

BAKERY TO BE OPENED HERE NEXT WEEK

Installation of Equipment
Now Under way in Nick
Stoffel Building

The most recent business addition to Muenster is a bakery. Equipment for it, as well as the household goods of its proprietor, Joe Hirschy, came in on three truck loads during the first three days of this week. Roy Endres hauled one of the loads and the FMA truck, returning after delivering two loads of cheese to Houston, hauled the other two.

The bakery is located in the Stoffel Estate building where Nick Stoffel was in business until about a year ago. The front of the building will house the business and the back will be the living quarters for the Hirschy family.

Mr. Hirschy expects to have his bakery in operation early next week. Mentioned as the only possible hindrance was difficulty in locating a suitable portable oven to take the place of the built-in brick oven he was unable to bring along with him. Since he has only a three year lease on his building Mr. Hirschy was reluctant to install the permanent oven.

The new baker brings with him a reputation extending over the past 20 years. For the greater part of that period he was connected with a well known bakery at Wichita Falls. A few years ago he moved to Schulenburg to go into business for himself but found his field limited because of the presence of another bakery. Only recently he decided to come to Muenster after considering the move for several months.

Producing a loaf that is a dead ringer for "what mother used to bake," Mr. Hirschy has an enviable reputation for his bread. He is also able to produce pastries to satisfy the most discriminating client.

DEFECTIVE WIRING IS NAMED CAUSE OF FIRE IN GASOLINE PUMP

A short in the wiring was named as the cause of a fire that ruined one of the electric computing pumps and badly disfigured another last Saturday at Andy Flusche's filling station.

Andy had just finished delivering gas through the pump and replaced the nozzle in its usual position when the fire broke out with an explosion.

In discussing the experience he expressed his gratitude to the firemen for the prompt response to his alarm and their efficiency in getting the blaze under control. Except for their help he feels he would have lost the other pump also. As it was he had it repaired and back in use Monday.

Another loss sustained was that of a completely new tire which stood nearby. It caught fire instantly and was so badly burned as to be unusable before the fire could be extinguished.

A message received by John Mosman Monday advised that the Ben Seyler family was having a pleasant drive through New Mexico on Friday of last week. Because of Mrs. Seyler's illness they were obliged to stay in Lubbock two days longer than they anticipated. The family is going to California on a combined business and pleasure trip.

CANDIDATES, VISITORS JOIN HOME FOLKS AT K.-C. PICNIC SUNDAY

A pleasant crowd of about 250 was at the K. of C. hall last Sunday afternoon and night to insure success for the benefit community picnic sponsored by the knights.

Candidates for county public offices, accepting the event as a convenient opportunity to contact scores of voters, mingled with the crowd both afternoon and night. Several families from Lindsay and a few from Gainesville also did their bit to make the party a success.

It was a benefit picnic to raise money for the K. of C. hall fund, and the outstanding features were the sandwich and candy counter, the iced drink stand, and the tango game. Equipped with a public address system, furnished by Doc Turnage of Gainesville, the tango game was a marked improvement over those conducted here in the past.

LUKE TEMPEL DIES OF LUNG INJURY RECEIVED DURING WORLD WAR

Following an illness that began when he was gassed in the World War, Luke Tempel died last Thursday, July 14, of lung, bronchial, and heart ailments. He was in great pain constantly since last October and critically sick at several times, and the final attack of agony, which ended in his death, came upon him several weeks ago.

Funeral services were held Saturday morning at 8 o'clock in the Sacred Heart church of Muenster with Father Frowin Koerdter reading the Mass of Requiem and officiating at the burial services. Interment was in the Muenster cemetery, with Nick Miller in charge of arrangements.

Mr. Tempel, a veteran of the AEF, is the first person of this city to have the stars and stripes draped over his casket. Original plans for a regulation military funeral were abandoned after several difficulties in making the hasty arrangements were encountered. His pall bearers were Joe Endres, Henry Luke, Paul Nieball, Roy Endres, Henry Hennigan and Ferd Albers, all veterans of the World War.

Mr. Tempel was born in Seymour, Ill., on May 6, 1890 and came to Muenster with his parents in October 1904. He entered the World War on Sept. 17, 1917, served in the A. E. F. overseas, suffered severe lung injuries in a gas attack, and spent his remaining time across in a hospital until returning to Muenster in April 1919. He never recovered from injuries caused by the gas.

On June 17, 1919, he was married to Miss Cecelia Markowitz. His principal occupations were his connections with the Muenster Telephone Company while Misses Anne and Mary Markowitz had charge of the central office, and his work at the Farmers Marketing Association. His active hours were very limited during recent years.

He is survived by his widow; one daughter, Rose Marie; two sons, Raymond and Joe; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Tempel; three brothers, John of Muenster, Jake of Fort Worth, and Pete of Sherburn, Minn.; three sisters, Mrs. Ed Eberhart and Mrs. Tony Treubach of Muenster and Mrs. Ben Otto of Gainesville.

REPAIR WORK ON PUBLIC SCHOOL ROOF BEGINS NEXT MONDAY

Construction of a new roof on the Muenster Public School will be under way next Monday, according to information received this week from Albert Henschel, chairman of the local school board.

The contract for the work, put out for competitive bids several weeks ago, has been taken by Clarence Wilson.

Work on the repair project has been intentionally delayed until the beginning of next week in order to avoid any conflict with the election being held in the building next Saturday.

MRS. WEINZAPFEL IS NATIONAL DELEGATE FOR CATHOLIC WOMEN

Muenster in general and Mrs. J. M. Weinzapfel in particular received special recognition last week in the Catholic Women's Union state convention held in connection with the Catholic State League Convention at Hallettsville.

Mrs. Weinzapfel's distinction is in her re-election as state treasurer of the organization and also in her election as delegate to the national convention at Bethlehem, Pa., on August 20-24.

Muenster ladies were complimented highly on their mission exhibit, consisting of altar linens, etc., which were made here during the past year and submitted to the Catholic Women's Union for distribution to needy mission churches. The local exhibit compared favorably with that of San Antonio, which in previous years was unanimously conceded to be the leader. The honor received reflects back on Miss Mary Becker, who originated the work, and on the several ladies who joined her in carrying on.

Often, near San Angelo, was named as the scene of next year's convention.

A report on resolutions and business proceedings will be made at a general meeting of the Muenster parish in the near future.

RIDING IN TRIUMPH UP BROADWAY

NEW YORK CITY.—Howard Hughes, rested and shaved after his phenomenal trip around the world in 3 days and 19 hours, smiles and waves to the thousands who acclaimed him with cheers and tuckertape during a parade up Broadway. With him are Grover Whalen, President of the New York World's Fair, 1939, (left) and Mr. Hughes' representative for the flight, Albert I. Lodwick.

A picnic lunch was served at the noon hour. It was agreed to meet again the third Sunday in July 1939 at the old home place four miles east of Marysville.

MUENSTER TEACHERS GOING PLACES, DOING THINGS AMONG ALPS

Letters continue to come regularly to the local convent and other friends of Muenster from the European vacationists, Sisters Bertha, Anastasia, and Theresina.

Sister Bertha especially, who never ceases to bubble over with gratitude to the Muenster friends who made her trip home possible, seems to consider it her duty to keep people informed that she is doing just as they requested,—having the time of her life.

Her messages advise that she has visited famous old institutions and churches, spots of scenic beauty, shrines, and anything else that time will permit.

Sister Anastasia says "having a grand time, wish you were here." She tauntingly reminds that she thought of blistering temperatures at Muenster while indulging in a snowball fight somewhere up in the Alps. She's getting around too, getting an eyeful of Switzerland's scenic beauty, and seeing most of her schoolday pals.

GOSSETT CHARGES MAC IS TRYING TO RIDE ON PRESIDENT'S COAT TAIL

The final lap in the 13th district's race for congress is here and Friday night's speaking engagements will wind up the heated campaign.

Ed Gossett, Wichita Falls attorney and candidate to unseat the incumbent, W. D. McFarlane of Graham, has, within the last 10 days, covered the district with speeches in very nearly every nook and cranny.

All along the line the Gossett candidacy is gaining and growing into a roaring flame that is sweeping him onward and forward into the United States congress.

"In my opening campaign speech on May 9th," Gossett said, "I stated that I thought President Roosevelt a great man, a great democrat and a great President, and that I believed in his social ideals and objectives, but that I was not trying to ride into office on his coat-tail." "That I was not, and could not be a 'rubber stamp'."

I have always thought that two heads were better than one, even if one was a 'bone-head' and that a congressman ought to represent the people of his district.

McFarlane is now emphasizing in his speeches his 100 per cent loyalty to the President. He brags of being a rubber-stamp congressman; he says because the President referred to him as "my friend McFarlane" that he has the endorsement of President Roosevelt. In the first place I don't believe the President intended to endorse McFarlane. Courtesy required of him that he refer to Mr. McFarlane as "my friend." It is a universal term used by Mr. Roosevelt.

In the second place, however, if the President did intend to endorse McFarlane then we say of him what the Master said of those who crucified him "Lord forgive them, they know not what they do." In the third place the flame of personal liberty still burns in the heart of American citizens. Our country was established by those who fled from foreign lands because they did not subscribe to the philosophy that "The King can do no wrong." We for generations have boasted of our right to think as we please; write as we please; speak as we please; worship as we please and vote as we please. No man, regardless of his exalted position has a right to say to the humble citizens of our great democracy "you shall vote for so and so."

I denounce McFarlane's attempted ride on the President's coat-tail to be unfair, undemocratic and a reflection on the independence and intelligence of the sovereign voters of this section of the country.

J. P. Fisch was pleasantly surprised by the arrival of his brother, John Fisch, and wife of Marshalltown, Iowa, and his son, Mike Fisch, and wife of Des Moines, Iowa. They arrived in Muenster Wednesday noon.

Huge Crowd Gathers Under Ball Park Floodlights For Political Rally Tuesday

AUG. 1 IS DEADLINE FOR TRANSFER OF PUPILS TO OTHER SCHOOLS

In a notice issued by County Superintendent Roy Wilson last week parents of children who expect to transfer to schools in different districts from their own during the coming school term are reminded that August 1 is the deadline for reporting the transfers at the county superintendent's office.

Reporting the transfer is important because it is necessary for eligibility for enrollment of any student in a district other than his own.

This transfer is the county superintendent's only authority to divert scholastic funds from one district to another. School trustees and teachers are therefore urged to contact parents of children who are expected to change to their district or forfeit their opportunity of receiving money to which they are entitled.

JOHN FISHER STABS LEG GESTICULATING WITH POCKET KNIFE

John Fisher is willing to agree with anyone that playing with an open blade pocket knife is just plain darn foolishness. He's had since Sunday about 3:30 to lie around home and think it over, and nurse a very sore thigh.

It all came about while he was attending the picnic at the K. of C. Hall. In the heat of a good gab-fest he forgot about the weapon and "gesticulated it into his leg." Profuse bleeding began immediately and two friends assisted him in a hasty retreat to his home. The distance is only about a half block but it permitted a sufficient loss of blood that John was on the verge of fainting when he got there.

Dr. Myrick arrived promptly to treat the wound and ordered his patient to spend at least 4 or 5 days in bed. It is reported the blade went directly into the flesh about 2 or 3 inches and crosswise of the muscle so as to sever a great number of cords.

REA CAMP HAS QUIET WEEK, PROJECT MAKES SLOW STEADY GROWTH

This has been a quiet week in the local Rural Electrification camp, J. W. Hess stated Wednesday. Workers have been on the job every day plugging steadily and obtaining a few fill in signatures that will vastly improve the likelihood for official approval, as well as finding some favorable response from outlying communities.

Several service applications were received at Hardy and virtually assure that village as one of the points on the proposed line into Forestburg. Slight interest has also been shown in the Cap's Corner area and on the road leading out of Gainesville to Callisburg. A special meeting for people of the latter area has been set for Gainesville next Tuesday night, July 26.

A new employee in the ranks of the Co-op is Mrs. John Mosman. She accompanied Mr. Hess on his tours Monday and Tuesday, and set out Wednesday to carry on in securing applications and easements. She is expected also to give some help in the company's clerical work.

While local men continue their membership drive two members of the Wm. G. Morrison company, REA engineers, are making a map of the entire area proposed for electrification, marking on it the location and name of each signed member and the location of prospects. As they cover the territory they accept occasional service applications. Several of those were accepted near Valley View and seem to assure an extension of the proposed line to Spring Creek.

A recent decision was to complete the large project map in Waco rather than at Muenster. It was stated that delicate lettering work, requiring the skill of a draftsman, will be necessary to make all names and other data legible on the map.

Additional plans for the project are set for a meeting Thursday night, July 21.

Visitors From Surrounding Communities Swell Ranks Of Local Attendance

Regarded to be the largest campaign rally crowd to date in the present race was that which assembled under the floodlights of the ball park Tuesday night. Conservative estimates of the size of the crowd place the figure between 1500 and 2000.

The grandstand was well filled, and hundreds of cars, parked in a half dozen semicircles extending far into the outfield, almost all had a few more listeners. Muenster contributed the greater number of people, but there were several hundred from Myra, Lindsay, Gainesville and neighboring small communities.

A. Morton Smith, editor of the Gainesville Register and chairman of the Cooke County Democratic Convention, presided at the rally and introduced the candidates.

Contrary to popular expectations, and perhaps a little disappointing, the candidates resorted to very little of the personal remarks and old time mud-slinging that once constituted the chief entertainment feature of political rallies. Scattered here and there was a touch of ridicule or criticism, but for the most part candidates were content to sell voters on the idea of voting for them rather than give unnecessary publicity to opponents.

LEAGUE SANITATION COMMITTEE LAUNCHES CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN

Next week is cleanup week in Muenster. The decision was made Tuesday afternoon, and subsequently approved by Mayor Endres, after the sanitation committee of the Ladies' Civic League, in the company of Miss Jane Harris, County Health Nurse, made a tour of inspection over the city.

According to Mrs. B. H. Hellman, chairman, the primary purpose of this cleanup is to remove as thoroughly as possible all sources of insect infestation. Old cans, jars, buckets, or anything that holds stagnant water to serve as a breeding place for mosquitoes are the principal objects of the ladies' activity. Efforts will also be made to dispose of garbage and refuse heaps where flies are found.

Miss Harris will supervise the cleanup work personally. Her intention is to have several boys as helpers and a truck and go through the alleys collecting all junk and refuse. She will accommodate further by going on a person's premises to collect it provided citizens will cooperate by having the junk piled. She expects to spend 3 or 4 days at the work and requested that everyone cooperate whole heartedly to enable her to make it thorough.

Mentioned as the next task on their program was to eliminate as much as possible the menace of open toilets. Methods to remedy the situation have not been definitely planned.

Members of the sanitation committee are Mesdames B. H. Hellman, T. S. Myrick, John Fisher, and J. M. Weinzapfel.

TWO LOSSES, ONE WIN IS WEEK'S SCORE OF LOCAL BALL TEAMS

Nocona's Texas Company ball club was back in town Monday night to prove that their other victory a few weeks ago was more than just an accident. They succeeded in establishing their supremacy but they required an extra inning to do it. The final score was Nocona 16, Muenster 15.

Another Monday night game, and likewise a closely contested one, was that between Paul Walterscheid's crowd and a neighborhood club gathered in the Linn Community. It was another loss for Muenster, ending with a score of 8 to 7.

In a regulation baseball game last Sunday the "Pepper-Shaker" nine got its revenge in a 10 to 3 victory over Myra. A few weeks before Myra had trounced Muenster in an equally one sided game.

Just One Last Word

... Readers of this paper should remember that I, as your Representative, went down the line for you on every occasion as far as one could go.

You Will Remember Your Appeal and My Response

As to the expense of government—it is high. And there is doubtless some waste—there has always been waste and there always will be. But let it be remembered that the great excess in the cost of government is because people are asking for MORE from their government.

Thirty years ago we were spending nothing for highways. Now we spend approximately $44,000,000 per year for highways. We have recently added approximately 10 million dollars for old age assistance. We have probably quadrupled our expenditures for education and eleemosynary institutions. We did not have these expenses just a few years ago. But who would be without them now?

This punctures the hullabaloo about the high cost of government. The Legislature never passes a tax measure except under pressure from the people to meet some new and necessary demand. THE PEOPLE, not the LEGISLATURE, raise the taxes.

GOVERNMENT CALLS ON BEAVERS TO HELP IN CONSERVATION WORK

WASHINGTON. — Dam builders which wear fur coats summer and winter are taking Government conservation jobs in Idaho at the rate of 100 a month.

These dam builders are beavers. They cost the Government about $5 each, and in a year each does about $300 worth of work, preventing soil erosion and improving watering facilities and forage crop conditions on Federal grazing lands. Project managers say they don't worry about prevailing wage rates, minimum hours or child labor.

Secretary Harold L. Ickes has just received a report on his Federal beavers from F. R. Carpenter, director of the division of grazing. Last year 200 of them were put to work on the Government land in Idaho, and this summer 500 to 600 are to be given jobs.

The beavers are trapped on streams where their work isn't needed, and with the help of the Idaho State Game Department and the United States Biological Survey they are settled in colonies of 20 each on streams where they can build dams that will do some good.

After they are trapped, they are kept in CCC camps for a few days and given free Government rations of corn on the cob, apples, carrots, bread and grain. The CCC boys build temporary dams to give the beavers a start. Then they improve and finish it in about ten days. Before the season is over they construct about five new dams.

The Government first tried this stunt in 1922, when beavers were used to stop silting in irrigation streams in Idaho. Now various Government agencies intend to use them for conservation work on Federal range areas in Oregon, Washington, Nevada, Utah and Wyoming.

MANURE FROM DAIRY COW AVERAGES $24 A YEAR, SAYS SPECIALIST

COLLEGE STATION. — "The manure from a dairy cow averages about $24 a year in value as fertilizer," states Robert R. Lancaster, pasture specialist of the Extension Service of Texas A. & M. College, who has been receiving numerous inquiries as to the use of manure as fertilizer.

A ton of manure is about equal in plant food value to a 100 pound bag of 10-5-10 fertilizer, but more than half of the value of stable manure is lost unless all of the solids and the liquids are caught and worked into the soil at once, Lancaster said. With the usual loss of the liquids and the loss of the nitrogen as ammonia, the fertility is reduced to around 5-5-5.

The liquids can be mostly absorbed if 8 or 9 pounds of straw or sawdust bedding is used per day for each cow. This is important because about half of the nitrogen and four-fifths of the potash is in the urine.

Nitrogen escapes as ammonia gas within a day or two, but the use of a pound of superphosphate per cow per day, spread in the gutter before the bedding is put down, will greatly reduce this loss.

For sanitary purposes superphosphate will do all this time can do, and in addition it reacts chemically to prevent the escape of nitrogen, Lancaster pointed out. Since manure is deficient in phosphate and most Texas soils need this element, superphosphate is a valuable addition.

When manure is spread it should be harrowed in to prevent drying losses, but daily spreading and harrowing is not practical on most pastures. The manure should be stored under a roof to prevent leaching and on a tight concrete floor to stop drainage.

"The investment necessary to construct such a storage place is a wise one," Lancaster said. "The spreading may be done during rainy weather when harrowing will not injure the pasture and when the fertilizer will be soaked into the ground."

GOVERNMENT SPENDS $3,000,000 ON LABOR BAIT FOR HOPPER WAR

WASHINGTON. — The Government's war on grasshoppers ravaging farms of the West and Middle West will reach a climax this month.

Armed with nearly $3,000,000 worth of poison bait, hundreds of WPA workers, CCC enrollees and Agriculture Department officials will attack hordes of the insects which are just coming to maturity over most of that area.

The Bureau of Entomology says present infestation is the worst in many years, particularly in the Dakotas. Estimates of the area needing treatment through the West and Middle West vary between 30,000,000 and 35,000,000 acres. Last year 20,502,000 acres were treated.

Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins said workers in his agency might be used freely wherever needed in grasshopper eradication. Many are busy now preparing various poison mixtures. Spreading usually is done by the farmers themselves under the supervision of the Bureau of Entomology.

Sodium arsenate is the poison most commonly used, WPA officials said. It is mixed usually with sawdust, bran and either water or blackstrap molasses to gain the exact degree of moisture needed. The bait must be mixed with care and spread under climatic conditions favorable to the grasshoppers' eating habits.

Approximately ten pounds of the poison is spread to the acre either in the line of march or directly through the hopper army. The average kill is reported between 60 and 90 per cent.

States in which the WPA has been authorized to assist in the hopper eradication are Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

WHY TIMES WERE HARD

We heard a fellow complaining of hard times the other day. He and his wife smoked 25 or 30 cents worth of cigarettes a day, and we would guess, conservatively, that the operating cost of their car was one dollar per day. Years ago neither smoked and neither had a car, and somehow they got along fine. In this day and time it is mainly the non-essentials that make the so-called hard times.—Trenton Tribune.

A Lesson in Physics—For Drivers

A new word, "turnability," has been coined by The Travelers Insurance Company in an effort to picture for drivers just what happens in the higher brackets of speed. A page of the company's new highway safety booklet entitled "Death Begins at 40" is headed "A Lesson in Physics for Drivers" and makes use of this term for the first time. "The first law of motion," the booklet states, "is that a mov-driver's "turnability" has been cut to one-ninth that when he was traveling at 25. If he tries to turn more sharply than this law of physics allows, he is certain to turn over."

ing body tends to continue in uniform motion in a straight line. The energy of a moving body is in proportion to the square of its speed.

"At 25 miles an hour, however, you can make a fairly sharp turn. At 50 miles an hour, you can make only one-fourth as sharp a turn as you could make at 25. This explains many accidents in turning and passing at higher speeds.

"And at 75 miles an hour, the

Candidate for His SECOND TERM to the State Senate of Texas

from the 9th Senatorial District comprising Fannin, Cooke and Grayson Counties, offers for reelection on his ability and record of service in bringing our government nearer the people it serves.

In connection with his candidacy he has this to say:

Believing that Governments are created and maintained by the people to serve the best interest of all the people, I have worked hard to make the people of Grayson, Cooke and Fannin Counties a good and efficient State Senator and render to them a service of representation that they are entitled to.

Many legislative reforms and governmental services have been instituted since I became YOUR state senator three and one-half years ago.

OUR ROAD PROGRAM

Our Road Program has been continued and enlarged and I have co-operated with your state and county officials in laying out a better and more serviceable system of highways in your county and state. And I pledge you my best efforts in bringing to a successful conclusion this program. I joined Senator Loy in making all bridges over Red River free and open to the public. I joined Coke Stevenson in passing the County Road-Bond Assumption Law. Since I have been in the legislature the State and Federal Governments have taken over the building of all State highways out of the State and Federal funds with a resulting saving of millions of dollars to the counties of Texas and thereby permitting the reduction of county taxes.

SCHOOLS AND SCHOOL TEACHERS

Schools and School Teachers have received my personal consideration. Appreciating the fact that the education of our children is of first importance, I have given the problems of bettering our school system and the proper financing thereof my personal study and attention. Since I became a legislator, the school per capita has been raised from $11 per child to $22 per child with a reduction in your State School tax. I am the author of the present Rural Aid Law, which made an appropriation of 11 million dollars for the current biennium. Since I have been in the legislature high school tuition and school transportation have been inaugurated, thereby giving many thousands of our school children the privilege of obtaining at least a high school education. I am joint author of the present teachers' retirement act. It is not perfect but from time to time it will be improved. It gives to our school teachers that degree of security and self respect that they have long been entitled to. The school problem is a big one. It is not perfect; however, all agree that it has improved and that, as YOUR state senator, I have materially aided in its improvement.

HOMESTEAD EXEMPTION

Homestead Exemption. I assisted in the enactment of this beneficial relief to the home owners of Texas and thereby relieved such taxpayers of some six million dollars of taxes.

LABOR

I have been favorable to labor and, as your state senator, during the last session of the last legislature, I secured the passage and it is now the law, an amendment to the Workmen's Compensation Act, giving greater protection to employees. Appreciating the extent to which prison-made goods were being sold in Texas, in competition with our manufactured goods and in competition with our own laborers, I wrote and secured the passage of a law prohibiting the sale of penitentiary-made goods in our open markets. The labor organizations of Texas have reported to their members that I have been friendly to labor. I believe that an employer and employees should come to a better and more sympathetic understanding between themselves, and that their respective rights be protected to the end that the public be better served.

AGRICULTURE

Having been reared on the farm, I have always been keenly interested in the farmer's welfare and have advocated and supported many measures for their betterment. Appreciating the need of conserving the soil, Texas' greatest natural resource, I joined others in securing the passage of a Soil Conservation Law which would have permitted Texas to have co-operated with the Federal Government in its Soil Conservation Act. This bill was passed by the House and Senate, but was vetoed by the Governor.

SOCIAL SECURITY

As your Senator in the Texas Senate, I voted to submit the Old Age Assistance Amendment to the people and, when it became a part of our constitution, I voted for the first Old Age Assistance Law and for substantial increases in taxes with which to pay our deserving old people. I voted against the de-liberalization of the Old Age Assistance Law and asked the Texas Senate to vote for fifteen million dollars of taxes with which to pay pensions to our needy old people. The old people's pension is not perfect, nor is it satisfactory to me. I believe in a sane and sensible Old Age Assistance law as contemplated by the Constitution of Texas and in co-operation with the Social Security Act of the Federal Government. It is a joint proposition. I am opposed to denying aid to old people when they are otherwise entitled to it, on the grounds that their children are able to support their parents. When re-elected I shall strive to improve the conditions in the Old Age Assistance Law and raise substantial funds to finance this program to the end that the present inequalities and injustices prevailing in the system may be eliminated.

DESTITUTE CHILDREN

The State of Texas has an interest in the destitute children of Texas. They should be provided for and placed in a proper environment in order that they might be educated and nurtured into respected citizens instead of becoming inmates of reform schools and penitentiaries. For that reason I favor providing for these children as contemplated in the Constitutional Amendment adopted last August. The needy blind should also be taken care of.

TAXATION

It requires money to support all of these activities of our State; however, the people should not be taxed beyond their ability to pay. Our farmers, merchants, manufacturers and industries should not be destroyed by taxes and huge levies should not be placed on them at this period of recovery since, after all, the consumer, (Jones and Smiths) pay the bill. I favor an economical administration of our government and believe that this can best be obtained by consolidation of Departments and Bureaus and the elimination of duplications and waste. To accomplish this, I voted for the Graves Consolidation Bill, which proposed to reduce State Boards, Bureaus, and Departments from 121 to 30. In the full belief that we had too many district courts in Texas, I proposed to the Texas legislature a bill reducing the present 128 courts to 104. These two bills were defeated. Had they been adopted they would have saved the tax-payers eight million dollars annually and provided for an economical form of Government with a maximum service to the people. We should have a Constitutional Convention to modernize our Constitution and effect these changes.

I have been interested in many other proposals to bring our State Government nearer the average citizen of Texas. Space will not permit the inclusion of these.

In appreciation of your confidence four years ago, I have striven at all times to conduct myself in a manner worthy of the dignity of the office of a State Senator, representing 150,000 of the best and most deserving people of the State of Texas.

I have made a record of service and upon that record I am asking for your influence and your vote for a second term, on July 23rd.

THE REAL ISSUE

Voters of this county have another opportunity Saturday to remove an outworn law that is neither just nor practical nor to the best interests of a majority of its citizens. It is our sincere hope that people will think a little farther this time and try to become familiar with the real issue, then go to the polls and legalize the sale of beer by a landslide of votes.

Thousands of circulars have been scattered the past week urging people to repeat their folly of previous elections. Drys have revived their stock arguments of drunkenness, debauchery, drinking drivers and lawless bootleggers. Hundreds of people are again accepting those arguments with a naive belief that a vote against the legalization of beer will eliminate such evils.

It is high time our voters realized that there is a demand for beer—there always was and always will be—and that some men will manage to have it for sale. Under present conditions those men are law breaking bootleggers, a circumstance forced upon them by the drys even though many are conscientious, decent citizens who see no harm in selling a product so generally in demand.

As regards the question of drunkenness and debauchery and the scandal bred in some "joints", the drys themselves should realize that their efforts have had little effect in improving the situation. Cooke county is dry now. But is it free of drunkenness? Everyone knows that drunks will continue to get drunk. Even if drys were successful in removing every drop of beer and liquor those fellows would still have access to the jake, bay rum, paragoric and other body wrecking intoxicants so well known during the twenties. Drunks are an evil to be ignored, not to be shouted about by the drys, for neither wets nor drys can do anything about them.

And the "joints," the "dens of iniquity," we admit that they are in the county, but dry efforts certainly are accomplishing nothing toward their removal. The sensible method is to legalize beer so that merchants of integrity can handle it openly and secure the co-operation of officers. What protection does a beer merchant have now against the tough element? Being a lawbreaker himself he cannot ask the law's help to run his business in orderly fashion. It is undeniable that if beer were legalized most patronage would go to the better, high class beer taverns, and decent people would be more than willing to co-operate with officers in suppressing the "dives."

The question of revenue for the county is also one worthy of consideration. A few thousand dollars in tax and license money could be put to good use on any of our varied county projects. The vast sums of money carried across county and state lines would provide a much better living for a few dozen families here at home.

We must give many drys due credit for their sincere belief that all intoxicants should be removed from the face of the earth. Being completely disgusted with drunkenness they have a right to their opinion. Most wets are equally disgusted with drunks but they contend that abolishing beer because some fools drink excessively is about as sensible as advocating a ban on food and automobiles because there are gluttons and wild drivers.

When taken in moderation every alcoholic beverage is refreshing and stimulating and not the least bit harmful. Ninety-five per cent of the wets drink moderately and resent any efforts at revoking their privilege to do so. That same 95 per cent want to have beer available in decent places under control.

So in the last analysis drys and wets are both trying to accomplish the same thing—the control of beer. They differ only in their method of procedure. The drys have tried to abolish it and find that they have surrendered it to the control of bootleggers. The wets propose to legalize it and place it under the law's control.

There's no need of trying to kid ourselves about beer. This is not a question of whether or not we shall have it. Beer is here and will stay in spite of all the freak laws of the land. The real question is "shall we control beer?" An affirmative answer can be given by casting a ballot for the legalization of beer at Saturday's election.

A RIGHT AND A DUTY

As regards government and citizenship this Saturday is the most important day of the year. It is the day on which we decide what persons will be entrusted with the responsibility of representing us in official matters.

There is no need of going into detail to explain how we betray our own interests by electing unworthy or incompetent officials. Suffice it to say that dishonest men find in public office an opportunity to enrich themselves at the taxpayers' expense, and incompetent men bring an equally great hardship through their poor judgment and inefficient methods.

We Americans proudly boast that we have a government of the people, by the people and for the people. As long as candidates from the ranks of the crowd are put in office by popular election the "of" and "by" will be in effect, but the "for" will apply only as long as people are alert and select the best possible man for office. When citizens begin sleeping on their rights unscrupulous politicians begin reaping their harvest at the public expense.

Voting is more than a right. It is a duty and implies another duty of finding out as much as possible about candidates in order to make a wise choice.

Next Saturday's election will have the all-important local option election on the legalization of beer in addition to the regular democratic primary. Here is an opportunity for our citizens to remove a blot from our record and place beer under legitimate control rather than in the hands of law breakers. Bootleggers and sanctimonious drys, though neither group admits its allegiance to the other, are working hand in hand to prevent the only move that can bring order out of the present chaos. Wets, if they hope to be successful, will have to muster their entire forces. And any citizen who, through failure to exercise his right at the polls, permits the present disgusting condition to exist, may feel guilty of shirking a duty.

It is our sincere hope that not a single person of this community will fail to vote Saturday. With a very important question to be decided and a host of candidates seeking office the right to vote becomes an urgent duty.

What Others Say

ADVERTISING LOWERS PRICE

Advertising reduces the price of advertised merchandise by stabilizing and increasing the volume of production and distribution, says "Facts You Should Know About Advertising," a new publication of the Dallas Better Business Bureau.

To prove that million-dollar appropriations do not add to the cost of products the publication shows that the advertising expenditure on a nationally advertised $1.75 bed sheet is only 1c per sheet; it costs one company one-fifth of 1c to advertise a soap costing 7c per cake, and a soup manufacturer who advertises extensively spends only thirty-sixth one-thousandths of 1c to advertise each 12c can. The advertising costs on a loaf of bread are considerably less than the wrapper.

"If this advertising were dispensed with costs to consumers would increase, not decrease," the editor concludes.

The low cost of newspaper advertising to the advertiser is illustrated with the statement that "the 120,420 readers of a typical newspaper can be reached through a full-page advertisement at a cost of less than 1-2c per readers."—Exchange.

EDISON ON "HAPPINESS"

It is undeniable that the great quest of humanity is happiness. But was the world created to be happy? How many are truly happy? I've studied people in all classes and conditions and everywhere I have found when you get below the surface, that it is mostly the insincere individual who says, "I am happy." Nearly everybody wants something he hasn't got, and as things are constructed, what he wants is money—more money than he has in his pocket.

But after all, money can buy only a few things. Why should any one envy the captains of industry? Their lives are made up of those vast incessant worries from which the average individual is happily spared. Worry, worry, that is the evil of life.

What do I consider the nearest approximation to happiness of which the present human nature is capable. Why, living on a farm which is one's own, far from the hectic, artificial conditions of the city—a farm where one gets directly from one's own soil what one needs to sustain life, with a garden in front and a healthy, normal family to contribute those small domestic joys which relieve a man from business strain.—Thomas A. Edison.

An editor in a neighboring state hits the ceiling on discovery that a school bus involved in a serious accident was operated by a 13-year-old girl.

Every sensible person will agree with the editor that that isn't a task for any youngster.

Fortunately we have noted no similar complaint in Texas, although we have had a number of bad school bus accidents in the state this season.

But one frequently sees some mighty tiny youngsters operating motor vehicles in Tyler traffic—and more often dangerous driving of cars by boys and girls who are of legal age and who should know better.—Tyler Courier-Times.

Confetti
 By CON FETTE

It's not everywhere that the new son and heir of the family has to make room for the offspring of the family cat, but it happened not so long ago in the home of one of our esteemed citizens. The baby was taken out of his cradle or bassinette, or whatever it happened to be, and when his time for a nap came, the cat was there proudly purring over her new litter of young ones. An hour or so before, one of the older children admitted, the cat slipped in while the door was held open a little too long. Papa thought it was quite a joke but somehow mama could not laugh it off.

We are still trying to figure out whether it was just an odd coincidence or a case of pre-meditated and unadulterated gall the other day when our friend the strong arm of the law came into a fellow's office and borrowed his secretary, his typewriter, and his time to make out a warrant for the arrest of his brother. Judging from the sheepish grin when reminded of his stunt, we cast our guess in favor of the former theory.

Farmers will tell you that pigeons making their homes in hay-lofts are a nuisance to the nth degree. That general opinion may to some extent be responsible for the disappearance of many flocks that used to be so much in evidence hereabouts. This unfortunate, for if those pigeons were around nowadays their owners could participate in a comparatively new sport that is rapidly gaining in popularity.

The pigeon, long a messenger of peace and war, lost his favored position when modern methods of communication got news from place to place faster than he could carry it. But now pigeon fanciers are training homing pigeons for races. They release the birds simultaneously, more than a thousand at a time, and the owners at home use the pigeons' hands as keys to punch time clocks the minute of their arrival. The distance ranges from 400 to 500 miles. When not in the regular races birds have the opportunity to make longer flights. One army bird flew 715 miles at an average speed of 47 miles an hour. Another released in France flew the 7,200 miles to his home in Indo China in 24 days. More astounding than the speed of these birds is their endurance and their mysterious sense of direction. Next thing someone will be training falcons to bring down the pigeons. In the good old days many a general intercepted his enemy's message by sending up the trusty falcon when a lone pigeon was sighted.

Motorists in Jugo Slavia seem to be learning to make haste slowly. In recent months officers over there have taken up the practice of letting the air out of tires for motorists who are caught speeding.

What an idea! It's merely a return to the old contention that offenders can be dealt with much more effectively by humiliation and forced physical exertion than by all the newer methods common to our more complex civilization. It recalls one man's proposal some time ago for the revival of whipping posts for men caught beating their wives, or a good sound spanking for young lads entering upon a career of crime.

We can imagine the predicament of an upstart, show-off youngster who finds to his sorrow that the pay-off for his burst of recklessness is an hour or more of very tiresome pumping while his lady love gets peevish in the summer heat. Let him pump, pump, pump and soak up his Sunday best with perspiration, and develop a few dozen sore muscles, and finally come to realize that he himself is the fool who spoiled the day.

A few such experiences will convince our road bullies that their driving antics can be decidedly unpleasant, though not always fatal, also that the surest way to get to a destination on time is to make haste slowly by traveling at a safe speed. The system has decreased wild driving 50 per cent in Jugo Slavia. It can do as much for us.

A continuation of boosting our own stock with ideas borrowed from contemporaries:

"The man who thinks this newspaper will suspend because he quit taking it is like the man who drinks from the river and then looks along the shore to see how much he has lowered the water."

One step won't take you very far—you've got to keep on walking; one word won't tell folks who you are—you've got to keep on talking. One inch won't make you very tall—you've got to keep on growing; one little ad won't do it all—you've got to keep them going.

What About Business?
What About Our Aged Citizens?
Do You Want to Vote a "Self Imposed Depression" on Cooke County?

A Statement of Facts to Cooke County

Taxpayers:---

This is a Personal Appeal to the Voters---

As a citizen and taxpayer of Cooke county, you should be tremendously interested in the outcome of Saturday's election regarding local option. The issue to be voted upon is whether or not the sale of BEER will be legalized. This is separate and apart from the regular Democratic primary election, although balloting on the prohibition issue will be held at the same polling places.

As a matter of fact, more is involved in the election than this simple issue would indicate. The future of Cooke county is at stake. That prohibition adversely affects business conditions is a fact which cannot be denied. You, as a taxpayer, struggling to pay, and hoping that your tax burdens will be lightened, should take a look at the record, and consider the facts before you go to the polls. Of course, Cooke county has no comparative figures of its own to cite in the present discussion, owing to the length of years it has had so called "prohibition." So, let us take Justice Precinct No. 1 at Calvert, Texas, for an example: The record shows that every licensed establishment selling beer there as of April 19, 1938 had paid to the State of Texas its license fee of $25.00. In addition, each licensee had paid the City of Calvert $12.50 and Robertson county $12.50. The total of these fees, amounting to $50.00 for each establishment, runs into hundreds of dollars.

These items, however, represent only a minor part of the income from beer legally sold in Calvert as of record to April, 1938. In addition to these license fees, the State of Texas and the Federal Government levied taxes on the actual amount of beer sold within Precinct No. 1. The State thus levied and collected during twelve months amounted to $3,270.85, while the Federal Government for a like period collected $13,188.50. The total of these items, amounting to $16,459.35, was over and above all license fees. (Note: the opponents of legal beer frequently quote license fees as being the only income from beer without making mention of the TAXES collected).

Business Losses to Cooke County---

It is a well known fact, as any observant citizen can see, that thousands of dollars of money is spent each year by Cooke county citizens in other towns and cities of this section of Texas and Southern Oklahoma, for merchandise of all sorts, after being attracted to these cities where they can purchase beer legally. Inquiry will reveal numerous substantial citizens of Cooke county who unhesitatingly declare they do their shopping in towns of other counties, because they can get a bottle of beer if they desire, without feeling that they are patronizing a bootlegger or an illicit dealer, and that they expect to follow this custom to considerable degree, until they can legally purchase beer in their own town or community. Little, if any, of this money ever returns to Cooke county and in the case of money spent in Oklahoma by Cooke county citizens, a great portion of it goes to help maintain business establishments, provide taxes to aid the governmental units of that State and add further to the self-imposed depression in Cooke county.

Since February 1, 1938, a number of Texas counties, such as Eastland, Titus, Palo Pinto, and others in the same general class as Cooke, have again voted for legalization of alcoholic beverages after a brief trial of prohibition. The change of sentiment in each of these instances was brought about by the business men who realized that they had made a mistake in permitting so-called prohibition to carry. Some indications of the effect prohibition had in these counties may be gathered from the following statements which were issued by business men during these recent campaigns:

One prominent grocer in Mineral Wells said: "A number of customers whose accounts amounted to as high as $50.00 per week prior to prohibition are now spending less than $10.00 per week in my place of business. Other customers have quit buying completely."

An Eastland cafe proprietor reported: "Never a week passes but what several groups of diners get up and leave my tables and cancel their orders for meals when they find that they cannot purchase a bottle of beer before they eat."

The manager of a clothing firm in Mt. Pleasant said: "Our sales of men's suits have fallen off noticeably since prohibition. Other articles are affected in proportion, since the buying power of many of our customers has been cut."

One furniture store owner in Palo Pinto County stated: "We have been forced to repossess two suites of furniture from persons who lost their jobs because of prohibition, and were unable to keep up their payments."

A Ranger lumberman stated: "I lost the sale of a number of bills of lumber which were to be used in making additions to existing buildings and the erection of new buildings when owners were forced to curtail their activities because of prohibition."

A Titus County druggist stated: "Strange to say, our business has fallen off quite a bit since prohibition. No doubt the fact that other businesses are being affected in turn hurts us."

To illustrate how quickly some of these counties realized their mistakes, attention is called to the fact that Eastland County went dry in 1937 by more than 200 votes, then on March 12th, 1938, voted for legalization by more than 200 votes. Palo Pinto County voted dry on October 2nd, 1937 by a majority of 145, then on February 22nd, 1938, voted legalization by a majority of 345. Titus County went dry on December 11th, 1937, by 14 votes, then on March 5th, 1938, voted for legalization by a majority of 736.

Old Age Pensions Threatened---

In May, 1937, 127,769 aged citizens received pensions in the State of Texas. In May, 1938, this number had been reduced to 112,000, according to a statement issued by the Texas Old Age Assistance Commission. Getting a little closer to home, let's take a look at what has happened right here in Cooke county. In that same month of May, 1937, 788 Cooke county citizens received payments amounting to $10,834.00. In May, 1938, there were only 669, and the total amount had been reduced to $9,291.00. In June, 1938, only 663 were left on the rolls and they were cut to $9,187.00.

One old age pensioner had the following to say: "We all know that the State of Texas is committed to a policy of paying old age pensions. I have sense enough to know that if it does not have the money it cannot pay us. The fact that the State has not had the money is responsible for cutting off thousands and thousands of pensioners from the rolls during the last year. It is reasonable to believe that further cuts will be made unless we preserve the revenue which goes to the Old Age Pension fund."

The State Auditor's report shows that 48 per cent of all of the State's money for old age pensions is derived from license fees and taxes on alcoholic beverages. The annual report of the Texas Liquor Control Board shows that revenues for 1937 amounted to $6,971,288.14. These are public records, and the accuracy of these figures may be easily checked.

Under the laws and the Constitution of the State of Texas, taxes on alcoholic beverages allocated 3-4 to the Old Age Assistance Fund, and 1-4 to the School Fund.

In addition to the taxes and license fees collected by the State, County and City governments, more than $16,000,000 was collected by the Federal Government from alcoholic beverages in Texas. Most of this returned to Texas in one of the various forms of Federal aid.

TEXAS NOW HAS A NEW LIQUOR CONTROL ACT

It makes provision for absolutely eliminating objectionable joints. Under this new law, any establishment may have its license absolutely cancelled if it sells to any person under twenty-one years of age, OR if it sells to any person showing evidence of intoxication, OR if it permits at its place of business any conduct by any person whatsoever that is lewd, immoral, or offensive to public decency.

In counties where advocates of true temperance lend their support to the enforcement of this law, conditions are much better than they are in counties where these efforts are given toward so-called prohibition.

Cooke County Seeks to Attract Visitors---

Cooke county has long sought to attract visitors both from within and without the State of Texas. Bordered as it is along its northern border by the State of Oklahoma, where the sale of beer is legal, it cannot hope to compete in the attraction of new business and visitors if it continues the policy of interfering with their personal enjoyment. We should take steps to attract more of these visitors rather than drive them away.

A vote for legal beer is a vote for better business in Cooke county.

Do you prefer Legal Beer in the county with Police Protection, or just across the State Line on the Highway?

Isn't Legalized Beer Better Than the Bootlegger?

Be sure to scratch the line that reads "FOR Prohibiting"

FOR Prohibiting the sale of beer containing alcohol not exceeding (4) four per centum by weight.

AGAINST Prohibiting the sale of beer containing alcohol not exceeding (4) four per centum by weight.

BEHIND THE SCENES
AMERICAN BUSINESS

NEW YORK.—BUSINESS—Merchants, farmers and industrialists saw a number of signs in this week's news pointing to a good business upswing next fall and winter. Retail furniture dealers, buying and talking shop in Chicago, issued an optimistic forecast of the next six months' trade. Farmers, ready to sell a bumper wheat crop at higher prices than they had expected, watched with interest the International Wheat Conference in London, where a plan to help stabilize prices in all producing countries was presented. In spite of all rumors to the contrary, no formal action has been taken by any steel companies to cut wages. Abroad, one needle of a usually reliable barometer of world business also pointed to fair weather. The number of telephones in use in nine nations made a sharp gain during the first half of this year.

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt's announcement of the revised budget, showing a deficit of $3,984,000,000 met with a mixed reception. Foes of the government's lending-spending policies pointed out that the 1939 budget showed a record increase in peacetime expenditures, plus a sharp drop in revenues. Friends defended the budget as an investment in more employment and better business, from which John Q. Public would more than get his money's worth. The budget announcement had a quieting effect, but failed to put a damper on the general feeling of optimism.

WHY ACCIDENTS?—The automotive industry examined closely last week a series of studies on the relation of car styling to driving safety. Surveys of the cause of traffic accidents shed a constant floodlight of valuable information on the problem. Yet "sudden death" on the highways takes a bigger toll of lives each year. Why? Arthur W. Stevens, of the Society of Automotive Engineers, answers with the statement that many auto accidents are attributed to the faulty styling of modern automobiles, which obstructs full vision. "Stylistic whimsies," he says, are to blame. He urges motor makers to take steps toward: lowering the hood, raising the driver's seat, constructing thinner window partitions. Mr. Stevens says that better visibility is inevitable, because "man for a million years has walked with eyes in the front of his head where they belong, and there is no reason why his car should not be built the same way."

THE FARMER'S BUSINESS OVERSEAS—In the first five months of last year, our corn exports amounted to 11,000 bushels; in the same period of 1938 they totaled 25,000,000 bushels. This dramatically shows the part agriculture is playing in our foreign trade this year. For January through May, 25 per cent of all our exports were allowing larger window areas and farm products, as compared with only 17 per cent last year. Foreign countries are buying more of our wheat, corn, meat and lard this year.

THINGS TO WATCH FOR—Combination cigarette and match, the match being glued to the cigarette so that when the latter is pulled from the package, a match also is withdrawn — Ice-bags for trees, to keep them from budding prematurely; a bag of rubber fabric is filled with dry ice and wrapped around the trunk of the tree, thus "freezing" the tree and keeping the sap from flowing—A folding porch for auto trailers — Combination pencil and calendar, on which the days of the week appear in a "window" in the barrel of the pencil—A key container with index tabs to tell which key opens the front door, garage, etc.

HOUSEHOLD BUYING — Five thousand buyers for hardware, furniture, variety and department stores who attended the annual Housewares Show in New York last week were almost unanimous in predicting a good fall season. Buying was heavy, and the number of different lines displayed was bigger than ever. Toasters, percolators and other small electrical appliances were shown in cheaper models than heretofore. For those who like to "soak" in the bathtub, a set was exhibited consisting of small shelf, mirror, cushioned seat with backrest and footrest, all to fit within the tub. Self-cleaning rubber doormats vied for favor with period-style cages for proud canaries. Table flatware was shown in designs of bright colors. A "coffee robot" which automatically prepares drip coffee, insures a perfect brew and keeps it hot for hours and a self-sharpening combination meat grinder and vegetable mincer attracted buyer's attention.

HEADLINES — Electric range sales last year totalled 400,000 units

a third more than the previous year and double 1935 — $350,000,000 a year, or about $2.70 for each person in the country, is bet through pari-mutuel machines at race tracks —About one billion square feet of aluminum foil was produced in the United States last year for countless uses from chewing gum wrappers to photographic film—Forty-four of the 48 states have laws regulating the working hours for women, a survey shows, but not a single law pertains to the working hours of female household servant.

THOSE OLD OX CARTS WERE BUILT TO LAST

NEW YORK.—An ancient Egyptian ox cart, used for transporting sacred animals to the sacrifice, some 200 years before Christ, is on view at the New York Museum of Science and Industry in Rockefeller Center. The cart was found in a vault of an old temple on the banks of the Nile, which was undergoing excavation some years ago. So securely had the walls of the vault been sealed when the cart was placed there that, although well below high water mark, no water had penetrated during any of the river's many inundations.

The wood, although deeply grooved by age, is still firm.

Administration Endorsement

On the President's recent visit to Wichita Falls on July 11, the President endorsed our Congressman in the following friendly words in his speech: "My friends of Wichita Falls, I am glad to come here. My old friend, Congressman McFarlane, has told me much about the 'City that Faith built.' That is the finest name that any city in the nation could have. * * * And, incidentally, I have kept in pretty close touch with all of the fine things that you have been doing in recent years. Congressman McFarlane has told me of your reclamation projects, of your subsistence homesteads, of your power developments, and I am glad that the Federal Government knows that you people are on the map."

Newspaper Reports of President Roosevelt's Visit to Texas

"My friend McFarlane"

WICHITA FALLS POST, July 11th, 1938; The President made no direct reference to the Congressional race here, he gave tacit approval to McFarlane, referring to him as "MY FRIEND CONGRESSMAN McFARLANE."

"My friend McFarlane has told me of the 'City that Faith Built' and I can think of no finer name for any city" began the Chief Executive.

"My friend McFarlane has told me of the reclamation projects, the subsistence homesteads and the power developments of this area, and I am glad the federal government knows you people are on the map."

WICHITA FALLS POST, July 12, 1938: "WANTS McFARLANE RE-ELECTED.—In a speech last night at Amarillo, Texas, Mr. Roosevelt mentioned the names of several of the Lone Star State's Congressional delegation as the type that HE PREFERRED TO BE IN WASHINGTON. He called the names of Representatives Maury Maverick, Marvin Jones, W. D. McFarlane and Lyndon W. Johnson, all of whom were on board the President's special train as it sped across Texas.

DALLAS MORNING NEWS, July 12, 1938: "McFARLANE GIVEN NOD"—Congressman W. D. McFarlane, Graham, representing the Thirteenth District, received in Wichita Falls the presidential nod he had been waiting for. Roosevelt mentioned Mc-

Farlane several times as the Congressman stood by his side. The Congressman introduced Allred who was lustily cheered, and the Governor presented the President.

FORT WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM, July 12, 1938: "McFarlane COMPLIMENTED. At Wichita Falls Roosevelt complimented Congressman W. D. McFarlane of Graham. At Chillicothe, McFarlane introduced the President as "The greatest humanitarian the country has ever known."

DALLAS MORNING NEWS, July 16, 1938, written by Mark L. Goodwin, Washington Reporter:

"The primary election of July 23 will mean much to Texas, its standing in the legislative affairs of the country, and whether Texas influence in Congress is to be continued."

"Committee assignments are ruled by sincerity. States that keep their members here get the plums. New members have to go to the foot of the list and work up. If Texas changes its line-up in the House of Representatives it will be another twenty years getting back to where it is now."

Let us return this tried and true friend of the masses and thus express our appreciation of his service and approve the endorsement given him by the President and the leaders of Congress who know him best.

WARM WATER BRINGS 50 PER CENT INCREASE IN MILK PRODUCTION

John R. Armstrong of Farwell Community has solved one problem which affected the decline in milk production at the start of cold weather. His eight producing cows started on a "milk strike" about one month after he had balanced his feed ration to increase the milk supply. He observed this decrease in production happened about the same time the weather began to get colder and insisted the cows should receive more feed.

The importance of available warm drinking water for cows during the day was brought to Armstrong's attention by county Agent Jason O. Gordon, and he decided to install a heating system.

He had available an oil heater, and a good shop to work in so he designed the plan with C. A. Casady, his hired hand. One heating plate was installed in the drinking tub. This plate was sealed in a metal box leaving one end open for air, and the box was soldered inside the drinking tub. The open end of the box provides a place for lighting. "We have received about 50 per cent increase in production from 18 cows since we installed the heating plate," Mr. Armstrong said. "Many cold mornings I have used an ax to break the ice covering. Now we have observed our cows drinking a lot more water daily, and the most important item is the increase in our weekly cream check. This heating system uses about 1 1-2 gallons of oil per day."—Extension Farm News.

SOCIALIST SUDDENLY TURNS ROYALIST WHEN HE WINS SWEEPSTAKES

A grocery clerk up in Ohio has had an awakening. He has been a rather vigorous Socialist but a few weeks ago he drew $150,000 in the Irish Sweepstakes races and the government promptly pounced down on him and demanded $72,000 of his prize for income taxes. He is now an "economic royalist" and is "cussing" the government. He suddenly changed his ideas about dividing up. —M. Price in Marshall News Messenger.

MUESTER MILL GETS SET FOR BIG SEASON OF HULLING, CLEANING

Another forward step in the efforts of Muenster Milling Company to offer valuable service to farmers of this community reached completion during the past week when Roy Endres finished work on the bins and chutes connected with his hulling and cleaning machines.

Tendencies these days point toward a quite general patronage for both machines, Mr. Endres stated Monday. By actual experience men find that cleaning a load of wheat before selling increases its value from 3 to 4 times the cost of cleaning, especially if a noticeable quantity of oats or weed seed is included. In one instance only a few days ago the test of a wagonload of wheat was only 49, therefore was subject to a considerable reduction in price. After it was cleaned it tested 59 and brought a far better price per bushel. Oats and wheat were then sold separately and brought a premium of more than $5.00 over the cost of cleaning. In the past cleaning was done principally when the grain was to be used for seed. Today more seed wheat is cleaned than ever before and the practice of cleaning market wheat is becoming more general.

The oats huller likewise is increasing in popularity. Scientific experiments have shown, and experience on the farm substantiate it, that hogs and poultry thrive far better on hulled than on whole oats. It is also contended there is less waste in using hulled oats. Farmers know how hogs chew oats to get the kernel out then leave the hulls and necessarily a great deal of the meal with them. Chickens, they say require a more concentrated food and get too much bulk for the feed value in whole oats.
