

Out of Place on the Farm

A giant peacock showed up at the Frank Bezner Jr. farm, four miles south of Hereford, three years ago and decided to stay. The beautiful, multi-colored peacock, dubbed "NBC" by Mrs. Bezner, hangs around the barns, eating grain, and occasionally ventures close to the highway, prompting motorists to slow down and stare, according to Bezner, who said that two truck drivers last week tried unsuccessfully to capture the bird. Bezner hopes to give his "pet" a gift in the near future -- a peahen. [Brand photo by Paul Sims]

Teng-Nixon Talk Ends D.C. Visit

WASHINGTON (AP) - China's Teng Hsiao-ping wound up his Washington visit Wednesday with a bit of sightseeing, a private meeting with Richard M. Nixon and the signing of accords with President Carter aimed at boosting China's great leap toward modernization.

The late afternoon signing ceremony in the White House East Room was the climax of the Chinese vice premier's three-day official visit. The agreements set the framework for cooperation in science and technology, cultural exchanges and establishment of consulates in the United States and China.

The most important agreement to China's rapid drive under Teng's leadership to become a world industrial power is the science-technology accord, which administration sources say will concentrate at first on space, agricultural research and student exchanges.

Teng leaves Thursday morning on a cross-country tour to Atlanta, Houston and Seattle, arranged to satisfy his interest in American technology and trade. His eight-day U.S. visit, the first by a leader of the People's Republic of China, ends Monday.

Before the White House signing ceremony, Teng had breakfast with members of Carter's Cabinet at Blair House, the presidential guest quarters across Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House, and made hurried tours of the Smithsonian Institution's National Air and Space Museum and the Lincoln Memorial.

At the space museum, he was accompanied by Apollo 11 astronaut Michael Collins, now undersecretary of the Smithsonian. His private tour included a two-minute inspection of a full-size replica of the Skylab orbital space station.

At the Lincoln Memorial, Teng walked up the 56 marble steps and, with the help of an Army enlisted man, laid a wreath at the foot of Lincoln's massive statue. He raised his right arm in salute as a bugler played Taps.

Back at Blair House, the Chinese leader received an honorary doctor of laws degree from Temple University, which cited him for having "revamped the Chinese educational system by re-establishing academic standards" and leading "a fundamental revolution" aimed at achieving a "just and prosperous society."

Teng then conferred for nearly an hour with Nixon. It was the former president's historic trip to China in February 1972 that began the sequence of events that led to U.S. diplomatic recognition of the Peking government Jan. 1.

Neither Nixon nor his aide, Jack Brennan, would comment on the meeting when they emerged from Blair House. Nixon carried a gold box, apparently containing a gift from Teng. There were unconfirmed reports the Chinese had invited Nixon to make his third visit to China sometime this spring.

While the signing of the U.S.-China agreements represented an important achievement for Teng, the vice premier also succeeded Tuesday during appearances on Capitol Hill in easing the fears of at least some members of Congress over Taiwan's future security.

In normalizing relations with mainland China, the United States terminated its 1955 mutual defense treaty with the Nationalist government on Taiwan. Most of the congressional opposition to recognition of the Peking government centers on questions about the fate of Taiwan, with which the United States has ended formal relations.

In addition, apparently against the wishes of administration officials, Teng took the occasion of a reception in his honor at the National Gallery of Art Tuesday night to lambaste the Soviet Union as threatening a new world war.

The White House had no comment Wednesday on Teng's speech, which accused the Russians of backing Vietnam's "massive armed aggression" against Cambodia and of "the zealous pushing of a global strategy for world

For Food Corn Production

Growers Still Refusing Contracts

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor

The first stage in what has apparently turned into a "war of nerves" between area food corn producers and Frito-Lay Inc. of Dallas ended Wednesday with old contract growers for the most part still refusing to sign contracts with Frito-Lay for food corn production in the local area in 1979.

Dallas-based Frito-Lay, which acquired facilities of Grain Handling Corporation in Hereford, Hart, Olton, Hart Camp and Springlake on Jan. 1, recently offered food corn production contracts of $5 per hundredweight for yellow corn and $6 per hundredweight for white corn for use in food items.

The contract offers were made after a meeting with representatives of the High Plains Farm Bargaining Association, headquartered at Dimmitt, which was organized recently to negotiate for improved commodity contracts in the region.

Frito-Lay gave old contract growers in the area through Jan. 30 to sign the new production contracts, but the HPFBA indicated that the F-L contract offers were not sufficient to meet production costs and provide a profit to farmers, and discouraged area producers from inking for food corn production with F-L.

Today Frito-Lay will apparently open contract signing to a waiting list of area corn producers who had indicated a desire to obtain food corn production contracts in recent years, but were unable to get them.

The waiting game to see who signs and who does not will evidently resume with the action.

"The old growers were given a period from Jan. 18-31 for signing up, but to the best of our knowledge, only two contracts have been signed at this time," reported Weldon Davis of Hart, president of the newly-chartered bargaining group.

"We're talking about 100,000 acres of food-grade corn grown by 300 producers in a triangle area from Plainview to Hereford, to Friona, to Muleshoe, and back to Plainview. This isn't a lot of production on a statewide scale, but it is extremely important to the High Plains and South Plains," he continued.

Davis admits that Frito "is not desperate for corn at this time. Their barns are full and they have enough corn to go into March."

But the Hart corn producer maintains that F-L may still negotiate with the area's food corn producers.

"Frito is going to try for new growers, beginning today. We've heard some rumors that they may try to circumvent the Farm Bargaining Association by going to the North Plains, in the Dalhart area to let contracts. We are not sure just how well the people on the North Plains are informed on this issue right now, and we've had to rely on personal contact to convey the message. But water is deeper on the North Plains, and though there's more of it, it also costs more to pump. Those growers may find their expenses

Sunday Gas Sale Ban Studied In Midst of Iran Oil Shortages

WASHINGTON (AP) - Government officials, faced with continuing shortages of Iranian crude oil, are considering a ban on Sunday gasoline sales and a variety of other measures reminiscent of the 1973-74 Arab oil embargo.

Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger said Wednesday the Carter administration will decide by April 1 whether to impose mandatory conservation measures. But he said such actions would not be needed if the public voluntarily saves fuel.

Among the mandatory measures that might be taken are allocating gasoline from refineries to distributors and suspending evening and Sunday sales, government officials said.

Also under consideration is limiting motorists' purchases to alternate days.

Direct rationing has been ruled out, officials said.

So far, Schlesinger said, "the position of the U.S. has not been dramatically affected" by the upheaval in Iran that forced the shah to leave that country. The virtual shutoff of oil exports from Iran "is just beginning to bind now," he said.

The United States normally gets about 5 percent of its crude oil from Iran.

Other oil producing countries, most notably Saudi Arabia, have made up for much of the Iranian loss. But there have been reports the Saudis would produce an average of only 9.5 million barrels a day in the first four months of 1979. The normal daily average is nearly 10.5 million barrels.

Schlesinger said he had seen nothing from Iran that would indicate a return to normality is imminent.

Property Tax Repeal Sought By Colleges

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - College presidents supported a proposal Wednesday to repeal the 10-cent state property tax and to substitute a special fund to finance many campus construction projects.

Legislative action was concentrated in committees. The House and Senate met briefly to hear Chief Justice Joe Greenhill of the Texas Supreme Court deliver the first "State of the Judiciary" address.

Greenhill urged submission of a constitutional amendment giving the 14 courts of civil appeals jurisdiction in criminal cases.

He said this would ease the workload of the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, which will be handling 6,000 cases a year by 1980.

Repeal of the property tax - with other taxes dedicated for construction - was described as a boon to the economy and a method to ease lobbying pressure for college building dollars.

Lyle Hamner, a lobbyist for the elderly, said with property values doubling every three years, the property tax is "fast

Emotions Peak as Tractors Near Goal

Editor's Note: The following was written by a Deaf Smith County farmer on the tractorcade to Washington D.C. Farmers are scheduled to arrive in the nation's capital on Monday for an intensive lobbying effort for higher farm prices.

BY KEY CRAWFORD
On The Tractorcade

It is impossible to describe our caravan to anyone. Words cannot begin to convey the gamut of emotions that run through a person's head and heart as we travel toward our goal.

Look at the caravan; the first thing that stands out, are the tractors, proudly flying "Old Glory," and State, and American and American Agriculture Movement flags. Then you notice the support vehicles flying similar flags. Then you must read the signs expressing despair, anger, frustration, humor, and even Biblical quotations.

Look most closely, though, at the participants. These people, men, and women, range in age from 12 to 70 years roughly, and all exhibit strength, determination, and a fierce love for their God, their country, and each other. These are the people who will help someone in trouble without thought of repayment.

These people know that they are probably the best hope for a dying way of life. These people have enough courage to disrupt their lives and their families for a chance to help each other. These are the people who have been seen by thousands of Americans, as they write their page in the history books of our country.

One can stand beside the highways many times a day and watch the procession go by and it will always send a chill down your spine. If you have any love for your country, you will find your eyes are moist. You will notice, though, that the same things have happened to people around you, and you feel proud to be a part of such a happening. At the same time, you feel humble, that your part seems so small, and others are doing so much more than you.

You wish that the people back home could be here to see the thousands of people who daily line the roadsides and overpasses waving flags and signs and cheering as the tractorcade rolls grandly past. You know, however, that without the people back home to watch after our farms and businesses, and send their contributions, it would be impossible for most of us to be here. This is truly a united effort among all farmers of our country.

So we travel on our way, amazed and gratified by the hospitality and good wishes of all the people that we come in contact with. We realize that not all people agree with us or even understand our purpose, but now, they are willing to listen. Maybe our display of determination by driving tractors thousands of miles is working even better than we had hoped. People seem to realize that something is wrong, and here is a group with an affirmative view on setting things right. Here is a group with enough courage to try!

To the people back home who are supporting us, we humbly thank you. Your part is so necessary to ours.

To those who are joining us, welcome. You are becoming a part of the finest group of people alive.

To those who still haven't joined, here is a thought for you: Wouldn't it be a shame if we should lose our fight for parity and our way of life and our country when, with just one more participant, we could have won?

Experts Say Darvon

Tied to Deaths

WASHINGTON (AP) - A group of drug experts says Darvon appears no more effective than common aspirin and says abuse of the popular prescription pain reliever has been implicated in a number of deaths.

The Senate Small Business subcommittee on monopolies was to hear further viewpoints today on the drug, once the most popular pain reliever prescribed by doctors.

The Health Research Group, which was formed by Ralph Nader, has asked the federal government to either ban the use of propoxyphene, a basic ingredient of Darvon and several other compounds using different trade names, or to place federal limits on its availability.

Darvon is a trade name used by Eli Lilly and Company.

Dr. Charles G. Moertel of the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., told the subcommittee Wednesday: "I would seriously question whether the use of Darvon is good medical practice at all." Eli Lilly officials did not testify Wednesday but the company said in a statement Darvon had given relief to millions of persons during the past 21 years and there was no evidence that propoxyphene products "have ever caused death or serious injury when used as recommended."

Khomeini Returns After 14 Years

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini returned home to a wildly enthusiastic welcome today and declared his revolution to overthrow Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and install an Islamic republic will not be complete until U.S. influence is expelled from Iran.

Railing against "despotism and colonialism" that he said has perverted Iranian culture, the bearded, Shiite-Moslem patriarch said the shah "has made the army follow the orders of another country," and his movement will be successful only "when the roots of colonialism are pulled out."

He did not mention the United States by name, but there was no doubt what country he was talking about.

Khomeini's chartered Air France jumbo jet from Paris circled three times and landed at 9 a.m. as a million jubilant followers lined the 11-mile route he took from the airport to the capital's largest cemetery. Some 50,000 "Islamic police" maintained order all along the route, and more than 100,000 supporters jammed the cemetery.

Shouts of "God is great" and "Welcome Khomeini" greeted the ayatollah, an exile for more than 14 years, as he rode through the throng in the back of a blue Mercedes. Occasionally, the chauffeur accelerated to force the car through the swarming crowd.

Patty Hearst Walks From Federal Prison

PLEASANTON, Calif. (AP) - For Patricia Hearst, today promised release from prison and the first taste of freedom in five years - neither terrorized by kidnapers, stalked by the law nor shackled by the state.

The newspaper heiress was expected to leave the federal prison here on the arm of her fiancé, police officer Bernard Shaw, accompanied by her attorney and two bodyguards. In Hillsborough, about 40 miles away, her parents, four sisters and friends planned a champagne brunch to celebrate the homecoming.

The family's last reunion outside the prison was May 15, 1977, when Miss Hearst was sent to Pleasanton after unsuccessful appeals of her bank robbery conviction.

Her release was three days before the fifth anniversary of her kidnapping by the Symbionese Liberation Army, and three days after President Carter commuted her seven-year sentence for joining the SLA in a San Francisco bank robbery.

Miss Hearst, who makes her 25th birthday Feb. 20, served a total of 23 months behind bars.

George Martinez, Miss Hearst's attorney, said she sent her personal belongings home Wednesday in three cardboard boxes. Included was a flowered afghan she crocheted in prison and dubbed her "clemency blanket" as she hoped for release by Christmas, he said.

A complainant at 114 Ave. E. told police Wednesday that someone shot a window at her house with a BB gun, sometime Tuesday evening.

Kids Remember Shooting

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Gunshots erupted from a brown-and-white house across the street. Suddenly, children were bleeding, crying "Daddy," and clutching their wounds.

"There was shooting and it sounded like firecrackers," recalled 8-year-old Scott Sath, a pupil at Cleveland Elementary School. "But when they told us to run, I knew it wasn't firecrackers."

"So I started running then we had to lie down on the floor so they wouldn't get us," the boy said. "One of the teachers told us to go into the auditorium. They blocked off the doors with tables and pianos."

Outside, Principal Burton Wragg and custodian Michael Suchar lay dead, felled by a spray of bullets that wounded eight students and a police officer Monday.

Eleven-year-old Paul Carr was walking in the main gate at the school with his friend James Lira, "when we heard these pops."

"I thought it was all a joke, but we saw a girl lying on the floor," the sixth grader recalled. "James rolled her over and she had a hole in her leg."

Apparently the first to be shot was Monica Selvig, 9, who was reported later as hospitalized in critical condition with a stomach wound.

Then, said student Lorra Craig, "Mr Wragg ran out to help and he was shot. And then the custodian ran out and he got shot, too."

Phillip Bragg, an 11-year-old sixth grader, said the two men were lying in the bushes. "I walked by and I could hear them moaning," he said. The 15-minute fusillade of gunfire sent this tree-lined residential community in suburban San Carlos into a spasm of terror.

"A girl was shot in the hip and the stomach," recalled Rebecca Wexler, 11. "She was down on the ground throwing up. She was saying 'she wanted her daddy.'"

Frank Stites said his 7-year-old daughter Audrey, who was released from a hospital after being treated for an elbow wound, wasn't yet

It's hard to say what might be going on in her mind," he said. Nearly seven hours after the shooting began, Brenda Spencer, 16, left the house, laying down two weapons - a .22 caliber rifle and an air rifle.

The children stayed in the besieged school for almost five hours until they were taken out a back door into buses. Meanwhile, their parents waited in anguish - several mothers quietly sobbing as they stood on street corners, others openly hysterical.

After hearing some children had been taken to a hospital, Theresa Neal pleaded: "Who are they? Who are they? I have three kids in that school."

In a hallway behind the lobby at Alvarado Community Hospital, there were still more tears as doctors told a woman that her husband, custodian Michael Suchar, 56, was dead.

"No, no, no, don't tell me he's dead," the woman cried. "He can't be dead. He's not dead."

Judges Have Differing Thoughts on Pardons

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Two Criminal Court judges issued conflicting rulings Wednesday on the question of whether Gov. Lamar Alexander had the authority to block the release of prison inmates ordered freed by then-Gov. Ray Blanton.

Judge John Draper found in favor of Alexander in the case of convicted murderer Fred Smith. Blanton had commuted Smith's 10-year term on Jan. 15, but Alexander, after being sworn in three days early on Jan. 17, ordered the prisoner held.

Moments after Draper released his decision, Judge Raymond Leathers held in a similar case that Blanton's commutation of Joseph W. McKenna's 35-year term for armed robbery was valid.

Draper said Smith's commutation papers were not effective because they had not been handed to the warden of the prison. But Leathers said precedents show a "commutation does not require delivery, acceptance or consent to make it binding."

The rulings add new confusion to the question of whether Alexander acted properly in halting the release of 14 inmates who remain in jail despite Blanton's orders.

Smith and McKenna were trustees assigned to the Executive Residence while Blanton was governor. Both had sued for release.

On Tuesday, Alexander freed two of 16 convicts made eligible for immediate release by Blanton. He acted after the step was recommended by the state Board of Pardons and Paroles.

Blanton issued 49 commutations and three pardons the night of Jan. 15, but when Alexander assumed office Jan. 17, three days early, he said no convicts could be released except on his order.

Democratic leaders backed the early installation of Alexander, a Republican, to oust Blanton, a Democrat, and thwart his power to grant additional executive clemencies.

Death Convictions Upheld in Court

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals upheld the death penalty convictions Wednesday of John Lewis Wilder and Artis Armour in the robbery-shooting of a Hooks service station attendant.

A Tarrant County jury found the two Mount Pleasant men guilty in the Dec. 23, 1975, death of Duane Jaizen, 19, in an Exxon station on Interstate 30.

The Mount Pleasant police chief testified that Wilder led him to Armour's house after the shooting and that Wilder got a .38-caliber pistol from Armour. After testing the gun, police decided it was the death weapon and arrested both men.

The men argued that there was not enough evidence to connect them with the death.

Both men gave confessions to police which were introduced at the trial. Armour said he moved the car father from the service station after Wilder had gotten out and gone inside.

Wilder told police he did not intend to shoot Jaizen, but the youth "looked like he was fixing to make a move."

The court dismissed the men's argument.

"The evidence introduced clearly shows that Armour was a party to the offense," the appeals court said. "He was, in effect, the 'wheel man.' In his confession he admits he parked the car on the street instead of the station parking lot, knew in advance he and Wilder were going to divide the money in half and received his share of the money as well as the television."

Firemen Called To Trailer

Hereford volunteer firemen were called to 914 E. 16th Wednesday afternoon to extinguish a mobile home fire, which apparently was started by a curling iron in the bathroom. The home, owned by Doug Riley and rented by Gene Cooksey, suffered heavy fire, smoke and water damage. Firemen had the fire under control within 10 minutes after arriving.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor: As a concerned citizen it has been brought to my attention the problems arising at the Community Center when they sponsor teen dances.

The residents of Hereford are very fortunate to have a nice center for their young people to gather for recreation and dances instead of being turned loose on the streets. Of course this privilege the teenagers have is being abused by some older outsiders trying to influence them by their presence, alcohol, drugs, etc.

If the youth did not have this center where would the 200 to 300 youth be on a Friday or Saturday night?

I think it is time some of the parents get out from in front of the TV and volunteer four hours of their time to help sponsor a dance. Why should we expect one lady at the Community Center to baby sit with all 200 to 300 teenagers and then complain when two or three do something wrong and are reprimanded?

I think it is our duty as a parent to call and volunteer our services in order to make Hereford a better community for our young people to live in. They are our leaders of tomorrow and they need more direction today.

Corn Growers

right in line with our own, and discover that they can't afford to grow $5 and $6 per cwt. food grade corn either," Davis stated.

"I think the people on the waiting list for contracts have been taking a serious look at the F-L contracts being offered this year as well, and they are now real conscious of the cost situation. They've started to see what we're talking about," he continued.

The matter of spiraling production costs is the key issue in the young bargaining association's quest for $6 per hundredweight yellow food corn and $7 per hundredweight white food corn contracts for the current year.

During HPFBA member sessions held in mid-January in Dimmitt, area corn producers compiled figures for an average production cost for food corn, and then came up with average, suggested contract prices.

Association members recommended a price of $6.38 per hundredweight for Frito-Lay yellow corn, $7.77 per hundred for Frito-Lay white corn, and $5.68 per hundred for commercial corn.

Starting statistics on cost of production released at the annual membership meeting of the Texas Corn Growers Association in Dimmitt Monday added new substantiation to the bargaining group's production cost claims, as figures arrived at by TCGA committee members exceeded those produced by estimates of the farm bargaining group.

In a special report on Monday, Glenn

Odum of Dimmitt, who served on the TCGA production cost committee, reported to growers that the average production cost for commercial yellow corn on the Texas High Plains has now reached an astonishing $491.80 per acre, or $6.27 per hundredweight.

In his report, Odum stated, "We realize there will be some variances from farm to farm, and some farms will show a lower production cost. But we are close on the average figure, and if you don't believe you're spending that much to grow corn, we suggest you sit down and seriously put a pencil to it before you complain about the figure."

Included in the figure released at the Dimmitt meeting were production costs of $62.50/acre for ground preparation; $39.25/acre for fertilizer; $18/acre for seed; $22/acre for herbicides; $23.25/acre for insect control; $143.78/acre for irrigation; $31.36/acre for harvesting; $18.66/acre for drying; $30/acre for management; $19/acre for interest and $84/acre for land cost, including pumps.

"The production figures released at the TCGA meeting on Monday make you feel sick at your stomach to see, but I expect they are pretty accurate. The figure the bargaining association has been using is a little lower than the TCGA figure, but we are convinced that it definitely costs more to produce food grade corn anyway," Davis stated.

"Frito offered a $5 contract for 1978, and producers lost money on food grade corn. They are offering a dollar increase on white corn this year, but we maintain that it's not enough, because white corn just won't yield enough for us," he continued.

Frito contracts would also restrict farmers to planting only 20 percent of the better yielding yellow corn varieties, according to Davis.

"We are entering a stage where it becomes a serious war of nerves. We could possibly wait another month to find something out before final commitments on crops are made. We shoot for a planting date around the first week of April, but we will have to get to work on land preparation just as soon as the ground thaws out. In the end, a lot of the fellows may simply have to go with their own judgment on this issue, and some of them may have to rely solely on commercial corn or switch to another crop if workable contracts aren't obtained. We still feel like we have a chance to negotiate a contract with Frito, however," he indicated.

While dealing with the food corn contracts has remained the major issue before the farm bargaining group, Davis reported that efforts are also underway to negotiate silage corn contracts for area producers, and that individual meetings have been staged with a number of area feedlot operators to seek their opinions on the issue.

"Many of the folks who have been doing the visiting indicate they feel we can probably work something out on silage," Davis concluded.

becoming a burden to older citizens. ... I predict the ad valorem tax will soon be completely eliminated, and this will create a tremendous business boom for the state of Texas."

Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, said his proposed State Higher Education Assistance Fund would "protect the appropriate process and allow colleges to plan for future growth."

"If you turned all the colleges loose on us in one session, there would be a raid on the treasury - they are damned effective lobbyists," Parker said.

Hamner and Parker spoke before the Senate Education Committee, which considered four proposals to repeal the state property tax.

Most of the testimony by Chancellor

E.D. Walker of the University of Texas System and five college presidents, however, was directed at a proposal by Sen. A.R. Schwartz. It also would establish a new fund for construction and the acquisition of materials, such as library books.

"I endorse the concept," said Walker. The proposals were sent to a subcommittee, which will try to write a single measure within two weeks.

Repeal of the tax and creation of the fund would require constitutional changes, which must be approved by the voters.

Seventeen colleges now share in the state property tax, which is expected to yield from $48 million to $59 million a year in 1981-84.

"This is far in excess of the realistic needs" of the colleges, said Schwartz, D-Galveston.

He also proposed a fund for state colleges outside the UT and A&M systems, which get money from the Available University Fund. The new fund would receive an annual appropriation equal to what UT and A&M receive from their fund, or a minimum of $25 million.

Such a fund was suggested in 1974 to head off attempts by other schools to tap the UT-A&M fund.

Sen. W.E. Snelson, D-Midland, said the proposed fund seemed to perpetuate financial inequities among colleges, and Schwartz replied, "It's the same old story - some people walk out of the courtroom saying, 'There ain't no justice.'"

In advance of the signing ceremony, administration sources who asked not to be named said the initial cooperative ventures under the new agreements would focus on China's efforts to develop a domestic communications satellite system, a joint exchange of students and exchange of agricultural information, including animal care, pest control and plant genetics.

Although Carter and Teng's two hou

Paul Harvey News

As Others See Us

Eugene Ionesco, the Paris playwright, recently visited the United States; he says he spent most of his time trying to cheer us up.

He returned to France to report that Americans not only have a very poor opinion of themselves but appear to like it like that.

In a word, we are "masochists."

He says the United States is masochistic - likes to torture itself.

Ionesco uses an expression I expect to hear used frequently from now on even if I have to do it myself. He refers to "anti-American Americans."

He says the United States imagines itself responsible for all that is wrong in the world - in Indochina, Asia, Africa. Whatever unhappiness there is must somehow be "our fault."

Ionesco says that if we Americans had a proper historical perspective we would be patting ourselves on the backs for such accomplishments as civil rights, rehabilitating postwar Europe - the good things we have done. Instead, he says, we are obsessed with guilt about Vietnam, Indian rights, Watergate and so forth.

Ionesco says Europeans do not consider Richard Nixon's faults all that serious; that we, at least, should be able to put that chapter of history behind us and desist from further self-flagellation.

But, he says, one has to conclude that Americans must prefer the self-torture since they continue to blame themselves for everything that is wrong in the world.

George Wallace will be satisfied with an epitaph for himself reading: "I told you so."

Of all the bitter memories of his 59 years - the last six in a wheelchair - Wallace says that, even knowing the price he would have to pay, he would do it just that way all over again.

Even the shooting that disabled him, he says, led to a "great religious experience in 1972" which otherwise he might not have had.

He says, "The Lord works in wondrous ways sometimes to get our attention."

Those of us who have experienced enough public adulation to realize what an arctic applause can be have wondered if George Wallace - a three-term governor, four times a presidential candidate - would be happy in his new job: director of development of rehabilitation resources for the University of Alabama.

But he's proved he's tough. And he may also be able to manage this inevitably painful withdrawal.

Wallace finds satisfaction these days in having "changed the complexion of American political philosophy" - as he puts it. It was Wallace who first identified "segregation" as a "mostly Northern problem."

Nowadays politicians of both parties are protesting that there is too much national government; taxes are too punitive; there is too much bureaucracy. These were the battle cries of Wallace campaigns more than 10 years ago.

So if we can't do better, George Wallace will be satisfied with a political epitaph which says, "I told you so."

Aggie Moms Conduct Installation

New officers were elected and installed at Aggie Mothers Club meeting Monday. Mrs. Hollis Klett assumed the leadership of the club as its president after resigning from her unexpired term as vice president for projects. Mrs. Billy Brown of Adrian assumed the job relinquished by Mrs. Klett.

Officers serving another year were urged by Mrs. Rose to rededicate themselves to their jobs. Those cited were Mesdames Bob Hicks, treasurer; David Beavers, corresponding secretary; and Werner Koelzer, reporter.

Retiring officers are Mesdames Hilrey Aven, recording secretary; Beryl Fish, vice president for membership and telephone, and Alton Hollingsworth, parliamentarian.

During the meeting, Mrs. Fish reported on the condition of her son, David, who was involved in a motorcycle-automobile accident in College Station Jan. 11. Fish suffered a seriously broken wrist and his motorcycle passenger died from internal injuries. Mrs. Fish expressed her amazement and appreciation of the famous "Aggie Spirit" in action among the students and parents who came to the aid and support of her son and the family of the girl who died.

Mrs. Hardin, leaving her office as president of the Aggie Moms for two terms expressed her appreciation for the assistance she had received.

"It is an honor to be your president and it is fun to be a representative of this club at out of town meetings," she concluded. In assuming her new role as president, Mrs. Klett said she "would be looking to everyone for help as we continue to grow."

She went on to announce that the schedule date for the next meeting falls on Feb. 26, a school holiday; the members present agreed to move the meeting date to Feb. 19.

Attending Monday's noon meeting at The Railroad Crossing were Mesdames Fred Alston, Beavers, Clark, Aven, Fish, Hollingsworth, Lyles, Hardin, Hicks, Rose, Klett and Koelzer.

Constitutional politics

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Much as they might like to, congressional leaders see no safe way to ignore the mounting political pressure for a balance-the-budget amendment to the Constitution.

Such proposals have been kicking around Capitol Hill for years, mostly under the sponsorship of conservative Republicans, but have never received serious scrutiny.

Now, with public antagonism towards big government at an all-time high, 22 states have petitioned Congress for a constitutional convention to consider a balance-the-budget amendment. If 12 more states follow suit, such a convention — the first since the Constitution was written — might have to be held.

Many legal scholars fear that a constitutional convention, even if called for a single purpose, might open up the entire document to amendment. Since there is no precedent for such a gathering, the ground rules are anybody's guess.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., chairman of the Senate Judiciary subcommittee on constitutional amendments, now plans to schedule hearings later this winter or early in the spring on the ramifications of a possible constitutional convention and on the balance-the-budget amendment itself.

Bayh may ask Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and members of his Senate Budget committee to participate in the hearings insofar as they address the pros and cons of the proposed amendment.

Most congressional budget experts believe there is no way to write a constitutional requirement for a balanced federal budget without either dangerously straitjacketing the government in times of military or economic crisis or permitting so many loopholes that the amendment is meaningless.

They are hoping the Bayh hearings may drive that point home before too many more states petition Congress for a constitutional convention on the issue.

And the winner is ...

For public consumption, the fight over selection of a site for the 1980 Republican National Convention was waged in purely logistical terms — which city of the seven vying for the convention could provide the best meeting facilities and hotel accommodations.

But as anyone attending last week's GOP National Committee meeting here can testify, the real battle turned on political considerations.

Minneapolis-St. Paul was the only site eliminated for a purely non-political reason: inadequate hotel space.

Miami Beach, New Orleans and Kansas City (the 1976 convention city) fell by the boards because they are located in states which have not ratified the Equal Rights Amendment. New York has no prominent local GOP officeholders (e.g. governor or mayor), and got a bad name for excessive work space-and-equipment charges to the 1976 Democratic National Convention participants.

That left Detroit and Dallas. GOP Chairman Bill Brock, who has consistently sought to broaden the party's base and demonstrate its concern for blacks, the poor, and the cities, opted for Detroit. Party conservatives, especially supporters of Ronald Reagan, fought for Dallas — although mostly they wanted anyone except Detroit.

After a bruising struggle, Brock and his moderate allies won. So Detroit it will be — starting July 14, 1980, which is likely to mean the Democrats wait until August, after the summer Olympic games in Moscow.

Reagan goes a-courting

Ronald Reagan, who spent three days in Washington last week courting Republicans of all stripes on Capitol Hill, appears on the surface to be following the Ed Muskie strategy of 1972 by seeking early public support from party establishment types.

Muskie, of course, had scads of big name Democratic endorsements heading into the primaries six years ago — only to discover that George McGovern had out-organized him on the ground.

Reagan aides insist their man is in a different position, having fought the GOP establishment in 1976. They feel he needs to prove his acceptability to all wings of the party, even if it doesn't garner outright endorsements from many moderates or liberals.

Observing Rally Day

These 45 children and 34 teenagers were part of a salute to the youth of the local Church of the Nazarene last week during Youth and Children's Rally Day services. During the worship service, which was attended by 175 persons, the congregation heard special songs, a youth choir, children's choir and testimonies from the church youth. Bob Huffaker and Ted Taylor are the pastor and youth pastor respectively of the Nazarene Church.

Ann Landers

Greedy Relatives

DEAR ANN: Every so often children write to complain that their father, who is in his 60s or 70s, wants to get married for a second time. Usually the kids don't like the idea.

I come from a large family. In my 62 years of relative-watching, I've seen plenty. If Pa has no money, the kids are happy to see him marry some nice lady who will take him off their hands and keep him out of their hair. If Pa HAS money, they don't like to see a woman get her hands on him because it cuts down their share of the inheritance.

My brother did it exactly right. After his wife passed away, he married a fine woman, even though his two daughters objected violently. They wanted their father to get a pre-nuptial agreement stating that the second wife was entitled to only ten percent of his estate. He told them, "No way, girls. I raised you and sent you to the best schools. Now that you're married, your husbands can take care of you."

Don't you just love it? -- The Owl In Peoria

DEAR OWL: It's delicious! Thanks for sharing. Your brother is a very smart cookie.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Much has been written about what makes a good waitress. Here's the other side of the coin: What makes a good customer.

1. If the sign says, "Please wait to be seated" -- do it! It's terrible when people seat themselves at a messed-up table. The customer is upset because he wants it cleaned up immediately and the waitress hates to listen to people gripe about something that wasn't her fault in the first place.

2. When we walk by with ten plates on our arms, don't ask "Where's my toast?" or, "I thought I got french fries with this." There's nothing we can do at that moment.

3. If you don't like the food, please don't abuse us. We don't cook it -- we just serve it.

4. When a waitress walks over and says, "Are you ready to order?" don't say yes unless you are. You wouldn't believe the time we waste standing around while everyone reads the menu, and debates their preferences.

Ann, be an angel and print this. -- Sore Feet In New Hampshire

DEAR FEET: Here it is -- and I'm sure a lot of readers saw themselves in the column today. You've performed a useful service and I thank you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Two years ago our only son married a girl who was very stand-offish. Shortly after the marriage they moved 200 miles away. We called them several times and invited them to come home for the weekend. They never accepted. We asked if we might come and see their place and were told, "We'll call when we're settled." They never called.

We hear from friends that our daughter-in-law is pregnant. It really hurt to have the news come from outsiders.

We are heartbroken that a woman could turn a devoted son against his own parents this way. Will you address yourself to this subject, please? -- Pennsylvania Heartache

DEAR P.H.: At least half the problem is your son. If he were truly "devoted," his wife could not have created this breach.

Bring this situation out in the open. Find out what is behind the shabby treatment. Silence never solved anything.

District Elk Meeting Raises Record Amount

Nine local members of Hereford Elks Lodge traveled to Childress this past weekend to attend a Vice President-District Deputy Clinic. Representing Hereford were Merl and Martha Bridges, Dick Barrett, Guy and Bessie Lawrence, Grady Swindell, Harold Morgan, Jerry Johnson and James Holmes.

There was a total of 184 present for the district clinic involving eight Elk Lodges in the Panhandle district.

The purpose of these meetings is to raise funds benefitting the Elks Foundation for Handicapped Children, located at Luling. A hospital spokesman and diagnostic teacher, Patrick Cox, presented a film and explained certain procedures being used to help handicapped youngsters.

Merl Bridges was elected District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler for the Panhandle district for the upcoming year.

A total of $2,789.12 was raised during the weekend session for the children's hospital. This amount was greater than any clinic proceeds for the past ten years. The most recent clinic, held in Perryton in August, 1978, earned $2,044 for the Handicapped Foundation, which is supported solely by Texas BPOE Lodges. No state or federal funds are received.

The next Vice President-District Deputy clinic will take place in Lubbock in April, when an added fund-raising event is planned. All lodges in the district will be sponsoring a candidate in a queen's contest with proceeds going to the children's hospital.

A television set was given as a door prize, won by Louise Whittier of Lubbock.

Evangelists to Speak To Women's Aglow Here

Jim and Joy Maloney, full time evangelists, will be speaking here tomorrow during a meeting of Women's Aglow Fellowship in Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room. The couple's presentation will be preceded by a covered dish supper at 7 p.m.

Women's Aglow members are encouraged to bring their husbands and other guests to the meeting.

Following graduation from a California high school, Jim Maloney entered Christ for the Nations Institute at Dallas in preparation for the Gospel ministry. In Dallas, he met his future wife, who joined him in his Christian crusade.

The couple graduated from Bible school and assumed the pastorate of a full Gospel church in Kentucky. In the spring of 1978, the Maloneys began traveling full time in the evangelistic field.

JIM MALONEY

Clothing the Skeleton in the Closet

By GARTH B. THOMAS

President, Deaf Smith County Genealogy Society

"Indeed, it is a small world!" I suspect we all have uttered this thought when, on occasion of striking up a conversation with a complete stranger from a distant place, we find we have mutual acquaintances.

It is with this thought in mind that the D.S.C.G.S. established a file of surnames which are being researched by its members. Genealogists often speculate that we all have crossing ancestral lines only a few generations back. Many with a literal belief in the Book of Genesis theorize that all mankind have a common ancestorhood—Adam and Eve. In fact I have seen an ancestral lineage chart supposedly going back to this illustrious pair.

Because of the number of people actively researching their roots, it is not uncommon to observe two such researchers finding a common ancestral line. It is a happy meeting when each can contribute to the research of the other but far too often they come to that point in the not too distant past when the track disappears because an ancestor lived and died without leaving any apparent record of his life. How many are there like that today? Many think their life is of no interest to anyone, and perhaps their family and associates assess the same value to it and their own as well, as it is so familiar. But their progeny will admire him if they will walk in a wet sand mixed with sufficient amount of cement.

Our DSCGS file has some of man's same fleeting qualities. It won't have much value unless it is kept in order and kept current.

Our program this next meeting which will be held at 7 p.m. tonight in the Heritage Room of the Library will have two parts:

(1) Update file - thus all members are requested to bring in their family charts (indeed, the file may help shrink the world for you, too), and

(2) A talk on Deaf Smith County tax records and their value to genealogists, will be given by Nell Miller, our Tax Assessor Collector.

Does anyone remember a Harry G. and Nora Rice who lived and operated a horseshoeing shop in Hereford, between 1909 and 1912? If so, please phone me at 364-2913.

All are welcome to our meetings and if anyone needs assistance regarding how to begin a family genealogy record our members will be pleased to assist.

Extra bread will stay fresher tasting and keep longer if stored in the freezer, not in the refrigerator, explains Marilyn Haggard, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

The inventor of the cotton gin, Eli Whitney, was born in 1765.

"HAVE TAPE RECORDER, WILL INTERVIEW"
...motto of Hall County History Volunteers

Taped Interviews Preserving Heritage

"The passing of every old man or woman means the passing of some tradition, some knowledge of sacred rites possessed by no other; consequently, the information that is to be gathered for the benefit of future generations must be collected at once or the opportunity will be lost for all time." So stated Edward Sheriff Curtis, the man who devoted his life to photographing the rapidly dwindling North American Indian.

One's heritage and beginnings are in the stories told by grandparents or the old ranch hand who remembers how it was. An individual has these memories of the old West, but what about one's children and grandchildren? From where will their heritage come?

"Have Tape Recorder, Will Interview!" is the motto for the Hall County History Volunteers. The voices and memories of the Hall County citizens are being recorded by volunteers from Memphis and the surrounding area. The original recordings are being placed in the Hall County Heritage Hall in Memphis, Texas, and duplicate copies are filed with the Historic Research Center, Panhandle Plains Historical Museum in Canyon. This cooperative effort by members of the Atlantian Club and the Historic Research Center will insure the preservation of Hall County history for generations to come.

Mesdames W.C. Dickey, J.H. Davis, Virginia Browder and Imogene King are but a few of the many volunteers who have rapidly accepted the responsibility of searching for worthy interview subjects, especially early settlers of Hall County as advocated by Curtis.

A school boy or girl touring the Hall County Heritage Hall in Memphis might be privileged to hear the story that Ivan McElreath tells of "Playing Cowboys" on the Thompson Ranch.

"We were over at Mr. Thompson's working cattle. They had an old heifer we had to catch. We doctored her. It was my job to hold her until they turned her loose. When I did, Mr. Thompson took after me and I just grabbed her by the tail until we got to the fence. It tickled Mr. Thompson and the rest of the fellows. They laughed at me."

"Another time, we were branding cows that Mr. Thompson bought from Mr. Broome and you couldn't find a place to put a brand. I was bringing up cattle and putting them in a crowding pen. Along toward the last, I couldn't do much with them. Mr. Thompson brought out some axe handles—for us to use. I was trying, but the cows would duck their heads and come at me. Now, there's a spot behind an old cow's ear if you know where it is. You can hit her there, and she'll fall like you shot her, so I worked on two of them thataway. I didn't realize what I was doing, but when they ducked their head instead of running, I hit 'em and they went off thisaway (indicating they fell over). The last one that hit (the ground) Mr. Thompson said, "What's the matter with them cattle back there?" The fellows answered, "It's old Ivan and an axe handle." Well, I had to throw my axe handle away, but I told them, "You can just get back here and help me tend 'em now."

This story was but one of many stories told to Imogene King by Ivan McElreath in August, 1978. Through Imogene King's time and effort, area residents will be able to know a little more about their heritage and be able to slip back in time and dream of the frontier.

Texas history is not just about cowboys; it is also about the building of towns as shown through the recollections of Thomas Ewell Noel, a former banker in Hall County.

"Jobs in a small town were not very plentiful for a young man, however. I kept busy most of the time at odd types of work. I was janitor at school, worked in a gin, an oil mill, picked cotton, and shucked corn for a lively stable located just across the street from our hotel.

"In 1912 I moved to Memphis where I was employed at the First National Bank for 37 years. The years 1922 to 1924 were very dry. Prices were low for farm products and most people could not pay their taxes. John D. was president and I was secretary of the Memphis Independent School District during this period. Without tax collection we could not pay our teachers and other creditors. Scrip was issued in denomination of $20 bearing 4% interest. This medium of exchange was accepted by most everyone and was used to pay house rent, board bills, grocery store accounts, such as Neal Grocery whose slogan was 'Meat, Bread and Molasses', and Hogan Mercantile Company, Greens Dry Goods, Bradford Grocery, and others. This scrip was outstanding for several years before it could be paid." Noel was President of the bank from 1940 to 1951. Through his remembering Memphis can be written in the history books.

In addition to the recollections of the old-timers, there are recordings of the histories of the early churches, clubs, banks, schools, and other institutions of Hall County.

An oral history project is also being conducted by the Armstrong County Historical Commission. Mrs. Terrell Christian of Claude is the chairman of this committee. Mrs. Christian and her committee have secured several interviews, including ones with a former wrestler, veterans of World War I, and an early resident of Washburn.

Panhandle County Historical Commissions and organizations are urged to follow the splendid example of the citizens of Hall and Armstrong Counties in collecting oral history while the people who recall it are available.

For information and assistance in beginning this program, one may call Claire R. Kuehn, Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum in Canyon, Texas, 655-7191.

Lockett 77

Cotton like you've never seen!

This great new variety was introduced for wide-area planting only one year ago. And already it's becoming one of the most popular cotton varieties in the Southwest! Farmers who've seen it are excited about its performance. Here's what they liked about Lockett 77:

- "Disease was not a problem." Multiple disease tolerance includes protection against the fusarium wilt-nematode complex.
- "It came out of the ground real fast." Excellent seedling disease escape and cold tolerance provide good early-season vigor.
- "It fit my conditions exactly." Early maturity makes Lockett 77 a good choice for short season production.
- "The lint tested out real well." Fiber qualities are outstanding with good strength and uniformity ratings.
- "Lockett 77 was a beauty in the field." Foliage is sparse on short- to intermediate-size plants. Short, close-fruited branches make Lockett 77 ideal for stripper harvest.
- "The field looked white with my narrow-row planting." An excellent stripper cotton.

If you weren't among the farmers who planted Lockett 77 last year, talk to your ginner. If he doesn't have a supply on hand, he can get it for you. You're going to be really excited about the first field of Lockett 77 you see. It might as well be yours.

Martins Honored At Recent Party

Mr. and Mrs. D.C. Martin were flown to Midland in a private jet for a special celebration of their 50th Golden Wedding Anniversary earlier this month.

The Martins were honored with a reception and dinner party in the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C.D. "Bud" Martin, and granddaughter, Jennifer.

The honorees were presented with a gold anniversary clock, candleabra and an engraved shadow-box of a four-leaf clover commemorating peace, love, life and happiness.

The Martins were married in Seminole, Okla. in 1929 and have resided in Hereford for 31 years. They both were employed by the Hereford Independent School District prior to their retirement in 1974 after 45 years in the education field.

They have been active in numerous community organizations and are members of the Central Church of Christ.

MR. AND MRS. D.C. MARTIN
...celebrate 50th wedding anniversary

At Wits End BY ERMA BOMBECK

"A lot of mothers I know are downright meddling when it comes to their children's selection of a boyfriend or a girlfriend.

They want to know how old, how tall, what their father does, where they live, the scope of their education, what their plans are for the future, and how they feel about children.

I don't care about any of those things. All I want to know is, "Is he or she a local call or a toll?"

I don't remember names or faces of old flames. All I remember is their area code. One of my sons once dated an area code 513 for six months. It was marriage by Ma Bell. I figured we were spending $35 a month to share such insights as:

"What are you doing?"
"I don't want to interrupt you if you're doing something."
"I told you I wasn't doing anything."
"You sure?"
"I'm sure."
"So, what's new?"

Another one of my kids showed an interest in a lovely girl who lived just a few miles from us. It was great. I didn't have to worry about a deep involvement because they were never off the phone. He set his alarm to call her in the morning. At night I used to go in and remove the phone from his ear as he slept. It was like hanging up an umbilical cord. As soon as they left one another at school in the afternoon they would shout, "I'll call you when I get home." I offered to feed him intravenously.

The suggestion by my husband to put a timer by the phone with sand running through was ridiculous. However, I did slip a calendar under his door and circle the month.

Panic didn't set in until one day when I was standing near and saw him dial "1."

"Who are you calling?" I asked.
"You know," he said, "The same person I've been talking with for the last month."

"But I thought she was a local call."
"Don't worry," he said, "It only costs about eight cents a minute. Besides, this isn't just some silly kid infatuation. This is a person I genuinely care for and want to spend the rest of my life with. She's important to me. She's special and there isn't anything I wouldn't do for her."

"I'm glad to hear you say that," I said, "because according to the phone bill you owed us $36.86 in long distance charges."

I learned something that day. When toll charges enter the room...love goes right out the window.

During TCGA Membership Meeting

Freight Rate, Sweetener Legislation, Gasohol Listed as Vital Concerns to State Corn Growers

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor

Don Schlichte, executive director with the National Corn Growers Association, pointed to freight rates, sweetener legislation and expansion of foreign markets for feedgrain through livestock as vital concerns to the corn growers of Texas and the nation during the sixth annual membership meeting of the Texas Corn Growers Association in Dimmitt earlier this week.

Schlichte expressed disappointment at a number of administration and USDA actions concerning agriculture, but emphasized that tremendous market potential still exists for the nation's corn farmers, despite back-to-back record harvests and heavy surpluses of the grain.

"I'm deeply disappointed with USDA's execution of freight rate provisions for corn, which were promised in the last year, but haven't been acted upon. As things stand now, there is discrimination against corn agriculture through freight provisions. The NCGA intends to pursue the freight rate for corn through the Senate and agriculture committees, and we're going to get something done about this issue if at all possible. We've long since learned that the best way to get something done is to avoid the bureaucracy, if possible," Schlichte stated.

Schlichte pointed to sugar sweetener legislation as one of the most vital concerns to this area.

"I can't tell you how disappointed I've been with the administration's policy concerning importation of cheap foreign sugar. This cost you, as growers, five cents per bushel on your corn last year," he claimed.

"We filed suit over sugar processors receiving direct payments in the last year, and the Justice Dept. agreed these payments were illegal, but Presidential Privilege was invoked in the matter. The administration insists on illegal and inflationary direct payments to processors," the NCGA spokesman continued.

Schlichte predicted a tough battle over sugar-sweetener legislation during this session of Congress.

"We have hearings coming up soon, and can look for a hard fight. But there is a 360 million bushel market for corn sweeteners right now, and it can grow to 500 million in two years, or mean 28 cents per bushel to growers right here. We can't pick up that kind of potential elsewhere, and it only makes sense that we defend the rights of sugar and corn growers to maintain and expand these markets," he stated.

The corn executive also listed gasohol as a new and important potential market for corn products.

"Gasohol is being accepted by consumers, and gives better mileage. It's here to stay, and the President is naming a special commission on gasohol. NCGA should land a couple of positions on this commission. Corn has the potential to become a powerful commodity in this country, and I don't think it will be far in the distant future before we'll be exporting gasohol to foreign countries," Schlichte maintained.

He pointed out that areas of Indonesia, Asia and the Middle East are seeking improved food standards, and that building livestock programs in those countries holds excellent potential for expanding corn export markets.

"If we can just get each Japanese to eat one more pound of beef a year, we've found another 13 million bushel market. In the past year, we exported a record 1.9 billion bushels of corn, and this meant another 45 cents per bushel paid to American farmers for their corn," he indicated.

"If we can convince China to build a solid, sound livestock program, that country will become a major export market for our grain," Schlichte continued. "We can turn our dollars paid for foreign oil back into this country by expanding foreign livestock...It's a well known fact that the American dollar is suffering today, but I don't think nearly so many people realize that the $27 billion donated by agriculture to the American balance of payments probably saved our dollar in the past year."

Speaking on production outlook for the 1979 crop year, the NCGA executive painted somewhat less than a bright picture for Texas producers, due to the scope of national plantings.

"I'm sorry to tell you that from initial indications, the stage is being set for an even bigger corn crop in 1979 than in 1978. Already, a lot of the spring work is done in the Corn Belt. Farmers there won't take part in the 1979 farm program, either, because they feel it's a joke. There will be some who will switch from corn to soybeans, but with a heavy layer of snow on now, the soil moisture will be adequate, and I'm afraid there will be a huge corn crop again in 1979," Schlichte predicted.

"Our organization has a goal of exporting an additional billion bushels of corn per year by 1982, and corn farmers and the industry are facing their greatest challenge...turning surplus corn into profitable markets. We must also get out the word...not that agriculture is only four percent of the population, but that agriculture has done a big job in saving the American dollar," he concluded.

Vegetable Prices Expected to Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) - Fresh market vegetables as a group are expected to cost consumers about 10 percent more during the next few weeks than they did this time last year.

But experts say they can't be precise about lettuce.

Agriculture Department economists said in a report Thursday that retail prices will "remain below the record set during the second quarter of last year."

The analysis did not mention or take into account the possible effects of a strike, Performance proves...

The top 8 corn hybrids on the Irrigated Plains are all from Pioneer.

That's a pretty bold claim, we admit. But in farmer's fields, county agent test plots, wherever they're grown, these Pioneer brand corn hybrids consistently out-perform competitive hybrids year after year. Each hybrid has its own particular strong points that make it especially well suited for certain environmental and management conditions. When thoughtfully selected and properly managed to meet the conditions, each of these hybrids delivers top performance...winning performance that's head and shoulders above the competition.

Don't take our word for it. Ask your Pioneer dealer about yield data in your area for the last several years and see for yourself. The consistent performers...the top 8 performers are all from Pioneer!

Short Supply 3195

High-yielding, full-season powerhouse! 3195 gets off to a good start with high seedling vigor, then makes the most of High Plains growing conditions. High test weight grain is hard textured and dries down fast. Ideal for grain or silage.

NEW 3183

Contest winning yield potential with excellent disease tolerance makes 3183 an ideal companion for 3184. It also has excellent seedling vigor plus good standability and stay-green qualities.

A silage grower's dream come true (even if your plans change mid-season)! Tall with good standability and a high grain-to-stover ratio. Adapts well to the high plant populations required for top silage yields. And if your plans change, excellent grain yields make it a profitable grain crop, too.

Short Supply 3184

Steady corn maker, popular for excellent yields and consistent performance. Strong stalks, good roots provide outstanding standability.

3780

The corn you can manage almost like sorghum. Total fertilizer, water and insecticide requirements similar to sorghum. Maximum water use period makes it an ideal companion crop to cotton. Yield average of more than 7,800 lbs./A in four years of High Plains production at 96 locations.

NEW 3311

A new hybrid you can trust like an old friend! It delivers top yields and is an outstanding companion for 3195. It silks earlier than 3195 and performs better under stress.

3541

Very early silking, a long kernel fill period, and fast drydown help 3541 produce extremely high yields for its maturity. Give 3541 the management it needs, and it could easily be your top income producer. Excellent standability, ear retention and head smut tolerance.

3360

High Beef Prices Prompt Dairy Sales

WASHINGTON (AP) - Recent high beef prices have been a big inducement for many dairy operators to reduce their milking herds or sell out altogether, says Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland.

And Bergland says he can't blame anybody who does that. The high market prices for cow beef used to make hamburger has been "really cutting in on the dairy industry," Bergland told reporters this week.

Bergland, who farmed in northern Minnesota before joining the cabinet two years ago, said that relatively low feed expenses and high milk prices are meaning some profits for dairy farmers.

"They're making money in the dairy business, and they ought to because it's pure slavery from my point of view," he said. "I used to milk 10 cows, by hand, and I said if I ever get out of this mess I'll never milk cows again - and I kept my word."

Noting that the number of milk cows continued to decline last year, Bergland said the high prices for "canners and cutters" to make hamburger have helped take a toll.

Frogs Nip Houston For First SWC Win

COLLEGE STATION (AP) - David Britton came off the bench to score 18 points as the 16th-ranked Texas Aggies defeated Southern Methodist 92-56 to average an earlier season loss.

Britton, earlier in the year a starter, sparked the team early in the first half when both teams were playing slow and the Aggies big man 6-11 Rudy Wood was out with three fouls. SMU had to play without freshman sensation Billy Allen, who was recuperating from the flu. The Mustangs had previously defeated the Aggies in Dallas.

The Aggies led the entire game behind the consistent play of Vernon Smith, Woods and Tyrone Ladson, who combined for 41 points.

A&M led by 14 at the half, and quickly moved ahead by more than 30 points with a fourth of the game still to play.

Brad Branson led the Mustangs with 11 points, while Reggie Franklin and Joey Ceravolo each had 10.

A&M is 8-2 in conference play, a half-game behind Texas, and 19-4 for the season. SMU fell to 3-6 in conference and 8-11 for the year. The Ponies 56 points was their lowest production of the season.

"They played a great defensive game, just a great defensive game," SMU coach Sonny Allen said.

"We went along for about 15 or 16 minutes in the first half and played even with them, but then they set us down for a while with their defense, and we could never get back in it."

Britton said it probably helped for Aggie Coach Shelby Metcalf to bench him.

"I guess it was a good thing, because it made me say, 'Hey, I've got to get out there and fight for the spot.' We are like a family before the game, bickering and everything, and now we're playing like one on the floor," Britton said.

Metcalf said it was "a good win" in which just about everybody got to play.

"It makes practice a lot better when everyone gets to play," he said.

TCU 77, Houston 71
FORT WORTH - Texas Christian won its first Southwest Conference game of the year Wednesday night, Ed Wineinger scoring 23 points to lead the Horned Frogs to a 77-71 upset decision over the Houston Cougars.

TCU had lost eight league games in a row and the win Wednesday night was its first SWC triumph in more than a year.

The normally poor shooting Horned Frogs made 56.1 percent of their shots from the field in boosting their season record to 6-13. Houston fell to 37 in league play and the Cougars are now 11-11 for the year.

TCU jumped to a 36-34 halftime advantage and never trailed in the second period.

The Horned Frogs led by as many as nine points in the second half, but Houston closed the deficit to three points at 66-63 with 3:29 left in the game.

But at this point Wineinger, made a three point play and Terry Tibbs stole an inbounds pass and scored to boost the TCU lead back to eight.

The victory was only the second in the conference for TCU in the two-year coaching tenure of Tim Sommerville, who took over the club less than a week before the opening of the 1977-78 season.

TCU's other league triumph under Sommerville came against Rice last year.

"It's been tough for our freshmen coming into a situation where we haven't been a winner in a while, but they are mentally tough," said Sommerville. "They believe they can win."

Horner Upset

ATLANTA (AP) - Bob Horner, National League Rookie of the Year, says the Atlanta Braves will be making a $183,000 mistake if they don't trade him and he is granted free agency.

"If the Braves are thinking about their own best interests at this point, I would say they should trade me," said the 21-year-old third baseman.

White Likes New Team

By The Associated Press. It didn't take long for Jo Jo White to notice something about his new club. And it didn't take the Golden State Warriors long to notice Jo Jo White.

After Golden State scored a last-second 108-106 triumph over the Philadelphia 76ers Wednesday night, White observed: "This Warriors team, it has cohesiveness. The guys are more together and working toward a goal."

The goal, of course, is to move upward from the National Basketball Association's Pacific Division cellar. And the triumph kept the Warriors within a game of the fourth-place San Diego Clippers.

"I'm willing to do what I can for the club. It's not easy to step into a new dressing room," said

White, who until Monday had dressed in the Boston Celtics' locker room.

Knicks 106, Pistons 86
The Knicks, with the league minimum eight players dressed for the contest because of injuries, got 34 points from Bob McAdoo to snap a six-game losing streak and an eight-game road winless streak. Toby Knight added 26 points for New York while Bob Lanier led the Pistons with 22 points.

Celtics 119, Rockets 102
Boston played without the oft-punished Marvin Barnes, but got 28 points from Cornbread Maxwell to beat Houston. Player-coach Dave Cowens and Chris Ford added 22 points each for the Celtics, while Rudy Tomjanovich collected 16 for the Rockets.

Hawks 130, Kings 118
John Drew collected 31 points and Eddie Johnson contributed 28 as Atlanta capitalized on loose Kansas City defense to upset the Kings, frontrunners in the Midwest Division.

Suns 123, Bucks 118
Paul Westphal scored 28 points and had a career-high 14 assists to carry Phoenix past Milwaukee. Walter Davis added 26 points and Alvan Adams - working the backdoor play with Westphal all night - added 24. The Bucks were led by Marques Johnson's 25 points.

Clippers 112, Nets 104
San Diego got 25 points from Lloyd Free in beating the Nets and giving the Clippers their sixth straight home triumph. The Clippers won the game at the free-throw line, making 30 of their 35 attempts; the Nets, meanwhile, got only 11 chances from the line and made six.

Sonics 115, Trail Blazers 112
Gus Williams scored 23 points, including a layup with 23 seconds left, to cement Seattle's triumph over Portland. Tom Owens got 23 points for the Trail Blazers.

Walsh Enjoys Return To Pros

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) - Bill Walsh recently made the jump from Stanford University back into the professional coaching ranks and he admits "maybe I'm more at home in professional football."

"I spent 10 years in the National Football League and I may be best adapted to NFL football rather than college, especially when it comes to athletic recruiting and some of those administrative duties that college coaches have to face up to," the former Cincinnati Bengals assistant coach said during a recent interview with the Dayton Journal-Herald.

The 47-year-old Walsh coached at Stanford for two years compiling a 17-7 record. Prior to that he was an assistant for three NFL teams - Oakland, Cincinnati and San Diego.

The 49ers now pilot said that he liked the highly skilled aspects of the professional game.

"It's just a step further than the college level and the skill aspect of the athlete, the proficiency, his ability to develop his skills to a high level," Walsh said. "Consequently, the coach is asked to be a little bit more competent in the technical areas of football."

Walsh said however that he was happy at Stanford, and pointed to the school's decision to hold academic standards for athletics.

Walsh admits that he had hopes of becoming coach when Paul Brown stepped away from that job, but instead the Bengals named Bill Johnson.

Johnson was fired midway through this past football season and was replaced by Homer Rice.

"I don't think Paul expected that I would leave in naming Bill because we were very happy in Cincinnati and I think it was anticipated I would remain," Walsh said.

Instead, the decision propelled him away from the team after eight years as an assistant coach.

"There's a time and place for everyone in their professional career to move, and when Paul Brown stepped out, I certainly understood that at this stage of his life. And it might have been just the right time for me to move because I had been there eight years.

Walsh was credited while he was with the Bengals with helping to develop the Bengals' offense and particularly bringing out the talents of quarterback Ken Anderson.

Walsh said his new team will have to get outstanding personnel before it becomes a true contender.

"You might have a year or two where it looks like you're a contender, when you're just fortunate at catching people off guard," he said. "But until you have outstanding personnel, you cannot sustain an outstanding record."

Byron Nelson. He's won twice in the British Open. He's won twice in the Western Open.

And, of course, he's won the last two Crosbys, using those victories as the springboard to a pair of Player of the Year titles, along with a sweep of leading money-winning honors and Vardon trophies.

Further, he has an affinity for the Pebbles Beach Golf Links, that spectacular meeting of land and sea that he ranks among his favorite courses in the world, a layout he played countless times in his student days at Stanford.

As usual in this unique event, the weather could play a major factor. A cold, steady rain has drenched Pebble Beach, Cypress Point and Spyglass Hill for the last two days.

Jack Nicklaus is skipping the tournament for the first time

Watson Favored In Crosby

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) - Tom Watson isn't even thinking about winning a third consecutive title in the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am Golf Tournament. That, however, does not mean that Watson is anything other than a solid favorite in the $300,000 chase that begins today on three Monterey Peninsula courses.

"I'm not thinking of winning, not at this stage," Watson said after a practice round in cold, rainy, dreary weather. "I never go into any tournament thinking of winning. The object is just to play as well as possible. If at the end of three rounds, or with nine holes to go, you're in the hunt, then that's something else. Then you start thinking about winning."

And the odds are good that, as the tournament winds to a close on Sunday afternoon, the gritty Watson will be in the title hunt.

In fact, it would be an outright surprise if it were otherwise. There are a number of factors what make it so.

Over the last two years he has golf's most impressive list of the top 10, title-contending finishes.

He's playing well, with a solid, second-place showing in San Diego last week in his first start of the season. "My short game wasn't all it could have been," Watson said. But he changed putters in the final round and played his last nine holes in 33. "Sometimes a change like that is all you need to get things sorted out," he said.

He's shown a certain preference for certain tournaments. He's won twice in the

NCAA Tightens Recruiting Laws

MISSION, Kan. (AP) - Armed with a list of the nation's top 100 high school football players, NCAA investigators are fanning out across the country this week in hopes of catching cheating recruiters red-handed.

This is a radical departure from past NCAA procedures and an NCAA spokesman said privately it was "already bearing fruit."

College coaches, just now entering the frantic final weeks of the football recruiting season, were not told investigators would be in the field with them.

"It really is a dramatic change in procedures," David Berst, director of the NCAA enforcement department, told the Associated Press. "We may be noticed by some schools out there. They may find themselves tripping over us on their way to violate a rule. The next knock on the door could be us."

All pending infractions cases and investigations have been halted while the NCAA pours all its energy into the new program. The nation signing date for football recruits is Feb. 21.

"We're going to get after it," Berst said. "In effect, we're tired of just building cases. We want to go on the offense a little bit. We're just like another college coaching staff, figuring out who the great prospects are and going out there to talk to them."

Berst said the NCAA compiled a list of the top 100 prospects, including junior college players, about three weeks ago and plans to do the same when basketball recruiting season reaches its climax in April.

"We want to do more than just react to old charges, react to things that filter in to us a year or two after the fact," Berst said. "For instance, we're going to University X and talking to them about all the people they think are cheating right now."

"Then we go to University Y and ask them the same questions. Then we get an overlap on various schools and find out the ones we ought to be watching."

Berst admitted the NCAA's eight field investigators may have difficulty checking up on 100 players between now and Feb. 21.

"I think we're already to the point where we have to make some judgments on where there is likely to be cheating and trying to get in on those situations," he said. "There are some hotbeds around the country in football recruiting where we may concentrate on."

Berst declined to identify the "hotbeds," but Texas, California, Florida, Pennsylvania and Ohio annually turn out the lion's share of outstanding players.

Investigators are talking to college and high school coaches and mothers, fathers and girlfriends of players now being recruited.

"We're also talking to the kids," Berst said. "That's as important as anything we do. It may be educational for them as well as helpful to us."

PUBLIC NOTICE
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
 The County of Deaf Smith, Texas will hold a public hearing at 7:00 p.m. February 2, 1979, at the County Courtroom, Courthouse, in regard to the possible submission of an application to the Department of Housing and Urban Development Block Grant to partially finance improvements to the Community.

The purpose of this meeting is to provide citizens with adequate information concerning the amount of funds available for the proposed community development in housing activities including land acquisition, rehabilitation, public facilities, citizens centers, street and drain improvements, sewer mains, parks, playgrounds, code enforcements, clearance and demolition and other activities.

Since these funds are on a competitive basis there will be more preapplications submitted to HUD than can be funded. Another public hearing on the same subject and for the same purpose will be held at 7:00 p.m., February 6, 1979 at the County Courthouse, Hereford, Texas.

NOTICIA: Audiencia publica
 El condado de Deaf Smith, Texas patrocinara una audiencia publica el dia dos de febrero de 1979 a las 7:00 de la noche en el Juzgado del Condado, ubicado en la casa de corte, para tratar de la posibilidad de aplicar al Departamento de Vivienda y Desarrollo Urbano (HUD) para un subsidio (grant) que parcialmente financiara mejoras a las comunidades.

El proposito de esta junta es la de proveer a los ciudadanos adecuada informacion concerniente a la cantidad de fondos existentes para el desarrollo propuesto en actividades relacionadas con la vivienda, incluyendo adquisiciones terrenales, rehabilitacion, facilidades publicas, centros para la ciudadania, mejoramientos de calles y drenajes, parques, areas de juegos, cumplimiento de codigos, limpieza y demolicion, y otras actividades.

Today In History

By The Associated Press
 Today is Thursday, Feb. 1 the 32nd day of 1979. There are 333 days left in the year.
 Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1790, the U.S. Supreme Court held its first session, meeting in the Royal Exchange building in New York City.
 On this date:
 In 1861, Texas voted to secede from the Union.
 In 1893, Thomas Edison completed work on the world's first motion picture studio. The cost of the studio in West Orange, N.J., was less than $700,000.
 In 1956, Autherine Lucy became the first black to be admitted to the University of Alabama.
 In 1965, Martin Luther King Jr. and nearly 800 blacks were arrested during civil rights demonstrations at Selma, Ala.
 In 1968, Richard Nixon announced his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination.

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) - Bill and Sharon McAuliffe had trouble finding a place to store the nearly 2 feet of snow they shoveled off their roof last weekend.
 When McAuliffe complained that there was no place to dump the snow without walking about 15 yards, his wife suggested they shovel it into the basement through a window by the driveway.
 "It worked great," McAuliffe said Tuesday. "It's an unfinished basement with a concrete floor and drain and the snow is just about all gone today."

GURNEE, Ill. (AP) - There were snowflakes on the potato salad and lawn chairs were strewn with the sleds on either side of a shoveled driveway, but the celebrants were undaunted at Cliff and Phyllis Thornton's "First Annual Cabin Fever Cookout."
 Eighteen people, mostly neighbors of the Thorntons, gathered last weekend around a grill with hot dogs roasting over the coals. The temperature was in the 20s and snowflakes sifted lazily down.

 Mrs. Thornton said, "We're setting a record with the largest snowfall this year, so we decided to set a record for the earliest barbecue."
 Grandparents, tots, and teenagers joined in hopping from foot to frosty foot trying to keep warm while eating baked beans, hot dogs, hamburgers, potato chips and corn on the cob from paper plates.
 Said one participant, "Well, I'll tell you one thing. It sure makes you appreciate going back inside."

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP) - Students at Poudre High School will go ahead with their goldfish-eating contest despite the objections of the local humane society.
 "This type of thing does not belong in our school system," said Linda Wildman, a representative of the Larimer County Humane Society. "Superficially it is great fun. Philosophically, it is repulsive to us."

The Humane Society canceled a scheduled debate with the high school debating team on the subject of goldfish eating.
 "We felt it would do no good," Ms. Wildman said Tuesday. "There was no changing the minds of these children or the administration."
 The goldfish-eating contest is scheduled for Friday during a school assembly.

Keeping Fat Balance Down

DEAR DR. LAMB - Is it always true that consuming more food than is necessary for the upkeep of your body causes overweight? I am a small eater and I have a medium-large frame. I am 5 feet 6 but I don't seem to be able to lose any weight. I don't drink beer and I eat very little bread, potatoes or peanut butter. What else can I do?
DEAR READER - You need to learn to evaluate properly how many calories are in the foods you eat. I see you avoid starches, sweets and, apparently, alcohol. The other major source of calories in the diet is fat. There are nine calories for every gram of fat as opposed to only four calories for every gram of carbohydrate or protein. If you want to limit your calories, I suggest you limit your fat.

P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.
 This diet will give you between 1,200 and 1,300 calories a day. I don't like to see people go on a diet that is much more restricted than this one unless they are under careful medical supervision. A person shouldn't stay on a strict diet more than two to six weeks, depending upon how severe it is. Such diets may cause serious problems. Yes, it's always true that your body acts like a checking account. If you deposit more than you can use, the balance will accumulate. The balance in this instance isn't quite so attractive because it's deposited as fat. The other side of the basic balance system is how many calories you are using. I might ask if your lifestyle permits you to use enough calories. If you are not physically active, you might try to gradually develop a physical fitness program - even if that is walking an hour a day. You can divide such a walk into two parts if you don't want to walk too much at a time. You can decrease your balance (fat tissue) by spending more calories. DEAR DR. LAMB - Just what is meant by "passing sounds"? What is the purpose for it? My doctor has done this three times and I don't know why. He said the opening to my uterus should be opened. I am 60 years old and have had some uterine bleeding. I am taking hormones.

DEAR READER - You can think of a sound as a rod; different sounds are made from different substances. They are used literally to dilate openings such as your doctor has done in your case. They may be used to dilate the opening in the esophagus if it becomes constricted. They're often used if there is a stricture of the urethra in both men and women. There is no way I would know what is causing your uterine bleeding, but you have done the right thing in seeing your doctor. I would like to take this occasion to tell all women who have an unexplained bleeding, particularly between periods or after they have completed the menopause, to see their physician immediately. Sometimes this can be an early sign of cancer. Never ignore unexplained bleeding.
DEAR DR. LAMB - I know that the thyroid gland is somehow related to one's metabolism - that it affects the processing of food calories into fat or energy. I also know that usually the cause of obesity is one's poor diet. But I don't understand the extreme variation. I see some people eat a lot of calories every day and yet they are slim. Others who smoke, eat fattening foods such as burgers and sodas and ice cream cones for lunch and yet they are slim. Is smoking related to metabolism? Can an individual do anything to increase his metabolism? If one were on a very low calorie diet of under a thousand calories a day for over a year would this actually decrease the person's need for the normal amount of calories to survive? I'd appreciate any information you can give me, particularly on how to alter metabolism.
DEAR READER - You've asked some very good questions. An inadequate production of thyroid hormones means that the metabolism of the cells actually slows down. The fundamental biochemical processes are altered. Less oxygen is required because less food is broken down to release energy. Instead, the food is converted to fat, the body's way of storing energy. It doesn't require oxygen to convert calories into fat the same way it does to release calories from food. What happens if you're on a starvation diet? Your metabolism slows down markedly as soon as your diet is severely restricted in calories. This is nature's way of enabling your body to survive a fast, starvation or semi-starvation period. Your body is designed to protect it against such wretched excesses to some extent. By slowing down all of your metabolic processes and actually decreasing the metabolic rate, it does require less energy and less food to survive. But there are a lot of unpleasant changes such as loss of energy, changes of personality, some people's hair falls out. Studies have shown that individuals on low calorie diets may have a loss of sex drive. Yes, you can get along on less food in a less than optimal state of health. It is in a state of survival. Cigarettes do affect metabolism. They contain nicotine, which is a tissue poison. Tissues don't thrive when they are being poisoned anymore than plants thrive when they're being poisoned. The other problem is that some people respond to their nervous activity by smoking and others respond by eating. When a person stops smoking he may substitute eating for smoking. I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet, which provides a well-balanced, low calorie, low fat diet which is suitable for weight control programs. It provides 1200 to 1300 calories a day.

Help For Marred Purse
 POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY - A red marking pen made a stain on my dark brown leather purse. I have tried everything but nothing worked so my purse is ruined unless you can help me. - MRS. E.V.M.
DEAR MRS. E.V.M. - One authority suggests using cuticle remover on stains that ball point ink makes on leather. Do test first. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - My answer is for Nancy who has a cedar chest with the odor of mothballs. Cedar chests are not finished on the inside with any varnish or sealer and the recommended way to restore the strong cedar odor that repels moths is to sand the interior with coarse sandpaper and then follow with fine sandpaper. This should remove the mothball odor. - O.R.B.

DEAR POLLY - It is surprising how much cold air seeps into a house and how much warm air escapes through the narrow spaces between a window and its casing. Cut one-inch strips from a brown paper grocery bag and slip these strips into the narrow slits around the windows. Sometimes more than one thickness is needed but the brown paper is firm enough to slip into these spaces easily. - ROSE

DEAR POLLY - To remove the soil from collars and cuffs on permanent press shirts I pre-spot with hair shampoo designed for oily hair. The soiled areas are rubbed between the hands to make a lather. Let this stand for a few minutes before washing. Save on ironing by folding clothes while they are still warm from the dryer. Most wrinkles can be pressed out by hand if they do not have time to set. Never over-dry clothes as this not only wastes electricity but wrinkles them. - MRS. R.L.B.

DEAR POLLY - If Mary B. would dampen her leather boots with rubbing alcohol and then pat them on and wear them for several hours she should get a perfect fit. - MRS. G.B. JB

TFB Opposes Transfer Of Major USDA Functions

WACO -- The Texas Farm Bureau is urging the Texas delegation in Congress to reject proposals to strip "vital functions" from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

In a letter to the 24 Texas Representatives and two Senators, TFB President Carol Chaloupka said, "I want to place the Texas Farm Bureau squarely on record in opposition to the proposed transfer of major USDA functions to other departments."

Chaloupka referred to proposals by President Carter to create a new Department of Natural Resources and a new Department of Community Development, and have them take over certain functions of USDA.

"We believe that such transfers can only result in programs less responsive to the needs of Texas farmers and ranchers," Chaloupka said. "When farmers and ranchers are hurt, consumers invariably pay the bill in the form of higher prices for food and fiber."

Under the proposed reorganization, the U.S. Forest Service, all resource-related portions of the Soil Conservation Service, and the Rural Development Program would be taken from the USDA and transferred to the new Department of Natural Resources. Major functions of the Farmers Home Administration would be transferred from USDA to the new Department of Community Development which would be built around the existing Housing and Urban Development agency.

Chaloupka asked the Texas delegation to work with other members of Congress "to reject the proposed transfer of vital functions of the Department of Agriculture."

Water District Boardmen To be Sworn in Monday

The swearing-in of recently elected board members and the selection of officers for 1979 will be one order of business when the board of directors of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 meets in regular session at 10:00 a.m. on Monday, February 5. The meeting will be held in the conference room of the District office at 2930 Ave. Q in Lubbock and is open to the public.

Prior to the swearing-in ceremony the Directors will canvass the votes cast during the election that was held on January 20, and declare the official winners in the different contests.

In other business the board will consider a cooperative agreement between USDA-SCS and the district wherein the district will supply a number of water measuring devices and any necessary technical assistance to USDA-SCS for its use in a program of providing water management assistance to irrigators. The directors will also consider the purchase of water measuring devices for use by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock in their water conservation research efforts.

An accounting firm will be selected by the board to audit the Fiscal Year 1978 financial records of the Water District. Also under consideration will be the construction of a storage building for the district, sponsoring a district-wide County Committee meeting, and the publication of the Water District report titled "Cost Analysis of Irrigation Ditch Losses" and a report titled "A Summary of Techniques and Management Practices for Profitable Water Conservation on the Texas High Plains."

The board will also consider the district's membership in the Food and Fiber National Institute of Achievement, Inc., hear a number of staff progress reports, the manager will report on the status of other district programs and items of possible board interest and the directors may recess into executive session to discuss personnel matters relating to the water district.

IMMIGRANT

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) -- Members of the Sacramento city council stood and applauded recently a frail, 83-year-old immigrant woman who doesn't speak English.

Shige Tahara, the widow of a hotel and boarding house operator, had just handed the council a cashier's check for $60,000 as a gift.

"It's a small token of my appreciation to Sacramento," said the native of Japan through an interpreter. Mrs. Tahara, who came to the United States in 1925, was interned in a relocation camp with her husband, Matsutaro, during World War II.

City officials said it was the first time in memory someone had given a substantial cash gift with no strings attached.

the judging contest was Lubbock Cooper. The Vogel brothers, members of the 4-H team, were also big winners in the stock show. Gary exhibited the Grand Champion steer, while brother Randy won the four county steer showmanship trophy. [Brand photo by Jim Steiert]

Holly Sugar Reports Net Loss on Shares

COLORADO SPRINGS -- Continued depressed sugar prices during the nine months ended Dec. 31, 1978 were responsible for an estimated net loss of $2,004,000, or $1.27 a common share, Holly Sugar Corporation has announced.

This compares with a net loss of $6,041,000 or $3.82 a common share, for the same period last year.

Sales for the nine months were $110,853,000 compared with $117,597,000 for the same time last year.

Provision for federal and state income taxes is a credit of $3,963,000 compared with a credit of $7,722,000 for the similar period last year.

In a letter to stockholders, Chairman John B. Bunker reported that President Carter had signed a proclamation enabling the Administration to increase import fees on foreign sugar "to provide more adequate protection" to domestic sugar producers.

No Rice Set-Aside Program Planned by USDA

WASHINGTON (AP) - Rice farmers will not have to set aside part of their cropland to qualify for federal price support and target-price benefits this year.

Also, no optional "land diversion" program will be offered rice growers to reduce plantings in exchange for

"To the extent that these steps constitute an acknowledgment by the Administration of the dilemma of the domestic industry and the need for preventive action, they are constructive measures," Bunker said.

government payments, Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said Monday.

No set-aside or diversion was included in last year's rice program.

Bergland said the 1979 target price for rice will be $9.05 per 100 pounds, compared to $8.53 last year. The average national the proclamation also establishes a price objective for raw sugar in the domestic market in the 14-16 cent per pound range, a level which, in most cases, fails to meet the increasing costs of sugar production in this country.

rice loan and purchase rate will be $6.79 per hundredweight, compared to $6.40 for the 1978 crop.

The 1979 rice acreage allotment, which is set by law, is 1.8 million acres, the same as last year.
