Jai Alai, pronounced Hi-Li, the Basque game that has fascinated Latin-American countries and Florida with its speed and the skill of its players, makes its bow at the New York Hippodrome. Segundo slings the ball with terrific speed while paired with Piston, the champion, against Guillermo, right, and Gabriel, Guillermo is ranked at the top among back court players and has the reputation of being the Babe Ruth of the sport because of his hard service. Jai Alai is played on the same principle as squash racquets, but on a much larger court, and play is faster because of the greater distance the ball has to travel. The Hippodrome court is 150 feet long.

U. S. Tells World About Its Defenses

Uncle Sam has switched from a policy of "hush-hush" to one of hallyhoo about his plans for national defense, Col. Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war, said during a visit in Houston a few days ago.

"We are making plans for an adequate defense program and we intend to tell the world about it," Colonel Johnson said. "We believe this will go a long way toward keeping this country out of war."

"Bottlenecks" that delayed United States effective participation in the world war are being rapidly eliminated, he explained.

"It was 14 months before we were able to put an adequately equipped army into the field the last time we had to do it," Colonel Johnson said. "When our new streamlined preparedness program is completed we will be able to equip a million men almost overnight and keep them equipped for six months while additional supplies are being manufactured."

The United States had the finest rifle in the world, the Springfield. In 1917, he said, but when the War Department called on industry to produce the rifles in quantities sufficient to equip an army, industry announced that it would take two years to produce the guns, dies and other tools necessary for manufacturing the rifles. American soldiers had to be equipped with an inferior rifle because there was then no time to wait.

"That was a 'bottleneck' that held us up," he said. "We are now engaged in eliminating such bottlenecks. Beginning almost immediately, we are preparing to collect supplies for a million men for six months."

"That means that we will have all the tools ready to plunge into mass production of additional supplies when we need them."

Higher Grade Cotton in Texas This Year

Cotton ginned in Texas prior to September 16 of this year was somewhat higher in grade and considerably longer in staple than that ginned during the corresponding period last year. The Bureau of Agricultural Economics estimates that of the cotton ginned prior to September 16, 45 percent was strict middling white and better, 35 percent was middling white, and 10 percent was strict low middling and below. Only about 10 percent of the cotton classed was of the spotted grades of which more than one half was strict middling and better.

Only about 1 percent was shorter than 3/8 inch in staple length; 14 percent was 3/8 and 29-32 inch; 52 percent was 15-16 and 31-32 inch and 33 percent was 1 inch and longer.

Par for Cupid on Any Course

It is hinted, but not confirmed, that Charley Yates, Atlanta's British Amateur champion, is seeking a bigger prize than any he can win on the fairways—namely, pretty Jane Wilson of Mansfield, O., with whom he is shown at the National Amateur at Oakmont Country Club, Pittsburgh.

Peace and goodwill between nations long enemies is being celebrated above. The tinkle of wine glasses marks the successful close of a patient seven-year effort to solve a racial minority problem no less bitter than the one now convulsing Europe. Eleutherios Venizelos, right, represented Greece and Ismet Pasha, left, represented Turkey in the negotiations which concluded an exchange of "minority population" between the two countries.

NUMEROUS PATENTS ON CRACKING PROCESSES

Austin—"Cracking" a process of converting otherwise valueless constituents of crude oil into gasoline, has made the economic production of gasoline possible, it was pointed out by David McKnight, Jr., chemical engineer in the University of Texas Bureau of Industrial Chemistry, whose bulletin, "A Study of Patents on Petroleum Cracking," has just come from the press.

"By this process the normally heavy constituents of crude oil, many of them valueless or of very low value, are converted into the lighter substances which go to make up gasoline," Mr. McKnight explained. "Without cracking, the oil fields would have to be drained of twice or more than twice the amount of crude oil which is now necessary to meet the demands for gasoline. This would result in hastening the depletion of our oil reserves, and in the production of large quantities of heavier oils which would be wasted."

"The process of cracking depends primarily on simple heating of the heavier oils under high temperatures. The high temperatures involved, the difficulties in controlling the reactions so as to produce a maximum of desirable products and a minimum of undesirable products, combine to introduce many problems into the practical carrying out of the process. These problems have been worked out slowly by the industry, and the process brought to a high state of perfection."

In the working out of these problems many men and companies have been involved. Every idea en-

Alfalfa Bill Murray Denied Ballot Place

Oklahoma City—W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray was denied a place on the November 8 general election ballot as a non-partisan candidate for the United States senate Saturday, but the former governor's followers rallied their forces to carry their fight to the state supreme court.

A petition signed by about 36,000 persons in 58 counties was turned down by the state election board in a unanimous decision announced by Charles D. Campbell, vice chairman and Republican member of the board.

K. L. Maddox, chairman of the committee which directed the petition's circulation, announced suit would be filed in the state supreme court Monday in an effort to force the board to accept Murray's candidacy.

Murray was defeated in the primary in July for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, which was won by Leon C. Phillips. The Democratic renomininee is Senator Elmer Thomas, called "my old friend" by President Roosevelt.

In well equipped homes everywhere the diffused, glare-free light of an I E S study lamp is providing new light on home work, helping youngsters to do their work more easily, and get better grades, too. Ancient Ritual Ushers in Jewish New Year

The ancient ritual of Rosh Hashanah, Jewish New Year, is performed in the above picture of two Jewish patriarchs officiating at the annual religious observance. One blows the "Shofar," or ram's horn, calling the Jews to penitence and reflection and one holds the holy scroll of "Torah" or Old Testament. Orthodox Jews celebrate the New Year two days, while reform temples limit the observance to one day. Yom Kippur, "Day of Atonement," climaxes the 10 days of penitence, which this year are from sunset, Sept. 25, to Oct. 4.

PRECAUTIONS FOR SAFETY IN DRIVING AT NIGHT

One of the most important jobs in reducing traffic accidents is in getting the driver to appreciate the difference between day and night driving, according to Earl J. Reeder, Chief Engineer of the National Safety Council.

Explaining the relation of light to safety, the traffic expert points out that in the daytime most objects are seen by surface detail in the diffused light of the sun. At night, however, almost all objects are distinguished in silhouette, and the effectuation of discernment by silhouette is one of the most important principles of good street and highway lighting.

In the words of Mr. Reeder, "When two drivers are approaching each other, each looking into the other's lights and not watching the edge of the road, it's a matter of the blind leading the blind." As most of our roads are at present not illuminated by fixed lighting, these are the precautions suggested to the driver as essential to safety at night:

1. Watch for objects on the road revealed in silhouette by the headlights of approaching cars.
2. Watch the right hand edge of the road and avoid looking into other drivers' headlights.
3. Slow down at sundown to compensate for lower visibility.
4. Whenever there is a curve or hill crest ahead, revealed by the other headlights, slow down to the proper speed corresponding to the lack of view of what is around the curve or over the hill.

Vigilance Is Price Of Fire Prevention

Marvin Hall, state fire insurance commissioner, Austin, is urging state-wide observance of the annual Fire Prevention Week scheduled for October 9 to 15.

"Fire uncontrolled is one of the most serious problems that confronts us today," Hall said. "Each year its heavy toll in life and property is a black mark on the proud name of Texas. Only by constant and relentless vigilance on the part of every Texas citizen can we hope to reduce, and finally to eliminate the costly destruction of this economic enemy number-one."

"Active participation in Fire Prevention Week by every Texas citizen will go far toward curbing losses and saving lives, and, since fire losses have a direct bearing upon the fire insurance rate, there are other practical benefits occurring from effective fire prevention."

"Fire Prevention Week is designed for every Texan interested in performing a distinct service to his State, to his community, and to himself," Hall said. "If we remember that the fire that never starts will never get out of control, and keep that thought before us each day of every year, then we will rightfully say that the practice of fire prevention pays big dividends in human lives and happiness."

Aggregate dollar sales in these establishments during the first eight months of the year were practically identical to those of the corresponding period in 1937.

Credit sales constituted a large proportion of the total than in August last year, while the percentage of collections to outstanding accounts was slightly less than a year ago.
