Jake Biffle Jr. elected director of Elm-Red Conservation Dist.

Jake Biffle Jr. of Myra is the new director of Zone 3 of the Upper Elm Red Soil Conservation District. He succeeds J.H. Bayer who has been the zone director for 15 years and chairman of the conservation district for 11 years.

The area Biffle represents includes Lindsay, Myra, Muenster and Rosston. He has been in farming and ranching for 50 years, occupies a 220 acre grain and livestock farm south of Myra. He is looking forward to serving his neighbors and friends of the area.

Since Biffle's election, the board has elected Clyde Hale of Sherman as chairman succeeding J.H. Bayer.

Hale has been director of Zone 5 of the district for nine years, eight of which he has served as secretary of the board. Other officers of the Elm Red District were elected as follows: James Brite Jr. of Bowie, vice chairman, Andrew Enderby of Valley View, secretary, Jake Biffle, Jr. of Myra and Bob Beckham of Nocona, members.

The purpose of the Upper Elm-Red SWCD, with headquarters in Gainesville, is to promote sound soil and water conservation programs on farm and ranch lands within the district and to serve as a voice for farmers and ranchers on conservation matters and other issues affecting private property rights of landowners. The district board of directors coordinates the conservation efforts of various local, state and federal agencies and other organizations and has authority to enter into working agreements with these governmental agencies and private concerns to carry out its purposes.

All conservation programs managed by the district are of a voluntary nature to the landowner or operator.

School Board okays new building plans

Trustees of the Muenster Independent School District in sessions last Thursday night approved the floor plan and location of the proposed combination of science laboratory and classrooms.

Superintendent Charles Coffey said it will have five classrooms plus a science room including laboratory and lecture space. In addition there will be a science storage room, two rest rooms, a mechanical room and hall.

Its location is between the cafeteria and the homemaking department facing west, and the floor space will be 6,600 square feet. It will have no windows in the classrooms, only a few serving the hall area. And it will be centrally heated and cooled.

Superintendent Coffey said that construction will be of concrete tile with brick veneer. The color of brick will harmonize with those in other buildings of the school. He also stated that the building is intended to relieve present classroom crowding as well as to provide for possible future growth.

Floors of the science department and the entrance will be covered with vinyl tile, rest rooms will have ceramic tile, and the hall and classrooms will be carpeted.

The present schedule is to complete plans in time for hiring a contractor on Wednesday, Jan. 13. After that date the board hopes to have construction under way in a few weeks.

A report that never ceases to amaze us, and antagonize us, is that religious organizations of this and other nations are throwing their support behind the communist conspiracy to take over the world. It came out again just a few days ago in an AP dispatch from Geneva saying that the World Council of Churches has announced a gift of 587,000 to 46 groups in 17 countries to "combat acism."

A considerable portion of the grant was specified for South West Africa People's Organization (SWAPO) led by Marxist Sam Nujomo. The amount was $125,000, largest portion of the big giveaway, and the money's use is best indicated by revealing that SWAPO is a pro-Communist force currently trying to take over Namibia through terrorism. It has the support of the Cuban and Soviet military, a fact which it denies but was recently established in action against South Africa. Cubans and Russians were both killed in the fighting, leaving no doubt that they were there and on whose side.

The same policy has applied for years as WCC consistently supported the revolutionaries in trying to upset legitimate government. It happened in Nicaragua and El Salvador where news reporters were raving about the atrocities of legitimate government and the noble purpose of the challengers.

Well, it seems that one organization of the WCC has chosen not to go along with the deceit any more. Salvation Army, in a dispute last month about support for guerrilla movements, became the first affiliate to renounce its membership. Many of the other churches could serve God and country better by doing likewise. They render no service to God or country by backing the liberals who back the Reds.

Along this line it's pleasing to observe that Secretary of State Haig has a similar attitude toward the Soviets and Cubans for their part in disrupting civilization in a number of parts of the globe. He refers to extensive studies showing that the spread of bloody revolution throughout Latin America has long been Cuba's major export. It seems there is hardly a country, especially El Salvador, Argentina, Nicaragua, and Chile, that hasn't felt Cuba's sting, directly or indirectly, either agitating with its propaganda or mixing in the conflict.

Now that Somosa has been disposed of and the Sannistas are in charge, Nicaragua has the Cubans present with personnel and equipment to keep the Reds in power and to be available to other Reds asking for help. Latin America is concerned with the outlook, and so are thinking people of this country. President Reagan doesn't like the situation and he's anxious to have the public understand what's going on.

A tragic situation here is that we the people have been brainwashed by the liberal media which too often parrots the communist line. News manipulators tell us that the pro-Soviets are the good guys and the legitimate heads of countries are the villains, considering the vast array of such media materials as well as the character of the news sources, it's not surprising that the reports are doing vast damage.

President Reagan, for one, openly supports the other side. He knows the nature of communism and its goal of world domination. He has the official information to discover who is on what side in the big conflict. He knows whom we should support whether in an established continued on page 2...

Social Security, General Accounting office join forces

The Social Security Administration is redesigning its debt collection system to bring it into compliance with the joint General Accounting Office/Department of Justice standards for debt collection by Federal agencies. These Federal standards call for aggressive collection to recover all monies owed to Federal agencies. The standards are a significant departure from Social Security's current debt collection policies, but are necessary because of the growing losses on uncollected debts being experienced by many Federal agencies.

Most of the debt owned to the Social Security Administration results from Social Security, Supplemental Security Income, and Black Lung beneficiaries being paid more than they are due in monthly benefits. Although Social Security has been collecting outstanding debts, the more aggressive Federal collection standards are expected to result in a higher percentage of recovery.

The Federal standards offer several collection options. These options would permit Federal agencies to: Collect interest on all overdue debts and debts that are repaid in installments. Report overdue debts to commercial credit bureaus, and Use private collection agencies to collect overdue debts.

These options would supplement the collection method agencies currently use to collect debts.

Bavarian visitor gives Muenster top rating

Holger Goblirsch of Munich, Bavaria, had a delightful visit to Muenster last Saturday. As a staff member of Radio Bavaria, he is touring Texas for three weeks, particularly the rural German communities. He was fascinated, said he has never been on a more friendly tour and would like very much to bring his wife here on a vacation visit.

Goblirsch was accompanied by Brian Moses, a resident of Lake Kiowa, engaged in aircraft modifications in Dallas.

Good News

Psalms 100
Sing to the Lord, all the world!

Worship the Lord with joy; come before him with happy songs!

Acknowledge that the Lord is God. He made us, and we belong to him; we are his people, we are his flock.

Enter the Temple gates with thanksgiving; go into its courts with praise. Give thanks to him and praise him.

The Lord is good; his love is eternal and his faithfulness lasts forever.

Their guides here were Chamber of Commerce President Dick Ferber, Mayor Leo Hess and Chief of Police Helen Tompkins.

Principal stops on the way were Leonard Vogel's farm for a look at a beef cattle operation. An extra there was lots of German conversation with Len's wife, Crystal, a native of Germany.

Another stop was Leonard Reiter's dairy operation. Fortunately that happened at milking time giving the visitor the opportunity to see the neatness and efficiency of the modern parlor barn operation. The experience was a first for Goblirsch.

Also new to him was the Gary Hess herd of buffalo and a taste of buffalo being barbecued for Sunday's buffalo and Brahman barbecue dinner.

Principal landmarks identified in a tour of the town were Sacred Heart Church, the hospital, the community center, the schools, The Enterprise, and the cheese factory.

A planned visit to an oil rig had to be omitted because time ran out. Goblirsch is saving that until his visit to Tyler.

MHS dominates 8-A dream team

Muenster dominates this year's selections on the 8-A all-district teams. The list released by the district during the weekend names ten Hornets on the first team and eight on the second team plus three honorable mentions. government or the government which is striving to oust the other.

With this in mind it seems smart to back our president in all of his foreign policy. The signs point to him as someone who can get dependable information, with the judgment and integrity to choose the right policy.

Furthermore Reagan is fully aware that this business is dead serious. He knows and wants us to realize that the Communists actually intend to take over the world and have gone a long way toward reaching their goal. So, it's high time to get our resistance organized. America needs to come to the aid of countries which are struggling for their freedom. We need them for our eventual survival just as they need us now for their survival.

As regards Soviet and Cuban mischief all over the world, Secretary of State Alexander Haig thinks it would be a good idea to retaliate by various means. For instance, by disrupting supply lines to their soldiers in the African brush, or by cutting off travel to Cuba, or by using our influence to promote a boycott, or to further isolate Castro from the rest of the civilized world.

As it looks now, it's urgent for the President to organize all possible alliances for freedom and start serious work on a program of freedom's survival. Next the country needs to swing back to the right attitude, as during the World Wars. If statesmen and responsible people of the media will give it their best attention they can get public opinion headed in the right direction.

The incubation period for food poisoning, or Salmonellosis, varies from a few hours to several days. The Texas Department of Health offers tips on how to avoid the disease this holiday season.

Accent On Health

Don't have all your plans for this holiday season ruined with bad memories about food poisoning.

At the bottom of the pain and misery of what is commonly known as food poisoning is usually a bacterial infection called Salmonellosis. Infected animals and humans can be carriers and through their infected body discharges others may catch the disease.

Man may also be infected by eating improperly prepared or stored foods derived from animals suffering from Salmonellosis. The incubation period varies from a few hours to several days. The most common symptoms are vomiting, diarrhea, stomach cramps, chills and fever.

Last year 1,724 cases of Salmonellosis were reported in Texas. There is no way of knowing how many cases went unreported by people who thought they had a 12-hour virus. Through the end of October 1981, 1,703 cases of Salmonellosis were reported.

"Since Salmonella germs are endemic in poultry and pork and to a lesser extent in beef, these products should be thoroughly cooked," said Lenwood L. Scholtz, with the Food and Drug Division of the Texas Department of Health. "The adequate cooking of food is one of the most practical methods of preventing Salmonellosis."

Temperature is also an important factor. Bacteria in food can really multiply quickly at temperatures ranging from 45 to 140 degrees Fahrenheit — from cool to warm. "We recommend that food be kept below 45 degrees or above 140 degrees," Scholtz said.

"Keeping food just barely cool or warm doesn't help at all. Keep hot food hot and cold foods cold until they are

Texas Department of Health

Robert Bernstein, M.D.,

Scholtz warned about cross contamination. "Many cooks will slice up meat and vegetables on a cutting board with the same knife. Cooking the meat will destroy the bacteria, but it's possible the Salmonella germs will be transferred from both the knife and cutting board to the vegetables. Always wash a cutting board and knife with hot soapy water and rinse them well after cutting fresh meat," he said.

"Of course you should always wash your hands before preparing any food. But you also need to wash your hands after touching raw meat or poultry."

Salmonella germs aren't necessarily going to affect the smell or taste of food. You can't tell if meat is going to make you sick by just going by its taste and smell. If it does taste and smell a little funny, however, this usually does mean that the product has been held at a temperature good for the development of bacteria which could make you sick.

Looking Ahead

AMERICA'S LEADING INDICATOR

A Chicago banker recently referred to Britain as our "leading economic indicator." He stated that the U.S. is about where Britain was 20 years ago. If this analysis is correct, we have difficult days ahead for us. But it also means that we still have time to do something about it. There are important lessons for us to learn from the British tragedy.

The history of Socialism in Britain and elsewhere has clearly demonstrated that it is a hollow, bankrupt philosophy. Wherever it has been tried it has failed utterly to provide even bare economic security, let alone a paradise on earth. But aside from the economic miscarriage, aside from the material nonfulfillment of Socialism, even more damaging to humankind is what Socialism does to the spirit, the psyche, the soul of man.

In his work on Socialism, World in the Grip of an Idea, Dr. Clarence B. Carson, well-known historian and writer, described the effect of the ideology.

"The impact of the thrust toward socialism is to destroy the independence of the individual and leave him exposed to the power of government and the influence of whoever has it or will wield it. This is so because the thrust of socialism is to remove all the supports by which he may stand as an individual: the supports of a free society, of morality, of religion, of custom and tradition. The logic of this development is in the socialist idea."

The theoretical explanation of Dr. Carson has been borne out by the experience of the British people. As a consequence of the drift toward socialism a religious vacuum has developed in the country. Since the turn of the century, church attendance in Britain has steadily dropped. Fewer than seven percent of the British people will attend one religious service this year. Humanism has replaced the traditional Bible standard of morals in the hearts of many. Churches are closing almost daily. Many whose doors remain open could not pay utilities and upkeep on the buildings without governmental subsidies.

Congressional Comment

By Congressman

Charles W. Stenholm

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Last week the U.S. House of Representatives approved a record $197.4 billion defense appropriations bill. The same day, the President told the nation of his four-point arms reductions plan that he had suggested to the leaders of the Soviet Union.

I voted for the defense spending bill, that included appropriations for the B-1 bomber and the land-based MX missile. I also join the majority of my colleagues in the House in bi-partisanly supporting the President's START (Strategic Arms Reductions Talks) proposal.

On the surface it might seem a paradox to simultaneously support a record-breaking defense spending bill and a proposal to begin arms reductions discussions. But the message that must be clear to the Soviets is that the U.S. is serious in its resolve: We are ready to come to the negotiations table to talk about arms reductions that are critical for the future of world peace. We are also serious about coming to that negotiations table to begin those discussions from a position of strength.

The President's proposal included the following four key points:

- The U.S. was prepared to cancel its deployment of 572 modern cruise and Pershing-2 missiles in Western Europe if the Soviet Union dismantled its own medium-range nuclear missiles capable of hitting West European cities.

- The U.S. was prepared to open new negotiations on substantial reductions in U.S. and Soviet strategic arms and forces.

- The U.S. was prepared to achieve equality at lower levels of conventional forces maintained by NATO and the Soviet-led Warsaw Pact.

- The U.S. would renew a proposal for a conference to reduce the risks of a surprise attack by either side.

Initial reports of Soviet reaction were not encouraging. That in itself is no surprise. But we must remember that the Soviet Union is facing internal problems, both within the Warsaw Pact and within its own borders. Admitted failure of Soviet grain crops has, once again, sent the Soviets into the world market in search for food, at great expense to the national treasury. Worldwide attention has been drawn to discontent openly displayed by Poland and the inability to control the occupied territories in Afghanistan has put the Soviet bloc in an embarrassing strategic position.

On the other hand, the positive reception of the initiative from European leaders reflected their growing concerns over the future of nuclear arm buildups. Anti-nuclear protests have mounted in several European countries during the past few months, highlighted by the discovery of a Soviet nuclear armed submarine well within the 12-mile limit off Sweden.

Discovery of the sub dashed Soviet hopes of establishing a "nuclear-free zone" in the Nordic region. The incident also points out the need for caution in any negotiations with the Soviets. Their track record speaks for itself.

The world now looks to the Soviet leadership for a formal response to the arms reduction proposal. At the same time, the message sent to the world by the House November 18 should be clear: Past inequities in U.S.-Soviet defense capabilities will no longer be ignored. Any future negotiations must begin from a U.S. position of strength.

No effective means of teaching morality and respect for the individual has been found among those who deny the existence of a Supreme Being. As Rousseau said, "Liberty cannot live without virtue."

Writing on the subject of the recent riots in Britain in Human Events, Patrick Wall, a member of Parliament stated: "The truth is that liberalism as practiced for the last 20 years in family life, in education, by the churches and by Parliament, has undermined all forms of authority and self-discipline and has produced an urban society where the young are presented with great expectations but are personally unable to cope. They believe that the State owes them a good life even if they are not prepared to work for it. Because they have no family or religious roots, they resent all forms of authority and look on the police as their enemy."

Mr. Wall says that rioting youths are not so much to blame "as are those who led them up this blind alley. Too many clergymen or politicians, from genuine belief or from a desire to hold their congregations and to attract votes, have accentuated the rights of the individual and have neglected to mention the duties that are bound up with citizenship."

Will the "Second Battle for Britain" be won for democracy? Only time will tell. Will we profit from her example? We hope so!

Thanksgiving is more than a celebration of material blessings, though we as a nation have been richly blessed with a prosperity envied throughout the world. But it also is a time to be thankful for the spirit of giving and cooperation which has been so instrumental in the creation of our nation as we know it.

When the Pilgrims gathered in 1621 to give thanks for having survived their first harsh year on this shore, they were aware that they had endured only because they worked together against the elements.

This spirit of cooperation has continued throughout our history. In times of adversity, Americans always have been willing to share with those less fortunate. We also have a history of willingness to pull together to bring our nation through times of crisis. This has been true through wars, natural disasters, economic depression and many, many smaller but painful disruptions. It has been our ability not only to survive but also to grow through the crises we have faced that has made the United States strong and prosperous today.

Certainly, we still face many problems. Inflation, recession and international tensions fill the headlines daily. However, I am confident that the same resolve that has brought us this far will carry us through these problems as well.

This year, Thanksgiving has an added significance. We as Americans have come to realize that government cannot accomplish all things for all people. In trying to make government meet every worthwhile objective, we have pushed taxes and government deficits to the point that our very economic prosperity is threatened — and still not accomplished our goals because government simply is not the best vehicle for many of these objectives.

As we make the necessary retrenchments in government spending, we are maintaining the social safety network for the basic needs of those who cannot provide for themselves. Still, we need a resurgence of the traditional American philanthropic dedication to help take care of problems in each of our communities.

But let us not dwell excessively on our problems. In a world in which most people live in totalitarian states, we have freedom — freedom of expression, freedom of religion, freedom to live our lives as we see fit. In a world in which millions of people face starvation, we have largely succeeded in our war against hunger. In a world in which war and civil war plague nations from El Salvador to Iraq, we are at peace.

We still have a strong, productive economy. We still enjoy one of the highest standards of living in the world. We are diligently searching for ways to provide true peace in the world.

So this Thanksgiving 1981, let us be thankful for the blessings we have, and resolve to work together to make things even better for our nation, our communities and our families.

Need for calcium never stops

Need for calcium never stops

Grown-ups who think that milk is kid's stuff may be in for big trouble, says the Texas Medical Association (TMA). People of all ages need calcium in their daily diets, either in the form of milk or in other sources of the mineral.

Most of the body's calcium is stored in the teeth and bones, where it combines with phosphorus to form crystals which give strength and hardness. But calcium isn't just the stuff of strong bones. It also plays a role in the clotting of blood, and it's important in the contraction and relaxation of the heart. Calcium is also a vital link in nerve transmission, and an essential element in enzyme regulation.

The Food and Drug Administration states that the more calcium is needed, the more rapidly it is absorbed by the body. Children and especially adolescents, who are in a high growth period, have a greater need for calcium. Pregnant women and nursing mothers also have a high need for the nutrient. Certain conditions such as a healing broken bone, will require more calcium in order to replenish the body's storehouse of it.

Your need for calcium does not decrease with age. Only the speed with which calcium is absorbed by the body decreases. In fact, calcium may be needed in higher doses during midlife to prevent the occurrence of brittle bones (osteoporosis) in later life, according to Columbia University's Institute of Human Nutrition. Fortifying the bones with extra calcium at this time of life may make them less subject to fracture in old age.

Just how much calcium does a person normally need to take? The recommended daily allowances set by the FDA call for 1000 mg for adults and children over four (the equivalent of four cups of milk). Pregnant and lactating women need more calcium--1,300 mg (about five cups of milk).

Milk and milk products such as cheese, yogurt and ice cream are excellent sources of calcium. If you are allergic to milk, you can substitute calcium tablets for part of your requirement. Other non-milk sources of calcium are canned fish and edible bones, such as sardines and salmon. Green leafy vegetables (except spinach, beet greens and chard) are also good sources.

You may have to take a special effort to get enough calcium as an adult. Remember to include daily products or other sources of calcium in your daily diet.

Social Security...

Continued from page 1 may have to be changed to meet the Federal standards. Those standards require a series of letters using progressively stronger language as the first step in the debt collection process. And, a monthly bill for people who repay their debts in installments is also being considered as part of the revised collection process.

Social Security has established a high-level management panel to examine all options offered and to choose those options that will best suit Social Security's collection needs.

H2O holds pecan picking benefit

Twenty three H2O members participated in the pecan-picking fund raising event on Saturday, Nov. 14, for the benefit of H2O sponsored activities. They were accompanied by three H2O committee members, Chuck and June Bartush and Cindy Gehrig.

The group left the Community Center at 10:30 a.m. in two pickups and drove to privately owned land. There they were divided into four teams for the pecan-picking contest. Team number two, including LeAnn Sicking, Sally Stoffels, Rose Herr, Donna Walterscheid, Keith Hennigan and Jason Gehrig was the winner and will be treated by the Fund Raising Committee.

Refreshments of punch, cookies and fruit were provided for break time and all students brought their own sack lunches.

The group picked pecans on two farms during the course of the day, and when finished the students were treated to ice cream at the Dairy Inn, by committee chairmen. General consensus of the outing: "We had a great time." Profits from the sale of the pecans will help defray costs of H2O sponsored events.

Robin Walterscheid, Danny Hess united in double ring ceremony

The wedding of Robin Walterscheid and Danny Hess was held Saturday, November 21 in Sacred Heart Church, with Father Stephen Eckart officiating for the Nuptial Mass and double ring ceremony at 5 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Walterscheid of Muenster and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Louis Hess of Lindsay.

The bride is a graduate of Muenster High School and Cooke County College. She gathered at the wrist to lace cuffs, an Empire waistline and a full skirt sweeping into an aisle wide train. She wore a gold St. Christopher's medal and chain, a gift from the groom. Her fingertip length veil of illusion fell from a caplet encrusted with lace, sequins and seed pearl embroidery.

Her bridal bouquet was an arrangement of white silk roses, pink forget-me-nots and white baby's breath.

In keeping with tradition she had a birthdate penny in her shoe "for something back yokes were made of sheer polyester lace. The skirt was long and flared, with a tie belt at the waistline. Each carried a single mauve pink rose with white baby's breath.

Susan Kupper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Kupper of Valley View, was the flower girl and Chris Osborne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Osborne of Gainesville, was the ring bearer.

Doug Hess of Gainesville, cousin of the groom, was the best man. Stanley Hess, groom's brother of Lindsay, Terry Osborne, his brother-in-law of Gainesville and Chris Metzler of Lindsay and Bill Laux of Gainesville were the groomsmen.

Bert Walterscheid, bride's brother, Mark Klement, bride's cousin, Terry Rohmer groom's cousin and Dale Terry, his brother-in-law were ushers.

Jeff Hellman and Damian Hellman were Mass servers.

Preceding the ceremony Judy Walterscheid, the bride's sister, led the wedding procession and carried the memory candle and placed it on the altar.

Wedding music was presented by the bride's aunt and cousin, Mrs. Leo Lawson and Jimmy Lawson, soloists and Pat Hennigan, Jr., organist and cousin of the groom.

The sanctuary was decorated with a pair of tall floor candelabra holding lighted candles, entwined with smilax and a large dusty rose satin bow. Arrangements of dusty rose carnations, white gladioli and white baby's breath were placed on the altar with lighted candles. Pews were marked with dusty rose satin bows.

Reception

A reception, catered dinner and dance followed in the Sacred Heart Community Center.

Barbie Walterscheid and Janice Terry secured signatures of guests in the bride's book and Mr. and Mrs. Hank Walterscheid seated guests at dinner.

Reception assistants were Tonya, Gail and Janie Fisher; Rita, Donna, Tracey and Jeanne Walterscheid; Kay Grewing, Cindy Reiter and Melanie Osborne who also assisted in serving the wedding cakes.

The three tiered wedding cake stood over a lighted fountain. On the top layer two doves held ribbons leading to two heart shaped cakes at the sides. Dusty pink roses further decorated the white cakes, which were cut and served by Betty Rose Walterscheid.

A white painted scrolled iron archway formed background decoration for the wedding party's dinner table. All scrolled ornaments were made by the bride's father.

The bride's table, also was made by her father, of scrolled iron painted white, with a glass table top. On it were arranged two portraits of the bride, the guest registry, and the wedding invitation, framed and flocked in an original design

Participants sought for Christmas parade

Response has started to come in from persons who intend to participate in the Chamber of Commerce Christmas parade and Santa visit on December 12, at 2 p.m.

Lupe Evans, chairman, said high school bands from Muenster, Saint Jo and the Gainesville Middle School will be here. Also Muenster Cub Scouts will have a float and carolers will present a selection of Christmas songs.

In her general invitation sent to all of the area, Mrs. Evans calls special attention to floats and quotes prizes of $100, $75, and $50 for the top three entries. As a further inducement she suggests cooperative arrangements whereby a sponsor provides materials and a class or club does the decorating. Persons interested in this kind of deal are encouraged to call Mrs. Evans at 759-2911 or 759-2520.

Likewise the welcome is extended to any kind of unit which adds interest or color to the parade. For instance riding clubs, boys scouts, old vehicles, etc.

Stuff the turkey, not yourself

Eating is a delightful and traditional way to celebrate holidays and special occasions. It is a shared experience, from the food preparation itself to the fancy silverware on the table. Good food can make a special occasion even more special.

But many would-be dieters declare an "open season" on eating with the first bite of Thanksgiving Day turkey, notes the Texas Medical Association (TMA). The binge usually ends with a New Year's resolution to lose the ten pounds gained during that month of sheer gluttony.

Now is the time to reconsider this attitude towards eating. First, think of the fat. Next, think of the guilt.

All the time that you're stuffing yourself with rich, greasy, calorie-laden food, a small voice in the back of your mind will be nagging you about your sins (and about not fitting into last year's winter wardrobe). While that voice may not slow your pace, it will hamper your enjoyment.

You may want to temporarily abandon your diet at Thanksgiving. Well, you're forgiven, but remember that you'll have to pay the price later. Why not plan out your caloric transgressions? If you know that you'll be eating a huge Thanksgiving dinner next week, cut down on your food intake this week. That way your calories will balance out.

But for all of you with iron wills who are determined to look glamorous and slim at your Christmas Eve gathering, there is good news. It is possible not to waddle away from the Thanksgiving feast. Some foods typically included in the traditional dinner are relatively low in calories, while others, seemingly harmless, are caloric disasters.

Green beans, for example, are very low in calories. Load up on them. And turkey itself, particularly the white meat, is fairly low. Even gravy isn't too bad. But watch out for the cranberry sauce, and the extra dollop of whipped cream on that extra slice of pie. Mixed drinks are caloric traps, so it may be wise to stick to wine.

If you think about what and how much you're eating, you may even be able to walk away from the table without groaning and vowing, "Never again!"

In All The World

No one is more understanding or more qualified to serve you.

You can clean up the mess burglars leave.

But you can't clean up the awful memories.

Do you have any idea what it's like after burglars have been in your home? Most people feel dirty. Violated. They can't shake the chilling thoughts about those unknown people who were right there... right where they live.

Some people never quite get over it. Many more. Almost all burglary victims immediately put new locks on doors — after it's over... when it's too late!

The most important lock is a security deadlock. Many law-enforcement experts agree that a good, heavy-duty deadlock with a one-inch deadbolt installed above your regular lock is probably the single most effective way you can keep your home and family safe from intruders.

The Kwikset heavy-duty steel and brass 880 Series high-security deadlock is the strongest, toughest, most secure lock we've ever made. And as manufacturers of America's largest selling residential locksets, that's a big statement.

Ask for Kwikset deadlocks wherever you buy good hardware. You might save a lot more than the $3.00 factory rebate you'll get.

Nuclear energy's safe, and we need it...

let's let it work for us.

This Room Is Equipped With Edison Electric Light.

Do not attempt to light with match. Simply turn key on wall by the door.

The use of Electricity for lighting is in no way harmful to health, nor does it affect the soundness of sleep.

When electric lights first replaced gas lamps in some hotels, guests had to be reassured that Mr. Edison's newfangled invention was safe.

We Americans have always been determined and resourceful people — determined to build a better life for ourselves, and resourceful in controlling the hazards involved. From the Mayflower to the Columbia space shuttle, that's the way we've been — cautious, but not easily scared.

Every new technology we've developed has been frightening to some: steamships, automobiles, even the cotton gin, and electricity itself.

Some people still think of nuclear power that way. They're afraid that using one of our most plentiful and inexpensive energy resources involves uncontrollable hazards and unacceptable risks. In fact, it does not.

We're already using nuclear fuel equivalent to about 1.2 million barrels of imported oil daily to generate electricity. In 24 years of commercial nuclear operation, there has never been a nuclear-related injury to any member of the public. That's a record few if any industries have ever matched. It demonstrates clearly that generating electricity with nuclear fuel is at least as safe as doing it any other way.

We routinely accept other risks that are many times more dangerous, because we have become accustomed to them. Just being 30 pounds overweight is at least a 450-times-bigger risk than generating all our electricity with nuclear fuel.

At your electric company, we need to use nuclear fuel to help generate the electricity you use. We're convinced the risk is acceptable. Nuclear energy is essential, if future generations are to enjoy as good a life as we do now.

Tigers lose bi-district 35-0

Sacred Heart's participation in TCIL playoffs came to a sudden stop on the Muenster High field Saturday night when they were crushed 35-0 by the Marian Christian Colts of Houston.

The game was as one sided as the score. With a big advantage in weight and a roster long enough for double platoon, plus a backfield full of fast and hard runners, the Colts generally did whatever they pleased. They had SH beat some 25 pounds in average weight and 30 to 18 in depth.

Of the 12 times they had possession of the ball they finished their drive seven times. They punted twice, and were stopped once each on a fumble, on penalties and on an unsuccessful fourth down gamble.

The pattern became apparent at the start. Following kickoff they launched their first scoring drive with 65 yards in front of them. They used 15 plays in going the distance, the last 5 yards being a bust through the line by Rasmus. The Colt who made most of the yardage along the way was the black streak, Rodney Harvey, a speedy and elusive stepper who easily rates as the MVP of the game. He accounted for 31 of the opening drive's 65 yards, in five plays. A kick by Biondi made the count 7-0 with 6:24 remaining in the first period.

The Tigers, on their first possession got a first down on Ricky Hennigan's 14 yard run and another on Neil Hesse's pass to Wade Walterscheid, but they ended the third series with a kick. However they got back in business shortly after on Hal Mollenkopf's fumble recovery on the 22. Two gains by Wade Walterscheid reached the 12 as the first quarter ended. The opportunity was Sacred Heart's best of the game but ended two plays later in a fumble on the 10 yard line.

From that point Marian scored its next TD in five plays, 86 being made by Harvey in two plays. One run went for 7, the other for 79, the biggest play of the night. A kick for extra point was bad.

The third score came in a hurry following a partly blocked kick ending Sacred Heart's first series. Marian, 23 yards away, gained 4 and was penalized 5, and the next play was a 24 yard pass, Migl to Pagel to the end zone. Solomon crashed over for extra points raising the score to 21-0 at 6:36 in the second period.

For the remainder of the period the Colts were halted on a fourth down effort and ran out of time on their next possession.

During the first half Sacred Heart was overwhelmed by the statistics. It trailed 10-3 in first downs and 239 to 6 in net yardage. The second half was better as the visitors had reserves in for much of the time. The Tigers trailed only 9 to 6 in first downs and 130 to 103 in net yardage. But the scoreboard continued favoring the visitors.

The Colts were still at full strength in their first drive of the third period. With 45 to go they made it in 6 plays. Rasmus made 26 in two tries, Harvey made 18 in one try and Biondi scored from the 1. Biondi upped the score to 28-0 at 8:56 in the third.

From then on the contest was nearer to even. The Tigers got 15 for free on a face mask penalty, and another first down on a 5 yard penalty and two short runs by Darrell Herr but lost possession on the next series on a fourth down try. After which the Marian reserves made their score in a two-installment drive. They made three first downs and punted on their fourth series. Tigers had to punt on first series after which the visitors had 44 yards ahead of them. The drive used six plays, the big gains being a 26 yard pass to Pagel and a 16 yard TD run by Rasmus. Again Biondi made the PAT and the scoring ended at 35-0 early in the fourth.

The Tigers used the final period in a desperate effort to avoid a shut-out but were stopped by the Colts on their first drive and by the clock on their second.

Six short plays gained 2 first downs to the Colt 35 and two busted plays spoiled the third series. The final drive started 88 yards away. Neil Hesse's pass to Miller gained 35 and to Brian Herr added 10 as time ran out.

The outstanding feature of the game was Sacred Heart's persistent effort against long odds. All of the Tigers earned an A for effort even though they were completely dominated by their visitors.

Forestburg bombs Tigerettes 50-31

Sacred Heart Tigerettes ran into too much Patti Duke when hosting Forestburg's basketball girls Friday night. Patti bombed 'em with 35 points, enough to outscore SH by herself. Meanwhile Patti's teammates added a few points, enough to run the victory to 50-31.

The Tigerettes led the first quarter 10-8, but after that Forestburg took over and remained comfortably ahead by scores of 24-17, 39-29 and 50-31 in the next three periods. SH scorers were Susan Walterscheid 13, Anne Felderhoff 8, Carol Walterscheid 6, Marilynn Hartman 4.

The big problem was the shooting, according to Coach LeBrasseur. Tigers hit only 15 of 70 field goal shots and 1 of 5 free throws. Rebounds and ball handling were OK, but shooting was disappointing, he said.

Sacred Heart did better in the junior high game preceding the main event. SH won it 17-14 and individual scorers were Leslie Hess 6, Tammy Hess 4, Lisa Haverkamp 4, Sandra Walterscheid 3.

Another real test for the Tigerettes is a meeting with Lindsay here on Dec. 1. The Knightettes are one of the high ranking teams of 2A. Tigers too will have a part in the Dec. 1 program.

Needed are pictures of old time decorations, Christmas trees, old style toys, old Christmas card designs, children in their best "Sunday" clothes, family or children around the Christmas tree, etc., etc.

Also requested are stories of favorite and traditional Christmas customs observed through the years by families, and possibly still observed by families. Also favorite foods and recipes.

Will you share your treasured customs, to allow The Muenster Enterprise to print them as features in the annual Christmas issue? There are so many beautiful, nostalgic customs in this community and in our heritage that deserve to be honored and remembered.

Please phone 759-4311 or send notes to Box 190, Muenster, Texas 76252.

LP gas users need new decal

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Tuesday warned that vehicles using liquified gas must display a new tax decal by January 1, 1982.

Bullock said legislative changes in the LP gas law will permit his office to tax vehicles on both weight and mileage and decals should cost less for those who drive fewer miles.

An LP-powered vehicle cannot legally be refueled or pass state vehicle inspection without a valid tax decal.

Fuel tax decals range in cost from $24 a year for a vehicle driven less than 5,000 miles annually and weighing less than 4,000 vehicle weighing over 43,501 pounds and driven more than 10,000 miles a year.

Bullock said renewal notices to owners of LP-powered cars and trucks are being sent out by his office, and decals are available from the Comptroller's field offices and at the agency's Austin office.

Bullock estimated that there are more than 40,000 liquified gas powered cars and trucks in Texas.

The motor fuels tax on LP gas brings in about $4 million a year in tax revenue.

Aloe Vera is not a "cure all"

Back in the days when snake oil and other elixirs were hawked by medicine show promoters as the "cure of cures" or "the secret of eternal life," many people would swear that their blindness, limping or whatever was actually cured by drinking some vile potion. Sometimes the person's ailment did clear up—not because of the elixir, but because of the power of suggestion, says the Texas Medical Association (TMA). But most of the time these folks went back home after paying their dollar and found that nothing had changed—except that they were a dollar poorer.

Today, people spend much more than a dollar on quack cures. It's big business. People are still buying snake oil and other modern equivalents for all sorts of major and minor ailments. The sellers of these products often make extravagant claims for their products, saying, in high-priced advertisements, that they will cure everything from cancer to wrinkles. The victims of quackery are often people with conditions that have no known cure, such as arthritis.

There is a middle-ground of quackery, however, which presents quizzical problems for the public. These are the drugs or products that have some legitimate uses, but are often over-sold as cure-alls. Aloe vera, a centuries-old beauty aid and first-aid treatment for cuts and burns is one of these, says the TMA. Aloe vera is a plant belonging to the lily family. The aloe gel, which is extracted from the plant, is a common ingredient in cosmetics. Certain species of aloe are approved by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) for use as a natural flavoring in food.

Aloe vera is also a popular house plant, often used as a "folk medicine" remedy for cuts and minor burns, especially in the Southwest. There are no official scientific studies which prove the effectiveness of aloe vera for this purpose, but it is generally considered harmless, at worst.

The aloe plant also provides a drug, a very powerful laxative, which both the American Medical Association (AMA) and the American Pharmaceutical Association say should not be used because its results are unpredictable and sometimes violent. The seemingly harmless plant can be quite dangerous, if used for the wrong purposes.

The real danger, however, lies in the blatantly false claims sometimes made for aloe vera and other unproven remedies. Some literature and manufacturers assert or suggest that aloe will cure cancer, diabetes, tuberculosis and almost every other serious disease. The FDA states that all these claims are unproven. People with these serious diseases may forego proper medical treatment in favor of these "surefire cures," often worsening their conditions by neglecting them.

As in the case of aloe vera, there are often legitimate uses for a product, but the TMA warns that you need to be skeptical about any product that promises or hints at a quick cure. You may be falling for a "quack cure" instead.

"I'm thankful, are you?"

It is more blessed to give than to receive. In these United States, we are blessed with an abundance of material wealth and can better assume the role of the giver. Let us show our gratitude by continuing our generosity to the less fortunate.
