - everytime Alvord made a run, he'd hit a big shot. He is having a real MVP year," commented Strother.

Hennigan was again Muenster's hottest Hornet with 25 points, 8 rebounds, 7 assists, 5 steals and 10 of 14 at the free throw line.

Valley View rejoins Class A

The big news in last week's announcement from the Texas UIL on school redistricting was Valley View rejoining Muenster as a Class A school and Gainesville dropping to 3A.

In District 17A, the 1992-94 football season, that involves Muenster, includes Valley View, Lindsay, Era, Saint Jo and Collinsville. Gainesville will outman Whitesboro, Sanger, Princeton, Pottsboro, Frisco, Farmersville and Bonham in District 9AAA.

In basketball, District 24A will include Muenster, Lindsay, Era, Saint Jo, Valley View and Ponder. Alvord joins Chico, Petrolia and Windthorst in District 23 with Forestburg matched up against Gold-Burg, Poolville and Slidell.

Tigerettes get win, 2-0

Sacred Heart's Tigerettes traveled to Wichita Falls Saturday evening and expected a hard-fought game down to the wire with the hosts of Notre Dame. The game was hard fought, only it did not go down to the wire. With 4:21 remaining in the third period, the officials called the game with the score knotted at 26 each. "We were shocked," said Tigerette mentor LeBrasseur. "The Notre Dame administration was ushering an unruly fan out when another Knight fan was asked to leave. The second Knight fan started to exit, but only returned to the court for one last word. The officials turned to the scorers' table and called the game."

The officials recorded the game as a 2-0 forfeit win in favor of the Tigerettes. "The officials could have continued the game with an empty gym," said LeBrasseur. "Our fans were fine and that would have been unfair for our fans. The play on the floor was hard but fair. It is just unfortunate for the schools, but it did set an example for spectator behavior." With the win, the Tigerettes now will play the second-place team in the West in this weekend's District Tournament.

A basket at the buzzer by Notre Dame star Mandy Cluley broke an 11-all tie and lifted Notre Dame to a 13-11 first-quarter edge. Six second period points by Tigerette sophomore Deanna Hess helped the Tigerettes to a 23 deadlock at the half. "We played a nice half," said LeBrasseur. "We were controlling the boards and the game's tempo, along with getting to the charity stripe."

Notre Dame scored the first hoop in the third before Tigerette Deann Bayer scored a lay-in off a nice Christy Yosten screen. That's when the fireworks began. "We were a little rattled," said Coach LeBrasseur. "We only hit 1 of 7 free shots to open the period. It would have been nice to finish the contest!"

Because of the forfeited game, the only stat that will be recorded is a 2-0 Tigerette win. Stats up to the 4:21 mark showed Shirley Henschel hitting for 7, Deanna Hess 6, the Bayer girls - Vickie and Deann - 5 each, along with Mandy Barnhill 2. Vickie Bayer led the Tigerettes with 7 rebounds and shared the assist lead with Tigerette quarterback Jennifer Walter 2 each. Deanna Hess had 3 assists for the Tigerettes.

Tigers fall to Notre Dame

"We were once again destroyed by Notre Dame's height," said Coach John Nasche on Sacred Heart's 94-20 lancing Saturday night. "They're tall and big, taking up a lot of space under the basket. We couldn't rebound, allowing them to score nearly every possession."

The Knights' 6'6", 230-pound senior Terry Findley scored 43 points to intimidate the Tigers.

Stevan Nasche was Sacred Heart's leading scorer with 5. Mark Flusche and Joe Bedowitz each added 4. Kelly Bayer, Jason Hess and Aaron Berres rounded out the scoring for the Tigers.

Coach Nasche said the game was their coldest, with the Tigers never getting on track. The Knights' height made Sacred Heart take a lot of bad shots.

Charity stops Tigerettes

The Era Lady Hornets connected on 11 of 23 charity tosses to trip the Tigerettes Tuesday evening in Era by a 49-42 count. "We just needed to get to the line a few more times," said Sacred Heart Coach Jon LeBrasseur. "We outscored them from the field, but we only attempted six free throws."

The Tigerettes raced to a 15-8 first period advantage as Deann Bayer connected on two 3-pointers and teammate Shirley Henscheid nailed a bomb. Vickie Bayer, Christy Yosten and Jo Vagher each chipped in a deuce. Era reversed the tables in the second period as they hit for 15 while the Tigerettes only scored 9. Christy Yosten hit for 4, Deann Bayer another 3 and Shirley Henscheid hit the last shot of the half to give the Tigerettes the lead going into the locker room.

Both squads hit for 10 in the third canto as Deann Bayer hit for 6, Vickie Bayer 2 and April Truebenbach scored a deuce. The game was nip-and-tuck in the final frame with Era pulling out the win as they connected on 10 of 14 from the free throw line. "It was a well-played ball game by both squads," said LeBrasseur. "Down the stretch, we missed two lay-ups and four free throws, if those shots would have dropped, we might have pulled out the win."

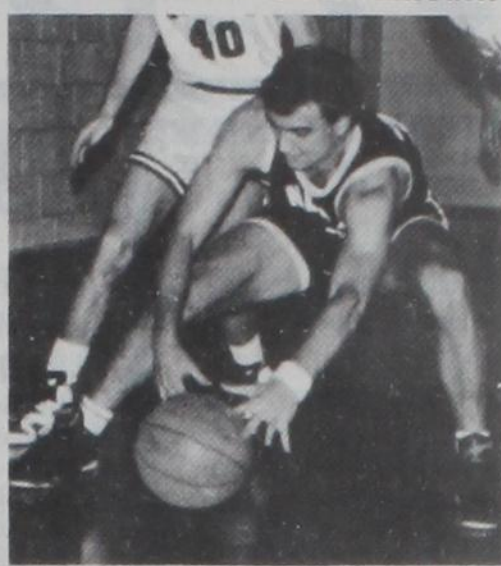

Deann Bayer hit 5 of 9 from the field, all 3-pointers for 15 points to pace the Tigerettes. "This was Deann's best game of the year," said LeBrasseur. Bayer also led the Tigerettes with 6 rebounds. Junior running mate Christy Yosten was also credited with an outstanding game as she netted 8 points. Vickie Bayer scored 6, Shirley Henscheid 5, April Truebenbach 4, Jo Vagher and Mandy Barnhill 2 each. Jennifer Walter handed out 5 assists before fouling out in the final period.

The Tigerettes will be involved in the TAPPS District IV Tournament this weekend in the Tiger Den. "I was pleased with our performance last night," said LeBrasseur. "The girls are really coming along and just are a few big plays from returning to the top." "Everybody is 0-0 Friday and we are starting to show signs of a championship-type team." The Tigerettes play Friday evening at 8:30 against Alamo Catholic, a 3-point loser to Lubbock Christian last Friday night.

In a preliminary contest, the Sacred Heart sophomores defeated the Tigerette 9th.

Lindsay sinks Petrolia

Lindsay hosted Petrolia Friday night with both Knight varsity teams keeping the wins at home.

In the girls' game, all 10 Lady Knights scored. Christi Secrest and Cassandra Fuhrmann led the Lindsay attack with 15 and 12 points, respectively, while Debbie Fangman and Laura Lutkenhaus each contributed 8. Suzanna Hellinger chipped in 6, with Susie Arendt and Jessica Fuhrmann hitting 4 apiece. Janel Fuhrmann, Janelle Hellinger and Trisha Krebs rounded out the scoring.

"The juniors came in and did a good job behind the five senior starters," said Coach George Thomason. "The team showed quickness on defense, good passing and hit some good points."

The Knights controlled the first half of the boys' game, 35-23, but turned cold the third quarter. "We couldn't get anything to go in; we missed the easy shots and lay-up give-me's," said Coach Thomason. "We had too many turnovers." Petrolia closed the scoring gap to 40-38 to start the final quarter, before the Knights got back on track for a 59-48 victory.

Kenny Fleitman used his height to pop in 22 points. Ronnie Dieter tossed in 13 and Will Thomason 10. Wylie Harris added 6, Patrick Corcoran 4 and Jeff Hermes and Jeff Pearson 2 apiece for the Knights. The district open date was a good warm-up game for Tuesday's match with Muenster.

Era outplays Tigers

The Sacred Heart Tigers were handed another defeat in a struggling basketball season. Era stung the Tigers 86-47 Tuesday night in the Hornets Hive. "We started slow, played well the remainder of the game, but couldn't catch up," said Coach John Nasche. "We have to play all four quarters."

Era jumped out to a 23 lead the first quarter before scoring evened out in a slow second period. The Hornets outscored the Tigers 22 points in the third for a demanding lead toward their win.

Stevan Nasche led the Tigers with 14 points with Aaron Berres hitting in 7. Neil Berres, Joe Bedowitz and Kelly Bayer scored 5 apiece while Jason Hess, Chris Hess and Mike Gehrig each hit in 3. Weldon Bayer added 2. Mark

Flusche didn't score, but played outstanding defense.

The six Hornets that scored all hit the double digits. Led by Matt Lyons with 20, Steven Wolfe added 18. Kirk Short and Will Turner each put in 14 points, followed by Dan Proffer and Marty Rehm with 10 apiece.

Walterscheid leads Mustangs to victory

Vicki Walterscheid, graduate of Sacred Heart High School, was SMU's leading scorer in their 67-58 win over Rice. In the game, played last Saturday at Moody Coliseum, Walterscheid had a busy night, tallying 18 points. She hit 6 of 13 from the field and 6 of 8 at the free throw line.

The Lady Mustangs, 11-6 overall and 3-3 in the SWC, won their first home season conference game.

Every American Wants A Safe Blood Supply.

Here's What We're Doing About It.

- 1 THE AMERICAN BLOOD SUPPLY is constantly and thoroughly tested.
- 2 BLOOD BANKS HAVE ADDED FIVE ADDITIONAL SCREENING TESTS for infectious diseases since 1985 to increase safety. Seven separate screening tests are now conducted on each unit of blood donated, including tests for AIDS, hepatitis and syphilis.
- 3 THE U.S. DOES NOT ALWAYS HAVE AN ADEQUATE SUPPLY OF BLOOD. While protecting it against infectious diseases is of primary concern, maintaining an adequate supply of safe blood has become increasingly important as donors receive more scrutiny.
- 4 BEFORE DONATING BLOOD, EACH DONOR IS ASKED MULTIPLE QUESTIONS about high-risk behavior that would disqualify donations.
- 5 STERILIZED NEEDLES USED TO DRAW BLOOD ARE NEVER REUSED. There is no risk of AIDS or other infectious diseases when donating blood.
- 6 AS AN ALTERNATIVE TO BLOOD TRANSFUSIONS, today a growing number of people benefit from autologous (self) transfusions.

AGRICULTURAL HAPPENINGS

Dairy Seminar and DHIA Program
Dairymen in the area are invited to a program and luncheon on Thursday, Feb. 13, at The Center Restaurant in Muenster.

Dr. Ellen Jordan, Extension Dairy Specialist, will present a program on Reproductive Management and Its Correlation with Record Keeping Systems. Dennis Carr, District Supervisor of Texas DHIA, will be on hand to talk about a new program offered in DHIA called "Current Test Day Analysis." Annual DHIA reports have been completed and will be distributed at the meeting along with county DHIA awards.

All dairymen in the area are invited to attend whether they are enrolled in DHIA or not. The information covered will concern all dairymen. Cooke County DHIA will sponsor the noon luncheon.

Home Fruit Demonstration
Many homeowners in the county have various fruit trees in their yards that provide delicious fare during the summer. Disease and insects can cause many problems lowering the quality of peaches and plums.

An afternoon demonstration is scheduled for 5 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 13, at the Hugh Porter home located at the intersection of FM 1630 and FM 3108 south of Gainesville. Proper pruning techniques, homeowners' fruit and nut spray schedules, fertility and recommended variety list will be covered. Homeowners are invited to attend and participate in the pruning demonstration.

Cactus, Range and Brush Control Workshop

Current technologies provide producers with excellent means of controlling undesirable weeds, brush and cacti. Landowners have the opportunity to use a variety of control methods including air, ground equipment, backpack sprayers and small hand sprayers in order to control these species. A special workshop designed to demonstrate proper cactus and brush control will be held on Friday, Feb. 14, at 12 noon at the G.C. Ellis Ranch located on County Road 337 near the Rosston Community. The ranch is located halfway between Era and Rosston one mile south of FM 922. Web Brasher with Dow Chemical Company will present the demonstration. A hamburger lunch will be provided and hosted by the Ellises. Results of past demonstrations will be observed on the Ellis Ranch. Producers are invited to attend the workshop.

4-H Dairy Goat Workshop
4-H members with dairy goats or those who have an interest in dairy goats are invited to a workshop to be held on Saturday, Feb. 15, at 2 p.m. at the Cooke County Fairgrounds. Barbara Bayer, 4-H Dairy Goat Leader, will be in charge of the program and work with the boys and girls on Breeds, Fitting and Showing Techniques. Showmanship will be a major portion of the program and 4-H members should bring their goats, weather permitting.

If you need additional information, contact Barbara Bayer at 759-2574 or the County Extension Office 668-5412.

Equipment Calibration Workshop
Spraying equipment is essential in many agricultural enterprises in the county. Problem insects, weeds and diseases make pesticides necessary in certain instances. In order to properly control destructive pests in the environment, sprayers need to be calibrated for accuracy.

A series of Sprayer Calibration Workshops will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 18. These will begin at 8 a.m. at W.B. Hudspeth, Inc. at Era, 10:30 a.m. at the Cooke County Electric Co-Op in Muenster, and at 2 p.m. at the Henry Popp Farm located on Highway 82 near Metal Sales.

Producers are invited to bring their boom-type sprayers and granular box planter applicators to be calibrated. Allen Knutson, Dale Lovelace, Craig Rosenbaum and Jess Harralson will be on hand to calibrate and discuss sprayer maintenance, tip selection and other aspects of agricultural sprayers.

A lunch will be provided at the 10:30 a.m. location at the Cooke County Electric Co-Op at Muenster. Gerald Hobson with DuPont Chemical Company will provide the noon meal to producers attending. A special session will be conducted at noon on Herbicides for Crop Systems in Cooke County. Agricultural producers are invited to attend this special meeting. Two Continuing Education Units toward your Private Pesticide Applicators License will be offered at the workshop.

4-H Agriculture and Livestock Club

A new 4-H Agriculture and Livestock Club will hold their February meeting on Saturday, Feb. 22, at 10 a.m. at the Davidson Sheep Farm located on FM 3092 approximately one mile north of FM 902. 4-H members will tour the sheep farm and learn about various breeds, reproduction, and other aspects of sheep herdsmanhip.

The new club is designed to give youth a better understanding of all agricultural industries located in Cooke County and the surrounding area. Meetings are held on area farms and ranches so that boys and girls can experience animal and crop husbandry.

The 4-H Agriculture and Livestock Club is a special club open to all youth ages 9 or third grade to 19, regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin, including those who are currently enrolled in other community 4-H clubs. Youth interested in becoming a member can call the County Extension Office or club leaders Rudy Paclik at 668-6259 or Barbara Bayer at 759-2574.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is the first in a series of articles written by Ed Cler of Muenster, on items of interest, and news and views pertinent to the local agricultural and rural area. Some will be current and others reflective of another generation. More will follow at convenient intervals, and at his discretion.

"Sitting here looking out the patio door, I notice our tenant on his way to feed his cattle, and I don't envy his job. It's been tough on the cattlemen and farmers, but especially for the dairymen during this long spell of wet weather.

"I can't help but note the difference in the manner in which this is accomplished now, compared to when I was a boy, and through my growing-up time. I always rode a horse during the bad weather, when ungraded roads and ungraveled roads were impassable, even for a Model T Ford. This usually meant I rode about two out of every three days in the winter, about 11 miles each trip.

Sometimes, extra riding was needed to hunt that animal that didn't "come up" when called; or, to help birth a calf now and then.

...Seeing these boys come by with enough hay to feed about 18 cows for a day, all in one large round bale riding on a spear mounted on a FWD truck with a heater and closed cab, looks like a breeze.

But, note this: some of the cattlemen are out all day, going from pasture to pasture, sometimes unable to get all the way due to mud that is getting worse with each new rain or snow. I talked to a man, a day or so ago, that took his hay so far with his truck and then used his tractor to finish the job.

...The grain farmers are in bad shape this season. Much of the grain looks fair, but a lot of seed was planted in land that was too wet when worked, and didn't get fine enough to hold the moisture on the seed so it would germinate and come up to a good stand. Then, later plantings received so much rain before it came up that much of the seed rotted in the ground.

One farmer who is a member of a good-sized partnership told me they have several farms that are still mostly unworked at this time, due to the wet weather. He also said they had not decided what to do with all the land, but indicated they probably wouldn't be paying a lot of income tax for this, this growing season.

...When I was younger, we sometimes had land that we were unable to plant in the fall, so it was usually planted to spring oats, corn or cotton. Several days ago, enroute to Denton, we passed a field of cotton between Valley View and Sanger. It had not been harvested. Looked like it had been a fair crop, so far as yield goes, but it looks pretty worthless at this time.

All in all, this fall and winter have been a bummer for people who are working the land for a living. We hope the next will be much better.

Develop heifers for herd future

The foundation for a sound reproductive future for your cow herd depends heavily upon setting adequate nutritional goals for your replacement heifers," advises Larry Corah, Extension beef cattle specialist at Kansas State University.

"Weaning is the ideal time to set those goals. And understanding and acting on the nutritional needs of replacement stock should help you improve the economic efficiency of your operation. Heifer development is where maintaining optimum reproductive efficiency should begin."

The first step to good heifer development is to target those heifers to weigh between 60 to 70 percent of their mature weight by the time they are bred as yearlings, advises Ron Bolze, northwest area Extension beef cattle specialist. Heifers should reach puberty by 13-14 months of age to be bred at least one heat cycle (21 days) ahead of the rest of the herd.

Once you've established a yearling target weight, Bolze says, record their current weights and determine the rate of gain you can realistically expect during the fall and winter. "Heifers should be able to gain between 1-1 1/2 pounds per head per day," says Bolze. "Translating that into feed, the females will probably need to receive some high quality forage, some grain, and almost all cases, a protein supplement.

"K-State research also showed that feeding an ionophore would increase daily gain and the percent of heifers cycling at the start of the breeding season.

"Another K-State study showed that deworming fall-born heifers at weaning will increase earlier cycling. Researchers put two groups of fall-born replacement heifers on a marginal nutritional plane after weaning. The group dewormed at weaning experienced a 17.3 percent higher cycling rate at the start of the breeding season compared to the control group that was not treated."

Two other payoffs from

Local 4-H'ers win at F W

Cooke County had several 4-H members competing in the junior division of the Southwestern Exposition and Livestock Show in Fort Worth.

Cooke County 4-H placed first in the 4-H and FFA Dairy Judging Contest. Team members included Michael Becker, Eddie Schad, Susan Kupper and Kimberly Kupper.

Ginger Andrew of Valley View 4-H Club placed 1st in her Yorkshire Barrow Class. Dean Champion showed the Reserve Champion Chester White Barrow.

These 4-H members were among over 6,000 Texas youngsters exhibiting their agricultural projects at this year's Stock Show.

Cooke County ASCS News

Election Results - Joe Myers was elected to another 3-year term in the recent election. Rosalee Bayer will serve as first alternate and Charles Huneycutt will serve as second alternate. Also serving on the committee in 1992 will be J.C. Skinner and Gene Schumacher.

Spouses' Signatures - Due to Texas being a community property state, both husbands and wives will be required to sign most of the documents needed for participation in the various programs offered by this office. Both signatures are required even if the payment is to be issued to only one. This means landlords and spouses also.

Producers can obtain power of attorney forms for spouses to sign for each other at this office. These power of attorney forms are only applicable to ASCS programs.

Farm Program Signup - Signup for the wheat, feed grain and cotton programs will be from Feb. 10 through April 17. We will do signup by appointment again this year. If you want to withdraw from the program, you must do this by April 17.

Crop Acreage Reports - For producers planning on signing up in the farm program, we will be able to take your acreage reports on the crops you have planted at the time you sign up. You will have until July 15 to report spring seeded crops. Producers not planning on signing up in the farm program will need to make an appointment prior to May 1 for small grains.

Office Closing - This office will be closed March 9, 10 and 11.

Disposal of chemical containers a problem

Farmers are rapidly running out of options for disposing of containers that carry pesticides and other agricultural chemicals. In just the four counties where the new recycling program will operate, for example, farmers generate 400,000 pounds of empty plastic and metal chemical containers each year. How to safely dispose of them has become an increasing concern.

Because of limited capacity and more stringent government regulation, many sanitary landfills are refusing to accept these containers. Open burning of pesticide containers has been made illegal in Texas, and specially designed incinerators are often too distant and costly for most farmers to use.

Metal pesticide containers have been recycled for some time, Cowan said, but low demand for recycled plastic has sent many of these containers to landfills.

Chemical companies have pledged to buy back the flaked plastic for use only as starting material for new chemical containers. Such a "closed loop" form of recycling prevents the use of these materials for making plastic containers for food, for example.

As another safeguard, the program will accept only containers that have been thoroughly rinsed to remove any chemical residues.

A permanent collection point for agricultural chemical containers has been established in Edinburg. Four other collection sites will accept containers only at announced dates and times, as demand warrants.

proper heifer development include heavier weaning weights on the heifer's first calf and better rebreeding performance. A three-year study by Purdue University shows that nearly 20 percent more of the heifers that were properly developed from weaning to rebreeding successfully rebred after their first calf. Properly developed heifers also weaned calves that were 38 pounds heavier.

A final benefit from good heifer development is calving ease. Dave Patterson, K-State graduate student, recently compared two groups of differently developed heifers and showed that heifers that were heavier at breeding had half as much difficulty calving as lighter heifers, even though the plane of nutrition from breeding until calving was identical.

The lighter group weighed 55 percent and the heavier group weighed 65 percent of their mature weights at breeding.

All of those studies reaffirm K-State's advice, "Don't cut corners on that heifer's nutritional development after weaning. It could cost you dearly."
