City earns $991 with drink tax

The city of Muenster has received a check in the amount of $991.50 as a rebate for mixed drink taxes remitted to the state by local business during the second quarter of this year.

The comptroller's statement with the remittance indicated that local business has paid the state $6,610.01 as the 10 percent tax collected in April, May and June, and the state has rebated 15 percent of that amount as the city's share of the tax.

By the same arrangement Gainesville has received a rebate of $2,368.11 and Lindsay has received $3,186.75.

Also, Cooke County has received a 15 percent rebate on a total mixed drink tax of $48,966.94. The payment amounts to $7,345.04.

Next week's beginning of the Olympics is a good occasion to recall that Soviet withdrawal from the competition actually amounted to the country's tremendous defeat in propaganda warfare. In effect USSR has admitted to the world that it does not command the loyalty of its people, that is the athletes, the coaches and even the KGB spies.

Announcing their withdrawal on May 8, the head Reds blamed a US group known as the Ban the Soviets Coalition as their chief reason for dropping out. The coalition, consisting of 165 organizations nationwide, openly declared that its goal was to influence defections from Russia. The Kremlin obviously feared that Reds risked red faces by coming to Los Angeles, so they decided not to come.

The USSR complained about the US movement for weeks before the pull-out, expressing special concern about our plans to help Soviet defectors, and just before the announcement came up with various other excuses, such as security, accommodations, etc. But continued harping about the coalition left little doubt about the pull-out, which can be rated as a tremendous cold-war victory of grassroots people over the world's propaganda super power.

Little was known about the movement in this country until the Red statement, based no doubt on reports of the KGB, but it's known now that four issues were involved in the movement.

First of all the coalition let it be known that it proposed aid and support to would-be defectors.

Also there were plans of free-speech demonstrations against the Soviets during the Olympics.

At the same time planners were insisting that Soviets comply with human rights agreements which allow for defections.

And the coalition lobbied successfully to get Radio Free Europe re-accredited to cover the Olympics and tell people over there what goes on at the games. This is a plus whether or not USSR will be there.

All of these issues involve the Soviet fear of truth to an extent that it could not tolerate, especially since the immense humiliation of defections was an added risk.

If all had gone as planned the Russian and Eastern-bloc athletes would have been greeted by such sights as billboards in Russian and German offering help to potential defectors, with as many as 25 to 50 billboards along Southern California freeways.

Also air banners with a similar message and a telephone number trailing from airplanes at many of the 376 Olympics events in which Soviet and Eastern-bloc athletes would have participated.

New image sought for Germanfest

A Chamber of Commerce committee studying ways to improve Muenster's annual Germanfest will recommend a "return to the original concept" to the chamber board next month.

Alvin Fuhrman, chairman of the committee, said this week that his group will meet again August 3 to finalize its proposal to the chamber's board of directors.

"We're looking at the type of people we're attracting to Germanfest," he said. "We're not really happy with the crowd we're drawing — the motorcycle gangs, people like that. We're getting the type of people who are not really a credit to what we're trying to do." After a meeting Friday for public discussion of the fest, Fuhrman said his committee has a fairly firm idea of what its recommendations will be.

"The type of entertainment we're offering might be part of the problem," he said. "We want to go back to the original things we started with, the German heritage. Beer-belly and tobacco-spitting contests don't really fit in."

Fuhrman said only three people other than the committee members attended the Friday forum to voice their views on Germanfest and other chamber activities. After another public meeting August 3, the group will meet with chamber directors August 8 and the final recommendations will be presented at the chamber's luncheon meeting August 14.

"We wanted to get all the input we could from the people in the community," he said. "We're just about through the gathering stage now. We're ready to put our recommendations together."

The return to the German heritage will involve not only eliminating some of the out-of-place elements in the celebration, but will spark an effort to add theme elements, Fuhrman said. The chamber will encourage participants to wear traditional costumes, and will look for more German-oriented entertainment in the form of polka music, folk dancing and the like.

Paid attendance at last year's festival was about 16,000, with total attendance estimated at more than 30,000. The Germanfest was begun in 1976.

Insurance costs to rise

County faces hike on employee rates

Insurance costs on Cooke County employees will go up more than 41 percent under a contract accepted by the commissioners court at their meeting Monday in Gainesville.

The best of two bids submitted on health insurance for county employees was from Pan American Life, the same company that had the county's business last year. They were represented at the meeting by local agent Owen Davis.

Pan American's bid called for a premium of $106.20 per month for medical insurance on each county employee. The county pays that cost for about 120 fulltime employees and elected officials.

The bid will bring the county's total health insurance cost next year to $155,980 according to estimates furnished by county auditor Gloria Parrish. That figure is up 41.7 percent from last year's cost of $110,073.

County employees who purchase policies for their dependents will see the rate rise to $179.76 per month under the new policy.

The only other insurance bid received was from Washington National Life, with employee medical insurance costing $125 a month and dependent medical soaring to $212 per month.

The insurance bids and proposed salary increases for county employees were two of the major budget items brought up on Monday's agenda, as the commissioners continue to work toward a final budget for the 1984-85 fiscal year.

A new salary schedule proposed for all Cooke County employees would grant a $100-a-month raise across the board. But county judge Jim Robertson said the raises will barely cover increased insurance costs for employees who pay to have their dependents covered.

"That sounds like a big raise,"

Deputies pursue leads in case

Cooke County Sheriff's deputies, with help from the FBI, Texas Rangers, and law officers in New Mexico, Colorado, Oklahoma and Louisiana — are still investigating the robbery last Friday of the Valley View National Bank.

Chief deputy John Aston said this week there was nothing new to report on the investigation.

"We feel sure it's the same five that hit the Leesville bank,"

Aston said, referring to a bank robbery in February in Leesville, Louisiana. That robbery, like Friday's in Valley View, was set apart by the use of a helicopter to transport the armed men to the scene and get them away quickly.

Cooke County investigators were slated to meet with Leesville detectives Tuesday and go over the case with them, sharing information in an effort to discover clues about the robbers' methods.

The robbery at Valley View took place just before 9:30 a.m. last Friday when the copter landed in a field near the bank. Four men armed with automatic weapons and wearing khakis and flak jackets ran into the bank, while one stayed with the helicopter.

Officials are not yet saying how much money the robbers got, but a report last week said it was "not

Confetti

Plus pamphlets and brochures detailing US laws on defection and immigration...with instructions on how to defect, where to go, who to see and what to say along with toll-free telephone numbers of groups eager to help.

Also demonstrators with red, white and blue megaphones yelling out pro-defection messages in a half dozen languages to Soviet, Eastern-bloc and Cuban visitors.

Along with 100 "safe houses" where defectors — athletes, trainers and tourists — could get shelter, food and legal aid beyond the grasp of the KGB until they could publicly reveal their defection in a news conference.

Still another factor in the Russian withdrawal was the declared US intention to enforce all human rights agreements during the Olympics, thereby opening the door for wholesale defections by Eastern-bloc athletes and spectators. President Reagan emphasized the policy by refusing to promise to return all defectors. Before boycotting the Olympics Russia reportedly sought secret assurance from the Reagan administration that any of its athletes trying to defect would be turned over to Soviet custody. Reagan promptly rejected it as morally and politically objectionable.

If the Russians had come to LA, there are reasons to think they would have established all-time records in defection. Word reaching the US before the Soviets pulled out strongly supported that opinion.

Under the circumstances, Russia chose not to risk a propaganda debacle. Think of the enormous embarrassment of Soviet athletes winning honors but choosing to seek refuge in this land of the free.

Obviously they have avoided that embarrassment but have created another. They have admitted to the world that they are threatened by individual freedom, free speech, human rights and human dignity.

A final thought is that America stands taller for having at last put the Soviets in their place. It has accomplished what years of accommodation and appeasement could not do. It has earned the respect of all the world.

A deadline missed ...

BY THE time this gets off the press, I may be a father.

Today (Friday) is the due date. There is an air of hushed excitement in our house, as if Santa Claus were about to land on the roof. We give each other smirking wide-eyed glances at the oddest times.

Never mind that babies rarely, if ever, come on due dates. I understand they can't even read doctors' orders. Never mind they almost never come during daylight, which it is, or when it would work out nicely for dad's job, which it would, or when all the kin for hundreds of miles are sticking close to the phones, which they are.

The fact remains that it is the due date, the day we've been looking toward since that home pregnancy test convinced us we really were going to multiply, back last fall.

We've been through all the classes, read all the books about breathing and relaxation, back labor and transition. We are as ready, I suppose, as first-time parents can be.

A peaceful night's sleep was broken early this morning when (gasp!) she sighed. Almost instantly, the adrenalin hit.

"Did you sigh? Was that a sigh? Are you alright?"

"Sigh. Yeah, I'm alright. I was just wondering whether to have cereal or French toast for breakfast. Sigh."

"Sigh."

And so it goes. I hope the kid is punctual. Nine months is long enough to be pregnant.

Thoughts while waiting to become a father:

The overriding question, I suppose, is, "What kind of world am I bringing my child into?"

As I write, the police are still picking through the remains of a McDonald's in southern California where a man killed 21 innocent people before he was killed himself. They tell me five guys in a helicopter just robbed the Valley View bank with machine guns. The world is a crazy, dangerous place.

If I wanted to, I could dwell on atomic weapons, crime, drugs, population problems, pollution, starvation, strained relations between superpowers and the like all day long. It's easy to work yourself into a deep depression over the state of things today.

What kind of world am I bringing my child into? The same kind of world my parents brought me into — a confused, dangerous, trouble-ridden one.

Also a breathtakingly beautiful one.

In a short lifetime I've already seen beauty that made me want to shout praises to the Creator. I've met people who shined in His image, and heard music I thought He must have written Himself, it was so big and so beautiful. I've known five lifetimes of love and joy and peace.

At the extremes, I suppose if you dwell on the world and all its problems, you could easily decide not to have children. That's a decision a surprising number of people are making today.

Or, you could decide to ignore the problems. Pretend they don't exist, and raise your kids to believe the world is all sweetness and softness, that it will treat them good just because they're yours. A lot of people are living in that dream-world.

There's a third option — one that admits all the problems in the world and deals with them. That's the one I choose, for myself and my children — as God's children.

It is indeed a cruel world. My kids may receive the worst it has to offer, and I may be powerless to spare them. Along with all my love and care, I want to make them tough enough to deal with the world as it is, knowing they're not going to change it.

There are too many people already who hide their heads in the sand, who wring their hands in despair. Just because you can't help the millions starving in Africa, don't ignore the lonely old person starving for affection next door. Just because you can't destroy all the nuclear weapons, don't give up on trying to help the kids down the street learn how to get along with each other. Just because you can't tear down the Berlin wall, don't give up on trying to reach your neighbor with a smile and an offer of friendship.

My kid may grow up to be president, or he may run a sweeper at Disney World. I don't expect him to alter the course of history.

But he's going to know that whatever happens, he's alright. If the world dishes out its worst, he can still survive.

So can we all.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights

AUSTIN—Capitol complex halls fell quiet last week while Texas government officials, all of them Democrats, attended their party's national convention in San Francisco.

In the lull, reporters examined the six months financial reports listing officeholder contributions and expenditures.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby spent the most, using $2.3 million of his own money to retire his 1982 campaign debts.

Governor Mark White reported spending almost $375,000 on travel, dinners and gifts. His file showed he accepted $240,000, mostly from 18 businessmen and two political committees, and he borrowed another $200,000.

Other officeholders spending over $100,000 were Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro, House Speaker Gib Lewis and Attorney General Jim Mattox.

Among those officials, Lewis caught press flak for not reporting the direct source of some of his contributions, and Mattox drew criticism for using political contributions to pay income taxes and his legal defense of a commercial bribery charge.

Lewis' report listed a Dallas law firm as the contributor following a fundraiser, when actually the law firm organized the bash and gathered money from several individuals.

Mattox spent $99,700 on legal fees, and $14,140 to pay income taxes.

State Vs. Feds

State officials and the U.S. Department of Interior are still locked in a dispute over whether the feds can carry out mass leasing of submerged oil lands in the Gulf of Mexico.

A federal judge last week ruled the oil lease sale could take place in Houston, but reserved the right to void the sale in the future.

Texas is arguing that such mass sales have shortchanged the federal and coastal state governments by as much as $20 billion.

Rate Cut Offered

In what is a good sign for homeowners among rising mortgage interest rates, the staff of the State Board of Insurance last week recommended a $64 million statewide reduction in property insurance rates.

If enacted by commissioners, the proposed cut could lower homeowner's insurance by about 11 percent.

The insurance industry still has to study the proposal and comment.

Land Office

The General Land Office last week drilled a second well on controversial Duval County state oil lands.

The first well drilled three months ago is producing a monthly income of about $160,000.

The state must drill those wells as part of the legal solution to taking back the lands from Mobil Oil Corp.

Woman Appointee

The governor last week appointed what some believe is the first Texas woman to chair a major state board or commission.

San Antonio attorney Margaret Meyer Maisel will chair the Industrial Accident Board. Maisel, a woman familiar with being "first," was reportedly the first woman to be admitted to St. Mary's Law School, where she graduated first in her class.

Utility Chief Quits

Meanwhile, the chairman of the Public Utility Commission, Al Erwin of Austin, resigned to go into public relations.

Erwin, a former journalist, was appointed in 1983 and said then he didn't expect to serve a full six-year term.

He was one of the commission's initial members when it was created in 1975.

AG Computer

The Texas Department of Agriculture plans to use about 100 microcomputers installed in offices around the state to put farmers and ranchers in touch with buyers.

The database is called AgNet, a federal program which contains up-to-the-minute information on buyers worldwide searching for particular products.

The initial cost is $500,000, which might be supplemented by federal grant money.

Political Drop-Out

On the campaign scene, a state Senate hopeful from Austin announced he is dropping out of the race because he can't get any co-operation or support from his party.

Pat McNamara, Republican candidate for the seat being vacated by Lloyd Doggett, said his race is being passed over by GOP officials because it's a predominately Democratic district.

By state law, McNamara cannot be replaced on the ballot under such conditions. His resignation thereby gives the victory to his Democratic opponent, Gonzalo Barrientos.

Williams is executive director of the Texas Press Association, based in Austin.

The U.N. at 40...

FORTIETH BIRTHDAYS usually bring with them varying degrees of panic about one's life. Do I know what I want out of life? Have I fulfilled my goals? Do I have some idea what I want to accomplish in the years ahead?

As the United Nations reaches its 40th birthday, these same questions had better be asked. At 40, the U.N. is no longer a well-intentioned glimmer in an idealist's eye. It's failings can no longer be shrugged off as youthful enthusiasm. The U.N. is a full-grown organization with a real record and history — and not one to be especially proud of either. At 40, the U.N. faces a very real middle-age crisis.

A recently published book, A World Without a U.N., examines the U.N.'s performance in nine key areas — disarmament, economic development, peacekeeping, the environment, health, food and agriculture, education, human rights, and "its role as a kind of safety valve to reduce international tensions."

The 12 contributors were asked whether the situation in the world would be better, worse, or unchanged if the U.N. didn't exist.

Their conclusion: the world would be "no worse off" and, in fact, might be better off without the U.N.

Why? Because the U.N.'s track record has become a mixture of failed or broken promises, and its character has undergone an obscene werewolf-like transformation from an organization embodying all of man's noblest goals and aspirations to a ritualistic, even tribal, circus where clubbing the U.S. and western values is considered high art.

The U.N.'s human rights activities, for example, involve mainly passing resolutions, rather than helping end human rights abuses or helping victims, the book explains.

The Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) generally ignores and even is hostile to the one agricultural system which consistently has multiplied the world's food supply — private-sector farming. So while millions go hungry, and the U.N. looks to the U.S. and the West for "emergency" food aid for the drought-stricken of Africa, and the Soviet Union produces another failed harvest, so-called corporate farming in the U.S. is denounced.

The U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) promotes none of these things; instead, it promotes the notion that whatever know-how the Western democracies possess they have developed at the expense of the less fortunate of the world and should now 'return' their earnings to their underdeveloped victims.

The U.N. also has done poorly as keeper of the peace, the book shows. In the hundreds of wars and conflicts since the end of World War II, the U.N. has been a significant stabilizing force in only a handful. "The fact is that when it comes to peacekeeping, while the U.N. probably makes the situation no worse, it also makes it no better," says Burton Pines, editor of the new volume.

In the area of disarmament, the U.N. has done literally nothing. Those well-publicized and costly U.N. conferences on disarmament yielded only rhetoric, Pines says.

Ambassador Charles Lichtenstein, former number two person at the U.S. Mission in New York, says in the foreword to the book that the U.S. should work for reform at the U.N. or consider withdrawing. First of all, he and Pines suggest, U.N. technical agencies once again must deal exclusively with technical matters. The World Health Organization (WHO) should work on world health; UNESCO should work on science and education. And so forth. Second, the U.N. must stop funding the Palestine Liberation Organization, the South West Africa People's Organization, and similar terrorist groups. The U.S. should not be sending funds to terrorists through the U.N. or any other organization.

The U.N. at 40 is not the organization its founders intended. Whether it has deteriorated past the point of repair is an open question.

Feulner is president of The Heritage Foundation, a Washington-based public policy research institute.

Letter to the Editor

Letter to the Editor:

Last week's article on the proposed landfill site is in need of a correction. It is true that the city is leasing the land from Art Bayer at this time. However, the new site is located nearly two miles north and is not his property.

I would also like to point out that in the contract Mr. Bayer has with the city, the Soil Conservation Service set up specifications for a dam to keep the garbage from washing down into the creek. Those specifications were not followed and — you guessed it — the dam washed out.

It seems to me that the city council needs to clean up their 'mess'. I don't think anyone can blame Mr. Bayer for not wanting the dump on his property. A person can only put up with so much 'garbage' and 'trashy' treatment.

Sincerely,
Janet Barnhill

Note: The property where the proposed landfill will be located (if approved) is owned by Sam Sparkman. We apologize for the error.

Navy flier has busy schedule

Eight months of busy and interesting, often exciting, Naval duty are recorded in an activity log recently reported to home folks by Commander Ramon Luke. Ray is a helicopter pilot who has been involved in a variety of missions from special training on the Navy's biggest chopper to delivering supplies, equipment and the helicopters themselves to bases at both sides of the Atlantic, and transporting military and civilian dignitaries at the 40th anniversary of D-day observance.

Ray and his wife, Tawni, have been stationed at Virginia Beach, Va., since early October, '83. Shortly after arriving he was sent to a rugged training course on survival, evasion, resistance and escape (SERE), basically how to be a prisoner of war if shot down.

The next job was transition training on that whopper chopper, the new CH-53E Super Stallion, the free world's largest and heaviest helicopter. The mission was called vertical onboard delivery (VOD), primarily providing heavy lift support to large ships at sea. It can carry 32,000 pounds of cargo or up to 55 passengers. It has three engines, seven blades in the main rotor, can re-fuel from a KC-130 in flight or while hovering beside a ship. Ray can re-fuel in the air, on or beside ships at sea.

To date he has been on three support deployments. One was a VOD assignment assisting the squadron as it trains aircrews to sweep mines from harbors. Haiphong harbor and the Suez canal were cleared on two jobs.

Next came two months at Puerto Rico supporting two aircraft carriers, their embarked air wings and several ships. Before ships deploy they make three to eight week cruises to work up to combat readiness. In the areas of Puerto Rico and Guantanamo they were in support of up to 18,000 men, carrying mail, spare parts, engines — all the needs of men and machines.

On one trip to Puerto Rico the craft carried politicians, news people and other VIPs observing Ocean Venture 84 military exercises. Duty days were long but occasionally allowed time to see San Juan and St. Thomas.

Next on schedule was a flight to meet the USS Dwight D. Eisenhower at Guantanamo Bay to load people, equipment and cargo for a trip to the 40th anniversary observance of D-Day. During its several days at sea the copter crew made flights to Bermuda and Lisbon also to Portsmouth and London, England and to France. Free time on those trips was limited, but sights were beautiful and interesting.

Luke and his crew were with the celebration fleet on June 6 but not close enough for a good look at the big show. He recalls 18,000 men on the carrier flight deck positioned to spell out "Ike" as President Reagan flew over in a helicopter, also a 5 minute speech by the president broadcast from the chopper. The next two days were spent at sea with French navy units. Highlights of the next several days were trips to Brest and Paris between times while giving logistic support to the squadron at Sigonella Sicily. The prime purpose of the choppers mission was to deliver it to the Sicilian base. Logistic assignments were a matter of being helpful along the way. They made the transfer at Brest, then flew commercially to Paris, New York and Norfolk, Va.

Meanwhile Ray's wife, Tawni, keeps busy as nurse in a Virginia Beach hospital. They expect to be stationed two years at Virginia Beach.

Ray is a son of Dan Luke and the late Dolores Luke, a graduate of Muenster High and the US Naval Academy.

Fred Kuhn buried at Lindsay

Funeral service for Fred J. Kuhn, 89, of Gainesville was held Sunday at 2 p.m. in St. Peter's Church of Lindsay with Father Nicholas Fuhrmann officiating at a Mass of Christian Burial and Father Stephen Eckart concelebrating and Gene Pelzel assisting as lector.

Burial was in St. Peter's Cemetery directed by Geo. J. Carroll and Son Funeral Home and the pallbearers were great-nephews, Kyle Kuhn, Greg Kuhn, Chris Kuhn, Curtis Rohmer, Michael Zimmerer and Danny Barentine.

Fred Kuhn died Friday in Gainesville Memorial Hospital.

He was born January 14, 1895 in Mexia, a son of the late Fred and Barbara Byer Kuhn, and came to Lindsay with his family at an early age. He lived there until he entered the military service in World War I. After that he lived in Manning Iowa until his recent return to Gainesville. He was a member of St. Peter's parish.

Survivors are three brothers, Jake, Henry and Frank, all of Lindsay; Rose Zimmerer, Anna Kuhn and Mary Kuhn, also of Lindsay, and nephews and nieces.

a large amount" due to the fact that the robbers were unwilling to wait until the bank's time-lock vault could be opened.

They got $163,000 in the Leesville heist.

After hitting the Valley View bank, the bandits apparently flew around in the area for awhile, then headed north where they tossed out four cashboxes on a farm near Leon, Oklahoma.

The helicopter, which was stolen near Galveston the morning of the robbery, has not been located at presstime.

"There's no telling where they might have fueled up," Aston said. "A lot of people are calling in after seeing helicopters, but it's not that unusual nowadays to see a helicopter. We're checking them all out, though — one of them may just be the right one."

Aston said enlargements of videotape photos made during the bank robbery should be available sometime this week and will be released for publication, as authorities try to enlist the public's help in identifying the robbers.

Insurance costs to rise

Robertson said. "But when you take into consideration that counties are traditionally on a low pay scale, and add the fact that insurance costs are rising dramatically, we're not really giving them (county employees) anything. It will still leave some employees with a negative number for the year."

The insurance hike and increased payroll costs, along with other budget items, will be discussed in the county's final public hearing on the budget, slated for their first August meeting.

One budget item where the county got a break was in the juvenile probation department. Robertson told the commissioners the county's budgeted amount of $87,340 for detention facilities was nearly $20,000 more than will be needed. The court voted to cut the budget back to $68,754.

Robertson and precinct three commissioner Jerry Lewis learned of the lower figure in a recent meeting of the board of directors of the detention center at Sherman. Both of the Cooke County officials serve as members of that board.

In other action Monday, the commissioners:

— approved a plat for developer Fred Simmons on the FRF subdivision in the southeast portion of the county, with the stipulation that the plat be changed to read that the county will not be responsible for building or maintaining the roads;

— opened bids on a new tandem truck for precinct one, then tabling the bids for further study;

— reappointed Barbara Marshall as Cooke County's representative on the board of Mental Health/Mental Retardation Services of Texoma, noting she desired to continue to serve and had done an excellent job;

— discussed and approved a quit claim deed submitted by William R. Carroll; — approved a notary bond for a new secretary in the county attorney's office.

In a final item, the commissioners advised county clerk Frank Scoggins to use paper sacks and cardboard boxes to store federal election ballots after the November general elections.

Scoggins was recently notified he is now required to keep the ballots for 22 months after the election. If they were kept in the voting boxes, the county would be forced to buy additional boxes for use in elections to be held while the old ballots were still being stored.

But precinct four commissioner Robert Bayer said there was apparently no need to store the ballots in the voting boxes. "I don't see what would be wrong with putting them in paper sacks, as long as we label them good," he said.

Scoggins said he would look into the law and try to determine if that would be acceptable.

Cycle course begins August 2

A motorcycle rider course is available to teenagers and adults in the Gainesville area.

The $40.00 course will teach present and potential motorcyclists the skills necessary to ride in traffic, including a session devoted to advanced maneuvers. Classroom and on-cycle experience are part of the course.

Cooke County College is offering the course which will meet Thursdays and Fridays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturdays from 8 a.m. till noon beginning August 2. Pre-Registration is required.

The 20-hour course will be open to anyone of licensing age wishing to learn to ride a motorcycle. Teenagers under 18 years of age will need parental consent.

Students will be provided with helmets.

Several motorcycle dealers are providing free loan motorcycles for use in the course including Gainesville Cycle. Successful graduates will be given course completion cards making them eligible for insurance premium discounts offered by several motorcycle insurance companies.

Anyone interested in enrolling or desiring more information may contact the Division of Continuing Education at 668-7731, ext. 220.

Couple wed at Lindsay church

LIFESTYLE

The wedding of Annette M. Alexander and Bill C. Bayer was held Saturday, July 21 in St. Peter's Church in Lindsay, with Father Stephen Eckart OSB officiating for the Nuptial Mass and double ring vows at 5 p.m.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert J. Block of Lindsay and Mr. and Mrs. Martin B. Bayer of Muenster.

The bride is a graduate of Lindsay High School and is employed at K-Mart. The groom is a graduate of Sacred Heart High School and is self-employed.

The bride was presented at the altar by her father. For her wedding, she chose a gown of ivory silk chiffon, featuring a Victorian neckline. The sheer yoke of English net was enhanced with narrow bands of satin ribbon and tiny bows. The yoke and brief cap sleeves were outlined in Wedgewood lace and the fitted bodice was attached to a full skirt at the natural waistline.

Five rows of Wedgewood lace completely encircled the skirt and also fell from the back of the waist to the hem of the gown, simulating a bustle effect and sweeping gracefully to floor length.

She wore long lace gloves fitted to above the wrist.

To complete her attire, the bride wore the same headpiece worn by her mother more than 27 years ago at her wedding. It was fashioned in a crown effect of Chantilly lace, tiny seed pearls and beads attached to a veil of bridal illusions sprinkled with matching seed pearls.

She carried a bridal cascade of blue and ivory roses, babies breath and English ivy, centered with a white orchid. Entwined in the flowers was a rosary given to her by her grandmother, Mrs. Pete Block. Long streamers of ivory satin enhanced the bridal bouquet.

She also wore a pearl necklace and ivory rose earrings, a gift from the groom.

Attendants

Mrs. Dale Alexander, the bride's sister Natalie of Gainesville was her matron of honor and Donna Dieter, a cousin of Lindsay was bridesmaid.

They were gowned alike in the bride's chosen color of marigot blue knit, with bodice of silk chiffon featuring a wedding ring neckline and cap sleeves. The skirt was attached at the natural waistline, with soft draping to floor length.

The attendants carried long stem blue roses encircled with English net and pearls with long satin streamers. They wore combs of ivory roses with blue babies breath in their hair.

David Bayer of Muenster, groom's brother was best man and Glenn Block of Lindsay, bride's brother was groomsman. Kenneth Otto of Tulsa, groom's brother-in-law, Dale Bayer of Gainesville and Tom Bayer of Muenster, both groom's brothers were ushers.

Mike Dieter, bride's cousin and Ryan Bayer groom's nephew were Mass servers.

For the special wedding liturgy Kevin Block, bride's brother was Eucharistic minister and Rudy Dieter, bride's uncle was lector. Tim Block, bride's brother, Nelda Bayer and Pat Otto groom's sisters and Don Bayer, groom's brother presented Offertory gifts at the altar. Lisa Bayer, groom's niece presented a rose to the couple who placed it on the Virgin Mary altar as a floral tribute, as Jerry Kneupper sang "Mother, At Your Feet We're Kneeling."

Other music included traditional wedding marches by Patsy Henry, organist and vocal selections "My Cup Runneth Over", "Wedding Song", "On This Day" and "With This ring."

Vows were exchanged before an altar decorated with fresh white mums, leather leaf fern and white babies breath. Votive candles and greenery extended along the Communion rail and soft blue carnations and bows marked the center aisle.

Reception

A reception, dinner and dance followed in the Knights of Columbus Hall in Gainesville, hosted by parents of the couple.

Peggy Lutkenhaus, bride's cousin of Lindsay and Laura Dunlap a friend secured guest signatures in the bride's book.

The six-tiered ivory wedding cake held ivory satin bells, miniature royal blue satin bows and light blue roses. The oblong, two-layered chocolate groom's cake was decorated with the Bayer monogram. Roger Dieter, bride's cousin designed and decorated both cakes. Joyce Bayer, a sister-in-law and Rhonda, Cheryl, Jennifer, DeAnn and Melanie Bayer, groom's nieces were reception assistants and cake servers.

When the couple returns from a wedding trip they will be at home in Muenster.

MRS. BILL C. BAYER
... nee Annette Alexander

Personal

Rupert Hoening of Saudi Air Lines will leave Friday on his return to Saudi Arabia ending three weeks of vacationing with his family at Carrollton and other relatives, including two days here with his father, Joe Hoening, and other kin and friends. Two special occasions were reunions at Carrollton of the Joe Hoening and Ted Neu families.

Wimmers camp during Colorado vacation

Vacation time this summer for 7 couples and several children, all members of the Wimmer families, took them in separate directions early in July and culminated in almost a week of camping together in Durango, Colorado. They traveled in 5 campers.

First to leave Muenster on July 4 were Terry and Cindy Wimmer and family who visited the Charlie Berends in Hereford. On Thursday Billie and Doc Reinart and Celie and Andy Wimmer drove to Canyon to attend the TEXAS! pageant in the Palo Duro Canyon and the next day met the Terry Wimmers in Hereford.

On Friday they continued sight-seeing along the way to Durango where Willie and Margie Wimmer and family, Roy and Kay Wimmer and family, Tim and Eunice Wimmer, and Lawrence and Irene Wimmer were waiting for them. The children also took along several friends.

They enjoyed resort attractions in Durango, especially the Ski Lift, Alpine Slide, White Water Rafting, and a trip to the top of Mesa Verde to view the Indian ruins.

One night a chuck wagon supper and special entertainment were hosted by the Durango resort.

The group of 28 persons are all home again, after completing vacations in separate return routes.

Luke gets promotion

Sun Exploration and Production Co. has recently announced the appointment of George Luke as district electrical engineer for the company's South Texas District domestic production operations. The district handles all oil and gas production for Sun from Brownsville and Laredo to Austin and Houston. As such George is responsible for five electronic and cathodic protection technicians in addition to the safe and efficient use of motors and generators. George, a son of the A.F. Lukes, his wife, Sharon, a daughter of the Henry Voths of Lindsay, and their son, Ryan, live in Corpus Christi.

At home of bride's parents

Ramsey, Tempel wed in garden

Sandy Marie Ramsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Ramsey, became the bride of Jeffrey Lyn Tempel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Tempel on July 7, in a garden wedding held at the home of the bride's parents.

Bill Freeman, justice of the peace officiated for the double ring ceremony at 7 p.m. in a setting created by a white wrought iron archway on the patio, decorated with white and lavender flowers, ribbons and wedding bells. An approaching walkway was trimmed with white and lavender ribbons and bows. The bride's father built the special wooden deck used for the wedding ceremony.

Traditional wedding music was presented by Ruth Felderhoff, organist and Wendell Black, vocalist. Selections included "Wedding Song," "We've Only Just Begun" and the Theme from "Ice Castles."

The bride's grandfather, Joe Pennington escorted her to her father, Eddie Ramsey, who gave her in marriage.

She was wearing a formal white silk organza wedding gown trimmed in Chantilly lace. The fitted bodice was accented with bridal beads and pearls and featured a Queen Anne neckline. Full bishop sleeves of organza and lace were gathered to wide lace cuffs, edged over her hands with a matching narrow lace ruffle. The A-line skirt flowed gently into a semi-cathedral train that was encircled with rows of organza ruffles and lace. The bride chose a headpiece of Chantilly lace encrusted with pearls, and an attached string-hemmed illusion veil.

Her bridal bouquet was a cascade of white columbine orchids, lavender roses, lavender and purple forget-me-nots, with lace backing and lavender and white satin streamers.

Attendants

Jean Trubenbach of Myra, a friend of the bride was maid of honor. JoeEll Hellman, a friend and Karri Ramsey, bride's sister, both of Muenster were bridesmaids. They were identically gowned in lavender silk organza, designed with off-shoulder ruffles and a ruffled apron effect skirt.

Their matching hats and white fans were trimmed with lavender flowers.

Wendy Pennington, carrying a white basket with mixed flowers was flower girl, dressed as the bridesmaid. Justin Ramsey was ring bearer.

Monte Wimmer, a friend of the groom was his best man and Troy Lutkenhaus and Wylie Lewis, Jr. were groomsmen.

Joey Pennington of Del City, Okla. cousin of the bride, Glenn Fisher and Bob Hamric, friends were ushers.

An outdoor reception followed the wedding ceremony. Jennifer Pennington and Lisa Pennington presided at the bride's book. The bride's table held a framed prom picture of the bride and groom, a framed poem "Wedding Day",

Betty Rose Walterscheid, Kim Eldred, Amy Reiter and Carla Williams served cake and punch.

The couple will reside in Muenster. The bride and groom both attended Muenster High School and he is a 1981 graduate, and is a self-employed carpenter in Muenster.

Sister Amora visits family in Muenster

Sister Amora Felderhoff has returned to Holy Angels Convent in Jonesboro, Ark. After being a guest of relatives in Muenster for a week.

Returning with her, by car, were Mother Mary John Seyler and a nun from Fort Worth, who vacationed with their relatives.

Sr. Amora was the houseguest of her brother and sister-in-law, Tony and Theresa Felderhoff and accompanied them, calling at homes of other relatives and friends. They also visited Mrs. Hubert Felderhoff at Frontier Manor in Gainesville.

A family gathering was hosted by the Tony Felderhoffs Thursday evening. Guests were Alvin and Joanie Hartman and family, Joe and Ruth Felderhoff and family, Sylvan and Theresa Mae Walterscheid and family, Mrs. Charles Felderhoff and children of Lewisville and A.J. and Girlie Felderhoff of Gainesville.

Families host relatives

Cousins from distant areas were here during the past two weeks visiting families and friends. Agnes Seyler's guest was Sister Mary John of Jonesboro, Ark. and the Herbert Meurers' guest was their daughter Jeanette from Austin. Sister Mary John spent nights at Sacred Heart Convent and joined her mother daily at St. Richard's for visits at home and with relatives and friends. Likewise Jeanette and her mother were busy visiting and receiving visitors.

Do you have an investment that can

Double in 6 years
Triple in 9 1/2 years
Quadruple in 11 years

Zero Coupon Bonds from Prudential-Bache Securities can. How? Zeros are purchased for a fraction of their face value. And instead of paying interest periodically, the interest is automatically reinvested and compounded over the life of the bond. The effects of this compounding are quite dramatic. For example, a $350 initial investment would grow to $1,000 in as little as 9 1/2 years.

Zeros are especially attractive for retirement planning and funding your children's education. To learn more call Kenneth Floyd at 817-759-2725 or 817-665-7612 or stop by our office at 800 E. California, Suite 9.

Mrs. Moster honored with birthday party

Mrs. Elizabeth Moster's July 24 birthday was inspiration for a family gathering Sunday evening.

Assembling first at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Damien Moster, the guests proceeded then to the home of the honoree.

Attending were her children, their spouses and her grandchildren, including Mrs. Roselee Crow and sons Lyndal and twins Danny and Jimmie of Nocona; Damien and Lou Moster and Cheramie and David; Bertie and Rocky Dickerson and Cathy, Johnny and Kristin; Dicky and Karen Moster and Charlie.

Only family members missing were Father James Moster of Atwood, Kansas and Grace and A.W. Eldred and daughters Angie and Lisa of Denver City, Texas, all prevented by distance.

They all brought covered dishes to accompany a grilled steak summertime meal. For dessert there were homemade ice cream and two birthday cakes with candles for the honored "grandmother to blow out and make a wish."

For added entertainment there were horseshoe games, soccer, football, music and lots of visiting for the gala evening.

Parties honor couple

The rehearsal dinner honoring Annette Alexander and Bill C. Bayer was hosted by the groom's parents at Rohmer's Restaurant on July 20, the evening before the wedding.

Two showers honored the bride-elect. On May 27 a lingerie shower was hosted by Laura Dunlap, Carla Roberts, Kathy Dudenhoefter and Charlotte Newman.

Guests were served pick up foods and soft drinks. Decorations carried out a shades of blue theme.

On July 8 Donna Dieter and Natalie Alexander, bridal attendants hosted a miscellaneous shower. Gifts were opened and displayed and guests were served refreshments of punch and cake. Decorations included a table arrangement of silk flowers in shades of blue, blue candles and blue streamers.

Brights entertain relatives

Recent guests of Juanita and David Bright were his sister Lola Bright of Anniston, Alabama and her twin brother, Grover W. Bright of Minden, Louisiana and a cousin Mabel McEntire of Birmingham, Ala.

During the four day stay in Muenster, they and the Brights also visited Fr. Joseph Weinzapfel in St. Cecilia Parish and Msgr. Thomas Weinzapfel in St. Pius X Parish both in Dallas. The out-of-state visitors also requested a visit to Neiman-Marcus and Southfork Ranch.

Band performs for residents

The Cross Timbers band performed for the residents, family, and staff members of Frontier Manor, during the monthly family night program on July 2.

The band comes out on the first Monday night of each month to play and sing the old favorites. This is the time for residents and guests to get to know each other and enjoy a time of fellowship with one another. Cookies, punch and coffee were served by the staff.

Band members who participated in this event, was Mr. and Mrs. Fred Haynie, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Farr and Merlin Mcorkle, Clay Mcorkle, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Orsborn, Mcrec Hickman and Norman Mills.

The next family night will be held on August 6, welcoming the new administrator, Jody Putman, to the facility. Families, please come out to meet her on August 6. Home made ice cream will be served.

On July 5, the following ladies of St. Mary's Catholic Church St. Peter's Catholic Church brought homemade cakes and punch, for the regular monthly birthday party. The ladies sang, also honoring all of the residents having birthdays in July. They were as follows, Katie Fuhrmann, Thelma Daniel and John Wakeham.

The ladies' Bible class of the Broadway Street Church of Christ made and presented the corsages and boutonnieres for residents having birthdays.

All of the ladies from these three organizations have been doing this wonderful deed for several years and is very much appreciated by all at Frontier Manor.

Southside Baptist Prayer Warriors visited Frontier Manor, July 10, for all the little precious things they do for residents. July 10 was men's day special.

Pauline Bashaw, leader of this group and Lean Peyrot, cut men's hair. Mrs. Bolin and Mrs. Johnson passed out fresh ice water to all of our residents on each hall.

Mrs. Lettie Hamilton gave nail care to those who wished to have theirs done. These ladies do these things with a smile and a lot of good conversation. They come on the second Tuesday of each month.

On the 17th of July, 10 residents, enjoyed a cook out at Moss Lake. Mrs. Betty Richey invited all out to her lake lot for fun and a cook out. It was shady and cool, also quiet and peaceful.

Frances Sollars, Betty Mitchell, Jim Jones, Mary Schafer, Edna Jamison, Minnie Glenn, Mildred Lacy, Billy Kelly, Johnny Gunter and Jacob Warren attended the outing.

Rosie Truitt, Lolita Stacy, Cindy Huerta, helped with cooking, serving and transportation. Frontier Manor residents don't like to stay home all the time. Come and join them sometime.

Schedule of Meetings

Donations of $1.00 or more will be appreciated, to help cover cost.

Thomases honored With surprise farewell dinner

Rev. Keith Thomas and his family were honored Saturday evening when members of Muenster First Baptist Church hosted a surprise dinner in the Fellowship Hall, as a farewell tribute before their transfer to a new pastorate near Pasadena, Texas.

About 120 attended. Ken McDougal was master of ceremonies. Special gifts to the honorees were a money tree and a triple exposure picture showing the sanctuary, church interior and a view of the building, entitled "Vision Realized."

Among guests were Rev. Thomas' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Thomas of Pasadena.

The farewell sermon was given at services Sunday night. The present associate pastor, Rev. Jimmy Hutchison will conduct church services until a new pastor is named.

Keith and Karen Thomas and their son, Nathan moved Monday to their new church home.

Luke family visits here

Guests of Anthony and Leona Luke last week were a son and grandson, George and Ryan Luke of Corpus Christi, from Friday through Monday. Spending two days earlier in the week was a daughter, Mary, of Dallas. Another son, Frank of Hallettsville phones frequently to check on his mother's progress, recovering from a broken right thigh. Making daily visits are Melvin and Terri Luke and the three grandsons Jacob, Jesse and Joshua.

Shower honors Mrs. Krahl

A baby shower honored Mrs. David Krahl of Lindsay on Sunday, July 8, in the TP&L building in Muenster.

Hostesses were Joyce Cler, Janet Deckard, and Joan Schmidkofer, sisters of the honoree and Janet Jordon and Lisa Hughes the honoree's sisters-in-law.

Refreshments included a cake decorated with a stork and decorations included a stork banner and crepe paper banners. Tables were decorated in pastel pale pink and blue.

A large number of guests attended including the paternal grandmother, Mrs. Eddie Krahl and the maternal grandmother, Mrs. Joe Schmidkofer. Gifts were opened and displayed and refreshments were served.

Madden performs

On July 19 Dale Madden performed for the residents of Frontier Manor. He presented some of the good old fashioned hits of the 20's, playing a tune and then asking for some on to "name that tune."

Dale also played the theme songs from the old radio soaps of the forties and fifties. Surprisingly enough, most of the residents could name them. Its lots of fun to think about those days and especially to hear those old songs.

On July 20 Frontier Manor residents, staff, families elected by vote, Harold Wilson as resident of the month; Charlene Schmidkofer, as staff member of the month for July. Both were presented with a small gift.

Frontier Manor residents enjoyed an ice cream party for every one in the nursing home on July 24. Those who could not attend the party, were served in their rooms. All flavors were available to everyone. There was plenty of ice cream to have as much as they wanted.

Miller Lite tops tourney at Krum

The Miller Lite softball team, sponsored by Clyde D. Fisher Distributor, had a big job last week in earning the champ team trophy plus individual trophies for the players at a softball tournament in Krum. In winning six out of seven games they played four one point contests including back to back one-point final wins to take the title. Their last opponent was a related team, Miller Lite of Denton, also sponsored by Clyde Fisher.

The team's progress through the tourney was listed as follows. It started with a 13-12 win over the Pretenders, then lost 11-10 to Myrths, being nudged out in the last inning.

After that they won three in a row: 11-6 over First Realty, 15-4 over JT's and 13-7 over Myrths avenging their only loss of the tourney.

Next they won 14-13 over Miller Lite of Denton resulting in a tournament standing of 5-1 for both teams. So, by double elimination regulation they played again to determine the survivors. Muenster players won the honor in another thriller, 20-19.

Along the way the team piled up 92 runs in the seven contests, and climaxed their all-around hitting spree with 8 homers by Terry Walterscheid and 5 homers by Kim Walterscheid.

A subscription to the Muenster Enterprise is an ideal last-minute gift for relatives, friends, neighbors and former residents. Each week it will be a reminder of your thoughtfulness. The Muenster Enterprise will send a suitable card with your greeting.

407 take swim course

Two-week session ends here

The Red Cross swimming program concluded last week at the Muenster city pool, after logging a total enrollment of 407 youngsters for the two-week class period.

Twenty students passed the swimmer course, 37 passed the intermediate course, 40 earned beginning certification and 64 passed through the ninth station beginner course. Another 10 students were enrolled in adult classes.

Program director Jeannine Flusche said there was an average of 27 teachers present each day, giving the session a student-teacher ratio of four-to-one.

"We still need more adults to assist with the program," she said. "Training will be provided in the future if people will give us adequate notice."

Those interested in receiving training so they can help with the program may call Mrs. Flusche or contact the city pool.

Program coordinators issued special thanks to all the teachers for their conscientious efforts to provide the community with a quality swimming program. They also thanked the Muenster VFW and Auxiliary for donating swim patches, and Don Flusche for providing supplies in making the individual teaching programs.

Bookkeepers for the two-week session were Frances Bayer and Mary Lee Hennigan. Water safety instructors included Serena Wright, Marilyn Smith, Kathy Hartman, JoAnn Pagel, Nancy Lippe and Jeannine Flusche.

Advanced lifesavers were:

Tammy Reiter, Janet Reiter, Laura Flusche, Cheryl Bayer, Charla Bayer, Paula Yosten, Rodney Hess, Jean Pagel, Vicki Fisher, Cindy Tisdale and Valerie Vogel.

Basic rescue instructors were Dana Dankesreiter, Karen Wolf, Sharen Wolf, Donna Ivers, Renee Klement, Staci Sicking, Scot Vogel, Shawn Vogel, Stuart Hess, Keith Vogel, Joy Dvornich, Staci Walterscheid, Kristi Pagel and Dolle Pagel.

Jaycees to host softball tournament

Muenster Jaycees will sponsor a double elimination slow-pitch softball tournament August 1 to 4 in the Muenster baseball park. They have extended invitations to all towns of the area, expecting a total of 12 to 16 entries.

Registration deadline is Monday, July 30, allowing an extra day for sponsors to arrange the schedule.

Entry fee is $85 per team, and prizes will be plaques to the first three teams plus individual T-shirts to first and second place winners.

After entries are received the schedule will be drawn up to complete the tournament on Saturday, the 4th. Starting time each day is 6 p.m.

More information is available by calling 759-2737 before 5 p.m. or 759-2878 after 5.

"GO OVER THAT AGAIN?" seems to be what three-year-old Stephanie Hess is thinking as she takes her place at the starting line in the 60-yard dash at the Jaycee track meet Saturday. She got her signals straight and turned in a creditable performance, as did the other youngsters who showed up for the annual event.

Law requires child safety restraints

A law just passed by the Texas Legislature will go a long way toward protecting the health and safety of Texas children, the Texas Department of Health reports.

The new law requires the use of automobile safety seats or seat belts for children under age four. Its aim is to reduce the grim statistics which have Texas leading the nation in deaths and injuries for this age group.

Last year in Texas, 78 children under the age of four died as innocent passengers in automobiles, and another 6,603 were injured — many seriously. National studies indicate that up to 80 percent of the deaths and injuries could have been avoided through the proper use of safety restraints.

Texas lawmakers passed the bill mandating the use of safety seats on June 30. Specifically, the legislation requires children under two years old to be secured in child passenger safety seats, and children between the ages of two and four years to be secured by either safety seats or safety belts.

The law goes into effect October 31, 1984. The new legislation also provides for a $25-$50 fine for noncompliance, but the penalty can be dismissed if a person acquires a safety seat system within 10 days of the offense. No fines will be charged until January 1, 1985.

In reaction to the new law, Dr. Robert Bernstein, Commissioner of Health, said, "It gives me great pleasure and relief to learn that the legislature has acted on this problem. The new law, combined with public education and awareness campaigns, will save the lives and protect the safety of thousands of infants and young children in Texas."

In an effort to increase parents' voluntary use of safety seats and reduce the number of children killed or injured in accidents, the department has initiated the Safe Riders program.

This program, conducted in cooperation with the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, began in April.

John Snider, child passenger safety coordinator at TDH, said the program consists of a statewide awareness effort.

The statewide effort includes:

- a public awareness campaign to encourage parents to use child safety seats in their cars;
- a toll-free information line (1-800-252-8255) manned by bilingual operators from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday;
- promotional and educational materials concerning the use and availability of car safety seats; and
- educational resource materials for community leaders who want to establish loaner and reduced-cost sales programs.

"Because children cannot decide for themselves whether or not to use a safety seat, the statewide Safe Riders public awareness campaign will inform the public about the benefits of using car safety seats properly and consistently," Snider said.

THE GREEN TEAM of the girls senior softball league includes: front, Janel Flusche, Jeannene Walterscheid, Jennifer Carroll, Tonya Fisher and Kerry Haverkamp; back, Coach Anne Felderhoff, Coach Alvin Hartman, Meredith McDaniel, Sondra Hess, Rose Felderhoff, Amber Fisher and Julie Fisher. ## Lindsay youths win state essay contest

Linus Fuhrmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aloys Fuhrmann, a senior of the 1984 graduating class and Laura Fuhrmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Fuhrmann, a junior in the 1984 class received first place honors in the state essay competition sponsored by the Catholic State League and the Catholic Life Insurance. The essays were entitled "The Holy Year 1983-1984".

Prizes won by the two students included $50 each for the CCD program, and in addition to this each winner also received an individual prize of a framed plaque and a $25 bond.

Also congratulations to Sister Dorothy Theresa Zimmerer, CCD coordinator, who was responsible for this contest getting underway.

Club sets date for meeting

The Officers of the Lindsay Young Homemakers met July 18 to prepare for their first meeting of the new year, which will be held on August 21 at the home of Becky Bezner.

Present members have been asked to bring a cold cut or salad plate for a buffet. An invitation is extended to all to join the club at this buffet meeting. New officers will be installed at this time. Secret Pals for the past year will be revealed and new ones chosen for the coming year.

The Community Birthday and Activity Calendars were also discussed. They are now ready for sale and will be sold after each Mass on July 28 and 29. They are $3.00 each. They will also be available at Toot's Cut and Curl. The calendar covers the school year and runs from August 1984 through July 1985.

Anyone with questions regarding the club may call Carol Lutmer at 736-2212 in the evening.

Felderhoff celebrates birthday

Kerri Diane Felderhoff was the honoree at a party July 1 to celebrate her first birthday.

Her parents, Steve and Donna Felderhoff and her brother, Brad hosted a dinner at noon at their home in The Colony.

Kerri opened her gifts and the "Care Bear" cake that her mother made was served with ice cream. The children enjoyed swimming in the back yard pool.

Guests were god parents Mary Felderhoff and Sammy Zimmerer; Diane Zimmerer; grandparents, Girlie and A.J. Felderhoff and Dorothy and Bruno Zimmerer; great-grandparents, Catherine Kubis, and Mr. and Mrs. Tony Felderhoff; aunts and cousins, Janie and Joey Wilson, Carol, Jessica and Russell Zimmerer and Joanie and Kenny Jones. Kerri was one on July 2. The children received a bag of "goodies" to take home.

Bridal tea Sunday honors Karla Fore

Miss Karla Fore, bride elect of John Metzler, was honored with a tea on Sunday July 22 in the home of Mrs. Mildred Nunneley of Nocona. Hostesses were Mrs. Nunneley and Mrs. Shirley Skidmore, also of Nocona.

Punch and light snacks (pick-up foods) were served to approximately 60 guests from the surrounding areas. Those serving included Angie Anderson, Kirsten Dewey and Mrs. Beth Keck all of Denton.

Carol Amyx, also of Denton, registered guests.

Special guests in attendance included Mrs. Travis Fore of Nocona, mother of the bride; Mrs. Lora Gibson of Petrolia, grandmother of the bride and Mrs. Bill Metzler, mother of the groom, Mayme Metzler and Mrs. Tom Eberhart, sisters of the groom of Lindsay.

Birthday party here fetes Brad Felderhoff

Brad Felderhoff was the honoree at a party on his fifth birthday, July 14 at the home of his parents, Steve and Donna Felderhoff in The Colony.

The cake and other decorations were in the "Masters of the Universe" theme. The children played games and then were served the birthday cake and ice cream.

Attending were his sister, Kerri Diane, five neighborhood friends, cousins Jessica and Russell Zimmerer and Joey Wilson; aunts Janie Wilson and Carol Zimmerer and grandmother Dorothy Zimmerer. The children received a He-Man bag of goodies to take home.

Oak Tree Lodge sets swimsuit competition

Oak Tree Lodge will sponsor a Bathing Suit Contest on July 31 from 10:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon. All children ages 4-12 are encouraged to come out and join in the fun. There will be games, and prizes will be awarded. Refreshments include hot dogs and homemade ice cream.

There will be an award given to the boy with the best looking swim suit and the girl with the prettiest swim suit. Three residents will be the judges and will award the prizes.

For more information, call 665-0822 and ask for Lynell. Please call no later than Monday July 30 to reserve a spot for a child in the many activities planned.

Tapp, Walterscheid wed

The wedding of Scott Walterscheid and Jennifer Tapp was held in St. Mary's Catholic Church of College Station on July 14 at 2 p.m.

A reception followed in the Recreation Center of St. Mary's for 125 guests.

Local relatives attending were Mrs. Augusta Walterscheid, grandmother of the groom; Leon Walterscheid, and Messrs. and Mmes. Dave Walterscheid and family, Giles Walterscheid and family, Johnny Reiter and family, Jim Voth and family all of Muenster, and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Voth and Tony and Doug of Lindsay and Mr. and Mrs. Bonny Prescher and family of Justin.

On Sunday all relatives from this area were guests for a cookout in the Wilmer Walterscheid home, and returned to their homes on Sunday evening.

County Agent's Report

Many of you have probably heard of the problems wheat growers east of Cooke County experienced with Hessian flies this spring. Hessian flies are a relatively new problem for Texas producers as the major damage in the past has been restricted to northern states. But, give us all time and it seems everyone gets a taste of all the factors that inhibit production.

The major problem from these insects comes when the larvae feed on the stem, causing the wheat to go down before harvest. There are two generations that attack wheat. The first hatches in the fall and tends to be the least troublesome, as feeding from the fall generation occurs on the crown of the plant.

One method many producers use to stop infestations is late plantings. Plantings after or near November 1 for our area tend to miss the feeding of the insect. This late planting will not work in a grazing system, though.

The second generation causes the major noticeable problem in wheat fields. This is from lodging in the wheat.

First, the good news: Cooke County should not have a bad infestation for several seasons. Populations of the Hessian flies increase after wet springs and summers, and as we have seen, this is one of the driest years here for several years. In fact, USDA entomologists have been monitoring the spread of the flies and are saying that Interstate 35 is the western boundary for the flies. This is only a prediction and is based on general rainfall trends in Texas.

The following chart gives the results of entomologist surveys in Cooke, Fannin and Grayson counties. This shows the increase of fly infestations the farther east we go. The term Flaxseed is used to identify the pupal stage of the Hessian fly larvae.

| County  | NUMBER OF FIELDS |          | Avg. % Infestation | Avg. no. Flaxseed/100 stems |
|---------|------------------|----------|--------------------|-----------------------------|
|         | Sampled          | Infested |                    |                             |
| Cooke   | 5                | 4        | 6.8                | 14.4                        |
| Fannin  | 5                | 4        | 27.6               | 89.6                        |

STORE MANAGER RICHARD BARD shows off some of the stereos available at Colortyme.

Puts "luxury items" within reach

Colortyme fills need in area

Whether you need a microwave oven or just have a passion for scary movies, Colortyme in Gainesville has just what you're looking for.

Colortyme is the country's largest rent-to-own system, with televisions, stereo equipment and appliances for rental to people who want the convenience of ownership without the debt.

The store, located on California Street just west of Grand, opened May 18 and has quickly found its niche in serving the area.

"We feel like we really fit in with the needs of the community," store manager Richard Bard says. "Economically, there's a definite need for our services. With interest rates high and people hesitant to go into debt, we offer another means of the regular person on a salary getting a luxury item like a stereo, TV or VCR."

At Colortyme, shoppers can select from top brand names like RCA, Whirlpool, Hotpoint, GE, Sansui, Fisher and Pioneer, and choose the model with the price that fits their budget. Colortyme offers a selection of both full-size and compact washers and dryers, refrigerators, chest or upright freezers, microwave ovens, gas or electric ranges, plus all kinds of audio systems, televisions and videocassette recorders.

"Gainesville has a real fondness for VCR's," notes Bard. "We've been renting a lot of those, and of course that goes hand-in-hand with our movie club. We have about 800 films right now, and we're working toward the goal of having a 1,500-film library."

The movie business is a natural for the California-born Bard, who moved to Gainesville from Boulder, Colorado to run the store. He worked in the retail music business for 16 years and has 25 years' experience in business management.

W.K. Speck owns the local store, and his wife Page is the operations manager. In-store help includes accounts manager John Seville and video-movie expert Patty Dryer, while David Beaudin and Jimmy Carlisle make up the delivery crew.

Delivery and service are another big plus for the Colortyme system. Delivery is free, and is usually completed on the same day the appliance is rented.

"We stress service," Bard says. "We never charge on a delivery, and we have a complete maintenance program. On maintenance, we don't just tell you a day and then make you sit at home all day waiting for us to come. We consider the working person's needs and try to cater to them — we take the confusion out of it."

Membership in the movie club costs just $4.95 for a full year. Members are issued a card which entitles them to rent video movies for $3 a day, and they also get 15 percent off on all accessories, such as blank videocassettes or movies they wish to purchase. Upon joining they receive a catalogue, and Colortyme sends out monthly updates on the movies which are available.

"We've noticed a real demand

BUSINESS

for horror films," Bard says. "In response to that, we're going to designate a large section in our library to horror movies — we should have up to 200 by the time we're through."

Bard says Michael Jackson's "Thriller" has been a popular tape, as well as scary flicks like "Kujo" and "Videodrome," but stresses the library contains all kinds of movies, from the latest releases to classics, children's films and cartoons.

The store is closed on Wednesdays and Sundays, giving those who rent films on Tuesdays and Saturdays an extra day free. And there is a night drop for returning cassettes after hours.

"We have easy rates," Bard says of the VCR rental program. "You can pay by the week, every two weeks or by the month, however you want. Our equipment is in good shape, and we show you how to hook it up."

The store has a drawing every month. They've given away 12-inch black-and-white television sets to Leslie and Sabrina Cox, Dan Richter and Bobby Robinson, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Blair won the grand prize recently — a 19-inch color portable TV. This month, shoppers are registering for a microwave oven.

But the everyday specials are giveaways in their own right. "We've got the '86-special going right now," Bard says. "You rent a VCR for $86 for a month, and you get up to 30 free movie tapes a month, with maximum of two a day. The normal price for the tapes alone would be $90. With this special the whole deal goes for $86, plus you get a free club membership and benefits."

Most of the Colortyme rentals are on an 18-month payout schedule — if you keep the item for a year-and-a-half and make your rental payments, at the end of that period, it's yours. Anytime you want to return it, you simply call Colortyme and they come pick it up.

"We're really glad to be in Gainesville," Bard says. "We think we have some really terrific deals to offer people, and the people have given us a real good reception."

Hudspeth wins national honor

Mashelle Hudspeth of Forestburg recently earned the highest honor for her speech on child abuse at the Future Homemakers of America national convention.

Hudspeth, a 1984 graduate of Forestburg High School, spoke on "Child Abuse: the Silent Crisis" at the FHA convention in Chicago. She earned a three-star rating for the talk, which she illustrated with a poster and slides.

The rating is the highest given at the national level and was shared by only a few other speakers. State champions from all 50 states competed at the convention.

Hudspeth was state champion in Texas with the talk earlier in the year. The Forestburg FHA member had to do more research and expand her presentation from five to ten minutes to compete at the national convention. She obtained her slides from the Region IX Education Service Center.

The convention was held July 15-20 in Chicago, with hundreds of FHA members from all over the country participating. Competition was held in illustrated talk, job application and interview, and chapter manual and display. Participants were rated by "stars" with three stars earning a gold medal as the highest level.

Mashelle is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hudspeth of Forestburg. She was active in UIL poetry and ready writing competition, was class secretary and took part in Beta Club and basketball during her high school career.

She has been awarded a full scholarship in Drama to Grayson County Junior College, where she will begin studies this fall.

Mashelle was accompanied to the national FHA convention by Forestburg homemaking teacher Beth Dill.

Homemakers plan watermelon festival

Forestburg Homemakers discussed plans for new booths for children at the fourth annual Watermelon Festival in Forestburg when members met on July 19 for their regular monthly meeting.

They also urged all who are interested in setting up a booth at the August 24-25 festival to contact Mary Jo Eldridge at 964-2261 soon.

New to the Watermelon Festival this year will be a square dancing show, presented by a group from Decatur. Their dance program will begin at 7 p.m. on August 25.

A parade at 10 a.m. will open the festival. It will assemble at the new Community Center lot. Sponsors of the festival hope to make it the biggest and best parade to date.

In advance of the big day, Forestburg Homemakers are continuing an annual benefit project for the festival, offering a chance to win a Cabbage Patch Doll, a camera or a handmade quilt, for a $1.00 donation. Last year the club made over $900 on this project and this year they are hoping to top that amount. All proceeds will benefit the Community Center.

The next meeting of Forestburg Homemakers will be on Thursday, August 2 at 7:30 p.m. at the school. Anyone interested in helping is urged to attend; also to watch for more information and future announcements about the Ms. Watermelon Pageant, Craft Contests, Fun Run, and Dance Contest, as plans develop.
