Light fixtures...

You decide

After a long delay and some indecision about the proper style of light fixtures, the $20,000 Governor's Community Achievement Award Project is underway. The public is being asked to help make the decision on the style of light fixtures to be used.

The award, received in 1986, entitled Muenster to receive $20,000 in landscaping funds. Because this was the first year the contest carried a prize of landscaping help, and because landscaping in this area requires more maintenance than in less arid areas, the idea of choosing long-lasting lighting was embraced by the Highway Department. Decorative antique-style lighting was suggested by Highway Department engineers. Cast in heavy aluminum, the fixtures are sturdy and add atmosphere and charm to any setting. In fact, in small towns where a particular style was used extensively, the change in public image was dramatic.

One reason for the delay in the project was the need to research the various sources for the fixtures. In addition, trips were taken to other towns to learn of pitfalls to avoid. This delay has made the selection of fixtures coincide with the kickoff of a year-long community improvement campaign as Muenster prepares for its centennial celebration which is only 15 short months away.

Muenster area residents will be asked to view five (5) different fixtures which are on display at the Mid Park on Main Street. Ballots for making a selection will be available at most area merchants. Once the public opinion is known, the results will be presented to the City Council. The council has been asked to maintain the fixtures, and they have expressed a desire to view the fixtures in an installed location before making this decision.

The display will feature three different styles of fixtures, five fixtures in all. Different bulbs are being used to display light output and different colors of lights available. The actual retail cost can run as high as $550 each depending on the fixture selected. Under the agreement with the Highway Department, they will buy the fixture, but prefer not to install them because of the numerous bonding, insurance and bidding costs which will reduce the number of fixtures available considerably. Hopes at this time are that owners of corner lots will "adopt-a-light" and supervise its installation. Currently the Chamber of Commerce has a lengthy list of interested parties, and is investigating methods to increase the number of fixtures which can be purchased with the $20,000.

One such method is to purchase the unfinished fixtures and raise funds to buy sockets, bulbs, wire and paint. However, the necessary funds will have to be raised within the next 30 to 40 days before the deadline for bidding passes. This will increase the number of available fixtures by about 25 to 30.

Because of the prohibitive cost of burying a common underground power cable, people who "adopt-a-light" will be asked to provide the electricity to the fixture. Each light will be turned on and off by an electric eye. According to Gordon Adair, TU Electric representative, the annual cost to operate a 13-watt fluorescent bulb 10 hours per day is $4.27. Incandescent bulbs are much more expensive to operate and the high output sodium vapor lights cost is between the 13-watt fluorescent and the incandescent bulb. The 13-watt fluorescent bulbs also appear more attractive because they have a 10,000-plus hour life rating, and produce light equivalent to a 75-watt incandescent bulb.

According to the Highway Department, once the selection of the style and other details are worked out on our end, the bidding-to-delivery process will take about three to four months. Installation will be during the spring of 1988 as things are in full swing as Muenster prepares for the centennial celebration.

Both schools honor U.S. Constitution

Muenster K through grade 4 students declared Sept. 14-18 as Constitution Week to celebrate the U.S. Constitution's 200th birthday.

In addition to the normal daily pledge of allegiance to the flag, K through 4th grade students completed units of study about the Constitution.

Students read library books and viewed films about how the Constitution was written, and its meaning.

Third and fourth graders learned about citizen responsibilities and citizen rights provided in the Constitution. They read the Preamble and the Bill of Rights. Some very diligent students have begun to memorize the Preamble.

Students completed puzzles and made patriotic symbols in art classes. Kindergarten students made water color pictures of the Flag.

The entire student body met to join President Reagan in the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag and listened to the rest of the broadcast in their classrooms. Thursday morning the entire school assembled for a Flag ceremony in front of the high school. Elementary students wore miniature flags; first grade students led the pledge; the high school band played the National Anthem during the Flag raising ceremony.

Rosemary Dankesreiter's Kindergarten classes completed the week's birthday celebration by expressing their attitudes during observance of Constitution Week by submitting papers with original drawings and telling why "I am proud to be an American, because..." The papers were assembled into booklets for morning classes and afternoon classes.

At Sacred Heart School, celebration of Constitution Week included participation of pre-school through grade 8.

Activities on Wednesday, Sept. 16, began with Red, White and Blue Day when students were not required to wear uniforms and could choose combinations of the colors. At 1 p.m. they recited the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag with President Reagan and watched the Bicentennial celebration on ABC television.

On Thursday at 2:45 p.m., students participated in a balloon release, when hundreds of helium-filled red, white and blue balloons, containing names, addresses and messages were sent flying by delighted children.

At 3 p.m. all students participated in 200 seconds of bell ringing while church bells also chimed. Following were 200 seconds of solemn silence; and Dorothy Bengfort spoke on freedoms guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution.

Each class then returned to classrooms for separate parties, with snacks and patriotic decorations.

Michael Gehrig has received a reply from a teacher who found his balloon in a pasture near Callisburg.

Girl Scouts honored at ceremony

Muenster Girl Scouts had a 100 percent showing at their annual Investiture/Re-dedication and Bridging (flying up) Ceremonies Sunday, Sept. 20, 1987 at the local Knights of Columbus Hall.

Barbara Reynolds, Field Director for Cooke County, and Loretta Felderhoff, Service Unit Director for Service Unit XIV, with her expert staff of volunteer Troop Leaders gave Muenster Cadettes and Juniors charge of the program. All went smoothly in a festive atmosphere to the delight of many proud parents.

Girl Scouts is one of the few all-girl organizations in the United States. Today Girl Scouts learn to develop their self-potential, promote an understanding of how to relate to others, develop a meaningful set of values and ethics and ultimately learn how to contribute to society through use of their own abilities in cooperation with others.

Parents seem to be aware of these facts because Cross Timbers growth rate has doubled in two years from a membership of approximately 1,600 Girl Scouts in 1984-85 to 3,200 in 1986-87.

Sunday's event was an Investiture for two new founded troops in Muenster. Daisy Troop No. 494 (girls 5-6 years old) under Troop Leader Cathy Creed and Junior Troop No. 495 (girls from 8-11 years old), Loretta Felderhoff, Leader.

Troops No. 53, 45, 60 and 43 were rededicated. Three Girl Scouts, Karri and Nicole Endres and Vanessa Felderhoff, bridged from Brownies (flew up) to Juniors and received their pins. Three new Juniors, Rhonda Sloop, Leascha Perryman and Kathy Hacker, received their sashes.

The Juniors that bridged to Cadettes were as follows: Misty Knabe, Julie Felderhoff and Allison Klement.

All Girl Scouts were pinned on upside down. The girls' mothers will turn them right side up after their first good deed.

Some girls earned Cub Scout Day Camp Patches which were presented by Lupe Evans, Unit Commissioner. Others earned patches for swimming, art, attending different day camps or working on their own projects.

Field Director Barbara Reynolds pinned the new Daisy Leaders, Cathy Creed and Janette Hess (Troop No. 494) and handed out plaques to Troop Leaders: Lou Moster and Jeanne Greathouse, Troop No. 53; Emily

Williamson explains proposed EMS amendment for ballot

By Ric Williamson, Dist. 63 Representative

Emergency medical service has become the focal point of public debate in Cooke County. In my last article, I discussed new legislation that might impact the future construction of jail facilities. In this article, I will discuss emergency medical service legislation that I authored and successfully passed in the last legislative session.

Historically, developing rural counties such as Cooke County have defined emergency services as ambulance and fire prevention. Problems with funding and management generally included a limited tax base, local political infighting and the lack of a legal framework to design a coordinated effort.

The first step to solving these problems requires that the voters of the state approve Constitutional Amendment Proposition Number 13 which will appear on your ballot in November of this year. Simply described, this amendment allows the Legislature to put into effect a comprehensive legal framework to govern emergency services. Emergency services are defined as fire prevention, ambulance service and emergency medical services. The governing structure would be the Board of Emergency Service Commissioners.

Assuming passage of Constitutional Amendment Proposition Number 13, the next step requires a petition calling for an election to be presented to the Cooke County Commissioners Court. The petition would establish the limits of the proposed emergency services district. The district could be a part of Cooke County, all of Cooke County or parts of Cooke County along with parts of adjacent counties. In other words, the voters can design and approve a district that is customized to the particular needs of Cooke County.

Assuming that the voters approve such district, the Cooke County Commissioners are then charged with appointing citizens of Cooke County to the governing board of the new district. The governing board must first, define the role and scope of the district (ambulance only; emergency medical services; fire prevention only, etc.) and second, define the cost for such services. The board may levy up a property tax of up to 10 cents per 100 dollars value to pay for the services defined as necessary.

One positive aspect of this new law is that it takes the issue of emergency services out of the hands of existing and often competing political subdivisions (cities, county government, hospital districts) and places the responsibility into the hands of a broad group of citizens representing the entire county on the single issue of emergency services.

Also, the law provides for districts that cross county lines, meaning that emergency services can be designed around population centers which in turn should produce a reduced cost for the service delivered.

In conclusion, should Constitutional Amendment Proposition 13 pass this November, you the voter, will have the authority to accept or reject emergency services and the cost connected therewith, for your area. You, the voter, will have the ability to define the role and scope of emergency services. You, the voter, will control the growth or non-growth of government services. And I am interested in pushing legislation that returns this authority to you, the voter.

For copies of this legislation or to comment on this or other issues of state government, please contact Flossie Schoppa in my Cooke County office at No. 5, Plaza 82, Highway 82 East, Gainesville, Texas 76240, 665-6116, or call me direct at (817) 599-8363.

Secular Franciscans to observe patron's feast

Secular Franciscans of Sacred Heart Parish, meeting Sunday for their monthly prayer service and business session, made plans for the observance of the feast of St. Francis of Assisi, the fraternity's patron.

Marie Henscheid, prefect, led the divine office recited in unison by 12 members and read communications. A letter from Father Tom Gardner, provincial of Chicago, reminded tertiaries of the feast day on Oct. 4 and included a suggested ritual for the liturgical celebration.

Members decided to hold the service at their regular meeting, the second Sunday of October, and to have a Mass offered for living and deceased members on the feast day. They also decided to follow their prayer service with a social hour, coffee and cookies.

Father Gardner wrote that he plans visitation in Muenster after the first of the year. He also included an article on "Exploring Franciscan Spirituality." It concluded with questions relating to the topic which members answered in an open discussion conducted by the prefect.

Ida Mae Herr, secretary, read minutes of the previous meeting and Betty Yosten gave the treasurer's report.

The meeting closed with recitation of the Peace Prayer.

St. Peter's Church commissions teachers

Nine religious education teachers of St. Peter's parish in Lindsay were commissioned on Monday, Sept. 21, by Father Cletus Post O.S.B. to "Serve Together with Generosity and Forgiveness" in the elementary grades 1 through 8.

In a special celebration of the Liturgy, he commissioned the teachers with a ceremony in which the teachers accepted the responsibility to serve with generosity, and mutually support each other for the parish's religious education program 1987-1988.

Commissioned teachers are Sister Ferdinand Jenschke, grade 1; Mrs. Walter Lutkenhaus, grade

2; Mrs. Miklos Nagy, grade 3; Mrs. Harold Nortman, grade 4; Mrs. Larry Zimmerer, grade 5; Mrs. John Hoberer, Jr., grade 6; Sister Dorothy Theresa Zimmerer, grade 7; Mrs. Pete Stoffels, grade 8; and Mrs. Ray Sandmann, substitute teacher.

Adding to the liturgical celebration was the participation of the students in the Offertory procession of the Mass.

The students presented symbols of faith and the Offertory gifts of bread and wine. The symbols included a portrait of John Paul II, leader of the Universal Church, presented by Julie Ann Zimmerer; candles and baptismal robes presented by Dan and Keith Zimmerer, respectively, to show that all were started on the way to God our Father at Baptism, and to indicate gratitude for the gift of faith.

Also, the Bible, symbolizing God's Word, presented at the altar by George Lutkenhaus; a Crucifix, showing that Jesus opened the way to heaven, presented by Suzanne Hellinger; religion textbooks, showing that God's message is also offered through them, presented by Donna Lester, Lori Hoberer, Joey Wilson and Amy Hoberer.

The water and wine were presented at the altar by Sabrina Nagy, Janet Pearson, April Sandmann and Andrea Gieb.

Debbie Nortman gave eight general intercessions which were read to correspond with the symbolts and gifts presented.

Eddie Krebs gave the introduction to the services before Mass and Laura Lutkenhaus was the principal lector of the Mass.

Bryan and Greg Dulock were the Mass servers.

During the Offertory liturgy, the C.C.D. teachers assembled in the sanctuary, to dedicate their best efforts in teaching religion. The students responded by promising to cooperate in the spreading of God's word through faithful participation in their religion classes.

Don & Dorothy Endres visit kin in Washington

Don and Dorothy Endres have returned from a recent 10-day visiting/sightseeing vacation with their daughter and family, Donna, Danny, Corey and Amber Schmitt, in Prosser, Washington.

The Schmitts are formerly of Muenster. Corey will soon be 13 and Amber celebrated her ninth birthday during her grandparents' visit.

Corey and Amber are both in 4-H work and took their grandparents to visit the 4-H Club Fair where they were showing their club animals. Corey got a blue ribbon on his steer and Amber got a blue ribbon for her lamb. She also won a Grand Champion ribbon for fitness and showing.

Don and Dorothy Endres also visited with Margie Schmitt, Leo and Mitsy Schmitt of Yakima, WA, and Phyllis Schmitt of San Francisco, when they were attending the fair.

Two Subiaco freshmen are elected

Ryan Gehrig of Muenster and Steve Schmitz of Gainesville, freshmen at Subiaco Academy, a college preparatory school in Arkansas, have been selected to serve as vice president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the freshman class. Both were inducted into the Academy's Student Council in ceremonies held on Sept. 16.

Ryan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Gehrig of Muenster, and Steve is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Schmitz of Gainesville.

Stocker cattle workshop Sept. 29

The Cooke County Beef Cattle Association will hold their Annual Stocker Cattle Workshop on Tuesday, Sept. 29, at the Cooke County Fairgrounds. The program will begin at 7 p.m. with refreshments and meal following. Interested livestock producers are urged to attend.

The theme for this year's activities will center on supplementation of stocker cattle on grain pasture and forage production. Dr. Ron Gill, Extension Livestock Specialist, will cover the use of milo and wheat in ration formulation to extend gains during the severe winter months of January and February. He will also have mineral programs developed for stocker calves and cows on small grain pastures. Craig Rosenbaum, County Agent, will cover results of grazing demonstrations in relation to forage production on the Smokler farm at Lancaster. Dr. Ken Stokes, Extension Economist, will be on hand also, with an economic outlook and stocker budget analysis.

The Cooke County Beef Association is composed of beef producers and interested representatives in the Cooke County area. Their goal is the improvement of livestock and forage practices, and beef development in the North Texas area.

ASCS Farm News

Eligibility for participation in all programs administered by ASCS is established under law without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, handicap or national origin.

Wheat, feed grain and cotton programs

There have been rumors of proposed changes in the wheat program. What they are and when and if they are announced is not known. All known information at this time are the basic provisions that were announced earlier. If change do occur, it could change information that you receive.

There has not been an announcement on the feed grain or cotton programs for 1988.

Farming changes

Farm operators and owners are asked to inform the ASCS office of such changes as land sales, renting new farms, not renting the same farm, land purchases, new land owners, new farm operators and changes of address. This information will help us to keep our farm records up to date as well as provide better service to you.

Commodity certificates

A reminder to all those who received commodity certificates: pay attention to the expiration dates; certificates become null and void upon expiration. It would be a good idea to check into this several weeks before expiration.

Federal crop insurance - wheat, oats, barley

The final sign up for crop insurance on wheat and other small grains is Sept. 30, 1987. If you are interested in obtaining crop insurance, you should contact Bruce Hotel, FCIC District Director, 406A West Lamar St., ASCS Office Bldg., Sherman, Texas 75090 or call 214-868-2488.

ACR (Layout, set-aside)

If you are participating in the regular wheat, feed grain or cotton program, land that is designated as ACR cannot be grazed from June 1 through Oct. 31. No harvesting on this acreage anytime.

Legumes are good bet for Texas pastures

Legumes are a good bet for winter grazing in Texas, and planting time is here.

Legumes offer several benefits for Texas pastures, says Dr. J. Neal Pratt, forage specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

They provide higher quality forage than perennial grasses growing in most Texas pastures, thus boosting livestock performance. Legumes can improve the total production of quality forage on most farms and ranches.

Legumes also can lengthen the pasture growing season and can provide options for pasture management.

Since legumes are planted in the fall, they offer little competition to summer grasses.

September and October rains usually provide favorable conditions for planting legumes, says

Pratt. Several legumes are available for specific areas of Texas, notes the specialist. Vetch is a longtime favorite and grows well in most areas of the state. Madrid sweetclover is a deep-rooted legume and is well-suited for Central, South and West Texas. Arrowleaf clover is gaining popularity in East, Central and parts of South Texas. A relatively new legume, Subterranean clover, does well in bermudagrass and bahiagrass pastures in East Texas and Gulf Coast areas.

County Extension agents and Extension program councils throughout the state annually conduct demonstrations to show advantages of legumes in pasture production, Pratt says. He encourages producers to contact their county Extension office for recommendations on legumes this fall.

Quality forages are basic for beef cattle

Quality forages will continue to be the base for future successful cow-calf and stocker feeding programs.

This was the major focus of a special workshop on "Growing Quality Forage for Beef Cattle" conducted during the International Ranchers Roundup by two forage specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Workshop instructors were Don Dorsett and Dr. David Bade.

In general, the better a ranch's forage system is managed, the greater the resulting animal production, Dorsett and Bade said.

"Successful forage systems provide the quantity and quality of forages needed to meet the cattle's nutritional needs throughout the year and from year to year, and require both long and short term management. They are designed to meet quality demands in grazed pastures as well as for forages harvested as hay or silage," the specialists said.

"Stocking rate is an integral part of forage management regardless of the type of pasture," they added.

A key to a successful forage program is to balance the following elements throughout the year:

- * Quantity and quality of forages available.
- * Animal's seasonal requirements.
- * Minimal supplemental feeding programs.

"The success of matching these three requirements on a day-today basis will result in animal performance such as greater calf weaning weights, average daily gains, animal condition, percent calf crop, calving intervals and other factors," Bade and Dorsett said.

Failure to produce the needed forage quality and quantity throughout the year can be "covered up" by supplemental feeding, but this is an expensive alternative, the specialists emphasized.

Pasture forages for beef cattle can be divided into warm-season perennial or permanent pastures, warm-season annual pastures, cool-season perennial or permanent pastures, cool-season annual pastures, and legumes for pastures, they added.

"Livestock producers can benefit by combining two or more forage plants into a ranch's forage system, since no grass meets the production and quality requirements of livestock on a year-long basis.

"By having adapted summer and winter pastures or by overseeding summer pastures with winter species, producers can furnish grazing for most of the year. Achieving this does require management and planning but provides benefits through reduced haying and feeding," Dorsett and Bade said.

County Agent's Report

by Craig Rosenbaum

The effect of wet weather on sprouting of wheat in the field

The long duration of wet weather that we had in the early summer and late harvest over much of the County resulted in widespread sprouting, or germination of kernels in unharvested wheat. In general, germination of wheat in this manner has a very deleterious effect on wheat quality, as proteins quickly degrade and starches are converted to sugars for use by the emerging seedling. Wheat that has been affected in this manner is of little use for baking, and has no value as seed wheat.

Producers should have closely examined wheat, at harvest or now, to determine a percentage of sprouted kernels. Under Federal Grain Inspection Service Guidelines, sprouted kernels are classified as "damaged kernels." The total percentage of damaged kernels allowed for U.S. Number 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5 wheat is 2, 4, 7, 10 and 15 percent respectively. Any wheat harvested with more than 15 percent sprouted seed is designated sample grade, and is unacceptable in conventional marketing channels, although it may be used as a livestock feed.

For obvious reasons, sprouted wheat should not be considered for use as seed wheat. If the percentage sprouted kernels is very low, cleaners can remove some of the damaged kernels, but frequently the weathering that caused sprouting will lower germination and vigor of the remaining seed. Suspect lots of seed should be tested for germination and vigor before money is spent to clean and treat planting seed.

Maturing wheat seed has a natural dormancy that varies somewhat with variety. Most wheat seed will not germinate until it has dried to a 12 to 14 percent moisture level. Once it has initially dried to this moisture level, it must be rewet to a threshold of around 45 to 50 percent moisture. Wheat seed imbibes water at a maximum rate of about 1.7 percent per hour such that seed must be exposed to moisture for 18 to 22 hours to meet minimum moisture requirements for germination. Research has shown, however, that repeated wetting and drying cycles may reduce the amount of time required for germination. The head or spike generally has a considerably higher concentration of water during a wet period than the seed itself.

Once minimum moisture requirements are met, the rate at which seed germinates is governed by the length of time that the seed retains water above the threshold level for germination, and environmental factors such as air temperature.

Paint Horse Show set for Sept. 26-27

There will be a Paint Horse Show at the Gainesville Riding Club Arena Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 26 and 27, 1987. Cutting will begin both days at 7 a.m. The show is APHA and TPHC approved.

Concession stands will be open all day. There will be free admission to spectators during the two-day event. Awards will be presented for high points.

For more information, contact Wayne Moseley, 964-2472.

Sewage sludge, mine spoil reclaim damaged land faster than fertilizer

COLLEGE STATION — Dried sewage mixed with mine spoil can be used to reclaim lignite mine sites, making the grass grow faster and helping alleviate concerns with groundwater pollution, says a soil scientist who has completed a study on the topic.

Texas A&M University scientist Dr. Kirk Brown and graduate students at Texas A&M's College of Agriculture examined the feasibility of using sewage sludge for reclamation of mine sites that have not been top soiled at the Texas Municipal Power Agency's (TMPA) lignite plant at Carlos, Texas.

More than 10,000 acres in Texas have been disturbed by strip mining, with an estimated 2,500 additional acres being stripped annually.

Brown said the sludge is far superior to fertilizer. It can accomplish in a year what it takes four years to do with fertilizer, he said.

"After one year, the nitrogen reserve is equivalent to the reserve resulting from four years of applying fertilizer," he said. "Within a year we can restore the nitrogen cycle to nearly the level found in native soils."

Brown, who holds joint appointments with Texas A&M University and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, said the grass yield with the sludge was spectacular.

Graduates of Class of '59 hold reunion

A reunion of classmates from both Sacred Heart School and Muenster Public School was held Saturday, Sept. 5. Sixty-eight classmates, spouses and teachers of the class of '59 gathered for their first combined reunion since graduation.

All former classmates were invited to attend whether they had graduated from the local schools or moved away prior to graduation.

The festivities began with happy hour at 6 p.m. followed by a catered dinner by Rohmer's Restaurant at 7 p.m.

As classmates arrived they were given a name badge bearing their picture from first grade. Group pictures were taken by Memories of Muenster.

The program was emceed by Judy Cain Hartman. Invocation was given by Jim Myrick while the entire group formed a large circle and joined hands. Funny stories, memorable events and escapades were related about classmates and teachers by Pat Hess, Mary Walterscheid Acker, Myrick and Hartman.

Former MHS Coach Boze Ansley announced the winners after classmates cast ballots in several categories. Votes were cast for "Most Changed Male," Pat Hess; "Most Changed Female," Helen Vogel Patel; "Least Changed Male," Gene Eberhart; "Least Changed Female," Joaline Mollenkopf Henscheid; "Shiniest Head," Hermie Grewing; "Gravest Head," Helen Patel; "Ideal Over the Hill Male," Crunchie Wimmer; "Ideal over the Hill Female," Monica Fette Hess. A three-way tie resulted in this category. Nominees were Mary Lee Lawson Hennigan, Monica Fette Hess and Virgilla Schilling Herr. A drawing was held to determine the winner. Jo Ann Hess Berend traveled the most miles to attend. Joaline Henscheid had the most grandchildren and she was presented a lovely flower arrangement. All other winners received a banner to wear for the evening depicting their honor.

Crunchie Wimmer offered a toast and closing remarks were made by Bill Otto. Visiting and renewing old acquaintances followed the program. Yearbooks and photographs were on hand for reviewing and reminiscing.

Gene Hartman made a video recording of the whole evening.

Former teachers and administration who attended as special guests with their spouses were Mr. and Mrs. L.B. Bruns, Glenn and Betty Hellman, Boze and Letha Ansley, George and Gerri Petrus, La Verne Homesley, Julian and Carrie Walterscheid.

Another reunion is being planned for the class' 30th anniversary on the last Saturday in June 1989.

The reunion committee was headed by Virgilla Herr. Committee members were Monica Hess, Pat Hess, Joaline Henscheid, Mary Lee Hennigan, Sarah Fleitman Lester, Hermie Grewing, Leon Fuhrmann, Bill Dangelmayr, Jim Voth and Marge Flusche Clement.

Election of officers was held during the Sacred Heart High School Alumni meeting on Sept. 2, with the following results: Danny Walterscheid re-elected president; Bobby Hartman re-elected vice-president; Cheryl Mollenkopf, secretary and reporter; Lonnie Henscheid re-elected treasurer.

Reports were given on the Coed Softball Tournament held on Aug. 30 to benefit the medical expenses of Jennifer Douthit. The Alumni Association gave $200 to
