

MUENSTER UNIT OF MUTUAL INSURANCE COMPANY FORMED

To organize a local chapter of the Germania Mutual Fire Insurance Company, several policy holders met Tuesday night in the city hall with John Mosser and Fred Mosman, president and secretary of the Lindsay unit.

An election of officers placed Henry Fleitman, J. S. Horn and Henry Stelzer in the positions of president, secretary and treasurer.

The Germania Mutual Fire Insurance Company has 27 members in the Muenster community at the present time, all of them having secured their insurance through the Lindsay group, which has been operating for many years. Very similar to the German Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company, with its headquarters here at Muenster, the Germania enjoys a very low rate and is restricted to people of German descent. It differs, however, in that it is more extensive, provides for storm insurance and will insure property within the limits of a city. At Muenster the Germania insurance is used principally in the city.

The business session the meeting consisted chiefly in drawing up and signing a petition for charter, agreeing with the two Lindsay visitors on a boundary line between the two communities and deciding on the first Tuesday of each month as official meeting date.

Twelve Muenster members were present at the meeting.

DELEGATES ELECTED BY 3 SOCIETIES FOR RHINELAND MEETING

Three societies of the Muenster parish decided last Sunday what members will represent them at the annual North Texas District Convention of the Catholic State League in Rhineland on Tuesday and Wednesday, May 3 and 4.

Meeting at the same time in the basement and main floor of the parish hall, members of the St. Joseph's and St. Anne's societies elected their delegates at 3:30 o'clock.

St. Joseph's society will be represented by Frank Klement, B. H. Hellman, Henry Fleitman and Joe Magas. The St. Anne's society delegates are Mesdames Joe Swirczynski, J. B. Wilde, Henry Fleitman and Joe Walterscheid.

In a meeting of the Blessed Virgin Sodality at 2:30 in the parish hall, Miss Marie Walter was named as a special delegate to deliver one of the convention addresses. Misses Dorothy Trachta and Josephine Yosten were elected delegates of the society and Misses Irene and Olivia Walterscheid were elected alternates. Delegates of the Holy Name Society will be chosen at a meeting next Sunday afternoon.

Amateur Prize Winner

Little Jeanette Meurer, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Meurer, had the distinction of copying first prize at the amateur night program at the Texas Theatre in Saint Jo last Friday. By popular vote her little act, consisting of a piano solo with song, was proclaimed the best of six entries.

How Long Will It Take?

Those who claim to know their molasses have the opportunity to use their knowledge to advantage at the syrup guessing contest which is just making its start at the FMA Store. Because a lot of folks had a lot of fun at a similar contest last year, Andy Hoffbauer, manager of the store, decided to provide his patrons with more entertainment. There is a slight difference in his plan, however, in that no guesses will be registered after the pail is punctured and the syrup begins its incessant drip, drip.

For several days patrons can inspect the pail that will be used in the contest and register their guesses. In the lid of that pail is a tiny hole exactly the same size as the one that will be in the bottom—the same nail is being used to punch both holes.

It is hardly necessary to state that the foxy guys and mathematical wonders hold no advantage in this game. Accurate calculations would depend on really advanced figuring as well as an intimate knowledge of the change of velocity of molasses, which is reputed for its fickle habits during changing temperatures, and finally a complete and precise weather forecast for a week or two, or three, or more. Just guess is the best.

There will be no charge for the guesses but there will be three prizes consisting of six gallon pails of syrup for the closest guesses.

FRIEND OF HITLER

LONDON.—Miss Unity Valkyrie Mitford, a friend and admirer of Chancellor Adolf Hitler was spat upon, kicked and hounded out of Hyde Park Sunday, April 10, by an angry mob of men and women attending a Socialist "Save Spain" demonstration. Miss Mitford, who is shown wearing the Nazi emblem, is the fourth of Lord and Lady Redesdale's six lovely daughters.

WEDNESDAY NAMED AS FIRST DAY FOR SOFTBALL PRACTICE

"Calling all softballers," is the message now being shouted by promoters of the Muenster softball club. After a confab Tuesday Paul Nieball, Leo Henscheid and Rudy Hellman announced that next Wednesday night, April 20, is the time set for turning on the lights and giving players their first workout.

The trio, who along with Herman Swirczynski are largely responsible for the erection of the Muenster lighting system, expressed the hope that Muenster would organize at least two teams so that a greater number of local sports enthusiasts would have the opportunity of participating in a hot circuit.

At the present time the teams composing the loop have not been decided, but the organizers are active now in securing decisions from the several teams that have been invited.

MOTORCYCLE RACES WILL BE HELD HERE EARLY PART OF MAY

Sometime during the early part of May, Muenster will be the scene of a thrilling, ripsnorting motorcycle meet, according to reports this week from the Muenster Motorcycle Club, which consists of Ollie Horn, Anthony Luke and Gilbert Endres.

Fancy riders with records from the really big motorcycle events are scheduled to put on a few thrilling stunts and other thrills galore are in store during the feature events, which will include surf board riding, broad jumps, short course racing and other events yet to be decided.

The place is the Muenster baseball park and the contestants will be crack riders from Wichita Falls, Dallas, Fort Worth, Sherman, Muenster, and several other cities.

SMALL GROUP HEARS BROGDON PLEA FOR GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

Muenster's first political speech of the current campaign was delivered Tuesday night by S. T. Brogdon of Stephenville, Erath County, before a crowd estimated at 100 persons.

With his speaker system driven by a small, one cylinder gasoline motor and the entire unit mounted on a low priced car, which served also as his sleeping quarters, Mr. Brogdon presented a sight of modest simplicity that contrasts sharply with the elaborate campaign arrangements of other candidates.

The candidate, who aspires to the position of governor, spoke at length on his plan of giving greater attention to the poor and neglected of Texas. He was especially vehement on the subject of old age pensions, charging that the present practice of distribution is unfair in that it does not treat all beneficiaries equally. Old people who are shown to have been brought up in meager circumstances, he said, are not permitted as much as those accustomed to wealth on the ground that they do not require as much. The candidates proposed to make all old age pension payments equal.

Mr. Brogdon advanced a very unusual viewpoint in his promise to do all in his power to put men back to work. He stated that one of our chief causes of economic distress is the over abundance of women who rightfully belong in the home, holding the positions that should be occupied by men. Correct this condition, he said, and we need worry no more about our thousands of unemployed men.

Mr. Brogdon is making his campaign "on a shoestring." Not being financially able to ride trains, sleep in hotels and secure radio hook-ups, he is traveling and sleeping in his automobile and making speeches through his own small speaker system. His appearance here was his 82nd to date.

MISSION CIRCLE WILL MAKE ALTAR LINENS FOR POOR CHURCHES

Rough and bitterly cold weather prevented the attendance of all but nine members at the mission circle's regular meeting on Thursday of last week, but the few who were present spent an afternoon at sorting and packing and ended with another box of garments for some needy mission. A checkup revealed about 100 pounds of clothing mended during the months of February and March.

In sorting through one of the recently donated bundles of materials, the ladies found a number of sugar bags (the 24 pound size) that are regarded as ideal for a quilt lining with a pleced print top. As a result, the bags are now added to cotton and other quilting materials on their want list. To date it has been impossible to keep sufficient supplies for the fast working quilting group.

A new line of work introduced by the circle is the making of altar linens. Having a great deal of delicate art work, those linens usually carry a price that makes their purchase prohibitive to poor mission churches. If a sufficient number of ladies capable of embroidering, tatting and crocheting will volunteer their services on the regular sewing day, and if some donor can be found for the materials, the circle will undertake to complete the work and provide fitting covers for altars in some of the poorer churches.

REV. FROWIN TALKS ON GOVERNMENT AT CIVIC LEAGUE MEET

Father Frowin Koerd, appearing as guest speaker at the meeting of the Ladies' Civic League last Friday afternoon, delivered an interesting and instructive address on the subject of Civic Government. He spoke of the various forms of government and of each citizen's duty to observe law and authority as the only means of maintaining a stable society. "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and to God the things that are God's," he quoted in saying that men have both spiritual and material responsibilities.

Father Frowin further stated that we as Americans are fortunate in having a system that safeguards inalienable rights at the same time that it claims allegiance. Our sacred right of voting, he said, is our defense against conditions such as are found today under the influence European dictators. While admitting that great things have been done under the rule of Hitler and Mussolini he predicted their eventual defeat because they are seeking to take for Caesar some of the allegiance that should be given to God.

Words of praise were offered to the ladies for their interest in community progress especially in regard to the many trees and shrubs planted as a result of their efforts during the past year.

Activity on the league's flower show at the K of C hall on May 19 was regarded as the most important part of the business session. A ballot to decide the town's favorite flower and quilt and food shows were named as added features of the show.

The resignation of the presidency by Mrs. John Fuhrbach, who moved to Amarillo several weeks ago, was accepted by the league, but no action was taken to choose another president because of the nearness of the next election. Until then Mrs. M. J. Endres, vice-president will preside at meetings.

Eighteen women including two new members, Mrs. Oscar Walter and Mrs. Elton Burger, were present. Miss Nette Shultz, county home demonstration agent, was named as guest speaker at the next meeting. Her subject will be Community Sanitation.

MYRA SEEKING TWO MORE ENTRIES FOR SOFTBALL CIRCUIT

Myra.—With six teams already listed as members of the North Texas Softball League at Myra, Manager Ray Hudson, stated Wednesday that a last minute invitation is being sent out in the hope of attracting two more teams to complete an eight place circuit before the season's schedule begins sometime prior to May 1.

The six teams named as already included in the league are Leo, Linn, Hood, Myra, Bulcher and Marysville.

An improved lighting system, which was regarded as very satisfactory and equal to anything in the county by contestants in the several practice games played to date, is the outstanding change made at Myra in preparation for a season that, it is hoped, will surpass the very successful experience of last year. The new lights were erected according to plans and specifications furnished by the Westinghouse Electric Company.

That the regular schedule will begin this month was pronounced a certainty by Mr. Hudson. His present invitation for some teams is given in the hope that no entrants will be too late to compete in the opening games.

LOCAL CHAPTER OF CYO ORGANIZES AND CHOOSES OFFICERS

The youth of Muenster met last Sunday afternoon in the basement of the Sacred Heart School to form a local unit and participate with other Catholic Youth Organization groups of the diocese in sponsoring a series of social and sports events. Officers elected were Paul Endres, president; Earl Fisher, vice-president; Dorothy Trachta, secretary; and Anthony Luke, treasurer.

In addressing the group, which is composed of members of the Holy Name and Blessed Virgin societies, Father Francis Zimmerer stated that the CYO has the hearty approval of members of the Catholic Clergy as a purely social society with a purpose of facilitating and encouraging a more intimate acquaintance between Catholics of different parishes.

He further stated that communications received by him and soon to be submitted to newly elected officers, indicate a movement to begin a series of athletic contests among the several North Texas CYO units. Softball and tennis were especially mentioned.

STORMS KILL 35

The freak April blizzard which struck the latter part of last week left a trail of death and destruction throughout the United States. The above photo shows ice covered wires down in central Indiana—other sections of the country were affected by snow, floods and tornadoes.

BALLOT AT FLOWER SHOW WILL DECIDE MUENSTER FAVORITE

Preparing for Muenster's first flower show on Thursday, May 19, at the K of C hall, members of the flower show committee of the Ladies' Civic League met in the home of the chairman, Mrs. T. S. Myrick, on Tuesday, April 5.

Along with the display of flowers, the members stated, will be displays of quilts and canned foods. Those placed in charge of three different events are Mesdames J. M. Weinzapfel, Clarence Wilson, and B. H. Hellman, respectively.

One feature of the show is to determine a favorite flower for Muenster. Each person visiting the show will be asked to register his or her preference in a vote and after the result is known all people will be encouraged to favor that flower in their future gardening. It is hoped that in this way, with the flower planted in conspicuous places, the favorite flower will come to be one of the outstanding identifications of Muenster.

Exhibits in the flower show can be cut flowers, pot plants or wild flowers. The quilt show will include appliqued or pieced quilts; knitted, crocheted, tufted or embroidered bedspreads; and afghans. Canned and fresh vegetables, cakes, cookies, rolls, bread, pies and candy will be in the food display.

Competent out of town judges will be selected to determine the prize winning entries in each of the three events.

Anyone, whether a resident of the city or of the surrounding community, is invited to enter some article for competition in the show and help make it a success that will encourage a greater interest in flowers. Those desiring more information can secure it by calling Mrs. Myrick or the ladies in charge of the three displays.

To help defray expenses the ladies will charge small admission of 5 and 10 cents.

CROP DAMAGE SMALL DURING WINTRY CHILL

Row Crops Hurt But Small Grain Escapes With Little Injury

A freakish turn of the weather that brought a thin scattering of snow in this locality while blanketing northern states with a carpet rivaling that of midwinter, was less detrimental to local crops than was feared during the latter part of last week.

Small grain is said to have weathered the freeze successfully except in scattered places where it was so far advanced that the heads were exposed. Corn and feedstuffs, however, fared no so well, and as a result planters by the dozens were busy re-seeding during the early part of this week.

The sudden drop of temperature with snow coming in April sets a record that cannot be matched in the memories of any but the oldest in this locality. Last year's snow on Easter Monday, March 29, had been regarded as unusually late until now.

Damage to garden crops depended in most cases on the stage of advancement in individual gardens. Those who had out more delicate plants such as tomatoes, beans and peppers sustained a loss but the more hardy plants pulled through successfully.

FORMER RESIDENT VISITS MUENSTER, PLANS WORLD TOUR

Constantine Prescher, who is remembered as a resident of Muenster prior to his departure about 25 years ago, was back during the early part of this week for a visit with former friends and neighbors. Mr. Prescher is on his way to New York where he will board a ship for Europe, visit Germany and several other countries, attend the Eucharistic Congress at Budapest, Hungary, and continue his homeward journey around the other side of the globe. Mr. Prescher is well known as a contributor to several German magazines. His present home is California.

BERRY GARNER AND ORCHESTRA TO PLAY ON EASTER MONDAY

Berry Garner and his orchestra of Gainesville will be on hand at the parish hall to provide music for the Easter Monday dance, Mrs. Felix Becker stated this week.

Other plans for a banner celebration are also in progress, she said. Kiddies and oldsters alike will have plenty chance for games, hamburgers, candy, soda pop and the dozens of other features of a picnic.

Oil Field Notes

The feasibility of repressuring oil wells in the Muenster townsite with a view to doubling their production is now under the consideration of geologists, according to Henry Barker, local manager of Grayburg Oil Company, which, along with Robinson and Regis, operates the wells suggested for the treatment. The 1600 foot sand is said to be the one that would be repressured.

After striking a producer last week Kingery is now making a good start on his No. 2 Yosten well, which he is drilling for Leo M. Kuehn of Gainesville.

At the present time all eyes are on the new Kingery well at Pete Bindel's. It is a wildcat now nearing completion.

On the Number 1 Welch well out in the busy corner pool, George L. Pace struck the pay sand and cemented Tuesday night. The well's production had not been determined Wednesday.

Texas Company's new well at Tony Treubenschach's last week was good for about 100 barrels.

All day Wednesday they were fishing and not getting a bite at the wildcat now being attempted for the second time on the Barney Voth farm. A few weeks ago the rig was skidded to a new location for a new start after the original fishing job had proved futile.

Steady drilling progress is reported for Mudge and Trumpler on Wednesday. The former was down to about 950 on its 24 Johnson and the latter to about 790 on No. 4 Stacy.

Out at Cap's Corner E. J. Ruwaldt is plugging away at about 1350 on his Number 1 Hoffman. Slightly deeper than other wells of this locality, the well will be drilled as far as 1800 in an effort to find a good sand.

ANOTHER SHOT OF DOPE

Last week's proposal to release 4 billion dollars of Federal money in the anemic business sections of the country is another classic example of the "shot in the arm" method by which our nation is surviving.

At the present time, when work and business are needed to help weather a minor financial squall, the proposal is eagerly accepted by our public, especially the group that will reap immediate benefits. But will we think as much of our spending when mounting tax burdens make our lives almost unbearable?

Almost every community now thinks of Washington's Santa Claus program in self-fish terms. Here at Muenster we are doing the same thing; we are hopefully anticipating a Federal loan for our rural electrification project and we would, if we could find a way, secure a few thousand in WPA donations. We feel that we are entitled to it; we are harnessed with our proportionate share of the tax burden and should receive a few grants.

But is it right? Do people of this generation have a right to buy things and charge them against the coming generation's account?

There is no need of our passing the buck. Representatives in Washington are placing this enormous burden on future generations only because the American public continues to clamor for more. Politicians approve huge grants to satisfy the public wants. Economic shots in the arm are administered because the public prefers to be doped.

Economically, Uncle Sam is a very sick man. He can go on holding himself together for a long time if he will continue taking dope, but the better method of recovery is to throw off some of his weakening habits and get down to honest, invigorating life giving work. By dropping such vices as corrupt politics, graft, injustice, crime and greed he can build himself back to an energetic, vigorous specimen.

Uncle Sam is every one of us. His health depends more on what he does for himself than on what the Washington doctors do for him.

LIFETIME SALARY

Rather an astonishing idea is a recently suggested one that all congressmen be guaranteed a lifetime income of $10,000 per year as soon as they are elected. At first glance it appears to be another pork barrel proposal, but the more it is considered the more redeeming features it offers.

In the first place it would eliminate the fear that prompts congressmen to make excessive and unwise appropriations in order to win the favor of voters. Furthermore it would permit them to stay with their job longer instead of wasting days and weeks on campaigns. In short, congressmen would be better if they were not in constant dread of having their income cut off.

To assure a permanent income for congressmen would take several million dollars, which, after all is a mere drop in the bucket when compared with the billions passed out annually in the hope of winning votes for the next election year.

But the millions are by no means wasted. The retired congressmen could conveniently be drafted for service in any of the government's civil service or clerical positions, and the $10,000 made to apply on their salaries.

The assured salary, moreover, would encourage men of ability to take up statesmanship as a career. Many are now reluctant to enter politics because of the uncertainty of the future. With the future assured, better men would be attracted into the political field, normal men would be more inclined to statesmanship and less inclined to making purely political concessions.

LET'S HAVE JUSTICE

Last week this paper made a plea in defense of a proposition that the west part of Cooke County receive more than half of the county road and bridge fund. The justice of that request is supported by at least three irrefutable facts. The west part of the county is larger with a proportionately greater road mileage; maintenance work is more necessary because of more and heavier traffic by milk trucks and oil field trucks; the greater portion of rural tax money comes from this end of the county.

In asking for favors to the two west precincts, Muenster is only seeking what is due her. For years she and her neighboring communities have shared equally with the east portion but bore the greater tax burden.

"It's a good and just idea," says one of our citizens. "And while we talk about justice, why don't we ask a little more of it in our property valuations? There are thousands of acres within a few miles radius of Muenster that are assessed so low as to be almost tax exempt."

Although new to us, this information is by no means new to a large number of property owners in this locality. There are several cases of large tracts permitted year after year to get by with a valuation of less than $10 when adjoining farms are assessed at $20 or more. These lands, furthermore, should actually have a higher valuation than others. They are unbroken prairies with a productivity well known to everyone who has tilled virgin soil.

That the assessments are unjust is evident from the fact that none of the owners is willing to sell except at a premium price.

Our attitude in this respect is not merely poor sportsmanship that cannot endure to see the other person get a bargain. We see this situation as bearing directly on community progress. People should not be excused from paying their share of tax burden simply because their land is not producing. It would produce bountifully if they would put it to use. These people are a drag on community progress.

Muenster is interested in productivity for the entire community. It has dozens of young men anxious to put these virgin prairies in cultivation, but their ambition is dampened by land hoarders defended by tax rates so low that they amount practically to tax exemptions. A just tax would force many such persons to put their idle land to use or sell it to someone that will. In either case the community would benefit from increased productivity.

What Others Have to Say--

THE OLD MAN

The reflected rays of the noonday sun flash from the panes of the great factory.

A siren sounds. The whirl of machinery stops. It is the lunch hour.

From his office window the "Old Man" looks out at the smoking chimneys—across the tarred roofs of the far-flung plant whose products are shipped by rail and sea to every nation.

A boy brings a tray with a raw apple, a bottle of milk and some crackers. The "Old Man" is lunching at his desk.

As he watches the workers swarming out of the factory, he sees a crowd collecting at the gate.

Presently a man who is standing on a packing case begins to wave his arms. He is a swarthy little man with a black mustache. The "Old Man" can't hear what he is saying—but he can guess. The "Old Man's" salary was published in yesterday's newspaper. His income runs into six figures—more than the salary of the President of the United States.

The man speaking from the packing case is a professional agitator. It is his job to make workers discontented with their lot.

"Soak the rich," he cries. He doesn't care how much the "Old Man" pays out in taxes.

"Down with capital!" he is shouting.

"Down with the 'Old Man'!"

At the fringe of the crowd a young man is eating a sandwich from his dinner pail. The "Old Man" recognizes the young man. He is the son of Charlie Pedersen, a foreman in the tool room. He has been studying mechanical engineering at night school.

Young Pedersen is not paying much attention to the man on the packing case. As he munches his sandwich he is thinking excitedly—"A salary like that is something to work for! The 'Old Man' started at the bottom just like me. It's ability that counts. I have ability. Some day my check will be as big as that!"

The "Old Man" did start at the bottom, and he is proud of it. Five thousand men and women work for the great company and he holds the helm. Their trust, their hopes are in his hands.

The "Old Man" never went to college, yet his laboratories are filled with graduates from the best schools in the land. His alma mater was a backwoods schoolhouse where he trudged through the snow in copped-toe leather boots. McGuffey's Reader in his hand.

With most of the men and women who work for the company, "Old Man" is a term of genuine affection. They are puzzled when they hear the agitator on the packing case describe him as an octopus.

There are white-haired men on the pay roll who can remember way back when the plant was a little one-story building and the "Old Man" was a tow-headed boy who carried water for the foundry.

As the "Old Man" looks out the window he is not worried about the man on the packing case or what he is saying. He has met his kind many times before.

He is worried more about what is happening in America today and about the eager, bright-eyed son of Charlie Pedersen.

He is worried lest the sickness that has seized upon the rest of the world spread its infection through

America; worried lest all the isms and insidious doctrines of alien places destroy our great heritage.

Land of the free, and home of the brave!

He thinks of Washington and Patrick Henry, of Jefferson and Lincoln.

He thinks of the thousands of brave Americans who have faced the wilderness, who have laid down young lives on Freedom's altar.

He thinks of his own father walking beside his creaking wagon, crossing the Alleghenies, with a rifle in his hand.

He thinks of his birthplace, a humble cabin on an Ohio farm chopped out of the hardwood.

He reviews his own life, from its lowly beginning to his present proud position in industrial America.

"Isn't the essential difference," he asks, "between this America of ours and all the polygot nations of the earth, that this has always been a free land where men of ambition may scale the dizzy heights?" The social register of American business is filled with the names of men who came into the world with empty hands.

Is the man on the packing case right? What does he offer in exchange?

There must be bosses under any system. Isn't the better boss a man who has worked his way from the bottom to the top, a man who is a good boss because he understands the problem?

It would be too bad, the "Old Man" thinks, if the son of Charlie Pedersen should miss the opportunity that is his heritage. It would be too bad if America should become like other countries, so regimented and politician-ruled that it would no longer be possible for a man to toil and climb and pluck the prime fruits of reward.

For them this country would cease to be—America, sweet land of Liberty.—Exchange.

BE A "YES" MAN

Here is a type of "YES" man who is all too scarce. We don't mean the kind of "Yes" man who meekly agrees with the boss. We mean who will say, "Yes, I'll do it," to the tasks to be done. Men who will say "Yes, it can be done," to difficulties and daring new business adventures.

Rowan, who delivered a message to Garcia in the mountain fastness of Cuba is the kind of "Yes" man I'm talking about.

General Goethals was the kind of a "Yes" man when he said "Yes" to the tremendous responsibility of building the Panama Canal.

Admiral Peary was such a "Yes" man when he exclaimed that he would find a way or make one to the North Pole.

The business world is full of men who say "No" to difficulties. They crawl out from under when the responsibilities pile up. That's why there is so much room at the top for men with courage to carry the big burdens and attempt the big tasks. Be a "Yes" man.—San Saba News.

BETTER THAN A BOND

It is said of some men that their word is as good as their bond, and that's a fine thing to say of any man. Anything better?

Well, if you owed a bill at the store and paid it with cash and the merchant made a mistake and tried to collect it again, your word MIGHT be good that you had paid it. But suppose that you had an account at the bank and paid by check. That cancelled check would speak louder than your unsupported word, no matter how good your reputation. It pays to pay by check.

Alfred Bayer, Cecelia Walterscheid, Florentine Endres and Rose Hennigan established themselves as "the spellers" in the Sacred Heart eighth grade last Friday. In a lustrous 45 minute contest that included definition and part of speech as well as spelling the word, the four held out until the end of the period.

The Monday night meeting of the boy scouts was a continuation of their activity in preparing for an all night fishing trip to Lake Dallas early in May. Swamped with business, Scoutmaster Nick Miller instructed the boys to spend their time getting the cooking equipment cleaned and polished.

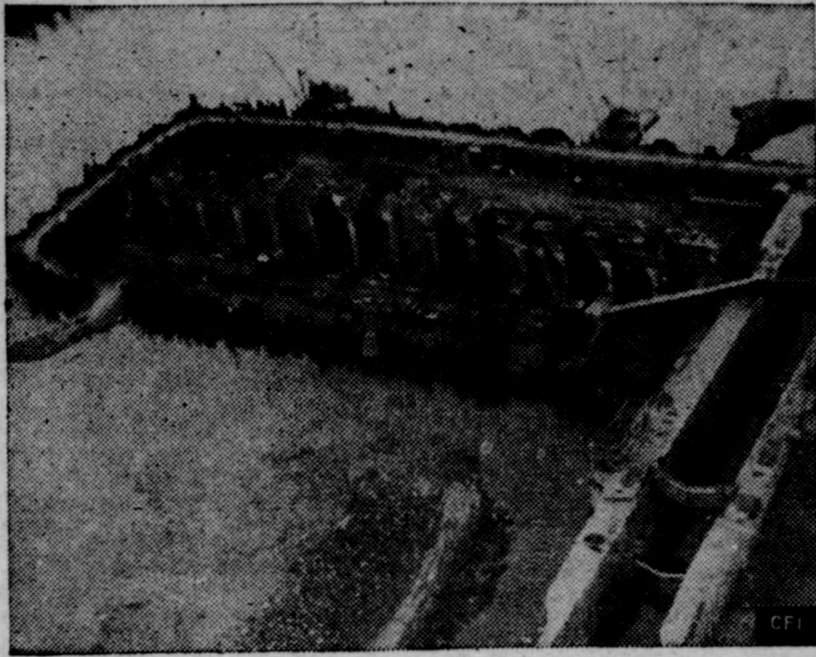

Friends here have recently learned that Miss Evelyn Bernauer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bernauer of Panhandle and formerly of Muenster, is now employed as assistant to the county agent of Carson County. Miss Bernauer left Muenster with her family several years ago. Last year she graduated from Panhandle high school and from a business college of Amarillo.

PUPILS BEGIN ANOTHER MISSION FUND CONTEST

A novel plan instituted last week adds considerable zest to another mission drive now in progress at the Parochial school. For each 10 cent donation one inch is added to a blackboard drawing of an Easter candle that will measure 32 inches when completed. As usual the boys and girls each have their own candle and are competing for the honor of completing it first. One lad challenged with a dollar "betcha" that his aides would take the lead but his proposition was discarded on the grounds of gambling.

Confetti

Once upon a time the story came out that a man had driven his car ever so many miles (we don't recall the details) and found his two year old baby asleep on the running board when he reached his destination. It was considered a near miracle that the child did not roll off. A little incident somewhat on that order but not involving so precious a cargo was Earl Fisher's experience when a hitch-hiking hen stowed away on the rear bumper for a ride to town. Apparently roosting there for the night she simply held her perch and probably would have returned home in the same manner had not some curious fellows not interrupted her visit here at town. They say Ole Missus' Leghorn, or Orpington—we've forgotten her name—was bobbing along contentedly, riding the bumper as though it were a slat in the hen house roost. But here's the sad angle. She was too shy for the spotlight or the admiring throng and scuttled off to safety when fellows tried to force their attention upon her. Fishers are minus a talented hen and a hen is minus her happy home.

The Great Salt Lake of Utah is known the world over, but its distinction, as far as Muenster people are concerned, is destined to be overshadowed by the Little Salt Lake now under construction at Tony Treubenbach's. This does not mean that Tony is trying to corner the world's salt market. In fact the whole affair came about quite by chance. Last week a game warden happened to notice that the creek in those parts was spotted with lotsa fish all pitifully inverted and breathing at least two facts. First, the fish were in brine rather than water. Second, someone had miscalculated when he said that salt water purifies itself by soaking through 20 feet of soil. Salt water pits along the creek bank were named the source of pollution.

So Mister John Law laid down the law to Texas Company. "Dump your briny by product where it won't interfere with piscatory health and happiness," he said. And Texas Company very obligingly agreed on Little Salt Lake far enough away from the creek to avoid any likelihood of seepage to the fish. Four men with teams expect to spend at least a month hauling dirt away from the hole.

At about the same time that a crowd of students in a New York town cornered the local penny market by getting 250,000 coppers, a theatre manager in our neighboring town of Bowie decided on a coin stunt of his own just to show how town folks that his payroll brings a little cash to an awful lot of people. He paid off all his obligations for the week in silver dollars, about 500 of them. It is said that the law of gravity, responding to considerable poundage, darn near pulled the parts off the poor old landlord. And down at the 5 and 10 toward the end of the day one of the girls began to doubt whether her cash register would accept the total swag. Butchers and bakers and bootleggers and almost every body else had the privilege of handling some of those cartwheels on their roll through the city. His money scatters to lots of places in Bowie. Nevertheless we are inclined to wonder whether the velocity of the cart wheels wasn't accelerated to some extent by the fact that normal people will spend them before folding dollars, also that normal merchants get rid of them again at the first opportunity.

Perhaps men haven't been so unjust after all in their ridicule of the fantastic oddities sometimes sold under the general title of millinery. Here in Muenster we know of one case when milady proudly displayed her new bonnet at arm's length and sighed some sort of ecstatic admiration as a hint to her husband to do likewise. He said, "What is it?" Another fellow asked the lady friend whether she "intended to wear that thing." In fact, it seems that ladies can get by with any kind of headgear. On Hollywood boulevards not so long ago a lady decided to find out just how ridiculous her "hat"

GRIDIRON TO GOLF

From the gridiron to the links! Bill De Correvont, famous Chicago prep football star, has taken up golf seriously. Here he is getting his first lesson from Mel Smith, well-known pro of French Lick Springs, Indiana, who calls the youth a "natural golfer." De Correvont has entered the seventh annual Midwest Amateur Golf Tournament to be held at French Lick April 1 to 3.

must be to attract attention. In succession she paraded in the following: 1. A lampshade, quite gaudy; 2. One large rubber band; 3. Two artificial flowers; 4. One chain off a bathtub plug; 5. One shoelace. And she failed to arouse any comment.

We were all sympathy Monday for the unfortunate youth who was caught the day before "burning up the road" between Gainesville and Whitesboro. While admitting that speeding is not excusable, we do think that a twenty buck fine is a very severe blow to his financial status. Perhaps he was right in saying "there ain't no justice." He wanted to pay off in humiliation by spending a few days in hoosegow, but others decided the pay-off would be made in cash. Now he's got to cancel dates and all other fun for ever so long.

AMERICANS PAY MORE FOR TAXES THAN FOR FOOD

WASHINGTON. — American taxpayers will contribute $13,500,000,000—a fifth of the national income—to the federal, state and local governments this year, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce declared today. "The nation's tax load is increasing at a startling rate," the chamber declared in a survey of the situation. It has gone up 30 per cent in the last two years and is still rising. "The figures are disturbing. In the current fiscal year, it is estimated, the country's tax collectors—federal state and local—will dip into the national purse to the extent of $13,500,000,000. Two years ago the total tax 'take' was $10,400,000,000. This year's staggering tax burden is more than the entire nation's food bill."

CITY MAY BORROW TAR MELTING POT FROM GAINESVILLE

An offer from the City of Gainesville for the use of its asphalt melting pot is thought to be a convenient and ideal solution of Muenster's pavement repair problem. After receiving word that Secretary McMahon of the Gainesville Chamber of Commerce had requested the equipment in behalf of the City of Muenster from city officials of Gainesville, Mayor Endres made several attempts Wednesday to reach Mr. McMahon to find out when the pot will be available and to make necessary arrangements to transfer it to Muenster.

Learning last week that Muenster's contemplated street repair work is being delayed for lack of equipment, and also that the equipment would have to be purchased or built at considerable expense, Mr. McMahon, as a Chamber of Commerce executive, suggested that Gainesville lend her neighborly assistance. His idea was gladly accepted.

SHOOTING COYOTES FROM AIRPLANE IS HUNTER'S BIG SPORT

Alone, the licensed pilot heads his small monoplane into the rolling hills of Southern Idaho, spots a coyote skulking through the brush and the chase is on.

Stevens dips his plane within 100 feet of the snowy hills, then blasts away with a shotgun.

Is he accurate? On a 39-minute foray recently he bagged fourteen coyotes and one bobcat.

Approximately 100 coyotes, long a foe of the sheepman, have met death at Stevens' hands. Homemade parachutes dropped after each kill, guide ground parties to the carcasses. The business is profitable. Stevens finds a ready market for the furry pelts.
