VOLUME VII

MUENSTER, TEXAS, COOKE COUNTY, FRIDAY, JUNE 11, 1943

NUMBER 29

Muenster K Of C's Elect Nick Miller As Grand Knight

Day by day allied bombers are braving the perils of anti-aircraft fire and fighter interception in order to strike at the heart of Hitler's industries. They are getting results. Nazi production and morale both are taking a severe beating. But it is costing us. On an average heavy raid we lose more than a dozen planes with scores of fighting men.

Over here production and morale are also taking a beating. The difference is that it does not cost the enemy. Strikers are doing the job for him, for free. He doesn't lose a single life or plane.

The situation makes us look like a bunch of suckers. No doubt Hitler and his slant-eyed henchmen are enjoying our predicament just as we would if the case were reversed.

John L. Lewis and his mob of racketeers are entitled to full credit for all the sorry mess. What do they care if the wheels of our war effort have to stop turning, if the struggle is needlessly prolonged, if thousands of extra American lives have to be sacrificed because industry at home will take place in the near future, if it was announced, with Harry Lampman of Denison, district deputy, in charge. Appointive officers, lecturer and chaplain, have been named as Buddy Bernauer and Rev. Father Thomas, and a financial secretary is yet to be appointed.

Reports on the proceedings at this order's annual state convention in Galveston were given by J. W. Fisher, R.R. Endres, Herbert Meurer and Rev. Thomas Buegler.

Formal installation of new officers will take place in the near future, it was announced, with Harry Lampman of Denison, district deputy, in charge. Appointive officers, lecturer and chaplain, have been named as Buddy Bernauer and Rev. Father Thomas, and a financial secretary is yet to be appointed.

In times like this you'd think that any citizen would be willing to keep on working even if he were losing money by doing it. His sacrifice would still be insignificant compared with that of the front line fighter. Since a special agency was set up to assure him a square deal you'd think that nothing could stop him. But in spite of the national emergency, in spite of a square deal, in spite of a direct order by the government, more than half a million such men laid down their tools. They were obeying the orders of a man who would rather jeopardize their country than withdraw his exorbitant demands — a man who would defy his government, who would sell it out for a few paltry pieces of silver. A man whose name should be officially changed to Judas Benedict Arnold Quisling.

By an ironic twist of fate we meekly tolerate the Lewis brand of dictatorship here at home while we're hell-bent on wiping out Hitler and Hirohito brands on the other side of the earth. It's about time we began applying the old proverb of removing the dirt from our own door before sweeping our neighbor's steps.

Stuff like this burns us down. It's burning millions of others all over the country. Little by little the American public is getting fed up. Complaints are getting louder. Some of these days, we hope, the clamor will get results.

There was more than a little significance behind the report last week that only four Jap prisoners had been taken today in the battle of Atiu. The Nips can blame only themselves for the fact that our fight with them has developed into a merciless campaign of extermination. In part the condition may be attributed to Jap fanaticism. More so to his treachery. American soldiers have learned the hard way that it doesn't pay to trust a Jap. Too often a prisoner has yanked the pin out of a grenade or set off a concealed explosive charge when he reached a group of his captors. He has dozens of such contemptible tricks. So the Yanks aren't taking any chances.

This makes it bad for prisoners who decide to surrender honestly. Doubtless, there have been many who, when they saw their cause was hopeless, tried to surrender in the approved way. But coming forward with hands raised they met a hail of lead. Because American soldiers did not know what to expect. When they are in doubt they shoot.

MEINRAD J. ENDRES RETIRES; SELLS HIS STOCK TO DALLASITE

The M.J. Endres store, which for the past 30 years has been a business in this city, serving the community by making available quality merchandise, was sold during the weekend by its owner to I. Wolf and I. Sachs of Dallas. Mr. Endres is retiring.

The new owners have taken over and with the assistance of Miss Anastasia Tempel, whom they retained as clerk, the business was conducted as usual this week. Within the next few weeks the present owners will conduct a gigantic sale, they stated.

In quitting the business world, Mr. Endres stated that he enjoyed his dealings during the years he strove to serve the community, and that he wished to express his thanks to his many customers and friends for their patronage.

When Mr. Endres began his business in 1914 he purchased the original stock of Dr. R.W. Crawford's store and from that time on made improvements and increased his merchandise, striving always to feature quality, high standard goods. His stock was one of the finest in the county. Last October he discontinued the grocery line, retaining the dry goods department, and adding a special line of infant's wear, novelties and gifts.

LARGE CROWD ENJOYS CONCERT BY YOUTH BAND SUNDAY NIGHT

A most enjoyable program of band music, instrumental and vocal selections was presented Sunday evening in the parish hall by the Muenster Youth Band, under the direction of Rev. Richard Eved. Members of the band wore for the first time their new capes of purple and gold satin and presented a pretty picture during the concert. The hall was filled with an appreciative audience.

In addition to the band selections the Glee Club offered two songs. Joe Weinzapfel gave a trumpet solo, Norbert Koesler played a baritone solo, Monte Hellman presented a clarinet solo, and Misses Katie Mae Waterscheid and Anna Marie Klement rendered a trombone duet. S. Sgt. Wilmer Luke, a member of the band until he joined the armed forces, home on furlough, played in his regular place in the trombone section and also offered a solo, with his sister, Miss Eilfrieda Luke, playing the piano accompaniment.

Miss Mildred Walterscheid played her own accordion accompaniment for two vocal selections and took an encore for the third number.

Vocal presentations included a solo by Werner Henschel, and two songs by the male quartette composed of Henschel, Leo Becker, Martin Becker and Alfred Bayer. Miss Gladys Wilde gave a vocal solo and was joined by Miss Juanita Weinzapfel in a duet with Miss Alma Marie Luke playing the piano accompaniment.

Both classical and popular numbers were on the program which was concluded with the Star Spangled Banner by the Band.

ARMY TO DEFER ONLY 22 OF 100 FATHERS

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Dependency alone will be virtually eliminated by the end of this year as a reason for keeping fathers out of uniform, Manpower Chief Paul V. McNutt indicated today.

The armed forces will need so many men, he said, that only 22 of every 100 able-bodied fathers still will be deferred at the end of 1943 because their families need their support.

General induction of family heads is due to start August 1. A Navy announcement yesterday lowering physical standards for draftees may slow up induction of fathers slightly, McNutt said, but he predicted that even if the Army follows suit in adopting new standards the general effect on father induction will be "only a delay."

Relaxation of Navy standards, particularly on eyesight, coincided with reliable reports that the armed forces have been rejecting more than half the inductees called up in recent weeks.

In June 1942 he asked permission to be transferred to the paratroop division, passed his tests, and in September received his wings. He was stationed at Fort Bragg, N.C., until called for overseas duty in April. Billy is married and his wife resides in Macon, Ga., where she is employed.

Jimmy Reports OK

The long-awaited reports from S. Sgt. Jimmy Lehnertz, somewhere in Africa, arrived during the weekend in letters to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lehnertz, and to friends. Time for writing is limited, he added, and asked that his best regards be extended to every one of his friends in Muenster and Cooke County. The letters were dated May 18.

Another Lehnertz Says OK

Writing from somewhere in New Guinea, Sgt. Earl Lehnertz, discloses that he is still in there with the rest of the Yanks keeping on the job for Uncle Sam. He included hello to all his friends.

OVEN CANNING

before you begin

All fruits and tomatoes, and tomato mixtures containing at least 50 per cent tomatoes, may be processed by the oven method. However, Lone Star's Home Economics Director, Albertine Berry, does not recommend this method unless the heat of the oven can be accurately controlled and maintained, because a constant, even temperature is most important. In oven canning, follow these steps:

Be sure that the oven heat can be accurately controlled.

Preheat and maintain oven temperature at 250 degrees, making sure that temperature does not build up during the processing time.

Use only tempered jars and check them to see that none are cracked or nicked around the rim.

Count processing time from the time oven door is closed. In filling jar, have at least one-half inch headroom at top.

In removing from the oven, be careful that cold air does not strike the hot jars. Place them on several thicknesses of towel out of drafts until they have cooled to prevent breakage.

Complete seal immediately upon removing jars from oven if necessary.

"Save now to have for the future" is as true for tires on delivery trucks as for tires on our own cars. And, the very best way to save rubber tires, is to cut out every unnecessary request for special and repeat calls.

To homemakers educated to a way of life wherein the word "service" is synonymous with delivery at any and all times, avoidance of extra calls means breaking a long established habit. For this reason, the American Institute of Laundering gives us some suggestions for cooperating with our laundry and save rubber for Uncle Sam.

Cut out every one of those extra trips your laundryman used to make in the name of "service" and our boys can make a lot of extra trips with bombers in the name of freedom.

1. On the day previous to regular pick-up day, inspect all "extras" such as curtains, washable rugs, slip covers, bed spreads, blankets and quilts. If they are soiled, place them with your regular laundry bundle and avoid a last minute rush when the laundryman calls; perhaps even eliminate a special trip back later in the day. So, remember to have these launderable "extras" ready for when they are clean and sparkling they make home a much easier place to forget our cares and worries.

2. If possible, round out your supply of wearing apparel and household linens so that on his regular call to your home, the routeman can (a) deliver your clean laundry, (b) collect for it, (c) pick-up soiled articles. This results in one call every period instead of two or three.

3. If you can't be home when the routeman arrives, arrange with a neighbor to accept and pay for your laundry. Do the same for her. Telephone changed instructions direct to the laundry a day ahead of scheduled delivery if possible.

These seem like small things but added all together and multiplied by all delivery services of every kind, such a simple routine actually saves thousands of miles of unnecessary wear on tires! That's why our government has asked every one, homemaker and businessman alike, to do everything possible to eliminate "extra" deliveries. unnecessary

That's the way most electric company men got their start. It's the American way. And it works. It works so well that the electric companies under experienced business management were able to push power production up and up—to supply war plants with far more electric power than any nation has ever known before—and at low rates.

The same business system that is helping to win the war today will also enrich the peace—when air freighters are delivering radios and refrigerators—instead of block-busters!

To the wide-eyed boy beside him, this Fortress pilot ranks with Superman.

One look at the instrument panel and you feel the same way. It's hard to believe that ordinary mortals could ever master that maze of dials, buttons, levers and switches.

But young Americans are doing it with deadly efficiency. (Ask Adolf, Benito or Tojo.) And they don't learn their jobs just by reading a book. It takes intensive training and practical experience.

The electric power business is like that. You can't make kilowatt-hours with theories. You've got to learn how—by growing up in the business.

MÜNSTER GARDEN CLUB HAS ANNUAL PILGRIMAGE HERE

The annual pilgrimage of the Muenster Garden Club provided an educational and delightful affair Monday evening when members visited several gardens in this city. The group met at the home of Mrs. Joe Luke at 7 o'clock.

Yards and gardens visited were those of Mrs. Jim Cook, Miss Mary Becker, Mrs. I.A. Schoech and Mrs. Andy Hofbauer. Many lovely flowers and shrubbery were viewed and victory gardens came in for their share of the comment.

The concluding feature of the tour was a business session and picnic supper at the home of Mrs. Joe Luke. Delicious food, brought by the members, was served on the lawn, picnic fashion.

During the business session, which also took place on the lighted lawn, committee chairmen gave reports and routine business was discussed.

For the program at this meeting Miss Olivia Stock read a paper on "What to do in the Garden in June".

GLADIOLA EXHIBIT
Following the business session, members judged the club's gladiolas, the year's horticultural project, which were on display. Each member cast a vote for her preference for first, second and third prize, with the following results: first, Mrs. Jake Pagel; second, Miss Olivia Stock; third, Mrs. Frank Kaiser. Each received an attractive gift.
The pilgrimage was arranged by Miss Stock, pilgrimage chairman. Fifteen women attended.

Confetti---

Out West a rancher living near an air field was telling his troubles to a soldier. He had lost his cowhands to the service and war industry and could not hire anyone. He was faced with work that urgently needed attention. Word got to the commandant who offered passes for any of the boys who cared to help. Five former cowboys eagerly grabbed at the chance. Net result, five men got a pleasant change from army routine and the rancher got an essential job done.

There's an idea that ought to be scattered all over the country. At this season especially when harvest is causing no end of worry. Hundreds of grain fields are ready. Farmers are working their hearts out in the hope of getting the job done. Unless the weather gives them a lot of cooperation they're going to take a big loss. And the nation will lose essential food that it can ill afford to spare.

What was done for the rancher could be done for thousands of farmers. Cooke County, for instance, offers a perfect opportunity. Many farm boys now in uniform would welcome the chance to get out in the grain fields for a few days. Something should be done about it.

In the army we have liaison officers whose job is to coordinate the efforts of various units. Such as the infantry and artillery, for instance. They have made wonderful progress since the last war. As a result all army units are working together more effectively. Perhaps the idea can be carried a little farther. Perhaps a few enterprising civic leaders could establish liaison between the army and agriculture to the end that those forces would coordinate efforts in the interest of the whole nation. Cooke County is a perfect spot and this is a perfect time to give the idea a trial.
