Twelve Muenster students advance to regional UIL tests

Thirty-six Muenster High School students competed in the District 17A U.I.L. literary meet which was held last Tuesday and Thursday, March 25 and 27, at Cooke County College.

Of those thirty-six, twelve will advance to the regional contest which will be held in Kilgore on Friday, April 25.

The twelve regional qualifiers and their events are: Mikael Fette and Jean Pagel, standard debate; Meredith McDaniel and Jamie Walterscheid, standard debate; Andy Burnette and Sam Fleitman, standard debate; Valerie Vogel, informative speaking; Drue Bynum, persuasive speaking; Sharen Wolf, accounting; Kim Hess, newswriting; Jean Pagel and Jennifer Reeves, feature writing; Michelle Monday, headline writing; and Meredith McDaniel, typewriting. All of these finished in the top three in their competition, thereby qualifying to advance.

First place winners in their events were Sharen Wolf, Jean Pagel, Drue Bynum and the Fette-Pagel debate team.

Regional qualifiers in golf, tennis and track have not yet been determined.

Gramm pushes oil and gas help

U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm has introduced legislation designed to raise a shield against the threat posed by the oil price crisis in Texas.

"The crisis, caused by the collapse of oil prices, is decimating independent producers, suppliers and oil field service companies and now threatens the economy of our entire state," Gramm noted.

"I believe we need bold action to use the strength of regulatory agencies and to change federal policy toward the industry before the crisis becomes a national disaster," he said.

The senator's broad-based package of legislation contains provisions to protect the industry against adverse changes in the Tax Code, to allow debt restructuring for hard-pressed producers and their lenders and to deregulate the oil and gas industry across the board.

More specifically, it would:

--Retain current tax rules on intangible drilling costs, percentage depletion and other Tax Code provisions threatened by the House-passed tax reform bill.

--Amend the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. Act to allow easier acquisition of banks which have been closed or which are failing beneath the weight of faltering energy production. It would also alter banking law to help prevent such failures.

--Repeal the Windfall Profits Tax, incremental pricing requirements of the Natural Gas Policy Act, and sections of the Fuel Use Act to provide new incentives to the oil and gas industry.

Good News!

On the evening of that first day of the week, even though the disciples had locked the doors of the place where they were for fear of the Jews, Jesus came and stood before them. "Peace be with you," he said. John 20: 19

Wrecks, drunkenness, brawls seem commonplace

Police are busy

Luttmer's accident was one of several incidents occupying officers during a hectic weekend.

On Thursday, March 27, about 11:30 a.m. four boys from Garland, ages 17, 17, 16 and 14 had an accident near Kountry Korner on Highway 82.

Originally headed for a camping trip at Lake Texoma, they had made a wrong turn at Gainesville and found themselves lost at Saint Jo. They were back-tracking when they lost control of their vehicle at the curve approaching town. As seen by Police Chief Helen Tomkins, the car skidded sideways on the highway and rolled over four or five times near Ash Street. Two occupants of the back seat were thrown out into the bardiach, along with their camping equipment.

All were taken to Muenster Memorial Hospital where injuries were diagnosed as one concussion and multiple bruises and abrasions. All received emergency care. The two in front, wearing seat belts, were less seriously hurt. The other two were hospitalized overnight. All four were released to their parents.

Drunk and disorderly

Other problems for officers came under the heading of "Drunkenness and Disorderly Conduct."

Thursday night some eight or ten multiple gang fights occurred in the middle of Main Street in front of The Ranch. Muenster City Police called for help from County Officers and the Highway Patrol. The incident ended with arrests and placement in the Cooke County jail.

More of the same occurred Friday night, near the same area, in the middle of Main Street when four were arrested here by Muenster city police and jailed in Cooke County jail on "drunk and disorderly charges" and when one of those involved had broken a large plate glass window at Fischer's Market and Grocery. This group likewise was taken to the county jail.

Earlier Friday, about 6:30 p.m. a man and woman were arrested for drunk and disorderly conduct at Bayer's Kolonialwaren, and harassing visitors. The two were subsequently jailed in Cooke County jail, Gainesville.

Saturday afternoon Officer Stovall was notified by a call from Montague County officers that a drunk driver was enroute between Saint Jo and Muenster. The man was arrested near Kountry Korner by Officer Stovall and was booked at Cooke County jail for drunk and disorderly conduct.

On Saturday night, fights on Main Street resulted in the arrest of four by County officers. The four were charged with drunk and disorderly conduct and jailed in Cooke County jail.

Sandra Walterscheid, Tammy Hess named to 'Dream Team'

Sacred Heart seniors Sandra Walterscheid and Tammy Hess were selected to the All-State Girls' basketball team. Claiming honorable mention to the squad were senior Lydia Walterscheid and sophomore Vicki Walterscheid.

Sandra Walterscheid is a repeat All-Stater. The 5'11" forward was the Tigerettes leading scorer with 502 total points and the team's second leading rebounder with 325. Sandra swished 69% of her free throws, dished out 87 assists and had 131 take-aways.

"Sandra's stats do not indicate her total play, said Coach Jon. She is an outstanding defensive player." Sandra was also selected to the State Tournament team for the third year.

The speedy Tammy Hess reaped the all-state laurel for the first time in her career. The 5'7" guard was the Tigerettes leading scorer during the State Finals. "Tammy is a very talented player, and her effort during the second half of the season exploited some of her skills, said Coach Jon. Tammy scored 351 points from her point guard position and had a team leading 143 steals.

The honorable mention list included S.H.'s Lydia Walterscheid and Vicki Walterscheid. "I feel Lydia's defensive play in the championship game was a main reason for our success," said Coach Jon of the 5'5" senior. Lydia, a streak shooter could blow a game wide open for the Tigerettes.

Sophomore Vicki Walterscheid's strong play during the second half of the season earned her the honorable mention honor. "I guess someone else feels she is a steady performer, said Coach Jon. "Vicki's future is ahead of her if she works to develop her skills. The 6'1" post was the Tigerettes' leading rebounder with 354 boards.

"It's great these girls received these honors," said Coach Jon. It is a reflection of the total team." The Tigerettes finished the 1985-86 season as State Champions in the AAA division, closing out the season with twelve straight wins and a 26-4 record.

New law requires truck markings

A new law was passed on Jan. 1, 1986 regarding all truck tractors and tandem axle vehicles or three axle vehicles according to department of public safety license and weight trooper Preston Morgan. Trooper Morgan stated that department policy requires that a ninety day grace period where only warnings for violations will be given. However, beginning April 1, 1986, drivers may receive a citation for violating the new law.

The new law states that all truck tractors and tandem axle vehicles or three axle vehicles must have the owner's name or lessee information clearly visible on each side of the power unit in letters at least two inches high and one-quarter inch wide according to Trooper Morgan. The new law is applicable to all vehicles in the above category except for farm vehicles, certain vehicles under the motor carrier act, certain public utilities, and vehicles operating under a bonafide lease.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

In recognition of our 150th birthday, I thought that your readership might like to know about the person for whom your county was named.

William Gordon Cooke, for whom Cooke County was named, was born on March 26, 1808 in Fredericksburg, Virginia. He was reared there and received his early education there as well. He was a descendant of a Scottish (Scottish by blood, but Irish by nativity) family that - along with many other families - were expelled from Scotland and divested of their property and possessions as a consequence of having participated in insurrection against the government of that nation.

Mr. Cooke came to Texas at the age of 27 by way of New Orleans, Louisiana, where he was a member of the Volunteer Greys of New Orleans, La., two companies of soldiers representing twelve states and six foreign nations. The New Orleans Greys volunteered for service in the Texas Revolution to secure the would-be Republic's independence from Mexico. In Velasco, Texas, Cooke was elected First Lieutenant and later, in San Antonio, was made Captain of the Greys.

Cooke and other members of the Greys took part in the siege of San Antonio de Bexar in the winter of 1835-36 alongside the "Texians" who overwhelmed the Mexican Army at the Alamo (this battle was in the year previous to the famous "fall of the Alamo").

Cooke commanded the guard unit that spared Santa Anna's life after he had been captured at the Battle of San Jacinto. Additionally, Cooke accompanied the wounded Sam Houston back to New Orleans to insure that Houston received proper medical attention for his injuries during the same battle.

After the triumph over the Mexican Army in February and March of 1836, Cooke chose to remain in Texas and continued to function in a variety of capacities. During the nine-year life of the Republic of Texas (1836-45), with the exception of a brief entry into the apothecary business in the City of Houston, Cooke served as Quartermaster General, Inspector General of the Army, Stock Commissioner, Colonel of the First Regiment of the Infantry, Commissioner of the Santa Fe Expedition, Member of the Congress of the Republic of Texas and Secretary of War and Marine. For a short time, he and his men had been captured and imprisoned in dungeons in Mexico during an expedition. Release was secured on June 16, 1842. Upon returning to Texas, Cooke married Jose Antonio Navarro's daughter, Angela.

After Texas became the 28th state on December 29, 1845, Cooke remained active. He served as Adjutant General of the State Militia and at the time of his death in Seguin in 1847, he was campaigning for a seat from Texas in the United States House of Representatives.

Sincerely,
Richard F. Williamson

GUNS VERSUS BUTTER

By Edwin Feulner

It's an absolute disgrace the way America's news media report on the federal budget.

With a few notable exceptions—economics columnist Warren T. Brookes of The Detroit News, for example, who is listed in Jude Wanniski's 1986 "Media Guide" as the best in the business ("Almost every column sparkles with fresh analysis wrapped around a new insight on the budget-tax-spending-trade-money-aid stew bubbling in Washington," says the "Guide," giving Brookes a rare four-star rating)—the battle of the budget still is reported in the same simplistic terms as it was during the Vietnam era: guns versus butter.

Even an above-average reader of a better-than-average newspaper comes away with the gut feeling that the budget has just three basic components: Social Security, the great untouchable; social welfare programs, which the Reagan administration has been trimming with a dulled meat-axe; and the Trillion-Dollar-Plus Defense Buildup, which is pictured as nuclear overkill missiles, $500 toilet seats, and gold-plated hammers.

Lost in the deliberately false imagery is the fact that the federal budget is a collection of thousands of different programs and line items: some good, some bad, very few cheap.

News professionals for years have argued that it is impossible to really discuss in any intelligent way even a representative sampling of the good and the bad in the budget. So for all practical purposes they don't even try.

Typical of the mind-set of the national journalism fraternity is the following "lead," from a recent Washington Post report by Paul Taylor: "The American people differ sharply with President Reagan's proposed spending priorities for fiscal 1987, with a majority favoring cuts in the Defense Department and nearly two-thirds opposing cuts in social programs..."

The story was based on a Post-ABC News survey of 1,504 voting-age adults conducted between February 6 and 12.

More instructive than the findings was the news "spin" the Post put on the story. Though it was apparently a wide-ranging survey, providing what Taylor later in his story calls "a grab bag of findings on a variety of issues," the Post focused on budget questions involving six general areas of federal activity: loans and grants to college students; Medicaid "for the poor"; Social Security; Medicare "for the elderly"; unemployment insurance; food stamps; and the military. In other words, guns versus butter.

The survey showed, to quote the Post, that "public support has increased for social programs and decreased for military spending" during the last five years.

Returning to my main point. From surveys and news stories such as the one cooked up by the Post, the American public is wrongly led to believe that the debate over the federal budget involves little more than choices between desirable social welfare programs, such as "Medicaid for the poor" and defense.

In fact, the federal budget is larded over with hundreds, perhaps thousands, of programs that fall into neither of these two categories, and hundreds of different, and sometimes overlapping programs, within the two. Subsidies. Loans. Grants. Councils and commissions that do nothing. Councils and commissions that do too much. Waste. Fat. Pork. And yes, even some worthwhile and necessary endeavors.

What we need in these times of hard choices is an intelligent national debate on the issue of federal spending, what the public is getting instead is a seriously distorted picture of reality. The Post is not alone by any means. The problem is everywhere. It's no public service the media is performing—it's a disservice.

San Jacinto: A Decisive Battle

by Robert McDaniel

On Thursday, April 21, 1836, a battle was fought near present day Houston which had a significant impact on determining the future of westward expansion in relation to the United States. This battle was the Battle of San Jacinto, where a group of volunteers, not regular army personnel, led by Sam Houston defeated an army of some 1200 men trained in European style fighting under the leadership of Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna.

Many Texans are aware that this battle determined that Texas would be free instead of Texans having to live under the tyranny of the Mexican government. They are also aware that a huge area was wrestled from Mexico. What Texans might not understand is the relationship of the part (the Battle of San Jacinto) to the whole (manifest destiny). Manifest destiny means basically that Americans would not be satisfied until they had expanded the western boundary to the Pacific Ocean, the northern boundary as far north as Canada would allow, and the southern boundary as far as Mexico would allow.

To understand this concept better, one only needs to look at a map of the United States which shows how the country has expanded. When the Northwest Territory was annexed and the Old West was added, most of the area east of the Mississippi River was claimed by the youthful America. This area was surrounded by natural boundaries; to the north the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River, to the east the Atlantic Ocean and to the south the Gulf of Mexico (West and East Florida were owned by Spain, but Americans realized it would only be a matter of time until it was controlled by Americans). The western boundary, the Mississippi River, would be crossed and that area would become a part of the growing United States when Americans were ready to do so.

The problem arose when the Mississippi River was crossed. Now there are no natural rivers on the north and south to act as boundaries. This was when the conflict began to grow. Trouble first begun as Americans migrated farther west. The government that these transplanted Americans had friction with first was the Spanish government in Texas. Spaniards tolerated Texans as long as the newcomers were the minority. However, when the minority became the majority, the trouble began and the end result was that Texas became free and independent.

The independence of Texas is important to Texans, and the United States understood that eventually it would become a state of the Union. However, on a larger scale, the Americans were looking into the distant future when all land between Texas and the Pacific Ocean would become a part of the United States. To insure this continuance of the manifest destiny concept, the areas known as the Louisiana Purchase, the Oregon Territory and the Mexican session must eventually become parts of the manifest destiny puzzle. Even if the United States was not going to populate this seemingly barren stretch known as the Great Plains, at least other governments would not be in control of the area.

Part of the concept of manifest destiny helps to explain this obsession to race to the Pacific coast. Other countries, Russia and England, were also interested in having ports on the west coast. The United States was also interested in owning these seaports because whoever controls the shipping ports to an area controls the area. By looking at the western coast of North America, it is easily seen that the majority of the ports (Seattle, San Francisco, San Diego, Monterey, Los Angeles, Long Beach) are found within the boundaries of the United States. This is why the southern border of California does not lie in a true east-west direction. The border had to be altered to a more southerly direction to make sure that San Diego was located inside California rather than in Mexico.

Now maybe Texans are able to realize how important the Battle of San Jacinto was. It was important to Texans, but just as important to the United States. This might be why President Andrew Jackson had federal troops stationed in Louisiana as close as he could to the Texas border ready to come to the assistance of Sam Houston if he asked. President Jackson and Houston were personal as well as political friends, and Houston was a staunch believer in Jacksonian democracy, and the U.S. was willing to risk a war with Mexico to insure that Texas was successful in breaking away from Mexico.

Safety belts save county tax dollars

"Texas taxpayers pay a price for each traffic fatality or injury on the state's roads and highways."

That was the message delivered by consumer economics specialist Bonnie Pniernot to more than 500 county officials gathered for the 28th annual County Judges and Commissioners' Conference, held in College Station, Feb. 25-27.

Pniernot explained that a traffic fatality costs taxpayers an average of $12,000 for emergency medical services, police, highway patrol, highway and road repair and other direct costs.

She added that each non-fatal injury costs an average of $7,000.

During the first three months after the Texas mandatory safety belt law took effect in September 1985, traffic fatalities decreased 18.2 percent over the same three month period in 1984, saving 8 million in tax dollars.

But the specialist said that studies in other states with similar laws show that safety belt use can decrease over time without continued public education and reinforcement.

She pointed out that Texas automobile insurance rates were reduced an average of 5.1 percent based on the assumption that safety belts would be used by 65 percent of Texans. Unless that usage rate is achieved, insurance costs could go up again.

The consumer economist noted that county Extension home economics staff and local members of more than 40 organizations, such as the PTA, Red Cross and others who have joined in the Texas Coalition for Safety Belts, can work with county officials to provide these programs.

The Texas Extension Homemakers Association, a 23,000-member volunteer leadership development organization sponsored by TAEX, has also received grants from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration to initiate educational programs in nine Texas counties.

Throughout in the conference, county officials could ride the "convincer," a machine provided by the Texas Automobile Dealers' Association to demonstrate what the occupant of a car would experience if it hit a stationary object at five miles an hour. Each official who rode the machine came away sporting a yellow button which said, "I'm convinced."

Hands Across America expects large crowd

From senior citizen groups to children, bikers to ranch hands, hundreds of thousands of Texans are expected to sign up during April to take part in the historic Hands Across America nationwide line on May 25.

Hands Across America will form a chain of 6 million Americans stretching from coast to coast in a continuous line of support for this nation's hungry and homeless, raising at least $50 million to combat these problems.

April begins the sign-up period, with Texans asked to call the toll-free national number, 1-800-USA-9000, to pledge a donation and reserve a place in line.

Texas has the largest portion of the 4,000-mile-line, more than 600 miles from west of Amarillo through Childress, Wichita Falls, Fort Worth, Dallas, Mount Pleasant and Texarkana.

For a tax-deductible $10 donation, someone can take part in the project, the largest endeavor in history. For larger pledges of $25 and $35, the participant receives premiums such as a Hands Across America t-shirt, lapel pin or sun visor.

Interest in the Texas line is high, according to Sheryl Losser, state director. "We have received calls from groups in San Antonio, Houston, Austin and many other cities wanting to know how they can get involved," Losser said. "A group of senior citizens with recreational vehicles wanted to know where we would like them to travel for the line. The same day, AGAPE, a group of motorcycle enthusiasts, called to say they'd go wherever they are needed."

"We are enthusiastic about the response even before the April sign-up push begins. Both individuals and organizations are planning to join us on the line, and we welcome everyone. There will be hundreds of thousands of people participating on May 25."

New vaccine promises greatly increased protection against many childhood diseases

Questions & Answers about Haemophilus b Polysaccharide Vaccine. A new vaccine to help children against pediatric infectious diseases.

What is Hib?

Haemophilus Influenzae Type b (Hib) are the bacteria (germs) responsible for a significant number and a wide variety of diseases in children.

What diseases do Hib bacteria cause?

Bacterial meningitis, epiglottitis (obstruction of breathing passage), osteomyelitis (bone inflammation), pneumonia, septic arthritis and cellulitis are among the many infectious diseases Hib bacteria can cause.

Why should your child be immunized against Hib?

About 20,000 children develop Hib diseases each year. This is similar to the incidence of paralytic poliomyelitis prior to the introduction of a polio vaccine in the 1950's. Half of these 20,000 children develop meningitis, while the remaining half develop other potentially serious diseases. About 40 percent of Hib diseases occur in children over 18 months of age.

Between 5 and 10 percent of children who develop Hib meningitis die. In addition, about 25-33 percent of children who survive meningitis have long-term complications, such as retardation, seizures and hearing problems. Hib meningitis is regarded as the leading cause of acquired mental retardation in the U.S. Children who attend day-care centers may be at increased risk since Hib can spread from one child to another.

What is a vaccine?

A vaccine is a preparation that is administered to produce or increase immunity to particular diseases or disease-causing organisms. Administration is commonly referred to as an immunization.

What is the Hib vaccine?

A vaccine that provides protection against Hib bacteria and the many infectious diseases they can cause.

How does the vaccine work?

When immunization takes place, the vaccine stimulates the body to produce "antibodies" (protective substances) to combat Hib bacteria, enabling the body to resist or fight off Hib diseases.

Will the vaccine protect against all Hib diseases?

No. But studies in large numbers of children have shown the Hib vaccine to be highly effective in children from 2 through 5 years of age. (The vaccine is not effective in children less than 18 months of age).

How long does protection last?

A single immunization is recommended at this time. However, studies are in progress to determine whether a second dose is needed.

Are there any side effects?

The Hib vaccine is a highly purified vaccine. This type of vaccine has an outstanding record of safety. To date, numerous children have received the Hib vaccine. Reactions when they occur are generally limited to sore arm and fever and disappear within 48 hours.

Helen Farabee to address league

Helen Farabee will speak on indigent health care at the next meeting of the Gainesville League of Women Voters, Thursday, April 10th, at 7:00 p.m., in the Chamber of Commerce Building. This will be the League's third program on recent legislation mandating medical care for the indigent. Mrs. Farabee led the Governor's Task Force on Indigent Health Care which recommended many of the programs adopted by the State Legislature in a special session last year.

Mrs. Farabee has extensive experience in volunteer leadership. Prior to her chairmanship of the Task Force, she led the Special Senate Committee on Delivery of Human Services from 1978 to 1981. Following that, she chaired the State Mental Health Code Task Force from 1981 to 1983. Recommendations from that group led to revision of the Texas Mental Health Code. She is active in a wide variety of civic voluntary organizations.

Scivally appointed to Affiliated board

Thurman Scivally, a Gainesville grocer, was elected to the board of directors of Affiliated Food Stores, Inc. Sunday during their 40th annual stockholder's convention in Fort Worth.

Scivally will serve a three year term on the board of the huge Dallas-based food purchasing cooperative for independent member grocers in Texas. Affiliated, wholly owned by nearly 600 retail member stores in Texas, is part of the world's largest and most powerful food purchasing network.

THURMAN SCIVALLY

John Myrick, General Manager, said, "We are pleased to welcome Thurman Scivally to the board of directors of Affiliated Food Stores. Mr. Scivally's experience and judgement will be invaluable in helping to make 1986 another successful year for all Affiliated members."

He is a graduate of Cooke County Junior College and is a member of the Kiwanis Club in Gainesville and the Gainesville Chamber of Commerce.

Scivally and his wife, Ann, have five children. They live at 400 Hillside in Gainesville and are members of the Temple Baptist Church in Gainesville.

Scivally, age 54, is a native of Love County, Oklahoma, and has been in the grocery business 29 years. Scivally's Grocery is located at East Highway 82 in Gainesville.

Taxpayer info packet available

Bill Sherman, Chief Appraiser for the Cooke County Tax Appraisal District, offers district residents a tip to help them save on their property taxes.

According to Mr. Sherman, a pamphlet available from the District office explains how the property tax system operates in Texas and highlights possible tax savings for property owners.

The State Property Tax Board in Austin publishes "Taxpayers' Rights, Remedies, Responsibilities" under provisions of the Texas Property Tax Code, Sherman said. He noted that information in the pamphlet applies to property taxes collected by all types of local government, counties, school district and special districts such as hospitals and municipal utility districts.

Homeowners may qualify for a variety of property tax exemptions offered by taxing units on residence homesteads, Sherman said. In Texas, a residence homestead is essentially the house and yard used as the owners principal residence. The taxpayers' pamphlet explains the exemptions and tells how to qualify and apply for them.

For example, all homeowners in a School district are eligible for a $5,000 general residence homestead exemption. Also, certain disabled taxpayers and those aged 65 and over may qualify for an additional $10,000 exemption from the value of their homesteads.

"A homeowner who was 65 or older on Jan. 1 of this year is also entitled to a tax freeze, or ceiling, on the tax bill from the school district on the house and yard," Sherman added. "This ceiling is based on the taxes assessed when a taxpayer receives the over 64 school homestead exemption for the first time. The ceiling remains the same as long as the elderly taxpayer owns the homestead, and doesn't make an improvement like a swimming pool or an addition to the house."

The Chief Appraiser pointed out, though, that elderly homeowners need not apply again this year if they obtained the exemption and tax freeze from the school district last year. Only those who became 65 during 1985 and those who have never had the exemption and freeze must apply for 1986.

The taxpayers pamphlet also describes other exemptions which are available in the district, upon application, to disabled veterans.

Another type of tax relief explained in the pamphlet is the special productivity valuation available to landowners. If the owner and the land qualify, acreage may be taxed on its value based on what the land produces rather than on what it would sell for in the open market. Productivity valuation is in two forms, often referred to by the sections of the Texas Constitution that provide them: Agricultural Use, or "I-d", valuation and open-space, or "I-d-1", valuation.

Owners of land taxed last year on its productivity value under I-d-1 open-space provisions do not have to re-apply, unless requested in writing by the Appraisal Office to do so. However, land owners must apply by April 30 this year for I-d Ag-Use valuation, or if they have not previously received either kind of productivity valuation.

"More complete information on special land valuation, tax reductions and exemptions is available from the Appraisal District as well as in the pamphlet," Mr. Sherman said. He said that the pamphlet also contains information about the Appraisal Review Board which examines appraisal records and hears appeals to be sure property values in the District are equal and uniform. This section of the pamphlet outlines the steps for making an appeal to the Appraisal Review Board and ways to prepare and present the protest.

Another section deals with the process of initiative and referendum by which voters can petition for an election to limit the amount of tax increase adopted by any

Estimated taxes are due April 15

Some wage earners and other individuals who have income other than wages may be required to file estimated tax payments, the Internal Revenue Service says. The due date for the first quarterly estimated tax payment for 1986 is April 15.

Just like withholding by employers, the IRS says, estimated taxes are paid in advance of the actual tax return, Form 1040, due for the year. Estimated taxes are normally paid in four installments, and there is a substantial penalty for underpayment of estimated taxes.

For 1986 returns, the three other estimated tax installment dates are: June 16, 1986; September 15, 1986; and January 15, 1987.

Publication 505, "Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax," gives details and can be obtained free from your local IRS or by calling 1-800-424-1040.

Employees must file with or without W-2 s

Even if an employee is unable to get a W-2 before the tax filing deadline, the return must be filed by April 15.

Taxpayers must have a W-2 from every employer they worked for during the year. If it is impossible to obtain a W-2 from an employer, the employee should either obtain a Form 4852, Substitute Wage and Withholding Statement, from the IRS or attach a signed and dated statement showing the tax withholding information and attach it to the tax return, according to the IRS.

Taxpayers can extend their filing deadlines

The Internal Revenue Service says you may receive an automatic 4-month extension of time to file your 1985 federal tax return. The application for the extension, Form 4868, must be filed by April 15.

The IRS stresses that this is an extension of time to file your return—not an extension of time for payment of taxes due. When filing for the extension, the taxpayer must estimate their tax owed for 1985 and send that amount with the Form 4868 to avoid interest and late payment penalties.

The IRS notes that a deduction for an IRA contribution can be claimed on a 1985 tax return only if the contribution is made on or before April 15, even for those electing an extension to file.

"Each year the festival has grown and improved," Mrs. Malnory said. "We will feature more children's activities this year, and with lots of good entertainment on the new stage, additional gifts and crafts booths and an interesting variety of foods, Red River Valley Arts Fest 1986 promises to be an event all ages can enjoy."

Christian rock group to appear at Six Flags

The Christian rock band Stryper will appear in concert at Six Flags Over Texas Saturday, April 12.

The band's performance will begin at 7 p.m. in the park's Festival Concert Pavilion.

The group first emerged on the religious music scene in 1984. Their first album, "The Yellow and Black Attack," remained on Billboard Magazine's Top Inspirational Albums list for more than eight months. Their current hit album, "Soldiers Under Command," has been on the same list for over six weeks.

There will be no additional charge for the group's Six Flags show. Regular park admission is $14.95. Children under 42 inches tall are admitted for $7.95. All prices are plus tax.

The Stryper concert will be one of the final three shows to be presented in the festival seating area. Two Senior Night concerts will also be staged there in May. In June, Six Flags will introduce the new Music Mill Amphitheater, a 10,000-seat facility with a huge stage and new sound and lighting facilities.

Tough guys not so bad after all

Rambo and the Hulk are both on display at the International Wildlife Park in Grand Prairie, but do not expect an exact likeness to Sylvester Stallone and Hulk Hogan.

Rambo and Hulk are orphaned cape buffalo, which are being bottle fed in the wildlife facility's baby animal nursery.

"We gave them these 'tough guys' names because capes are the most dangerous wild animals in Africa," said Kathy McCurdy, the International Wildlife Park nursery supervisor.

"It's hard to imagine these two as mean or vicious, though," she said. "Rambo is three weeks old, Hulk is six weeks old, and they have these big brown eyes that melt your heart."

Rambo was born to a young mother which was not providing good motherly care to the infant. Hulk's mother was 13 years old, and she died shortly after giving birth.

"Having them in the nursery has worked out well," said McCurdy. "They are best friends and they provide each other with hours of entertainment."

McCurdy prepares six bottles a day for each calf, and they are thriving under her care. "They think I'm mama and go crazy when they see me," she laughed.

After the two cape buffalos are weaned, they will be taken from the exhibit area inside the petting zoo and returned to the drive-through animal safari. The International Wildlife Park is located in Grand Prairie just north of Interstate 30 and Belt Line Rd.

$692.90 included Amber Vogel, Lori Graham, DaLana Walterscheid, Dianne Pagel, Chelby Schoppa, and Joy Tisdale.

Gainesville Auxiliary awards scholarships

The Gainesville Memorial Hospital Auxiliary has been aptly described as a collection of generous helping hands, and that's just what GMHA has given to two nursing students at Cooke County College.

Continuing what has become a semi-annual tradition, the organization recently awarded GMHA nursing scholarships to Brenda Washburn of Denton and Deborah Fuhrmann of Gainesville for the current spring semester.

Ms. Washburn, who received similar scholarship assistance from GMHA during the fall term, is an associate degree program student on her way to becoming a registered nurse. Ms. Fuhrmann is a vocational nursing student who'll become an LVN.

Presentation of the scholarship awards was made by Evelyn Kish, GMHA treasurer, and Ruth Goudy, chairperson of the organization's scholarship committee.

"Providing effective medical and health care if often as much as result of a caring attitude among providers of that care as anything else," remarked Rich LaBarbera, CCC director of financial aid. "Nowhere is such an attitude of genuine caring more plentiful than among these hardworking auxiliary volunteers."

The GMHA Scholarship was established to assist and encourage deserving and dedicated CCC students preparing for allied health careers. It has been of significant benefit not only to individual recipients but also to the college's nursing education program in general.

Traffic deaths decline

Traffic deaths in Texas declined by 5.9 percent in 1985 compared to 1984, according to DPS Director Colonel Jim Adams. Adams said 3,682 persons died in traffic accidents across the state in 1985, compared to 3,913 deaths the year before. The 1985 death toll is the lowest since 1976, he said.

76 percent were not wearing protective headgear," the director continued. Texas law provides that helmets be worn by cyclists younger than 18, but there is no requirement that older motorcyclists wear the lifesaving headgear.

Another indicator of the level of traffic safety, the number of deaths per 100 million vehicle miles traveled, also has continued to drop since 1981. Five years ago, the rate was 3.9 deaths per 100 million miles; in 1981, the rate was 2.6 deaths per 100 million miles, the lowest death rate ever recorded in Texas, Adams said. "I see two principal reasons for this saving of lives," Adams said. "When the safety belt law went into effect on September 1, 1985, we began noticing a monthly drop in fatalities.

"The four-month average decrease in front seat fatalities was 14 percent. Secondly, I think the continuing--and growing--emphasis on the dangers of drunken driving, coupled with strict enforcement of the DWI laws by police agencies, has had a definite impact on the number of traffic deaths."

In 1985, the number of reported DWI-related traffic deaths in Texas dropped by 6 percent, with 989 fatalities compared to 1,049 deaths the year before, Adams said.

While overall the number of traffic deaths decreased, the number of motorcycle riders killed in accidents rose by one percent to 364, Adams said.

"Of those motorcyclists killed,

Year is great for Texas tourism

The rapid decline of oil and gas prices, the falling dollar and mild weather have set up what tourism officials are calling a "spectacular" year for Texas tourism.

Continuing low inflation is expected to keep the cost down on Texas vacations, along with economical air fares, favorable interest rates on vacation loans and package bargains on motels and hotels.

Also wholesale prices in general are coming down and are expected to continue to drop in the next few months. "This will give the consumer more discretionary money to spend and we think tourism will get a boost from that opportunity," says Larry Todd of Austin, executive director of the Texas Tourist Development Agency.

People are finding reasons to travel, says a national magazine dealing with tourism. "Americans have restocked on major durables and are now ready to spend more discretionary income on leisure travel."

Travel officials are predicting a 20 to 25 percent increase in the number of visitors from Germany to the U.S., with Texas expected to derive its full share. Increases are also being noted in visitors from England, Japan, Canada and Mexico.

A banner year is forecast for tourists coming to the U.S., and Texas expects to get a large number of these along with many people from other states and from within its own borders. This is the Sesquicentennial or 150th anniversary of the winning of Texas' independence. More than 7,000 events have been planned throughout the state during 1986.

"These travelers have a direct effect on the state's economy,"

Todd says. "The money they spend goes directly into the pockets of Texas business and creates more jobs."

"Part of that money comes back to benefit our state and communities a second time as additional revenue for the hotel/motel tax, sales tax, alcoholic beverage tax, motor fuels tax and others," according to Todd.

The amount of help from visitor spending is significant. Tourism brings more money into Texas businesses and communities than any other industry except oil, and the state is third in the nation, behind only California and Florida, in the number of visitors it draws.

State tourism officials estimate 40 million out-of-state visitors will come to Texas during 1986, and the Texas tourist industry is expected to exceed $16 billion in overall spending if that number is met.

Farmer is hero

A Crosby County farmer who risked his life to rescue a woman from electrocution in a farm accident was announced Monday as winner of the 1986 Texas Rural Heroism award.

C.R. "Clayburn" Marsh, 49, of Crosbyton was honored at the 47th annual Texas/Southwestern Safety Conference and Exposition for rescuing Mrs. Dee (Sherry) Moses, 32, of Crosbyton Dec. 8, 1985. The annual award is sponsored by the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council. Ben Bullard, assistant safety director for the Texas Farm Bureau, is Council president.

The accident occurred just before sundown on a farm about 1 1/2 miles east of Mount Blanco on the South Plains. Marsh, who farms with the Moses family, said that he saw Mrs. Moses driving a tractor and pulling a cotton module builder when its packer arms came in contact with a 7,200-volt power line.

Marsh was about 20 feet away and realized the danger she was in. He yelled to her to stay on the tractor so as not to be grounded.

"Not knowing he wanted me to stay on the tractor, I immediately jumped," Mrs. Moses recalled. "The moment I went out the door of the tractor is the last I remember."

Mrs. Moses said when she jumped from the tractor the "Force of the (electrical) current pulled me back into the tractor," pinning her between the step and back wheel. The tires were blown out and the wire caught on fire.

Marsh said blue flames an inch in diameter were shooting 6 to 8 inches from her feet. He finally freed the woman after three attempts, ripping her jacket in the process.

By this time, her husband, who was operating a cotton harvester elsewhere in the field, had noticed the incident and rushed to the scene. Uncertain if she were still alive, the men rushed her 15 miles to the Crosbyton Hospital.

Physicians initially feared the woman would lose both feet. However, they were able to save all except the small toes and metatarsals on each foot along with part of her right index finger. She also sustained severe burns to her hip.

"I thank God I am alive to raise our three children," Mrs. Moses said. "I thank Clayburn Marsh, who has a wife, three children, and two grandchildren, for risking his life to save mine."

Marsh took some of the current when he grabbed Mrs. Moses' jacket. Safety experts say he avoided possible serious injury by not pulling her by the hand.

County Agent's Report

by Craig Rosenbaum

Alfalfa seems to again be gaining popularity as an alternate crop in some areas of the county. With new plantings, we experience some difficulties. The main problems that we tend to encounter are with weed control in any established stands. Both fall and spring seed stands have many broadleaf weeds in them. Alfalfa, like many of the weeds that are competing in the fields, is a broadleaf and therefore, requires some special herbicide control measures.

We were in fields this week that showed competition with many of the mustards, wild lettuce, corn gromwell, and other weeds. Right now it is probably too late to try to control these weeds. Producers can wait until the weeds head out and then mow them off above the alfalfa growth. Dormant stands can be controlled with several herbicides. Sencor, Treflan, and Velpar all have labels for dormant applications in alfalfa fields. These herbicides can ONLY be used on established stands. Use these herbicides in late January or early February and they will give you some burn down of small weeds and also provide residual control for up to four months. The Treflan will not control anything that is already germinated and growing so use it only as a pre-emerge.

There is one broadleaf herbicide called 2-4-DB.

With the problem we have had with alfalfa weevils this year, there is one variety of alfalfa that shows good recovery from weevil damage. The Cimarron variety in comparison with others in the same area shows excellent recovery from weevil damage. The growth of this variety looks very good and may be a good choice for plantings in Cooke County. Most fields appear to have weevil damage under control with only small numbers in isolated instances showing up.

Right now there is not much we can do for the weeds in alfalfa. The main thing that we can hope for is a good rain to give us a surge of growth and the cuttings that we need.

TSCRA says beef picture getting better

FORT WORTH, TEXAS, March 25, 1986 -- The story of financial crisis in the cattle industry is not as bad as the media has portrayed it and forecasters think prospects for improved beef prices are good.

That's the message speakers gave more than 2,000 working cattlemen at the 109th annual convention of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association March 17 - 19 in San Antonio, said outgoing President John M. "Jack" Shelton III of Amarillo.

Former Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz disputed claims that the cattle industry is in financial disarray. He said the average debt-to-asset ratio in the agriculture industry is 23 percent. While flattening or falling real estate prices have raised that ratio from 17 percent a few years ago and 21 percent in 1984, Butz said, "I can't think of a business in Texas that wouldn't love to have a debt ratio of 23 percent."

Market forecaster Topper Thorpe, who serves as general manager of Cattle FAX, said an expected reduction in beef supply should result in an improved price picture for beef producers.

"We've got to see herd liquidation stop before that occurs. I think basically the balancing of supply and demand is occurring."

Continued liquidation compounds supply and demand and that has a direct bearing on cattle prices, he said. Another is the trend to heavier cattle coming from stocker operations into feedlots. The result is heavier "out-weights" which increases beef tonnage. Earlier projections of a decline in beef supplies this spring may not materialize unless large cattle shipments are made every week to avoid a glut.

He attributed the current softness in cattle prices to the heavier weights, liquidation and the recent slowdown in marketings.

In his annual report to the membership, Secretary-General Manager Don C. King said that despite a nationwide loss of membership among cattle associations brought on by the "market crunch" TSCRA has been extremely fortunate. "Our members have continued to support and stay with us. Our total membership today is 13,755 members rendering 1,936,365 head of cattle."

Cattle thieves were busy in 1985, he said, and the Association's 32 field inspectors, all certified peace officers with special Ranger commissions, filed 111 cases of cattle and ranch equipment theft. Seventy-three cases were brought to trial resulting in almost 200 years of prison sentences. Restitution to cattlemen was made in the amount of $111,575.

King noted that the inspectors recovered or accounted for in 1985 approximately 2,500 head of cattle, 61 horses and numerous trailers, saddles and other ranch equipment valued at $1,414,530.38. On a daily basis, the inspectors cleared up or accounted for livestock and property valued at $3,875.15.

Vo-Ag and Woodshop students hear UTI representative

The Agriculture and Woodshop students of Muenster High School, taught by Edgar Dyer and Rudy Koesler, respectively, received a one-hour presentation on the Universal Technical Institute of Houston, on Wednesday, March 26. Bob Jackson was the UTI representative.

UTI teaches a comprehensive program of Auto and Diesel mechanics, plumbing, heating and air conditioning systems maintenance and repair. Mr. Jackson outlined the course objectives and benefits of the various programs offered at UTI. He stressed the need of a high school education followed by advance education, either college or technical school.

Mr. Jackson illustrated how all aspects of life are becoming more technical, thus demanding more technically trained people to provide maintenance and repair service.

The UTI representative outlined the proper procedure for a job interview, stressing appearance, punctuality and good attitude. He also pointed out to the students what a prospective employer looks for in a job applicant.
