TO Users of Paint.

Always bear in mind that it is false economy to use CHEAP paint. The cost per gallon is not the only thing to be considered. It would be cheaper to pay $2.00 per gallon for a paint that will last eight or ten years than to pay $1.00 per gallon for a paint that won't last one year, causing you to repaint and pay for MORE paint as well as that large item, the cost of applying it.

*The Best
Is The Cheapest*

because it lasts the longest, and if you will buy a real first class paint like our Mastic, while it will cost a little more per gallon, you will save money in the long run.

Mastic Paint

costs more than cheap paints, because it is made of pure materials of the highest grade, but these pure materials make it WORTH MORE to you because they make the Mastic paint cover more surface and outwear two or three times over the cheapest so-called paints which are made to sell, not to last. It is a plain proposition that our Mastic paint, covering 300 square feet, two coats, is cheaper at 50 per cent higher price than a paint covering only 200 square feet not to mention its far greater durability.

Bentley talks on Panhandle Crops

Special Agent of Agricultural Department Has Glowing Reports.

Walter E. Bentley, special agent under Dr. Knapp in the cotton demonstrative work along the line of the Ft. Worth and Denver railway was in the city yesterday morning. Mr. Bentley says that cotton acreage was very largely increased through the efforts of the railroad and the department last spring in organizing the farmers to grow cotton. It is well known that the territory through which the Denver runs is as good a grain and stock country as any in the United States and cotton has been introduced as a diversifier and with great success.

At Rowe in Donley county, this being the first year when cotton was planted there extensively, the farmers have made a great success.

In a number of fields the average is fifty-two matured bolls to the stalk and big bolls too, as Mr. Bentley has some here on exhibition. Some farmers there think they will make a bale to the acre. One farmer having several hundred acres has sold his crop at 10 cents per pound straight.

Corn is exceedingly fine at Rowe and the farmers are in excellent shape.

Mr. Bentley thinks that next year a larger acreage in cotton will be planted, as up to the present time there are no boll weevils or other injurious insects in the Panhandle.

He says that the cotton demonstrative work under Dr. Knapp has been of great value to the farmers. —Ft. Worth Record.

Stock News.

W. D. Jordan, the federal inspector from Quanah, was here yesterday.

A. V. Lipe, 3 miles east of Clarendon wants from 1 to 200 head of cattle to winter.

Gathings and Van Eaton sold on Thursday's Ft. Worth market one load of fat cows at $2.85; average 915 pounds.

Buster Culwell has bought recently 146 fat cows from different parties, paying $70 to $16. Also 50 calves at $7 and $8 per head.

G. W. Smith sold a couple of Panhandle "pigs" to the Cold Storage Market, one of which tipped the beam at an even 500 pounds.

John Browder shipped calves to Kansas City Sunday but found no market and had to take them to St. Louis before selling them. —Hall County News-Leader.

Ten bars, mostly cows, belonging to different parties were shipped from Estelline Saturday to St. Louis. George Bugbee, representing Campbell Bros. & Rosson, handled the shipment.

C. F. White, of the firm of White & Swearingen, raisers and dealers in cattle in the Panhandle, is in the market today. Mr. White was raised in Independence, Mo., and went to the Panhandle about twenty years ago. In the cattle business there he has prospered and accumulated a very comfortable fortune in cattle, lands and other property. His headquarters are at Quanah, Texas. —Drovers Telegram.

KANSAS CITY MARKET REPORT

Special to BANNER-STOCKMAN.

Kansas City, Mo., Monday, Sept. 26.

Cattle receipts last week dropped off toward the end of the week, on account of lower market for killing cattle, particularly beef steers, and the total for the week was 78,000 head, as compared with 81,000 the previous week. Packers claimed they had paid too much for beef steers the week before as compared with prices at other points, and their efforts were towards a readjustment. However, the Western and Colorado cattle sold mostly within 10 or 15 cents of the previous week's prices. Receipts of Westerns embraced nearly all grades and qualities, and sales of steers ranged from $2.90 for Old Mexicos to $3.75 for a large shipment of Green River Cattle Company's steers. Some muley black light steers also brought $3.85, and other sales of Mountain steers were at $3.35 to $3.75. A few cows sold at $3.00, but most sales of Colorados were at $2.40 to $2.60, 650-lb. to 800-lb. Western slope steers sold at $3.15 to $3.35, sales of Panhandles came within these figures. Supply today is 21,000 head, and general market steady, beef steers and good quality stock and feeding cattle a shade higher, cows weak in some cases. Demand for stockers and feeders is better just now than at any time this season, at 30,000 head. Kansas, which has heretofore been laying back on the feeder proposition, is now coming to the front, and Illinois and Missouri buyers show no diminution in their desire for this class of cattle.

Sheep runs have been liberal and prices are a little lower than a week ago. Killing and feeding sheep do not show any great change, but lambs are 15 to 25 cents lower. Killing lambs sell at $4.25 to $5.25 for natives, with choice westerns at $5.00 or a little more, wethers at $3.25 to $3.60, and yearlings up to $3.85, fat ewes $3.00 to $3.30. Stock ewes bring $2.50 to $3.00, feeding wethers and yearlings $3.25 to $3.65, breeding ewes around $3.50. Receipts today are 20,000 head, largest of the season, market steady. Utah lambs sold at $5.00 today, and Westerns ewes at $3.30.

J. A. RICKART.

All Night Service.

The Clarendon Water, Light & Power Company has just about completed arrangements for extending their electric light service to an all-night run. There will be a slight increase in rates, amounting to about 10 per cent, but the patrons, so far as we are informed, are all satisfied to pay a little more in order to get the benefits of the increased service. A day current is also in prospect if sufficient patronage can be obtained.

We are informed that the school house in new district No. 24 will not be built this year. School in that district begins Monday and will be conducted by Miss Nell Baker at the residence of R. E. Williams on Glenwood.

The Revival Meeting.

The meeting at the Christian church has been progressing most auspiciously and a great good has undoubtedly been accomplished. There have been a number of conversions and accessions and Elder Dubbs feels greatly encouraged at the success he is having and feels thankful indeed towards the other denominations for the Christian manner in which they have attended and by their presence lent assistance to the good cause. The services will continue nightly throughout the week and the meeting will terminate Sunday night. Everybody cordially invited to attend.

Moved.

Waggner has moved his vegetable and fruit stand to second door north of Citizens Bank. Phone 93.

It has been suggested to us by parties interested that if the railroads would make a combination rate embracing the Kansas City Royal Live Stock Show, Oct. 16 to 21, and St. Louis World's fair that a considerable number of such tickets would be sold from this section. The Royal usually attracts many visitors from the Panhandle and a ticket embracing both attractions would undoubtedly prove a splendid seller.

Cheap Apples.

I bought a remnant of a car of Roswell apples and will close them out at $1 per bushel for cooking apples, $1.10 for eating apples. Phone 93.

Public School Notes

Miss Vesta Wright of near Alameda visited the public school last Tuesday. She was a pupil in the high school last year.

The trustees have been laying in a supply of coal this week for our winter use. The basement of the public school building is pretty nearly filled with coal and kindling.

Mrs. J. D. Stocking, in company with Mrs. Helen Stoddard, was at the public school building Wednesday. Mrs. Stoddard is a member of the board of regents of the Girls' Industrial School, and showed samples of the excellent work done there.

Miss Kittie Kimbrough has been giving the fifth grade pupils lessons in nature study, the especial subject being beech nuts and chestnuts. It is hardly necessary to state that the samples used were not grown in the Panhandle.

We received this week a year's supply of pass books to be used in the public school. These books are up-to-date in every particular. They furnish a monthly report from the teacher to the parent, and serve as a certificate for promotion. Parents are requested to examine them carefully before signing them.

Miss Pearl Betts dismissed her classes for two or three days this week at 11:30 and heard a class for Prof. Silvey. By this means he was given an opportunity to superintend the class work of the school.

Autumn leaves have been the subject for special nature study work in Miss Donnell's room this week. The little folks have been much interested and have brought quantities of leaves and flowers to their teacher. The room has been prettily decorated.

The children in the first primary room have full confidence in Miss Stout's ability to do all things properly. Besides being a good teacher, she attends to cut fingers, removes grass burrs and thorns from their flesh and pulls teeth. Hardly a day passes that some child is not relieved of a loose molar or incisor.

A letter from Prof. Works of the Girls' Industrial School at Denton compliments Miss Lila Woodward on her entrance examination at that school. She was a member of last year's graduating class in the public school and stood high in her studies.

The public school is still doing business at the same old stand as the following new entries will attest. To the high school Myrtle Cope and Dollie Trentham. In the lower grades Jem Sloan, Gentry Murray, Joe Humphrey, Cleo Andis, Marvin Strother, Robert Elkins and Mary Collinson have been enrolled.

The senior class in the high school organized their literary society last Friday with Paul Bell, president; Ralph Collinson, vice-president, and May Lumpkin, secretary.

retary. This society has done some good work heretofore.

Nearly a dozen of the graduates of Clarendon public school are teaching in Donley and adjoining counties. Prof. C. E. Hall, a member of the first class, is principal in the public school at Portales, N. M. Only pupils who are proficient in a three years course in high school are granted diplomas.

Clarendon College.

Bro. Hardy, wife, Louis, and little Mabel have gone to Kentucky to see Bro. Hardy's parents. This will be a pleasant trip for Bro. Hardy and family, as he has not seen his father for seventeen years. On their return home, they will visit the St. Louis fair. Bro. Hardy and family will be absent about three weeks. In the absence of Bro. Hardy, Bro. Burkhead will have charge of the church.

Examinations have been going on for the past few days, and the students have been kept busy, reviewing. The students have been striving to make the best grades possible for them to make. Such an ambition is worthy of all commendation.

The Clarendon College baseball team was to have shivered a lance with the Indians Wednesday evening, but by some means the Indians did not put in appearance; so the game did not come off. The College team has been practicing a good deal of late after school hours; and they are beginning to feel that they are able to cope with any team in the field of sport.

The Greek class in the College is the largest and the best in the history of the institution. The class has already read nearly fifty pages. There is nothing more helpful to a young man than a good knowledge of that language in which the philosophy of the word has been written.

The higher department of the Latin language is well represented in the College. This is a language that should be taught in all of our schools, for it is the language of government law and jurisprudence.

Prof. Johnston has some fine classes in the higher department of mathematics, and "the hard grained muses of cube and square" are giving the boys and girls a good deal of work to do. The students say that Prof. Johnston smiles at difficult problems—that he is a sly-vester in mathematics.

Miss Sherman's class in beginning Latin is a large and interesting class. The Roman method of pronouncing is used. Both kinds of translation are used in the class, English Latin and Latin English.

Prof. Burkhead's higher English has been on "Variations" this week. This method brings out all the inventive genius of a student, and is one of the best means used in the colleges of cultivating the power of expression, and close thinking.

Miss Ada Hawkins is the College organist, and when Miss Ada takes her seat at the piano, its hidden music is evoked. It is kind in Miss Ada to render this good service for the College.

Miss Betts has her department well in hand and everything moves along in a quiet and orderly way. This department will be a fine feeder to the College proper.

Visitors have been moving about quietly in our class rooms this week. We are always glad to have our friends look in on us at any time. The work of our class rooms is always open for inspection.

Prof. Johnston has some fine maps hung up in his class room, which add very materially to the teaching of history. His classes in history are large and interesting. The Prof. seems at home in this domain of knowledge.

Mr. D. B. Doak, one our young preachers, was absent last Sunday, and having to preach so much, and having lost so much sleep on Sunday night, he was seen Monday evening nodding in the Greek class. Well, it may be interesting to Bro. Doak to know that Homer sometimes nods.

day night, he was seen Monday evening nodding in the Greek class. Well, it may be interesting to Bro. Doak to know that Homer sometimes nods.

Miss Mary Anthony, one of the sweet girls of the young ladies home, has made rattlesnakeology such a close study that she is prepared to give a recipe for all the ills resulting from the bite of this rattlesnake. For further information on this subject, we refer all concerned to Miss Mary, Miss Ada Hawkins could give some information also along this line.

We give the motto of the advanced English class:

"Greek's a harp we love to hear. Latin is a trumpet clear, Spanish like an organ swells, Italian rings its silver bells, France with many a frolic mien, Tune her sprightly violin, Loud the German rolls his drum, When Russia's clashing cymbals come, But Britain's sons may well rejoice, For English is the human voice."

Sorosis.

On Saturday, September 24, Sorosis met in the pleasant home of Mrs. Burton, and a most interesting program on Emerson was rendered. We submit one of the most interesting papers we have had in our meetings.

Will meet Oct. 8 in the home of Miss Gabie Betts. All members are requested to be present. The following program will be rendered:

1. Answer to roll call with something interesting from American Literature.
2. Poe's contribution to American literary history.—Mrs. J. D. Stocking.
3. The vital deficiency in Southern literature.—Mrs. Eddins.
4. Concerning literary criticism.—Mrs. Harrington.
5. Why is American literature bourgeois?—Mrs. Wilmut.
6. The changing fashions in American fiction.—Mrs. Bell.
7. American literary influence abroad.—Mrs. Adams.

8. A literary progenitress of Rudyard Kipling.—Mrs. Richmond Bowlin.

General discussion led by Mrs. R. F. Wood. MRS. RICHMOND BOWLIN, Corresponding Secretary.

EMERSON'S INFLUENCE AND POWER TO BUILD CHARACTER.

Perhaps to no other man could Lowell's words be more appropriately applied than to Emerson when he wrote:

"Be noble, and the nobleness that in other men lies sleeping Will rise in majesty to meet thine own."

His own life pure and serene, he saw only purity in those about him. He rouses a longing for that only which is pure long after he has passed over the river and is at rest in the "home of the pure and best." The aroma of his life lingers about us as the aroma of a beautiful rose that has faded.

"You may crush, you may shatter the vase if you will, But the scent of the roses will cling to it still."

His own life was an exemplification of lines.

"Nor knowest thou what argument Thy life to thy neighbor's creed hath lent."

His life has lent to the world nothing that was not fine and beautiful, inspiring and uplifting.

How many young lives, do you suppose, have taken an upward trend because of his advice, "Hitch your wagon to a star." Or this:

"Deep in the man sits fast his fate To mold his fortunes mean or great. Unknown to Cromwell as to me Was Cromwell's measure or degree."

Verily, he himself "built better than he knew" as he says in the "Problem" when he teaches us to "Trust men and they will be true to you; treat them greatly and they will show themselves great."

If the world only had more of this sublime confidence in man as a man and brother, in his truth and goodness, how much better off would humanity be today. The creed which so many men hold, "to treat every man as a knave till he proves himself a gentleman," was not Emersonian. "His heart was as great as the world but there was no room in it to hold the memory of a wrong." The man or woman who studies his life must cease to be self-centered and selfish. He lived for others. His boast was, "Any man who knocks at my door shall have my attention." He lived what he taught when he said, "Life is not so short but that there is always time for courtesy." To him "every day was the best day in the year." He said:

"The world is his who can see through its pretenses. The day is always his who works in it with serenity and great aims."

Emerson's spirit radiated sweetness and light. His "soul was like a star that dwelt apart." Lowell says of him: "There was a majesty about him beyond all other men that I have ever known and he habitually dwelt in that ampler and diviner air to which most of us, if ever, rise only in spirits."

Many influences united to make Emerson a man in the strong, best sense of the word. He came of good stock. His grandfathers for seven generations had been preachers. He inherited goodness and purity of heart and life. He also inherited a love of knowledge and a desire to obtain it. His father having died when he was only eight years old, the mother had difficulties in educating the children, but educate them she did. At one time Ralph and his brother had only one overcoat between them so could attend school only on alternate days. But they attended. Such training makes for something strong and earnest. It perhaps helped him to say in after years, "Rich, say you?—How rich? Rich enough to help anybody; rich enough to succor the afflicted; the richest possible, the eccentric."

In this age of hurry and worry it is well for us to know something of the absolute calmness of Emerson's manner, his patience, and sweetness and sympathy.

Bishop Huntington wrote of him: "We have never heard a moral blenheim imputed to him, or seen any deviation in him from the straight course of a clean and honorable manhood." When so many literary men have been as Byron and Poe this means much.

Emerson helps us to feel that we must be strong for life and its duties, realizing that its worries and cares and heartaches are only for the moment and will vanish away, but that all that is good and true and beautiful will last for time and for eternity; that life is God-given, and should be made the most of. He makes us feel that absolute truth is a necessity. Perhaps no truer estimate of the man can be given than he gives in these words with which I shall close.

"The highest compact we can make with our fellow is: Let there be truth between us forever. It is sublime to feel and say of another, I need meet or speak or write to him. We need not reinforce ourselves or send tokens of remembrance; I rely on him as on myself." (MISS) GABIE L. BETTS.

The Woman with a Baby.

Mild the head of human porkers crowded on the trolley car. All is confusion and jostle, making age and sex no bar. Men collapse in seats and stay there, letting shrieking ladies stand. With a look of indignation—and a strap in either hand.

For there's one thing that you've noticed never fails to make a stir—When a woman with a baby comes they all make room for her.

I have sat in stuffy coaches on a crowded railway train. Listening to "case" hardened travelers who talked with spirit and main. That they'd see the railway company in making the best of a bad job. For a woman with a baby, they must all make room for her.

BETTY'S SURRENDER

Chivers looked disgustedly at the canvas over which Betty had already expended more than a dollar's worth of paint.

"I would suggest," he said quietly, "that if you want to put any more paint on that canvas, you had best use my modeling tools."

"Where you go again," she stormed. "How do you expect me ever to become a great artist if you nag that way?"

"I don't expect you to become great," he reminded her gently. "I only want you to become great. I want you some day to realize that it is better to be a good wife than a great artist."

"Which come do you use that paint?" she asked him.

"The same sense of the term. You are painting in Paris, for all you can get a good price for those bas-reliefs and pictures. You are poor in heart, for you have no time for anything else save your art. You are to be pitied, because you elect to live in a really trying place over a stable which, because not situated as supposed to be, is very certain hardships and—"

"Care, I suppose," she finished off for him. "because I am so dense as not to be able to perceive the immense advantage of being permitted to sacrifice a career to a man by the name of Winthrop Chivers."

"Not necessarily that," he corrected, "but to be pitied because you are sacrificing the best years of your life to a foolish fad. If there was any chance that you might do great things, I would be the last to say you nay."

"Now, you wish to say me nay that I may say you yes?" she taunted.

"Not that," he said sadly. "But you will never become great. You paint by fits and starts. Time was when you were an impressionist and had but four or five tubes of paint in your pocket. Now you want the heavy effects. Next week you may turn out pictures like the surface of an enamelled photograph."

"I sell them," she retorted defiantly. "I have made my own living ever since I started."

"Yes," he admitted; "but even had you not, you would have starved rather than give up this foolish idea."

"Others have starved before me in the same cause," she said proudly. "Who am I that I should not be willing to sacrifice myself to art?"

"You are a dear little woman who has no business worrying about art," he answered her.

green farm wagon hailed her as she descended from the car. "Goin' to Treston's, brant ye?" he shouted.

She nodded. "Jump aboard," giving her the lines to hold while he got her trunk.

"One of them artists," he commented, as he threw her trunk and field case into the wagon box and climbed up beside her. "We had one down here last year."

"Miss Tuttle?" asked Betty, naming her friend.

"She was over ter Bagots," he said, negatively. "This was a real artist feller. Got paid big prices."

"I've been paid $150 for one of my canvases," she said proudly.

"Sho!" he ejaculated, wheeling in his seat and regarding her with interest. "If yer know all that about art you'll laugh yerself sick at my gallery, I suppose. I don't see they'er so darned funny, but this artist feller uster laff hisself sick over 'em."

"Chromos?" suggested Betty, smiling. She could imagine the sort of pictures on a farmhouse wall.

"No," said Treston; "they're real ones. Some city chisp the missus uster be nurse to, sends 'em. He says he has to buy 'em 'cause no one else will. He hates to destroy 'em, and he don't want to keep 'em. He sends 'em to us."

"Some beginner," said Betty, with a tilted nose, "whose friends wish to help her along. Now, I've been self-supporting for three years."

But at sight of them she turned faint, and after a crying spell, which lasted several hours, she sent a telegram. It read:

"Please come. Am stopping at Treston's."

That was all, but Chivers, reading between the lines, knew that Betty had given up art after having seen her entire output on Treston's wall, and he blessed the fate that had unconsciously guided her there.

WEAKENS SENSE OF SMELL.
Civilization as It Progresses Makes the Nose Less Sensitive.

Someone recently remarked that we were losing the sense of smell. In the Boer war it was noticed that we had not the keen eyesight of the hunter and the savage. The primitive physical qualities must needs go with civilization, but as regards the sense of smell, smoking, no doubt, is partly answerable for this. The frequent odor of tobacco kills the other scents and the sense of smell needs cultivation.

The ancient Romans paid homage to it at their feasts; the odorous fountains, the wreaths of roses that crowned the guests, the showers of fragrant petals that were wafted down—all these made for the sense of smell. The small needs as much pandering to as the palate.

A keen nose is almost as great an enjoyment as a clear eye. The odor of the red rose, when inhaled from its calyx and pressed against the face, is said to be a cure for headache. Verbena is good for the nerves, the aromatic scents of the pine forest are invigorating, the smell of the damp earth after a shower is delicious, the dying strawberry leaves in the border on an autumn day have a sweetness that those who love it can never forget.

Not in Demand.
One of the city's best-known piano teachers met the other day a younger colleague and inquired how he was progressing.

"Oh, I'm doing well," answered the young man. "I have some lessons for which I receive $1 and other lessons at $2. I'm doing quite well."

"But haven't you lessons for which you receive more than $2?" asked his friend, who was anxious to see him succeed.

"Oh, yes, indeed," was the reply of the young teacher. "I have some lessons at as much as $5. But nobody seems to want to take them."—New York Sun.

Almost Desirable.
A new skin disease has been discovered in Vienna, the exanthema variable. A doctor says: "The symptoms are originally a bright scarlet, forming rings, connected with each other until they resemble a net. They spread in serpentine lines. The spots, somewhat elevated, are beautifully drawn, and after awhile the color alternates between scarlet, pink, lilac and gray-blue. Very rarely there are brownish tints. The skin takes on a silky hue." What a beautiful way to be sick!

LABOR AND INDUSTRY

Green Fields Wait for Me.
I must away to wooded hills and valleys
Where broad, slow streams flow cool
And silently,
And little barges flap their listless sails—
For me the summer sunset glows and pales,
And green fields wait for me.
I long for shadowy forests, where the birds
Twitter and chirp at noon from every tree,
I long for blossomed leaves and lowing herds;
And Nature's voices say, in mystic words,
"The green fields wait for thee."
I dream of uplands, where the primrose shines
And waves her yellow lamps above the leaf,
Of tangled copses, swung with trailing vines;
Of open vistas, skirted with tall pines,
Where green fields wait for me.
I think of long, sweet afternoons when I
May lie and listen to the distant sea,
Or hear the breezes in the reeds that sing,
Or insect-voices chirping shrill and dry,
In fields that wait for me.
These dreams of summer, come to bid me find
The forest's shade, the wild bird's melody, While summer's rosy wreaths for me are twined,
While summer's fragrance fingers on the wind,
And green fields wait for me.
—George Arnold.

NEWS OF THE LABOR WORLD.

Items of Interest—Gathered from Many Sources.
Work has been resumed upon Minook (Ind.) coal mines after three years of idleness.
The district convention of united mine workers promulgated an official strike order effecting about 6,000 men.
The headquarters of the Western Federation of Miners, now in Denver, are to be removed to Lead, S. D., according to information from the west.
A resolution providing for the registration of union labels has been introduced in the Canadian parliament at Ottawa.
The International Slate and Tile Roofers' Union of America will meet in second annual convention in St. Louis Sept. 12.
In New Zealand last year 12,481 persons drew old age pensions, amounting to $1,667,670. The total cost of administering the act was $19,000.
The striking glove workers at Gloversville, N. Y., are still without hope of immediate peace. The fourth month of the big strike is growing to a close.
In my judgment, the extension of the use of the injunction is the most disturbing factor in our national life, the darkest cloud upon our horizon.—John Mitchell.
The wage scale of the bar iron and steel mills of the Republic Iron and Steel Company will not be settled by a board of arbitration because of the refusal of men to serve.
Secretary Draper of the Trade and Labor Congress of Canada has sent a circular letter to all local labor unions in Canada urging their affiliation with the Canadian parent body.
Five hundred and fifty operatives struck at the United States Cotton Company's mills at Central Falls, R. I., against the 12½ per cent cut in wages. The mills shut down.
The tin plate scale has been settled and the great Shenango tin plant will start up full turn, orders to that effect having been issued, and the Greer mill will resume within a few days.
The Massachusetts State Federation affiliated sixty-five additional trade unions during the past twelve months. Its membership now including nearly every large union in the Bay state.
Dispatches from Pennsylvania mine centers report that the conciliation board is unable to meet the situation, and that both miners and operators are preparing for another great industrial struggle.
The American Sheet and Tin Plate Company and the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers have agreed upon a wage scale for tin workers. The union grants a rebate of 12½ per cent on foreign orders.
President Mackey of the International Paper Makers' Union is reported to have declared that unless the Fox river valley paper manufacturers settle the strike at once he will call out every union paper maker in the country.
The reports of the officers of the International Typographical Union to the forthcoming convention of the organization at St. Louis have been issued in book form and show a splendid progress made by the printers in the past year.
The Painters' Union in Deadwood, S. D., has increased the minimum wage scale from $3 to $3.50 per day and reduced the working day from ten to nine hours. Paper hangers are paid 11½ cents, 15 cents and 16 2/3 cents an hour and 10 cents a yard for bur-lap.
S. Karpen & Brother, one of the largest upholstery employers in Chicago, and the H. Hafner Furniture Company, have renewed the agreement with the upholsterers' union providing for the employment of members of the union and the nine-hour workday.
Unless the operatives agree to come into the Fall River mills and work under the proposed 12½ per cent reduction, it is doubtful if any attempt will be made by the cotton manufacturers to run the mills before October, was a statement made by a prominent mill treasurer.
Labor unions must live up to their principles if they expect to be received upon the basis of their proclamations. But all this is equally true of the other side. If employers want the confidence and support of the public they, too, must live up to their professions.—The Tobacco Worker.

The Stationary Firemen's Union of Chicago will erect a monument in memory of its dead and Labor day has been chosen as the most fitting day on which to dedicate the granite shaft. The union has purchased a burial lot for its dead, 400 feet in Oak Ridge cemetery and a smaller plot in Mt. Carmel.
A recently enacted state law in New York requiring journeymen horseshoers to be registered has been declared unconstitutional by the appellate division of the Supreme Court. Justice Hatch, writing the unanimous opinion of the court, said he failed to see how the regulation of shoeing horses has any tendency to promote the health, comfort, safety and welfare of society.
All the mills but two closed by the paper strike began nine weeks ago have resumed operations in part. The Howard mill at Menasha is the only one however, where union men will return, the others being manned with imported non-union help. Union men of the Fox river valley are still determined and declare the non-union men are not capable of turning out a profitable product.
It is said that if the members of the unions who are held responsible for the strike in the New York subway do not adjust matters promptly a general lockout may be ordered by the Building Trades' Employers' association, to be followed by an attempt to establish an open shop. If a general lockout is ordered between 25,000 and 30,000 men in greater New York will be affected.
Frank Buchanan of Chicago, president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, announced that he would retire in September, at the convention of the International union in Toronto, Ontario. "I intend to see that a good man, strong in his convictions but conservative in action, and above all honest, gets the presidency," he said. "I will run again myself unless such a man is proposed."
Although the report has been circulated that the temporary closing of the plants of the International Harvester company signifies at least a partial permanent shut down or removal, C. S. Funk, general manager of the company, declares that the works will be closed for two weeks only in order that a complete inventory of the stock may be made and improvements installed. The company in all its plants employs over 15,000 men.
The Cripple Creek district is again being ruled by civil authorities, although the order suspending martial law, is not met with great favor, as many fear that violence of a most aggravated form will quickly follow. In fact when the order was being prepared at the capital a meeting of citizens to protest against any chance was in session, and was abruptly adjourned when it was learned that it was too late for them to do anything.
Twenty-four negroes and one white man are at work on the bricklaying for the government on the war college at the Washington barracks. From present indications this part of the work will be finished exclusively by negro labor. Two weeks ago twenty-eight bricklayers struck and stopped work because George Taylor, a negro, was taken on the work. The union has practically given up the struggle in this particular case, and the strike is broken.
The forthcoming report of the United States geological survey will show that the United States exceeded all previous records in the production of coal in 1903. The total amount of the output of the coal mines of the country during that year was 359,421,311 tons, an increase of nearly 68,000,000 tons or 19 per cent over the preceding year. The value of the product of 1903 is given as 594,190,733, an increase in value of 38 per cent over the preceding year.
J. W. Johnson, international secretary-treasurer of the Bridge Workers' Union, reports that the recent vote for affiliation with the proposed Structural Building Trades' Alliance was 6,135, of which 3,527 were in favor of the affiliation and 2,608 against. He announces that the final vote will show the affiliation carried by a vote of four to one, because "many local unions took no action on this vital question, and as their failure to consider the same records their vote in the affirmative, the official vote will be announced later."
The engineers employed on the New York, New Haven and Hartford system are fighting an order reducing the rate of wages. These men are said to be the highest paid railroad engineers in the country, receiving $35 to $45 per week. The company has demanded that the men accept the standard rate of wages paid in the east. The committee from the Brotherhood of Engineers will visit President Mellin this week and will also protest against the changes in the time table, which dropped numerous trains and threw many engineers out of work.
Patrick McCarvel, one of the men who were deported over the Kansas line by the military early in June, returned to Victor, where he owns property, including a large hall and a business block valued at $25,000. When McCarvel stepped from the train he was taken in charge by Major H. A. Naylor, acting city marshal. McCarvel was allowed to attend to some business affairs, when he was placed on board the first outgoing train, with a warning that in future police protection would not be afforded him should he again return. McCarvel originally was deported for openly expressing sympathy with the miners' union and denouncing acts of Gov. Peabody and his military subordinates.

About Feeding of Panhandle Calves

Judge O. H. Nelson in the Chicago Daily Livestock World.

A reporter for the Banner-Stockman met O. H. Nelson in Amarillo last week and was informed by him that, representing other interests, he would be in the market again this fall for well-bred Panhandle calves and yearlings for the eastern corn belt. He is now advertising a sale of 2,000 head at Ft. Madison, Iowa, on Oct. 6.

A recent number of the Chicago Daily Livestock World contains the following article by Judge Nelson:

"Experience of corn belt feeders who have finished Panhandle calves and yearlings has been uniformly satisfactory. The business is in its initial stage as the future market of the north Texas breeder will be in the territory east of the Missouri river, instead of west of that stream. There are good reasons why these well-bred youngsters can be more profitably handled than aged stuff of inferior quality; but it must be done intelligently. In the first place they must be in good flesh when purchased. The calf taken from its dam at weaning time retains its milk fat and has never been stunted, consequently it is the most profitable animal for the feeder. These calves, taken in October and November, can be well wintered and put on full feed the following summer, going to market at 14 or 15 months old, weighing 800 to 1000 lbs., and score maximum results for the feeder.

"A fair feeder will take a 400-lb calf and in seven months double its weight. A good feeder will do better than that. A grown steer will consume at least half a bushel of corn each day on full feed; a calf seven months old will not eat more than a peck. An aged steer on which the feeder has placed 300 lbs added weight will have eaten double what the calf has to secure the same gain.

"Calf feeders are the only ones in the business during the past two years who have made a dollar.

"Last year 30,000 Panhandle calves, yearlings and two-year-olds were sent into feed lots east of the Missouri river. This year the number will be increased. Once the feeder makes a test with these cattle he becomes firmly wedded to the idea. When ready they are the stock that enjoys competition in Stock Yard circles. Heavy cattle, even if choice, are not always popular with buyers, but handy weight stuff, provided the necessary quality is there, always fills the bill. This week on the Chicago market, buyers have traversed the alleys with orders for fat yearlings they could not fill, simply because the stuff was not there.

"Of course, these Panhandle cattle, while good, are open to improvement. As the demand increases, they will be made better. Hereafter the crop will be dehorned and the heifers spayed. Hundreds of small ranchmen are going into north Texas and beginning breeding. They will get more for good calves in the future than the average yearling has brought in the past. The essence of all things is a better grade of cattle and they will be made better right along, a growing feed-lot demand being the inducement."

The same paper contained the following editorial, all going to show that Panhandle young stuff is receiving much attention from feeders in the east:

"That Panhandle calves can be handled profitably by corn belt feeders, is indicated by the urgent demand for fat yearling stuff in market circles.

"Anything fat and of good to choice quality in this line is now readily quotable at $5.50 to $6 per hundred. Supply is far below demand.

"Feeders who have handled heavy western cattle recently, have had unsatisfactory experience, but the young stuff has invariably paid out.

"This yearling proposition is an attractive one. Why not try it?"

Olympus Young received $18½ for his steer yearlings here Sunday.—Higgins News.

Henry Frass sent 160 head of fine yearling steers to K. C. Sunday. He refused an offer of $20.00.—Higgins News.

DO YOU NEED A MEDICINE?

IT COSTS YOU NOTHING TO INVESTIGATE.

There is no one who does not need a Liver Medicine occasionally. The symptoms of Liver Complaint are well known to every one, such as constipation, dyspepsia, loss of appetite, sleeplessness, headache, a tired feeling and many others of a similar nature. Thousands die annually by not heeding the warnings of nature. Many acquire some chronic disease from which they never recover. Many of these could be spared for years of usefulness, by keeping in the home some reliable remedy. We believe that we can convince any fair-minded person that there is no better remedy for the Liver known, than Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup. The formula is known, consisting of: Buchu, Hydrangea, Mandrake, Yellow Dock, Dandelion, Sarsaparilla, Gentian, Senna and Iodide of Potassium. You know just what you are taking. How many other formulas of a liver medicine are published? Ask your druggist about this. It is already prepared and can be taken immediately. The strength is extracted in the most skillful manner, certainly superior to any powdered preparation known. (We also manufacture a Liver Medicine in powdered form, with which any druggist can supply you, but this, like all other dry Liver Medicines requires preparation.) Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup is pleasant to take, does not lose its strength, as Liver Medicine in dry form, and will keep in any climate. Your doctor, however skillful, could prescribe nothing better. There is no opportunity for a doctor to make a mistake in writing a prescription, or a drug clerk to make a mistake in compounding the same, (besides a doctor's bill and the cost of the medicine.) You can be absolutely sure of the proper proportion being in every dose. Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup has been used with the greatest confidence and success in thousands of homes for 52 years, and is prepared by a pharmacist of 25 years' experience, in a laboratory equipped with the most modern appliances for the most perfect safety. If you do not understand your case, write today for a free sample bottle and Dr. Thacher's "Health Book." Give symptoms for advice. We simply ask that you try it at our expense. FARM MISCELLANY

Corn in British India.

The cultivation of Indian corn or maize has within the past century become a factor of great importance in the rural economy of British India. The Indian Agricultural Commission of June 1, 1904, says: "This grain, if we consider the whole of India collectively, is now of equal economic importance with wheat. In the hilly tracts of the country, especially, and among the bulk of the aboriginal tribes, it is chiefly depended upon as a means of subsistence. Yet the Indian Agricultural Commission reported it as being only a second crop in India, and only as a subsistence crop, but it is members on the continent of India as a staple food crop, as in the United States, and in other countries."

Habit and Feeds. Anyone that has had the feeding of fowls for a number of years will notice what creatures of habit they are. They become used to one kind of feed and want to stick to that feed, in preference to other feeds of the same general character. That is if the chicks are fed oats they will always prefer oats to other grain, and the same is true if they are brought up on corn. This does not hold good in the case of meat or green food being offered after they have been on a single grain diet for months. Their feeling of a lack in this respect overcomes their inclination to stick to one thing. This can be illustrated by keeping chicks for a number of weeks after they are born on some particular ration like cracked corn. They will then take that in preference to other things of the same general nature. The writer has had illustration of this again and again. Thus some men have declared that hens will not eat oats. The writer has always fed oats in large quantities to his fowls from the time they were old enough to eat grain. He once kept his fowls from oats for a few days, giving them corn instead. Then he took the corn away and gave the fowls a mixed ration of corn and oats. The birds made a lunge for the oats, pushing the corn aside with their bills and picking only the oats till they were satisfied.

Thickness of Cream at Churning Time. A well-known buttermaker says that the richer the cream the lower must be the temperature at which it must be churned to get the best results. It is not desirable to have the butter-fat comprise more than 30 per cent of the cream. Even cream of this richness should be churned at about 50 degrees, which is a very low point to secure this time of year. If this rich cream is churned at a higher point the body of the butter will not be what it should be. The housewife is not likely, however, to have cream of this kind unless the milk is from cows whose cream forms a very compact mass. Cows differ greatly in this respect. The cream layer on the milk of some animals is so compact and cohesive that when it is removed from the milk it hangs together much like a piece of leather. Other milk yields a layer of cream that breaks to pieces readily. This milk will not churn quickly. In fact we have known the first described cream to form butter after being churned for two minutes in a common dash churn. It is considered best, however, to dilute such cream, as it is not believed that butter churned in two minutes has as good qualities as that requiring twenty minutes or thereabout to churn.

Horses of the World. Not all the nations of the world are enough civilized to have statistics of their horses. In Arabia, Tartary, China and other parts of Asia are multitudes of horses, which have never been numbered. The horse statistics of the leading countries of the world are as follows: Algeria 204,761; Argentina 4,446,859; Austria 1,711,077; Belgium 241,553; Bulgaria 343,940; Denmark 449,264; France 2,908,063; Germany 4,184,009; Great Britain 2,011,657; Holland 284,000; Hungary 2,308,457; Italy 741,739; Japan 1,587,891; Norway 150,898; Roumania 864,746; European Russia 19,681,169; Poland 1,383,908; Caucasia 1,020,550; Serbia 180,871; Spain 397,172; Switzerland 124,896; Sweden 625,256; United States 19,285,461; Uruguay 561,408.

There are few farms that cannot be improved by drainage.

POULTRY

A good deal of experimenting will have to be done before the question of yarding fowls is settled. With the small flock on the farm the problem is not a hard one, but with the large flock the problems increase both in size and number. If a man have several hundred hens shall he let them all lay in the run of the farm; shall he confine them in one yard; or in several? The man with a good many fowls will hardly care to let them have the run of the farm. With a large flock of fowls, and he will probably want to confine only while they are laying, and then let them have the run of the farm. The man who has got to confine his fowls may be turned to good account by the use of some of the methods when they are confined. As to other systems of yarding fowls, the writer has had some experience. He has had a flock of 200 fowls in a yard, and he has had a flock of 200 fowls in a yard, and he has had a flock of 200 fowls in a yard.

They are beautiful in form and feather and breed true to shape and color. The female is lighter in her markings than the male. The weight of the males runs from 20 to 30 pounds and of the females 12 to 18 pounds.

An Incubation Experiment. In the incubation experiments, 8,677 eggs from various sources have been set in the incubators. Of these, 7,205, or 83 per cent, were fertile. Three thousand three hundred and forty-eight, or 46 per cent, of the fertile eggs were hatched. This was 38.6 per cent of the total number. The efficiency of hatching under various conditions ranged from 0 per cent to 84 per cent. These experiments were planned in the direction of testing the efficiency of the machines and the influence of moisture and room temperature upon the hatch.—Rhode Island Station.

IRRIGATION IN THE PANHANDLE

Dawson Makes Another Trip to That Section to Investigate Available Water Supply.

J. H. Dawson of this city left Monday for a second trip to the Panhandle country in connection with the irrigation project for that section. Dawson is in the Panhandle section of the state.

The first trip was made to about Childress and the project is to be investigated. It is rumored unofficially that the Denver Road, which has been talked of for a long time, will be built in the Panhandle section of the state. Dawson is interested in the present experiments. Dawson is in the section of the state where the irrigation project is being carried out. Dawson is in the section of the state where the irrigation project is being carried out.

Abscess.

W. H. Harrison, Cleveland, Miss., writes, Aug. 15, 1904: "I want to say a word of praise for Ballard's Snow Liniment. I stepped on a nail, which caused the cords in my leg to contract and an abscess to rise in my knee, and the doctor told me that I would have a stiff leg so one day I went to J. F. Lord's drugstore (who is now in Denver, Colo.) He recommended a bottle of Snow Liniment; I got a 50c size, and it cured my leg. It is the best liniment in the world. ABSCESSES, with few exceptions, are indicative of constipation or debility. They may, however, result from blows or from foreign bodies, introduced into the skin or flesh, such as splinters, thorns, etc. Sold by H. D. Ramsey.

Things look pretty bright just now for the farmer with a good crop of feed. The Martin-Bennett Co. are advertising to buy all that may be offered them, at market prices. The mill and gin people are also advertising that they will grind feed on a "toll" basis, thus saving the farmer the necessity of digging up the cash for grinding. We understand that several parties will be in the market for feed for cash, and the farmers will likely have no trouble in disposing of their crop as soon as it is ready for sale.

Of interest to Farmers.
