

WELLS FINDS DEATH PENALTY

Cotton Letter
The cotton market continues to sag under the weight of the movement to actual cotton market, this movement being very heavy because of the earliness of the crop in the major portion of the belt the unusually favorable weather of the past several weeks permitting rapid gathering and ginning of the crop.
On next Tuesday October 25th the Government Census Bureau will issue another ginnings report. This far there have been two recent estimates of ginnings to October 18th—the date the Government will figure two—and these private reports indicate full ginnings, running in fact close to last year. Wednesday the New York Daily News-Record issued a report stating that returns to their organization indicated a ginnings to October 18 of 8,124,000 bales as against ginnings to corresponding date last season of 8,720,000 bales.
On Thursday an unconfirmed report stated that Fossick's Bureau, Memphis, Tennessee, estimated the ginnings to October 18 at 8,245,000 bales of cotton.
The Daily News-Record heavy ginnings report however, was offset in part by their estimate that 64 to October 18th and that the final per cent of the total crop was ginned total production will be 12,663,000 bales, as against the Government's October 25th estimate of 12,678,000 bales total yield.
Meanwhile the cotton market continues to sag, recording on Thursday the lowest prices recorded thus far this season. This in spite of the fact that crop accounts from all sections of the belt are far from favorable. The continued decline in values is puzzling to many people in the cotton trade, in view of the fact that consumption is large and if the total yield as indicated by the Government at 12,678,000 bales is correct, the crop is very short, and with good demand and a short crop many cannot understand why the market is not advancing instead of declining. However, this is probably attributed to the fact that the immediate supply is ample, and that spinners and mills prefer to wait until later to begin buying.
While values may decline still further, many well-posted people in the cotton world believe that later on the shortness of the crop together with continued good demand will have its effect and that the price of cotton will then advance materially.
Middling cotton in Brownwood Thursday was quoted at 19.15.

$40,000 FOR GLADYS BELLE POOL ROYALTY
SANTA ANNA, Oct. 20.—The largest cash oil deal in this territory for some time was closed last week when Fred W. Turner and associates sold to J. C. Schaffer, and others their overriding royalty interest in the Gladys-Belle oil pool southeast of Santa Anna about three and a half miles for $40,000 cash.
These properties were purchased several years ago by Gladys-Belle Company for $185,000.
It is understood that Schaffer and associates will begin a drilling campaign soon.
A 60,000-barrel storage tank is on the property. The Prairie Pipe Line is connected with it.

SEEK TRANSFER SANITY TRIAL OF MILLIKIN AT LOCKHART
LOCKHART, TEXAS, Oct. 20.—(P)—Counsel for A. V. Millikin, sentenced to death for the killing of Mrs. Virginia Petty, sought to have his sanity trial transferred to another county in a motion being presented today for presentation at the afternoon session of district court where Millikin was sentenced some time ago to be electrocuted.
This course of action developed after an hour's conference between Millikin, twice respited from the electric chair and his attorneys, who asked for the time shortly after a belated court session opened.
District Attorney Fred Blundell was reticent about the state's plan of action, but indications were that the state will make a fight on Millikin's refusal to submit to a sanity examination before three physicians at Austin.
The change of venue petition, presented to the court later, alleged that Millikin could not get a fair hearing on his sanity in the same county in which he was convicted of murder. Court stood at five while the state began preparing an answer to the petition, with the prospects of an all-afternoon argument on the subject.

Woman Elected American Legion Post Commander
ROME, Oct. 20.—(P)—For the first time in the history of the American Legion a woman has been elected a department commander. Mrs. Julia Wheelock, formerly of Miami, Florida, has been chosen head of the department of Italy consisting of the Rome and Naples posts.
This department recently numbered 2,900 Legionnaires, a total enrollment that was somewhat reduced after the exodus of former service men to the United States under the repatriation act of foreign-born veterans of the American expeditionary force.
Mrs. Wheelock has been active in Legion affairs in Italy ever since her residence in Rome. She served in the navy as a yeoman and later in the hospital corps, holding an honorable discharge from the navy. She is active socially in Rome and has made many benefactions to the Legion post here, fitting up quarters and in other ways making the post more homelike.
She succeeds Major Roberts C. Richardson, Jr., military attaché to the American embassy in Rome.

CONVICT FOUND GUILTY AFTER BRIEF TRIAL IN COLEMAN
COLEMAN, Oct. 20.—(SP) Oliver C. Wells must die in the electric chair. That was decided here early Thursday morning when a jury found the 45-year old convict guilty of murdering J. A. Mitchell, Coleman filling station operator, and assessed his punishment at death.
Wells was brought here from the state penitentiary, where he was serving—after two escapes—from prison farms—a 15 year term for assault to murder a negro in Abilene.
Slain in January, Mitchell was shot down January 27, while sweeping out his store, and as his wife, 10-year old daughter, and a granddaughter looked on. He denied his guilt and tried to prove an alibi Tuesday while Senator Walter C. Woodward, special prosecutor, was addressing the jury. Wells broke out with: "God knows I am innocent of this crime."
At the time Mitchell was shot down by a partly masked robber, who demanded that he raise his hands, Wells was a fugitive from justice, having made his first escape from a prison farm. After being charged with the murder of Mitchell, and sent back to serve out the assault sentence, he again escaped, and being found was lodged in the penitentiary at Huntsville.
In Menard, Claim.
Wells declared he was in Menard with Claude Manies, state witness, who was slain in San Angelo territory for the night of the killing. He confessed to robbing a store and a depot in Menard that night. The state contended that he was in Coleman earlier that night, and a witness told of seeing him there in the afternoon.
Mrs. Mitchell and her daughter identified Wells as the man who killed the storekeeper.
Testimony was concluded Wednesday morning and argument of attorneys immediately began. Senator Woodward opened for the state, and was followed by Roy Hill and B. W. Patterson, defense attorneys.
Eight large automobiles carrying seven men each were dispatched from I. W. W. headquarters here for the mines in the district, with instructions to enter mining properties.
Officials of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company, operators of seven mines in the district, announced that mine guards were on duty with instructions to prevent pickets from entering the camps.
All of the pickets were searched before they were permitted to leave strike headquarters.
At 5:15 o'clock this morning the Rouse mine, 12 miles east of Walsenburg, reported 30 pickets had evaded guards and entered camp.
"We intend to continue this strike peacefully," Paul Seidler, I. W. W. organizer, said. "But if a striker is killed—our men will be carrying cannons around with them. Mark my word on that point."
United Mine Workers officials and members of the state industrial commission met the I. W. W. threat with renewed demands for organized labor to disregard the strike call while sheriffs in southern and northern fields swore in more deputies to protect those wishing to work.
Alignment of strikers against authorities for a test of the state law requiring a 30 day notice to make strikes legal, started last night when Seidler announced he had read the statute and found nothing to prohibit picketing.

Houston Messenger Is Held Up, Kidnaped

Army Housing Talk Brings Action
HOUSTON, Oct. 20.—(P) A lone-unmasked bandit held up William Baker, a messenger for a chain grocery store, at a downtown street intersection here today, compelled him to drive the robber into an outlying district where Baker was robbed of approximately $5,000 in cash and checks.
The holdup occurred in the shadow of banks on each of three street corners and within sight of scores of pedestrians who were unaware of it.
Baker told police he was enroute to the bank in his automobile with a pouch containing the bank deposit for the grocery store when the holdup man unostentatiously swung onto his running board, took a back seat in his machine, pressed a pistol to his back and commanded him to "keep going."
Baker said he drove the machine past the Grand Central depot four or five blocks away with the weapon pressed into his back. At the station, according to Baker two other men leaped aboard the car and commanded Baker to "step on it." He drove the car, he said, with his captors two or three miles through Washington avenue, to Camp Logan where he was forced out of the machine. The holdup man, he said, paused only for an instant and sped on.
Scores of special officers are on duty day and night in the district where Baker was seized. Baker is 19 years old and has been in the employ of the store almost a year.

FORT WORTH, Oct. 20.—(P)—A story of her husband's cruelty and his threats to desert her for another woman was told a jury here today by Mrs. Julia Brooks, 27, on trial on charges of murdering her husband, Foy Brooks, last February.
Mrs. Brooks is pleading temporary insanity and asking a suspended sentence. A previous trial ended in a divided jury.

PICKET MINES IN DEFIANCE OF OFFICIALS
DENVER, Oct. 20.—(P)—The possibility of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company appealing to the state for protection as the result of the picketing of all coal mines in the Walsenburg district by I. W. W. strikers was seen today. R. H. Hair, general superintendent of the company, said it was up to county authorities to afford them protection and if this could not be done that it was up to the state to do it.
Despite the warning of Sheriff Harry Capps, of Huerfano county that all pickets would be arrested, at most mines they were not molested today.
Eight large automobiles carrying seven men each were dispatched from I. W. W. headquarters here for the mines in the district, with instructions to enter mining properties.
Officials of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company, operators of seven mines in the district, announced that mine guards were on duty with instructions to prevent pickets from entering the camps.

Given 30 Years in Auto Deaths
ENID, Okla., Oct. 20.—(P)—John B. Cook, 38, pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the first degree today in district court and was sentenced to serve thirty years in the state penitentiary.
Cook was driving the car early on Sunday night which crashed into Mrs. C. B. Ringenberg, 27, and her daughter, Betty Joe, aged two and a half years, dragged them nearly 200 feet and then sped on to elude arrest until Tuesday morning. Mrs. Ringenberg died soon after the accident and the daughter died the following day.
In sweeping condemnation of that organization, Attorney General Charlie C. McCall directed his letter of withdrawal yesterday to "the scores of the Klan in 33 provinces, number 2, realm of Alabama, invisible empire, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Montgomery."
This action follows immediately after the extensive investigation of the attorney general into a series of alleged whippings in Oneonta, Blount and Crenshaw counties. His activities prompted an investigation by a special Crenshaw county grand jury last week at Laverne which scored the Klan in returning 102 indictments against residents of that section charged with complicity in these floggings.
While professing an adherence to "those fundamental principles which the Klan has publicly pronounced," the attorney general in his letter declared that he had "become convinced that the Klan in Alabama is in the hands of a lawless leadership."
He said he regarded his oath as an officer of the law superior to any private or fraternal obligation, and he did not feel he "would follow behind the banner and under the leadership of those leading in their religious, political and criminal connivings, placing themselves at war with constituted authority."
Mr. McCall at the same time in a public statement denied reports that he had launched a state-wide investigation of the Klan. He declined to comment on the report, which he said was unauthorized and untrue.

KLAN BRANDED GREAT MENACE
MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 20.—(P)—A Congressman whose wholesale denunciation of reported floggings incriminated the invisible empire has branded the "Ku Klux Klan in Alabama as the greatest menace to constituted authority" in tendering his unconditional resignation from the office.
In sweeping condemnation of that organization, Attorney General Charlie C. McCall directed his letter of withdrawal yesterday to "the scores of the Klan in 33 provinces, number 2, realm of Alabama, invisible empire, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Montgomery."

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 20.—(P)—City Clerk William Eagan today announced that the marriage ceremony of Mrs. Anna Walsh Snyder Carrington and her brother-in-law, Campbell Carrington, was performed here on August 11th.
George L. Schein, Chicago attorney who represented Mrs. Carrington in her divorce action, said that Campbell Carrington expected to place the marriage license and certificate in the hands of a New York attorney today with a warning to the colonel that he will be held "strictly accountable" for any further statements casting doubt on the marriage.
Schein said he had talked over long distance telephone with Campbell Carrington who is "somewhere in the east."
"Campbell Carrington has become very impatient with his brother's tactics," the attorney added. "I advised him to ignore them, but he was angry and decided to try to put a stop to them. Colonel Carrington knows very well that his brother was married to his former wife, for he hasn't been called upon to make alimony payments since August."
It was last August, according to Schein, that Campbell Carrington and Mrs. Carrington were married.

THE CALL OF THE PROPHET

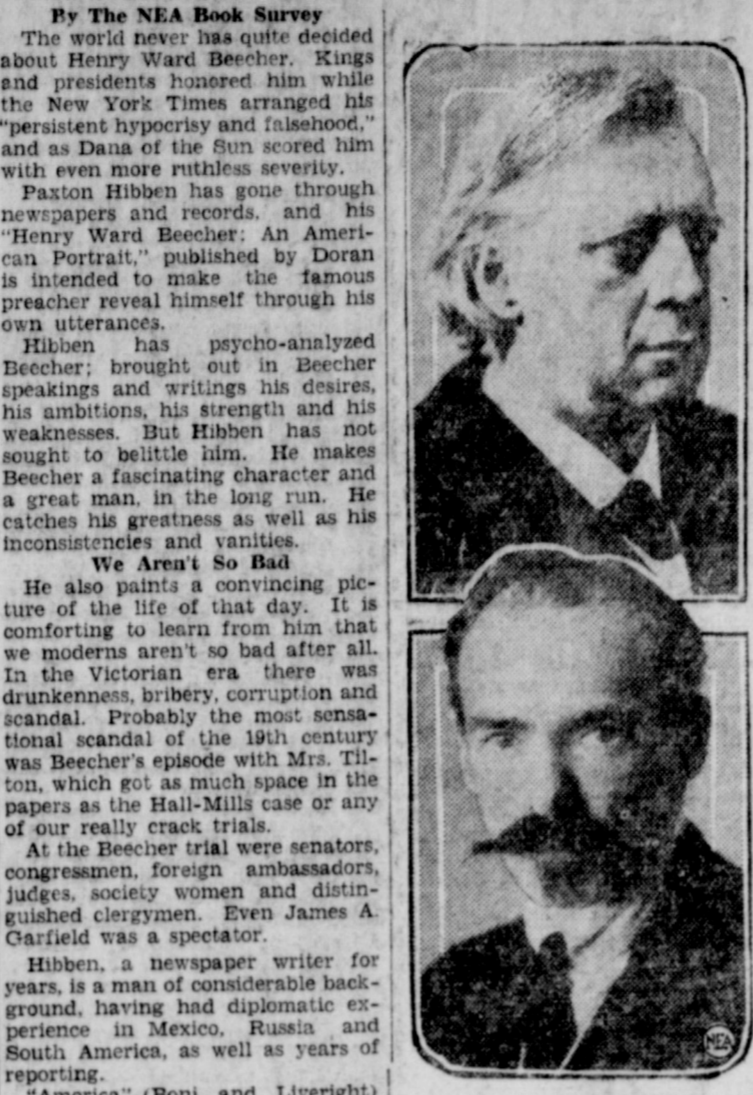

1 Kings 19:19, 20; Amos 7:14, 15; Isaiah 6:1-8.

So he departed thence, and found Elisha the son of Shaphat, who was plowing with twelve yoke of oxen before him, and he with the twelfth and Elisha passed by him, and cast his mantle upon him.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D. THE passages chosen for our lesson reveal to us much more than the circumstances of the call of three different men to be prophets. They must be said rather to suggest or typify the nature of the prophetic impulse and the way in which the call comes to men in general.

LICENSES FOR DRIVERS

WITH a million automobiles in Texas, and the death toll from motor car accidents mounting steadily, increasing endorsement is being given to proposals for a system of licenses for drivers.

Not many motor car drivers who are efficient and careful have voiced any objection to a license system. There are thousands of persons, however, who would be denied the right to drive a car if licenses were required, because of defective vision or hearing or because of habitual carelessness.

There is already a law prohibiting children under sixteen years of age from driving cars, but it is not enforced. There is already a law making it a felony for an intoxicated person to drive a car, and it is only partially enforced.

WEST TEXAS BANKERS PROTEST

INTERESTING light is thrown upon the federal reserve bank system by an incident occurring the other day.

A group of West Texas bankers made vigorous protest to the governor of the Dallas Reserve Bank against the policy of forcing retirement of loans to smaller banks, which, they claimed, had compelled them to foreclose on farmers and obliged the farmers to sell cotton as low as six cents.

In response, the reserve bank governor said, "Just say that the governor of this federal reserve bank is attending to the bank's business, and to nobody else's," and apparently the incident ended there.

The federal reserve system has proven its worth in the financial fabric of the country. Its stabilizing influence has been so marked that all fear of panics has been banished, and the money markets of the country have been improved immeasurably.

The governor of the Dallas Federal Reserve Bank, if correctly quoted, illustrates the point. The business of the federal reserve bank is to aid member banks in serving their clients, so that general prosperity may be promoted. If emergencies arise, the federal reserve bank is to provide relief.

THE IRON HAND IN MEXICO

A RATHER gruesome picture was published in the Bulletin a few days ago, showing the execution of General Alfredo Rueda Quijano, commander of a Mexican regiment which had rebelled against the Calles government.

The picture served to illustrate the news stories which have been coming out of Mexico during the past few weeks. Scores of small bands of insurgents have been captured and summarily executed by the Mexican federal troops, the Calles government having adopted a merciless policy in suppressing rebellion wherever it may be found.

News dispatches also indicate that equally stern measures have been employed in suppressing rebellious political movements. In Mexico the candidate who "does not choose to run" is liable to wish he had run away from the firing squads.

Mexico was ruled by an iron hand during the long regime of Porfirio Diaz, and it seems that no other policy can succeed there.

COWS FOR FARMERS

A CARLOAD of thoroughbred Jersey cows will be bought by an agent for the Coleman Chamber of Commerce and distributed among the farmers of the county, according to an announcement in the Coleman Democrat-Voice.

The details of the Coleman plan are not announced, but it is taken for granted that the Chamber of Commerce has made arrangements for financing the purchase of these fine cows by the farmers.

It is of little value to the farmer to have fine cows in his dairy herd unless there is a market for their product. The Coleman Chamber of Commerce has thought of this, too, and is arranging for the establishment of a creamery and ice cream factory, which will buy large quantities of cream and provide a profitable market for dairy products.

BREWER STORE AGAIN ROBBED AFTER FRONT WINDOW IS SMASHED

For the third time in two years, the W. M. Brewer jewelry store, 209 Center, was the victim Tuesday night of a window smasher, who got away with $600 worth of watches and other jewelry which had been left in one of the windows.

A heavy plate glass panel alongside the front entrance to the store was smashed Tuesday night, making an aperture large enough to permit a man to enter the store. Apparently nothing in the store was disturbed except the contents of one of the show windows, where several fine watches had been left on display.

JURY IS DISCHARGED IN SECOND COLEMAN TRIAL

C. W. "Mut" Watson, 31, of Cisco, will go to trial for the slaying in Coleman September 30, 1926, of Jack McMath, 34, sometime during the November term of district court here, Judge J. O. Woodward announced Friday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock when he dismissed the second Coleman jury unable to agree on a verdict, after 18 hours deliberation.

The jury stood seven for acquittal and five for conviction, Judge Woodward told The Bulletin's Coleman correspondent. He said the case would be transferred to Brown county and called for trial in the November term.

In the first trial in May, also held in Coleman, a jury deliberated for nearly 24 hours, finally being dismissed by Judge Woodward. The first jury stood nine to three for acquittal, it was said.

UNUSUAL DRAMA

Although a Cardinal he spun a princely carriages and went about as a priest.

Now he has returned to writing theological books. Finally induced the Pope to allow him to resign from the Cardinalsate.

SECOND CARDINAL RESIGNS, HAPPY TO AGAIN BE PRIEST

LONDON—NEA—Yesterday he was Cardinal Billot, a prince of the Roman Catholic church. Today he is simply Father Billot in a novitiate at Galloro, on beautiful Lake Nemi, between Ariccia and Genzano, Italy. Yesterday—if he wished to—he wore the cardinal red and ermine; he was received with semi-royal honors; he was one of the small body of men who assisted the pope in administering the affairs of a world-wide church. Plain Priestly Life Today—by his own will—he wears a simple black cassock; he is simply a Jesuit priest in an army of Jesuit priests; he dwells in a simple priestly cell, burning the midnight oil over his precious books or writing the manuscripts which have given him fame among the theologians of his church.

It's one of the most dramatic recent happenings in the history of a church, full of human drama. A famous condemnation by a pope led to Ludovic Billot being made a cardinal. An equally famous condemnation by a pope has led to his giving up the cardinalate. Billot is one of the many Frenchmen who entered the church and served it with their cultured brains and their skillful pens. For years he was professor of dogmatic theology in the Gregorian University in Rome. He combatted the Modernists in the church.

Cardinal's Hat When Pope Pius X issued his famous condemnation of Modernism in 1911 he insisted that Billot, who had never been a bishop, should accept a cardinal's hat. The Jesuits always have avoided public or ecclesiastical honors. They become bishops in foreign missions, only when there is no one else to accept the responsibility.

Father Billot wanted to remain simple Reverend Father, but he was overruled. Even then he hardly changed his method of living. He wore the robes of a cardinal only on great state occasions in the church. Ordinarily he wore a simple black cassock, without even a single red button to indicate his rank. Etiquette prescribes that cardinals shall move around Rome in carriages. Billot went afoot like the simplest country priest, freely mingling with the populace by whom he was known and loved.

He took a simple apartment in the South American College. It was a small flat without luxury of any kind. Its walls were adorned with a few cheap religious pictures such as the humblest citizens can buy in

The original plan worked out the program in four years, though it may be completed as quickly as requirements demand.

MINE OWNERS TO FIGHT I. W. W. COAL STRIKE

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 19.—(P)—Colorado entering its second day of the I. W. W. coal miners strike today was prepared to enforce an edict issued last night by law-enforcing officials to prevent picketing by I. W. W. agitators of coal mines in Southern Colorado and Boulder coal fields. With seventeen already in jail for picketing, law officers announced that picketers wherever found would be immediately arrested. Despite this threat the strikers in the Walsenburg district held a meeting last night and announced that men had been selected and that picketing would go on as planned. Arrest Seventeen Arrest of seventeen pickets in the Trinidad district by Sheriff J. J. Marty, marked the first action of authorities to prevent spread of the movement. The pickets were held without charge last night, but officers said they would be charged with violation of the state law requiring thirty days notice for strike orders. The authorities claim no such notice was given. The I. W. W. leaders maintain the law was complied with.

This new phase of possible trouble between the miners and peace officers combined with rumors current in the southern field that the I. W. W. organization had received a freight car load of machine guns, rifles, ammunition and explosives, as well as four car loads of food and supplies, caused an atmosphere of unrest. I. W. W. leaders denied that arms had been shipped in.

Check on Mines A check of all mines in the Walsenburg district where the strike is considered the most effective, shows 1,180 miners out of a normal force of 2,594 answering the walkout call. Peace officers today are mobilized to maximum strength and are patrolling all districts while heavy guards have been placed around railroad bridges. Organized labor leaders generally denounced the strike. Earl Hoage, president of the Colorado Federation of Labor, said his organization would take no part in the movement, although he believes the miners had a just grievance.

TO BUILD COURTHOUSE SAN ANGELO, Oct. 19. (Sp.)—County officials of Tom Green county are moving into temporary headquarters this week as work starts Monday on the tearing down of the county courthouse, built in 1884, to make way for the new courthouse, the contracts for which were let this week. P. O. B. Montgomery of Dallas was the lowest of nine bidders. His total bid was $239,700.

DEAR FRIENDS:
No Radio set ever announced, we believe, has met with the popular favor that the Crosley Banbox has experienced since it was announced in June. Never before has such a radio value been offered. Just think of it—a high powered, six-tube, single controlled, Neutrodyne for $55.00, which can be fully equipped and installed for $123.00. Don't fail to see our new cabinets.
The report we have had from hundreds of dealers throughout the country who have tried the Banbox are most enthusiastic. Many of them say that it outperforms any radio set that they have ever used.
Crosley spent a half million dollars on this receiving set before the first one could be built. That investment is in evidence of the faith he had that this type of receiver would prove to be the most popular ever offered and we feel it has already justified our belief in it by the demand that has sprung up all over the country by the enthusiasm of his distributors and dealers everywhere. Hundreds of dealers have reported that they have already sold and delivered more Banboxes than the TOTAL of their radio receiving set sales last year. We have also sold six times as many sets in September this year as we sold last September, and the radio season has just started.
Crosley has passed the 1800 a day mark in production of this one model. Last year in November, he reached his maximum production for that year of 2200 a day of the 5-50. He will be building 3000 a day of the Banbox within two weeks and have a production of sets scheduled reaching a maximum of over 5000 a day shortly. The distributors' orders are being doubled and trebled. Original anticipation of distributors' requirements have proved to be inadequate requiring new specifications for increased quantities from week to week.
The Crosley Banbox leads the field at its price . . . leads in tone . . . power . . . selectivity . . . simplicity of tuning . . . leads in the beauty of its small frosted brown case that occupies only the space of a dozen upright books.
Crosley was the first to offer you an electric set you could afford to buy.
Don't miss the treat by hearing and seeing the new Crosley before you buy. Yours for real results, give us a chance.

at the proper time he might eliminate the other, by fair means or foul. Had they succeeded in ousting Calles and expunging Obregon politically, then it would have been dog-eat-dog between Gomez and Serrano.

Thus after a fashion, for once the petroleum people unwittingly did Calles and Mexico and their own government a favor. Thanks to Calles' energy and to his control of the army, Washington may take satisfaction to itself for still having one reasonably well functioning and responsible government to deal with in Mexico. The alternative was no government at all or two or three rival revolutionary governments scattered over the landscape, each operating on its own hook and accepting no responsibility in the conduct of Mexico's international relations.

Any other outcome would have released upon the country armies of rival Mexican factions, to the inconvenience, if not actual imperilment, of Americans and their interests and a general reversion to the chaotic conditions which prevailed in Mexico for several years subsequent to 1914.

INSIDE STORY BARED OF LATEST UPRISING

By Robert Hammond Murray, for NEA Service NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The recent abortive revolution in Mexico, speedily crushed by President Calles, is marked by these significant facts — which, as an important observer throughout the developments of the past few months, I am able to point out:

First—A revolutionary movement of the type so familiar in the past has raised its head, but a stable government still directs the country after slight loss of life and without any property destruction.

Second—Instead of thousands of poor peons being sacrificed upon the bloody altar of the ambitions of a few selfish leaders, less than a hundred lives were lost.

Third—It was the leaders, not their unlettered followers, who first paid the penalty. And it should be remembered that they were of the type of men who threatened the cry of revolution, and then a succession of executions.

How the Rebellion Was Born If you can imagine candidates for the presidency in the United States going about the country proclaiming that they have the support of most of the army, and that if they are not elected they will seize the power by force of arms, you may picture the recent campaign conditions in Mexico.

Meanwhile, imagine some of the candidates boring from within the army, offering lavish rewards in promotion or money, or both, to generals in return for their assistance in executing a military coup which will remove the existing government and place them in control of the treasury and the administrative machinery.

He knew, too, the people of Mexico who wear no shoes — meaning the sorely exploited peons. Murray is not a propagandist of any sort. He has no axes to grind. For 15 years he has also watched the drama in Mexico. And from an unbiased viewpoint he tells the truth about what he has seen.

Fourth—In keeping himself and his country out of trouble, the Mexican executive who maintains order south of the Rio Grande is helping keep the United States out of trouble—which appears to be what the peace-loving American citizens and American officials alike want.

I have just reached New York from Mexico City. During the past few months I have observed the unfolding of events that reached their climax in the revolt of garrisons, munition from the United States. At all events, if certain American oil interests did not have a finger in the Gomez-Serrano pie it was the first piece of pastry that that description that they have overlooked in many years.

It was the petroleum friends of Gomez and Serrano who counseled them to advance the date of their revolt by at least two months. This was done because of the unexpected appointment of a new American Ambassador in the person of Dwight W. Morrow and the announcement of his intention to proceed to Mexico City without delay.

Wanted to Impress New Envoy The desirability was represented to Gomez and Serrano of making a prompt demonstration in the field with a view to impressing Mr. Morrow in advance of his arrival with the strength and seriousness of their movement and the presumptive weakness of the Calles government.

Had they been left to themselves, it is exceedingly doubtful if they would have begun operations much before January or until they were better prepared and assured of a more substantial fighting following than the events of the past ten days proved them to possess.

Mexican ways and standards are not American. There are as different as the sky is from night. In Mexico the accepted custom of close adherence to the principle of "Doing unto others as they would do unto you if they were in your place" dictates the quality of mercy. Most Mexicans are so constituted that they regard an exhibition of mercy as an inherent and vulnerable weakness in him who bestows it.

Respect for Calles Consequently, in their hearts, the people of Mexico, and in particular his enemies, today cherish a much more profound respect for President Calles than they did two weeks ago. The man has shown mettle, and an exhibition of that sort unerringly wins respect, if not love, down there. Mexican presidents do not rule by love. If they try to, their names are apt to appear very promptly in the obituary columns or among the list of distinguished exiles on foreign shores.

Without questioning their right to aspire to the presidency, it is nevertheless a fair statement of fact in which I am certain any competent, unprejudiced observer will bear me out, to say that neither Gomez nor Serrano had more than a negligible following or popular support. Serrano had almost none. Their only hopeful road to power lay through military usurpation.

Both Mediocrities Both were mediocrities with no background of accomplishment, capacity, or character. Gomez banked upon conservative and church sympathy, and his supposititious popularity with the generals of the army. Serrano dispensed this following with Gomez.

A humorous feature of the situation as between Gomez and Serrano was this: Both of them could not be president. While, for temporary mutual convenience, they were making common cause against Calles and Obregon, it was notoriously apparent that each was figuring on ways and devices whereby

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 20. —(A)—A gradual sinking of the prices of many issues on the stock market today turned into a sharp dive in the final hour, when numerous leading issues dropped $3 to $6 a share on more under yesterday's closing quotations.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20. —(AP)—Irregular price movements occurred at the opening of the stock market today, with recessions in the majority. American Beet Sugar common and preferred opened at new lows for the year, off 1 and 4 points respectively and initial losses of a point or so were recorded by Shattuck, Commercial Solvents, Dodge preferred and General Electric. International Silver was up four points at the outset and Philadelphia Company established a new peak, up 1 1/2. U. S. Steel opened a point higher.

Sentiment continued mixed as the session progressed, losses of selling advances in many sections of the list. Safety Cable responded to news of the projected $50,000,000 cable merger with a 2 point advance. Coty quickly sold up 2 3/4 points and Abraham Straus, Houston Oil and Coca Cola said a point or so higher. Philadelphia Harvester scored a 3 point gain in the first half hour. Declines of two points or so were sustained by General Railway Signal and Dodge preferred while Allied Chemical, Montgomery Ward, and some of the sugar and chemical shares also displayed early weakness. The report of the Erie, the first road to report its September earnings, showing smaller gross and net than in September last year and a shrinkage in car loadings caused some selling of the rails. Missouri Pacific preferred, Atlantic Coast Line and the Pittsburgh and West Virginia were off a point or so, but New Haven showed independent strength in the early trading. A 12 point jump to 17.26 cents in Spanish pesetas featured the firm foreign exchange opening. Demand sterling ruled around $4.85 13-16 and French francs just below 3.92 cents.

Grain and Provisions

CHICAGO, Oct. 20. (AP)—Fresh downturns in price for wheat and corn resulted early today from continued fine weather both over spring wheat territory and throughout the corn belt.
Starting 1-4c to 3-4c decline, wheat held near the initial figures. Corn opened unchanged to 1-4c off, and later receded all around. Oats were easy. Provisions tended down-grade.

Cotton

NEW YORK, Oct. 20. (AP)—The cotton market opened easy at a decline of 4 to 17 points under renewed hedging and liquidation stimulated by lower Liverpool cables and better weather reports from the south.
Stop orders were uncovered on the decline, and the market was unsettled during the first hour, December selling off to 19.85 and March to 20.10, or 28 to 32 points net lower.
After selling off to 19.76 for December and 20.00 for March under the weight of the early off-rings, or about 38 to 41 points net lower, the cotton market rallied some 16 or 18 points from the lowest on trade buying and covering. Demand failed to broaden materially, however, as the volume of business tapered off on the bulge, and prices eased again later in the morning, when there were rumors of an easing spot basis in some parts of the south. Prices sold back to about the earlier lows, with the market showing net declines of 35 to 40 points at mid-day.
