PLAN FOR SEWER WELL RECEIVED BY CITY VOTERS

Monday Meeting Explains Two Financing Methods, Suggests Voters Either Favor or Oppose Both

An encouraging response was noted last Monday night when about 60 Muenster citizens attended a special meeting at the parish hall to discuss the proposed modern sewage disposal system.

It was a quiet meeting with little of the anticipated controversy finding a voice. Almost all remarks definitely favored approval of both revenue bearing and tax bonds to finance the project.

Mayor M. J. Endres, in charge of the meeting, first pointed out briefly that the sewer as proposed is estimated at $33,000, forty-five per cent of which is to be financed with a Federal PWA grant and the remainder by the bond issue being voted upon September 30. Since the bond issue if carried, will be only $20,000, it is taken for granted that the project will be abandoned if the PWA grant is not given. He also explained that the Federal agency will not consider Muenster's application for a grant until it has the assurance that citizens here are willing to assume their share of the financial burden.

Regarding the extent of the system Mayor Endres said that every house within the present city limits except one would be within a half block of the main.

J. M. Weinzapfel, who was called upon to explain the plan of financing, suggested that voters express their wishes by favoring or rejecting both the tax and the revenue bearing bonds, as neither system by itself would successfully finance the venture.

The revenue bearing bond alone, he said, would require connection charges so high that the service would be prohibitive to many. As to taxes, the city cannot increase the present rate more than 35 cents, which would not be sufficient to raise the necessary funds.

Mr. Weinzapfel especially favored a tax bond because it would secure about one third of the necessary revenue from utility companies and other non resident property owners, thus relieving people here of some of their expense.

He also gave figures to show the probable cost to those who connect with the sewer. The tax rate would raise about $700 annually, leaving an indebtedness of about $700 more to be met by the sewer connection charges. With sixty or more connections the cost per customer would be about $1.00 per month and would decrease proportionately as new customers were added. Considering the normal home valuation at $1,000, with a tax of $3.50, the annual cost of having a sewer would be about $15.50.

People were also reminded that from $2 to $5 could be saved annually by discontinuing the services of a colored sanitary man, and that many would realize a far greater return from wages in constructing the system than they would ever have to pay on the bonds.

Referring to the charge that a sewer would place the city tremendously in debt, Mr. Weinzapfel stated that the proposed $20,000 would not leave the city any more indebted than after the construction of the water system. Without any apparent difficulty the city has paid off a great portion of its indebtedness during depression years, and, no doubt can continue paying without undue burdens on the citizens.

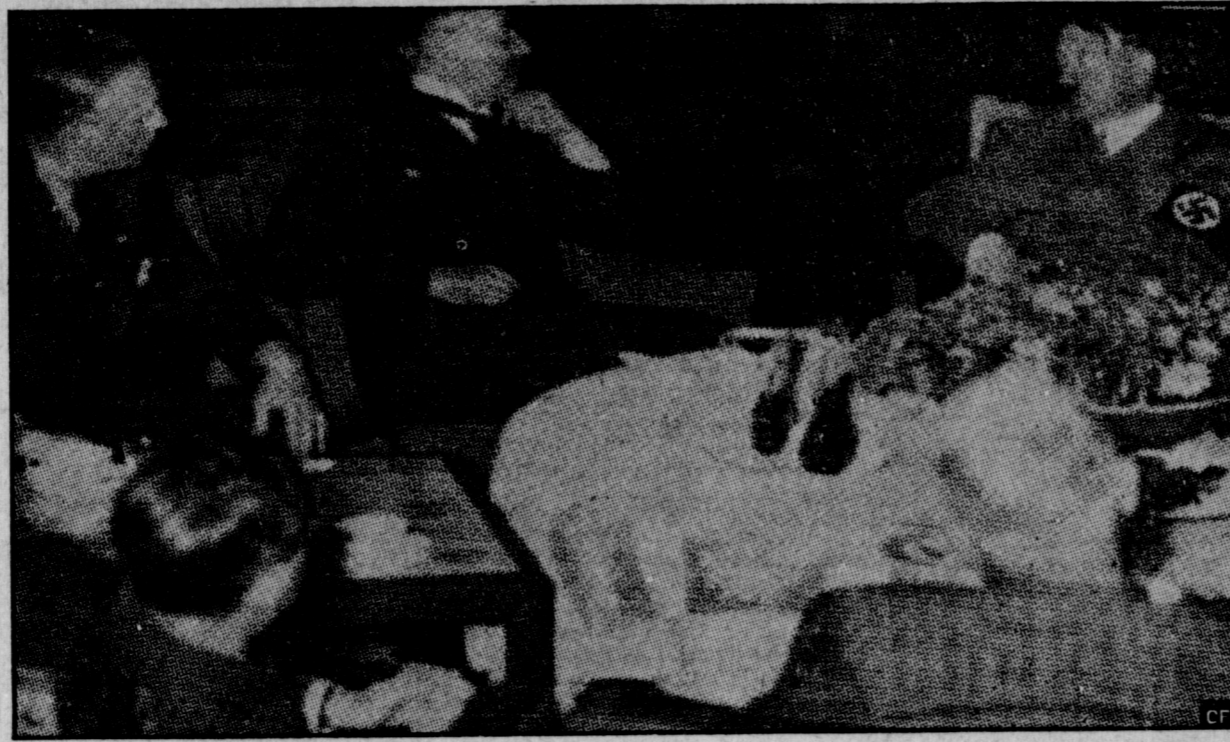

The cost of making sewer connections is to be assumed by the homes and business houses. In that respect the expense was estimated as being less than the cost of installing a septic tank.

Government statistics were also quoted as indicating that septic tanks eventually give trouble. Many of this city have already experienced such trouble. The sewer was mentioned as a means of eliminating the inconvenience and expense caused by such trouble.

Following Mr. Weinzapfel's remarks, Herbert Meurer explained the necessity of using separate ballots for the two bond proposals and suggested that voters either accept or reject both.

Mrs. J. S. Horn has as her guest Mrs. Louise Weiss of Omaha, Nebraska. Mrs. Horn and Mrs. Weiss share a friendship of over 50 years, beginning when they were classmates.

We Are Glad

We rejoice with 474 members of the Cooke County Electric Co-operative Association on their success in securing the Federal loan that will bring electricity into their homes. We are glad with them that they have this opportunity of coming out of the darkness, of bringing into their lives a few of the luxuries they have waited for so many years, of easing their daily labors with the assistance of civilization's cheapest and most versatile hired hand.

This paper has done all in its power to aid the success of the rural electrification project. By way of celebration now it takes this opportunity to bring the glad tidings to members who have already applied for current, and a final appeal to several hundred prospects who have a few more days to avail themselves of one of nature's greatest gifts.

This special edition will reach 650 persons besides those on our regular mailing list. We think and we hope we have overlooked no one who is interested.

We hope also that this edition will secure a final decision from many who could bring more pleasure to themselves and greater success to the electrification project.

ATTRACTIVE BUILDING WELCOMES PAROCHIAL HIGH PUPILS MONDAY

Present indications are that the new building at the Parochial school will be entirely completed so that students enrolling next Monday will experience no hindrance whatsoever in starting their class work. Such was the opinion of Henry Fleitman, foreman of construction work, on Wednesday afternoon. Nothing but finishing work and cleaning up on the premises remained to be done at that time.

The new building is a treat for the eyes to many who expected it to look like a patch job. Despite the fact that it was made of an old building discarded for several years and that a great deal of the work was done by unskilled labor, it is neat, cheery and substantial, both outside and inside.

The old weather beaten exterior has been covered with ornamental sheet metal somewhat like that on the parish hall. Sheet rock painted a light blue has been used for all inside walls. Ceilings are of buff painted sheet rock. The floor is oak.

Thoroughly re-braced and resting on a solid foundation the building is said to be good for at least 20 or 25 years. In point of comfort also it comes well up to standard with two inside walls and lumber, building paper and metal for the outside. Ample illumination will be provided by six windows for each of the two class rooms and twelve for the assembly room upstairs.

Concrete work for porch and sidewalk were completed Wednesday.

Frank Hoedebeck was the guest of friends in Fort Worth Sunday.

SISTERS BOOST U. S., APPROVE LEISURELY CUSTOMS OF SWISS

Their summer vacation with home folks back in Switzerland was the most thrilling experience of their lives, but Sisters Bertha, Anastasia, and Theresina never once forgot that they were Americans boosting their chosen country. Sister Bertha said she seldom missed an opportunity of telling about the advantages here.

But while gaining a new sense of appreciation for America the trio found features of European life that could well be put to use here. People there do not rush from the cradle to the grave as we Americans do. They are leisurely and, while they are not blessed with the abundance that we Americans know, apparently get a great deal more out of life. In her native village, Sister Anastasia said, one can hear whistling, singing, and yodeling at almost any time of the day. People find time to do it while they work, and work does not seem quite so much like work.

Along certain borders, however, the cheerful attitude is not quite so prevalent. Unrest, threatening to break into war, seems to cast its gloom across the line. Switzerland is especially conspicuous for its beauty. From the scenic beauty of its rugged Alps to the painstaking artwork of Cathedrals and village churches, nature and man have been working hand in hand for centuries. Another attractive feature is the scrupulous neatness of cities and villages. Nothing unsightly is permitted to lie about. Every little plot of ground is sowed in flowers or vegetables.

KNIGHTS TAKE STEPS TO PREVENT SHOWING OF 'BLOCKADE' MOVIE

In a special district meeting held at Gainesville last Sunday about forty Knights of Columbus went on record as being unalterably opposed to the showing of the film "Blockade." Their resolution was passed in accordance with the expressed wishes of the Church hierarchy and Knights of Columbus leaders that Catholics and Knights everywhere suppress the picture.

State Deputy C. K. Walsh of Wichita Falls denounced the film as Communist propaganda and called upon members present to exert their influence in order to prevent its showing at Gainesville. "Since it has a subversive influence and plays directly into the hands of the Red Menace," he said, "Knights of Columbus have a duty as Christians and as Americans, to see that it spreads as little evil as possible."

He denounced as untrue a statement recently issued in one of the county papers that Knights of Columbus in Dallas withdrew their objections to the film after seeing it in a private screening. His refutation was based upon a telephone call to the Grand Knight of the Dallas Council.

Referring to the proposal for a private screening in Gainesville, where a select group would be permitted to pass judgment on the picture, the state deputy suggested that knights accept the opinions of national leaders of their order rather than attempt to form opinions of their own.

The reason for opposing the film, is that it is subtle Red propaganda in behalf of Communists in Spain. It is supposed to leave the impression that Loyalists are fighting a gallant battle in defense of democracy and constitutionality and that the Franco forces are traitors. Actually, according to Catholic viewpoints, the so-called Rebels are defending the ancient religion, civilization, and tradition in Spain against Moscow aggression.

170 CHILDREN REPORT FOR OPENING DAY AT LINDSAY SCHOOL

Lindsay.—Monday, September 19, marked the opening date of the fall term of the Lindsay School.

Prior to registration the student body repaired to Saint Peter's Church where a high mass in honor of the Holy Spirit was celebrated by Rev. Father Conrad, pastor.

One hundred and twenty children were enrolled in the grammar grades and fifty in the high school. No regular classes were conducted on the first day, the pupils spending their time getting acquainted with their teachers, adjusting themselves to new surroundings, reviving old friendships and forming new ones.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Martini and two children of Windthorst spent the week-end here with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Schenk and also visited with the Joe and Hubert Wilde families.

Federal Loan of $178,000 Granted For Construction Of Lines In Cooke County

MAJOR K-C INITIATION PLANNED FOR DENISON SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 13

A major degree initiation for Knights of Columbus in this district will be held in Denison on November 13, it was decided at a regional meeting of the order in Gainesville last Sunday with District Deputy Francis Mooney presiding. State Deputy C. K. Walsh attended and delivered the principle address. Others attending were officers of the five district councils, Muenster, Gainesville, Denison, Sherman and Pilot Point, and District Deputy Joe Hesse of Wichita Falls.

A highlight of the meeting was the address of Mr. Walsh, in which he stressed again his oft-repeated warning about the threats of Communism. He called attention to Red tactics of boring from within, as recently revealed in press dispatches. He called on Knights to be constantly on guard against activities or principles that attack religion and Americanism. He urged them especially to live so that their very existence would be a plea in favor of Christian Democracy. "It takes more nerve and character to live up to ideals," he said, "than to shout about them. Actions speak louder than words and should be Christianity's first line of defense."

Reports by grand knights of the several councils on activities during recent months and plans for the immediate future also came to the attention of the assemblage. All councils announced intentions to sponsor special programs in observance of Columbus day.

OIL FIELD WORKERS HELP DISABLED PAL WITH BENEFIT GAME

Muenster's softball season will probably come to an end with Friday night's benefit game between the "Smoke-eaters and Grease Balls." As in the Fat and Lean and All Star games admission charges of 5 and 10 cents will probably replace the custom of passing the hat.

The firemen are taking this opportunity of adding to their treasury fund whereas the oil field workers will use their share of the 50-50 split to make up a gift purse for George Cates, formerly a worker in the local field but now in poor health and unable to continue work.

Friends advise that since leaving here about a year ago Mr. Cates has been constantly under the care of a Wichita Falls doctor and has made two unsuccessful trips to the Mayo Clinic. Little hope is held for his recovery.

It is probable that Friday night's program will be a double header with Myra and Poss Swirczynski's teams mixing it for the final joust. Those teams had been asked to give up their date for the benefit game, but efforts are now in progress to gather the groups together again.

"BLOCKADE" BOOKING CANCELLED TUESDAY BY GAINESVILLE SHOW

"Blockade," a picture being opposed by Catholic hierarchy and societies all over the nation, will not be shown in Gainesville, Martin Wade, manager of the Majestic, stated Tuesday after a conference with Father J.P. Brady and Joe Walter. The two presented their request in behalf of the Knights of Columbus and the Saint Mary's Parish in Gainesville. Co-operating fully, Mr. Wade said that the contemplated private screening has also been cancelled.

Father Francis Zimmerer, grand knight of the Knights of Columbus and assistant pastor of Muenster, stated Wednesday that Mr. Wade merits the gratitude of Catholics generally for his fair mindedness through the entire controversy. When first informed that the film was objectionable he offered to present it in a private showing and give Catholics an opportunity to approve or reject it. When told that local Catholics were willing to accept opinions of their leaders elsewhere on the picture's merit, he agreed to cancel the private showing also.

Expect Engineers to Begin Next Week, Deadline for Accepting Applications Only a Few Days Off

Muenster's Rural Electrification Allotment has been granted.

Word received Monday indicated that the application submitted by the Cooke County Electric Cooperative Association received the approval of REA officials at Washington, and that the local project will be favored with a Federal loan of $178,000 for building 194 miles of line serving more than 450 consumers.

Apparently action was taken immediately upon receipt of a telegram from J. W. Hess, manager of the project, that the required number of additional service applications along the proposed line to bring the total to 450 had been secured.

Earlier last week the co-op received a message instructing it to sign up 29 more members so that the project would show no less than 450 or no more than 200 miles. After their regular meeting Thursday night the officers and directors started Friday morning with a last ining enthusiasm that brought the desired results.

As it now stands, Mr. Hess stated, the co-op has 474 members. Some few of those, however, constitute the first step of an extension into new territory and cannot be considered as a part of the present project. 194 miles is the estimated length of line needed to serve the territory approved.

Early Tuesday morning Mr. Hess received a call from State Engineer Wm. G. Morrison of Waco advising him that engineers would arrive here Monday to begin checking the map and prepare for staking the line. He expects their work to last about one week.

Until staking begins, he said, prospective consumers will have their last chance of being included in the project. Those who have not signed up by the deadline date will have lost their opportunity to receive current.

The co-op is particularly anxious to secure as many consumers as possible during the short time allotted. The more customers the more chance the business has of operating efficiently and offering more attractive rates. However, no one will spend more time canvassing the country for additional service applications. The local office will be open every day to accept the applications.

It was also mentioned that several right of way easements still lack the signatures of property owners before a notary. All who remember their easements as being incomplete in this respect are respectfully asked to stop at the office and complete the documents.

Fear that the $5.00 membership fee which is to serve also as a meter deposit, might not be returned is completely dispelled by the allotment. By the rules of the organization all promotional expenses were to be pro-rated against the membership fees, but if allotment was received no one was to lose any part of his fee. The co-op can now make an offer of "everything to win and nothing to lose." The man who applies for current will either receive it and have his money applied as a meter deposit, or, in case he cannot be reached by the line, will be refunded his full membership fee of $5.00.

Mr. Hess was not able to advise definitely on the time that actual line building would start or when current would first be turned on. He did, however, mention Mr. Morrison's statement that, once the money is allotted, Washington asks for as rapid progress as possible.

LUKE CHILD ESCAPES INJURY IN FALL FROM MOVING AUTOMOBILE

Little Mary Anne Luke, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Luke received numerous bruises but escaped serious injury Monday afternoon when she fell out of the family automobile on Highway 5 just beyond the overpass.

Miss Elfreda Luke, the child's sister, estimated her driving speed at the time at about 35 to 40. She is of the opinion that the child accidentally unlatched the door and that the wind blew it open, jerking the child along. Her escape, considering the car's speed, was regarded as little less than miraculous.

ODELIA SEYLER AND ALEX LUTKENHAUS MARRIED SATURDAY

Nuptial services uniting Miss Odellia Seyler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Seyler, and Alex Lutkenhaus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lutkenhaus, were performed Saturday morning at 8 o'clock in Saint Patrick's church in Fort Worth, with the pastor, Rev. Ernest Langenhorst, officiating.

For her wedding gown, the bride chose a frock of turquoise blue taffeta made princess style with a fitted bodice covered with a short bolero jacket. The skirt was full and extended to the floor. Her bridal veil of blue net was held in place with sprays of pink rosebuds and her arm bouquet was composed of pink rosebuds and fern. For her "something old" the bride wore a lovely gold cross and chain.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Catherine Seyler, as maid of honor. Her dress of peach colored net over taffeta was made identical to the bride's and she wore a spray of pink rosebuds and a blue ribbon as a hairdress.

Bill Lutkenhaus, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

The church services were followed immediately by a breakfast and informal reception in the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Elwyn Hope, in Fort Worth. The bride's table was covered with a handsome lace cloth and was centered with a three-tiered, decorated wedding cake, flanked by bowls of cut flowers. Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Anderson of Gainesville were also present.

The breakfast preceded the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Lutkenhaus on a wedding trip. Upon their return they will make their home in Gainesville on West California street.

But the real job which calls for all the banking knowledge, experience, intelligence, and strength of character which he possesses, is that of safeguarding the bank's money while it is out of the bank—in loans and investments.

Good management must throw a shield around every dollar that is out working for the community or that is a part of some of the bank's investments.  * BEHIND THE SCENES * in AMERICAN BUSINESS * *****

By JOHN CRADDOCK

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—BUSINESS—Advent of cooler weather the last two weeks has boosted sales of department stores and other retail merchants in many sections of the country, with the result that the nation's retail sales this month may better the total for September, 1937. Optimism over long term business prospects is being generated by government spokesmen like Nathan Straus, U. S. Housing Administrator, who last week forecast one of the biggest building booms in America's history, and Secretary of Commerce Roper who said there has been no slackening of the recovery movement which has been noted since mid-June. Statistical evidence of business improvement includes reports that August steel production was best in 10 months, that railroad carloadings the week preceding Labor Day reached a new 1938 peak and that furniture manufacturers received more orders in the final half of August than in any previous two-week period this year.

WASHINGTON.—The National Resources Committee has submitted an interesting report to President Roosevelt showing that the average income of all American families in the fiscal year 1935-1936 was $1,622 and the average for all single individuals, $1,151. The average income of the poorest 13 million families and single persons—was $471. For the middle third of the nation whose incomes ranged from $780 to $1,450, the average was $1,076. For the highest third, with incomes ranging from $1,450 to more than $1,000,000 a year, the average was $3,000.

THE LIGHTER SIDE—Growers in Georgia are harnessing electricity to remove the fur from peaches—76 year old William C. Durant, former president of General Motors and reputedly worth $100,000,000 at the peak of his career, will sell at auction his $500,000 summer home in New Jersey and his $250,000 art and furniture collection; he plans to live the rest of his life on proceeds as his business days are over—A three ton elephant can stand supported on a half-inch sheet of a new tempered plate glass, called tuf-flex, without breaking it—A drug store in Dallas, Texas, has been closed only six hours since its original opening in 1908, once during a funeral of owner's relative, once during a World War parade, and recently because of a Go To Church drive.

BOOSTING ELECTRIC SALES—Utility company operators and electric appliance dealers are watching with interest a drive by the Consolidated Edison Company here to push the sale of electric appliances. More appliances in the home mean greater consumption of electric power. The utility offer being made through 900 dealers, including several department stores, consists of a four-unit package—radio, iron, electric toaster and floor lamp—at less than one-half the list price for these items if purchased separately. Results of the campaign so far have exceeded expectations, a company official reports. In the first six days, 11,984 of the combination sets were sold, he said.

BUSES THAT BEND—Competition for passenger traffic between railroads, airlines and bus companies is bringing a new era in transportation equipment. Latest vehicle for mass movement of passengers is a lightweight aluminum-alloy bus capable of carrying up to 140 persons. The first bus ever built with trolley car capacity, it is nearly 50 feet in length and steers with both front and back wheels like a hook and ladder fire-engine. To enable the bus to negotiate humps and depressions in the road, engineers of the Twin Coach and the B. F. Goodrich companies cooperated in designing a flexible rubber hood and mid-joint. This takes the strain off the bus by allowing it to bend in the middle. After completion of test runs it will be first placed in service in Baltimore, Md.

THINGS TO WATCH FOR—Men wearing neckties with bold initials imprinted on the silk, a new novelty from Paris—Beer marketed in seven ounce bottles for five cents to meet soft drink competition—A new drug being experimented with at Yale Institute of Human Relations which is said to raise a person's "level of living" both mental and physical—Stream-lined bird cages to go with modern furniture in the home—New poultry and cattle feed called "semi solid produlac," a by-product of whiskey-making—An electric baby blanket which automatically adjusts itself to varying nursery temperatures.

HEADLINES IN NEW YORK—Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company paid employees 38.9 cents of each dollar of sales in 1937, 31.4 cents for materials and supplies, 7.4 cents to stockholders and 5.7 cents in taxes.—Air transport industry to need new capital soon—Mack Truck orders show increase—Agriculture Department estimates 11,850,000 bale cotton crop; compares with 18,946,000 record last year—Contracts awarded for engineering construction in first 8 months up 3.7 per cent over period last year—Proposal to broaden scope of Social Security Act due at next session of Congress—Deliveries of rayon yarn broke all records in July and August.

HEALTH IS MORE PRECIOUS

"Health is more precious than wealth," is the remark very aptly made by Father Frowin last Sunday when calling attention to a city wide meeting for the purpose of discussing the proposed sewer for Muenster.

For the sake of every resident now and in years to come it is important that voters consider the health angle most seriously. The warning about epidemics is not a mere line of propaganda, but an actual threat. Ask the health authorities. The presence of dysentery causing hundreds of man-days of miserable feeling and eliminating a proportional sum of wages is an actual fact. Ask the doctor who treats them or the drugstore who sells them medicines.

Several months ago this column told of an inquiry by an order of sisters relative to setting up a hospital here, and how all interest was dropped like a hot coal when it was disclosed that Muenster has no sewer. Hospital people know what kind of threat is offered by unsanitary conditions.

There have been people who considered making their homes in Muenster until the lack of adequate sewage disposal came up as a discouraging factor. No doubt others in the future will have similar intentions and arrive at similar decisions unless Muenster provides healthful living conditions.

Failure of the Muenster people to put in a sewer is equivalent to driving its coming generations out of the community. It is hardly necessary to mention that farming, business, and industry here have reached their saturation points. The limited number that has been moving elsewhere is destined to increase rapidly unless living conditions are made as pleasant here as elsewhere.

There are possibilities of setting up new industries and businesses. Muenster has a reserve of dependable labor that would bring joy to the heart of any employer. But where is the employer who is willing to make investments in a city that does not offer modern conveniences and health standards for his men and their families.

Monday's meeting proposed methods of financing a sewer bond. The people's concern now should be to select the most practical method. The main issue of deciding whether or not there will be a sewer should already have a general affirmative answer.

BLOCK "BLOCKADE"

By passing a resolution to oppose the showing of "Blockade" in Gainesville, the Knights of Columbus performed a worthwhile service to their church, to all organized religion, and to this nation.

It matters not that reports here and there claim the film does not openly sponsor Communism, that few would recognize it as propaganda had it not been so labeled. Leaders say the subversive effect is there, so cleverly disguised that people are led to sympathize with Spanish Reds, hence to play directly into the hands of Communism.

It matters not that a private showing has been offered to give Catholics, the principal objectors, a chance to see the picture and pass judgment. Local Knights choose not to decide for themselves in this question but to accept the opinions of their leaders. On the suggestion of those leaders they respectfully ask that the picture be cancelled in Gainesville.

By such instruments as "Blockade" the subtle seeds of poison are sown. All Christians should suppress it. It favors an organization pledged to the destruction of Christianity.

RIGHTS OF OUR MINORITY

For the first time in the history of this community a school bus comes into Muenster, gathers about twenty children, and carries them to another district in another county. How many of our people have not considered this circumstance as a stinging reflection on our system? That this community, frequently pointed to as one of the most thriving in the state, should be playing second fiddle to one of its neighbors in the matter of educational facilities is, to put it mildly, a bitter pill to swallow.

No doubt this charge would call forth a deluge of disagreement. For has not our parochial school been working feverishly the past few years to raise its standards to a par with the best in the state?

That is just the point. As Catholics the people here have made splendid progress in their school system. They are entitled to volumes of praise for their heroic sacrifices to maintain a sound course of religion and morality along with the usual standard courses. But at the same time they have neglected a fundamental duty of citizenship in not providing a better public school. Expecting four teachers to carry the burden of eleven grades and give each the attention it deserves is simply expecting too much.

True, all previous proposals to improve the public school were unfavorably received because they involved a school tax. Catholics, many of them already paying more toward school support than people in the most highly taxed districts, were reasonable in opposing the added burden, especially when they expected their children to attend only the parochial school.

Our hope now is that a system giving the minority Protestant children a better break can be worked out. They are American citizens as well as ourselves. They have a right to greater opportunities than have been open to them in the past. Can the Catholics of this community deny them such opportunities when, at the same time, they are adding to their own opportunity but not imposing additional expense upon themselves?

A harmonious, co-operative agreement between the two schools can bring the desired results. By such an arrangement the parochial school need not surrender its independence to the state, hence need not have to open its doors to Catholic and Protestant alike for certain specified courses, give up its religious courses. But it would and in return expect both Catholic and Protestant to take other courses at the public school. Such an arrangement has the dual advantage of giving pupils more time for each course and lessening each teacher's work.

This arrangement, of course would conflict with Canon Law 1,374: "Catholic children should not attend non-Catholic schools, that is, such as are also open to non-Catholics." A conservative estimate would list no less than 95 per cent of the Catholic schools in violation of that law. Where is the private Catholic academy or college that does not admit non-Catholics? How many parochial schools do not admit them? Was there not a time when non-Catholics were admitted to the Muenster Parochial school? That Canon can well be regarded as on par with state laws that once served a purpose but have become meaningless in modern times.

It seems rather difficult to reconcile that Canon with Christ's injunction to "Go and teach all nations." It also seems difficult to understand how Catholics, who believe their religion offers more than any other, could fear a decline in fervor or membership because of mingling with non-Catholics. If the Church, facing the modern trend toward ir-religion, was able to increase its membership in this nation from 18 to 21 million in the past twelve years, does it seem logical to assume it will lose ground in a stronghold such as Muenster? On the contrary this should be a most fertile field for conversions. Like charity, missionary work could well begin at home.

For several decades the Catholics of this community have been aloof to the point of intolerance. They can bring themselves better harmony in every day relations by recognizing the rights of the minority and inviting them to share in the benefits of a more complete school system. After that is done there may be a few non-Catholics who would decline to accept the opportunity. But none of them could deny that Catholics had been fair and practical.

What Others Say

IT CAN'T BE DONE

Those "power politicians" who attempt to justify the government's various hydro-electric projects, existing and potential, on the grounds of flood control would do well to discuss the topic with any competent engineer before airing their views. For, as every school child should know, a power dam must be kept full of water in order to produce current, and so cannot be used to receive the run-off in time of flood. And a flood control dam must be kept empty, and so is useless for power production.

The Dallas News put the case neatly when it says: "The whole trouble in the matter of the Colorado dams and many other similar projects, is that they are sham dams. They pretend to be one thing when they are another... Trickiness is an essential element in the power formula. Anyway to get by—that is the idea. That is the rule of the improviser, the extemporiser, the opportunist. But it is a poor rule for statecraft."

The government has defended its power projects before the Supreme Court on the grounds that they are primarily for flood control, soil conservation, inland waterway improvement, or what not, and that the production of power is a minor incidental. This technicality has won cases, thus demonstrating that it is often a simple matter to circumvent the spirit of the law if you pay lip service to the letter. But it has certainly not won public respect. As everyone knows, power, and power alone, is the dominating factor in the hydro program. Government spokesmen frankly admit this—when out of court. There's a good word for that—and the word is hypocrisy.

There is an unquestioned need for additional flood control in certain sections of this country. All that is required is the construction of dams and reservoirs which will be kept empty until a crisis occurs, and then used to store the surplus water until it can be slowly and safely disposed of. But a project which will produce power is not only useless for flood control, but in certain instances makes the chance of destructive flood more likely. That is the fact of the matter—and all the political opportunism in the world can't change it.—Lamar County Echo.

YOUR HOME PAPER

If you are the type of person who is inclined to reflect an indifferent attitude toward your home newspaper—this newspaper because it is only a weekly instead of a daily, a little personal and community reflection might do you and your community good. If it does print only once a week, your home newspaper is the only one which has done you and yours the honor of placing you and your activities in first page headlines, it is the only paper, so far as visible evidence is concerned that has found out about your existence.

Your home paper laughs with you when you are happy, sympathizes with you when sorrow overtakes you; it is the only newspaper whose editor surmounts the time to contact you personally for publicity of mutual interest; the great dailies are indispensable, but cold and impersonal, without any motive for publicizing your community, your business, yourself or your family.

In pursuance of any and all community undertakings of community interest, you may find your editor or a staff member present, and giving his time and paying his money for the privilege of writing and boosting your community.

How many editors or staff members of the big dailies have paid to attend your meetings or have labored to publicize your community and its activities?

Many columns and headlines are published every week in your home paper—in pursuance of the effort at building and advancing your community. How many lines do you see in the dailies?

If your local weekly newspaper is insignificant in comparison, it is far more loyal to you and your community than the big daily; the editor keeps his pulse on your community.

For every dime that you spend with your home weekly newspaper it renders untold free publicity and service to your community.

Again if this paper is insignificant compared with the big dailies, how does your business compare with Sears, Roebuck Company or how does your town compare to Birmingham or Atlanta in size and population? These are plain facts; something for the average citizen to think about.—Piedmont (Ala.) Journal.

WHAT EVERY MAN OWES HIMSELF

It isn't fun to be thrifty when you're young. It's more pleasant to spend ten dollars for amusements than to put it in a bank or a life insurance policy. When you grow old it becomes a different story. Tens of thousands of men now in dire want once had good jobs, substantial incomes, and even fortunes. They had "fun" then. They're paying the piper now. They can look forward to spending their declining years as wards of public or private charitable agencies, remembering with bitterness what might have been. Every man owes it to himself, to his dependents and to society in which he lives to prepare for the exigencies of the future.—Big Spring News.

Confetti

By CON FETTE

A man down in Miami, Florida is entitled to first place on the "dumb list" of this nation's car drivers. When a policeman told him to dim his lights he replied that he didn't know how. And he had been driving his car four years!!

This is only one glaring incident in thousands of driving boners everyday. It is another good reason to support the claim that every motorist should be required to pass an examination on general common sense rules and traffic laws. We wonder what percentage of drivers know the correct signals for right and left turns and for stops. We wonder also what percentage know the safe way of turning to right or left, or how many realize the greater margin of safety in meeting on-coming cars with the light beams cast down. Judging from the usual highway behavior one is inclined to suspect that the normal driver is either ignorant or intentionally reckless.

Poor driving is inexcusable when lives are at stake. Our state and our nation both need to crack down on incompetence. Officials could easily see to it that every driver has the opportunity to learn a set of common sense safety rules, and set a deadline after which severe penalties would be imposed for transgression. There is a saying that ignorance does not excuse one from the law. With thousands of laws on record that regulation seems unreasonable. We suggest giving drivers a chance to learn, but then crack the whip.

Those who have heard "college bred" referred to as a "four year loaf" can get new ideas on the subject from these few high points in the account of a fellow who financed his charge through the freshmen and sophomore years, and then called it quits. "After the first year the only change I could see in the boy was that he had a little more curve on his out-drop and that he had increased his capacity for hard liquor. The next year I noticed that no matter how drunk he got he could roll a cigarette with one hand while supporting himself against a wall with the other. After that he left my payroll. I don't know where he is now, probably in jail or on relief." Now guess, was the speaker a humorist or a pessimist?

While on the subject of college boys and girls we are reminded that another list has received nomination for the title of the "ten most beautiful words in the language." A famous poet visiting the campus at Texas State College for Women at Denton a few weeks ago was nonplussed when his request was answered with the following: holiday, letter, check, dollar, food, date night, class-dissmised, movies, sleep, truckin'.

While dictators and politicians over in Europe are making ugly faces at one another and their propaganda doped suckers are indulging in riots, we Americans sit back in suspense wondering when the whole sale butchery will actually start. It does seem a wicked old world, doesn't it? To think that a few gangs of fussy guys in the upper brackets, always thirsting for more power, should line up the cream of their crop for cannon fodder. It goes against the grain to think that useful young men must sacrifice their lives, that women and children must endure heartbreak and starvation, to gratify the power lust of egotistical boobs. Perhaps we can't place the blame on the guilty persons but we can say that the ones responsible for the mess have no right to live.

We voice a hearty Amen to the suggestion that all instigators of the quarrel over there be thrown into an arena and told to fight it out to the bitter end. That method would save countless lives and untold misery besides removing the cores of those boils.

Just in case you didn't know:—

We are due to have a tough winter, that is, if there is any truth in the statement that heavier husks on corn predict unmistakably.

The little bow at the back of the sweatband in a man's hat is just an ornament now, but it is a carry over from a very practical arrangement. Before hats were made for exact headsize a small adjusting ribbon was run all around the band and tied to the desired size at the rear. The rest of the ribbon was taken out, but somehow the bow was kept.

One of the fair damsels of our school was ever so sure that her new teacher is unmarried "because she heard that he had a Bachelor's Degree."

A midnight serenade made up of a sour voice and an out of tune mandolin moaning through mournful cowboy ballads may be just the right thing to put calves to sleep on the range, but it keeps people awake in the city.

They tell of Father Gregory, who tuned the organ at church about two weeks ago and is quite generally recognized as a master musician, that he was an ardent music lover ever since his folks gave him a Jew's harp for a teething ring. You and I and probably everybody else are breaking laws every day. To carry pliers, for instance, is a grave offense. It was once regarded as all but conclusive evidence that the culprit was a fence clipper, quite likely also a cattle rustler. Then again, how many of us, when meeting horses on the road, will stop our cars and gallantly assist in leading the terrified animals past the wheezing, sputtering machine? Or how many pay any mind to the ordinance that bars automobiles from the thoroughfares of Gainesville?

Wednesday night the North all stars clicked well in the second game and won easily. The final was a poor exhibition of baseball, the home lads making almost as many errors and boners as good plays.

In discussing the past season, Paul Nieball, skipper of the league, said that he was very well satisfied with the entire affair. He was cheered by reports that every one of the visiting teams will return for another schedule next year, and that all of them enjoyed their series of games, especially the fact that they did not have a single dispute. Mr. Nieball also said that other teams have already entered their names for next year, but this year's teams will be given preference. They are entitled to it, he added. Most of the boys were riding trucks 30 or 40 miles a night to hold up their end of the schedule.

Financially the season was successful enough to permit a refund of the entrance fee to each club and the division of a cash prize among the three leaders. Mount Tabor, the Muenster Juniors, and Stony Point were in the money. In addition the all stars received a small purse split 60-40, for their three game series.

The Muenster youngsters held their winning streak just long enough. After 18 consecutive starts in their favor they bowed before the South side stars then permitted the Linn boys to eke out a one point victory.

Mrs. M. J. Endres and Mrs. William Walterscheid attended the diocesan retreat in Dallas over the week-end. Mrs. Walterscheid came home Sunday evening with her daughter, Miss Irene, who drove up to bring her back. Mrs. Endres remained until Monday evening, visiting with her daughter, Sister Agnes, who is teaching at Saint Cecilia's school in Dallas this year.
