SPLINTERS

Following the 4,000 bale increase in the government estimate Thursday cotton went off 93 points. Just a sample of how they shear the lambs.

And we wonder if some of the bulls in the cotton market didn't feel more like steers.

If Old Man Weather don't give us a rest we're going to get to feeling like the ground hog that failed to see his shadow on the second day of February following an early winter.

Signs of returning Prosperity:— (Don't flinch, it isn't that kind.) The public square is sodded to grass this fall instead of turnips.

Cal Cooledge says that when the United States has had a great task to perform they have always turned to the Republican Party. Oh yeah, and our '28 Model A has been a good one too, but it wouldn't start this morning.

The local branch of the Federal Government retains the characteristics of the Party in power by being wet on one side and dry on the other. On the wet side an excellent crop of tadpoles and wiggletails are breeding under the very favorable climatic conditions while on the dry side Russian thistles, Johnson grass and other native shrubbery lead a touch of color to an otherwise drab looking vacancy.

And now they tell us that a lot of tramps voted for Mrs. Ferguson down at Gladewater. Don't boast Gladewater, us and whole lot more voted for her up here, too.

Walter Woodul got his Investigation Bill in a pigeon hole and can't get it out. He has our sympathy. A bunch of the bills we sent the first have got in a pigeon hole too.

The English teacher of our old Alma Mater informs us that our idea of the present day school boy not liking to start to school in the fall is a lot of bologna, (she didn't say bologna but that's what she meant) If she is right and we are wrong, which is usually the case, then all we can say is that times have sure changed since the days of Hicks vs Bisbee.

Although it doesn't require any brains to fill a column of space, it does require a whole lot of words and the unfortunate key pounder who runs out of both at the same time is to be pitied. So for that reason, with your sympathy and our patched pants, we will attend the State Convention at Lubbock the first of next week and while we are not expecting to replenish our supply of brains to any large degree, it is unanimously predicted that there will be words. We'll get a supply for the next addition.

Foolish questions and dumb answers: Why is the Texas Legislature like that? Because.

The abbreviation of G. O. P. Bullington's name in the tally column of the election returns will probably be what he's thinking anyway.—Answer to question in Dallas News.

Board of Equalization Meets Wednesday

The City Board of Equalization met Wednesday and actions taken at the meeting resulted in about a 10 percent decrease in City taxes this year. The board is composed of John Atterbury, Leroy Melton, James A. Stephens and Chas. Moorhouse. Mayor Jones called the attention of the body to the large amount of delinquent taxes on the rolls, which the body gave consideration in their adjustments. It is expected that the City will make a strenuous effort to collect as many of these delinquencies as possible this year.

Why The GOP's Turn To The Democrats

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—A recent speech by A. J. Kennen, long active in Republican politics of Audrianna county, Missouri, seems to answer the timely query, "What are the reasons of the great body of Republicans who are reported from all sections of the country as turning to the Democratic party in this campaign for changing their allegiance?" Mr. Kennen's reasons seem to be such a composite of the views of average intelligent Republicans who in mass numbers have decided to cast their votes against the Hoover administration.

Speaking at Laddonia, Mr. Kennen said:

"We who have been Republicans will have to admit that we have been wrong.

"We cannot ignore the fact that after three Republican administrations this country is facing ruin. And this ruin was not caused by flood of fire or acts of God, but by misgovernment.

"If anyone had told me 20 years ago that I would ever speak at a Democratic meeting I would have thought he was crazy. But life plays strange pranks, and time brings about many necessary changes. And we would have to disregard the evidence of our own eyes to deny that changes in Government are very necessary this time.

"When grain is hardly worth hauling to market and people are starving for bread, when cotton and wool are scarcely worth gathering and people are ragged, when millions walk the streets and highways of the land seeking work not to be had, something is wrong.

"At the Republican National convention, composed principally of Federal office holders, the convention endorsed every act of Herbert Hoover, renominated him and Charles Curtis, placed his Cabinet officers in charge of his campaign and in effort said to you and me—There it is; we have no apology to make. Take us just as we are, just as we have been and we'll give you the same treatment that you have been getting for the past four years.

"And so I ask you folks, who like myself are trying to make a living from your farms, your small business enterprises, your professions, your labor; is this what you want?

"If it is, go ahead and vote the Republican ticket, just because you always have before, and in so doing you will endorse and approve what you have been getting and ask for more.

"But if you are sick and tired of special privilege, weary and disgusted with Government for the benefit of the few at the expense of the many, use this opportunity to come on into the Democratic primary and exercise your right of choice in the selection of the men who are to con-

Rains Give Cotton A Setback; Already Late

Intermittent rains and overcast skies for the past week have delayed cotton gathering and as the crops were late this year, picking will probably run well into the winter. Much of the cotton is opening and as soon as the ground dries out so the farmers can get in the fields, the crop will begin moving to market. Much of the wheat land has been broke and the slow falling rains insure a good season in the ground. Grass has been materially benefitted and some stock water put out. Roads and high ways are in bad condition and at times have been virtually impassible. Reports from over the state show that in many instances, bridges and roadbeds have been washed out by floods and much damage done. Towns along the border have suffered great losses from floods and the Abilene country reports loss of lives and property.

Schools Open Monday

The Benjamin schools opened Monday with a good enrollment. The faculty is composed of Mr. P. L. Armour, superintendent, Vernon Brewer, principal, Robert Martin, principal of the grades, Misses Helen Bisbee, Elizabeth Myers, Mable Moorhouse, Glenn Barker, Francis Moorhouse and Catherine Jones.

Although attendance has not been as good as it might, due to the rainy weather and the inability of the school bus to make the rounds, the school work has gotten under way and the pupils are showing a good interest in their work. The Mexican Ward school is being taught by Miss Juanita Cockrell this year and opened at the same time that the city schools opened.

Football at Dallas Fair

A total of 13 football games have been scheduled for the 1932 State Fair of Texas, which include 4 major college games and 9 high school football games. One college game, S. M. U. and Centenary College of Shreveport, will meet at Night, Saturday, Oct. 22, the first time either school has played under lights. S. M. U. will also meet Rice Institute of Houston during the fair, and the other big game will be on the second Saturday between Texas University and Oklahoma University.

Tobe Roberts of the Patton Ranch in King County passed through here Thursday on his return to the ranch after a visit with his parents who live near Goree.

Jay Marlow, head salesman for the Propps Motor Company, was in Truscott on business Thursday. Mr. Marlow is enthusiastically pushing the sales of the new V-8's as well as the B-4's.

Lee Coffman of Goree is here on business. Mr. Coffman was formerly Tax Assessor of the county and is one of the old timers in this section. He is a Democrat of the old school and a fisherman without peer.

"And after the primary, stay right in there and let's try a new deal that Governor Roosevelt has promised us.

"Should any man ridicule you for leaving the Republican party, tell him that he is mistaken, that the Republican party left you and there is no other place on earth for a rational man to go."

New Grocery Store To Open Here Saturday

J. L. Galloway has been in Wichita Falls this week purchasing a stock of goods for the new General Foods Store which opens here Saturday. The new store occupies the same building which formerly housed the G. M. G. Store and is owned by J. W. Melton. The stock and fixtures of the old store were purchased at a recent sale by Judge Melton. The interior of the store is being redecorated this week and a coat of paint greatly improves the looks of the fixtures. The store is being more conveniently arranged for the display and sale of the merchandise. The new business will be managed by Mr. Galloway.

Ross Bates of Goree was here on business the first of the week. Mr. Bates is a successful farmer near Goree and recently took advantage of the rise in the cotton market by disposing of a hundred bales of cotton which he had been holding. He raised a good wheat crop this year and has about 1200 bushels of wheat in his bins awaiting a rise in the wheat market.

Attorney M. F. Billingsley of Munday was in Benjamin Wednesday on business.

John Adams and son and Buster Tolson, cattle buyers from Bomarton were in Benjamin this week on business.

F. M. Patton, ranchman of King County was through here on his way to Fort Worth the first of the week.

Joe Wheeler and family have moved to Westbrook where Mr. Wheeler will manage a gin this fall. Mr. Wheeler and his folks have been in Benjamin just long enough to become real citizens and it is with regret that their many friends see them depart. Joe is an efficient gin man and will do well in his new position.

Judge Nichols of Dallas was here on business Wednesday. He is a prominent lawyer in the metropolitan city and a brother of Luther Nichols of statewide fame in the legal profession.

Sorosis Club First Meet New Year Thursday

The first meeting of the Sorosis Club for this year will be held next Thursday afternoon, September 15, at the Club room in the Masonic Building. A President's Day Program has been arranged with Mrs. D. J. Brookreson as leader. The program is a prayer by Mrs. J. C. Coffey; Roll Call and recommendations from summer reading; song by the club; a reading by Miss Emma Jane Alexander; three minute talks by past presidents; musical selection by Miss Helen Bisbee; and the president's message by Mrs. D. J. Brookreson.

Bill Ryder of Gilliland was in Benjamin Monday. He reports that his crops are looking good and some of his cotton shows to make around a bale to the acre. The Gilliland community is in one of the best farming sections in the county and it is probable that between four and five thousand bales of cotton will be ginned there this fall. Considerable wheat and small grain is raised there as well as feed.

Joe Lee Ferguson of Haskell was in Benjamin on business Tuesday. He is a brother of the former-Governor James E. Ferguson.

Twenty members of one family in Wisconsin have contributed $1,039 to the Democratic National Campaign fund—an excellent example to all families to contribute within their means.

Senator Moses has become the chief claim agent of the Republican campaign, basing his predictions on Mr. Hoover's success in bringing about the eclipse of the Sun of Prosperity.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Lott of Fairview are here visiting relatives and friends.

What this paper needs is a thousand more cash in advance subscribers. And we wouldn't hoard the money either.

After Commander-in-Chief Hoover evicted the defenseless bonus campers from Washington with Federal troops—infantry with fixed bayonets, cavalry with drawn sabers, the chemical warfare section with its bombs, all reinforced by tanks—a military spirit became evident in administration circles and the conduct of the Hoover campaign. For instance, in addressing his latest conference of financiers and industrialists, Mr. Hoover told them that he had won the financial battle of Chateau Thierry and was preparing for a Soissons offensive.

The Hoover election campaign of late has relied almost entirely upon the army and navy, members of the Cabinet and the "little Cabinet." Therefore, the principal Cabinet spokesmen for the Hoover candidacy were Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, Secretary of the Interior Wilbur and Secretary of the Treasury Mills, but suddenly the vanguard of Cabinet electioneers was most conspicuous by the presence of Secretary of War Hurley, Assistant Secretary of War Davison, Secretary of the Navy Adams and Assistant of the Navy Jahncke. It was stated at the time that Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, present military administrator of the Philippines, would be commandeered to reinforce the Cabinet spokesman.

Secretary Hyde and Secretary Wilbur were completely in eclipse. The former, assailing Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt's reforestation plan to aid employment, had stated that one man could plant a million trees in a day, and had been laughed out of the picture; the latter had told a Philadelphia audience that the depression had been good for children's health by reason of a more restricted diet, which started a demonstration resembling an incipient riot.

Secretary Mills, however, kept abreast of the military spokesman under the changed order, although he has been less convincing in his statements since he gave Congress three different sets of figures to balance the budget—all wrong.

And now the army and navy Cabinet spokesman have met with disasters. When Assistant Secretary Davison attempted to asperse the status of the evicted ex-service men by calling them "a polyglot mob of tramps and hoodlums, plus a sprinkling of communist agitators," and repeated the stale and exploded reasons given for their eviction, he was booed and otherwise treated with disrespect at an American Legion meeting in Brooklyn.

Secretary of War Hurley's Providence, R. I., attack on Governor Roosevelt's Columbus speech has been so completely answered and his statements so thoroughly refuted that he appears to be the only casualty of that quixotic assault. Following the hostile reaction to the Davison speech, the White House gave notice that Cabinet members who are Legionnaires, speaking at Legion conventions, speak only for themselves and not for the Administration. This appears to put a quietus upon the proposed speech by Secretary Hurley at the forthcoming national gathering of the Legion at Portland, even though the bold Mr. Hurley had the temerity to attempt a defense of Mr. Hoover and himself in the matter of eviction of the ex-service men.

Secretary of the navy Adams made his blunder when he told an assemblage of Republican women in Boston that he heard President Hoover in 1929 beg Mr. Mellon to use all the powers of the Federal Reserve Board to check the wild speculation in Wall Street, which was an admission that President Hoover foresaw the danger but issued no warning to the people.

As a fitting ending to the fiasco of the military conduct of the campaign, Mr. Hoover has ordered Colonel Theodore Roosevelt to remain in the Philippines.

With the entire Cabinet self-discredited in its conduct of Mr. Hoover's campaign, it would seem that the so-called Hoover High Command (the new military title for the board of strategy) will be limited to the members of the secretariat loaned by big corporations and the squad of guest correspondents at the Rapidan camp.

It is estimated that the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and the revision of the Hawley-Smoot tariff would give the government a revenue of possibly two billion dollars. With nearly four billion dollars deficit in the United States Treasury are you going to vote to give this revenue to the government by voting the Democratic ticket, or vote against it by voting for Mr. Hoover, who has refused to avail himself of this revenue for the past four years?

Even though the stock market took it on the chin yesterday for a 93 point drop following the Government estimate for August, it is likely that the September estimate will come in at a smaller figure. 4,000 bales is not many, comparatively speaking, and if the floods over the country generally haven't damaged the crop much, it is because they weren't there in the first place. The estimate was only for the month of August and the damage that has been done, has taken place since that time. In view of the professed policy of the Farm Board to hold off the market something close to a million and a half bales, the law of supply and demand may get a chance to strut its stuff this year. If the law works the way the books say it does, cotton cannot help but increase in price. What the mutton heads on Wall Street do to the market remains to be seen but if they haven't learned anything in the past three years, it is a safe prediction that seats will be selling at a further reduced price. Anyhow, optimism is in the air until the flop comes, we are going to enjoy this little period of cheerfulness while we may.
