While here this week A. E. Harp sold 125 head of stock cattle to Jim Deverly at private terms, delivery to be made at Mr. Harp's pasture in Hale county.—Amarillo Herald.

R. N. Mounts on last Saturday sold to Rhea Bros. 375 twos and threes on private terms, same to be delivered at the latter's ranch near Bovina.—The Hereford Brand.

A herd of ticky cattle was held up in Childress county last week. The herd belonged to J. B. Sneed who was driving them to Donley county. Needless to say Donley county is glad they failed to reach here.

A Brand representative had a short conversation with Ira Aten the first of the week as he was making preparations to go to his division of XIT, in which Mr. Aten stated that they would this week begin the arduous task of branding about 7000 calves, this year's crop on the Escarbada division. This seems and is a very large number of calves, but is small as compared with that produced by entire ranch which includes the greater part of several counties.—The Hereford Brand.

While rounding up cattle in the Jefferies pasture Wednesday D. L. McClellan, T. M. Pyle and Al Barton were quite severely shocked by a stroke of lightning. They all report the feeling of having been struck on the head with a heavy maul, and for a minute or so were badly dazed. It is said Pyle struck out immediately for town to pay up the preacher.

Saturday afternoon 17 cattlemen, living in the central part of the county, met at the office of Murchison and Thompson and decided to meet again Monday morning and clean out the Ward vat located 12 miles northwest of town, their purpose being to dip their cattle to prevent the spread of mange. Those who do not belong to the association will be charged 10 cents for dipping twice. The dip will be made of lime and sulphur and furnished by the association.—The Hereford Brand.

Inherited a Fortune.

Ivy Garrett, son of Mrs. Harry Lipsey, formerly of this city, and a notice of whose marriage to Miss Esther Waggener was printed last week, returned Saturday from Greenville where he had been on business connected with the settlement of his father's estate. Ivy's share of the estate, which is now in his own name and right, amounts to about $17,000. It was all in property, and he has disposed of enough of same to give him about $5000 in cash, while he still owns a business block in Greenville valued at $9000.

L. F. Gregory and family returned this week from a prospecting trip through Colorado, Arizona and Montana. L. F. says he saw no country which looks as good to him as Donley county.

Public School Notes.

Things have been put in motion this week about the public school building preparatory to the opening of school on September 5. The walls and ceilings of the various rooms in the building are being swept down, the building in general is being cleaned up and all necessary repairs are being made for the opening of school.

The prospects for the coming term indicate that it will be one of the most successful in the history of the school.

The faculty for the coming term is thought by those competent to judge, to be one of the strongest that has ever been employed here. The teachers are men and women of experience, but young vigorous and full of ambition to succeed. Nearly all of them have had professional training. Both the State Normal school and the University have contributed their share in preparing the faculty for teaching. With two or three exceptions, every teacher holds a permanent certificate. With these facts in view it would seem that the success of the public school is assured.

The discipline of the public school in the past has been such as to merit the praise of the patrons generally. The restrictions and privileges have been so administered as to develop the moral and mental natures of the child.

The system of grades in the preparation of the course of study appeals to every intelligent parent. For immature young people no other system equals it in efficiency and completeness. Pupils in the public school are classified in grades according to their qualifications. Records of each year's work are carefully kept, and old pupils upon entering school in the fall are classified accordingly, unless pupils by examination can show that they have made progress in their studies during vacation.

The usual number, eight teachers, have been employed by the board of trustees for the coming term, although the scholastic census is somewhat smaller than last year. This would seem to remove the probability of the crowded condition that has nearly always heretofore existed in some of the departments, and give an opportunity for more thorough and individual teaching than has been done heretofore.

WORLD'S FAIR FAR BEYOND EXPECTATIONS

Verdict of a New York Writer Who Spent a Week at the Exposition at St. Louis in July.

The World's Fair at St. Louis is now in the midst of its splendid season. Colossal, complete, cosmopolitan, it commands the attention of the world as no other enterprise of the present year. From all nations there are pilgrims coming to this shrine, and from all our states and territories there is a constantly growing throng of visitors. United States Senators, Governors of States, men eminent in science, art and letters—all express unqualified admiration for the Exposition and free acquiescence in the oft-repeated statement that this is by far the greatest and best universal exposition ever held.

During July a well-known magazine and newspaper writer from New York, Mr. Addison Steele, spent a week at the World's Fair, inspecting the grounds, buildings and various attractions as thoroughly as was possible in that limited period. Returning home, Mr. Steele published in Brooklyn Life the following appreciative comments on the Exposition:

In the expressive language of the day, St. Louis "has the goods." I had expected much of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, for I had kept in touch with the making of it from its very inception, five years ago; but after nearly a week of journeying through this new wonderland I must confess that in every essential particular it is far beyond my expectations. The biggest and best it was meant to be and the biggest and best ent parts do justice to their nobility of architecture and general grandeur. Then again in the ground plans and bird's-eye sketches—the only possible manner of showing it—the fan-shaped arrangement of this group looked stiff and unsatisfying. Far from that, it is quite as remarkable in its way as the famous Court of Honor of the Columbian Exposition. In one respect it is even more notable, for instead of two grand vistas it offers a dozen. The main vista is, of course, the one looking up the Plaza of St. Louis—whose crowning feature is the great Louisiana Purchase Monument—and across the Grand Basin to the Cascade Gardens. On the right are the Varied Industries and Electricity buildings and on the left Manufacturers and Education, these—with Transportation and Machinery still further to the right and Liberal Arts and Mines beyond at the left—making up the body of the fair. For its handle the fan has the Cascade Gardens—rising in a grand terrace to a height of sixty-five feet above the floor level of the buildings mentioned and crowned by the great Festival Hall, the Terrace of States and the East and West Pavilions—and the Fine Arts building directly behind.

The Pike has in the Tyrolean Alps the finest concession that I have ever seen. There is a great square with many quaint buildings, a little village street, and above the snow-clad mountains—which look very real as the infinite variety, and as a rule the full money's worth is given. The enormous Jerusalem and Beer War concessions are not on the Pike.

It is a case of dine at the German Pavilion and die at the exposition. In a beautiful Moderne Kunst building adjoining Das Deutsche Haus the best food and the highest prices on the grounds are to be found, the table d'hote lunch and dinner costing two and three dollars, respectively. There is also a la carte service. Everything considered, the prices are not excessive, and at least one meal should be taken there for the experience. Another should be taken at the Tyrolean Alps, either outdoors or in the gorgeous dining-room in the mountain-side. The best French restaurant is at Paris, on the Pike. Lower in prices and in every way admirable are the two restaurants conducted by Mrs. Rorer in the pavilions of Cascade Gardens. The east one has waitresses and no beer and the west one waiters and beer. For a bit of lunch Germany, France and England all offer delicious pastry in the Agricultural building. These are not free ads, but time-saving tips for the traveler. There are no end of restaurants to fit all purses on the grounds. I tried nine of them and nowhere found the prices more than they ought to be. As a matter of fact, for neither food nor lodging no one need pay any more at St. Louis than he feels that he can it is. The exposition, rumors notwithstanding, is quite finished.

One of the greatest, and certainly one of the most agreeable, of my many surprises was the extreme beauty of the main group of buildings. For the simple reason that the camera does not exist which could take in the vast picture as the eye sees it, the early views of the group—a bit here and a bit there—gave a scant idea of the scheme as a whole. Nor did the early views of the ten individual buildings which make up its composition.

HAS FAD FOR PHOTOGRAPHS. Thousands of Negatives Made For Millionaire August Belmont.

Among rich Americans perhaps none is so fond of being photographed as August Belmont, James R. Keene being a close second. One New York photographer, whose patrons are mostly wealthy men, has made thousands of negatives for Mr. Belmont in the last few years. One of the largest single orders for prints from old negatives ever received by this photographer came from Mr. Belmont himself soon after the death of his wife. It included a good print from every negative in which Mrs. Belmont appeared. The photographer never guessed how many photographs he had taken for Belmont till then; he found that they numbered nearly a thousand.

Why Birds Live Long. Why do birds live so much longer than mammals, which are often a hundred times their size? Possibly, among other things, because they have beaks of teeth. All carnivorous animals become weak and liable to suffer their teeth drop out or are better case. Old mammals, which are starved.

Church and School for Indians. Mother Katherine Drexel of Philadelphia, founder and head of the Order of the Blessed Sacrament, composed of nuns who devote their lives to the uplifting of the Indian and neophytes has offered $500,000 of her own money to build a school for the Indians in the Nebraska reservation. The school that the Indians will be able to attend.

evening falls. The best scenic railroad yet devised affords several fine glimpses of the Alps and there is a very graphic exposition of the Oberammergau passion play in the little church. The Cliff Dwellers' concession also looks very realistic at nightfall. It is elaborate in arrangement and the courting, snake and other dances by the Southwestern Indians make it another of the Pike shows which should be taken in by all. In Seville there is an amusing marionette theater and some genuine Spanish dancing. For the rest the Pike offers afford, and yet be well fed and housed, if he will use ordinary common sense in making a selection out of the abundance offered.

Hot? Yes, but on the two hottest days of the summer at St. Louis I suffered no more from the heat than in New York before leaving and after returning. Every day of the seven there was a breeze at the fair grounds and it was always possible to find a shady spot. The nights were cool and comfortable.

ADDISON STEELE.

SET THEM ON EACH OTHER. Belligerent Callers Fooled by Quick-Witted Newspaper Man.

Representative Brownlow of Tennessee tells that once he was running a country paper during campaign times and was printing "fighting" language every week. One day, just after the paper was out, a big man, armed with a club, walked into the sanctum and fiercely inquired if the editor was in. The frightened Brownlow had wit enough to answer that he was not, but that he would go out and hunt him up. He started for the street and at the foot of the stairs met another irate fellow, who asked: "Will I find the editor of this dirty sheet upstairs?" "Yes," said Brownlow, "he's up there at his desk just itching for a fight." The second man went up and Brownlow disappeared. Which whipped the other is not related—and Brownlow didn't go back during the day to find out.

Ancient Phases Corrupted. Ancient Picts in England were called by the Celtic word "pehta" or fighters. This was Latinized into Picti. So, too, Barbary of the ancient maps is a monument to the miscalling of the Berber tribe by the Greek word signifying "barbarian." Even the legend of the victory of Guy of Warwick over the dun cow is assailed by ruthless etymologists, who insist upon its derivation from his conquest over the "Dena gau," or Danish settlement, at the champion's gates. The Celtic words "alt maen" are responsible for many "old man" crags upon sea coasts and among mountains. They mean, however, "high rock."

Ready to Shoot. The other day seven-year-old Clarence was seen climbing through the skylight with his father's shotgun clutched in his chubby fist. "Clearance, come here, sir!" shrieked the nurse. "Where are you going with that gun?" "You leave me alone," said the youngster. "I'm after that stork what brought the baby to Tommy Brown's 'cause we don't want one of them bawling kids around here."—Brooklyn Life.

Mr. Squirtz—Good morning, Mr. Potts. Will 'ee come and 'ave a drink? Mr. Potts—Well—hic—ash a marrer fac'—I've—hic—'ed one already.

An Ambition. "So," remarked the sultan of Morocco, "that bandit wants to run the government!" "Yes," was the answer. "He says he's tired of being dishonest. Besides, he thinks he can make graft pay better than brigandage."

Would Show No Mercy. Hogan (calling on next door neighbor)—I suppose ye've heard th' illigant, classical music that's bin imyatin' from me residence for th' pasht wake or so? We got wan av thim mechanical pianny-players on thrille. Clancy (fiercely)—On thrille, it is! Glory be! I only wish I wor the judge!—Puck.

Sauce. "The impudence of that young brother of mine!" exclaimed Mrs. Nagget. "He just told me I was no chicken when I married you."

"Well," replied her unsympathetic husband, "that's true enough. You weren't a chicken, were you?" "No, I was a goose."

Disgracing Herself. Mrs. Smartset—"For mercy's sake, don't let me hear you talk about books in society again!" Cultured Daughter—"Dear me! Why not?" Mrs. Smartset—"Strangers will think you have been a cash girl in a book store."—New York Weekly.

No Children Permitted. She was tired and vexed. She had been wandering about all the morning looking for an apartment suite. "I know why they turned Adam and Eve out of Eden," she said. "Why?" "Because they had a rule that barred out children and dogs."

His Hard Fate. A man in a top hat and a woman in a dress are standing together. The man is looking at the woman with a serious expression.

"Yes'm, I wuz drove away from home when a mere child by the heartless cruelty of me stepmother."

"Poor fellow! What did she do?" "She insisted on givin' me a bath every Saturday night."

Usual Way. Newpope—"Our baby is awfully fond of me." Neighbors—"Oh, of course." Newpope—"Fact, why, the little beggar sleeps all day while I am downtown and stays awake all night for the sole purpose of enjoying my society."

In a Peck of Trouble. Paterson Pete—I dreamt last night dat I had a million dollars. Stacked Oates—Did yer enjoy it? Paterson Pete—Nit! I wuz sued fer breach up promise, operated on fer appendicitis an' mentioned fer de vice presidency fore I'd even got it counted.—Judge.

They Were Kind to Him. The Mosquito—Do you see that tired lookin' ham on the front steps? Well, I heard him say he was hungry, and so I went over and gave him a bite.

The June Bug—And I heard him say he was thirsty and so I went over and gave him a nip.

Unavoidable Inference. "Poor Jim! He dassen't call his soul his own any more!" "What? I didn't know that poor old Jim was married."—New York Sun.

Coin Spots in Silk.
The large coin spots maintain all of their recent vogue in Paris, and most of the new silks show them in some size or design. A smart little gown shows the palest of sea-green foulards with a large coin spot in a bluish violet, this surrounded with a ring of fainter color. The blouse is of ficelle lace, cleverly strapped in bolero fashion with the silk cut to shaped bands, the long shoulder effect attained in a capelike section extending well over the curve of the arm. The sleeve is en suite with the bolero blouse, and the skirt is gauged over cords in hip-yoke design, the cords appearing again half way above the knee. At knee depth a full circular flounce is set on beneath a heading of narrow ruffles, and a further ruffle is set on with gauged cordings and left to flare free above the hem.

Coffee Frappe Delicious.
Make a quart of strong coffee in a French coffee pot, and pour it in a bowl to cool; sweeten it palatably, and when quite cool add half a pint of cream; then put it in a patent freezer and let it freeze quite soft. Take as many oranges as are required to hold the frapped coffee; cut small slices from the stem of each orange, and with a small spoon, or scoop with a long handle, scoop out all the pulp and juice from the orange. When the pulp is taken from all fill the oranges with the frapped coffee, put up a small mound of whipped cream on top of each, and serve on small china or glass plates.

Gloves Without Buttons.
Any kind of a glove is uncomfortable in hot weather, and especially when one can almost cut the warm stickiness with a dull knife. But the average woman would be willing to undergo any amount of discomfort for the sake of the newest glove sent over from Paris. It is made of suede, exquisite in quality and shade, and has a short gauntlet embroidered in silk and gold.

The best selling shades are the palest, pinkish grays and lilac and the tans that are almost a deep cream. These gloves are fastened with a single button which would put to shame some real pearls.

White Voile Very Popular.
Many beautiful gowns made of soft white voile are shown by leading modistes. These are trimmed with lace and ornamented with sashes, bows and streamers of white taffeta, bright pompadour or Dresden ribbon. Nothing is prettier than these gowns for afternoon and evening wear for young girls, young matrons and even elderly women, for a woman with white hair is exceedingly attractive in a gown of soft white material, with the softening effect of billowing lace about her throat and hands.

Embroidered Girdles.
Paris sends word that the embroidered linen girdle is the correct thing for wear with tailor-made linen gowns. It certainly has one advantage over the kid belt—it can be sent to the tub and come out as good as new, while the kid belt has to be dry cleaned.
The daintiest of these girdles has clover leaves and blooms wrought in white or forget-me-nots in their natural color. Large brass buckles are used on all wash belts and are easily removed.

White Linen Embroidered.
Yoke waists made of linen embroidered in openwork, or eyelet, style are much worn and always are handsome. This very stylish model is peculiarly well adapted to the treatment, as it includes a central box plait and shaped cuffs, both of which are eminently effective, and is closed invisibly. When liked, however, the yoke and the box plait at the back, which is applied, can be omitted and the model used for a plainer waist. Also the back can either be made to blouse or drawn down snugly as liked. To make the waist for a woman of medium size will be required 5 1/2 yards 21, 4 3/4 yards 27 or 2 3/4 yards 44 inches wide.

For a Sickroom.
Take a full handful each of worm-wood, sage, lavender, rue, rosemary and milt and place in a stone crock, pouring over the mixture a gallon of good elder vinegar. After this has been kept tightly covered and in a warm place near the fire for four days, strain and add to it an ounce of powdered camphor gum. This should be kept in a well-corked bottle, and when needed will impart a most refreshing aroma to a close room, and is also excellent to use on the face and hands before going near an infectious disease.

Misses' Box Coat.
Loose coats in box style, make the smartest of all the season's wraps for young girls and are exceedingly fashionable in silk, pongee and linen as well as cloth. This one shows the chevrons that every girl likes to wear and includes wide full sleeves that mean comfort as well as style. The model is made of white linen and matches the skirt, but it is suited to the general wrap also and to all the materials mentioned. When liked the collar can be omitted and the coat simply faced and stitched.

The coat is made with fronts and back and is fitted by means of shoulder and under-arm seams only. Pockets are inserted in the fronts and finished with over-laps and the collar, when used, is joined to the neck. The sleeves are full ones cut in one piece each and finished with roll-over flare cuffs. The closing is made with buttons and buttonholes in double-breasted style.

Rose-Flavored Butter.
The first step to flavor fresh unsalted butter with rose, is by packing in a close vessel surrounded by a thick layer of rose leaves over night. Wrap the butter in a thin piece of cheesecloth. While the American Beauties are the most fragrant, other roses will answer. Shortly before serving cut tender white bread in strips or circles, spread with the flavored butter and place one or two petals between the slices, allowing the edges to show.

Washing Chamolais Gloves.
Make a lather of castile soap—or of any fine, white soap. Put the gloves on and proceed as if you were washing your hands. When the gloves are clean, take them off and rinse them thoroughly in tepid water. Hang them out in the sun to dry. But while they are damp remove them from the line. Put them on your hands and let them dry. When you take them off, pull gently into shape, just as you treat a new glove.

Useful Kitchen Utensils.
A wire salad basket is a very useful piece of kitchen furniture. It is a kettle-shaped basket with a small neck and a ball handle. After thoroughly washing the salad it is put in the basket and shaken until every drop of water has been shaken off. Then basket and all is put near the ice to crisp the leaves. Oil will not cling to wet lettuce and unless the leaves are well coated with oil the dressing is a failure.

Finish of Sash and Bow.
Wide ribbons are no longer wound carefully about the waist and tied in bow knots. The fitting and boning and shaping of the girdle is an important item for even the simplest summer frock. Girdles are more often deep in the front and low in the back than otherwise.

The Smart Hand Purse.
The smart hand purse of the hour looks like a large envelope, flaps and all, and comes in champagne colored kid. It has two pockets, one for bills, another for cards, but no change pocket.

Novel Table Favors.
Little automobiles made of paper are among the most recent table favors. With these go small dinner cards representing the goggles worn by the enthusiastic chauffeurs to protect the eyes.

Meat Salad.
Cold meat, chopped fine, covered with mayonnaise dressing and decorated rings of hard-boiled eggs and parsley, makes a delicious supper salad when laid on nice, crisp lettuce leaves.

LIVE STOCK

In Pasturing Rape.
The time is here when the sheep will be turned into the new rape pasture. In this connection a few things should be remembered. One of them is that rape should not be the only kind of feed given to any kind of stock for several reasons. In the first place it is very succulent, and it would be difficult for a sheep to eat enough of rape to keep it in the best of condition, even if there was not a danger of bloating, which there is. In all cases there should be access to the rape and to pasturage at the same time. The sheep should not be turned into the rape all at once, but should be allowed to eat it for only half an hour the first time, then an hour, and then the time may be gradually increased from day to day. When they have become accustomed to it, there is little danger that they will be injured by it, provided they have access to other pasturage or other feed. On the first day the sheep are allowed access to the rape pasture, they should receive a full feed in the barn or shed or feed lot, so they will eat but lightly of the succulent rape of which they will show themselves at once very fond. Rape should never be pastured very close. If the sheep are made to depend on it too much they will eat it down to the ground, and its recovery will be slow, even under good conditions of moisture. If, however, the feeding is so regulated that the sheep will only eat off the tops and will leave most of the stumps and some of the leaf stems the plant will continue to grow and develop while it is being pastured. This is one thing greatly in favor of the rape plant. When properly handled it is an enormous producer of valuable pasturage. The man that has had rape for a number of years will need no advice in this regard, but many new men are now beginning to grow rape and to feed it extensively to sheep as well as to other farm stock.

The Balanced Ration.
A large plantation owner of Louisiana, in an address delivered before the Louisiana Live Stock Breeders' association, said: "The money saving of scientific feeding is so great as to scarcely be believed, unless it is brought to our own doors. The Paris Omnibus Company, which works 10,000 horses, and which formerly fed its stock solely on oats, found a saving of $9.26 per head a year by the partial substitution of corn for oats. On our plantations in Assumption it was only in August last that we began to look seriously into the feeding of a balanced ration, and our feed bill for the year, for 240 head of stock, amounted to an excess of $10,000. This year we are following to the letter a balanced ration, and by adding to our corn molasses and cotton-seed meal, we will have sufficient of the former to feed to last until our new crop is harvested. This will be with an expense of less than $2,500 for the purchase of meal and molasses. Formerly we used to feed as high as 18 pounds of oats per day per mule, that is, when we were out of corn, which, without figuring the cost of the hay given, in quantities of as much as the mules would eat, brought our cost of feed to 25c per head with oats, at the present market value of 44c per bushel. Our present feed consists of eight pounds of corn and cob meal, two pounds of cotton-seed meal, eleven pounds of molasses and 15 pounds of peavine hay, which figures out quite near to a balanced ration with a nutritive ratio of 1 to 6, at a cost of 14.5 cents per head, allowing 5c per gallon for the molasses and $6 per ton for the peavine hay. Thus you can readily see that our feed is costing us at present about one-half as much as it did formerly.

Buying the Ram.
The earlier the ram is selected the more certain the buyer is to get what he is looking after. A good many farmers buy rams in the fall, but wait till late before doing so. They seldom take into consideration the numerous delays that are likely to intervene before the ram is actually purchased and located on the farm. If the buyers wait till late his order is sure to get to the breeder at a time when the latter has other such orders to fill. If the breeder has more orders than he can fill he has to decline to fill the order and the buyer has to seek another breeder. The second breeder may be sold out as was the first and the buyer has to try again. All this time the weeks are slipping away. Then there are delays in shipping, which can never be foreseen. So it is altogether the part of wisdom for the buyer to take steps to secure his ram as soon as possible.

That oats make a better feed for the horse than corn, especially in spring, is generally conceded. The corn has an overbalance of heat forming material, which gives him a great surplus of fuel to be changed into energy. But there must be muscle on which to exercise the energy or it cannot be used. Corn produces too little muscle. With oats the balance is more nearly equal and the energy and the muscle on which to exercise the energy are in about the proper proportions. For this reason the farmer is able to get more work out of ten pounds of oats than out of ten pounds of corn.

When a man loses his temper he sure there is ample reason for it.

WORLD'S FAIR FAR BEYOND EXPECTATIONS

Verdict of a New York Writer Who Spent a Week at the Exposition at St. Louis in July.

The World's Fair at St. Louis is now in the midst of its splendid season. Colossal, complete, cosmopolitan, it commands the attention of the world as no other enterprise of the present year. From all nations there are pilgrims coming to this shrine, and from all our states and territories there is a constantly growing throng of visitors. United States Senators, Governors of States, men eminent in science, art and letters—all express unqualified admiration for the Exposition and free acquiescence in the oft-repeated statement that this is by far the greatest and best universal exposition ever held.

During July a well-known magazine and newspaper writer from New York, Mr. Addison Steele, spent a week at the World's Fair, inspecting the grounds, buildings and various attractions as thoroughly as was possible in that limited period. Returning home, Mr. Steele published in Brooklyn Life the following appreciative comments on the Exposition:

In the expressive language of the day, St. Louis "has the goods." I had expected much of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, for I had kept in touch with the making of it from its very inception, five years ago; but after nearly a week of journeying through this new wonderland I must confess that in every essential particular it is far beyond my expectations. The biggest and best it was meant to be and the biggest and best ent parts do justice to their nobility of architecture and general grandeur. Then again in the ground plans and bird's-eye sketches—the only possible manner of showing it—the fan-shaped arrangement of this group looked stiff and unsatisfying. Far from that, it is quite as remarkable in its way as the famous Court of Honor of the Columbian Exposition. In one respect it is even more notable, for instead of two grand vistas it offers a dozen. The main vista is, of course, the one looking up the Plaza of St. Louis—whose crowning feature is the great Louisiana Purchase Monument—and across the Grand Basin to the Cascade Gardens. On the right are the Varied Industries and Electricity buildings and on the left Manufacturers and Education, these—with Transportation and Machinery still further to the right and Liberal Arts and Mines beyond at the left—making up the body of the fair. For its handle the fan has the Cascade Gardens—rising in a grand terrace to a height of sixty-five feet above the floor level of the buildings mentioned and crowned by the great Festival Hall, the Terrace of States and the East and West Pavilions—and the Fine Arts building directly behind.

The Pike has in the Tyrolean Alps the finest concession that I have ever seen. There is a great square with many quaint buildings, a little village street, and above the snow-clad mountains—which look very real as the infinite variety, and as a rule the full money's worth is given. The enormous Jerusalem and Boer War concessions are not on the Pike.

It is a case of dine at the German Pavilion and die at the exposition. In a beautiful Moderne Kunst building adjoining Das Deutsche Haus the best food and the highest prices on the grounds are to be found, the table d'hôte lunch and dinner costing two and three dollars, respectively. There is also a la carte service. Everything considered, the prices are not excessive, and at least one meal should be taken there for the experience. Another should be taken at the Tyrolean Alps, either outdoors or in the gorgeous dining-room in the mountain-side. The best French restaurant is at Paris, on the Pike. Lower in prices and in every way admirable are the two restaurants conducted by Mrs. Rorer in the pavilions of Cascade Gardens. The east one has waitresses and no beer and the west one waiters and beer. For a bit of lunch Germany, France and England all offer delicious pastry in the Agricultural building. These are not free ads, but time-saving tips for the traveler. There are no end of restaurants to fit all purses on the grounds. I tried nine of them and nowhere found the prices more than they ought to be. As a matter of fact, for neither food nor lodging no one need pay any more at St. Louis than he feels that he can it is. The exposition, rumors notwithstanding, is quite finished.

One of the greatest, and certainly one of the most agreeable, of my many surprises was the extreme beauty of the main group of buildings. For the simple reason that the camera does not exist which could take in the vast picture as the eye sees it, the early views of the group—a bit here and a bit there—gave a scant idea of the scheme as a whole. Nor did the early views of the ten individual buildings which make up its composition evening falls. The best scenic railroad yet devised affords several fine glimpses of the Alps and there is a very graphic exposition of the Oberammergau passion play in the little church. The Cliff Dwellers' concession also looks very realistic at nightfall. It is elaborate in arrangement and the courting, snake and other dances by the Southwestern Indians make it another of the Pike shows which should be taken in by all. In Seville there is an amusing marionette theater and some genuine Spanish dancing. For the rest the Pike offers

Hot? Yes, but on the two hottest days of the summer at St. Louis I suffered no more from the heat than in New York before leaving and after returning. Every day of the seven there was a breeze at the fair grounds and it was always possible to find a shady spot. The nights were cool and comfortable.

Thousands of Negatives Made For Millionaire August Belmont.

Among rich Americans perhaps none is so fond of being photographed as August Belmont, James R. Keene being a close second. One New York photographer, whose patrons are mostly wealthy men, has made thousands of negatives for Mr. Belmont in the last few years. One of the largest single orders for prints from old negatives ever received by this photographer came from Mr. Belmont himself soon after the death of his wife. It included a good print from every negative in which Mrs. Belmont appeared. The photographer never guessed how many photographs he had taken for Belmont till then; he found that they numbered nearly a thousand.

Why Birds Live Long.

Why do birds live so much longer than mammals, which are often a hundred times their size? Possibly, among other things, because they have beaks instead of teeth. All carnivorous beasts become weak and liable to starvation, as their teeth drop out or break. Neither are the herbivorous animals in much better case. Old horses would probably die of starvation if wild, for their teeth would fall them; indeed, in some stony countries old horses have to be killed because their teeth are worn away by cropping grass close to the rock. Rodents constantly die from injuries to teeth. But a bird's beak neither wears out nor drops off, and as it constantly swallows fresh grit to aid in grinding food in the gizzard that needs no repairing either.

How the Waiter Lost a Tip.

At one of the Kansas City hotels where the colored waiters give especially good service, but always expect adequate remuneration for the same from the guests, a waiter was especially officious the other day in serving a man from whom he expected a liberal tip. When the meal had been served and he was standing off at one side, eagerly looking for an opportunity to be of service, he said to the guest: "Didn't yo' have a brothah heah last week, sah?" "No," said the one addressed, "I be-neve not." "Well," continued the waiter, "theh was a gem'man heah at mah table what looked vey much like you, and he was so vey pleased with the service that he gave me 50 cents when he left." The guest had by this time finished his meal, and as he arose he said to the expectant servant: "Come to think of it, Sam, that was my brother that was here, and I guess he paid you for the whole family. He may be back again in a week or two."—Kansas City Journal.

SET THEM ON EACH OTHER.

Belligerent Callers Fooled by Quick Witted Newspaper Man.

Representative Brownlow of Tennessee tells that once he was running a country paper during campaign times and was printing "fighting" language every week. One day, just after the paper was out, a big man, armed with a club, walked into the sanjuncm and fiercely inquired if the editor was in. The frightened Brownlow had wit enough to answer that he was not, but that he would go out and hunt him up. He started for the street and at the foot of the stairs met another irate fellow, who asked: "Will I find the editor of this dirty sheet upstairs?" "Yes," said Brownlow, "he's up there at his desk just itching for a fight." The second man went up and Brownlow disappeared. Which whipped the other is not related—and Brownlow didn't go back during the day to find out.

Ancient Phases Corrupted.

Ancient Picts in England were called by the Celtic word "pehta" or fighters. This was Latinized into Picti. So, too, Barbary of the ancient maps is a monument to the miscalling of the Berber tribe by the Greek word signifying "barbarian." Even the legend of the victory of Guy of Warwick over the dun cow is assailed by ruthless etymologists, who insist upon its derivation from his conquest over the "Dena gau," or Danish settlement, at the champion's gates. The Celtic words "la maen" are responsible for many "old man" crags upon sea coasts and among mountains. They mean, however, "high rock."

Coin Spots in Silk.

The large coin spots maintain all of their recent vogue in Paris, and most of the new silks show them in some size or design. A smart little gown shows the palest of sea-green foulards with a large coin spot in a bluish violet, this surrounded with a ring of fainter color. The blouse is of belle lace, cleverly strapped in bolero fashion with the silk cut to shaped bands, the long shoulder effect attained in a capelike section extending well over the curve of the arm. The sleeve is en suite with the bolero blouse, and the skirt is gauged over cords in hip-yoke design, the cords appearing again half way above the knee. At knee depth a full circular flounce is set on beneath a heading of narrow ruffles, and a further ruffle is set on with gauged cordings and left to flare free above the hem.

Coffee Frappe Delicious.

Make a quart of strong coffee in a French coffee pot, and pour it in a bowl to cool; sweeten it palatably, and when quite cool add half a pint of cream; then put it in a patent freezer and let it freeze quite soft. Take as many oranges as are required to hold the frapped coffee; cut small slices from the stem of each orange, and with a small spoon, or scoop with a long handle, scoop out all the pulp and juice from the orange. When the pulp is taken from all fill the oranges with the frapped coffee, put up a small mound of whipped cream on top of each, and serve on small china or glass plates.

Gloves Without Buttons.

Any kind of a glove is uncomfortable in hot weather, and especially when one can almost cut the warm stickiness with a dull knife. But the average woman would be willing to undergo any amount of discomfort for the sake of the newest glove sent over from Paris. It is made of suede, exquisite in quality and shade, and has a short gauntlet embroidered in silk and gold. The best selling shades are the palest, pinkish grays and lilac and the tans that are almost a deep cream. These gloves are fastened with a single button which would put to shame some real pearls.

White Voile Very Popular.

Many beautiful gowns made of soft white voile are shown by leading modistes. These are trimmed with lace and ornamented with sashes, bows and streamers of white taffeta, bright pompadour or Dresden ribbon. Nothing is prettier than these gowns for afternoon and evening wear for young girls, young matrons and even elderly women, for a woman with white hair is exceedingly attractive in a gown of soft white material, with the softening effect of billowing lace about her throat and hands.

Embroidered Girdles.

Paris sends word that the embroidered linen girdle is the correct thing for wear with tailor-made linen gowns. It certainly has one advantage over the kid belt—it can be sent to the tub and come out as good as new, while the kid belt has to be dry cleaned.

The daintiest of these girdles has clover leaves and blooms wrought in white or forget-me-nots in their natural color. Large brass buckles are used on all wash belts and are easily removed.

White Linen Embroidered.

Yoke waists made of linen embroidered in openwork, or eyelet, style are much worn and always are handsome. This very stylish model is peculiarly well adapted to the treatment, as it includes a central box plait and shaped cuffs, both of which are eminently effective, and is closed invisibly. When

Design by May Mantou.

Wide ribbons are no longer wound carelessly about the waist and tied in bow knots. The fitting and boning and shaping of the girdle is an important item for even the simplest summer frock. Girdles are more often deep in the front and low in the back than otherwise.

The Smart Hand Purse.

The smart hand purse of the hour looks like a large envelope, flaps and all, and comes in champagne colored kid. It has two pockets, one for bills, another for cards, but no change pocket.

Novel Table Favors.

Little automobiles made of paper are among the most recent table favors. With these go small dinner cards representing the goggles worn by the enthusiastic chauffeurs to protect the eyes.

Meat Salad.

Cold meat, chopped fine, covered with mayonnaise dressing and decorated rings of hard-boiled eggs and parsley, makes a delicious supper salad when laid on nice, crisp lettuce leaves.

For a Sickroom. Take a full handful each of worm-wood, sage, lavender, rue, rosemary collar can be omitted and the coat simply faced and stitched.

The coat is made with fronts and back and is fitted by means of shoulder and under-arm seams only. Pockets are inserted in the fronts and finished with over-laps and the collar, when used, is joined to the neck. The sleeves are full ones cut in one piece each and finished with roll-over flare cuffs. The closing is made with buttons and buttonholes in double-breasted style.

Rose-Flavored Butter.

The first step to flavor fresh unsalted butter with rose, is by packing in a close vessel surrounded by a thick layer of rose leaves over night. Wrap the butter in a thin piece of cheesecloth. While the American Beauties are the most fragrant, other roses will answer. Shortly before serving cut tender white bread in strips or circles, spread with the flavored butter and place one or two petals between the slices, allowing the edges to show.

Washing Chamois Gloves.

Make a lather of castile soap—or of any fine, white soap. Put the gloves on and proceed as if you were washing your hands. When the gloves are clean, take them off and rinse them thoroughly in tepid water. Hang them out in the sun to dry. But while they are damp remove them from the line. Put them on your hands and let them dry. When you take them off, pull gently into shape, just as you treat a new glove.

Useful Kitchen Utensils.

A wire salad basket is a very useful piece of kitchen furniture. It is a kettle-shaped basket with a small neck and a ball handle. After thoroughly washing the salad it is put in the basket and shaken until every drop of water has been shaken off. Then basket and all is put near the ice to crisp the leaves. Oil will not cling to wet lettuce and unless the leaves are well coated with oil the dressing is a failure.

Finish of Sash and Bow.

Wide ribbons are no longer wound carelessly about the waist and tied in bow knots. The fitting and boning and shaping of the girdle is an important item for even the simplest summer frock. Girdles are more often deep in the front and low in the back than otherwise.

LIVE STOCK

In Pasturing Rape.

The time is here when the sheep will be turned into the new rape pasture. In this connection a few things should be remembered. One of them is that rape should not be the only kind of feed given to any kind of stock for several reasons. In the first place it is very succulent, and it would be difficult for a sheep to eat enough of rape to keep it in the best of condition, even if there was not a danger of bloating, which there is. In all cases there should be access to the rape and to pasturage at the same time. The sheep should not be turned into the rape all at once, but should be allowed to eat it for only half an hour the first time, then an hour, and then the time may be gradually increased from day to day. When they have become accustomed to it, there is little danger that they will be injured by it, provided they have access to other pasturage or other feed. On the first day the sheep are allowed access to the rape pasture, they should receive a full feed in the barn or shed or feed lot, so they will eat but lightly of the succulent rape of which they will show themselves at once very fond. Rape should never be pastured very close. If the sheep are made to depend on it too much they will eat it down to the ground, and its recovery will be slow, even under good conditions of moisture. If, however, the feeding is so regulated that the sheep will only eat off the tops and will leave most of the stumps and some of the leaf stems the plant will continue to grow and develop while it is being pastured. This is one thing greatly in favor of the rape plant. When properly handled it is an enormous producer of valuable pasturage. The man that has had rape for a number of years will need no advice in this regard, but many new men are now beginning to grow rape and to feed it extensively to sheep as well as to other farm stock.

The Balanced Ration.

A large plantation owner of Louisiana, in an address delivered before the Louisiana Live Stock Breeders' association, said: "The money saving of scientific feeding is so great as to scarcely be believed, unless it is brought to our own doors. The Paris Omnibus Company, which works 10,000 horses, and which formerly fed its stock solely on oats, found a saving of $9.26 per head a year by the partial substitution of corn for oats. On our plantations in Assumption it was only in August last that we began to look seriously into the feeding of a balanced ration, and our feed bill for the year, for 240 head of stock, amounted to an excess of $10,000. This year we are following to the letter a balanced ration, and by adding to our corn molasses and cotton-seed meal, we will have sufficient of the former to feed to last until our new crop is harvested. This will be with an expense of less than $2,500 for the purchase of meal and molasses. Formerly we used to feed as high as 18 pounds of oats per day per mule, that is, when we were out of corn, which, without figuring the cost of the hay given, in quantities of as much as the mules would eat, brought our cost of feed to 25c per head with oats, at the present market value of 44c per bushel. Our present feed consists of eight pounds of corn and cob meal, two pounds of cotton-seed meal, eleven pounds of molasses and 15 pounds of peavine hay, which figures out quite near to a balanced ration with a nutritive ratio of 1 to 6, at a cost of 14.5 cents per head, allowing 5c per gallon for the molasses and 5c per ton for the peavine hay. Thus you can readily see that our feed is costing us at present about one-half as much as it did formerly.

Buying the Ram.

The earlier the ram is selected the more certain the buyer is to get what he is looking after. A good many farmers buy rams in the fall, but wait till late before doing so. They seldom take into consideration the numerous delays that are likely to intervene before the ram is actually purchased and located on the farm. If the buyers wait till late his order is sure to get to the breeder at a time when the latter has other such orders to fill. If the breeder has more orders than he can fill he has to decline to fill the order and the buyer has to seek another breeder. The second breeder may be sold out as was the first and the buyer has to try again. All this time the weeks are slipping away. Then there are delays in shipping, which can never be foreseen. So it is altogether the part of wisdom for the buyer to take steps to secure his ram as soon as possible.

That oats make a better feed for the horse than corn, especially in spring, is generally conceded. The corn has an overbalance of heat forming material, which gives him a great surplus of fuel to be changed into energy. But there must be muscle on which to exercise the energy or it cannot be used. Corn produces too little muscle. With oats the balance is more nearly equal and the energy and the muscle on which to exercise the energy are in about the proper proportions. For this reason the farmer is able to get more work out of ten pounds of oats than out of ten pounds of corn.

When a man loses his temper he is sure there is ample reason for it.

SUBSCRIPTION $1.00 PER YEAR.

Entered at the postoffice at Clarendon, Texas as second class matter.

Clarendon, Tex. Aug. 19, 1904

GOOD morning! Have you paid your subscription?

STRAWS show which way the wind blows. Our subscription receipts the past two weeks indicates to us that the Banner-Stockman is meeting with great favor.

ONCE more we wish to remind our correspondents that a letter is earnestly desired from each of them every two weeks if not every week. Give us the news of your community.

THE proportion of farmers in Donley county who are depending strictly upon a feed crop for sustenance is very small as compared with former years. Diversification in the Panhandle has been found a success.

WE return thanks to the many brethren of the press who have recently seen fit to compliment our efforts. An encouraging word goes a long way with a newspaper man, and we have reason to believe that all the nice things said about the Banner-Stockman recently were heartfelt and the honest expressions of the writers.

THE Banner-Stockman has received several compliments of late on its fairness and impartiality to all, and upon the ability of its editor to keep out of newspaper brawls and work ever for the best interests of the county without stirring up strife. The people want a conservative, high-principled paper and in the Banner-Stockman they have it.

PROSPECTS are fine in Donley county for a bumper feed crop; a bumper corn crop; a bumper cotton crop; a bumper sweet potato crop. Already the bumpers are bumping with the melon crop; the Irish potato crop; the onion crop; the roasting ear crop, and almost every other kind of vegetable crop you can think of. Donley county farmers are strictly in the swim.

THE street improvement crusade has reached the business part of town and our business streets are being repaired this week. It is impossible, however, with the limited means at hand to put the city's thoroughfares in the best shape. How about that bond issue? We would like to hear from some of our citizens regarding same. Let's agitate the matter.

NOTWITHSTANDING the fact that we have adopted a much smaller body type for the paper we are compelled to omit much good local matter this week including several interesting letters from correspondents, (which really arrived too late for publication.) We regret that it has happened so, but promise better service after the 1st of September. Beginning with the first week in next month the paper will be all home print and we will have plenty of room for all the news. Our correspondents will then receive the best of attention, and are urged to favor us with their weekly letters, getting same to us as early in the week as possible.

OUR readers will notice that we have been using four pages of ready print since the enlargement of the paper. This was made necessary for the first month by reason of the amount of work entailed in making the change. Beginning with our first issue in September, however, the Banner-Stockman will be all printed at home. We are glad to say that our patronage justifies the expense and labor of making the paper all home print, and we heartily thank our advertisers for such patronage. It is our intention to make the Banner-Stockman the best paper in the Panhandle and a representative sheet for the town and county and the support and encouragement of every citizen is sought. Give us your financial aid; you will not regret it.

The examination returns of the Summer Normal held here recently came in Sunday night, and immediately, on the part of some of our amateur teachers there was "anguish and vexation of spirit." However, a very high per cent of the Clarendon contingent were successful. We have not learned how all of them fared but we give the names of some who received certificates: R. Lee Black and Towne Young, first-grade; Misses Hodge, Maude McLean, Nellie Baker, Mary Peebles, George Harding, Clyde Caldwell, second-grade.

Jim and Henry Pirtle, who have been visiting the family of their uncle, J. H. Pirtle, left Saturday for their home in Bradley county, Ark., via Dallas. Ellis Pirtle went home with them for a visit.

Alanreed Items.

J. W. Lane is putting up a dwelling by his blacksmith shop and is likely to move soon from the McKenzie place to his own home.

Our sick folks are all up and some gone a visiting. We are glad to report that Mrs. R. J. Hill, of Story, Texas, is slowly getting well from a 40 days spell of slow fever.

The water service now furnishes hot water to the section house here but furnishes no ice. Hot water to paralyze the disease germs and then ice to cool the water would make everything lovely and pleasant and make our happiness complete.

On Sunday, Aug. 21, Rev. W. H. Williams and others are to begin a Methodist protracted meeting here. Rev. B. W. Doolson, of Amarillo, is to help in the meeting, and on the 4th Sunday in Aug. 28, Elder Dubbs, of the Christian church, is to begin a protracted meeting here.

During the last two weeks we have had two or three nice showers and all crops are nice and promising. W. M. Greenwood is done chopping cotten and farm work is about all up and our people can and will be ready to attend the protracted meetings and sensible chickens will roost high to save their bodies from chicken pie.

J. T. Pollard and others visited the picnic at Groom, Texas. We tell it on Uncle Tom Pollard that in his speech at Groom, he said that the "women and the babies at Groom were the prettiest and sweetest of any in the Panhandle." Uncle Tom Pollard and other old Texas Veterans will only be with us a few more years before they "cross over the river and rest under the shade of the trees."

On last Sunday the C. R. I. & G. Ry. Co. took off the two regular passenger trains and now run a mixed freight and passenger train. East at 11:44 and dinner here and west at 5:19 p. m. from Sayre, O. T. to Amarillo, Tex. 135 miles and to make the run in nine hours, which is about average hand-car time of 15 miles per hour. We hope to have regular passenger service again before very long of 30 miles per hour.

Bonham, Texas, March 29, 1904.
To those whom it may concern:

For several years, when I was connected with the Southwestern University, Miss Bessie Calneck (now Mrs. R. Lee Black, of Clarendon,) was a teacher of music in the University, and gave eminent satisfaction. Aside from her thorough training in the best of schools, she has genius for music, and is apt to teacher. By genius, qualification and long experience in teaching, I consider her eminently fitted for her profession. Aside from her great excellency in piano music, she has qualifications as a vocal teacher.

Attention Cotton Farmers!

We want to say to the farmers of Donley and adjoining counties that our gin will run as usual this fall, commencing as soon as necessary, and we will be able to take care of all the cotton raised in this section. We will have an experienced gin man in charge of the work, and will be prepared to run our gin night and day if necessary. Our plant is positively the best in the Panhandle, the machinery all being of the latest and best patterns, and we can do you better work than you can get anywhere else. We want your ginning and are bidding for it.

Very truly,

GOOD CATTLE SALES.

Bunch of Panhandle Yearlings Sold for $15 Straight.

Fort Worth Tex., Aug. 13.—R. B. Masterson of this city returned from Gray county today, where he recently sold and delivered to John Molesworth of Clarendon 1,664 yearlings at $15 per head straight. Mr. Masterson also sold to Wm. H. Craven for the Childress Cattle Company 1,052 head of stock cattle at $14 per head. This sale included Mr. Masterson's lease rights on land in Gray county.

Mr. Masterson reports that there has been plenty of rain in the Panhandle country, and that grass is better than he has seen it in twenty years. A report from his King county ranch, received today, is to the effect that recent rains there were the heaviest in many years.

Stop That Cough.

When a cough, a tickling or an irritation in the throat make you feel uncomfortable, take Ballard's Horehound Syrup. Don't wait until the disease has gone beyond control. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Anderson, 345 West 5th St., Salt Lake City, Utah, writes: "We think Ballard's Horehound Syrup the best medicine for coughs and colds. We have used it for several years; it always gives immediate relief, is very pleasant and gives perfect satisfaction." 25c, 50c, $1. Sold by H. D. Ramsey.

Ira Watenberger of Clarendon, formerly of Texhoma, passed through Tuesday enroute from Texhoma. He was in charge of the body of his child, shipping it to Clarendon, that died more than a year ago while he was a resident of Texhoma. The child was embalmed at death by a Kansas City embalmer and buried in a metallic coffin, and when exhumed was in apparently as good state of preservation as when consigned to the tomb nearly fourteen months ago; hair, complexion and all is as natural as at death.—The Dalhart Texan.

Miss Lou Cope was brought down from Amarillo Monday sick with the fever. She had been working in one of the Amarillo banks and was taken down sick last Friday. She is now at her sister's, Mrs. Geo. M. Bugbee.

Clarendon has furnished her full quota of world's fair visitors since the exposition began. If every other town in Texas has patronized the fair proportionately with our little city a record breaking attendance will be noted.

Mrs. A. M. Beville and Miss Lora Kimberlin left Monday for St. Louis on a double Mission: First, to select a new fall stock of millinery and notions for the firm of Mrs. A. M. Beville & Co., and second, to see the great world's fair.

John Clark and Oscar Goin returned to their home in Tarrant county last week in response to a message that the latter's child was very sick. Mr. Clark recently bought the Gary place from Marion Williams and he and Mr. Goin were engaged in building some additions to the house.

The baseball boys went to Childress Saturday and won a game from the team there by a score of 5 to 4. The score sounds like a good game, but the boys say they went up against a bunch of infants and were so disappointed they did not try to play the game, and that had they done so the score would have been about 30 to 0.

WHILE no great blow has been made on the subject it is probable that Clarendon has done as much building this summer as any other Panhandle town. Several new and costly residences have been constructed, while the amount of repair work and additions is enormous. Clarendon carpenters and painters have been kept busy.

BOYS & GIRLS

The Bear and the Monkey.
A bear, with whom a Piedmontese joined company to earn their bread, essayed on half his legs to please the public, where his master led.

With looks that boldly claimed applause, he asked the ape, "Sir, what think you?"

The ape was skilled in dancing laws, and answered, "It will never do."

"You judge the matter wrong, my friend?"

Bruin rejoined: "You are not civil! Were these legs given for you to mend the case and grace with which they swivel?"

It chanced a pig was standing by: "Bravo? astonishing? encore?"

Exclaimed the critic of the sty: "Such dancing you shall see no more!"

Dear Bruin, when he heard the sentence, began an inward calculation: Then, with a face that spoke repentance, expressed aloud his meditation:

"When the sly monkey called me dunce, I entertained some slight misgiving; But Pig, thy praise has proved at once That dancing will not earn a living."

Let every candidate for fame Rely upon this wholesome rule: Your work is bad, if wise men blame; But worse, if lauded by a fool.

The Baby Turtle.
Turtles, you know, lay their eggs in the sand and let the sun hatch them out. They do not lay them all in one place, probably because they think it safe to scatter them. Then, even though one be stolen or broken, the others may escape. The mother turtle covers them all carefully up, one after another, with a thin sprinkling of sand, and then apparently never gives them another thought, considering her maternal duty done. Certain it is that she has never been discovered going near these egg babies again, and when they hatch at last the tiny, soft-backed creatures at once begin crawling around in search of flies and other food as independently as if there were no such thing as a mother in the world. A little girl who found one of these odd, oblong eggs on a sandy river bank in Louisiana took it home and put it in a teacup on the table for safekeeping. A few hours later a slight noise was noticed in that direction, and on looking in the cup she found a baby turtle, "full fledged," but tiny, scrambling about among the bits of its broken eggshell cradle.

Can You Do This?
Do you remember the story of how "Betsy" found a piece of paper und with one clip of the shears convinced the committee from the continental congress that a star should be five-pointed instead of six-pointed? There are two methods of arriving at the same result as did "Betsy," as the accompanying illustrations explain.

One Millionaire.
"He's a millionaire, that boy is." The boy I was walking with looked across the way at the lad of whom my words were spoken. There was certainly nothing about the latter to suggest his wealth.

"You don't say so! It can't really be so, he looks almost shabby."

"No matter for that, I live in the same block, and I know. But I did not say that was worth a million of money."

"Oh!"

The boy who was listening looked rather disappointed. Still, he was anxious to know what the other one might have, anyhow, so he asked, "What, then?"

"He is what is called a 'millionaire of cheerfulness.' He is merry and bright the whole day long, not alone when all is sweetness and light, but when it isn't. He has such pluck and spirit, and such unflinching good nature, that he must have a million to draw upon, though he pays no taxes upon his capital. You never see him scowling or hear him whining. So he scatters his fortune all about and is a blessing to the neighborhood. I wish there were more millionaires of cheerfulness. There might be, if everybody gathered up all the sunshine that is had and gave it out as royally as Rob, who goes whistling yonder."

Then I went on, leaving Dick to wonder whether he were as rich as Rob, and if not, why not.

A Bee's Eye.
Did you ever look at a bee's eye through a very strong magnifying glass? It is made up of lots of little eyes massed together. And yet the eye as a whole is so small that it seems incredible that it has these thousands of little parts, each one complete in itself! This sort of eye is very useful, for as the little eyes face every direction the bee can see above and below and behind as well as in front and sideways as people do.—Detroit Free Press.

Tree That Commits Murder.
The Cupey is one of the most curious trees in the West Indian Islands. The seeds are borne on the wings of the wind, and deposited on the branches of other trees, when they burst into roots, which are dropped towards the ground all around the "nurse" tree. In time these roots reach the ground and strike into the soil. From this moment the roots grow stronger and stronger, until they resemble a lot of rope ladders thrown over the tree. Next, the parasite sends down a great cord, which twines round the trunk of the supporting tree, at first as though in loving embrace, but it grows tighter and tighter, eventually strangling its benefactor out of existence. The "nurse" tree, thus killed, rots to decay, and from the immense fibrous roots of the destroyer now springs a great trunk, which rises high into the air. The cord-like roots rise often to fifty or sixty feet in height.—Pearson's Weekly.

Conundrums.
When may a chair be said to dislike you? When it cannot bear you.

What never asks questions, but requires frequent answers? A door bell.

How would securely hitching a horse affect his speed? It would make him fast.

What is that which is full of holes, but yet holds? A sponge.

What small animal is turned into a large one by taking away part of its name? A fox.

The Sparrow Hawk.
The sparrow hawk family lives both in North and South America, but it is subdivided in five sub-families or species. It preys upon mice and snakes, and also on small birds. It will perch for hours on some tall tree, perfectly motionless, waiting for prey. It always builds its nest in a hollow tree, and its five or seven dark, cream-colored eggs are nearly round. It is a very useful bird, because it rids farmers of grasshoppers and other small insects that are harmful to trees and crops.

Game of Turtle.
Here's a game for boys and girls who have good, strong muscles. It is called "Turtle."

Any number may play, and no one player is "it," for all are "it" together. The game begins by each choosing the kind of turtle he intends to be. One perhaps is a land tortoise, another a snapper, another a mud turtle, and so on. Then they all sit in a row resting their chins on their

PIANO MADE WITH PINS.
Have you ever thought that you would like to have a piano all your own? Well, you can make one, but it will be a pin piano. Get a piece of soft wood, pine is best, nine or ten inches long, and half an inch thick. It may be of any width over two inches.

Now get a lot of ordinary pins of different lengths, if possible. Draw a line down the center of the piece of wood from one end to the other and drive the pins in the wood along this line, being careful to have them about a quarter of an inch apart.

Drive some of the smaller pins deep into the wood, but drive the larger ones only deep enough to have them fixed firmly in place, having all at different heights. When you have finished the pins will look like those in the picture, stuck in the board in a haphazard manner, some of them standing a long way out of the board and some buried almost to their heads.

Now your pin piano is complete and ready to be played on. Take a large, strong pin and with it pick one of the pins in the board. It will give out a musical note. Draw your pick-pin along the whole row in the board, and each holding his left ankle with his right hand, and his right ankle with his left hand. This is a very difficult position to keep. At a given signal the turtles start for a goal a short distance away.

It is the object of the game for the turtles to waddle to the goal and back to the starting point without removing their hands from their feet. Many let go before the proper moment, the others shout "dead turtle," and keep on, leaving their unfortunate companion in the background. The rules of the game demand that he wait there until the first successful racer reaches him on his way back, and touches him with his elbow, by which he is supposed to instill new life into the poor dead turtle. The latter immediately starts out again, and finishes in the best style he can. As there are always several dead turtles, he is never lonely in his effort to succeed. The winner is, of course, the one who returns to the starting place first.

Hidden Telegrams.
In this game you are to imagine you have a distant friend with whom you have an understanding about an expected message. It might be that there are two or three contestants for a certain prize of honor. The name of one might be Jenkins, that of another Harrison, and that of the third Sheldon. Suppose Jenkins is the successful contestant, and that you wish to telegraph to your friend simply the name of Jenkins. However, you wish to conceal the message as much as possible, so that the understanding is that the first letters of the words you telegraph will spell the name.

With this explanation each player sets to work to write a clever sentence in which the first letters will spell Jenkins. The various players may get sentences like these:

Judge Engles never knew I noticed Sally.

Julia's elbow next knocked Irish Norah silly.

Jack expects no kiss in Nova Scotia.

Jam eating nearly killed Ikey Nathan Saturday.

It is impossible that there will be any two alike, and the game is to see who can write the cleverest.

The telegrams are read aloud, and the players vote to see whose is best.

Flowering Ice Cream.
Line a clean flowerpot having a two and one-half inch diameter at top with paraffine paper, fill with ice cream and sprinkle with grated vanilla chocolate to represent earth. Wash well the stems of a few daisies and insert them in the center of the cream. Lay one or two daisies in the saucer.

Because the hog is a thick-skinned animal the impression prevails among farmers that he is little likely to be troubled with lice. In fact, we have known farmers that never in their lives did anything to assist the hogs in ridding themselves of vermin. Yet it often happens that lice get onto swine in such number as to greatly check the growing of the pigs, and the well-being of the old hogs is also affected by the same cause. The presence of lice is sometimes not noticed till some of the hogs get weak enough to die, and some do die. Lice of any kind on any kind of animals can be killed by applying grease; for by the grease the breathing pores of the vermin are stopped up. Yet this work must be supplemented by a thorough cleaning of the quarters inhabited by the swine.

How Air Affects Cream.
A French savant claims to have found out that air affects cream very detrimentally on account of the oxygen in it. Perfectly pure air would have us believe so affects the upper layers of cream that has stood for any time that to get the best results in the matter of flavor these layers must be skimmed off and not used in the making of butter. This is drawing the line very close, and we are not sure that he is right. In fact our scientists have looked into these matters very carefully and are of the opinion that perfectly pure air does not affect cream detrimentally. There is, however, room for further investigation.

Seedlings grown in the shade and sheltered woods have their organs for transpiration, assimilation, etc., developed for that condition, and when brought out to a light, exposed place, are unable to cope with the new conditions and die.

FARM SCCELLANY

Different Kinds of Dairy Associations.

There are a good many kinds of dairy associations, most of them entirely trustworthy and others not so much so. In the main, when dairy men go into an association it is with some high object in view. We notice by the dairy exchanges that in Wisconsin an association is trying to come into existence that is looking up on with a good deal of suspicion by men engaged in dairy work in the state. The cause of suspicion is always found in some way of making money for the promoters. In this case the association, which is for butter and cheese makers, starts out to get 1,000 members each one of which is to pay $5 entrance fee and $2 per year. The officers of the association are to have for their compensation such fees and dues as remain after paying operating expenses. In the case of securing 1,000 members this would mean receipts the first year of at least $5,000, which might leave a very handsome purse to be divided between the three or four men that comprise the officers. An investigation into the personnel of the association showed that none of the officers were engaged in the making of butter and cheese, one being a station agent, another a hotel keeper and another a postmaster. The intentions of the organizers may be of the best, but they will certainly be under suspicion till they have proved that they are not trying to work simply a money making scheme.

Molasses for Milk Production.
Molasses for milk production is perhaps a new idea with most of our readers. In various parts of the tropical lands where molasses is very cheap, being a by-product of the sugar mills, it is being fed quite extensively, if we can speak of any dairy operation being extensive in a land where dairying is little practiced. In England and some other European countries experiments are being made with it, as it is quite cheaply obtained in some localities near beet sugar factories. It is not fed clear, but is mixed with various absorbents, among which are sphagnum moss and ground corn stalks. It can be fed only to the extent of one and two pounds a day, but is said to be very palatable and to be greatly liked by the cows. Probably if dairying develops much in the South, especially in the cane growing regions, we will hear of the increased use of this by-product for the feeding of dairy cows, as it is now being quite extensively used in the feeding of horses.

An Unsolved Problem.
There are a good many problems connected with the feeding of swine that have not been solved. One of these is why a certain combination of foods will give better results than certain other combinations. Thus it is discovered that skim milk and corn fed together give greater gains than when fed separately. One hundred pounds of skim milk has been fed to a growing pig and five pounds of gain made from it. After that 100 pounds of corn has been fed and a gain of ten pounds made with that. Then we would naturally think that the feeding of the two together would give fifteen pounds of gain. But this does not prove to be the fact. When these are fed together the gain in weight is eighteen pounds instead of fifteen, showing that three pounds was the result of the combination. With pigs as with other animals and as with man a variety of foods gives a better result than one alone, even when the one is very evenly balanced.

Lousy Swine.
Because the hog is a thick-skinned animal the impression prevails among farmers that he is little likely to be troubled with lice. In fact, we have known farmers that never in their lives did anything to assist the hogs in ridding themselves of vermin. Yet it often happens that lice get onto swine in such number as to greatly check the growing of the pigs, and the well-being of the old hogs is also affected by the same cause. The presence of lice is sometimes not noticed till some of the hogs get weak enough to die, and some do die. Lice of any kind on any kind of animals can be killed by applying grease; for by the grease the breathing pores of the vermin are stopped up. Yet this work must be supplemented by a thorough cleaning of the quarters inhabited by the swine.

Still More Evidence.
Bay City, Ill., August 8 (Special).—Mr. K. F. Henley of this city adds his evidence to that published almost daily that a sure cure for Rheumatism is now before the American people and that that cure is Dodd's Kidney Pills. Mr. Henley had Acute Rheumatism. He has used Dodd's Kidney Pills. He says of the result: "After suffering for sixteen years with Rheumatism and using numerous medicines for Rheumatism and more medicines prescribed by doctors, I at last tried Dodd's Kidney Pills with the result that I got more benefit from them than all the others put together."

"Dodd's Kidney Pills were the only thing to give me relief, and I recommend them to all suffering from Acute Rheumatism."

Rheumatism is caused by Uric Acid in the blood. Healthy kidneys take all the Uric Acid out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills make healthy kidneys.

Ireland's 108 Lords.
There are more than eighty Irish peers other than the twenty-eight representative peers who occupy seats in the house of lords by virtue of peerages of the United Kingdom, which they hold in addition to their Irish honors, so that of the 593 members of the upper house of Great Britain's national legislature more than 100 are peers of Ireland. Those members of Erin's peerage who are neither representative peers, and who have no English dignities entitling them to a seat in the house of lords, are at liberty to stand for the house of commons, a privilege which is not shared by the peers of Scotland. Thus the late Lord Palmerston, whose peerage was an Irish viscount, spent his entire parliamentary career, extending over a period of three score years, in the house of commons, while at the present time Viscount Valentia, who is also an Irish peer, represents the city of Oxford in the lower house of the imperial legislature.

Sneak Thieves in Churches.
An old sexton was discussing the amount of stealing that is done from churches. "Scarcely a day passes," he said, "when the church is open without some distracted woman coming to me bowed down with grief because somebody has stolen her purse. There are certain contemptible thieves who prey on unsuspecting women, who pray so hard that they forget to look after their pocketbooks. The thief watches until the woman is deep in prayer and then leans over, grasps the purse and sneaks out."—Philadelphia Record.

Even with his wonderful memory the oldest inhabitant is apt to forget that he has inflicted his reminiscences on everybody he knows.

OLD FASHIONED.
But Still in the Fashion.
It is an ever new and interesting story to hear how one can be entirely made over by change of food.

"For two years I was troubled with what my physician said was the old fashioned dyspepsia.

"There was nothing I could eat but 20 or 30 minutes later I would be spitting my food up in quantities until I would be very faint and weak. This went out from day to day until I was terribly wasted away and without any prospect of being helped.

"One day I was advised by an old lady to try Grape-Nuts and cream leaving off all fatty food. I had no confidence that Grape-Nuts would do all she said for me as I had tried so many things without any help. But it was so simple I thought I would give it a trial she insisted so.

"Well I ate some for breakfast and pretty soon the lady called to see her 'patient' as she called me and asked if I had tried her advice.

"Glad you did child, do you feel some better?"

"No," I said, "I do not know as I do, the only difference I can see is I have no sour stomach and come to think of it I haven't spit up your four teaspoons of Grape-Nuts yet."

"Nor did I ever have any trouble with Grape-Nuts then or any other time for this food always stays down and my stomach digests it perfectly; I soon got strong and well again and bless that old lady every time I see her.

"Once an invalid of 98 pounds I now weigh 125 pounds and feel strong and well and it is due entirely and only to having found the proper food in Grape-Nuts." Name given my Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Special Services for Sunday Workers.
There was a time when Saturday night and Sunday morning workers on the newspapers and the street cars in New York had only one church to go to. That time is past. There are three distinct Sunday morning services now being held at 3 o'clock in the lower part of New York, and there is another church close to Longacre square which has an early morning service for the night workers in the upper part of the city. St. Steven's Catholic church in Duane street was the pioneer in this kind of work. Later a service was established in St. Paul's Episcopal church, and then an earnest young minister began to hold a 3 o'clock a. m. service near the newspaper offices uptown. Lately the railroad men, policemen, keepers, watchmen, night street cleaners and others have been attracted, and now all the early religious services are well attended.

Travel in the Mikado's Empire.
A lady traveling in Japan gives the following sketch of an inn at which she stopped: "The landlord and his wife and the servants all come to talk to you and when you inform the company that you are sleepy and want your bed laid, everybody says at once, 'Honorable bed augustly is it?' but nobody does anything, and when at last you have achieved your desire you have to force apart, in defiance of police regulations, the wooden shutters which hermetically seal the house, in order to avoid being smothered with the fumes of charcoal and humans. As soon as things are quiet enough rats chase over the rooms and generally over you as well, and sometimes bite you. One o'clock in the morning, in the old Japanese reckoning, which is called 'the hour of the rat,' doubtless for this reason. And all night long the watchman sounds as rattle to show that he is attending to his duties. You have to be up with the cock to get the first go at the bath, which is only filled once, and the wash hand basin, which is only as large as a cake tin, is always kept in the veranda."

The Pope's Sleeping Car.
Among the personal possessions of the pope is a magnificent sleeping car, constructed in 1868, when the railroad was opened between Naples and Rome for the use of his predecessors. It has three compartments—a throne room, a room for the guard of honor and a bedroom. The throne room is richly furnished and has a cupola engraved with the papal arms and the twelve apostles. It is so arranged that the pope, when seated on his throne, can be plainly seen by the crowds who might be expected to throng the stations for his blessing. The car was never used, but is kept in the Vatican grounds.

Travelers to California.
By reason of special arrangements which have been perfected, it is practically conceded in many quarters that to and from California either one or both ways via "The Denver Road" will be the choice of those attending both the Tri-annual Conclave of the Knights Templar and the Sovereign Grand Lodge I. O. O. F. to be held in San Francisco during September and on account of which round-trip tickets will be on sale August 15th to September 10th, inclusive, at rate of $45.00 from nearly all points in Texas and the Southwest.

The choice of the route mentioned for these trips is largely attributable to the fact that it is the only line reaching that territory from Texas directly through Panoramic New Mexico and "Cool Colorado," passing enroute and allowing stop-overs at any of the numerous magnificent and popular priced resorts of the northwest, including those of California as well as Ogden and Salt Lake City, Utah. In addition to such cities as Denver (for Boulder, Colorado Springs, Pueblo and Trinidad, Colorado. It is understood that tickets for this occasion may be secured to go via one route and return another.

Dead Sea Saltiness.
It has generally been supposed that the saltiness of the water of the Dead sea is due to the salt and rocks. It is now thought, however, that this explanation is inadequate, and that the most important cause is the atmospheric transportation of salt from the Mediterranean sea. According to a writer in Harper's Weekly, the supposition is that the winds blowing from the Mediterranean would bring rain charged with salt. In proof of this it is stated that the proportion of chlorine to bromine is the same in the Dead sea that it is in the Mediterranean.

John H. Rathjen, our estimable German shoe merchant, celebrated his forty-fifth birthday Sunday, and the editor and mother took supper with him and his good wife. We enjoyed a very pleasant evening and a good supper. Mr. Rathjen, like all of his nativity, served several years in the German army, and was one of the privileged few allowed to retain their uniforms. The uniform is a beautiful one, dark green with red trimmings and brass buttons, and the owner looks every inch a soldier when dressed therein. The Banner-Stockman hopes that Mr. Rathjen may live to celebrate forty-five more of his birthdays.

Clarendon College.

Clarendon College is to be congratulated on its excellent teaching staff for the coming year.

There were published in our last week's issue strong recommendations by Gov. Lanham and Dr. Rankin, Ph.D. of Harvard University, of the principal, Prof. Burkhead, and of its other teachers too much can not be said.

Prof. William F. Johnston, B.A., who will occupy the chair of Mathematics, Science and History, is a teacher of rare ability and tact. Prof. Johnston is a genial and pleasant personality. He has been principal of the Silvertown school for the past three years, and gave great satisfaction in that capacity. The Silvertown people gave him up with great reluctance. The boys in the young men's hall will find in Prof. Johnston a faithful friend and adviser. Prof. Johnston is a success in every sense of the word.

Miss Gertrude Sherman, who will be instructor in English, Latin and Mathematics, was educated at the Southwestern University, Georgetown, Texas, and is a graduate of the Sam Houston Normal. Miss Sherman is well equipped for her work and will be a valuable addition to the teaching force of Clarendon College.

Miss Gabie Betts is one of the best equipped primary teachers that the country affords. Miss Gabie has had much experience in teaching, and has always been in great demand. She is very popular with her pupils and has the happy art of instilling into them the highest ideals of life.

Mrs. Wedgworth, who directs the music department of the College, can not be excelled in her line of work. Mrs. Wedgworth is painstaking and conscientious in her work, and has the art of evoking the hidden talent of her pupils in the direction of "the concord of sweet music." She will not aim merely to give the student a showy repertoire, but to make of her a true musician.

Mrs. Tresise, who has charge of stringed instruments, vocal culture and elocution, is all that could be wished in this line of work. Mrs. Tresise is en rapport with her work and her teaching will be after the most approved methods. The art of breathing and tone placing and technical exercises for developing flexibility will be stressed.

Miss Clyde Black, the teacher of art, finished her course at the Southwestern University, Georgetown, Texas, with great credit to herself. Miss Black's teacher in the art department of the University is highly complimentary of her. Miss Black will be fully able to teach her pupils to appreciate the graceful curves of nature, to notice light and shade in everything and to cultivate the eye for the beautiful.

President Hardy and the College are under many obligations to Mr. George Washington for his liberal donation of valuable books recently. God bless George.

The young ladies' home will surely be highly favored this year in having two such elect ladies as Mrs. Hardy and Mrs. Burkhead to preside over it. A better selection could not be found in a search of Texas than these two estimable ladies. Every want and care of the girls will be anticipated by these good women.

Goodnight College.

After a month of urgent entreaty I yielded to an offer from Goodnight College to become one of its faculty. This school has been a success under the past management with a present outlook, brighter than any year of its past history. Rev. Sebe Thomas is one of the best managers of students I have ever seen, having been associated with him in college. His management of students on the campus and in the dormitory, makes their progress, moral, mental and physical inevitable. It is the purpose of the present management to make this one of the best schools in the state of its grade. We do not propose to carry students as high mentally as Baylor University or schools of like standing, but what we do, we hope to do well, making a sure foundation for future building. As for the advancement in the moral and physical elements of man, we shall have no superior. Trust in the ability of her management and send your boys and girls.
