

TO-DAY--and Then

Only Four More Days In Which to Pile Up the Winning Votes
 --Remember May 14th at 9 p. m. is the Last Chance
 Remember on the Big Vote Schedule Last Chance

How About Promises?

Now is the time to cash in on promises. If your friends made promises in good faith they should keep them now—before Monday night, May 14. Never again in this campaign will this liberal vote schedule be in effect. After the clock strikes 9 o'clock Monday, a lesser vote schedule is effective. Don't overlook 'second subscriptions'—they mean real votes.

These Mean Real Votes!

Keep a lookout for the bigger subscriptions. A new two-year subscription gives you 132,000 votes, a new three-year credits you with 216,000 votes, a new four-year provides you with 330,000 votes, a new five-year 430,000 votes. The clubs are extra. Just 12 of the new five-year subscriptions will give you nearly six million votes. This election has not really gotten under way yet. While there are a number of workers, JUDGING FROM RESULTS THERE ARE NOT SO MANY.

OPPORTUNITY IS HERE!

Opportunity is here for the live ones. An entirely new candidate who is acquainted with 'Opportunity' and can put this factor to work to his or her advantage, has a wonderful opportunity right now.

If you have been considering getting in, do so now. Come down to campaign headquarters tonight or tomorrow before it is too late—and talk it over with the campaign manager. The campaign headquarters are open each night until 9 o'clock.

One very good feature of The Brownwood Banner election is that the prizes are for all—either one of the big cars or a bag of cold, hard cash awaits every worker.

SUBSCRIBE NOW!-- TO-DAY!

Subscribe now! Don't delay! Help your favorite candidates NOW while this first period is still on, while votes count more than they ever will again. After May 14th, the vote schedule will be reduced.

If you have been thinking of getting into this race, GET IN! Opportunity is here. You can get in now and with a little genuine effort put yourself right out in front, in the lead. There never before was an opportunity like this for a real live wire, man or woman, who can and will use his or her head. Sign the nomination blank. Bring it to the Brownwood Banner office. Know all there is to know and then GET BUSY!

And Now For a Whirlwind Finish! Who Will the Fortunate Winners of the Two Beautiful Automobiles?

Most candidates are realizing the importance of the next few days. Some, however, are still 'dilly-dallying.' The wise 'live wire' candidates are those who realize that the winning votes can and probably will be secured between now and May 14 at 9:00 o'clock.

All candidates are requested to turn in their subscriptions and money in sealed envelopes. This will save confusion in the office and prevent anyone from knowing your total first period turn-in. Please handle your business in this manner.

MAKING Smart CLOTHES

What you will, there's nothing like a white linen suit for summer smartness. In the place, it looks cool and slick inviting as a dish of vanilla cream. In the second place, it grand complement for inter-accessories — bright cotton and hat in red or green or dark linen blouses and brown or navy. And in the place, crisp white linen accents your summer tan in a flattering manner. The new-look suit you see this summer look like that worn by the lady leaning on the scis-Norfolk, belted and plaited like little boys' suits. The sunny patch pockets and the covers are vaguely reminiscent of four-year-old nephew's. This is a Butterick Pattern and may be bought at your department store.

2,040 FARM LOANS ARE MADE IN TEXAS

According to the information received May 1 by Marvin E. Dealy, Information Agent of the Farm Credit Administration, Houston, figures show that Production Credit Association in Texas closed about 2,040 loans, amounting to approximately $140,000, during the month of March. Only $270,000 of this amount was paid out immediately to the borrowers, and the remaining $170,000 was reserved for the budget accounts of the individual borrowers who will be paid the proceeds of their loans as they need it for production purposes, during the season.

Farmers and livestock men who have arranged to obtain this $170,000 in future advances will not be charged interest on this money until they start using it.

Interest on loans made by the Production Credit Associations is made payable when the loan is due.

The borrower may apply for a loan to finance his production costs for the entire season and receive an approval for the full amount, but as a result of his anticipating the approximate dates of his necessary expenses, he is able to arrange for a series of payments to be made by the production credit association to take care of his production expenses as they arise during the season.

Borrowing on a budget basis, rather than obtaining all the money at the beginning of the season, should ordinarily reduce the farmer's interest charges from one-third to one-half.

COOPERATIVE GROUP PLAN OF EDUCATION FOR A. & M. STUDENTS

The cooperative group plan of securing a college education at a minimum cost, has been in operation this year at Texas A. & M. College. County Agent C. W. Lehnberg has been working on a plan to secure several community groups from Brown county at the school.

This week he issued the following statement describing the plan in detail:

"The question that is uppermost in the minds of ambitious parents is: 'Where can I find ways and means to send my boy to college next fall?' Those parents who are contemplating sending their sons to A. & M. College may find a solution to their financial problems in the 'Co-operative Group Plan' so successfully put into operation by the school by which it has been trying to assist a number of boys, especially the farm boys with a limited means, to obtain a college education.

"This year there are about twelve groups at A. & M. College with 130 boys. Probably not any of these boys could have entered college had it not been for the help they have received through the co-operative group plan.

Organize Housekeeping Group

"The plan, in a nut shell, is to organize a group of ambitious deserving boys into a co-operative housekeeping group who have sufficient initiative to provide a food budget, for nine months. Each group should have a supervisor to direct the management and act as hostess. Those chosen by the group and brought from home have been quite satisfactory in most instances.

"The group should be made as nearly self sustaining as possible. Any community in Brown county planning a group should start now to make its plans and select its group. The boys have all summer to can their meats, vegetables and fruits so they will have them ready for next fall.

"Some of the boys might even have cans of lard, syrup, honey and the like that they could put aside now to take to A. & M. next fall, since those things are not readily available next September.

"Groups that organize early, plan well and bring their food with them will find that they can get a college education for a small amount of money. Several of the groups at A. & M. this year are getting by for about $5 per month for groceries, house rent and utilities such as lights, water and wood or gas.

"We believe that the type of boys we are trying to help have ample food at home, if properly canned and preserved, to defray a good part of their college expense. Other expenses will be tuition of $25.00 per semester of 4 1-2 months and $40.00 per semester for medical fee, clothes, athletic coupon book, books, etc., except for engineering students and veterinary students whose fees will be $15.00 higher.

Rent Is Cheap.

"Houses can be rented near the campus or in Bryan that will accommodate from eight to twenty boys from $10.00 to $45.00 per month. Some of these houses are furnished, others are not. Some groups have found little difficulty in getting additional furniture they need in their home communities.

"These co-operative groups are under the direct supervision of Dr. Daniel Russell. In speaking about these groups Dr. Russell made the following statement: 'For those boys who have a small amount of money but insufficient funds to pay all expenses and live in the dormitories, we are sponsoring these groups again next year so as to try to help them get a college education. We think the boys for the group should be selected carefully and an attempt should be made to get the boys that have made a pretty good high school record and who really want to go to college and obtain a higher education.'

At last the public has been aroused to the importance of stopping the reign of gangsters. Congress has passed a series of crime bills recommended by the Department of Justice, and among them is one which probably will do more to stop crime than any other law that has been passed in recent years.

Gangsters: $25,000 A Head

It authorizes the Attorney General to designate "public enemies" and offer $25,000 cash for their capture. Gangsters are in business for quick money easily obtained. And capturing a fellow gangster and exacting $25,000 in lawful money will offer a lure that minor gangsters are not going to be able to pass up if it dangles before their eyes.

Designation of John Dillinger as a public enemy is expected to follow final enactment of the law. And, once designated, Dillinger will find many hideaways closed to him. There is little honor among gangsters, and Dillinger or other designated public enemies will find that their trusted friends probably will not sacrifice $25,000 in cash to keep them under cover.

The plan is not a new one. It has been tried with great success by the government in splitting the fine with the informer in smuggling cases. The policy has decreased smuggling more than any other plan ever tried by the government, and it doubtless was the success of the anti-smuggling reward that inspired the public enemy offer.

Not only will the offer result in capture of gangsters by gangsters, but it will force public enemies into the open where they can be captured by law enforcement officers, for it will close practically every avenue of escape, and make the public enemies distrustful of their own associates.

The law is the most important piece of crime legislation that has been enacted since the growth of racketeering and gangster rule became a menace in this country.

To the editorial desk of The Banner comes a very valuable and informative booklet, "What Economic Nationalism Means to the South," by Peter Molyneux, editor of The Texas Weekly. It is published jointly by the Foreign Policy Association of New York and the World Peace

The South's Sacrifice

Foundation of Boston. The Molyneux booklet is a companion work to Secretary Wallace's widely quoted work, "America Must Choose," in which the "middle course" between nationalism and internationalism was advanced.

In a closely reasoned argument, Mr. Molyneux sets forth that the commercial policy of the United States for the past century has tended to reduce the ten cotton states to an inferior economic position, and then proceeds to show that, in the changed world situation today, a continuation of this policy must injure the South to even greater degree in the future.

"One of the great needs of the world today is the restoration of normal trade among nations," Mr. Molyneux points out, "and an essential step toward such restoration of trade is the radical lowering of trade barriers of all kinds. . . . The millions of Southern cotton fields and the other millions whose livelihood is bound up with the growing of cotton are without hope of such increased purchasing power unless international trade is revived. On the other hand, there is no region on the face of the earth where there is greater opportunity for the creation of new markets for manufactured goods. . . . than is presented today in the cotton South."

The economic and social problems of the South will become hopeless, it is pointed out, if the policy of economic nationalism is persisted in by the United States. "If the truth be told," Mr. Molyneux states, "the South already has sacrificed too much in order that this policy might be maintained."

Not often has the South had so able a champion as Mr. Molyneux, or one whose writings carry such weight throughout the Nation. The publication of the booklet, and its wide distribution mark a monumental and effective effort on behalf of the cotton growing states.

Brownwood printers, together with printers in every city in the United States, this week received copy of the prices that may be charged for printing under the terms of the Graphic Arts Code, recently adopted. Previously the printing establishments have been operating under the terms of the code with regard to hours and wages. Now it becomes mandatory that the code prices for all printing operations be charged by all printers. Heavy penalties are provided for violations of the minimum established prices, as well as for violations of the minimum wage schedule.

If the code is capable of being enforced, which we believe to be the case, it will mean that any printing operation in Brownwood will cost the customer just the same as if printed in Kansas City, St. Louis, Chicago or anywhere else.

The code prices in most cases are slightly higher than have been charged in the past, but this has been made necessary by increases in paper stock prices and increased wages. They still are considerably under prices charged a few years ago.

The Graphic Arts Code is all inclusive. By its own terms it "includes all persons who are engaged in publishing or printing, or who use any of the processes or partial processes used in printing, or who produce any printed matter of whatsoever description, or who sell any printed matter of whatsoever description in competition with persons who produce such printed matter." The exception is made of "persons to the extent that they are engaged in publishing and printing daily newspapers and who subscribe or assent to the Code of Daily Newspaper Publishing Business." This is the only exception.

Brownwood printers are well equipped to handle all Brownwood printing, and with the establishment of uniform prices, there need be no further inducement for sending printing out of town. Incidentally, The Banner has improved its commercial printing equipment during the past six months probably to a greater extent than any printing office in West Texas, and invites everyone in this section to take advantage of the service we offer.

THE BANNER'S SCRAP BOOK

THE BETTER THINGS OF LIFE F. A. Miller, president and editor of the South Bend Tribune, says:

That the irritating, disrespectful attitude of the young of today is due almost wholly to the lack of parental attention.

I was in a South Bend home one evening not long ago. Nine year old Coral, fresh from her bath, came down stairs attired in an appropriate dress, her beautiful golden hair shimmering in the brilliance of the lighted room, her complexion healthfully pink, her eyes full of intelligence and smiles and her whole bearing that of a child properly reared. She was indeed a picture and polite to the nth degree.

Why? Coral's parents, who are neighbors and delightful people, had denied themselves that she might be brought up correctly. Mother had remained home many a time too long after Coral when she would have enjoyed a few hours out. Father had done the same.

But what a satisfaction to be the parents of a girl who knows how to meet people, who is respectful to her father and mother and her elders, who enjoys her school and who delights in clean, wholesome, health-giving play in the play hours.

If parents could know Coral as I know her, could know her parents as I know them and would pattern after them, what an abundance of happiness there would be in this dear old world. And how sweet and good and lovely more young people would be!

Post — A farm water control plan which promises more uniform distribution of rainfall and less loss of soil from higher land is being worked out by Elmer Hitt, Pleasant Valley community, Garza county, in cooperation with W. C. Taylor, county agent. A lake on the north side of the farm gathers run-off water from an adjoining public road and surrounding land. By cutting an open ditch about 800 feet long Mr. Hitt will drain the water collecting in this lake to the main part of the field where it will be distributed by means of level terraces. The removal of surplus water from the lake opens up several acres of very fertile tillable land.

TEXAS CENTENNIAL FEATURED

BY "TEXAS FULL HOUSE" SPECIAL Dale Miller, of Texas Weekly, in Address Over W.O.M., Talks About Approaching Texas Celebration.

We in Texas should continue actively in furthering the progress of our State, especially during the months and years just ahead. We have a great project for the immediate future, through which our cooperative effort can be directed. I refer, of course, to the Texas Centennial. It was this project that represented the third mission which the Texas "Full House Special" tour was designed to fulfill. The plans for this great exposition were told the entire nation in a broadcast over the NBC network from New York City a week ago yesterday. Mayor Le Guardia welcomed the Texans at a luncheon and speakers on the air outlined the plans for this promising Centennial celebration.

It is this Texas Centennial, if properly supported by the people, that will really usher in the great development of the future. All Texas needs is to attract the eyes of the nation in a tangible way, and certainly no other State could offer a more colorful and spectacular exhibition.

Texas, for example, represent the connecting civilization between the Anglo-Saxon and Latin races who contested through many centuries for domination of the New World. It was here—across this broad frontier—that France yielded to Spain, Spain to Mexico, Mexico to the free Republic of Texas, and Texas to its great sisterhood of states. The only State in the Union to have been a sovereign Republic, the only State to have served under six distinct flags, Texas has indeed a unique and fascinating history.

Centennial's Continental Importance

Another attraction that Texas offers to the nation is its geographic location as the gateway to Mexico and Central America. Moving to swift completion now is the great Pan-American highway that will connect the two Americas. Mexico is becoming more and more the mecca of thousands of American tourists, and a comprehensive Texas Centennial celebration just two years from now will prove an added attraction to this great army of pleasure-bound Americans. Mexico, of course, will join with Texas in celebrating this Centennial. It may be surprising to many folks up north, but it is an actual fact that although the war for Texas independence was one of the most sanguinary and bitterly fought struggles in history, not a trace of enmity between the two countries exists today and the relations between Texas and Mexico are friendly and sympathetic.

The main point in regard to the coming Texas Centennial that was emphasized by the delegates on the Full-House Special was that this celebration is not something in which Texans alone would be interested, but is an observance of a period that profoundly altered the destinies of our entire country. When Stephen F. Austin—who, by the way, was languishing in a dungeon in Mexico City exactly one hundred years ago—first crossed the Sabine in 1821, from that date on, the story of Texas is the march of American civilization westward to the sea. The Texas war for independence, and the Mexican war just a decade later, changed the entire map of the United States, and won for the American people a new and greater empire. It is because of these effects of the war for independence, and because the heroic patriots who won our freedom were adventurers from many of the older states of the union, that the Texas Centennial in 1936 is an event of national and even international importance.

State-Wide Centennial Sentiment

There has been developing in Texas of late a stronger sentiment in favor of holding a great celebration. I noticed with pleasure a news item this morning which declared that the fifth District of the State Federation of Women's Clubs now in convention at Cuero, had devoted much of its program yesterday to the Texas Centennial, heartily endorsing the exposition and urging State-wide cooperation in making it a wonderful success. As a matter of fact, the women of Texas, both in and out of this organization, have been very instrumental in recent months in organizing support for the Cen-

Here's A Way To Control Insects In Your Gardens

Insects destroying your garden? Here's a remedy recommended by County Agent C. W. Lehmerberg: "One of the most effective materials for the control of garden insects is Pyrethrum. The list of insects which pyrethrum kills reads like the index of a book of entomology. It kills such tough customers as cucumber beetles, Japanese beetles and even the big gray squash bug that defies most everything except fire. Pyrethrum is not harmful to plants, is non-toxic to man but it paralyzes practically all insects it comes in contact with. Pyrethrum should be dusted on plants and since it deteriorates rapidly, successive applications should be made at short intervals.

"Barium fluosilicate, used either as a spray or dust, against the Mexican bean beetle, as well as against a host of other insects is very effective. "Calcium arsenate and paris green are other very effective insecticides but are also dangerous to man. When they are used, vegetables must be carefully washed before they are used for the table. Try some of these and save your garden."

Receives Invitation Reception, Banquet Honoring Roosevelt

Dr. Mollie W. Armstrong, who served as chairman of the Brownwood celebration of President Roosevelt's Birthday, received an invitation from Henry L. Doherty, chairman of the President's Ball committee, to attend a reception at the White House Wednesday, May 9, at which time the proceeds from the various Birthday Balls held throughout the country were presented to President Roosevelt for transmission to the Warm Springs Foundation.

Invitation also was received by Dr. Armstrong to a dinner at Hotel Shoreham, held Wednesday night, in commemoration of the Warm Springs Foundation at which President Roosevelt was scheduled to be in attendance.

The local President's Birthday Ball raised $500 for the Warm Springs Foundation and acknowledgment of receipt of this money was received some time ago.

Backward Swing Of Fashions Revealed

The backward swing in the fashion trend has never been more apparent than in the costumes worn by the feminine players in the Fox Film production, "Carolina," the period of which is from 1900 to 1905. The picture is showing at the Lyric Monday and Tuesday.

Probably the most intensely feminine period in women's fashions, the gowns of Janet Gaynor and Mona Barrie could be worn in perfect taste in 1933, thereby proving how conclusively period influence has prevailed this season.

Janet Gaynor wears a gown with a yellow satin foundation, covered in turn with yellow mousseline and cream-colored striped net. The small, round, Pete Pan collar is of lace. The dress is tight to the knees, where it breaks into circular mousseline ruffles, and the waistline is high.

Mona Barrie wears a gown in two shades of pink, net over a pink satin foundation. Long and tight the dress flares at the bottom of the skirt with ruffles of accordion pleated net. Pleats of the same material form tiny cap sleeves. Trimming on the dress is of hand-made, pink silk roses.

USE OF ICE SAVES MONEY

The City Ice Delivery delivers high grade ice direct to your door or business at economical prices. Also an 18-hour service at the loading docks of all plants in Brownwood. Mr. J. G. Gorman, Manager.

Ice is one of the most important of all commodities necessary to the health and well being of the human race. Only by its use can we preserve and keep fresh the hundreds of perishable foods and delicacies which make up the present day menu. In this respect it is probably as important a preventative of sickness as any we might think of, for it prevents the growth of germs in food, whose presence might cause illness of a serious nature. Government statistics show that the $134.50 which the average family spends annually for doctor bills, $90.53 would be saved by proper food preservation and that of the $629.50 which the average family spends for food in a year, 10 per cent is lost by spoilage, the major part of which would be saved with ample use of ice.

Another thing is that in the refrigerator in which commercial ice is placed there is a complete circulation of air about 7 times per minute. This operation carries odors from foods, such as onions, etc., around the melting ice where they are absorbed by the water and carried off down the drain, thus constantly purifying the air and preventing such odors from being absorbed by other foods.

There are many other things contributing to the desirability of commercial ice in keeping our foods fresh which are hardly known to the average person, which are obtainable at the City Ice Delivery office, a call will find them glad to explain same to you. A complete line of modern refrigerators are also shown for the convenience of their customers.

This company is filling a community need in an efficient manner and since they furnish a payroll spent locally and pay substantial amount in taxes on their plant, they are deserving of local support to the fullest extent.

Use more ice and in the long run you will find that the safety, saving and convenience made possible by its use will more than compensate for its cost.

WELL TENDED HENS MADE MONEY IN 1933

During the past year in which cotton, wheat and corn and hogs have held the center of the Texas farm stage the lowly hen has been doing her part to keep the farmer in the running. Complete reports from 482 farms in 80 counties where demonstrations in good poultry management have been conducted show that the average hen made her owner $1.04 above feed cost for the year. This is exactly the same return on labor and investment that hens in demonstration flocks made in the previous year. It is pointed out by Paul Cunyus, assistant poultry husbandman in the Extension Service at Texas A. and M. College.

"Without a doubt this is a return much above the average of all farm flocks in Texas," Mr. Cunyus says. "It shows what the hen can do in bad times under good management. There were 101,995 birds in the demonstration flocks. Neighbors who cooperated with county farm or home demonstration agents in following similar demonstration methods numbered 859, and they made a little more than $1 per hen above feed cost on their 109,795 birds."

A four-year comparison of significant poultry management factors taken from demonstration records shows that average annual production per hen has increased from 142.1 eggs in 1930 to 150.9 eggs in 1933. Egg prices have fallen during this period from 24.5 cents per dozen to 13.8 cents per dozen, but the feed cost per dozen has dropped in about the same proportion. It cost demonstrators last year 6.8 cents per dozen to provide the feed. The feed cost per hen was 96 cents last year compared to $1.72 in 1930. Income above feed cost fell from $1.59 per hen in 1930 to $1.04 in 1932, and the same in 1933.

"One dollar per hen per year for labor and investment in depression times is not a bad showing," declares Mr. Cunyus. "The demonstration hens have proven the right of the farm flock to a place in the farm business and certainly they have proven a good manager to be the right of every self-respecting hen," he concludes.

Extension of the maturity of the 10-cent cotton loan. Kelly said, means that producers who have obtained such loans may repay them and obtain the relief of the pledged warehouse receipts, thus being able to take advantage of any market rise between now and next February 1.

However, it must be understood, he explained, that the extension of the maturity of producers' loans in no way affects the obligation of the corporation to buy eligible notes held by banks and other lending agencies if tendered on or before June 30 at any loan agency of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation designated to handle such loans.

The corporation up to April 30 had disbursed $60,806,424 upon 1,175,000 bales of cotton. Repayments of the same date amounted to $21,090,086, representing the release of 407,000 bales, leaving outstanding $39,716,338 secured by 767,000 bales.

Reports indicate, he said, that banks and other lending agencies made loans of $60,000,000 on 1,200,000 bales. Accurate figures as to repayments to banks are unavailable, but reports indicate a third of the total had been repaid.

Corn loans as of April 30 totaled $113,559,097, of which $87,057,186 was disbursed by the corporation in direct loans to producers, the balance being advanced by banks and other lending agencies under agreements whereby such loans will be purchased by the corporation, if tendered on or before June 30th.

COTTON LOANS ARE EXTENDED; STAPLE NOT TO BE TAKEN

The Commodity Credit Corporation has extended maturity date on all 10-cent loans on cotton from August 1, 1934, to February 1, 1935.

This was announced this week in Washington by Lynn P. Kelly, president of the corporation, who said no cotton pledged as security for producers' loans would be taken over or sold by the corporation prior to next February 1, unless seven-eighth-inch spot cotton reached 15 cents a pound on the New Orleans market.

He also said loans eligible under the cotton plan would be available until July 31, but that the corn loan plan under which farmers borrowed 45 cents a bushel on
