SPLINTER

A merry heart maketh a cheerful countenance.—Prov.

We see where a Wichita Falls columnist, in comparing the oden days to these, comment on seeing a rangy big shouldered six footer enter a place there and order beer. He drank it through a straw.

Probably just a habit acquired during the home-brew days in the not too distant past. The one that sucked the siphon tube to start the brew filling the bottles always got the drunkest before the beer was capped.

But it would take more than merely sucking 3.2 through a straw to give it a kick. Some of the local boys in experimenting with the decimal point thirst quencher have imbibed as high as 22 bottles and then could not sing "Sweet Adeline."

First norther of the season this week and ducks and geese reported going south. Cotton opening fast and gins running at capacity. Roads lined with cotton pickers and merchants generally selling more goods than in years. Getting about nine to ten cents for cotton and wishing it was twenty. Not a typical fall but a better feeling prevails than since 1929 fell down the hill.

See in the papers where a woman was operated on for 48 spoons, two bolts and nuts, a large screw, a needle, a pencil and a piece of glass. It looks to us like the doctors were recovering.

Football season is here again. As an amateur sport played by school and college boys, the game is without peer. But is it not likely to supercede the game of baseball as the national sport. During the days of the recent world series there was hardly a town or hamlet in the United States in which the opposing teams did not have their rooters. The results of the games made the headlines on many of the large dailies, and thousands upon thousands listened to the play by play report over the radio. Football does not have that hold on the nation.

Hay fever, that popular malady that claims many local devotees, is both affirmative and negative, according to an Oklahoma paper. Some times the eyes have it and sometimes the nose.

Of course a newspaper can continue to send out subscriptions indefinitely without receiving pay for them. We used to not think so but we know so now. But be that as it may, if, after buying all the necessities that you need, and all the luxuries that you think you can afford you have any money left would you please pay the paper a little? it did not have any cotton, cotton checks, or nothin', and that change in the weather this week has got this paper worried.

RECOVER STOLEN CAR NEAR KNOX CITY TUES.

The 1928 Chevrolet coach belonging to Mrs. H. E. Hays and son, Weldon, which was stolen Monday night, was found abandoned and stripped about 14 miles southwest of Knox City by a farmer Tuesday afternoon. Over eighty dollars worth of equipment was taken from the machine.

The car was stolen from in front of Reeder's Drug Store, where Weldon had parked it. He discovered the theft after seeing the program at the Rialto Theatre. Foard Co. News.

Bids Asked By State To Build Knox Road

Highway 16 from Benjamin to the Haskell county line is being advertised for bids this week and the letting will be Oct. 23. The work to be done is building the grade and the construction of the bridges and culverts. $40,000 of the expense of the work is borne by the Federal Government to help the unemployment situation and for this reason it is expected that as soon as the contract is let, the work will be started. The route of the new road lies on the east side of the Santa Fe Railroad which eliminates two rail crossings between Benjamin and Knox City.

Word was received here Thursday of the critical illness of A. H. Sams, Jr., who is living at Pecos. His mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Sams and sisters, Mrs. L. C. Moorhouse and Mrs. Dee McStay left immediately for that place. Later reports indicate that the boy's condition is improved.

Senate Passes Trust Law Act Thursday

Austin, Oct. 12—The Texas senate late today passed a house bill designed to eliminate any conflict between the state anti-trust laws and the NRA trade codes. House action on senate amendments was necessary before the bill could be sent to the governor.

This was one of the two main purposes for which the special session of the legislature ending tomorrow was called. Issuance of unemployment relief bonds was the other and conferees reported they had adjusted most of the differences between the two houses on that legislation.

Martin's Amendment

By a one vote margin, Senator Martin of Hillsboro obtained adoption of a provision reciting that no person shall refrain from complying with the provisions of an NRA code on the ground that he is not engaged in transactions in or affecting "interstate or foreign commerce."

The senate refused, however, to fix penalties for violation of codes by interstate businesses and senators agreed that the amendment adopted would have no effect except as a declaration of the state's desire that intra-state concerns cooperate in the national program.

The bill would provide that compliance with the NRA codes would be a complete defense in suits alleging violation of the anti-trust laws against either intrastate or interstate concerns. It also would make compliance with the codes a sufficient pleading in cross actions brought by these concerns.

Senator Martin asserted that General Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, wanted the various states to enact laws to punish the code violators whose businesses are intrastate only. He stated that the national government could not reach those violators.

Bond Bill

The free conferences committee on the relief bond bill hoped to have its report ready for presentation by noon tomorrow. Conferences said they had agreed on the amount of bonds issued, $5,500,000, but had not yet decided upon the personnel of the commission to supervise administration of funds.

Judge Postpones Juries To Aid Picking Crops

The October term of the 50th Judicial Court for Knox County convened here Monday, October 9th for the regular six weeks session. Judge I. O. Newton, after impaneling the Grand Jury and charging them their duties, announced that the petit jury summoned to appear the 16th of October would be adjourned over until Monday, October 30, 10 a.m. at which time they will appear in Benjamin for duty and the jury summoned for October 23 would be adjourned over until November 6, 10 a.m. "This was done," said the court "to enable the farmers to gather their cotton which is opening fast and the majority of which will be out of the fields within the next thirty days."

The Grand Jury as in session Monday and Tuesday and turned in 11 bills of indictment, all felonies. This body was then adjourned until the 30th of October. E. P. Storm of Truscott is foreman and other members are Roy Jones, Hefner, Fred Stengel, Rhineland, Ben B. Hunt, Goree, Geo. Isbell, Munday, G. T. Floyd, Sunset, S. M. C'onts, Knor City, L. W. Graham, Knox City, E. A. Beck, Vera, Bruce Eubanks, Truscott, L. C. Moorhouse and Leroy Melton, Benjamin.

Both the civil and criminal docket for this term of Court are about an average except there are many more divorce suits filed this term than usual.

Truscott Gin Manager Killed In Auto Wreck

J. M. Dea, 63, Truscott gin manager, was fatally injured in an automobile accident about 1 o'clock Tuesday morning when the car which he was driving crashed into the steel bannister of a small bridge on the Benjamin-Truscott highway. His daughter, Rachel, who was in the car at the time, suffered only minor injuries. Mr. Dea and his daughter were returning from Wichita Falls where he had been to secure some gin repairs when the accident occurred. In the crash one of the steel bannisters cut through the side of the car severed the artery of Mr. Dea's leg. Passing motorists rendered first aid and carried him to the Knox County Hospital. Death resulted from loss of blood. Mr. Dea has been a resident of Truscott for about three years, coming there from Wichita Falls where he had lived for the past seven years. He was born in Mississippi. Deceased is survived by his wife and nine children. Burial will be in Wichita Falls today.

Tom W. Arnett Dies Thursday at Amarillo

Tom Wallace Arnett, 47, for many years a citizen of Guthrie, died Thursday at the home of his parents in Amarillo. The cause of his death was given as typhoid fever. "Little Tom" as he was known to a host of friends had spent most of his life in King County where his father, J. W. "Bud" Arnett, had worked for the 6666 Ranch for 49 years. The deceased is survived by his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Arnett of Amarillo, and three sisters, Mrs. Halsey of Lubbock, Mrs. Hinds of Amarillo, and Mrs. Horace Bryant of Guthrie. Funeral services were held in Benjamin today at the Christian Church with Rev. Bedford Smith officiating. Mr. Arnett had been a member of the Christian Church the past 16 years. He was buried in the Benjamin Cemetery. Many old time friends of the deceased and the family were in attendance at the funeral.

Christian Revival Now In Progress Here

The "Know Your Bible Revival" at the First Christian Church led by Minister Bedford Smith and Singing Evangelist Howard Goodpastor, started off last evening with splendid attendance. Tonight and Saturday the Minister will preach on the "World War 1914 to 2064.. In the messages he will show by the Bible that John in his prophecy told of a battle line of 200 miles long at the beginning of the last seven plagues! The prophecy was fulfilled in 1914. At the close of the second stage of the war in 1918 one third of the tonnage of the world had been destroyed. John prophesied of the same over eighteen hundred years before it happened. Before Armagaddon (the bloodiest war ever to be fought) will close in 2026. John shows that there will be an army of 200 million airplanes in mortal combat killing one third of the men of the world.

On Sunday evening the minister will preach on "Where are the Dead?", which in his own opinion is the sweetest sermon that he is able to preach. He calls attention to the Biblical facts that show that the righteous dead do not immediately go to their eternal Heaven nor do the wicked dead immediately go to Hell. Other sermons are as follows.

Monday, Oct. 16 "The Man Older than Methuselah." Tuesday, Oct. 17 "The Seven Resurrections." Wednesday, Oct. 18, "The Seven Baptisms" Thursday Oct. 19, "Three New Heavens". Friday Oct. 20, "Three Bible Answers to the Same Question" The evening services commence promptly at 7:15 and close by 8:45. Teh morning services through the week will be from 10 to 10:50. The school children to 12 years of age are meeting from 7 to 7:15 and the older group from 6:30 to 7 o'clock. All esrvices will start and stop on time.

On Sunday morning the Singing Evangelist will be in charge and preach as well in the absence of minister Smith. Already he has captivated and thrilled the town with his great soul- uplifting music. For years Bro. Goodpastor has travelled all over America and sang for the largest as well as the small churches. Benjamin is fortunate in having him here. Special music will be featured nightly.

John McClellan of Clarendon has been here this week on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Whittaker of Truscott were in Benjamin Thursday.

Vitor Reeder, Rhineland farmer, was a visitor in Benjamin Thursday.

What Our Exchanges Think

SUBSISTENCE HOMESTEAD

The Texas senate got into an argument over "subsistence homesteads" yesterday. A bill sponsored by Lieutenant Governor Witt would authorize issuance of $5,000,000 of bread bonds to be used as a revolving fund to enable destitute heads of families to purchase farms. Such loans would be limited to $1,000 at five percent.

Proponents of the plan would "take unemployed men off the city streets and relief lists and give them jobs making a living for their families from the soil."

That, as anyone will agree, is a laudable ambition, and sounds helpful.

But Senator Tom DeBerry of Bogota asked a pertinent question. "If the plan be sound," he remarked, "you must say agriculture is remunerative. Now I ask you, is it or is it not? Why did the farm boy go to town? Then the plan is unsound."

Between these extreme views lies some middle ground that might be tenable. Undoubtedly many unemployed men, given a thousand dollars to invest in land, buildings, equipment and seeds, could make a living therewith; but most of them would fail miserably because of inexperience or one of the thousand and one risks that the farmer must take.

The principal objection to such a plan, however, is two-fold: It would help too few people and such help would be too long delayed. The need is immediate and the needy are numerous. Five million dollars would help only 5,000 families, whereas tens of thousands must be cared for.

Undoubtedly the farm holds out the promise of a bare living for many men. Most farmers could testify that the "bare" is taken advisedly. Even a bare living would be irresistible lure to most jobless men of families. But what could be done for them while the "subsistence homestead" was being brought into production? It would take months to get them started, and meantime hungry mouths must be fed.

The legislature should quit chasing will-o'-the-wisps and get down to reality.—Abilene Morning News.

THE SENATE VOTES NO

The Texas Senate refuses to ratify the Federal Child Labor Amendment. If you are the sort of person who goes "all out" for reform you are going to be angry about that. If you are the type of citizen who stands up for the last jot and tittle of fundamental forms, you will rejoice.

Washington has little business telling Texas how long it is good for telling Texas children to work. If anything, we ought to be more interested in our own children than Washington is. But that same principle, if pushed to its logical jumping-off place, would take a great deal of Federal activity with it into oblivion.

There is not much abuse of child labor in Texas—except in the cotton field. Even there, it is the compulsion of economic distress and not the cruelty of parents or employers which is to blame. If the little folks picked no cotton, they would eat less biscuits and sorghum. Picking cotton, even at a comparatively early age, may be better than starting out in life on the dole. Much depends upon the circumstances. But constitutional amendments can't be considerate of circumstances.—Dallas Journal.

Statistics compiled by Federal and State labor departments, confirmed by national private agencies, including the American Federation of Labor, showed that the great army of unemployed numbered 14,000,000 last March. The consensus of estimates made by such sources up to mid-September was that about one fourth of that vast horde of disconsolate individuals had been restored to gainful employment through the operation of the National Recovery Act.

On October 9 about 3,000,000 employers of two or more persons throughout the country received a questionnaire from President Roosevelt with a message which read: "Two months ago I invited you to enter into an agreement with me to aid industrial recovery by shortening hours and increasing wage rates. The time has come to take stock. The information here requested is necessary to determine the progress we have made."

Employers were asked for comparative figures on employment and pay-roll totals for the two pay periods ending July 15, 1933, and October 14, 1933. These results, to be available only to sworn employees of the Census Bureau and treated as strictly confidential, will disclose the actual situation. The extent to which additional efforts must be put forth and preparations for feeding and clothing and housing those unfortunates not yet absorbed into industry will then be known, and Americans must act accordingly. Despite depleted local treasuries, this terrible task confronts us and is utterly unavoidable.—NRA New.

"I know tile sub-irrigation is the very thing for this county and this year I plan to start early and lay twice as much as we laid last year," said Mrs. J. R. Spivey, Gilliland 4-H pantry demonstrator, who laid some 200 feet of tile in March of the past club year.

"There was certainly a marked difference in two rows of tomatoes that I planted and watched this year. One was on tile and one was not. The one on tile bore very heavily and is still bearing while the one irrigated with surface irrigation barely existed and was one long ago."

HOW I IMPROVED MY BEDROOM

"I know I am going to enjoy the fruits of my labors," said Mrs. J. A. McCanlies, Benjamin Bedroom Demonstrator, in giving her report at the achievement program of the Benjamin Home Demonstration Club. "First I will try to give you an idea as to how my room looked before I began work. At one time an addition was made to this room which left a division in the floor. This division left a crack which has gradually widened as the house settled and pulled apart. The floor sagged on either side of this division. The walls on the north side was bulged out at the divide and the paper was soiled and hung from the ceiling and walls.

First I removed all the paper and canvas and thoroughly cleaned all door and window frames. Then I had the floor leveled and some new flooring put in where it was badly worn. The window in the north was in the corner of the room and my closet door opened against it, so I had it moved about mid-way of the wall making the room cooler. This also did away with the bulge in the wall. I had a book case built in the south wall which added much to the appearance and convenience of the room. I filled all the cracks in the wall with rags and tacked strong cloth over them. Then I re-canvassed the ceiling and wall.

My room is very pretty, with touches of pink, green and orchid. I painted my bed and dresser orchid and I've planned to have green curtains and a green spread for my bed. The wood work is done in ivory. My floor will have to be painted and plan to make a braided rug with bit of yellow, orchid and green in it.

I can hardly give an estimate of the cost of the room as I have no bedroom alone. I have made quite confined my improvements to the change all over my house, but that's another story. I have done a lot of work, and for one who hasn't tried I will say that it takes a long time to remodate an old house.
