NUMBER 15

The February 20 deadline has passed and Russian Troops are still in Afghanistan. According to President Carter's ultimatum, United States will demonstrate its disapproval by refusing to participate in next summer's Moscow Olympics, and it will pressure other nations to join in the boycott.

We're heartily in favor of this action, not only because of the Soviet aggression on a free and independent country, as well as the death and hardship imposed on those people, but mostly because that kind of aggression has been old stuff with the Russians for many years, and besides the Olympics is rigged as a show to display Soviet superiority over other countries. In the first place they have no right to classify their athletes with others. They are professionals, paid by the state, and can't honestly claim to be in a class with other athletes. As cheaters, they don't even deserve to participate, much less to host the show.

However, basing our objection only on the Afghan issue, we can't be at all certain that the boycott will apply. History of the past half century reveals a number of cases in which the Reds have outfoxed the U.S. From the beginning of their expansion the story has been monotonously similar. We promptly object to the takeover, but Moscow follows with detente proposals and our relations return to sweetness and light. We can be reasonably certain that it will happen again. U.S. will be the sucker and Moscow will have both Afghanistan and the Olympics.

As we think over the situation we have to wonder why we've suddenly become so sensitive to Red expansion after overlooking so much of it in the past. Really it is absurd to raise such a fuss in this event when we did nothing about a much more advanced Communist take over in Cuba ... and only 90 miles from our shore. Does The Administration expect us to think that the highly developed installations of Cuba are less a threat to our security than the relatively simple forces in Afghanistan?

The alarming fact is that U.S. faces a far greater danger closer to home than half way around the world. And the real tragedy is that most of the trouble is of our own making. When Castro was revolting against Batista we were on the wrong side, ignoring evidence that Castro was a red. When he showed his real color we did nothing about it, just let the Russians proceed with setting up their island fortress under U.S. noses. We've had other incidents revealing the real nature of Cuba, and we've made some diplomatic complaints, but the island continues as a powerful Soviet fortress.

A few alarming facts about the situation there were told a few days ago by Eugenio de Sosa Chaboa who came to U.S. after 20 years of torture and filth as a political prisoner. Formerly a prominent business man and editor, he had been a strong supporter of Castro during the revolution. After the war, however, he saw the trend toward communism and warned his friend Fidel. That ended their friendship and started his long ordeal as a political prisoner.

DeSosa says that the island has amazing developments as a Soviet stronghold. About 130,000 Russian, Bulgarian and East German soldiers are there, all wearing Cuban uniforms, and all living as the country's elite. They have access to the best stores, hotels, recreation areas and have replaced original owners in the better homes. Cuban home folks, those not in prison or slave camps, buy

Dairy Short Course Booked March 5 at County College

Management will be the emphasis of the 1980 Dairy Short Course, sponsored jointly by our local dairy planning committee and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said Neil Tibbets, County Extension Agent. A short course intended for every dairyman is being planned for March 5, at Cooke County College Activities Center.

Nationally known speakers will address the area of nutrition, mastitis control, reproductive performance and calf management. The calf management program will be augmented by a local dairyman who will explain his program.

Leading a discussion on what dairymen should know about reproduction will be Dr. Fred Troutt, Associate Dean of the College of Veterinary Medicine at Virginia PI & SU. Dr.

Troutt has had principle responsibilities in the areas of food animal medicine and herd health medicine. Covering the area, "what a dairyman should know about reproduction," this nationally recognized authority in cow care will have a message for everyone. Working closely with Virginia dairymen, this veterinarian's cow sense will be a definite plus on the program, said agent Tibbets.

The short course is planned for dairymen participation. The Texas Agricultural Extension Service, along with local planning committees, planned this program because of needs explained by local dairymen. The short course, being held at Gainesville, is one of four short course locations. Others are in Navasota, Stephenville and Sulphur Springs.

Walt Parker is Candidate For Seat in Texas Senate

Veteran Legislator Walt Parker of Denton, one of the state's best known lawmakers, has announced his official candidacy for the Texas State Senate seat being vacated by retiring Senator Tom Creighton.

Parker, a successful builder, farmer, rancher and he occupied numerous positions of leadership in Austin which gave him important knowledge on how to be an effective legislator. He points out that such experience will enable him to be more effective, more quickly, for the district in the Senate.

(2) His familiarity with the district. A Fort Worth native who moved to Denton following high school, Parker has been active in teaching and coaching football in area high schools, in farming and ranching in Johnson County, and in the building industry in the area for 40 years. Thus, he has an intimate, firsthand understanding of the sprawling district and its varied problems and concerns.

(3) His record of concern for and service to the community. Long active in civic affairs, Parker has a record of service to his constituents so impressive that it prompted a special "Salute to Walt Parker" in Denton two years ago.

In addition to his business activities and legislative service, Parker was a National Football League referee for several years, and today still is an Official Observer for the NFL, grading and judging the activities of on-the-field officials. Parker is well-known throughout the district for speeches to various civic clubs and schools about professional football.

teacher, was elected to five terms in the state legislature. In addition, he has served as the state's first Executive Director of the School Tax Assessment Practices Board, and as an assistant to the President of North Texas State University.

In beginning his vigorous campaign to occupy the Senate seat for the 22nd District, Parker stressed three basic points:

(1) His experience in state government. As a House member from 1969 to 1978,

Public School Week Will Feature Arts-Crafts Show

Students, faculty, and the Parent Teacher Organization of Muenster Public School will participate next Tuesday in an open house plus arts and crafts show observing Public School Week in Texas.

In a recent proclamation Governor Bill Clements designated March 3 through 7 as the 30th Public School week in the state, and The Texas State Teachers Association likewise asks for observance of the 126th year of public schools in the state.

The observance will be traditional here in combining the open house with the arts and crafts show. According to Principal Alford Winn, it is an occasion for recognition of student skills as well as intelligence. "This talent of hands as well as mind helps to build self confidence which often reflects in better classroom work," he continued.

The Tuesday night program begins at 7 o'clock and continues until 9. During that time all classrooms will be open, teachers will be present, and student work, teaching aids, etc., will be on display. Mr. Winn said that parents are invited to visit especially on this occasion but they are welcome at anytime to come and get a better understanding of the way their school operates.

Featured attractions of the open house will be the Arts and Crafts Show in the gymnasium. Its categories are fine arts, crafts, weaving, needlework, posters, clothing and design, industrial arts and flower arrangements.

Judging will be done in the afternoon preceding the show and ribbons will be awarded for first, second and third place in each sub category plus a "Best of Show" ribbon in each general category.

Dr. Corry to Talk On Human Growth

Dr. Jim Corry Ph. D., assistant professor of Health Education at North Texas State University, will speak in Muenster on Monday, March 3 at 7 p.m. in the meeting room of the Community Center.

His topic will be on "human growth" and its relation to optimal wellness, developing the theme "Meeting Yourself Halfway, Learning to Live and Love in the 80s."

This lecture is of particular importance for those who are involved with children; parents, subject teachers, CCD teachers, etc. Dr. Jim Corry teaches 3rd grade CCD at Immaculate Conception Church in Denton, and is on the faculty of NTSU where he teaches courses on Health and Health Education. He has conducted workshops in Dallas and in Denton.

Arrangements for the program on March 3 were coordinated by Sister Romana Rohmer. Scheduled originally for January 28, it was postponed when an ice storm occurred over the general area.

Fox Is Candidate For College Trustee

Joe Fox, long time faculty member at Cooke County College who retired on September 1, 1978, announced this week that he wishes to renew his association with the college.

He has filed as a candidate for the CCC board of trustees, in place 6, which is being vacated by the expiring term of Don Howeth, who is not seeking reelection.

Fox is a graduate of Gainesville High School and of CCC when it was still known as Gainesville Junior College. Since then he has earned BS and MS degrees at North Texas State University.

He has been a teacher in county schools for the past 40 years. Twenty one of those years were spent at the college, the past 13 as registrar, a background which, he feels makes him familiar with the college operation and well qualified for a place on the board.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — "Burn down your cities and leave our farms and your cities will spring up again as if by magic; but destroy our farms and grass will grow in the streets of every city in this country."

That quote by William Jennings Bryan has been something of a motto for the American Agriculture Movement (AAM) and certainly it contains a great deal of wisdom.

It also reflects the sense of desperation that a large number of farmers, primarily from Texas and other grain-producing states, have felt during the past few years. That sense of desperation, frustration and alienation held the beginnings of the Movement during late summer of 1977. During the most recent visit of AAM farmers to Washington this month, many of the feelings are unchanged, even though there have been some price improvements since they began.

There is no question that our farm economy, particularly the grain industry, has been a topsy-turvy roller coaster that has taken it to the heights of prosperity during the early 70's, only to drop to the bottom by 1977. Net farm income in 1979 was up $5 billion above the previous year's level, but that $33 billion-plus figure doesn't tell the full story. In terms of "real dollars," or income after inflation, the increase was only $1 billion or about 7 percent and USDA estimates for 1980 net farm income are even gloomier. USDA is predicting a U.S. total in the mid $20 billion range, a drop of some $13 billion.

At this point, many might question the effectiveness of

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
 TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Embattled House Speaker Bill Clayton, alleged to have accepted a bribe in return for legislative favors to an insurance company, is not giving up without a fight—but Gov. Bill Clements is backing away from his promise to call a special session of the Legislature in August.

Clayton will testify before a Houston federal grand jury next month about a political contribution he received in his office last fall in the presence of an FBI informant. Clayton said he temporarily accepted the money to avoid "embarrassing" the donor and later tried unsuccessfully to return it, and the grand jury will want him to elaborate on the incident. Clayton apparently is on tape as being offered at least $200,000 and possibly as much as $650,000 during a meeting between himself, Houston labor leader L. G. Moore, and FBI informant Joseph Hauser.

The scandal has put a tone of uncertainty on business-as-usual at the Capital. If Clayton is indicted after his grand jury testimony, he will probably be asked by his colleagues to vacate the Speaker's platform.

Clayton's resignation will turn the gavel over to Speaker Pro Tem Tim W. Dohlen, D-Goliad, a conservative Democrat and one of Clayton's top lieutenants.

The House will not elect a new speaker until the next regular session in January, or until a special session is called by Gov. Clements.

Session in Doubt

Almost from Day One of his new administration, Clements has promised to call legislators back to Austin and hold their feet to the fire until they pass bills giving Texans initiative and referendum, wiretapping in narcotics cases and additional tax rebates.

Last week, with one eye on Clayton's troubles, Clements told the press he is having doubts about calling the session, once promised for August.

Clements is concerned that the legislators would be more interested in finding a replacement for Clayton than in passing his three issues.

"There's a question over what would be the first order of business and whether we'd ever get to the second," Clements said.

Wounded Horseman

It's no secret that Clements, the state's first Republican governor in 100 years, wants his party to gain from the session. With Clayton already politically wounded, perhaps mortally, the session may not be necessary to boost the Republican Party. In fact, calling the session may give Democrats a chance to choose a strong replacement for the wounded horseman now leading their brigade.

With Clayton in power and in trouble, Clements has a breather.

Tax on Oil

There may be an even stronger reason why Clements would not want a special session: he may have decided he does not want the state to have initiative and referendum after all.

With the powers of initiative and referendum, Texas voters may be in a mood to levy a state tax on oil profits, just as Californians may be doing.

In June, California will vote on an initiative designed to levy a 10 percent tax on oil company profits—and oil companies are afraid it will pass.

Clements, the multi-millionaire founder of the world's largest oil drilling firm, has close ties to the oil industry. If Californians pass their initiative in June, oil companies will not want to see a special session that might open Texas doors to more tax on oil.

After all, Proposition 13 fever (cutting government spending) swept the nation last year after its passage in California. The Oil Tax Proposition may bring a second political message from the West Coast.

Understanding The American Court System

By Theodore I. Koskoff
 President
 Association of Trial Lawyers of America

The American court system can have a profound effect on the lives of every American citizen, yet it is a system that few people outside the practice of law fully understand.

Generally speaking, our system of government is divided into three separate groups. The legislative branch that makes the laws. The executive branch that administers the law. And the judicial branch that interprets and applies the law.

Since we live under both state and federal governments, there are both state and federal court systems. The judicial systems of our 50 states vary widely, but the same general pattern prevails. Usually at the lowest level are the local courts with very limited jurisdiction or power. The names may vary but they are usually called Traffic Court, Police Court, Small Claims Court, and the Justice of the Peace.

There are two important points to remember about these local courts. Cases are generally heard and decided by a judge and his/her verdict frequently cannot be appealed.

Next up the judicial ladder are the Trial Courts. These sometimes are called Municipal, County, District, or Superior Courts. These courts have general jurisdiction to hear both civil suits and criminal cases. Some state court systems may also have special purpose courts such as a Criminal Court which hears only criminal cases, or a Probate Court that probates wills and hears claims against estates of persons who die with or without a will.

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
 U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
 142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
 WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

Many Texans have expressed to me their concern about potential ill effects from the Plant Variety Protection Act amendments before Congress. These concerned citizens have heard the amendments will make it illegal to grow certain kinds of crops, or make large numbers of varieties extinct. Their fears are unfounded, and are based on faulty information disseminated by some groups opposing the legislation.

The amendment, sponsored in the Senate by Sen. Frank Church, basically would provide patent-like protection to developers of new varieties of six vegetables not included in earlier legislation. But that doesn't mean that growing any crop would become illegal, or that the genetic pool of available plant varieties would be restricted.

The protection provided under the plant variety law is the same sort provided to the inventor of a technological device. A person who develops a new variety of beans, for example, can control its production and marketing for 17 years (18 under the proposed amendments) — just as the person who invents a new ball bearing does for a certain number of years. The purpose of this protection is to encourage people to develop new, more productive strains by guaranteeing them the rewards of their labor. Filing for the protection is voluntary. And once the strain is protected, its germplasm is maintained so that if it falls into disuse it can be resurrected later — protecting the variety from extinction.

The 1970 Plant Variety Protection Act currently gives these patent-like rights to producers of new varieties of all non-hybrid vegetables except cucumbers, celery, carrots, okra, tomatoes and peppers. The amendments before Congress would extend the protection to cover these non-exempt vegetables.

One of the concerns expressed about the law, and the proposed amendments, is that it might have the effect of restricting the number of varieties available. Seed companies engage in stiff competition, and growers — whether they are large-scale farmers or backyard gardeners — want the seed that produces the best vegetable. Naturally, the most productive varieties sell best, and the less productive ones become unprofitable to put on the market. Federal regulation can't and shouldn't stop that trend.

Some Texans have told me they are afraid the protection act will help the big seed companies drive out small operators. On the contrary, since the original law went into effect, only 17 percent of the variety certificates issued have gone to six of the largest companies. The protection against piracy makes it possible for a small company with just one good plant breeder to establish itself.

Other fears expressed to me relate to the seemingly widespread impression that European countries have made repressive use of a similar law. European seed marketers do face a number of restrictions, but none of these are included in current or proposed legislation. I am convinced the Congress would not even consider steps to curb the free enterprise system of seed development and marketing.

In short, I see no threat to Texas farmers or gardeners from this legislation as it is written. It will, in fact, serve to help them become even more productive by giving them access to better varieties of seed. But I will monitor the legislative movement of the amendments through Congress to protect the interests of our state's — and our nation's — vital farmers and gardeners.

LAST YEAR, INSTEAD OF USING 1,066 MILLION GALLONS OF OIL...

Texas Power & Light Company began a massive program back in 1968 to reduce its dependency on natural gas and oil by using lignite coal as a generating plant fuel. The first lignite-fueled generating unit began operation in 1971. Today, there are eight lignite units in operation and others are under construction or being planned. In 1979, we used approximately 11 million tons of lignite coal to produce electricity. Had we used oil to generate the same amount of electricity, it would have required 1,066 million gallons — that's 25 million barrels — and that can make a lot of gasoline. We're working hard to do our part to help ease the energy crisis.

Now is the time to apply BALAN to your yards to completely eliminate crab grass, and grass burns in your lawn. BALAN is a granular weed killer easily applied with a fertilizer spreader and best of all, it is perfectly safe to use around trees and shrubs and is also safe on St. Augustine lawns. But be sure you apply it now or it will be too late for it to work properly.

Shipments of flowers, bulbs, bedding plants, and seeds are coming daily. For your vegetable garden we have bulk garden seeds, seed potatoes, sweet hybrid onion plants, cabbage, broccoli, brussell sprouts, cauliflower and strawberry plants. We also have a large selection of outdoor spring bulbs, indoor potting bulbs and outdoor flowering bedding plants such as petunias, pansies and snapdragons.

Plan now for all your landscaping needs as we will be receiving thousands of trees, shrubs and roses in about 2 weeks.

Your bush roses can be pruned in the next week or so. Prune all canes to a 12" height, then remove 1/2 of the canes at the crown, starting with the oldest or damaged canes first. Then apply a rose food, water well and be ready for a burst of spring color.

Women at CCC Are Learning The Non-Traditional Jobs

It isn't really that rare anymore to see older students attending classes at a community college, but Cooke County College student Patsy Davis, 34, still draws a few curious glances around campus.

Those glances come mainly from her classmates, all men, who haven't gotten quite used to having a female around the shop where they're training to become machinists.

"But," says Mrs. Davis, "they've all been very nice, and I guess you could say I've pretty much been accepted as just another one of the guys."

Being accepted as "just another one of the guys" in a social sense, however, is hardly Mrs. Davis' goal. Being this accepted in regard to equal vocational and career opportunity is.

Patsy Davis, a resident of Decatur where she lives with her husband of 18 years, Max, and her son Macky, 11, is among a growing number of women across the nation who are going into so-called "non-traditional" jobs which up to now have been dominated almost exclusively by men.

Expansion of job opportunity in such non-traditional vocational fields as the various skilled trades is especially good news to the many women today who are divorced, widowed or separated and find themselves functioning as heads of households.

"Such women simply cannot manage financially on wages they earn in low paying dead-end 'female' jobs," says Margaret Duncan, coordinator of Cooke County College's Support Services for Women program.

"Women have proved that they can handle jobs in the skilled trades -- jobs traditionally reserved for men," she adds, "and now federal and state legislation has been passed to assure them of equal opportunity obtaining such jobs."

Mrs. Davis is quick to point out also that these new opportunities are available to all working women whether they are married, like her, or single or fall into the category of "displaced homemaker" through loss of spouse.

She relates that she was hired by a company in Decatur two years ago as a quality control worker and transferred shortly thereafter into the machine shop to take advantage of "higher wages and faster advancement".

Now employed by General Dynamics as a receiving inspector, Mrs. Davis says her goal is to become a machined parts inspector -- a job she intends to back up by becoming a qualified machinist.

"I like working with machines and doing a job right," she asserts. "A precision shop offers me the opportunity to do both. I wanted to learn more and at a faster rate than I was being taught on the job, so here I am in school again at Cooke County College."

Mrs. Davis admits that working in a machine shop isn't always easy for a woman, but it isn't because of the nature of the work.

"Some of the men still believe that women don't belong in a shop," she says. "Fortunately, that attitude is beginning to change. Why shouldn't it? We operate machines at home every day."

Mrs. Duncan reports that women who, like Mrs. Davis, want to learn more valuable new job skills in a hurry will be glad to learn of a special new program of accelerated courses being offered at Cooke County College.

The courses, she explains, are regular credit courses set up on an accelerated schedule, enabling students to complete an entire 16-week semester's training in as little as one month.

At least three of the accelerated courses to be offered are especially designed for women seeking training for employment in non-traditional job fields. They include machine shop, drafting and blueprint reading.

"Many women may be pleasantly surprised to learn that, according to the U.S. Department of Labor, the average hourly wage for machinists in Texas is $6.61," Mrs. Duncan says. "In the Dallas-Fort Worth area, the average is $7.27 per hour. For draftsmen in this same area, average weekly earnings are $254.50."

More information on the accelerated courses program at CCC can be obtained by contacting Mrs. Duncan or the CCC Registrar's Office on campus at 668-7731.

Blue Bird News

Second grade Starlight Blue Birds took advantage of the warm, spring-like weather and held their regular Thursday, February 21 meeting at the City Park. They worked on their "Trail to Happiness" charts by marking completed activities with Blue Bird stickers.

The business meeting was conducted by Teddie Oakley, president for February; dues were collected by Dana Kay Wimmer, treasurer, and roll call and uniform check were by Angela Endres, secretary.

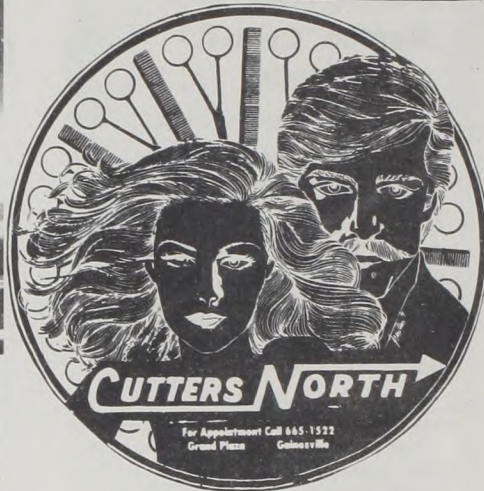

Group leader for February Misti Ford was absent. The members planned the distribution of candy for the annual Camp Fire Candy Sale on March 1-12.

The girls played Charades with the "Blue Bird Wish," one group performing and demonstrating and the other group trying to identify it. There was also the opportunity for free play time on the park playground.

Hostess for the meeting was Teddie Oakley who served Cokes and pink cherry cupcakes.

Kin of Huchtons Dies in Iowa

Muenster relatives have received word of the death of Miss Awilda Huchton, 72, in Fort Madison, Iowa on Monday, February 18 at her home. She had been in failing health for several years and was critically ill for three days.

She was born in Saint Jo on December 31, 1907 and had lived in Fort Madison since 1923, where she was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church and the Altar and Rosary Societies.

Survivors include a sister Estelle Huchton of Fort Madison and a niece. Two brothers, Harry and Theodore and her parents Joseph and Clara (Schulte) Huchton preceded her in death. Local relatives are cousins.

Old timers in Cooke and Montague Counties will remember that Joseph Huchton and his late brother Ben Huchton operated a meat market in Saint Jo in the early 1900s.

A birthday party in the home of his parents was a week late because of the ice and snow on his birthday. Ten friends were guests for

To Itemize or Not

Each year millions of taxpayers ask themselves, "Should I file an itemized tax return?" The answer is "yes, if your deductions exceed the zero bracket amount already allowed."

For single taxpayers, that means deductible expenses must exceed $2,300, or $3,400 for married persons.

When considering to itemize, examine five major areas: interest, taxes, medical and dental expenses, charitable contributions and miscellaneous deductions.

Interest on loans frequently contributes the greatest amount to itemize deduction expenses. Be sure you account for all interest fees whether you borrowed to simply have cash on hand or pay for a home mortgage, car and/or education. And, don't overlook the "finance charge" incurred when purchasing items by credit card, installment plan or budget charge cards.

Deductible medical/dental payments include non-reimbursed fees which exceed three percent of your adjusted gross income. Such fees include those paid to physicians or dentists; payment for hospital services, laboratory fees or x-rays; and costs for eyeglasses, hearing aids and parts, dentures and crutches.

It takes more muscles to frown than to smile.

THEN AND NOW - When Six Flags Over Texas first opened its gates, one of the features of the theme park's Mexican section was a "slow speed" goat cart ride. This year the park begins its 20th season with the introduction of a huge, new roller coaster known as "Judge Roy Scream." Coming into the 1980 season Six Flags has entertained more than 37 million guests from throughout the world and ranks as Texas' top tourist attraction.

Arlington, Texas - Six Flags Over Texas begins its 20th season Saturday, March 1.

Highlighting the day's activities will be the grand opening of the theme park's new, 2.1 million dollar, wooden roller coaster known as "Judge Roy Scream, the Awe West of the Pecos."

The park's general manager, Ray Williams, said, "The Judge is the biggest addition in the park's history. It covers almost eight acres along the shore of the entryway lake."

"Our initial tests quickly confirmed that we have one great ride on our hands. Guests are particularly going to like the first drop. You get the feeling that you're falling vertically," he concluded.

Riding in the first car of the inaugural train on Judge Roy Scream will be Miss Texas, Lex Ann Haughey, and Theresa Pool of Arlington.

In 1961, Ms. Pool - then five years old - was the first guest ever to step through the Six Flags gates.

Adding to the excitement and color of the coaster opening will be a special appearance by the Apache Belles and Apache Band from Tyler Junior College.

Though Judge Roy Scream is the centerpiece of Six Flags' additions for 1980, Williams said one of the most ambitious renovation projects in the park's history has been underway throughout the entertainment center.

"One of the larger projects has involved a virtually total revamping of the Caddo Canoe lake area," he said. "During the summer months it will be the site of a nightly fireworks spectacular."

"There are literally hundreds of subtle changes everywhere in the park," he said. "Beautiful rock walls have appeared where there were once concrete blocks. Pools beneath decorative fountains - once painted - are now covered with colorful ceramic tiles, and the list goes on and on. We think our guests will be very, very pleased with both the quality and freshness of the park."

Six Flags Over Texas will be open Saturdays and Sundays only during the spring. The lone exception will be the Easter holiday period when the park will operate on a daily basis from March 29 through April 10. Daily operation for the summer months will begin May 17.

Andy Machak tells Bill Cosby: "A CPR-trained guard brought me back from the dead."

Andy Machak:
"Luckily, a guy with Red Cross CPR training works where I do. A security guard. Don Guarino. He saved my life, no foolin'!"

I'd checked tin-plating lines a hundred times before, but that day was different. A boom came around from behind and pinned me to a T-bar... lifted me right off my feet."

Bill Cosby:
"That's a big ouch."

Andy Machak:
"Last thing I remember was trying to find a kill switch..."

Three days later - in the hospital - Don told me it took six guys to get me down; somebody said no pulse or breathing, and Don remembers saying, "I gotta try anyway!"

Bill Cosby:
"Sounds like you had them worried!"

Andy Machak:
"Well, I was clinically dead. Can't believe it myself, Bill. But thanks to Don's CPR training, I'm alive... thanks to Red Cross, I'm alive."

Bill Cosby:
"CPR training can make the difference between life and death. Take it from Andy Machak. Help keep Red Cross ready."

The Home Workshop

Energy Saver Fireplace Cover

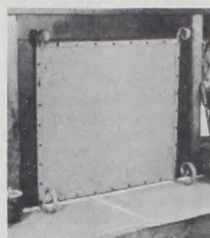

An attractive fireplace cover made of easy-working aluminum offers several practical advantages for the energy conscious homeowner. It serves as a safety shield for smoldering embers at bedtime, and it prevents a significant amount of heat loss by blocking room air escaping up the chimney.

To make the cover, you'll need a metalworking vise, hacksaw, tin snips, portable drill, file, 1-inch or larger C-clamps, centerpunch, and a "POP" Brand Rivetool with a tapered nose.

The plan calls for a fireplace up to 24x34 inches. If larger, a two or three panel cover can be made using vertical bars to conceal the joints.

Cut the aluminum bar stock with a hacksaw (coarse metal blade). Tin snips are best for cutting the aluminum sheet. Bending the scrolls can be facilitated by using a slotted piece of 3/4-inch iron water pipe as a bending jig. After bending the scrolls, lock the straight section in the vise and make the right angle bend, hammering the bar as you keep tension on it to get a square bend. Repeat for the second bar.

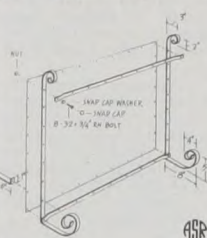

The horizontal bars of the

frame have a 1/4" offset at the ends to make the frame flush on the back for attachment of the sheet. This is done by making a slight bend 1" in from each end. Then, with the straight section in the vise, a couple of inches away from the first bend, hammer the bent section back so that the offset face of the tab is in line with the opposite face of the straight section. Cut two 7" pieces of bar and make right angle bends 1" from an end to form the back feet.

Lay out the frame, square it, C clamp the corners, center punch and drill 3/16" holes at each corner. Mark the four sides into equidistant spaces and drill 1/8" rivet holes and 3/16" bolt holes for attachment of the rear feet. Assemble corners permanently and pop rivet the sheet to the frame.

For this project, "Snap Caps" on the front ends of 1/8" diameter x 1/2" grip range rivets were used together with large "Snap Cap" washers under the heads of the stove bolts at the corners and back feet.

File rough edges smooth and clean with steel wool and mineral spirits. Then spray with a metal primer and finish coat. When completely dry, apply the "Snap Cap" covers and your fireplace cover is ready for use.

Q: How many Texas traffic deaths are caused by drunk driving? —L.Q., Llano

A: No one knows exactly, but it's a very large number. Of the 3,980 Texas traffic deaths in 1978, the DPS says that 21 percent came in accidents involving a known cause of DWI. But that's not the whole story. Since Texas does not require chemical tests on all drivers in fatal accidents, it is possible that many injured or deceased drivers were actually DWI but were not reported as such. Some experts rate alcohol as a factor in as many as half of traffic fatalities. Remember, you don't have to be drunk. Any booze in the bloodstream slows reflexes and increases danger...

Yet there is many a time that I know for certain that my side-kick - Perryman - is smarter than our TOP official in Washington D. C. (and so are MANY other husbands out there). As soon as the present U.N. Commission was formed to go to Iran to listen to their COMPLAINTS against the Shah and the U.S. and secure the release of our people being held hostage. Perryman predicted that the Iranians would never release the hostages to them. He maintains the Iranians are having too much pleasure making fools out of the U.S. and being in the limelight, etc., all of the time and are playing with the United States and the United Nations like a Cat plays with a mouse. Also why would anyone be surprised that the Russians would go back on their word and promises? When in the past forty years or so have they ever done that? So why start believing them now?

The Ethical Appraiser's Obligations To A Client
By Dexter D. MacBride, ASA
Executive Vice President
American Society of Appraisers

The primary obligation an appraiser has to a client is to reach complete, accurate, and pertinent conclusions and numerical results regardless of the client's wishes or instructions. Before I go any further, let me give you several examples of what I mean when I say, "...regardless of the client's wishes or instructions."

1. A prospective seller might seek a "high" appraisal hoping that a buyer would be induced to pay more than the true worth of the property being sold.

2. A prospective buyer might want a "low" appraisal hoping that a seller would be induced to accept less than the true worth of the property being purchased.

3. A property owner in an eminent domain case might want a "high" appraisal in order to win an overpayment for property.

In all cases the appraiser should be unbiased and objective. He should not be influenced by his client's desires or objectives in purchasing the appraisal.

The main objective of a monetary appraisal is the determination of a numerical result, either as a range or most probably point magnitude — the dollar amount of a value, the dollar amount of an estimated cost, the dollar amount of an estimated earning power. This numerical result is objective and unrelated to the desires, wishes or needs of the client; it is as independent of what someone desires it to be, as a physicist's measurement of the melting point of lead or an accountant's statement of the net profits of a corporation. All the principles of appraisal ethics stem from this central fact.

Following are some other obligations of the ethical appraiser:

1. Maintaining the confidentiality of an appraisal engagement, unless the client approves of this disclosure or unless the appraiser is required, by law, to disclose the fact of the engagement.

2. Not revealing to any third party the amount of the valuation of a property without the client's permission, unless required to do so by due process of law.

3. To make known to a prospective client if the appraiser has an interest or contemplated interest in the property to be appraised. If the client (after full disclosure by the appraiser of his interest in the subject property) still desires to have that appraiser do the work, the appraiser may properly accept the engagement provided he discloses the nature and extent of his interest in his appraisal report.

Portions of the above are extracted from the American Society of Appraisers' "Principles of Appraisal Practice and Code of Ethics." For a free copy and other information on appraising, write: American Society of Appraisers, Dept. A., Dulles Int'l. Airport, P.O. Box 17265, Washington, D.C. 20041.

Help Stop Vandalism

Vandalism in the City of Münster is becoming a problem. Vandalism of school property and other public property is costing you the taxpayers. Your taxes pay for the repair of this destruction.

You as citizens can help curb this destruction. When you see anyone commit an act of vandalism, report it. When you see anyone loitering around the schools or other public property notify the Police Dept.

The Police Dept. asks for your help and cooperation in controlling acts of vandalism.

David E. Province
Chief of Police

The best way to save your car from theft, police say, is to simply lock the doors; The majority of stolen cars were originally left with doors unlocked by owners; and over one-third actually had the keys left in the ignition!

Watch Major Items In Tax Deductions

Persons itemizing deductions when filing income tax returns often overlook significant expenses. Taxes, charitable contributions and miscellaneous payments often substantially increase deductions.

State and local taxes paid during the year can be deductible at the end of the year. Be careful to list taxes on real property, personal property and general sales.

The purchase of a car, truck or boat are considered major purchases. Taxes paid in buying these items can be deducted in addition to the amount in the Optional Sales Tax Table.

Charitable contributions are donations to any qualified organization using the funds solely for charitable/public purposes. These may be charitable, religious, educational, scientific, literary or fraternal groups.

Deductions can be realized for donations other than money; i.e. property, food or clothing. Value of the donation is figured on the fair amount you would expect to receive from sale of the good. Pledges are not deductible until payment is made.

Don't overlook miscellaneous deductions. Fees paid in having someone prepare your 1978 tax returns are deductible. Other deductions would include: dues to professional/occupational organizations or unions; subscriptions to professional or trade journals; and expenses realized in changing jobs within the same trade or business. Even rent on a safety deposit box may be deducted if it houses income-producing items, i.e. stocks and bonds.

Father Denis Will Head Pilgrimage

Father Denis Soerries, O.S.B., of Sacred Heart Church will personally lead a 22 day vacation pilgrimage, including the world famous Passion Play at Oberammergau on June 15.

The pilgrimage will fly to Europe via Sabena Belgian World Airlines and will travel through Europe by luxury motorcoach starting in Brussels and proceeding to Cologne, Bonn, and Koblenz followed by a Rhine River trip to Bacharach, where the group will rejoin the coach and continue to Heidelberg of "Student Prince" fame.

The cost of operating a refrigerator depends on the amount of warm air entering it. Shut the refrigerator door promptly and tell your children to do so.

Next on the itinerary are Baden-Baden, the Black Forest and Switzerland where the shrine of Our Lady of Einsiedeln and the Great Benedictine Abbey will be visited.

After a day in Lucerne the drive continues into Austria and Southern Bavaria to Gerwisch-Partenkirchen for a leisurely overnight preceding the next day's Passion Play from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

From there the pilgrimage goes over the Brenner Pass, then to Florence with overnight sight-seeing and on to Rome. A Papal Audience, depending on the Holy Father's schedule, is planned in addition to the usual sightseeing and activities.

Next on schedule are Assisi, Pisa, the Italian and French Riviera, Nice, Cannes, Arles, Montpellier and finally Mary's great shrine at Lourdes with opportunity for devotions and participating in the processions.

Heading for the French capital, the group will visit Bordeaux, with wine sampling, then Portiers, Tours, and finally Paris for another day of sightseeing before flying back to New York on July 6.

Persons wishing to join Father Denis may contact him at Sacred Heart Church, Münster, Texas 76252, 817-759-2511, or the Catholic Travel Office, Suite 520, 1019 Nineteenth St. N.W., Washington D.C. 20036, 202-293-2277.

Group Plans Hess Reunion

The annual reunion for descendants of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hess was planned during a meeting held recently in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Winston Fangman of Lindsay. Attending were Mrs. John Lewis Hess, Leo and Mary Lou Hess, Frank and Clara Evans, Julius and Elsie Hess, Angelo and LaVerna Nasche and Arthur Hess. The group set the date for Sunday, June 1, at the Pavilion of the Münster City Park and agreed to hold the picnic and family gathering on the first Sunday of June each year.

YOU CAN BANK ON IT!

There's a lot of truth in the cliché, "If you think you can or if you think you can't, you are absolutely right". Unfortunately a prevalent attitude many of us have toward inflation is that we think we can't do anything about it. Here are some "think you can" suggestions:

1. If you own a business, make every effort to keep your prices down.
2. If you work for someone else, help keep the lid on wage demands.
3. Join the national effort to increase productivity... if you are an employee, put out some extra effort. If you are an employer, use incentives and better training plus take advantage of opportunities for modernization.
4. Buy wisely. If you don't need it and don't think you can afford it, don't buy it.
5. Conserve energy. Every gallon of oil you save through energy conservation fights inflation.
6. Budgeting. Make one and stick with it.

All of us can apply some of these things toward fighting inflation. Remember, if you think you can... you can BANK on it!

CARD OF THANKS

Words can never express the gratitude we feel for all the visits, cards, flowers, gifts, prayers, and offers of help during Ronnie's hospitalization. A very special "Thank You" to Dr. Juarez, Dr. Miale and the staff of Cook's Children's Hospital for their kindness and excellent care. Thank you and may God bless each of you. Gilbert, Linda and Ronnie Knabe Gene and Elsie Hoedebeck.

15-1C1P

It is heartwarming to remember the many favors we received from friends and relatives during the illness of our husband and father and at his death and funeral. We are especially for all who visited him, especially the priests, nuns and Bishop Dangelmayr; also for the excellent care by the staff of Muenster Memorial Hospital who were so kind and thoughtful. Special thanks for all expressions of sympathy and for the family dinner prepared and served by the group of ladies.

The Bill Haverkamp Family

I want to express my deepest gratitude to Dr. Antonetti and Dr. Kralick and the staff of Muenster Memorial Hospital and especially to the wonderful "very special" nurses for their excellent and faithful care to Roy, and their many kind deeds to me during his illness. It surely added a few more stars to your crowns.

Lois Townsley
15-1C1

The friendship and concern of friends and relatives, while I was a patient in Arlington Memorial Hospital for two weeks, mean a great deal to Betty and me! We are very grateful for phone calls, prayers, cards, flowers and visits and we express special thanks to Herbie and Edith, to priests from Arlington and nuns from OLV and to Muenster relatives and friends, especially those whose quick help was a godsend.

Boss Pautler

I am very grateful to the many people who helped me during the four weeks I spent in Muenster Memorial Hospital for bone graft surgery. The prayers and visits of friends, the care and consideration of the doctors, nurses and staff and the visits of Fathers Placidus, Denis and Stephen and Bishop Dangelmayr are all deeply appreciated. My wife joins me in saying "Thanks."

John Otto

We treasure the memory of the many favors and acts of kindness offered by friends, relatives and neighbors at this time when we lost our mother. We are deeply grateful to those who assisted at the scene of the accident. For the many Mass intentions, flowers, visits, calls, cards and food sent to our homes, and for the family dinner, we express sincere appreciation. It is a special comfort to recall each of you.

Profits linked to healthy economy

The following is part of an economic series published by R.J. Reynolds Industries, Inc.:

Employees receive wages in return for labor. A landlord accepts rent as a return property. An investor earns interest or dividends as a return on capital. Business, too, must receive a return on its operations and investments in the marketplace. Profit is business' return. Profits are the earnings which remain after all expenses — cost of raw materials, labor, depreciation on equipment, interest and debt payments — are subtracted from total sales revenue.

This money is used in two ways. First, a substantial portion is returned to stockholders — owners of the company — in the form of dividends. Second, undistributed earnings are reinvested in the business to improve future earnings potential. These funds may be used to buy new equipment, finance research and development, construct new plants or otherwise expand overall business operations.

Public opinion surveys, however, indicate that many Americans misunderstand the magnitude and function of profits in the free enterprise system. Most people have an exaggerated idea of corporate earnings, believing that business profits are at least 25 percent and as much as 50 percent of total sales revenue.

Last year, though, despite overall business profit increases, the average U.S. manufacturer received 5.4 cents in net profit for every dollar of sales (5.4 percent). That's a drop from the mid-1960s when businesses earned 6.6 percent on sales.

While inflation has driven up the prices of many items, the added revenues have not necessarily meant higher profits for manufacturers.

For example, if the price of a good is raised two cents, while the cost of producing that item has also increased two cents, no additional profit is earned.

The quantity of goods sold also has an impact on overall profit totals. A company will generally earn higher profits if it has succeeded in the marketplace by increasing its total sales to consumers.

Profits are essential to the continued viability of a company's operation. Profits also can help cut costs, lessen price increases, and in effect, help alleviate high rates of inflation.

Adolph Knabe, 63, Dies

Funeral services were held Monday, February 25 in Hereford for Adolph Knabe, 63, who died in the Veterans Hospital in Amarillo on Thursday at 8 p.m.

Rosary services were held Saturday and Sunday evenings at Rose Chapel of Gililand-Watson Funeral Home, and the Mass of Christian Burial was offered in St. Anthony's Church by Father Paul Hoefner, pastor. Interment was in St. Anthony Cemetery of Hereford.

Adolph Knabe was born in Muenster on December 11, 1917, the son of Albert B. Knabe and the late Mrs. Knabe. He served five years in World War II, 1940 to 1945 and was the first draftee from Muenster. On November 24, 1942 he married the former Beatrice Reiter. After return from

In State's Top Ten Oats Producers

Despite a severe winter that damaged many crops, oat production in Texas was up in 1979, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown has announced.

Cooke County was among the state's top 10 producers of oats, harvesting 391,700 bushels from 8,700 harvested acres. Cooke County reported an average yield per acre of 45 bushels.

Statewide, oat production totaled 16,800,000 bushels, up from 1978's yield of 13,760,000 bushels. Harvested bushels per acre registered a significant gain, Brown said. In 1978, the average yield per acre was 32 bushels, compared to 42 bushels in 1979.

Although oat production in 1979 exceeded 1978 totals, Brown said both year's productions were below 1977's 'bumper' crop. Brown attributed the decrease to severe winter freezes that heavily damaged crops in much of the state.

Mmes. D.L. (Lillie) Rogers of Gainesville, Kenneth (Glenda) Alexander of Valley View, and Robert (Rosalee) Bayer of Muenster were among those accompanying husbands at the 22nd Annual County Judges and Commissioners Conference in College Station recently, sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Texas County Judges and Commissioners Association.

Keynote speakers were Texas Gov. Bill Clements, Attorney General Mark White, Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace.

Among topics the 800 county officials discussed during the conference were development of new oil and gas resources, a recent revision of the property-tax system, Texas jails, nuclear waste storage, inflation and foreign relations, along with several others.

Extension Home Economics Specialists and Agents hosted the Wives Luncheon.

Determine the Protein Level of Hay You Feed

Do you know the protein level of the hay you're feeding livestock? Individuals can guess protein content of hay from physical characteristics but may miss the actual value by several percentage points. Low quality hay can be distinguished easily from high quality hay, but true feeding value can only be estimated. This is where a forage test comes in, emphasizes Neil Tibbets, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension, Texas A&M University System.

A forage analysis is a chemically determined value of the hay's protein content. A forage test provides a protein feeding value that can be used to determine feeding and supplementation needs for each class of animals fed.

For example, 6 percent crude protein hay does not compare in feeding value to hay with 12 percent crude protein. Each type of hay should be fed differently. Different levels of protein might indicate types of animals that could be fed with the two hays, notes Tibbets.

A 6 percent crude protein hay is low in quality not only because the protein is low but its digestibility will likely be low. Young stock, like steers and heifers, may not be able to physically eat enough of this hay, even with protein supplementation, to meet their nutritional requirements. Instead, such hay should be fed to dry, mature cows and should be supplemented with a protein source. Six percent crude protein hay will not provide the mature cow with enough nutrition to maintain herself without additional protein.

Twelve percent crude protein hay is a good quality hay that has a good level of protein and will probably be good in digestibility, points Tibbets. This hay will probably meet the nutritional requirements of a steer or pregnant heifer.

Since such hay is high in protein and digestibility, an animal will be able to eat more and meet its requirements. This same hay would need to be supplemented with protein if fed to cows with calves since they have high nutritional needs.

Hay varies widely in feeding value, adds Tibbets. Hay from each cutting is different from every other cutting. However, hay from a single cutting is similar in protein content and digestibility. Once feeding value of a bale or two from a cutting is determined, the general value of all bales from that cutting should be similar.

Since feeding values of different types of hay are going to vary widely, a forage test is essential to help determine if supplemental protein is needed and how much. A forage test of each different type hay to be used this winter will pay dividends in better animal nutrition, contends Tibbets.

CCC Announces Schedule of Accelerated Courses

Cooke County College has finalized plans announced earlier to offer a special program of accelerated credit courses.

Initially, a total of 19 courses will be offered on an accelerated basis with plans to add certain additional courses in the coming months. Other courses also will be offered upon sufficient demand.

Interested persons may begin registering for the special courses on March 3 (Monday). Enrollment will continue through the second week of the month.

There will be no late registration, and students may sign up at any time between 8:30 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. during the registration period in the Registrar's Office on campus.

According to Whitten Williams, CCC dean of instruction, the accelerated courses program was initiated as a reflection of the school's commitment as a "true community college" to identify and meet specialized educational needs of persons within its particular service area.

"Many prospective students have indicated that they would like to take one or perhaps two college courses," he explains, "but they also expressed reluctance to tie themselves down for an entire 16 week semester of meeting classes two or three times a week just to earn three to six hours of credit."

In addition, he says, many currently enrolled students who drop courses during a semester for one reason or another find themselves taking less than a minimum fulltime course load. The accelerated course program would allow them to pick up additional credit hours on a short-term basis.

"Still another advantage to the program," Williams points out, "is that students taking only one course can concentrate their time and energies totally on that course. Such concentration is especially beneficial to learning and retention in such courses as foreign language and certain vocational courses involving manual skills."

The accelerated courses will involve the same amount of clock hours as regular long-term courses but will meet class more frequently for more extended periods of time.

A three-hour course, for example, would meet three hours per day, four days per week (Monday through Thursday) for four weeks.

"It should be emphasized," Williams stresses, "that the program of accelerated courses is open to all interested persons, including students who are currently enrolled."

He adds, however, that concurrent enrollment will be monitored on an individual basis and limited to those students whose schedules will allow time for the extra concentrated study.

Students currently enrolled who sign up for an accelerated course will not be required to pay full tuition for that course.

paying instead on an add-on basis. This means that some students, depending upon their current regular course load, will be able to take an accelerated course at no additional charge.

New students will be asked to follow the normal procedure for admission to the college including filling out an application for admission form and supplying high school or college transcripts from the last school attended. Eligibility for admission extends to persons holding GED certification.

Aside from the admission application form, students may supply this additional material after registering and beginning classes. However, all materials must be submitted prior to completing the first courses taken.

A complete listing of accelerated courses to be offered, including times and dates, appears in a separate advertisement in today's edition of this newspaper.

Additional information regarding the accelerated courses program may be obtained by contacting the Registrar's Office on campus at 668-7731, extension 243.

Build An Attractive Bird Feeder

A few basic shop tools are all that's required to make a bird feeder for your yard or garden.

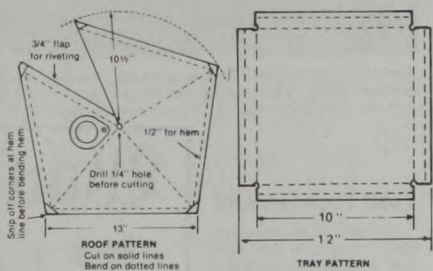

Build the floor tray first by cutting a 12" square of sheet aluminum with tin snips or heavy shears. Drill 1/8" holes at the inside corners of corner notches to prevent metal from tearing when it is bent and to provide a drain for rainwater. File edges and corners smooth. Bend the metal up to create the sides of the floor pan.

Cut the roof, first drilling a 1/4" hole in the center and cutting out the 2" feed hole with a fly cutter, hole saw or saber saw with the metal supported on wood. Bend the flap first, then overlap the fourth roof panel over the flap, clamp corner, prick punch with an awl for the rivet hole, drill an 1/8" hole and rivet with a "POP" brand rivetool. Evenly space four more rivets to complete the assembly. Cut out a pear-shaped cover as large as possible and drill it and the roof for the pivot rivet but don't attach until after painting. Drill out the 1/4" peak hole and install an eye bolt with two nuts.

To build the feed bin, cut four pieces of 3/4" x 3/4" x 1/16" aluminum angle 9" long. Saw out a 1" notch at each end on the same flange. Match them in pairs, drill 1/8" holes in each tab 1/4" from the edges and 3/4" from the ends. Then bend the tabs outward. Paint the cornerposts before attaching the Plexiglas.

CONSTRUCTION DIAGRAM

Cut 1/8" Plexiglas 6" wide x 6-3/4" high, position 1/4" from the bottom of the corner posts to permit proper dispensing of bird seed. Butt the corners in sequence to make the bin square. Drill and rivet one section at a time to get the best fit. Plexiglas can be scored with a Plexiglas scribe and broken apart or it can be sawed with any type of hand or power saw. Smooth the edges with a file or sandpaper. When all parts are properly positioned, clean the metal with paint thinner. Wash with vinegar and let dry, then spray with metal paint. When perfectly dry, assemble with "POP" Brand rivets and you'll be ready to feed your feathered friends.

During that time, he was stationed at NAS Whidby Island, Washington, with the Tactical Electronic Warfare Squadron 132.

He made two cruises in the Western Pacific on the USS Constellation and visited Japan, Korea, the Philippines, Hong Kong, Singapore and Thailand.

He received the Navy Expeditionary Medal during the Iranian Revolution and was discharged as an Aviation Electronics Technician 2nd class Petty Officer.

The Carl Pelzels and sons Jimmy and Michael visited the Joe Hoenigs Saturday.

food from leftovers in stores after the mercenaries have fought, and they live in ruins.

The presence of 130,000 European troops only begins to tell about the situation in Cuba, according to deSosa. He said the Soviets maintain a nuclear submarine base at Cienfuegos Bay where atomic subs are coming and going ... and the atomic arsenal in Cuba is capable of blowing up the southern U.S.... and military bases are scattered all over the island.

These conditions put a special meaning on frequently heard statements that Cuba is assisting revolutionaries in Latin America to take over their countries. The fact is that Castro really does little about Red expansion in the Americas. The Russians are in charge and they do the dirty work while Cuban soldiers are shipped to Africa to fight the Soviet battles. Most likely some are in Afghanistan now.

This isn't all of the sordid story, however. The real shocker is that our State Department has cooperated with the Cuban trained revolutionaries in overthrowing the legitimate governments of Nicaragua and El Salvador and is starting now to assist in the take-over of Guatemala. It seems that no sooner than Communists start the trouble making our government swings material and diplomatic support to their side. Every Communist success in Latin America of recent years can be credited substantially to U.S. help. A lone exception is Chile, where the Red effort failed and U.S. has shown its displeasure by frequent efforts to sabotage the constitutional and legitimate government.

We shouldn't forget either about the affair in Panama, which started with help to Dictator Trujillo in taking over the country and was followed last year by the shameful give-away of the Panama Canal.

Like it or not, we have to face some ugly possibilities in relation to our objections about Afghanistan. Really it seems absurd to fuss about elementary expansion that far away but ignore the sophisticated Soviet buildup a few miles from our shores. Likewise it's absurd to ignore the communist take over in a number of Latin American countries that used to be our friends.

A bit of calm thinking on the subject will rule out the claim that Castro is the villain. Actually he's only a loud mouth puppet and the Soviets are running the show, and it's inconceivable that official U.S. could fail to know it after twenty years of incidents and Soviet growth.

We hope that this subject will become the foremost issue of our presidential race. After all, Americans deserve to know more about the threats that face them and their country's boners in allowing the dangers to develop.

Legal tender is money which may be legally used in the payment of a debt and which the creditor must accept.

Included with the MHS class in aerospace/aviation was an inspection and ride in a modern airplane. Here with the plane are Benji Luke, Charles Lutkenhaus, Dan Hamric (instructor) and John Walterscheid. Sixteen students took the 1 credit course.
