BANGS

All our community was saddened by the death of Mr. C. W. Harris, who departed this life August 9th, at her home here after a lingering illness. Mrs. Harris, whose maiden name was Mary Elizabeth Clements, was born in Tennessee, March 7th, 1879, and came to Texas at the age of nine years. She was married to Rev. C. W. Harris on December 11, 1904, at Burnet. Rev. Jerome Harolson performing the ceremony. Bro. Harris died February 17th, 1919.

Most of her young womanhood was spent in Burnet county, but she came to Brown county twenty-two years ago. Her husband served the Methodist church here four years as pastor.

Sister Harris, as she was known to all her neighbors, friends and fellow workers was converted when about eleven years of age and joined the church.

She has been a consistent worker having done more for the Kingdom of God in this section than almost any other woman. Besides the duties of a homemaker, Sister Harris was a stewardess in the church for five years, taking great interest in every phase of the work.

The funeral services were held at the tabernacle by Rev. F. O. Waddill, assisted by Rev. W. L. Danner. Special music was rendered. A beautiful floral offering attested to the love and esteem in which this good mother was held by all who knew her.

The active pall bearers were: Arthur Hesser, E. B. Sizoo, T. J. Hill, Jos. G. Smith, L. G. Potter and L. M. Yarbrough. The honorary pall bearers were the stewards and the ladies of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church.

Four sisters and four brothers survive her besides her own children, Mrs. Lee Yarbrough and Edwin Harris, and a granddaughter, Mary Lou Yarbrough. To these heartfelt sympathy is extended by the entire community.

Those attending the funeral from out of town were: Mrs. Floyd Wyatt of Lampasas, Mr. M. Z. Ghinip and son, Thad, and J. T. Clements of Burnet, Mrs. J. H. White and Mrs. W. Egbert of Brownwood, Mrs. O. E. George of Zephyr, Mrs. E. Henderson and J. C. Edwards of Brookston.

Mr. R. L. Brinson and family are expected home this week from an extended trip through New Mexico. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Adair of Carbon are spending two weeks with Mrs. Adair's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Adair.

A party numbering about forty composed of young folks and still younger ones, held themselves to the banks of Jim Ned in the hour just before daylight Tuesday morning to partake of scrambled eggs and bacon in the great out of doors. All declared it to be a good breakfast even if they did have to rise unusually early for it. A few games were played and an interesting talk was made by Rev. Smoot. They returned home before the heat of the day became uncomfortable.

friends and relatives met to witness the marriage of Miss Theresa Johnson and Mr. Deane Brooks. To the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Adelia Martin, the bride and groom entered, preceded by the little ring bearer, Ruth Jean Bosley, niece of the bride. Rev. Johnson, father of the bride, pronounced the words which bound this beloved couple as husband and wife. Theresa as she is fondly called by her Bangs friends, is well known here having lived here during her father's pastorate and won many friends. It will be remembered the present Baptist church structure was built during his pastorate and under his supervision. The bride was garbed in lovely cream brown with faced crepe and looked most charming. Deane was robed in this community and is held in highest esteem because of a character of sterling worth.

After the marriage ceremony the full music was rendered by the bride and groom, this being unusual for two people so studiously talented to be joined in the bonds of wedlock.

Broken Threads

Clifford L. Webb—Ernest Lynn

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE To the home of Prof and Mollie Elwell in Camdenville, Indiana, one night in October, 1898, is brought a woman who had fainted on a train.

The story then moves forward 18 years. The twins, now growing to beautiful womanhood, have been adopted and named Margaret and Elizabeth. They are called Rusty and Betty.

Jim Elwell, the son, enlists in the World War. He then discovers that one of the twins loved him. He is shell-shocked at the Battle of Sedan and at first is reported dead.

Specialists despair of his recovery, believing an operation might be unsuccessful and fatal as well. The day before his parents are to take him home Jim wanders away from his nurse, Nellie Downing.

A search is begun, in which Jack Nevin, newspaperman, and Mike Hennegan join. Nevin learns that Jim has had his skull fractured in a fall from a tree.

But Nellie Downing straightened almost instantly. "I'm not going to faint," she said calmly. "I'm not the fainting kind."

"Well, they had stood it before, he reflected. They had stood it when they had thought Jim dead. Probably they could stand it again, although this one was crueler than any.

"How was he hurt?" Jim's mother asked. "You can tell me, Mr. Nevin. I'm able to listen to the whole story."

"That's the word, I'm beginning to think I'm a—say, Mr. Nevin, what do you call those birds who think things have just got to happen anyway and kinda come to be resigned to it. Know what I mean?"

"Fatalists," Nevin supplied. "That's the word, I'm beginning to think I'm one of these here fatalists. You know, I think that if it had been in the cards for Jim Elwell to get killed he would have got it when that shell struck at Sedan. It stood to reason, he went on, that a guy who could pull through all that Jim Elwell had pulled through wasn't slated to die in a traffic accident.

"You have an accident victim here named Jim Elwell," she asked the nurse on duty at the door. The nurse would find out. She bustled herself at the telephone.

"There's a man named Elwell, yes, skull fracture?" "Yes, that's it." "I'm about ready to give up hope altogether," Mollie said and sighed.

"You might as well tell us the truth," Jim's father said, after an exchange of looks had passed between him and his wife. "If Jim is dead we're not to know it very soon anyhow. Is he, Nellie?"

to use it and called his office.

"Hello, Elwell. Give me the city room. Hello, hello—let me have the rewrite desk. Hello—Pete? Jack Nevin talking. . . At Bellevue. . . Good war story with dressing. Get the name, now."

"Soldier," name of Elwell. "E-I-w-e-l-l. . . James T. . . From Thomas. . . Twenty-five. . . From Camdenville. . . C-a-m-d-e-n-v-i-l-l-e. . . Indiana—Hoosier state, you know."

"What's that—pretty? Certainly she's pretty. . . Who? Me? Talk sense; I got only one leg. . . Huh? Certainly she's got two."

"G'mon, damn it, lay off the funny stuff and get a grip. . . Mr. Nevin, just a moment, please. Please!"

Jack Nevin clapped a hand over the phone's mouthpiece and jerked his head around. Nellie Downing stood at his side.

For the first time in his career, Jack Nevin threw down his paper on a story. Read the next chapter. CENTRAL METHODIST CHURCH PIPE ORGAN IS TO BE INSTALLED

Empire-Collins Well Flows Half Million Feet Gas

The Empire Company-Burt Collins test on the Norwood ranch in South Central Coleman county, 20 miles south of Santa Anna, has created considerable interest among the oil men by getting a flow of half a million cubic feet of gas. It is stated, at 175 to 190 feet. There were a larger number of visitors at the well yesterday.

This well, as has been stated previously in these columns, is two and a half miles south of a well that was drilled by the Magnolia Company in 1918, which was drilled to 3,414 feet and picked up six sands, five of the sands being above the 1,700 foot level.

The principal interest in the present development lies in the fact that it shows that the formation is checking high. No water has been encountered. With the gas flow at the 175 to 190 foot depth, the well is still in the sand. This is to be a 1,700 foot test.

BROWN COUNTY FAIR LIVESTOCK EXHIBIT HERE IS EXTENSIVE

Under the able supervision of George S. Baugh, one of the finest exhibitors of livestock ever shown at the Brown County Fair, is to be seen in the livestock building at Fair Park. The extensive exhibit includes many fine specimens of dairy cattle, baby beefs, cow ponies, swine and sheep. All departments of the exhibit are unusually good and are from choice stock all over the county and state.

Perhaps the most interesting and the finest exhibit is in the dairy cattle stalls. This exhibit includes five past and present state champions in two and three year old classes for dairy cows. Three of these cows are owned by Hughes and McKay of Dublin and in addition to these five present and past state champions there are two other cows that have a butter fat production that places them almost in the state championship class.

Hughes and Kay
The Hughes and Kay cows are: Agatha's Little Girl, state champion senior yearling for the year 1924. Her butter fat record for that year was 420 pounds. Another of the phenomenal group is Oxford Combination, present Junior three year old state champion, with a butter fat record of 674 pounds made in 305 days. The third of the Hughes and Kay entries is Combination Fair Kitty, present state champion in the two year old class with a butter fat production of 559 pounds made in 303 days. Sultan's Oxford Beauty Spot, with a butter fat production of 498 pounds made in 308 days at a five year old, ranks with the best dairy cows anywhere.

Jolly's Golden Cleo
Jolly's Golden Cleo, champion Junior two year old of the state of Texas for the year 1926 with a record of 528.19 pounds butter fat in 305 days, is on exhibit by Shelton Brothers of Brownwood. She is not a show cow but one of the finest producers found in Texas. She has a milk record as a three year old of 11,749 pounds of milk with a butter fat production of 659.65 pounds made in 285 days.

Carrie of Brownwood, another Shelton Brothers entry, has a milk record of 9,191 pounds and a butter fat record of 586.65 pounds for a period of 365 days at the age of 6 years and 8 months. Benedictine Pearl Pearl, with a milk production of over 9,000 pounds and a butter fat record of 492 pounds made as a Junior two year old, is another unusual cow exhibited by Shelton Brothers.

Mr. Baugh and other Fair officials are of the opinion that these seven cows on exhibit here are as fine a group as was ever shown at any one county fair in Texas. The value of cows with so high a milk production is hard to estimate but it is pointed out by the officials that their superiority over the common cows is so great that it seems foolish for any farmer to give shelter to any cow not of the thoroughbred class. A drive is to be waged over the county, urging all to do away with their scrub stock and replenish their dairy herds with the best producers.

Dairy Calf Club
A fine exhibit is also seen in the dairy calf stalls. Judges have made the following awards to the boys exhibiting dairy calves: Junior dairy calves: Morris Polk of Brownwood, first; Woodrow Harris of Brownwood, second; Billie and Hugh Alcorn of Brownwood, third and fourth, respectively.

Baby Bees Fine
Jack Ramsey of Blanket was given first place on his baby beef exhibited at the fair. The members of the Baby Beef Club were given bees last spring to fatten, and as evidence of their faithful work there are about 18 of the fattest bees ever seen at the Brown County Fair. Although Ramsey was given first place, he did not win this honor by any wide margin as there were many others almost as good.

Ramsey will be given a $150 radio set by the Pecan Valley Electric Co., according to the statement of J. H. Ragsdale, manager of that company. The company was to have given a $75 set but the exhibit was so fine that Mr. Ragsdale decided to double his original offer. Roy Bird of Blanket won second place and a prize of $35. J. C. Alcorn, of Brownwood won third and a prize of $30. Hall Owens, Woodrow Harris and George Alcorn, all of Brownwood, won fourth, fifth and sixth places, respectively. Weightman Switzer of Blanket was placed seventh with his entry and won a prize of $10.

Dairy Cattle Winners
In the dairy cattle division, Hughes and Kay, of Dublin, won first in aged bull class. Shelton Brothers won second and L. L. Lanford of Blanket, third in this division.

In the yearling bull division, Hughes and Kay took first place. Hugh Alcorn of Brownwood, second, and Shelton Brothers, third.

Hughes and Kay won all three places in the aged cow division with their fine exhibit.

Hughes and Kay placed first in the two to three year old heifer division and Shelton Brothers won second and third places.

In the yearling heifer division, Hughes and Kay won first and third, Shelton Brothers coping second.

Shelton Wins
Shelton Brothers won first in the heifer calf division and Hughes and Kay took second and third.

Hughes and Kay were awarded the prize for the champion cow and for the best all round herd with a total of 14 entries.

In the grade Jersey division, J. C. Alcorn won first and Hugh Alcorn took second place.

All places in the sheep exhibit were won by Kuykendall and Gimp of Lometa, who had a fine exhibit of their products here.

There were four entries in the feeder class of pigs and awards were made as follows: Feeder weighing over 125 pounds, George Alcorn won first and J. C. Alcorn took second. Feeder under 125 pounds, Hugh and Billie Alcorn took first and second place, respectively.

Children's Ponies
In the children's ponies division of the livestock exhibits, James Phillips of Byrds, won first; Elbert Smith of Brownwood, second; and Bob Switz of Brownwood, third.

Lorene Baugh was given the prize for the best cow pony on exhibit. George Baugh won second and Alvin Polk took third prize in this division.

FREIGHT RATES ON LUMBER IN TEXAS TO BE REDUCED SOON

AUSTIN, Aug. 17.—(P)—Substantial reduction of lumber freight rates in Texas, cancellation of special rates from Houston inland on lumber brought there by goat from the Pacific coast and removal of alleged discriminations from Houston against Texas producing sections, and numerous retail points, was effected today in an order at the State Railroad Commission.

The order followed a majority agreement in two cases before the railroad commission and one before the Interstate Commerce Commission and the state commission jointly.

Complaints in the latter case attacked interstate rates from Louisiana, Arkansas, and Oklahoma to Texas, from Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana to Oklahoma and Texas intra-state rates.

The commission found that Houston, where no lumber is produced, has been enjoying a 20½ cent preferential rate to inland points on the Houston & Texas Central, and the Galveston, Harrisburg & San Antonio railroads, while a 26½ cent to 28½ cent rate is charged from producing sections to the same points in many instances, for shorter distances.

This was ordered adjusted, as "indefensible both in law and morals."

The commission found a decrease of the general rate level down to the level of the special rates not justified but ordered some reductions and abolished special rates, so alternative mileage and group bases will be available alike to all producers and distributors.

New Swindle

HOUSTON, Texas, August 7.—(P)—Texas hotels are faced with a new swindling scheme, police have reported.

Stickers and a suit box surreptitiously obtained from a clothing store makes a legitimate appearing package which is filled with newspapers and sent by messenger to a hotel collect, usually with $25, due, and a request made by telephone for the hotel clerk to pay the amount for a guest whose name is on the register. The messenger is intercepted on his return and relieved of the money.

A hotel in Beaumont, the police here say, was swindled in that manner.

JAILER KILLS MAN IN TRY FOR LIBERTY

PORT WORTH, August 17.—(P)—An attempted break from the Tarrant County jail here early today by at least six prisoners resulted in the death of C. H. Powers, held on charges of burglary, who was shot to death by Jailer A. B. McDougald. None of the men escaped.

When two trustees carried breakfast to six men in a cell on the fifth floor of the jail and opened the door in response to a request for supper by Bose Silver, under sentence of death for killing a theater treasurer here last spring, the six prisoners, who had been crouching in a corner, rushed upon them, knocking the trustees to the floor.

Jailer McDougald, whose room is on the fifth floor, hearing the rush of the attack, ran from his room unarmed and was felled by an iron pipe wrapped in a blanket, which Claude Floyd, a prisoner held on charges of automobile theft, held in his hand. He suffered a broken nose and bruises about his head.

Powers rushed upon the fallen jailer, and asked:

"Where's your gun. Is your gun in the room?"

"There's no gun in my room," the jailer replied.

Powers, concluding a hasty search of the room, ran down the hallway.

McDougald then arose, ran into his room, and returned with a gun which Powers did not find. Meeting Powers in the hall as he left his room and confronted with a knife, McDougald fired twice, fatally wounding the man.

McDougald later was taken to a hospital to determine if blows from the iron pipe fractured his skull. A number of x-ray pictures were taken, attendants stated.

"I'm glad none of them got away," McDougald said after the attempted break had been frustrated when the prisoners were unable to leave the building.

Silver in Cell
Silver, convicted of killing Roscoe Wilson, Majestic Theatre treasurer, and sentenced to die in the electric chair was confined in the cell from which the prisoners attempted to escape, according to McDougald, and so far as is known did not leave the cell.

Belief that he may have been implicated in the meditated escape was general, however, inasmuch as it was his request which led to opening of the cell door.
