For the twenty eighth consecutive year, the National Association of Conservation Districts, along with almost 3,000 local districts throughout the nation, is sponsoring Soil Stewardship Week. The dates are May 16-23 in keeping with a tradition begun more than 1500 years ago when French peasants set aside the three days preceding the feast of ascension as Rogation Days, asking for Divine protection to ward off crop failures that once caused widespread hunger.

The custom continued through the centuries, gradually evolving into a petition for a bountiful yield rather than the prayer to prevent storm and drought. It is well remembered by older members of this community who recall that their parents brought it here and observed it for many years.

Times have changed considerably since then. Modern farmers are inclined to assume that they are expected to do more on their own. They have adopted the principles of soil stewardship with full conviction that proper care of the land will not only increase production but also fulfill the sacred duty of keeping and improving it.

We get a certain satisfaction out of the thought that the Elm-Red District is ahead of the nation in observance of Soil Stewardship Week. As the national association reminds us, the observance originated 28 years ago. But this is the 33rd year of the Upper Elm Red awards banquet honoring outstanding conservation farmers. Another slight point of difference is that the local observance is usually a week ahead of Soil Stewardship week. Perhaps it's better that way because harvest work is less likely to conflict with the very appropriate program.

Richly deserved congratulations are in order to the conservation champions for outstanding achievements. But they are only a few of the many. Hundreds of other are also conserving and improving, and they are included in the spirit of this week's program even though they are not specifically named. The combined result of their effort is what inspires this district's awards program and makes it significant.

The concept of soil stewardship implies that it is sacred, and that in the eternal plan no person is the owner of the land he tills. Rather he is a temporary steward with an obligation to return it to God as good or better than he received it.

Fortunately there's more to this than just a responsibility, because the better one's job for God and posterity the better for one's self. Good Stewardship pays off in the present as well as the future. Conservation farmers are the prosperous farmers. They learned long ago that right practices result in better production and better living.

This applies to communities and the nation as well as individuals. Except for the good work done by soil stewards, the dreaded food shortage would be much nearer. Farmers have lived up to the ideal of passing on the land in better condition than they received it.

However, this is not the time to rest on our laurels. The crisis ahead calls on conservationists to keep up the good work, practicing

Germanfest was a whopper

Germanfest was a giant, not only topping last year's record attendance but soaring to a gain of near 50 per cent. The bottom figure this time is estimated at 50 to 55 thousand persons as compared with an estimated 40,000 a year ago.

The outstanding success can be credited especially to favorable weather, which seemed to turn out precisely as the committee ordered. A few drizzles were hardly sufficient to a wet shirt, and as they cleared they brought on ideal conditions.

So the crowds came and came. They started Friday with the largest first day attendance ever, estimated at more than 5000 and soared to an estimated attendance of more than 15000 on Saturday. And again Sunday, the outlook was very encouraging when soaring registrations at the German Fun Run indicated that the festival was certain to go over the top.

The over all estimate of near 55,000 includes admission records which are indefinite because of paid and free admission. However allowance is made for the fact that children under high school age, and fun runners, and working personnel did not have to pay.

Perhaps a better indication is the volume of beer served. The total this year was 593 kegs, whereas it was 506 last year. Another factor to consider is that last year the Jaycees served in 48,500 20 oz. souvenir beer tumblers where as this time they used the 16 oz. size. The count of cups this time was lost in the rush, however, on the basis of ratio, five were needed to serve the same volume as four last year. Making allowance for smaller containers as well as the larger number of kegs, it appears that this Germanfest made some 57,000 servings, some 8,500 more than last year.

A few other items indicating the size of the event are 8,250 pounds of sausage, 1700 pounds of potatoes, 430 pounds of cheese, 750 chickens, 550 pounds of bratwurst, 307 gallons of kraut, 2670 slices of strudel, 2000 nachos. And the number of paid admissions was just under 20,000.

Of course there was much more than just the abundance of food and drinks. To begin, the area had a new look in its recently completed rest rooms. As a result sanitation conditions were the best ever. Likewise security and supervision were super and parking was better than adequate. Overall the atmosphere was pleasant and orderly, inspiring frequent praises by amazed and delighted visitors.

Activity consisted of a steady stream of entertainment, contests and games. The pavilion featured accordion music by Sonny and Norma, polka music by Helga Beckman and the Bavarian Wood Choppers, the Brave Combo polka band, and Charles Jones and the Golden Tones.

Thanks to their rhythm, dancing continued practically for the duration. Dancers were on the floor for most of the numbers.

Besides there were dances each of the three nights...free street dances

Friday and Sunday and two Saturday dances: a polka at the community center and a Country & Western at VFW.

In addition there were lots of games and contests. A motorcycle rodeo, beard contest, legs contest, talent show, chug-a-lug and more.

The outstanding event, as always, was the German Fun Run, the biggest and best to date, with 3250 entries. There were 1490 runners in the 15 km event and 1760 in the 5 km run.

Another new event was the first German Bike rally with 119 participants.

Water line work proceeds on city's new No. 6 well

Securing easement for the city's number 6 water well, improving drainage on Mesquite as a preliminary to developing a pavement project, and discontinuation of Muenster's 28 year old water fluoridation program were the major subjects receiving attention at Monday night's city council meeting.

In the right of way matter councilmen and the landowner met with the county commissioner and agreed tentatively on a value of $5000 for the land concerned, and the city has posted a bond in that amount for authorization to proceed. The action enables the city to connect the new well to the city system without delay and to complete negotiations leisurely. The intention is to have the new well in use before summer.

At Mesquite Street the intention is to establish pavement, however property owners and city want drainage improvement as a first requirement. This includes another culvert to divert water as well as to clear and enlarge the east channel. The pavement will follow drainage improvement. Fluoridation, a controversial city issue for many years, appears to be on the way out. A directive from the state health department recommended doubling the currently used proportion, and the council declined. It is the first time in 54 years to have city water without fluoride.

Cooperating with Muenster Jaycees, the city agreed to share expense of maintaining the Jaycees meeting room recently built in the city park. Hereafter the Jaycees will pay phone bills and the city will pay other utilities.

Muenster votes light in primary election

Voters of Muenster were in line with those of the county and state in last Saturday's Democratic Primary in that they stayed away in droves, polling only a third of their total strength. However they disagreed on their choice of some favorites.

For instance Senator Benton, who won easily in county and state, had a slim lead here.

In the governor's race Muenster agreed in giving Hobby the lead but chose Armstrong rather than Temple for his runoff opponent.

For attorney general Maddox led here but Sheman rather than Hannan was the choice for run off opponent.

For land office commissioner Snelson led here but Kubiak rather than Mauro was favored for runoff opponent.

And for agriculture commissioner Reagan Brown's defeat by Hightower was a disappointment. Local favorites who won the state race are Bentsen over Sullivan for senator; Hobby over Skates for lieutenant governor; Bullock over Calvert for comptroller; Nugent over Pacheco for railroad commissioner.

To voters here, three local races took precedence over the state races. For representative of District 63 Bill Coody led in Muenster and holds a lead in the 3 county district but lost to Scott Davis in the county. For county judge Jim Robertson easily defeated Tom Crawford. And for Justice of the Peace, Precinct 1, Place 2, Dorothy Smith leads and Steve Phelps is the runoff opponent. However Muenster gave its lead to native son Ken Stormer.

A number of the county candidates were elected without opposition. They are Bobbie Calhoun, district clerk; Frank Scoggin, county clerk; Irene Bryant, county treasurer; Delbert West, county surveyor; Kenneth Alexander, commissioner Precinct 2 and Robert Bayer, commissioner Precinct 4.

The combined Muenster precincts, 17 and 18, voted as follows in the contest races. For senator: Bentsen 197, Sullivan 153. For governor: Beagle 4, Temple 66, Mayo 5, Armstrong 101, Young 9, White 117. For Lt. governor: Skates 47, Hobby 287. For attorney general: Sherman 94, Maddox 122, Ogg 19, Hannah 60.

For comptroller: Bullock 248, Calvert 99. For treasurer: Denton 36, Richards 94, Cutright 22, Harding 161. For land office Fore 31, Mauro 47, Kubiak 54, Snelson 139. For agriculture commissioner: Brown 230, Hightower 119. For railroad commissioner: Nugent 284, Pacheco 29. For state representative: Coody 244, Davis 122. For county judge: Crawford 111, Robertson 262. For justice of peace pct. 1, place 2: Phelps 31, Muller 51, Smith 88, Stormer 94, DeVault 27, Hennessy 2.

Good News

Acts 26:14-18

All of us fell to the ground, and I heard a voice say to me in Hebrew, 'Saul, Saul! Why are you persecuting me? You are hurting yourself by hitting back, like an ox kicking against its owner's stick.'

'Who are you, Lord?' I asked and the Lord answered. 'I am Jesus, whom you persecute. But get up and stand on your feet. I have appeared to you to appoint you as my servant. You are to tell others what you have seen of me today and what I will show you in the future. I will rescue you from the people of Israel and from the Gentiles to whom I will send you. Your are to open their eyes and turn them from the darkness to the light and from the power of Satan to God, so that through their faith in me they will have their sins forgiven and receive their place among God's chosen people.'

Information for Grain Producers

A Small Grain Field Meeting and On Farm Grain Storage Meeting is scheduled for Monday, May 10, at 10:00 a.m. Small grain producers are encouraged to attend. The meeting will be held at the wheat variety demonstration plots on the William Hermes Farm at Hood. The wheat plots are located on FM 1198. Program participants include Jim Blalock, Agronomist; Norman McCoy, Plant pathologist; and H.A. Turney, Area Entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Following the Field Meeting, Dick Withers, Extension Agricultural Engineer from Texas A&M will be at the Era Community Center to work with producers on storage management, quality maintenance, and selection of storage equipment. H.A. Turney will also be there and discuss storage insect problems and control.

If you have any questions, call 665-4931.

Germanfest Weather

Muenster had Germanfest weather last week. After more drizzles Saturday and Sunday ideal weather took over and finished the three days with delightfully cool and dry weather.

Steve Moster's recordings show temperature readings as follows. April 29, 49 and 72; April 30, 54 and 67; May 1, 58 and 74; May 2, 63 and 76; May 3, 64 and 84; May 4, 63 and 85; May 5, 68 and 75.

Rain measures were .03 on the 2nd and .01 on the 3rd, starting the month at .04. Rain until May measured 8.89 in., and the year's total to date is 8.93.

Looking Ahead

ECONOMIC THINKING
If we as a people are ever going to enjoy a lasting, healthy economy, we are going to have to learn the art of economic thinking. Causes have effects. We have to think about the probable effects every time we advocate a particular course of action.

In thinking economically we should keep in mind there is no such thing as an "evenly rotating economy." The market economy is the closest thing to it, but still it is dynamic, never static, therefore, we should not expect it to run perfectly or smoothly. Inevitably, there will be ups and downs as the economy corrects for errors. These imperfections are the price we must pay for an economic system which has provided the highest standard of living in the world. Efforts to remove these imperfections always lead to static, stagnant economies and lowered standards of living. The Socialist economies of the world are ample illustrations of this. The current problems we are experiencing are in large part a consequence of such efforts to create Utopia. But, if in spite of the ups and downs in the economy, we permit the market to be free, consumer choices will tend to dampen these oscillations, to smooth out the economy, much like a governor smooths out the speed of an engine.

When government intervenes in the market the oscillations are increased and the problems compounded rather than solved. No bureaucrat or committee of bureaucrats is capable of economic planning as effectively as the millions of consumers, who, through their subjective valuations each adds his or her own planning factors into the "market computer."

We should learn from history. Government intervention prolonged the Depression of 1929 until 1942 when wartime production and the drafting of 13 million men ultimately altered market forces, largely by inflation. In addition, we should keep in mind that it was erroneous policies of the government which caused the Great Depression in the first place. Causes have effects.

Many are currently concerned about massive federal budget deficits. And well we should be. These deficits have resulted from the vastly over-extended welfare state. If we permit ourselves to be influenced by those in Congress who want to reduce the deficit by raising taxes, we can expect the current "spotty recession" to deepen into a full-scale recession accompanied by galloping inflation. The deficits should and must be reduced by massive cuts in federal spending.

If we do not reduce these massive deficits we can expect increasing inflation, as much of the deficit is financed by creating new money and credit — we can expect higher interest rates, as all interest rates must include an inflation factor — we can expect business stagnation, bankruptcies, higher unemployment — in a few words, we can expect economic chaos.

A major contributing factor of the probably economic maelstrom — if we fail to reduce drastically the budget deficits — will be government absorption of the savings of our people from the capital market. The funds which should go to business to finance new oil refineries, plant expansion, new products, new jobs, will instead be taken by government to finance the huge deficits caused by ever-increasing welfare programs. The course of action is clear!

the proven methods of saving soil and water and increasing production, and even finding more ways to provide food and fiber.

We like to think that the combination of modern ambition and ingenuity will keep moving ahead so that the dreaded confrontation of supply and demand will be pushed back for a long, long time. Perhaps it isn't too much to hope that mankind somehow will find a way to solve the problem indefinitely.

We can imagine development of farming techniques that will increase yields even more. We can imagine further progress in livestock and poultry breeding to produce more meat, milk and eggs. We can imagine a surge in fish farming, and edible vegetation from ponds and lakes. We are confident that food production will still advance much farther. And we are equally confident that conservation farmers will have a big part in the future progress.

We like to think also that science and technology will help along. Research will make food out of plants not used now, and out of by-products that are wasted now. Hopefully consumers will do their bit by wasting less food, thereby relieving some of the food shortage and causing less pollution.

When this district's awards program originated, far sighted people were talking about eventual food shortage. Since then we have seen a vast increase of production, and we see prospects for continued increase. Without a doubt, the day of reckoning has been postponed.

Letter To The Editor

After the weekend I felt compelled to write and say that in my opinion the Germanfest is a disgrace to the community of Muenster. I find no pride in knowing that this community sponsors one of the biggest beer busts in the state of Texas. I would like for all parents and grandparents of young men and women to consider the example which is being displayed for their children and grandchildren where not only is approval given to drinking beer by the bucketfuls but apparently is even encouraged. One pickup full of drunks turned around in our drive and being too drunk to get back on the road went across our yard and the neighbors yard before getting back on the road. I also noticed planter boxes on main street that had been turned over. I do not understand why anyone in the community wants to invite this type of people to come and visit with us.

Some will say we can't afford not to have Germanfest because of the money which is taken in. Jesus said in Mark 8:36 "For what shall it profit a man if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?" While I do not equate attending Germanfest with losing one's soul, the principle is the same if a loved one is lost to the addiction of alcoholism or death in an automobile accident caused by drunken driving. Unfortunately, many times there is a difference between what is morally right and what is legally right. Even if no laws were broken, and some might disagree on this point, my opinion is that the best thing that could happen to Muenster would be that the 1982 Germanfest was the last Germanfest.

Although I realize I probably am in the minority group, I would be interested in how other people feel about this subject, and would encourage others to make their opinions known either through the "Letters to the Editor" column in this newspaper or through private talks with the members of the Chamber of Commerce who are in charge of Germanfest.

Sincerely,
Larry Tisdale, DVM

USDA proposes targeting of funds in problem conservation areas

A majority of nearly 83,000 persons filing public comments on a proposed new soil and water conservation program for the U.S. Department of Agriculture would support targeting more USDA funds and personnel to areas where soil erosion and other conservation problems are critical.

Secretary of Agriculture John Block said 60 percent supported targeting, 32 percent were opposed and the rest, 8 percent, were neutral. In Texas 75% were opposed. From last November through January the USDA solicited comments on 20 separate features of the proposed program which was mandated by the Soil and Water Resources Conservation Act of 1977. Block asked for the public comments to help him in preparing the final RCA report and recommendations to the President and Congress.

Targeting, now being tried on a limited basis, is a departure from traditional USDA conservation policies. It was one of 15 features that gained support from a majority. Another proposal gaining majority support (53 percent for, 32 percent against, 15 percent neutral) was to require farmers to have conservation plans before receiving Farmers Home Administration loans. (In Texas 78% opposed it.) Support on 13 other individual features of the program ran from 58 percent to 67 percent.

Three parts of the program received a fairly mixed reaction, without a majority either for or against them. Forty-six percent supported the proposal to set up new local coordinating boards, but 46 percent were opposed. A new other State officials, local officials, farm organizations and conservation groups. Of the individual respondents, 62 percent were either farmers, ranchers or rural landowners. There was a heavy response from persons involved with conservation activities, as nearly half the respondents identified themselves as either board members of conservation districts, members of county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committees, or employees of local, state or Federal government agencies.

CONSERVATION FARMING PRODUCES MORE FOOD

Although responses came from throughout the Nation, five States were especially active and accounted for over a third of the total responses. They were: Kentucky, 8,850 responses; Oklahoma, 6,095, Texas, 4,279; California, 4,732; and Tennessee, 4,343.

Secretary Block said that many who responded during the public comment period said they were satisfied with conservation services being provided by USDA, but would like to see the assistance expanded. The Secretary expressed appreciation to respondents for taking the time to comment on the conservation proposals, adding that "We will carefully consider what the public told us as we make our final determinations on the USDA conservation programs."

Sacred Heart Newsletter

by Stephen Beyer, Principal

This is the last newsletter for 1981-82. Look for the next in August of 1982.

School Uniforms - Order forms for school uniforms were given out at pre-registration. Prices on the order forms are in effect until June 1st, 1982. After June 1st, the prices will go up. If you need order forms, they are in the high school office. Also, you might be interested in the letter below that I recently received from Parker of Houston.

We at Park School Uniforms would like to take this opportunity to "Thank You" for your support, patience, and suggestions in our first year of entering the retail market through our Dallas uniform store. The Parker Uniform Store has extended their hours this year to better accommodate our customer's schedules.

Your Dallas/Fort Worth Representative is Laura McEvoy, also manager of our Dallas store. Laura was involved with uniforming of St. Bernard School as well as being on the staff before joining us at Parker. We feel this gives all of us invaluable experience in better serving you and your parents. Mrs. McEvoy can be reached at 484-5603. Should she not be available at the time of your call, your message will be recorded and she will return your call. We would also like to offer the services of our staff at our main office in Houston at 713-528-1511.

At Parker we feel that your priorities are best placed on academics and, therefore, we are constantly striving to simplify your participation in school uniforming. Once again, we would like to reiterate that we wholly appreciate your suggestions as it better enables us to tailor your specific uniform needs.

Sincerely,
Earl C. Parker, Jr. President

Thank You - We would like to thank the following ladies who helped in administering the health exams: Mrs. Karen Endres, Mrs. Betty Miller, Mrs. Delores Hofbauer, Mrs. Kathy Barres, Mrs. Lou Moster, Mrs. Susan Fetsch, Mrs. Loretta Felderhoff, Mrs. Holly Koch, Mrs. Jane Taylor, Mrs. Patsy Bayer, Mrs. Janice Bayer, Mrs. Ruth Hess, Mrs. Linda Vogel, and Mrs. Eileen Schilling.

For Your Information
Do parents of private school students have rights? Do they also have duties?

The legal status existing between the parent of the minor student and the private school or between the adult student and the private school is one of contract. The contract may be either verbal or written or a combination of both. The most common form of written contract in the private school realm is contained in a handbook (written expressed contract) or in the policy and procedure of operation of the school (verbal implied contract). The rights and duties of the students are often the focus of legal attention, but the rights of the parent cannot be ignored.

Private school administrators and teachers may wish to consider the following list of parental rights exercised on behalf of their children who attend non-public schools:

1. The right to a school atmosphere free from disruption and conducive to the education process
2. The right to be informed about educational programs available
3. The right to competent teachers and school staff
4. The right to be informed of a child's progress or lack of progress
5. The right to examine their child's school records
6. The right to be informed of the rules and regulations of the private school
7. The right to request that their child be excused from school to keep medical or dental appointments
8. The right to discuss the grading system with individual teachers
9. The right to have their child receive an appropriate quality education
10. The right to have school administrators fairly and consistently enforce reasonable rules and regulations.
11. The right to confidentiality of school records
12. The right for their children to attend a safe physical school plant
13. The right to be told reasons for suspension or expulsion of their child

The obvious flip side of the "rights coin" is that of duties. Parents have obvious duties toward the private school:

1. The duty to see that their child attends school regularly and on time
2. The duty to emphasize discipline and responsibility
3. The duty to supervise completion of homework
4. The duty to notify appropriate school administrators promptly of a child's absence
5. The duty to attend parent-teacher conferences
6. The duty to respond to school inquiries
7. The duty to pay designated tuition on time (taken from the Private School Law Digest, Vol. 82, No. 1)

Finnell wins legislature race in 80th district

State Rep. Charles Finnell of the 80th Dist. declared victory in the race for State Representative, Saturday night, following vote tabulations of the May 1st Democratic primary.

Rep. Finnell and wife Kay addressed supporters from the nine-county district at an election - night reception in Holliday.

Complete and final returns revealed 9828 votes cast for Finnell and 6331 votes for the opponent, publisher Bill Glassford. In Montague county, the voting percentage was 65 percent for Finnell.

"I'm proud to serve the people of such a vast and productive district," Finnell stated. "And pledge my continued best efforts in providing responsible representation."

The 80th House district includes over 98,000 people and over 7660 square miles of North Texas.

A minute and 18 seconds after the starting signal, many of the Fun Run participants were still behind the starting line.

This is how the crowd stretched out on Main Street as some 3250 runners were registered and an estimated 250 more ran along.

Earth Station being installed in Muenster

The earth station for Muenster Cable TV has arrived and is in the process of being installed in the north-east corner of the telephone company warehouse yard across the street south from the telephone office.

It is a 5 meter (16'9") Prodeln dish shaped antenna being installed on a concrete foundation. It will be set on 320 degree off of true north facing 37 degrees above the horizon. It will focus on Satcom III which is in a geosynchronous orbit 22,300 miles above the equator about half way between Hawaii and South America. Installing the antenna and receiving signals should be completed in about 3 weeks.

Major rebuilding work has been completed to the Muenster cable system. Amplifiers installed in 1967 have been replaced with new ones that have the ability to carry up to 27 channels of television without getting them mixed. This work was supervised by a technician from the Superior Electric from Sarasota, Florida and his mobil laboratory. Still to be completed is replacing the original "pressure taps" which connect the drop lines to the houses from the cable with the newer "directional taps" which should give a clearer picture on the television sets. This work should be completed this summer.

Initially we expect to receive 5 channels from the satellite. If possible we will give previews of programming and surveys taken before executing contracts with the program suppliers. They all want 5 year contracts. Currently we expect to give 1 satellite channel in the base rate. The other 4 channels will be supplied in 2 tiers with 2 channels in each tier. Tier I will feature family type entertainment and Tier II will have programming that includes some "R" programming. Four choices of programming will be available, according to Alvin Fuhrman.

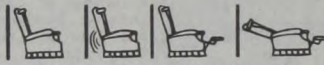

1. Only the basic television which is now $8.00 a month. You must subscribe to the basic television before you can subscribe to either Tier I or Tier II.
2. Basic television and Tier I which will cost the $8.00 plus an amount determined by the cost of the programming.
3. Basic television and Tier II the cost also determined by the cost of the programming.
4. Basic television, Tier I and Tier II.

Yard of the month announced for May

The Muenster Garden Club has announced the selection of the home of Mrs. Meinrad Hesse for "Yard of the Month" honors for May. Noted especially was the establishment of a new lawn surrounding a new home and over-all general effect of pleasing landscaping in front and back.

Ceremony unites Richardson and Bayer

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bayer are at home in Muenster since returning from a trip that followed their wedding on April 24. They were married in Sacred Heart Church in a Nuptial Mass and double ring ceremony officiated by Father Stephen Eckart at 5 p.m.

The bride is the former Norma Jean Richardson of Muenster, daughter of Clifford Richardson of Rosston and Mrs. Dorothy Durbin of Lake Kiowa. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bayer of Muenster. Both are graduates of Muenster Public High School; she is employed by Fischer's Meat Market and he is employed by Valentin.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing a formal wedding gown of white satin, with a high necked wedding ring collar, with a fitted lace bodice, attached scalloped edged peplum and long sleeves caught to fitted cuffs. The A-line satin skirt swept into an aisle wide train completely edged with matching scalloped lace. The dress was made by the bride's sister, JoAnn Sicking.

She wore a white derby hat with shoulder length veil and carried a bouquet of pink and white silk daisies showered with satin ribbon. For sentiment, the bride wore her great-great-grandmother DeBorde's wedding band and had a birth-date penny given by her Grandmother Edith Richardson.

Attendants

A Western theme was used in gowns worn by the bridal attendants, who were dressed in Western style boots, knee length skirts of pink flowered cotton and long sleeved blouses of sheer pink fabric. Each wore a pink flower in her hair and carried a pink silk bouquet. The bride's sister, JoAnn Sicking was matron of honor, a cousin Linda Walterscheid and friends Dea Swirczynski, Lou Dyer, Sandy Wimmer and Brenda Nix were bridesmaids.

Bria Miller, bride's cousin was flower girl and Bob Richardson bride's nephew was ring bearer. The ring-pillow and all silk flowers were made by the bride's sister JoAnn Sicking.

Wayne Trubenbach of Muenster was the best man; and Henry Bayer and Alan Bayer, brothers of the groom, and Doyle Klement, Chris Wolf and Kim Nix, friends, were groomsmen.

Don Richardson and Herbert Richardson, brothers of the bride were ushers.

Wedding music was given by the bride's sister-in-law Joyce Richardson of Rosston and aunts Kay Raney of Rosston and Evelyn Henderson of Stephenville, vocalists, accompanied by Tony Like, organist. Selections were "Evergreen" and "Let It Be Me."

Reception

A reception, dinner and dance followed in the VFW Hall for 300 guests. The guest book was placed on a table holding a memory candle made by the bride's sister and a pair of ceramic doves. Displayed above was a grouping of pictures of the couple, placed on a pink fabric background edged with lace from the wedding dress.

Displayed on the wall behind the bride's table was a painting by Bert Hesse of a windmill scene, a favorite of the bride. All decorations used at the reception carried out a Western theme.

The three tiered white wedding cake, decorated with pink roses was made by Betty Rose Walterscheid and served by the groom's sisters, Carolyn Bayer, Susie Bayer, Betty Cole and Dolly Owen.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents in the Gilbert Endres Building for 50 guests.

JEFF SIMMEL

Jeff Simmel, son of Bob and Betty Simmel of Pilot Point and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. James Eckart of Muenster, was named the Salutatorian of the 55 members senior class of the J. Earl Selz High School in Pilot point. He has earned an average grade of 97.6915 and will graduate on May 23 at age 18.

Jeff was a member of the Beta Club for four years; an outstanding science student as a sophomore; was published in Who's Who Among American High School Students as a junior and senior. He placed fifth in state and regional OEA competitions in Business Math, and was the outstanding student in science, history, drafting and English, all in his junior year.

In his senior year he was named the outstanding student in drafting, art, English, math and science; was listed in the Society of Distinguished Students; and was awarded merits in the United States Achievement Academy, USAA in trigonometry, chemistry and English.

Top students honored at NTSU

Gary Wayne Rohmer of Muenster and Della R. Hermes of Lindsay were among outstanding students at all levels honored recently at the fifteenth annual for the NTSU accounting and information systems department of the College of Business Administration.

Along with the students, individual firms and foundations were honored for contributions to the department and its scholarship programs. "The success of the department's programs cannot be separated from the quality of its students," said Dr. E. Joe DeMaris, department chairman. "This is an evening devoted to recognizing both scholarly merit and those who have contributed toward making it possible for us to have quality programs."

News of the sick

Mrs. J.E. Marr of Fort Worth is recovering normally from surgery performed on April 29 in St. Joseph's Hospital. She was dismissed on Wednesday to convalesce at home. On Monday, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Klement and an uncle and aunt Mr. and Mrs. Martin Klement visited her and her husband and their two sons, Jimmy and Pat.

A joint resolution of the United States Congress has designated May 6 as "National Recognition Day for Nurses". Please note that this celebration is not connected with the annually-held Texas Nurses week sponsored by the Texas Nurses Association (TNA). According to TNA officials, Nurses Week will be held during November 7-13, 1982. You will receive further information on this celebration in the early fall.

Joint Resolution by U.S. Congress

WHEREAS nursing women and men have provided significant contributions to the health care of our Nation's citizens of all ages, sex, and creeds for more than one hundred years; WHEREAS nurses provide care in hospitals, nursing homes, extended care facilities, clinics, rehabilitation hospitals, physicians' offices, private duty nursing, and industrial nursing;

WHEREAS nurses' skills and knowledge provide disease and injury prevention, and aim toward restoration of health; WHEREAS nurses strive to provide comfort, solace, and education to those entrusted to their care; WHEREAS nursing is a highly technical, sophisticated, and exacting science: Now, therefore, be it RESOLVED by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the President is authorized and requested to designate May 6, 1982, as "National Recognition Day for Nurses", and to call upon the people of the United States to observe such day with appropriate programs, ceremonies, and activities.

You are encouraged to honor the nurses in your institution during one or both of these special times.

Beta Kappa honors Loretta Felderhoff

Members of Beta Kappa Sorority of ESA honored Loretta Felderhoff with a Life Membership medal from ESA Headquarters during the organization's April meeting. Mrs. Felderhoff is the first Muenster member to receive the honor. Barbara Felderhoff gave the presentation and program.

Lynn Dangelmayr was hostess in the TP&L Building.

Becky Felderhoff, reporting for the scholarship committee, told that three seniors from area schools were selected from applications received, and members voted in favor. They also finalized plans for participation in Germanfest and made plans to collect for their service project to benefit St. Jude's Childrens Hospital on May 9 at Sacred Heart Church and First Baptist Church.

Newly elected President Becky Felderhoff presented her goals for Beta Kappa for 1982-83. She also reported on the district meeting held on April 4 when Louise Fisher was elected District Educational Director.

The next Beta Kappa meeting will be held on May 11 when Marcie Wilde will be hostess.

Quality care is... Good, Home-Cooked Food

Food. It's such a simple thing, you probably take it for granted. But in our nursing home, we can't. We care about nutrition. We care about variety. About freshness. We care about serving a good breakfast, a hearty lunch and a solid dinner.

On our staff are people trained to develop a careful dietary plan for every resident. And we prepare our meals the way they're supposed to be. As good as home-cooked. Our food isn't just institutional food, because we are a home. We have to satisfy some of the most experienced cooks around — our residents.

Good food is only a small part of nursing home care. But it's an important part. For nutrition. For healing. For making our residents feel at home.

We try to put just as much care into everything we do. That's what total care nursing is all about. Come and visit, and share a good home-cooked meal at our home.

To the Persons in Precinct 1 of Cooke County.

I take this opportunity and method of thanking each and every person who saw fit to support me in the Primary last Saturday. Also, I am using this method to thank the persons who assisted me in this endeavor.

I am hopeful that all the Citizens of Justice of the Peace Precinct 1 will mark their calendar and remember that the run-off election will be held June 5, 1982. On that date I would appreciate your continued support.

If time allowed I would prefer to personally thank everyone who has helped me.

Dorothy Smith Box 555, Gainesville, Tx. 76240.

Dorothy Fisher, Katie Swirczynski attend CDA convention

Mrs. Dorothy Fisher and Mrs. Katie Swirczynski represented local court St. Mary Catholic Daughters of the Americas at the biennial state convention held in Corpus Christi April 15-18.

Convention headquarters were in the LaQuinta Royale Motel in Corpus Christi where delegates and about 39 alternates convened to present work shops, elect officers for a two year term and discuss matters of interest to the assembly.

The convention opened with a consecrated Mass, celebrated by Most Rev. Thomas J. Drury bishop of Corpus. There were four bishops present along with about thirty visiting clergy.

On Friday Fr. Bernie Pustejovsky Junior C.D.A. chaplain gave a workshop on Junior C.D.A.s. The workshop was presented in a song and dance skit titled "New York, New York" and performed by Juniors. There are thirty one Jr. courts in Texas, five instituted in the last year. Fr. Bernie was principal celebrant at the 4 p.m. Mass consecrated with Bishop Tschoepe and eight other priests. A group of nine small girls and one boy made up the choir and it was very beautiful. Sister Margaret directed the group and played the guitar.

The evening concluded with a laur attended by 800.

Saturday the apostolate workshop was given by Sister Rachel, a Franciscan nun who showed slides of the work done by herself as a chaplain and by a host of volunteers at the port of Houston. Last year 5592 ships came into the port of Houston from many nations.

Bishop Tschoepe presented workshop "Preparation for the Sacrament of Marriage." He was also the celebrant for the Mass for deceased members whose names were read. Following the Mass a Memorial to the deceased was given by Cecina Koeijmans, state treasurer. Court St. Mary lost four members since the last convention. The evening concluded with banquet and entertainment by music students of A&J College.

The convention ended on Sunday with Mass of installation celebrated by Bishop Tschoepe. All the officers were re-elected for two year terms.

The Muenster delegates were met at the airport by John Swirczynski and were guests for lunch along with Sister Monica and her father Herman Swirczynski who drove them to Muenster.

A highlight of the trip for Mmes. Fisher and Swirczynski was a visit with the Joe Spaeths of Longview who took them on a tour of the city. The Spaeths lived in Corpus twenty years ago. Mrs. Spaeth is regent of the court in Longview.

CARD OF THANKS

Thanks for every kindness shown to us at the death of our husband and father, Alfred Sicking. We are deeply grateful to all who helped in any way and will treasure the memory of your thoughtfulness. May God bless each of you.
The Alfred Sicking Family

I wish to extend my sincere thanks to my wonderful neighbors and friends for their help during the loss of my beloved wife, Elizabeth. Our 60th wedding anniversary would have been on June 8, 1982. Over half of that time has been in Münster.

Special thanks to the Münster Hospital staff of nurses and to Dr. Kralick for their untiring efforts to save the life of Elizabeth. Thanks for prayers, flowers, cards, food, visits and help of my fine young neighbors in serving meals. Special thanks to Rev. Edmond Poore and Dr. Phillip Walker for the splendid funeral service.

A friendship span of many years with Münster folks is a rare and treasured gift, valued highly.

H. N. Fuhrmann, in June 1927, was the first man in Cooke County to operate a combine. His father Mike Fuhrmann bought the first combine in Cooke County, a Case, as shown on the above photo.

Ernest Mosman (brother of John Mosman) is shown driving the 1924 model Fordson tractor; and H.N. Fuhrmann is operating the combine on the Mike Fuhrmann farm, one mile west of Lindsay.

In this photo, H.N. Fuhrmann is unloading grain into the wagon; Ernest Mosman, on the tractor, is almost obscured by the team; the youngsters on the wagon are Johnny Fuhrmann now of New Braunfels, Val Fuhrmann now of Muenster; and Vincent Fuhrmann, (Father Alois, now deceased). All three photos and information furnished by H.N. Fuhrmann. He said they were made by his father, Mike Fuhrmann.

Germanfest visitors

Rodney Walter of Dallas, accompanied by 20 friends came to Germanfest Sunday, driving in a Cistercian bus. He visited with his parents the Oscar Walters and he and his sons Bill and Matt ran in the German Fun Run. His wife Libby and son Rod, Jr. and a classmate came by car Saturday to visit the Oscar Walters. Other guests on Saturday and Sunday were David and Ann Walter and daughters Sally and Lisa of Arlington. They all visited the Chris Walter family and stayed to enjoy Jennifer Walter's performance twice at Germanfest. Joining them on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. John Ernest and son Matthew of Fort Worth, friends of the David Walters.

Guests of Mrs. Ray Owen for the weekend and Germanfest were Mrs. Bobby Hibbitts and sons Danny and Robin, and Judy Haunshell and daughter Misty all of Mesquite; also Lois Wray and daughter Amber and Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Henschel all of Irving. Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Henschel, also of Irving were Sunday guests.

Linda and Steve Lev and baby son Brandon of Foxboro Massachusetts were here Friday through Sunday as Germanfest guests of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fisher. They were joined by a friend, Bob Postero of Dallas to attend Germanfest on Saturday.

Mrs. Leo Laviolette returned to her home in Rockford, Ill. Wednesday after a two week visit with her sister Mrs. Val Fuhrmann and other relatives of the Endres families. She was the houseguest of Arthur and Sue Endres. Mrs. Laviolette is the former Dolly Endres.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Herr of Denton visited relatives here one day last week and were guests in the home of his sister Katie Herr.

Mrs. Debbie Klement and two children Mindy and Steven of Denton spent Saturday here attending Germanfest and were guests of her sister and family Monica and Jerry Hess and children.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Klement during the Germanfest weekend were Mrs. Dickie Cain of Ardmore, her daughter (Tami), Mrs. Lynn Davis and little Stacie of Marietta who came Saturday. On Sunday Mrs. Cain returned with another daughter, Shawna accompanied by a friend of Ardmore. They all visited with Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Klement and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Klement of McAllen, who arrived Friday to be guests of their parents and grandparents, the Bernard Wolfs and the Norbert Klements.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Wolf were hosts to family members during the Germanfest weekend. Together were Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Klement and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Klement, all of McAllen; Mr. and Mrs. Truman Wolf and sons Scott, Mark and Jason of Dallas accompanied by a friend; Mr. and Mrs. James Wolf and children Stephen and Karen of Decatur and a son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wolf and baby son Brandon, accompanied by a friend all of Hurst. During the weekend many friends and former classmates stopped for brief visits.

Jerry and Delette Fette and son Jerry Ray of Waco were Germanfest visitors and participants during the weekend. They are houseguests of the Herman Hartmans and at Germanfest saw many friends at their booth of ceramics, plaques, potted plants, hanging baskets, and handmade Christmas Crafts. They were joined on Sunday by Don Bayer, also of Waco.

Diane Hess of Dallas, and Mr. and Mrs. Alan Hess and children Nathan and Jason were weekend and Germanfest guests of their parents and grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Al Hess.

Guests of Mrs. Elizabeth Moster for the weekend and Germanfest were a daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. A.W. Eldred and two daughters of Denver City. They also visited the Damian Moster family, the Rocky Dickerson family and the Dickie Mosters in Muenster and Mrs. Rosalie Crow and three sons of Nocona. The Eldreds returned home Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clem Reiter had a number of guests who were in and out during the weekend of Germanfest. Arriving for the weekend was Mrs. Ray Hoedebeck of Denison. She was joined on Sunday by her grandson Philip Hoedebeck. He came especially for Germanfest, accompanied by two friends and Christe Felderhoff, all students at Midwestern University. Other guests on Sunday were Harriell Durbin and son Larry of Plano, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hoedebeck of Irving, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfons Reiter of Muenster.

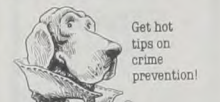

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Endres for Germanfest and the weekend were cousins, Mr. and Mrs. C.J. Rucker of Lake Granbury. Mrs. Rucker is the former Eugenia Luke. Also coming to Muenster on Saturday and Sunday to attend Germanfest was Vincent Luke of Fort Worth.

Nursing Home Week

May 9-16 is Nursing Home Week. Why not take the time to visit one; share some of your time with one of our residents, visit with them. You will get a very special feeling of self-satisfaction when you realize the pleasure you have brought to someone less fortunate than you.

Unfortunately many people attach a kind of stigma to a Nursing Home; living, working or even visiting there. Years ago this may have been true. No longer is this the case. Nursing homes are cheerful places where those requiring a special care, attention, or help in caring for themselves, or those who do not choose to live alone can live, remain active and enjoy the planned activities and the company of others of similar interests.

The quality of Nursing Homes and the people that staff them have long since attained the rank of professionalism. Unfortunately the image from the past still prevails in the minds of many, causing many misgivings and doubts. Don't be one of the "uninformed", clinging to erroneous myths and false legends of the past. Visit a Nursing Home during the Nursing Home Week and see the changes that have come about.

Conservation champs will be honored

Conservation winners of the Upper Elm-Red Soil and Water Conservation District will be honored guests Thursday night May 6 at the thirty third annual awards banquet sponsored by banks, newspapers and radio and TV stations of the district.

The event will be held in the old gym of Nocona High School starting at 7:30 p.m.

This is the fifth time in the program's history that Nocona has been chosen as the banquet site. It has been held seven times in Gainesville, five times in Sherman, four times each in Muenster and Whitesboro, three times each in Bowie and the Silver Wings Club of Grayson College and twice in Denison.

Along with individual recognition of the year's champion farmers, the program's purpose is to salute all district cooperators and business friends of conservation as well as to inspire continued effort and interest in soil conservation.

Persons to be featured Thursday night are the outstanding farmers and ranchers of 1981 in the five zones. In addition the banquet will honor a radio station for promoting conservation, a student as winner of a conservation related essay contest sponsored by the district, and a person who had done outstanding work in providing food and habitat for wildlife.

The zone champions are Don Farrell of Forestburg, Zone 1; John Ed Hinton of Nocona, Zone 2; Tony Trubenbach Jr. of Muenster, Zone 3; Jackie Newton of Dexter, Zone 4; and Morris M. Frankun of Howe, Zone 5. Winner of the wildlife conservation award is F.C. Gaines Jr. of Bowie; winner of the conservation news media award is Radio KGAF of Gainesville, and winner of the conservation essay contest is Jeff Augustine of Denison High School.

The award to be presented to the five outstanding conservation farmers, the wildlife conservationist and the radio station is the traditional wooden plaque carved by Ludwig Kienenger, former Muenster resident, now of Dallas. The award for the winning essay will be $25 in cash from directors of the Elm-Red district. Cash awards of $15 and $10 for second and third places in the essay contest have been given to Deana Nortman and Jeff Wimmer, both of Lindsay.

The highlight of the program is the projection of colored slides on a screen, showing scenes of conservation achievement on farms of Zone winners and the wildlife conservationist. As these pictures are presented, each winner's story will be narrated by Pat Bolin of Radio Station KGAF. After that the conservation champs will receive their awards from sponsors of their respective zones and the essay contest winner will receive his award from Clyde Hale, chairman of the district board.

In addition, all winners will receive a one year membership to the Soil Conservation Society of America and a subscription to the society magazine from J.M.

Weinzapfel of Muenster State Bank, a long time friend of conservation and one of the originators of the annual awards program.

Others to make presentations are Al Fleitman of First State Bank, Gainesville; James Cantrell of Bowie National Bank; Henry Weinzapfel of Muenster State Bank; Ben Shackelford of F&M Bank, Nocona; Earl Fisher of Muenster State Bank; Ray Nichols of Gainesville National Bank; and Bob Williams of Howe State Bank.

Rev. Orville Rodgers of First Baptist Church, NOcona, will give the invocation and the Gee Whiz Band of Nocona will provide dinner music.

Trubenbach is Zone 3 winner

Tony Trubenbach Jr. is this year's outstanding farmer in Zone 3 of the Upper Elm-Red Soil and Water Conservation District. He operates several farms in the Muenster area, consisting of cropland, pastureland and rageland.

Tony became a cooperator with the Upper Elm-Red Soil and Water Conservation District in 1963 and has worked since then on improvement of this land with conservation practices and good management.

He has installed 27,000 feet of parallel terraces on several fields, to help protect 300 acres of cropland and has established twelve acres of waterways to serve as safe outlets for the terraces.

He has planted over 200 acres to improved grasses. These include Coastal Bermudagrass, Kleingrass, Lovegrass and Bluestem.

Several farm ponds have been installed to provide water for livestock, and recreation for family and friends. They have been stocked with catfish and bass.

Tony has over 1800 acres of rangeland. Two hundred have had brush management followed by reseeding to native grasses and King Ranch Bluestem. He rotates his herds from pasture to pasture to allow grasses to reseed, and has divided the pastures with cross-fences to allow for movement by cattle to each pasture.

Tony and his wife Thelma bought their first Hereford cattle shortly after they were married. They have bred to top quality bulls and the herd has improved with each calf crop.

Recognizing a real need for high quality, clean seeds in the area, Tony added a seed department to his feed store at Muenster. With this he treats and cleans grass, legume, sudan, and small grain seeds, which are used by many farmers in Cooke and Montague Counties in their conservation programs. Tony believes in conservation farming as the better way for the farm and for the farmer.

Tony Trubenbach Jr. is the 1981 farmer-rancher in Zone 3 of the Upper Elm-Red Conservation District.

Theme of Soil Stewardship week: "A Time for Tenacity"

The Upper Elm-Red Soil and Water Conservation District joins other conservation districts of the nation in observing Soil Stewardship Week, but not on the same date. Nationally, the date is May 16-23, but in the Elm-Red District it is this week, May 2-8. In keeping with a long standing custom, the date is advanced to avoid conflict with grain harvesting.

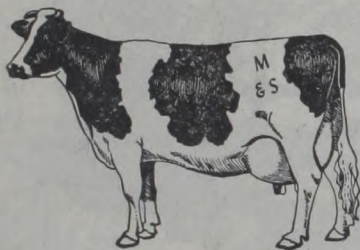

The theme of this year's celebration is "A Time for Tenacity"

"This is 'A Time for Tenacity' in our faith, in concept, in communication, in cooperation, in the political arena, in experiments and research, in leadership, in priorities, and in total commitment," cites the National Association of Conservation Districts (NACD) in the 16-page Soil Stewardship Week booklet. Forward for the publication was written by President Ronald Reagan. NACD has sponsored Soil Stewardship Week since 1955, in cooperation with the nation's nearly 3,000 soil and water conservation districts.

Informative material on the Soil Stewardship Week theme each year is distributed through local conservation districts to clergymen, lay leaders, churches, civic and educational organizations and to individuals participating in the observance.

"With the growth of population and the world demand for food and with the clearing and development of most land that is suitable for cultivation, we must turn our attention to the task of saving every acre," according to NACD. "The dream of adequate supplies of food and shelter must cover a period that extends far into the future because this is the only world we have and the total heritage of our descendants."

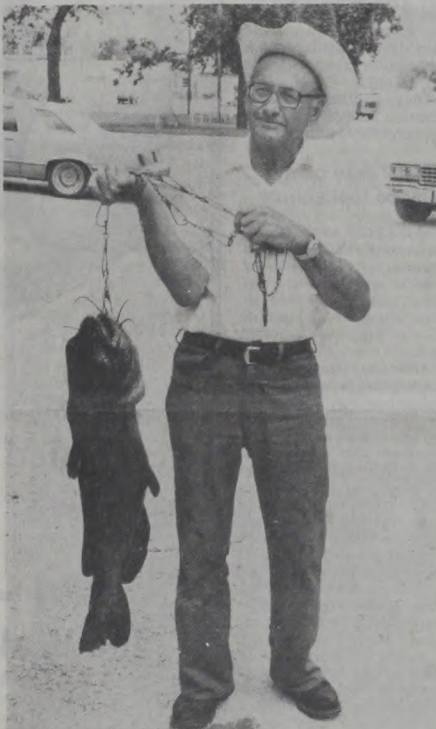

Remember . . .

that our land is our future we salute the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation District for practicing soil conservation every day all year.

Farrell is No. 1 in Zone 1

The Upper Elm-Red Soil and Water Conservation District proudly announces that Don Farrell has been selected as this year's Outstanding Conservation Farmer from Zone 1.

Don, his wife, Judy, and two children, Jackie and Scotty, live on their 195 acre farm northeast of Forestburg.

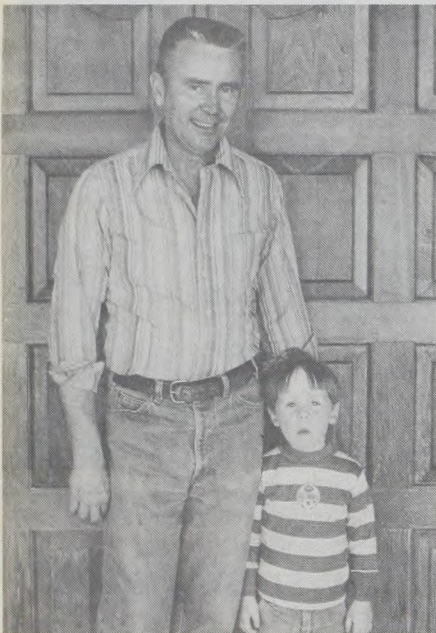

Since buying this farm and moving here in 1975, Don has been continually working to improve his land and control the erosion problems. His objective was to have available forage for his livestock on a year around basis. To accomplish this goal, Don has cross fenced, planted improved grasses, smoothed in gullies and constructed for livestock water.

Don has 83 acres of cropland on which he grows small grains and forage sorghums. Besides the grazing that this provides, Don is able to harvest enough hay to feed his cattle and sell some excess hay each year. A good job of leaving crop residues has prevented any erosion from occurring on the cropland.

Don rotates his cattle among five pastures of improved grasses which supply adequate forage through the growing season. Two pastures of Renner Lovegrass begin producing green grass in late February or early March. In May the other three pastures, of coastal and common Bermuda grass, begin to provide grazing. Don usually has grazing on Bermuda grass or Lovegrass until November or December when his small grains are ready for grazing. He renovates his Bermuda grass each year to get better infiltration of rainfall and fertilizers.

Don has shown a desire to make this management system work and has accomplished what he set out to do. He has proven that by taking care of the soil, it will return to us what we ask of it without damage from erosion.

KGAF is media winner

Radio Station KGAF located in Gainesville has done an outstanding job of assisting the Upper Elm-Red Soil and Water Conservation District in promoting soil and water conservation through the years.

KGAF, as a part of their day-to-day programming features two hours of special Agricultural Activities. Included in this are conservation related stories and activities related to our natural resources. Other special programs include the Martindale Morning Farm Show and High Noon Farm Report with the County Extension Agent. With an eye for the Agricultural community KGAF features daily farm programming offering market reports, dairy reports, the Texas Farm Bureau report, Texas Dept. of Agriculture report and local market reports.

In addition, KGAF includes coverage of special events that are of interest to north Texas and Southern Oklahoma with coverage of the Fort Worth Livestock Show, Cooke County FFA and 4-H Show, and yearly participation in Conservation Week Activities. They also assisted in the taping of the USDA Public Participation Meeting in 1979.

KGAF does an excellent job on all Agricultural activities but places special emphasis on Conservation. Throughout the year, an average of thirty special conservation stories are broadcast. During Soil Conservation Week, News releases pertaining to the winners in the Annual Awards Program are given publicity. Businesses sponsor conservation advertising during the week which gives a big boost to the Upper Elm-Red SWCD.

KGAF has been an active sponsor of the Awards Program now for 33 years. The personnel of the station give their time any hour to make special announcements concerning farm meetings, tours, conferences, etc. In fact, the publicly known DJ, Pat Bolin has narrated the slide program for the annual Awards Program for four years.

KGAF provided hazardous storm and flooding information during the flood in October of 1981. Above and beyond the call of normal duty was performed by Pat Bolin and Tom Carson. After both being flooded out of their homes, they came to the station at 3 a.m. October 13th and started broadcasting flood conditions in the county and city.

KGAF is owned by First Four IV Media, Richard Klement is President, Robert Mosman is Executive VP and Tom Carson is General Manager. The station includes a 100,000 Watt FM Operation with offices in Gainesville and Denton. In addition to the 250 Watt daytime station which operates in Simucast with KGAF FM.

The radio station has been a booster for Soil and Water Conservation in the Upper Elm-Red District. They plan to continue to take the lead in promoting conservation. They have been of great benefit to the Upper Elm-Red SWCD and the Soil Conservation Service. We take great pride in acknowledging them for the News Media Award this year.

West Texas plants may be fuel source

COLLEGE STATION — Texas A&M University plant scientists say vast quantities of land in semi-arid regions of West Texas may be used for mass cultivation of plants to provide additional sources of fuel.

After screening more than 2,900 Texas plants for biomass energy potential, the researchers say at least four and perhaps as many as 12 varieties of weeds that grow in the Southwest promise potential as sources of fuel.

"We're primarily looking at crops that could have multiple uses," says Dr. Ron Newton, a researcher with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Texas A&M assessing the kinds of plants that would be best suited for energy conversion.

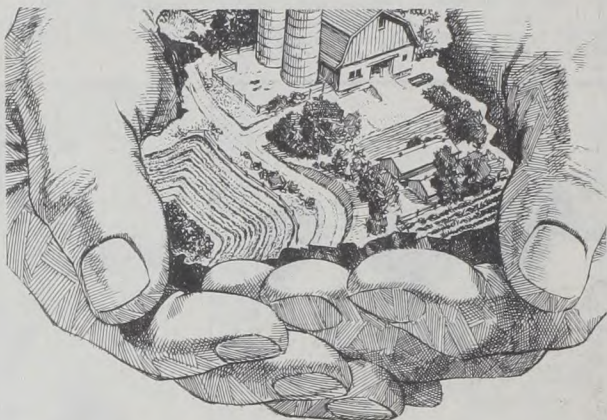

Among the plants found as good candidates for energy conversion are kochia, Johnson grass, saltbush and mesquite.

Cross-fences divide the John Ed Hinton Ranch North of Nocona into 14 pastures to aid in grass and livestock management. Hinton is the Outstanding Conservation Rancher in Zone 2 of the Upper Elm-Red SWCD.

Hinton is Zone 2 champ

Beef efficiency, ease of management, and soil retention are the main objectives of the Hinton ranch near Nocona, Texas. Founded in 1872 by Great-Grandfather, James M. Grayson, the Hinton ranch consists of approximately 1200 acres along the Red River in North Montague County. John Ed and Carol Hinton, owners of the ranch, are the 1981 Outstanding Conservation Ranchers in Zone II of the Upper Elm-Red Soil & Water Conservation District. Hinton moved back to the ranch in 1958. Since then, 243 acres have been sprigged to Coastal Bermuda; 70 acres planted to K.R. Bluestem; 120 acres to Kleingrass; and 50 acres to Lovegrass. To round out this diversified operation,

456 acres are maintained in native bluestem ranges and 195 acres are planted to wheat each year. Purebred Hereford cattle utilize the forage produced by Hinton. He stated, "Purebreds sell good in up and down markets." Hinton runs about 160 mother cows and keeps 40 heifers each year for replacements. The ranch is divided into 14 pastures to help Hinton manage his grass and cattle better. The Coastal Bermuda is grazed during the growing season. Excess Coastal is baled and fed during dry periods and thru the winter. Fertilizer is applied twice each year depending on forage needs. Hinton states, "Coastal is like a big engine, it produces a lot if you feed it a lot." Weeds are controlled annually. Mesquites have been controlled in most of the pastures but followup individual grubbing is required each summer. All brush has been left along creeks to provide summer shade and winter protection. Four tanks and four wells have been dug to provide livestock water. These water sources, along with some water pipelines, aid in allowing Hinton to rotate and distribute a grazing pattern. Another series of pipelines is planned. Existing gullies have been shaped and vegetated by Hinton and one grade stabilization structure has been built to control erosion where the water enters the creek. Wheat is planted on the flat fields. Cattle graze the fields until March when grass starts coming. The cattle are then moved to other pastures allowing the wheat to be cut for seed. Hinton uses different varieties of wheat. This year he planted NK 812, TAM 105, and TAM 101. Due to the slope of the land and residue maintenance, erosion is almost nonexistent on the wheat fields. John Ed and Carol Hinton have done an outstanding job of improving this ranch and controlling soil erosion. They will be recognized at the Upper Elm-Red SWCD Banquet on May 6 at Nocona as the 1981 Outstanding Conservation ranchers of Zone II.

Ford tractor announces new models

Area farmers now have an opportunity to get a first-hand look at Ford's new Series 10 line of 30-90-horsepower tractors at Gainesville Ford Tractor according to Ed Driggers, spokesperson for the equipment dealership in Gainesville. "The product of a $100 million five-year development program Series 10 represents Ford's most significant model change in more than 15 years," explains Driggers. "These hard-working tractors boast redesigned diesel engines for more pulling power and improved fuel economy when compared to prior models, new optional synchromesh transmissions, and smoother, more precise hydraulic controls, not to mention Ford's well-known durability. The improved engines and transmissions on Series 10 are the result of 30,000 hours of engineering tests and 15,000 hours of field tests." Driggers says Ford engineers have equipped some Series 10 diesel tractors with up to 12.5 percent more PTO horsepower than previous models by increasing engine displacement an average 5 to 10 percent. "The horsepower improvements boost each tractor's work capacity, and permit the use of higher gears with fewer downshifts for more efficient fuel usage than before," he points out. "The new diesel engines also offer more pulling power in reserve, which means better start-up from a standstill and less shifting." Other engine improvements built into specific Series 10 models include new controlled-flow fuel-injector nozzles, improved fuel injection pumps, and new cylinder head designs that improve fuel economy and reduce carbon deposits, observes Driggers. Driggers notes that estimated fuel economy, based on the University of Nebraska test rating system at maximum horsepower, has been increased on some models to 14.5 percent compared to the corresponding models being replaced. Another brand new feature available as an option on Series 10 tractors is a new, Ford-designed synchromesh 8x4 transmission. "The Synchromesh transmission permits clash-free shifting, especially during downshifts, and is ideal for use when transporting implements and wagons," says Driggers. "Synchromesh design also allows more even ground speed steps between gears, especially in the field-working range, for more efficient matching of implements and loads." Driggers claims that by redesigning the independent power take-off components on some three- and all four-cylinder diesel tractors, Ford also has significantly upgraded implement control, reduced the potential for PTO shaft and implement shock, and made hoop-up easier. "Four-cylinder Series 10 models offer such hydraulic system improvements as a new power lift with automatic flow control, greater adjustment sensitivity, and a controlled drop rate to help curb implement damage," he continues. "Smoother and more precise implement control than before is aided by up to four closed-center remote valves."

Local farmers interested in further information, or an on-the-farm demonstration, are invited to call Ed Driggers at 665-6741, or drop by the dealership anytime. "There's a mid-size Series 10 tractor to meet the individual work needs of every farmer," he promises.

Collin Gaines is No. 1 wildlife friend

Collins Gaines was raised in Dallas and became an avid lover of wildlife as a boy through his excursions to the countryside to hunt. Thus, he became acutely aware of the need to preserve habitats for wildlife.

Mr. Gaines has the reputation of going "all out" at whatever goal he is pursuing and the development of wildlife habitat on his Montague County ranch is a good example of this.

When he purchased his 625 acre ranch, he made an intensive effort to learn how to develop the best wildlife habitat possible. His main interests were quail, turkey, and deer. He contacted the Soil Conservation Service as well as many private consultants for assistance in his effort to learn the utmost in achieving his goal. He also read all the books and articles he could find on the subject.

One of his first tasks was to identify all of the native plants on the ranch so he could preserve the useful ones. He collected 75 samples and had them identified by the Herbarium at Southern Methodist University.

The first year, 1977, Mr. Gaines began clearing brush to make more open areas for quail habitat. He also planted several hundred woody plants such as Russian olive, mountain ash and American bittersweet. A 15 acre lake was constructed for fishing and wildlife watering. It has been stocked with catfish, bass and bream. Several smaller ponds have been constructed on the ranch for wildlife and livestock watering.

Reed canary grass was planted on the large dam to stop the erosion caused by wave action. 45 acres of brushland was treated in strips and wildlife patterns last year with the chemical, Graslan to open up the land to better forage production for deer. Mr. Gaines is being careful to preserve enough brush for deer cover and their travel lanes.

Each year he plants a bottomland field in small grain for winter grazing for the deer and allows the grain to mature making a good food source for the quail, dove and other birds.

Several small plots of sesbania have been established around the ranch for bird food.

Mr. Gaines is extra proud of the turkey flock on his land and has placed several feeders out for them.

In 1979, Mr. Gaines planted 12 acres of open land to a mixture of Illinois bundleflower, prairie senna, and Englemann daisy.

Mr. Gaines has not stocked his ranch with cattle but leases it at elected short intervals to graze down the tall native grasses. This is to improve the range needed by the quail. This also allows desirable forbs used by deer to increase.

It is very rare, indeed, to find anyone, anywhere, to make as much effort working for the preservation of Texas wildlife as Mr. Gaines. His work should be publicized to encourage others to follow suit.

Meteorologist says weather gets bum rap

COLLEGE STATION — The weather has been given a bum rap for causing many health problems and it's unfair, says a Texas A&M University meteorologist.

Having the weather to blame for bad health or discomfort allows people to absolve themselves of part of the responsibility, while providing a convenient scapegoat when things occur that are not easily explained, he said.

Fact is, said Driscoll, there is simply no medical evidence to support such claims, even though many people believe certain illnesses such as cardiovascular and respiratory ailments are strongly tied to normal changes in the weather.

While admitting there are well-established links between health and extremely hot or cold conditions "outside the comfort zone," Driscoll said no hard evidence exists to back up the belief that routine changes in the weather bring on such illnesses.

This large mouth bass, 6 lb. and 23 in. was caught in a floodwater retarding reservoir by the late Al Fleitman on the Grant Ranch. The lake was stocked with bass fingerlings on June 22, 1955, and the fish was caught 2 1/2 years later. SCS photo was taken on Dec. 17, 1957.

"...this land was made for you and me..."

by Jeff Augustine, Denison

In an elementary school in the early stages of the decade of the 1980's a span of ten years that proved to be slightly detrimental to the environment, off-pitch voices could be heard during second grade music lessons. These voices could be heard throughout the halls. They could be heard throughout the playground, as the wind rustled in the trees.

"...this land was made for you and me..." Various choruses of patriotic Americana in vocal octaves were directed by a cheery, pudgy man in his mid-fifties. These kids were all aligned on the risers, dirt still on the knees of their trousers from recess.

"...from sea to shining sea..." These youngsters were taught well and educated not to be wasteful with their natural resources but why should they? The land and the waves and the trees and the birds will be around forever and ever. Always had, always will.

In an elementary school under a protective dome in the early stages of the second decade of a brand new century, off-pitch voices could be heard. They could be heard throughout the halls, but there was no playground. There was no dirt on the knees of these kids' trousers. There were no trees through which the wind blew. The ancestors of these second graders had not done what they were taught. They had been wasteful. The water had turned rancid and the soil had lost its gift of life.

The people of earlier generations had never saved what was most important. Leisure time was thought to be most valuable, but how can a day at the lake, a picnic in the woods (not excluding the ants), flying a homemade kite in a grassy meadow be enjoyable without a lake that doesn't stink with contamination, without trees to make up a forest, without a fresh breeze brought by the natural process of our ecological counterparts implanted in nutrients of soil.

"...this land was made for you and me..." "Excuse me, sir," one of the kids inquired, "but when do we get to see this 'land'?"

Jackie and Rose Newton of Whitesboro, have been selected for the 1981 Outstanding Conservation Farmer award in Zone 4 of the Upper Elm-Red Soil and Water Conservation District.

Newtons win in Zone Four

Jackie Newton, Route 3, Whitesboro, has been selected as the Outstanding Conservation Farmer in Zone IV of the Upper Elm-Red Soil and Water Conservation District.

Jackie and his wife, Rose, purchased this 113 acre farm in 1967 and began immediately to carry out a soil and water conservation program.

One of the first jobs was to shape the gullies on this farm. Approximately one acre of gullies was shaped and sodded to Coastal Bermuda grass. In all, 90 acres of Coastal was sodded for pasture and hay production.

Jackie planted 22 acres of Bahia grass and had a good stand going but the drought killed it out. Last year he reseeded this area to Kentucky 31 Fescue grass.

After the pastureland became established to grass, the farm was cross fenced using 4250 feet of cross fencing to make 4 pastures. Three farm ponds were constructed to provide livestock water for the pastures. All of the pastures have been over-seeded with yuchi arrowleaf clover to provide additional grazing and hay production.

Jackie and Rose run a cow calf operation on their farm and practice good pasture management to keep their grass producing. They also harvest hay from the excess growth of the pastures during peak production months.

Jackie and Rose live on this farm in a nice brick home which they built with their own labor.

The Upper Elm-Red Soil and Water Conservation District takes this opportunity to congratulate Jackie and Rose Newton for their outstanding accomplishments in soil and water conservation on their farm.

Franklin is Zone 5 champ

Morris Franklin of Howe is the Outstanding Conservationist for Zone V of the Upper Elm-Red Soil and Water Conservation District for 1981. Zone V includes all of Grayson county.

Franklin, a full time farmer is the owner and operator of a 226 acre milo, wheat and beef cattle farm. He has lived and farmed in the Tom Bean and Howe communities all his life. He purchased the first 111 acres of his farm in 1946 and the remaining 115 acres in 1958.

In 1951 Franklin became a cooperater with the district and with the assistance of technicians of the Soil Conservation Service developed a complete conservation plan for his entire farm.

Conservation practices carried out by Franklin on his cropland include three grassed waterways consisting of 11 acres, 55,000 feet of gradient terraces, 7800 feet of parallel terraces, one grade stabilization structure, a conservation cropping system, contour farming and crop residue management on 141 acres.

Conservation practices carried out on pastureland include 71 acres of pasture planting, two farm ponds for livestock water, 12,190 feet of cross-fencing and pasture management on 82 acres. Pasture management includes proper stocking, rotation grazing, weed control and fertilizing.

Franklin was one of the first farmers in the district to use sweet clovers in his crop rotation to build up his soil.

A widower since 1976, Franklin has two daughters and one son, all married. David, the son, a Grayson County farmer, is also recognized as an outstanding farmer.

This picture, taken in Aug. 1968, shows Tony Waterscheid adjusting the float valve on his watering trough. When he constructed the new pond in the background he installed a steel pipe through the dam and connected it with 260 feet of plastic pipe leading to the concrete trough. The system provides a good quality of fresh, clean water for livestock of two pastures.

FB group in Japan to confer on US farm exports

In a telephone report from Tokyo, the president of the Texas Farm Bureau said Wednesday there is great concern in Japan about Congress limiting imports of Japanese products into the United States.

Carroll Chaloupka of Dalhart is one of the farm leaders from 24 states on a trade mission to Japan. The group of state Farm Bureau presidents told Japanese industrialists and agricultural representatives in Tokyo that $15 steaks and $20 cantaloupes in Japanese markets ought to make them reconsider trade barriers in agriculture that are "unwise and self-defeating."

Chaloupka told the TFB headquarters Wednesday that rural areas control a majority of the members of the Japanese Diet, and that they have been largely successful thus far in restricting competing imports into Japan.

The U.S. delegation, led by American farm Bureau Federation President Robert Delano, was in Tokyo for a six-day mission to try to influence a relaxation of Japanese trade barriers against agricultural imports.

Texas is one of the leading states in farm exports, but depressed prices have created a severe crisis on the farm.

Half of all cotton is exported. Cotton prices are down 39 percent from a year ago. Two-thirds of the rice crop is sold abroad, and the price is 34 percent below last year. Feed grains are also big export crops, and their price is down substantially.

Chaloupka said his group met with a group of food purveyors and were warmly received.

"They're on our side," Chaloupka said. "They know of the high quality and reasonable price on our products—including beef."

Chaloupka said the visit by the American farmers had attracted national media attention in Japan. "We had one of the largest news conferences I've ever seen, and our story is getting out across the country here," he said. The Dalhart beef and grain producer said in an interview for Japanese television that Japanese beef producers would benefit from competition—that the market could be expanded to take American beef.

"We're going to have to keep pressure on the Japanese government," Chaloupka said. "They've got to know we have no alternative but to go to Congress to get restrictions on Japanese imports unless we are treated fairly in their markets. They've got to let us compete over here. They've got to make some concessions."

The U.S. farm leaders found wide agreement with proposals to reduce protectionism against U.S. farm products from representatives of Japan's auto and electronic industries, but have met with opposition from agricultural interests.

The Japanese agriculturalists argue that current import restrictions are necessary to help Japan build its own agricultural sufficiency and to reduce a current over-production in rice supplies.

AFBF President Delano, a diversified farmer from Virginia, argued that reduced trade barriers would be as beneficial to Japan's economy as to our own. He noted quota and tariff restrictions that have driven prices of beef steaks to $15 and more in Japan that consumers in Hong Kong can buy for $4.50.

He told his Japanese conferees that full access to U.S. farm markets would meet substantial consumer demands in Japan now unfulfilled because of high prices and lack of product availability. And he warned that continued protectionism in Japan would lead to counter-productive pressures on Japanese exports in the U.S.

Delano called for a balanced long-range trade policy in the interests of both trading partners.

"There is a relationship between the export of Japanese cars and television sets," he said, "and the import of American beef and fruit. Japanese cars are quality products, competitively priced. We say the same about our farm products."

Another group of Farm

Bureau state leaders will embark May 22 on a trip to Brussels and Geneva. The week-long visit will include meetings with European community officials concerning trade barriers against U.S. farm products.

Expansion of export markets are part of Farm Bureau's campaign to improve the farm income picture. Other points in the plan include supporting completion of the economic recovery program to halt inflation and bring down interest rates, and avoidance of government programs which result in dumping surplus farm products on the market.

From the Beauty of the Land, comes the dream of the future.

Greenhouse farming has promising future

AUSTIN—Imagine a time 20 years hence when the cost of transporting fresh farm produce has become so expensive that trucks are no longer making long trips. To take up the slack, Mom and Pop greenhouses have sprung up around population centers. With the help of solar energy, they grow hydroponic vegetables nearly year-round. Shoppers buy directly from the greenhouses or from supermarkets that select their produce from several local operations. Greenhouses have not supplanted conventional farming, but they have filled a gap.

Dr. John Larsen, secretary of the Texas Greenhouse Growers Council and a plant nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in College Station, believes that the picture just sketched is not far-fetched. At the turn of the century every major city had its truck farms. The area around Cleveland, Ohio, for example, once farmed 400 acres inside greenhouses. Larsen thinks solar energy can supply one-third to one-half the energy needs of greenhouses in the South.

"If we do it right, we probably can use 90 percent solar," he said. "There's no reason it can't be done in Texas. The cost of a truck rolling from California to the East Coast is $5,000-$6,000 and going up all the time. I think the greenhouse business will come back."

Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown would like to see that happen. In fact, he is considering a pilot program near a large city that would supply year-round production. The Texas Department is also working with greenhouse growers in their local marketing efforts.

"Vegetable supplies from Mexico are already diminishing, and we expect them to continue," said Brown. "We are going to have to make up for that reduction in some way."

About 50 acres of tomatoes, lettuce and cucumbers are raised inside Texas greenhouses. Despite its sound, 50 isn't bad in the world of greenhouse growers. California, the country's production leader, raises only about 60. Larsen feels production possibilities are good. Under optimum conditions a 3,000 square foot greenhouse can produce 800 tomato plants yielding 30 pounds per plant per year. One tomato grower has done even better. He averaged 57 pounds per plant or 30,000 pounds of tomatoes in a July-May growing season.

"We could do the same thing outside if the growing season were long," said Larsen. "Of course, it isn't."

In Texas approximately 100 growers belong to the greenhouse council. This

"The possibilities look encouraging," said Brown. "One couple in Azle is selling more than 2,000 heads of Bibb lettuce every week in the Dallas-Fort Worth area. The demand is so great they are tripling their greenhouse capacity. There is no reason why other professional growers, using modern methods, can't do the same thing."

Good Job!

Soil is Sacred

From generation to generation the soil passes on constantly serving the unchangeable purpose of providing food and fiber for human beings.

In the eternal plan the person who holds the title to the land is not an absolute owner with a right to use it as he wishes. Rather, he is a steward charged with a duty to keep and improve it to the best of his ability and to pass it on in better condition than he received it.

Honeybee is gardener's friend

Honeybees play a key role in pollinating Texas' $100 million crop of cucurbits—watermelons, cucumbers, cantaloupes, pumpkins, squash and gourds. About 66,000 acres of cucurbits are grown annually in the state, both commercially and in backyard gardens in every county, says Tom Longbrake, horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Cucurbits need insect help to transfer pollen from male to female flowers," says Longbrake. "That's where honeybees come in. Most cucurbit flowers are open for only one day. Since honeybees account for about 85 percent of all flower pollination, their importance to cucurbits is vital," he emphasizes. Only female flowers can produce fruit, but to do so each female flower must receive pollen from a male flower, explains the horticulturist. Once transferred, the pollen fertilizes the immature seed, causing it to be fertile and grow. Unfertilized fruit abort when not pollinated. Longbrake recommends one strong hive of honeybees to pollinate the closer row-spacing of cucumbers, squash and cantaloupes. Pumpkins and watermelons may get by with a strong hive for every four or five acres. Bees may need to visit each open female flower five to ten times to adequately pollinate it. So skipping on the number of bees for pollination can affect the potential crop yields. "An experienced beeman will be able to advise a grower on the number and placement of hives for an adequate fruitset," says the horticulturist. "Unlike some other plant types, cucurbits receive little help from the wind because of sticky pollen. Thus they must rely on insects for adequate pollination. "Beemen can get along without cucurbit farmers, but cucurbit farmers cannot get along without bees," emphasizes Longbrake.

A&M has largest increase in scholars

COLLEGE STATION — Texas A&M has the largest net increase in number of National Merit Scholars in the country this year, and its number of new National Merit Scholars is exceeded only by Harvard and Radcliffe combined, reveals an assessment of listings in the annual report of the National Merit Scholarship Corp. Overall, Texas A&M moved up to 12th among the nation's 3,000 colleges and universities in enrollment of National Merit Scholars, generally considered the brightest young men and women coming out of the nation's high schools. "We are pleased with our ranking and hope to attract even more of these students to Texas A&M, where our faculty and facilities offer exceptional opportunities," said Dr. Frank E. Vandiver, Texas A&M president. "Every quality institution in the country is vying for outstanding students, and we are grateful to our alumni and other supporters for assisting us in offering highly competitive scholarships to attract these students," Vandiver added. "They do not come here — or go anywhere else — just because of the value of the scholarship; they come because they can get a quality education, but scholarship considerations are usually a definite consideration."

Wylie Lewis wins big truck driver's contest

Wylie Lewis was the big winner in truck driving contests sponsored by American Trucker magazine and Station WBAP at Green Valley Race City in North Richland Hills Sunday. In addition to first place trophies and merchandise prizes in three separate contests he won another trophy and more merchandise for best all around trucker plus a trophy on the truck.

Lewis received the top trophy in the drag race by completing a quarter mile in 21.6 seconds and reaching a speed of 56.89 mph. He also led the serpent race, a zig zag route through an obstacle course, completing it in 48.9 seconds.

Next he competed in a backing, which included intricate maneuvers, again claiming the number 1 trophy. And finally for best record in three events he was judged the best all around performer. Along with the skill related performances he also won the beautiful truck trophy for the cab over tractor class.

Merchandise prizes included certificates for an $80 Western Hat, a $400 pair of Nocona boots and two western belts.

4-H club news and meetings

The Muenster 4-H club met on April 13 at 3:30 p.m. in the cafeteria of Muenster Public School. Members enjoyed recreation, songs and refreshments before the business meeting.

Money for the omelet rodeo was collected. The event will be held in the Gainesville Community Center, 5 to 8 p.m. Crafts were collected to be displayed at the County Round-up in Era. Members signed up for a dance project and a record book project. 4-Hers were reminded the election of officers is scheduled for May.

FOLLOW OUR FREE ADVICE ABOUT AIR CONDITIONERS. AND WE'LL THROW IN A BONUS CHECK.

Mr. Jones' new three ton central air conditioning system has an EER/SEER of 8.5, so he earns $40 per ton, or a total of $120. To find out what installing a new air conditioning system could be worth to you call your Energy Experts at TP&L.

We're TP&L. And we don't even sell air conditioners, but we do have an air conditioning program which could save you money. Here's how it works.

When you're buying a central air conditioning system, look for the ones which have an energy rating of 8.5 or higher. This rating is called an Energy Efficiency Ratio or Seasonal Energy Efficiency Ratio. EER or SEER for short. These efficient units use a lot less electrical power. And that saves you a lot of money. But there's still more.

IT PAYS TO LISTEN TO TP&L.

That's right. We'll pay you a bonus check just for following our free advice and installing a high-efficiency unit. Cutting down on peak load (that means high usage in demanding times) will help save us operating costs, so we pass that along to you.

To find out more about TP&L's BONUS program give our experts a call or check with your local dealer. Remember, saving energy saves you money. And in this case, it could make you money, too.

German Fun Run tops 3250

German Fun Run of 1982, like the Germanfest, went over the top with plenty to spare. With an ambitious goal of 3000, almost 50 percent more than last year's attendance, the event ballooned to some 3250 registrants plus an estimated 250 more who joined the run without signing up. This ranks the event as the third largest fun run of the state, according to Co-chairman Ronnie Hess.

First to finish the 15 km race was Ben Motri, a native of Kenya, Africa, now attending NTSU. His time was 46 minutes 20 seconds, a minute less than last year's time for Hector Ortiz of Fort Worth, who won the race the past two years.

Ortiz, the winner of 1980 and 81 fun runs, was second in this race, finishing a half minute under his previous record.

The No. 3 man was Juan Zetina who shares with Moturi the distinction of being in the first thirty of the Boston Marathon.

Winners of the ladies division were 1, Sue Moon of Rowlett; 2, Kerry Kinney of Dallas; and 3, Katey Angel of Roanoke.

First of the Muenster finishers were John Bartush and Janet Hess. Janet was a double winner, being first in her age group as well as first for Muenster.

Other Muenster ladies winning trophies were Lanella Sicking, Tonya Fisher and Darlene Hess. Also Mike Dangelmayr was No. 7 in the 5 km race.

Winner of the 5 km men's division was Tom Vernon Dallas.

Oldest finishers were Nancy Raitz, 52, of Arlington and Floyd L. Shater, Youngest finishers were Mary Joe Witherspoon of Richardson and John Brady.

John Bartush was the first Muenster finisher in the 1982 German Fun Run.

At right Chairman Ronnie Hess makes a double award to his wife, Janet, for a double run. She was the first female finisher and also the No. 1 finisher in her age group.

140 participate in first Germanfest bike rally

Like several other events of Germanfest, the brand new bike rally, conducted for the first time this year, had a gratifying response. According to a report from Monica Hess, it had 140 signers and, in spite of discouraging weather Saturday morning, 119 of them reported for action. 59 finished in the 100 km ride and 50 in the 35 km ride.

Results were listed as follows in the long ride. Jim Smith Denton and Robert Jenkins of Sherman, tied for first with 3 hours 5 min, and Allen Miller, Wichita Falls third with 3 hr. 15 min.

In the 35 km ride it was Peter Osterrath of Lewisville 1st, 1 hr; Mark Muth of Wichita Falls 2nd, Steve Wolf, Duncanville, third.

Results of other contests were recorded as follows. Beards, Saturday: Sexiest, Jerry Davidson, Carrollton; most barbaric, Ray Wyatt, Gainesville; most unusual, John Dennis, Whitesboro; longest, Roger Parkhill Gainesville; best groomed, George Carlton, Denison.

Beards, Sunday: sexiest, Jay Brown, Whitesboro; Most barbaric, Charles Wilson, Pottsboro; best groomed, Mike Southerland, Denton, Most unusual, Al Vogel, Muenster; longest, Ray Wyatt, Gainesville, (winner the past 3 years, also most barbaric in Saturday contest).

Smile contest, Saturday: biggest, Robin Smith, Sherman; most provocative, Diane Sutherland, Los Angeles; shyest, Katie Scott, Gainesville.

Smile contest, Sunday: Deana Drake, Lindsay; most provocative, Dana Mzingo, Gainesville; shyest, Nancy Waggoner, Grand Prairie.

Men's leg contest: hairiest, Martin Martinez, Dallas; boniest, Jimmy Marshall, Oklahoma City; sexiest, Julio Cruz, Panama, Central America.

Motorcycle Rodeo: Class A, o-126cc, Dough Hermes, Lindsay; Class B. 126-200cc Larry Eberhart, Muenster; Class C. 200-500cc, Danny Ball, Denison.

DJ operation explained to kids

The 5th and 6th grades of Muenster public School enjoyed an unusual treat last week Wednesday when Mike Jones, DJ of Radio Station KGAF, FM 94 1/2, of Gainesville visited the school. He answered their questions about his work in radio, and about being a DJ and an auctioneer; and demonstrated some of his equipment, and gave a demonstration of his auctioneering ability.

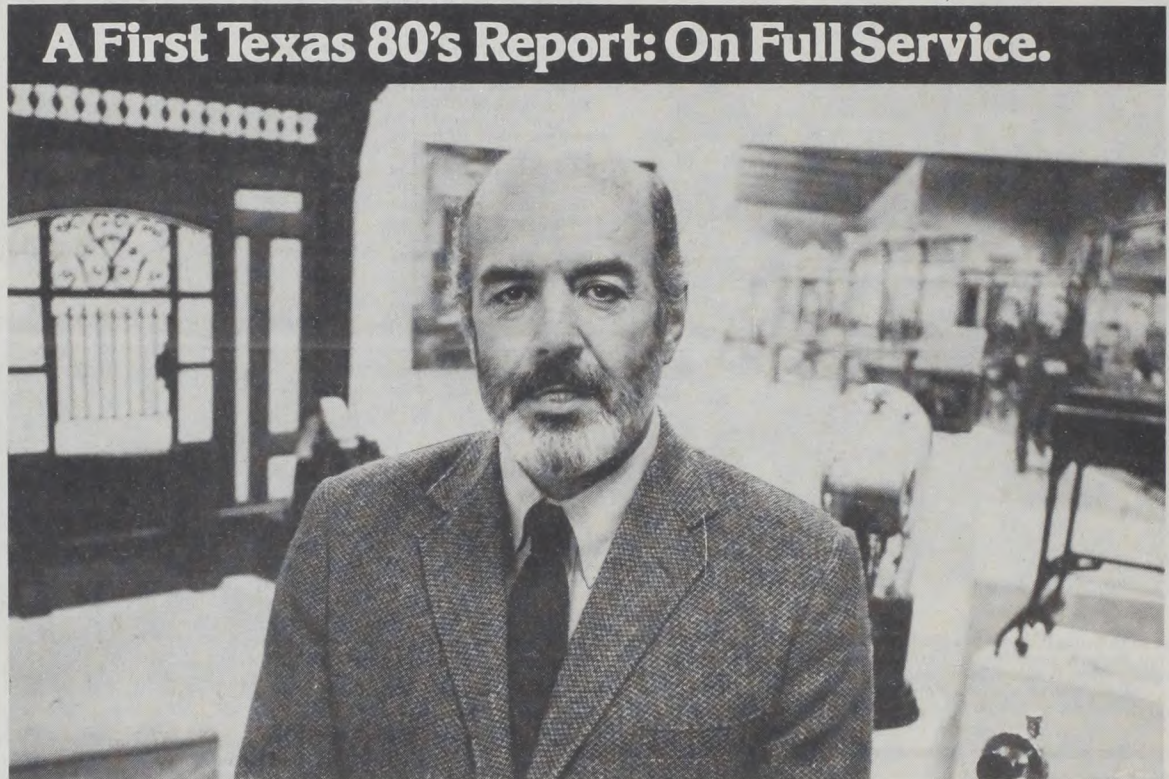

He told the students why a radio station will suddenly go off the air, how lightning damages equipment, and what must be done to resume operation quickly. "Time lost off the air is very expensive", he said.

He also discussed "talk shows" on radio, on records or tapes, and commercials on tapes.

Jones presented three records to each student, gave them his autograph and also gave the class several samples of news tapes.

Students of the 5th and 6th grades presented a banner, "Welcome, Mike Jones," signed by all members of the two classes. He responded by promising to hang the banner above his desk at the station.

About 60 students attended the program. Marian Russom, MPS teacher arranged the program as a special treat. Meredith McDaniel reported on the program.
