A news item last week that seemed to get specially favored attention was the reversal of testimony by a young Nicaragua rebel concerning war activity he has seen in the current struggle. Apparently he had originally told that the Marxist regime was guilty of atrocity and supporting the El Salvador revolution, and then changed his story completely.

He said he had been coerced into making the former statement, which the US Administration had quoted as justification for its policy in the Salvador controversy, that is, that the government there is on the right side of the issue and deserves whatever help US can give it.

The distasteful part of the interview was the manner of presentation, with the producer making a special effort to embarrass the Administration for being caught in a lie. It was a shameful case of discrediting our country on the word of a young communist, who was later called a liar by President Reagan.

Obviously the TV people did not bother about a few important considerations in the show. One is that the man admitted telling two stories. How could they determine which of the versions was correct? And the next is that Reds have no scruples about lying, so the revised account of his story may have been the untrue part, and the public really has no direct evidence on which to judge. Nevertheless we the people are encouraged to think the worst about our country and the best about the Communists.

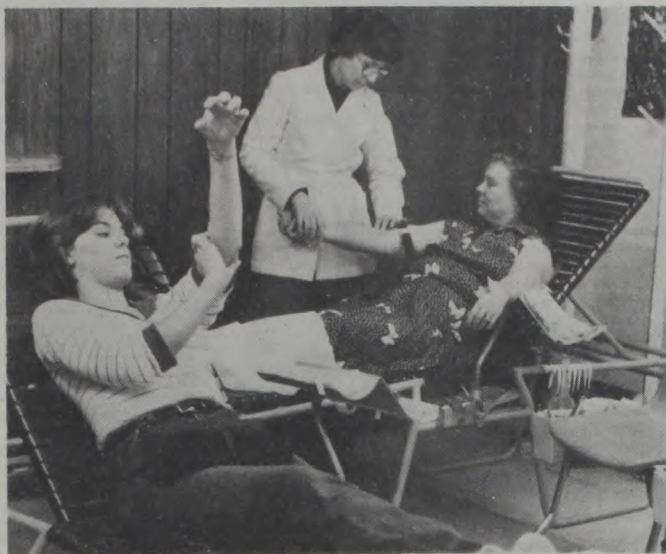

Occasionally we hear remarks nowadays about El Salvador as another Vietnam, a remark that can apply in various ways. The conflict is another case of communists trying to topple an established government, with abundant help in troops and equipment from Red countries, and our involvement refers to our help in behalf of the correct government. In that regard the application can extend to the disappointing end in which US was humbled, the reds were victorious, and the promised "liberation" became genocide, starvation and slavery. As at Vietnam, this could end as a catastrophe for civilized people and triumph of chaos and wickedness.

Another Vietnam characteristic exists in last week's TV interview of the guerrilla soldier. Again the media is going all out to make its country look bad before its own people and before the world. The propaganda campaign is in high gear. The media keeps relating incidents favoring the Reds and demonstrations of US crowds insisting that we stay out of the mess, or mean mouthing President Reagan for favoring the legitimate government.

Without question we are having a repeat of Vietnam, in this country as well as the Central American countries who have to endure the terrors. In fact, the circumstances are so similar that we can predict the outcome... unless US realizes at once that President Reagan is correct. The bitter end of Vietnam will be repeated unless lots of us will come to our senses very soon.

When referring to sabotage in the news, we don't have to confine the complaints to local coverage. A hassle now in progress reveals that Voice of America is about as biased against US as the domestic presentation. Con-

Tina Hesse and Bernice Sicking were two of the 80 donors at the community blood collection Wednesday. Muenster is one of 42 communities which have their blood needs met through the Wichita Falls Red Cross blood center and each takes its turn in providing for all of the system.

Community donates 80 units in Red Cross blood drive

Response was good though not record breaking Wednesday at the community's regular blood collection. At the 7 p.m. closing time 80 donors had given and three more were willing to give but could not be accepted because of physical condition or medical history. A year ago the community set a record with a total of 140 pints.

Collection was made by the Bloodmobile of Red Cross Blood Center of Wichita Falls, with equipment set up in the K of C Hall and its staff assisted by nurses and technicians of Muenster Memorial Hospital and members of the Hospital Auxiliary. Other helpers were members of Sacred Heart student council.

The local blood collection program is part of a system serving 42 communities in North Texas and South Oklahoma enabling all to draw on the Wichita Falls blood center for their needs, and each supplying for the entire system in its turn. A special benefit is that the blood is free because it was donated. The only cost for a transfusion is service charges. This benefit is available to all patients of

Brown airs ag problems at Co-op meeting

Reagan V. Brown, Texas Agriculture Commissioner, entertained and inspired last Friday night as speaker at the annual Red River Farm Co-op meeting in Cooke County College.

Mingled with his array of humor, he referred briefly to the history and services of farm cooperatives in the state and nation and also reviewed problems facing agriculture and suggested corrective measures.

He said Texas has roughly 500 farmer co-ops and the nation has 6,500, also state co-ops do $2 billion of business a year and national co-ops $40 billion. He noted that only 2.4 million farmers and ranchers remain in the United States and one of the most valuable functions of a co-op is to multiply the farmer's clout... in the marketplace, in the government policy-making process, and in a number of other areas.

Regarding the current farm problems, he said Texas ranks third in the nation in farm production, however farm prosperity keeps lagging because of a poor farm market. Prices are depressed by a surplus even when thousands of people die daily from starvation. "We have to sell our agriculture products to anyone at the best price we can get," he said. "That includes the Soviet Union, Libya, or anyone else."

Brown also referred to modern technology as a way to increase farm profits. It helps to keep pace with ways of cutting production costs and increasing yields and improving quality. An outstanding development in that area is transferring embryos from high grade cattle to lesser grades in early pregnancy to obtain several quality calves from the same original parent. As many as eight calves a year, valued at $50,000 each, have been produced in that way.

Processing was named as another way to get more ag dollars. Additional markets can be created by canning, freezing and drying to avoid spoiling as well as saving on shipping and storing.

Also at the meeting, Charles Whittingham, manager, presented a financial report of the year's business and three members were elected to the board of directors. They are Julian Walterscheid, Gene Deckard and Mike Fuhrman. Also Leonard Bayer and Gary Perryman were elected junior directors.

Former directors who continue on the board are Ed Schad, Peter Prescher, Jack House, Clyde Yeatts, Kenneth Hoedebeck and Kenneth Hutson. At an early meeting the board will elect its new officers. Last year's officers were Julian Walterscheid, president; Gene Deckard, vice-president; Ed Schad, secretary-treasurer.

In drawings for attendance prizes, the winners were Kenna Martinek, Gerald Walterscheid, Burney Alman, Rose Haisler, Walter Lutkenhaus, Clyde Maples, Mrs. Edward Dolezalek, Richard Quisenberry, Jimmy Raines and Rudy Thompson.

Good News

Romans 8:1-4

There is no condemnation now for those who live in union with Christ Jesus. For the law of the Spirit, which brings us life in union with Christ Jesus, has set me free from the law of sin and death. What the Law could not do, because human nature was weak, God did. He condemned sin in human nature by sending his own Son, who came with a nature like man's sinful nature, to do away with sin. God did this so that the righteous demands of the Law might be fully satisfied in us who live according to the Spirit, and not according to human nature.

Junior stock show expected to have over 500 entries

More than 500 project animals are expected Wednesday through Friday of this week for the annual junior livestock show of Cooke County. The entries are expected from about 470 4-H and FFA members of the county.

All of the show is being held in the FFA barn at Valley View and it will be followed on Saturday by the traditional sale of show animals at the Gainesville Livestock Auction. This event is eagerly anticipated by the young stockmen because of handsome premiums which customarily reward their efforts. The sale will start at noon Saturday.

COMMENT

Looking Ahead

by Dr. George S. Benson President

NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM
Searcy, Arkansas

A FREE WORLD STRATEGY
At the recent conference on a "Western Grand Strategy for Global Freedom," it was pointed out that the Free World urgently needs an overall strategy to counter that of the Soviet Union, bent on world domination.

Dr. Ray S. Cline of the Center for Strategic and International Studies at Georgetown University, made the following observation:

"We are approaching a dangerous time in world history. The world balance of power may take a fateful turn — for or against the nations that have cooperated with one another in the U.S. Atlantic and Pacific alliance systems. We face what the Soviet leaders themselves call an 'irreversible shift in the correlation of forces,' unless we in the Free World organize ourselves to deal with international affairs on a realistic basis. We must recognize the hazards and create renewed economic and military strength that will preserve prosperity and security in the years ahead.

"The need for action is urgent. The time has come for us to combine efforts to provide mutual security against powerful militarized despots. We must reinvigorate cooperation among the major seagoing, trading nations to organize within the framework of our many formal ties an informal voluntary association of free nations which I call an 'All-Oceans Alliance'."

"At a minimum the members ought to be Great Britain, France, West Germany, Italy, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, Canada and the United States. Others, whose strength, political stability, and economic evolution commend them, might be Spain, Brazil, Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Pakistan, South Africa, Indonesia and Mexico."

"While it would not be a formal treaty system, it would be in administrative and consultative terms a 'going concern,' which, by its own momentum, becomes a strategic asset."

"From the inception of the ideology in the warped mind of Karl Marx, Communism has had a simple grand strategy — control of the entire world. Marxists firmly believe that no

Communist system is safe until all nations are Communist. By definition this means that all non-Communist systems are targeted for elimination.

It follows logically, therefore, that a state of war actually exists between the Communist world and the Free World. The Communists firmly believe this; why don't we? It is vital for our survival that we come to this inescapable, incontestable conclusion.

Only when we accept the fact that the Communist world is at war with the Free World will we ever see world events in their proper perspective. Only when we realize that all Communists are our sworn enemies will we ever be able to see that we must deal with Communists as enemies in a way for survival.

All ploys such as "peaceful co-existence" and "détente" are only tactical maneuvers designed by the enemy to lull us into a false sense of security and prevent us from making the strategic plans necessary to save Western civilization from ultimate destruction.

The United States and our Free World allies have nothing at heart but the best interests of all men of good will. We have the weight of morality on our side. It's time now to work out a strategy to control and then roll back the forces of tyranny wherever they may be in the world. To delay this strategic move will be to court further disaster in the future.

trary to the original purpose of spreading good news about the free countries and exposing evils and failures of communism, VOA has been praising the Reds and finding fault with us. The content of those broadcasts certainly can't be regarded as friendly to U.S., which pays for the program and hopes to impress the world favorably by it. Here are a few gems of treason listed in a recent issue of "Human Events."

In late January, 1982, a writer was told by a policy officer that he could not use the words "Taiwan government," or a "spokesman for the Taiwan Foreign Ministry," because we do not recognize them as having a government.

On Feb. 18, 1981, the VOA referred to President Reagan as "a former actor," and described his economic policies as being opposed by the "poor" but approved by "bankers and businessmen."

On July 22, 1981, VOA ran a long feature story and interview on the Reagan Administration's plan to curtail the Legal Services Corp. It said the Legal Services Corp. was "the only way the government can guarantee justice to the poor..." "On one side are the poor and their defenders, many of who (sic) belong to the Democratic party. On the other side are the representatives of big business, often identified with the President's Republican party."

On Jan. 4, 1982, the VOA ran a long story which attempted to show that the preponderance of American scientists are skeptical of US government charges that the Soviets have used biochemical weapons in Afghanistan and Southeast Asia.

Those are just a few horrible examples of indulging in deliberate lies and insinuations intended to harm our country and the president, and supporting the worst Red propaganda.

Consumer voting determines farm production

by Craig Rosenbaum

Americans vote every day in the nation's food stores. As farmers produce raw products, consumers busily accept or reject these foods.

Consumers have power to accept or reject a commodity or a service, taking into account its cost and value. Farmers are becoming more interested in the outcome of consumer voting.

Years ago when one farmer fed his own and one other family, the farmer tallied the consumer votes. There was quick response if the butter was rancid, the milk had turned sour, or the sweet corn was not sweet. These responses came from the cash-paying customer as well as members of the farmer's family. The farmer at that time had a personal involvement in how consumers voted.

Today, one farmer produces enough food to feed 70 others, (48 at home, 22 abroad.)

Farmers now are giving more attention to how consumers vote than formerly, because they are more dependent on markets with less government assistance.

The counting goes on continuously, and someone is keeping the record and counting the vote.

Who is this someone? He is the one supplying the products you see in the retail stores or restaurants. He is a processor or marketer. Because these people are sensitive to how consumers vote, some farmers feel they need not be.

Consumers have a choice—either frozen, dehydrated, canned or combined with other foods. Consumers are more and more concerned with taste and convenience than price. This includes more eating out.

These changes are responses to consumer votes and spell opportunities for farmers just as for the marketers. Farmers can become the innovators of new convenience foods. Even when they are not the innovators, efforts by others to put more convenience foods on the market puts new demands on the farmer.

These include the need to produce new varieties, new flavors, new colors, greater uniformity, and a lot of other product features that get the vote of modern consumers. No matter how one views it, the consumer vote does count.

A&M researcher says tension causes "quitting"

COLLEGE STATION — While the frustrations that lead people to quit a job can take years to buildup, many times workers simply wake up one morning and decide they have had enough, says a management professor who has completed a study on quitting.

"We can tolerate just so much tension on a job," says Dr. Michael Abelson of Texas A&M University's College of Business Administration. "In many cases, all it takes is that one additional instance for us to pass the brink of no return."

As long as people are committed to their jobs they are more likely to put up with tension, he said, but as commitment declines and tension persists they start thinking about leaving.

Abelson said as pressures and a lack of commitment mount, some supervisor or other source of tension can apply the straw that breaks the camel's back.

"If an administrator is not perceived as being supportive but fellow employees are, then the person is likely to stay on a job," he added, "but when someone feels that neither his boss nor his fellow workers are being supportive, then he will be more apt to quit."

HEALTHY ADVICE

by Fred Lucas, M.D.

Abuse of Alcohol

How much is too much? That question is being asked more frequently by persons who drink or those who are concerned about possible abuse of alcohol by friends or relatives.

Make no mistake. Alcohol is a drug. As a result, people who drink set themselves up for possible damage to their bodies. While the adverse effects of alcohol on the liver are fairly well known, other results of drinking may be even more destructive.

Among the specific dangers: Brain and nervous system destruction. The possibilities are behavioral aggressiveness, mental deterioration and poor judgment. Heavy drinking among younger persons can lead to permanent brain damage even before irreversible liver damage occurs.

Cancer. Chronic consumption of large amounts of alcohol increases the risk of liver, mouth or esophagus cancer. Cancer of the lungs, pancreas, intestine and prostate also have been related to excessive alcohol consumption.

Lung diseases. Alcohol is believed to diminish the breathing function. When combined, smoking and drinking have a synergistic effect, which means their combined impact is greater than simply adding the two together.

Drug metabolism. Because of its effect on the liver, alcohol may interfere with the body's metabolism of other drugs. Many drugs, from aspirin to antihistamines, can be delayed in removal from the body.

The Annals of Internal Medicine recently disclosed that the 10-year mortality rate was lowest in persons who consumed two or fewer drinks per day. A drink is defined as an ounce of whiskey, glass of wine or 12 ounces of beer. People who had six or more drinks per day, however, had a doubled mortality rate.

Alcohol increases the amount of so-called good cholesterol—HDL or high-density lipoprotein. That explains why some believe moderate alcohol consumption can lower the risk for coronary artery disease—the cause of heart attacks.

Anyone with experience with alcohol knows the other, darker side of the story. For example, heavy consumption actually increases the risk for other forms of heart disease, such as direct damage to the heart muscle.

Although some scientists believe that a couple of drinks a day may be beneficial, the problem is that nearly 20 million Americans cannot control their drinking. For them, any alcohol is too much.

"Call the cops," I yelled to Sally as I jumped out of bed and grabbed a golf club.

Unwelcome visitor.

I was dead tired and not very happy when Sally woke me up around 2 a.m. She was shaking me and whispering, but I couldn't make out what was happening at first.

She sounded scared stiff. "Steve. Are you awake? I hear something downstairs."

It wasn't the first time Sally had heard a strange noise during the night. So I turned over and muttered, "Aw, it's just the house. Go to sleep."

She lay there frozen. Propped up on one elbow. Listening. After awhile, I started to drift back to sleep. She shook me again.

Now I was getting mad. "Sally, knock it off. This is an old house and old houses make noises at night. Now, please give me some rest."

"But I heard someone down there." She got out of bed, tiptoed across the room, and stood listening.

By now I was wide awake and I heard it, too. It wasn't the house settling.

"Call the cops," I yelled to Sally as I jumped out of bed and grabbed a golf club.

I threw open the door and turned on the light in the hallway. As tough sounding as I could make it, I growled, "Hey! Who's down there?"

I don't know why people say things like that. I sure didn't expect any answer. But I did hear someone rattling for the back door. I started down yelling, "Come back here, you."

Detective Bruch, Sally and I were sitting around the kitchen table. Sally poured some coffee.

"What did they get?" he asked in a voice that had formed the same words a thousand times before. His pencil was poised over an old leather notebook.

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

Americans are by nature an open people. This trait is reflected in the way we conduct our national business. Our national policies — even regarding the military — are openly pronounced and vigorously debated.

Yet, there are obvious areas in which our national security depends on secrecy. One of these is covert intelligence activities. If we could depend on every nation in the world to act honorably and in the open in every circumstance, we would not need intelligence agents. But we do not live in that sort of world. We must guard against covert actions by potential adversaries which would threaten our interests throughout the world.

In order to insure our ability to protect ourselves from these potential threats, we depend on courageous Americans who go abroad to perform dangerous information-gathering tasks. The ability to do this without detection not only is essential if they are to be effective, but also is necessary to protect their lives.

In 1975, Richard Welch, then the CIA's station chief in Athens, was assassinated within a month of the disclosure of his covert function in the Greek press. That information came directly from former CIA agent Philip Agee's "Counterspy" Magazine. Agee and others who engage in revealing agents' names are trying to undermine our intelligence system. To say they are behaving in an unpatriotic fashion is a gross understatement.

In another case, 15 CIA agents in Jamaica were publicly identified. The residence of one was attacked with submachine guns and explosives. Fortunately, no lives were lost in this case, but several agents and their families had to be evacuated.

The Intelligence Identities Protection Act, now before the Congress, would provide legal remedy against those in the ghoulish business of endangering our agent' lives and jeopardizing our national security.

As amended in the House, the bill would allow prosecution in cases in which there is a "pattern of activities" intended to identify and expose covert agents, with "reason to believe" that such activities would impair or impede the foreign intelligence activities of the United States.

This standard insures that only those individuals who deliberately set out to identify our covert agents could be prosecuted. There is no danger to the First Amendment right to a free press, a right which we all cherish.

Nothing in this legislation inhibits the revelation of intelligence abuses or calls for reform. In fact, in 1975, a Senate Committee conducted an exhaustive investigation of CIA activities without ever identifying a single agent.

It is incomprehensible to me, and to our agents abroad, that these brave individuals' lives and the lives of their families should be jeopardized by other Americans who remain safe from prosecution.

If we are willing to tolerate casual or malicious interference with our intelligence services, we will be admitting that we are helpless to conduct an effective foreign intelligence system in this dangerous world. We cannot afford to drop this responsibility. Thus, we must enact this necessary legislation.

TMA Auxiliary sponsors campaign on marijuana education

T-shirts, brochures and bumper stickers comprise a marijuana education program sponsored by the Texas Medical Association Auxiliary.

The project, conducted in cooperation with the state's War on Drugs campaign, carries the theme "Stop Pot!"

The green-and-white T-shirts include the message along with an insignia of a marijuana plant encircled and crossed out in the manner of a traffic sign.

The brochure, entitled "The Dirty Dozen-12 Things You Need to Know About Marijuana," notes that:

—More than three-fifths of all high school seniors have tried marijuana. In the last five years, the number of teenagers smoking it daily has almost doubled.

—The ingredient that causes the high in marijuana is THC, which tends to collect in fat. Since the brain has abundant fat, THC heads there. It also collects in the liver, lungs, kidneys and glands. The chemical remains long after the buzz has gone away.

—Recent tests show that it may take as much as a month for the body to clear out the THC from only one marijuana cigarette. Because the body still has almost half of the dope left after one week, even weekend smokers have it in their bodies all week.

—Marijuana adversely affects the growth and division of all kinds of cells. It may be worse on the lungs than cigarettes. Even light, but regular, smokers show mild lung damage in less than two months. Heavy marijuana smoking narrows the breathing passages. In addition, tests on monkeys indicate that marijuana may damage brain cells permanently.

—In pregnant women who smoke marijuana, THC goes directly to the unborn baby and interferes with protein formation and the growth of new cells the baby needs.

—Regular users often cannot drive well, have difficulty remembering details, show a loss of willpower, have problems concentrating and are paranoid.

The brochure also offers tips to parents in dealing with the situation.

Order blanks for the T-shirts can be obtained from county medical society auxiliaries or from the TMA Auxiliary, 1801 N. Lamar Blvd., Austin 78701. Brochures also can be obtained there. The bumper stickers will be available by May.

Traffic accidents increase in 1982

Traffic accidents are up over last year during this same period. This is according to Captain J.A. Dumas, commander of the highway patrol for the eleven county area that makes up Patrol District 1-A.

Thru February this year District 1-A has had an accumulation of 550 traffic accidents compared to 465 in 1981. For the month of February there were 245 total accidents in 1982, compared to a total of 233 in 1981. However, things are not always as bad as they may look advised the captain, because over the same period last year traffic deaths in accidents worked by the patrol were down 60%. Thru February 1982, we had 12 traffic deaths compared to 26 deaths for the same period in 1981. Total traffic accidents increased by 5.1%. Fatal accidents decreased by 44.4%. Personal injury accidents increased by 15.4%. Property damage accidents increased by 7.8%.

Thru February persons injured in accidents were up by 4.6% over 1981, with an accumulation of 295 persons injured in 1982, compared to 260 in 1981. For the month of February there were 136 injured in 1982, compared to 130 injured in 1981.

Voluntary compliance with traffic laws and defensive driving by responsible drivers is the only way we can hope to keep the death toll and traffic accidents down, concluded Captain Dumas.

"I will miss the many friends I have made while serving Tarrant County; however, it is with eagerness and enthusiasm that I look forward to meeting and serving the people of this newly created district. District 63 should be a close-knit, homogeneous area with similar agricultural and business interests.

The upcoming session of the Texas Legislature will present many new and complex legislators; some are recurring problems while others are brought on by the tremendous growth and prosperity of our state. Texas, as a Sunbelt state, is attractive for its climate, natural resources, sound fiscal government, and its prosperous economy without a burdensome state income or corporation tax. As a consequence, our state is one of the fastest growing in our nation; and we are absorbing this rapid influx of people, but growth does not come without cost or problems. We must have careful planning while meeting our current needs. With a softening national economy and soaring inflation, we are feeling the stress of growth reflected in the strong demands placed on our public schools and institutions, roads and highways, water and natural resources, human service departments and our law enforcement agencies. Depending on congressional action, the states must stand prepared to assume increased roles in providing governmental services as proposed by President Reagan's 'New Federalism'. I believe the State of Texas stands ready to accept this challenge.

I have been honored and privileged to represent the people in the Texas House for five terms, and I have a sincere, dedicated commitment to this office. I feel my maturity, educational background, work experiences, and legislative seniority will best serve this district and our state to meet the challenges of the upcoming session."

CDA receives two

Two new members were received into Court 249 of Catholic Daughters of America, preceding the regular March meeting in the K.C. Hall.

District Deputy Olivia Osterman of Windthorst presided during reception ceremonies, enrolling Mrs. Annette Anderle and Mrs. Debbie Fisher.

During the business meeting Regent Dorothy Fisher and Mrs. Katie Swirczynski were named delegates to the state convention in Corpus Christi.

Mrs. Ostermann also spoke briefly, telling of new regulations and changes in the CDA organization.

Nuclear power explained by YHT speaker

Assurance that nuclear power is not the monster it's sometimes accused of being was presented to the Münster chapter of Young Homemakers of Texas at their March 11 meeting in the Münster High School auditorium.

Orlan Ihms, director of educational services of TP&L, headed the program. His responsibility is to develop and distribute energy oriented materials and programs for use by classroom teachers. He is also chairman of the Texas Agri-Council, a trained geneticist-physicist. He was introduced by Larry Kinard of the Münster TP&L office.

Ihms stated that more radiation comes from a smoke alarm than from a nuclear power plant. Uranium pellets are stored in 16 ft. steel rods, bundled and put in a pressure vessel weighing 400 tons and costing $15 million and tested for malfunction before being placed in a concrete building.

The waste product, he said, is heat and hopefully ways will be found to use it. He cautioned that radioactivity can affect genetic growth pattern, so people are advised to be informed on the subject.

Along with his talk Ihms showed slides of nuclear power plants under construction at Glen Rose and in California.

He also urged young people, especially students, to become involved in the current potential for progress. "It's going to be their world, not ours, he said. We need more scientists, physicists, brainier people, to carry on for future years."

In a business meeting members heard a devotional and secretary's report by Carol Klement and discussed a shopping spree and the Mid-Park barrel project.

Lou Moster won the door prize.

Health Dept. clinics March 24

Two clinics conducted by the Texas Department of Health, Region 5, will be held in the Community Center next Wednesday, March 24. At each clinic the service will be performed by public health nurses at no charge.

The first clinic, from 10 to noon, will provide immunization against diphtheria-tetanus-pertussis (DTP), polio, rubeola (red measles) and rubella (German measles) for infants 2 months through 18 years. Exception: females over age 12 will not receive rubella vaccine without a physician's consultation and prescription. Immunizations are incomplete if a child has not received three doses of DTP and polio with at least one dose administered past the fourth birthday.

All children under 18 must have an informed consent form read and signed by a parent or legal guardian.

The second clinic is for hypertension and will be held from 1 to 3 p.m.

CCC welcomes entries in prose and short story contests

Dr. Joseph Murphey of Cooke County College has issued the call for entries in this year's annual Creative Writing Awards competition at CCC, urging all contestants to submit their poetry and short stories for judging as soon as possible.

A member of the CCC English faculty and a nationally recognized poet, Dr. Murphey is serving as director of the contest which features four divisions of competition for both poetry and short story categories.

Entries in all divisions and categories must be submitted by no later than 1 p.m. on April 2 (Friday.)

"Because the deadline is less than a month away," says Dr. Murphey, "we urge all contestants to be working seriously on their entries."

He has little doubt that they will be doing just that, observing that the level of competition has steadily increased in intensity over the years and that the overall quality of entries in all categories and divisions has risen dramatically.

"It is getting more difficult each year to pick winners," he says, "because so many really good entries are received. The judges this year have quite a task facing them."

Again this year, competition will take place in four main divisions including the Jerry Simpson Memorial Contest for high school students, the Gloria Burch Memorial Contest for high school students, the Layuna Hicks Memorial Contest for Cooke County College students, and the Cooke County College Creative Writing Contest for non-students of CCC.

Except for the Layuna Hicks Contest, limited to CCC students, entries are welcomed in all other divisions and categories from throughout the northern Texas area.

Dr. Murphey stresses that contestants may submit only one entry per person in the poetry and short story categories of the appropriate division.

"Entries should be typed or neatly handwritten," he adds, "with only the title appearing on the entry itself and a cover sheet with the contestant's name and address and the name of the division being entered. Limits for short stories are 5,000 words and 100 lines for poetry."

All entries should be submitted either in person to Room 119 on the CCC campus or mailed to the attention of Dr. Joseph Murphey, Cooke County College, P.O. Box 815, Gainesville, Tx. 76240. Persons wishing to obtain additional information may call 817-668-7731, extension 273.

Library News

The Muenster Public Library continues to receive six books from the Doubleday Junior Literary Guild monthly. Some are fiction, some nonfiction. These are for beginning (Kindergarten) through advanced (Grades 6-9) readers. Latest titles are "Brogg's Brain," "One of Us," "The Little Moon Theater," "Benny Bakes a Cake," and "We the People-The Way we Were."

Books that are sure to be favorites are the 11-volume "NFL Today" which includes the Dallas Cowboys and the Houston Oilers; 3-volume "New Monsters" (Creature from Black Lagoon, Frankenstein Meets Wolfman, and Mummy); 6-volume "Life and Living from a Child's Point of View" (I Like Being Alone, Will I Ever be Older? We Didn't Mean to, etc.); 6-volume "How I Read" (all beginning to read books); 11-volume "Amazing Fact Book" (on animals, fish, birds, cars, planes, etc.); 4-volume "Beginning to Learn About" set which includes a book on each of the four seasons of the year. All the above are for readers kindergarten and up.

Adults will find many how-to books. One that is especially popular is "How Things Work in Your Home (And What to do When They Don't)" by the editors of Time-Life. This 368 page book has 800 illustrations including step-by-step diagrams, drawings, exploded views, cutaways, tables and invaluable timesaving troubleshooting charts. It tells you what you can do (and equally important what you should not do).

"Lourdes, A Modern Pilgrimage" by Patrick Marnham is an absorbing account of Lourdes, the most popular pilgrimage site in the world.

Growing Child

P.O. Box 620N, Lafayette, Indiana 47902 (317) 423-2624

A baby is born with all the equipment needed to develop speech and language- ready to go.

Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter, reports that from birth on, an infant vocalizes-makes noise with his voice. (In fact, there is even some evidence that suggests he may do this at times even before he is born.)

The first sounds the baby makes are cries. These are his response to body feelings such as hunger, pain, or other discomfort. At first, when the baby is content, he will sleep most of the time. Soon, though, he will begin to make sounds of contentment.

When parents attend to the different sounds of comfort or discomfort, they are helping establish a communication system which is crude at first but which is very important. The system works like this: one person makes sounds and another person does things in response to those sounds.

The infant's inborn gifts also include a tendency toward listening and responding. Newborns are known to respond to sudden, loud noises by moving their entire bodies at once or by an increase in breathing or heart rate. Biologists think that the infant, like the very young animal, is born to respond to a wide range of sounds which aren't specific.

Very quickly, though, the infant's response becomes more specific to the sounds he hears from his parents. He learns to associate a soothing voice with pleasant situations, a smiling face and loving words. Parents who continually talk to their babies during bathing, feeding, dressing and playing are shaping the child's future communication skills.

If a child doesn't have words to listen to, his language development will be affected. It is obvious that a hearing defect will seriously interfere with a child's language and speech development. It is also important to realize that the absence of tender loving talk from a parent will be almost as serious a handicap. So talk to your baby!

For more information on the social and physical development of children, write to Growing Child, PO Box 620N, Lafayette, In. 47902. Be sure to include child's birthdate when writing. A year's subscription to the newsletter costs $11.95.

Eight employees honored at Jr. Elite 16th anniversary party

In observance of its 16th anniversary of operation in Muenster, the Jr. Elite management hosted its annual dinner on March 13 and honored eight employees for years of service.

Receiving special awards of silver serving pieces with double casseroles and warmers for 15 years of tenure were Elitha Endres, Pauline Koelzer, Corvella Robeson, Ursula Rohmer, Martha Sicking, and Manager Bernice Sicking.

Jerry Hennigan received a silver platter for 10 years of service and Joyce Bayer received a bracelet for 5 years.

The party was held in the VFW Hall and included a happy hour at 6 p.m., dinner catered by the Schneiders at 7:00, a program and awards at 8:00 and dancing at 9:00 with music by Mike Otts Disco.

Guests from the Dallas office included Mel Melton, Fred Fernandez, Janie Hamel and Joe Playton. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hale represented the Gainesville factory; and several visitors represented the business community of Muenster.

A special part of the program, after the dinner, was presented by several students of Muenster High School, including Dora Sicking and Renate Hess with an exhibition of twirling and Jenny Hellman with a tap routine.

Alice Walterscheid was mistress of ceremonies.

Decorations for the party carried out a "Good Ole Days" and "Western" theme. Guests entered the VFW Hall between two rows of old rail fencing and signed a guest book at a table holding a kerosene table lamp and an arrangement of red japonica in a crockery container. Similar flower centerpieces were used throughout. Dinner tables were covered in white, with center runners of blue denim stitched in red thread. Cloth napkins were red bandana print and souvenir booklets were placed in covers of double blue denim embroidered in red or green. Tiny bows of bandana print were placed on the denim runners.

Eight lanterns hung by wires from the ceiling, adding to the western atmosphere. The menu of "Cookin' from the Campfire" listed "Long Horn Steer, Prairie Chicken, Western Spuds, Indian Corn, Chuck Wagon Beans, Country Slaw, breads, Creek Water Coffee and Broomweed Tea and all the trimmings."

Each year, decorations and theme are coordinated and distinctive, and this year were particularly unusual.

Two vacation in Washington

Mr. and Mrs. Al Hess have returned from a vacation in the Yakima, Washington area where they spent almost two weeks. They flew to Seattle, were met there by his sister, Mitzie, Mrs. Leo Schmitt and spent several days visiting members of her family. They also visited another sister Marge, Mrs. Eddie Schmitt who works at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Yakima. Other relatives included Mr. and Mrs. Mark Schmitt and Mr. and Mrs. Danny Schmitt and family. Mr. and Mrs. Al Hess also spent some time at the Leo Schmitt wheat ranch, where the huge plowing operation was in progress. At that time, three caterpillar tractors pulling plows were tilling between 600 to 800 acres in a 24 hour period.

On Sunday, accompanied by Mrs. Marge Schmitt and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Schmitt, they toured and shopped at Leavenworth, a Bavarian shopping village and a Bavarian bakery.

They said lawns in Yakima were velvety and green, flowers were in bloom, but in the distance snow covered mountains could be seen.

Personal

Al Kleiss is home again in Subiaco, Arkansas, convalescing and improving after hospitalization for hip surgery. His son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Kleiss and children visited him recently.

- We place in them our TRUST that they have the maturity and good judgement--both born of experience--it takes to make sensible, appropriate policy decisions regarding college instructional programs, personnel, operations and facilities.
- We place in them our TRUST that they will make their decisions independently--free from influence from special interest groups or factions--and with the best interests of the students of the college always foremost in mind.
- We place in them our TRUST that they will work to even further enhance the college's position as a fully accredited educational institution which offers high quality, low-cost instructional programs--both academic and vocational--in response to the varied needs of as many community residents as possible.

16 report for Hornet baseball

Sixteen students including a shortage of veterans reported to Coach Charles Meurer for this year's Hornet baseball team. They are starting with a two-fold goal of getting competitive before the end of this season and also developing a foundation for a stronger start next year.

The team is included in a district of four schools, the others being Ponder, Krum and Alvord. They will meet each of those in two games, and have started on a 4-game pre-district schedule with an 8-2 loss Tuesday afternoon to Boyd.

The balance of their schedule reads as follows.

Mar. 18, Boyd, there
Mar. 25, Nocona, here
Apr. 6, Callisburg, here
Apr. 8, Ponder, here
Apr. 15, Krum, there
Apr. 22, Alvord, here
Apr. 29, Ponder, there
May 6, Krum, here
May 13, Alvord, there

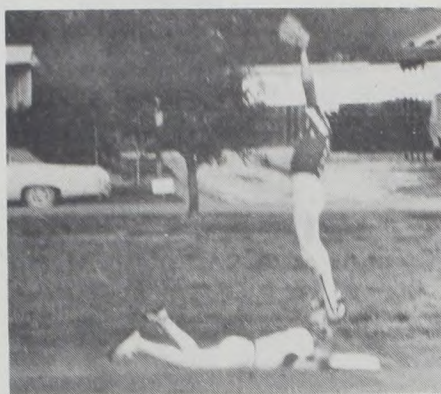

All district games will start at 3 p.m. The next three games will start at 4.

Members of the roster are James Bright, Wayne Carroll, Kevin Felderhoff, Jeff Fisher, Neal Flusche, Joe Hennigan, James Huckaby, Corey Klement, Greg Luke, Jay Mollenkopf, Tim Schneider, Craig Stofels, Dale Swirczynski, Stephen Vogel, Vance Wells and David Winn.

Phone 759-4311 or send notes to Box 190, Muenster.

A Boyd runner was safe at third as Wayne Carroll was late in the try to tag him out. Tim Schneider, pitcher is in the foreground.

This attempt to catch a runner off base failed on two counts: the runner was back with time to spare and Jay Mollenkopf had no tagging opportunity of going high to catch the ball.

Bike-a-thon date changes to March 28

Mrs. Mike Kleiss (Betty) has announced a change of date for the benefit Bike-a-thon, re-scheduling it to March 28 instead of March 20. She also said that pledge sheets are available at offices of both schools and from Jo Ann Pagel. Cash prizes will be offered for the top three riders earning the highest amounts of pledges. The Bike-a-thon will begin at the Park at 1 p.m. More information may be obtained by phoning 759-4438.

Hornets drop 11 - 2 baseball opener to Boyd

A lot of errors, probably more than a dozen, were the principal cause of Muenster's downfall in a season opening baseball game with Boyd Tuesday afternoon. Meanwhile the visiting Yellowjackets made only two errors. The game was their fourth and the Hornets first.

Otherwise the game was fairly even. Tim Schneider and Dale Swirczynski, sharing the pitching job, allowed 7 hits and 2 walks while the visiting hurlers gave up 4 hits and 5 walks. The Hornets hitters were Vance Wells, Dale Swirczynski, Tim Schneider and Joe Hennigan.

The No. 5 on Gary Scott's motorcycle was the point difference between first and second place in the tight 1981 Winston Pro championship chase as Mike Kidd edged Scott by that total. But Scott says his team will be "even stronger in 1982" in his bid to win the American Motocyclist Association title.

Trujillo Fulfills Lifelong Dream, Wins World Bareback Riding Title

The moment will live forever in the minds of the standing-room only crowd for the final performance of the 1981 National Finals Rodeo at Oklahoma City.

J.C. Trujillo, often called the "Lee Trevino of Rodeo," had just claimed his first world bareback riding championship — a dream he had sought to fulfill for 14 years as one of the sport's finest ambassadors.

The gregarious Mexican, a firm believer in the "loose and cool" philosophy, had stated repeatedly during the nine-day NFR that 1981 would be the last time he would be able to challenge seriously for the world title he so desperately wanted because of family responsibilities and the heavy hand of Father Time.

As he began his victory speech, Trujillo's voice began cracking with emotion. "This is the second greatest thing that's ever happened to me in my life and they've happened one year apart."

Trujillo, who became a father for the first time on the night before the final 1980 NFR performance, could barely muster more than a "Thank You" before the tears began flowing.

Later, the 1981 Winston Rodeo Series bareback champion was able to discuss his thoughts about the world title and the importance of the past 12 months in more detail.

"During this whole year, I thought about it a lot," he said. "I've got to think about being a father to Annie and a husband to (wife) Margo as much, even more so, than I do about my love for rodeo."

"I'm going to try to rodeo a few more years," added the 33-year-old, "but not as hard as I've always done. I've been at this a long time, just a long time, and I don't need to go out and rodeo at the pace I have the last three or four years."

The reason Trujillo has hit 100-125 events on the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association (PRCA) circuit year after year has been his desire to win the world championship.

But with time running out on his quest for a world championship buckle, Trujillo was filled with the pressure of turning his $233 deficit behind two-time defending champion Bruce Ford entering the NFR into the golden ring he had chased for so long.

Trujillo only had to finish one position ahead of Ford anywhere among the 15 NFR qualifiers to claim the title.

"I didn't prepare any differently coming in, but I noticed that I was a lot tighter getting on the rides, which is not like me at all. It really affected me early in the week," said Trujillo.

Averaging just over 70 points on his first five broncs, Trujillo was losing ground nightly to Ford, who averaged more than three points higher on his first five head as well as placing in the first and fourth go-rounds.

But Trujillo, the PRCA's hottest bareback rider in the last two months of the year, rekindled his late-season momentum in the sixth performance, scoring an 83 to win the go-round. Trujillo also won the ninth go-round with an 88 (the second highest score in NFR history), while Ford failed to top the 80-point standard in any of the ten go-rounds.

Trujillo finished one point ahead of Ford (746-745) to take third place in the average and earned enough points to place behind Jimmy Cleveland and Lewis Field in the NFR standings. His $11,000 third-place check boosted Trujillo's season winnings to $76,140, $2,767 more than Ford who finished fifth in the NFR bareback rankings. This total does not include the $5,000 check that Winston presents to each PRCA world champion.

His 1981 earnings also pushed Trujillo into fourth-place on the career money list among active bareback riders ($316,788) behind Joe Alexander ($462,293), Ford ($377,249) and Jack Ward ($347,091).

Trujillo had stayed within striking distance of Ford throughout the last half of the 1981 Winston Rodeo Series season in the battle for the world title. Trujillo was able to close within the $233 with a big payoff at Dallas and first-place checks at San Francisco and Calgary, the final major rodeos before the NFR, rodeo's world series.

Such late-season flurries on the Winston Rodeo Series are what Trujillo realizes must now become fewer and farther between given his expanded family responsibilities.

"I guess 1981 worked out just the way I wanted it, though," he concluded. "I've waited a long time for this feeling."

Gary Rainwater, Soil Conservationist of the Muenster Soil Conservation office, spoke to two Junior Garden Clubs during their March meeting and study of Texas Wildflowers.

He showed a set of wildflower slides to the Bluebonnet Junior Garden Club and the Muenster Junior Garden Club, anticipating the spring blooming season in the local area. Rainwater indicated some that are edible, some that are beneficial to birds, and cautioned strictly about some that are poisonous or cause special discomforts. He also presented a sample of wood sorrel for the group to taste.

Elm-Red Conservation News

By Gary Rainwater

The Soil Conservation Service Office in Muenster will close on April 30th.

The Office has been in Muenster since 1946. It was first located where the Ranch is now. Its second home was in the Kaiser Frazier building. From there it moved to the Enterprise building where it has been since.

The Muenster field office used to serve part of Montague County in addition to its present area in Cooke County. In recent years it has served the western third of Cooke County, which consists of 203,616 acres.

The office has served farmers and ranchers with the best information and techniques that were available. Since it was established in 1946, over 400 acres of critical areas have been shaped and sprigged to coastal bermudagrass. 508 farm ponds have been built with SCS help. 72 grade stabilization structures have been installed in gullies to control grade. 500 acres of grassed waterways have been installed and 600,000 feet of terraces have been built. Also 11 flood control dams have been installed on Clear Creek and 28 on Elm Fork. There are still 2 more structures to be built.

Some of the former conservationists here were Harris Wright, Lee Permley, Bob Mitchell, Ed Helton, Lee Toothacker, Emmitt Yoder, Doug Tippie, J.C. Chaney, Jack Davis, Arlin Naegeli and Ronnie Herring. Gary Rainwater and Raymond Endres are presently at the Muenster office.

The office hasn't only been involved with engineering conservation practices, but has helped many individuals with information on grasses, soils, range systems and cropping systems. Also much more information has been presented involving farming and ranching through news articles, tours, demonstrations through the field office and The Upper Elm-Red Soil and Water Conservation District. From now until the office closes, pictures from the past will be run showing conservation practices that have been carried out over the last 36 years.

Any landowner needing assistance after April 30th will need to go the Soil Conservation Service in Gainesville.

Gary Rainwater and Raymond Endres will soon become a part of soil conservation history in Muenster. The local SCS office will be closed April 30 in keeping with streamlining trends in the USDA.

Agriculture serves as 'lifeline' of America

Tony Walterscheid and Ray Endres examine bean production on a stalk of Guar which was planted on June 7, 1957, after grain was harvested: Clippings in September yielded 15,000 lbs. of green forage per acre. The plant is used as a summer legume crop to improve the soil condition.

Wilfred Reiter combining Madrid sweetclover in 1958. Clover made such a rank growth that it was too big to windrow. Combining was difficult because rains and wind had caused the clover to fall.

AUSTIN—Agriculture—It's your heartbeat, America," the theme for this year's March 18 Agriculture Day celebration, appropriately describes America's leading industry.

"The food and fiber system employs some 23 million and has assets of $1.1 trillion or 88 percent of the total assets for all manufacturing corporations in the United States. With these figures in mind, you can easily see why agriculture is considered the lifeline of America," Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown, State Chairman, said.

Agriculture Day in America has been set aside as a time to recognize American agriculture as the most efficient in the world. The industry has tripled its productivity in the past two decades and has been so successful that other countries depend on U.S. agriculture to meet their own needs.

"Our farmers today can feed themselves and an average of 77 other people," Brown said. "They have always provided an abundance of high quality food and fiber, despite problems of inflation, pests and bad weather."

In observance of this national celebration, Governor William P. Clements has signed a proclamation for the state, officially recognizing March 18 as Agriculture Day in Texas.

Ranked as the third largest food and fiber producer in America with an average annual income of $9 billion, Texas agriculture plays a vital role in the state, as well as the national, economy. It annually generates $30 billion in the state economy and provides four out of every ten jobs for Texans.

"Agriculture is a mainstay in the state's economy. It is the single largest multiplier of income in Texas. This celebration of Agriculture Day will help us promote a better understanding of agriculture in Texas," Brown said.

Texas has long been a leader in the nation's food and fiber system. Recently figures show that the state leads the U.S. in cattle production and is ranked second in farm assets. It is the leader in goat and sheep production, mohair, wool, cotton, cabbage, other hay and spinach. Texas farmers are responsible for 138.8 million acres of farm and ranch land, the largest amount of land used for farming and ranching in any state. These 138.8 million acres are divided into 186,000 farms and ranches with an average of 746 acres per farm.

Texas farmers are the second largest producers of winter wheat, sorghum, grapefruit, canteloupes, carrots, white corn, onions, watermelons and pecans. They are ranked third in the production of oranges, rice, peanuts, green peppers and wheat.

"A combination of technology, ingenuity and determination has made Texas an agriculture leader in the nation and in the world and these factors will continue to make us a leader," Brown said.

Beautiful Coleus by Ted Brice Garden Editor

The coleus is a tender plant with colored leaves or attractive flowers. They are natives principally of Java and tropical Africa and belong to the Mint family, Labiatae. Coleos is the Greek for sheath, and refers to the arrangement of the stamens.

The modern varieties of Coleus with brightly colored leaves are descended from C. Blumei, which has bronze-colored, nettle-like leaves. The leaf coloring is very varied and ranges through yellow, pink, red, crimson and green. The flowers of the colored-leaved kinds are comparatively inconspicuous. These plants require a minimum temperature of fifty-five degrees and must be potted in rich, well-drained soil when grown as house or greenhouse specimens. When used for outdoor summer beds and borders they thrive in any good soil. They need full sunshine.

To keep pot specimens shapely, the tips of the shoots should be pinched occasionally to promote bushiness. Plants that have filled their containers with roots should receive applications of dilute liquid fertilizers at weekly intervals.

The most important flowering Coleus is C. thyrsoideus, a native of Central Africa and a perennial that grows to a height of three to four feet and bears bright blue flowers of great decorative value. An important point to remember about this plant is that if it becomes necessary to pick off faded leaves this should be done with an upward pull; if a leaf is removed with a downward pull a long piece of skin will be stripped from the stem and remain attached to the base of the leaf that is pulled off.

Coming up to help their grandmother celebrate were Mr. and Mrs. Coy Harris and son David of Euless and Jerry Harris, Jody and Joy of Mineral Wells.

Marion Sockwell, Decie Ellzey, Laura Belle Jackson, Clea Reynolds, Betty Reynolds, Jeanette Montgomery, Myrt Denham, Tracy Lanier and Rev. George H. Thompson. It was a very lovely get-together and Cleo served the group some very delicious refreshments.

She weighed 8 lbs. 10 1/2 oz. Proud maternal grandparents are Rev. and Mrs. George A. Thompson of Saint Jo. Rev. Thompson is pastor of the Saint Jo and Forestburg United Methodist Churches.

Saturday April 3 will be school board election time. Mark it on your calendars and be sure to vote. Four men are contending for the three vacancies on the Forestburg school board. They are David Souther, Charles Dill, Doyle Gates and Gary Dean Johnson.

Chatted with Mrs. Peggy Holland this past Mon. p.m. Seems the Hollands are really having problems with coyotes. They raise chickens and Peggy says it is absolutely heart breaking to look out and see a coyote running away with one of her nice hens in its mouth. These pesky critters will not give up until they have caught the last one. This whole area is so infested with them that folks just can hardly have chickens, ducks, geese or sheep, etc. Something needs to be done to thin 'em out!

Folks - a word of caution - this area is also over-run with skunks again. If you see on wondering around in broad daylight it is a big possibility it has rabies. So get your dogs and cats vaccinated against rabies. I have seen two skunks just recently in the Dewey area during bright daylight hours - both dragging their tails and acting most peculiar. Thus - the word of caution.

Mrs. Bessie Greenwood of Bowie visited with her son Troy and family from Mon. the 15th to Tues. the 16th.

DPS changes requirements for trooper candidates

Colonel Jim Adams, Department of Public Safety director, announced today that "effective with the June recruit class, DPS trooper candidates may substitute law enforcement-related experience for the current educational requirement of 60 college hours. Thus, applicants with two years of commissioned law enforcement experience or two years of honorable active military service would be eligible for a waiver of the two-year college requirement. Likewise, one year of such qualifying experience could be substituted for one year of college work."

"This temporary modification is intended to increase the reservoir of qualified applicants yet ensure a continuance of the high personal standards which have been the hallmark of the Department's success."

"An evaluation of the results of the temporary modification of educational requirements will be conducted to determine whether a continuation is justified."

Colonel Adams said the DPS hopes to recruit 268 new troopers this year, including the 92 who presently are in training.

Recruits live in the DPS law enforcement academy in Austin during the 18-week training course. The starting monthly salary for recruits is $1,223. Upon graduation, the officers are paid $1,347 per month plus allowances for uniforms and equipment. These salaries will increase September 1, 1982.

"The Department continues to emphasize the recruitment of minorities consistent with our philosophy that a law enforcement organization must be representative of the community it serves," Adams pointed out.

Of the 92 recruits scheduled to graduate from the law enforcement academy on May 14, 1982, 35 are members of minority groups. There are six women in the class.
