

Personally Speaking

By E. M.

Well, the three-cent letter rates are on and it's hard to decide whether to do corresponding by means of postal cards or mental telepathy.

Concerning the new rates though, the Buffalo Evening News comes out with the following come-back, entitled:

And Fewer Chain Letters

"As for three-cent postage, I do not care a whit—I if it means fewer missives labeled 'Won't you please remit?'"

People have long been talking about burning the candle at both ends. One of our beloved modern poets expresses it thus:

"I burn my candle at both ends, It will not last the night, But ah my foes, and oh my friends, It makes a lovely light!"

A more extreme and yet more modern view is taken by the father in the following bit of dialogue:

Mother—"I'm afraid Robert is burning the candle at both ends." Father—"Huh! That boy has cut the candle in two and lit both ends."

And, speaking of different versions, have you heard the Boston version of that old favorite, "Hail! Hail! The Gang's All Here?"

It goes like this—"Rejoice! Rejoice! The multitude's assembled.

Why should we concern ourselves? Why should we concern ourselves? Rejoice! Rejoice! The multitude's assembled,

Why should we concern ourselves now?"

Which reminds us, do any of these tried and proved proverbs sound even vaguely familiar?

"Do not calculate the outcome of your poultry before the time of incubation has fully matured."

Individuals who reside in crystallized dormitories should refrain from hurling geological specimens." (Or the latter, as Ella Cinders puts it)

"People who live in glass cemeteries shouldn't throw tomb stones!"

Steady Stream of Trucks Bring Wheat to Elevators

In spite of the short crop this year, a steady stream of trucks have been coming into Darrouzett during the past few days to unload wheat at the local elevators.

Seventy-nine carloads of new wheat have been shipped out of town by the grain companies so far this season. This amount is perhaps one-half of the wheat shipped out this time last year, local grain men say.

The wheat this year is of good quality but it is testing lighter than last year, it is reported. The last dry weather at first hurt the wheat, then the later rains bleached it.

Saturday was an especially busy day for truck drivers. Approximately 163 truckloads were brought to the Darrouzett Co-op, while 150 were brought in Tuesday.

So far this week, the price of wheat has steadily decreased. On Monday it was 35 cents; on Tuesday 34, and on Wednesday, 35 cents.

Crops At Miami Very Poor, John Olson Reports

Crop conditions at Miami are much poorer than here and a great deal of wheat has been abandoned because of weeds, according to John Olson who returned Saturday from looking after his property near Miami.

Elevators there are getting much less wheat than here, he stated. At the same time Mr. Olson believes that wheat here is the poorest he has seen in the five or six years he has been here during harvest.

Mr. Olson came to Darrouzett last Tuesday from Galesburg, Ill., where he makes his home, to look after his property south of town.

Fishes Like Macaroni

Washington—Now this machine age threatens to strike a final blow at the only really worthwhile employment—as far as most people can see—of angle worms, remarks a bulletin of the American Game Association. After anglers have deserted the worm for manufactured flies and such comes the suggestion that if angle worms are scarce, why bother? Just break macaroni into short lengths, cook until tough and limber, and fasten to the hook. Channel cat, white perch, buffalo, carp and suckers are said to like it.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Russell of Follett visited Mrs. Emma Lash and Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Roper on Sunday evening.

Funeral Services Held Sunday For Henry Frass, Sr.

Mr. Frass had also been a member of the local chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star.

Mr. Frass had been seriously ill with cancer since Christmas. For a time he was at the Mayo Brothers hospital at Rochester, N. Y., undergoing treatment. With some three hundred other Texas Tech Students, Lee B. Carter, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Carter, went thru the Carlsbad Caverns near Carlsbad, N. M., on a tour sponsored by the college at Lubbock Saturday.

Approximately 600 people went thru the caverns that day. The trip was very worthwhile, and the cavern was so magnificent, and immense that being in there now seems a dream for it doesn't seem possible that such wonders could exist under the ground, Lee writes home.

The party of students was in the cave about five hours. Altogether the trip was about 7 miles long, Lee reports. "When we were on the first third of our trip, it seemed that we were going down hill all the time. The formations varied in sizes and possibly numbered into the millions. The electric lighting was very effective in showing the wonders of the cave. "The lowest point that we came to was 830 feet below the surface. The

Plans Complete For Opening Of Church School

Bible Course To Be Given Here On July 18-29

Final plans for the Daily Vacation Bible School to be held here from July 18 to July 29 have been completed, according to Rev. A. Blair Grubb, director.

All children in the community from those four years old on through high school are urged to attend, regardless of denomination or whether or not they attend the local Sunday School, Reverend Grubb stated.

It is especially important that children enroll on the first day of the school, since the two weeks period is a short one, the pastor stated. Children in the junior and senior divisions are asked to bring paper, pencils, a ruler and a Bible on the first day. The kindergarten group will be assigned materials later.

Reverend Grubb will serve as instructor of the seniors; Mrs. Grubb will instruct the juniors; while Miss Velma Fisher will teach the kindergarten group.

Classes in Morning. Classes will be held from nine o'clock to 11:30 each morning except Saturday and Sunday through the period.

The course of study for the kindergarten group will include conversation and worship, rhythm and music, recreation, story-telling, Bible expressional period, and handwork.

The juniors will be given a worship period, drill on Bible, Bible memory work, music, Bible story-telling, Bible expressional study, recreation, and handwork.

Work for the seniors includes a worship period, Bible outline study, Bible proofs, Bible study, mental expression, and manual expression.

No Charge. Altho last year, each family sending children to the school was asked to contribute one dollar for material and expenses, no admission will be asked this year, Rev. Grubb stated. However, the children may be called upon to bring a little money for materials in various projects to be worked out, he said.

At the close of the school, a demonstration of the work will probably be held. Diplomas will also be awarded to those completing the scheduled second year of the work to be held in the school. Last year 39 of the 47 children attending were awarded diplomas.

OUR DAY OF RESPONSIBILITY

(By Harry Chandler, Los Angeles Times, Past President American Newspaper Publishers Association)

Take away the newspaper—and this country of ours would become a scene of chaos.

Without daily assurance as the exact facts—so far as we are able to know and publish them—the public imagination would run riot. Ten days without the daily newspaper and the strong pressure of worry and fear would throw the people of this country into mob hysteria—feeding upon rumors and alarms, terrified by bugbear and illusions.

We have become the watchman of the night and of the troubled day.

If the American newspaper has occupied a position of high responsibility before, its weight and responsibility has been doubled during this trying period.

This period of depression has wrought a great change in the mood of the American public. In the years immediately following the World War it seemed as though our quondam sense of care and responsibility had been recklessly tossed away. Nobody seemed to care about anything—or to think about anything except having a good time, of making money and spending it.

The collapse of an inflated era of spending has suddenly sobered them. It isn't jokes and cocktails that they want now. Its bread and butter—and facts.

This changed mood opens for the newspaper publishers or America a new day of increased opportunities and responsibilities. A frightened public looks to us for the truth. We have become a sheet anchor in the storm.

It has been suggested to me many times that the members of the publishers association take a united stand on this or that public policy. I feel that in doing so that we would surrender the greatest strength of the American newspaper. Each newspaper should stand in a position of responsible stewardship to its own people acting on its own convictions and answering its own conscience.

No one knows what the immediate events of the future may bring forth. It is enough to know that out of this period of suffering much good must inevitable come. If we were nursing vital and dangerous errors in our commercial and industrial system—and if we were started on a dangerous path we can well give thanks that the crash has happened now—rather than later when its correction could have given more peril.

Every publisher who reads these words believes and knows in his own heart that in every fundamental element our country is on a firm foundation. There is nothing the matter with the U. S. At heart it is strong and firm. It will ride out the storm, but during the period of the hurricane it is up to us—the newspapers publishers—to stand with resolution at the wheel.

These are the time when the conduct of daily newspapers to be a commercial enterprise. It becomes a stewardship that often involves great self-sacrifice and great courage.

As I believe in the U. S. so I believe in the honesty and the good faith and unselfishness of the newspapers of the U. S. And I believe in their consecration to this trust and in their ability to keep the beacon light during a period of very rough weather.

The public offers us faith and trust.
We will return them honesty of effort.

YOUR NEWSPAPER

The following was taken from circular sent to retail merchants by a large wholesale house. The values of your local newspaper to the success of your business cannot be over-estimated. Its worth all the support and co-operation that you can give it. For the newspaper is a mirror reflecting the life of the community in which you and your store have an important part. Your advertising in the reflection of your store in this mirror. Everybody sees it there. If it is not there, the mirror is dark where your store should be. You are there but you cannot be seen. Your store is opened for business as usual, but "Out of sight; out of mind!" To keep in step with the progress of your community; to get your share of the business, you must advertise regularly. Take your newspaper publisher into your confidence; he can give you invaluable assistance. Establish an advertising budget. Plan a regular schedule for your advertisements. It is a policy that is followed by the more successful stores; it's an idea that will be profitable for you.

The so-called servants of the people seldom fail to click when a click means a raise in pay.

What a man says in an interview is not as important as what he really thinks, if you can find out what it is.

Hope springs biennially in the breast of the politician.

Nothing is more aggravating than to have to work when you feel that you are missing a great game.

Advertising makes to cash register hum, provided it is done in the right way in the right place.

Well Filled State Museum

Practically every great exposition has left for permanent use a great internationally-famous museum, worth more to posterity than entire cost of the exposition. Built for the great Chicago World's Fair, the Field Museum and its vast collection will be one of the greatest attractions of the Chicago Century of Progress in 1933. Wherever the Texas Centennial may be held, a creditable State Museum will be one of the results—one that is needed to show the development and progress of the country and that will be a lasting memorial to the patriotic spirit of Texans of 1936.

THE LORD LED HIM TO JAIL
Although there have been millions of men who went to jail all down through the ages very few indeed have ever snatched their hats voluntarily and hurried off to the place; fewer yet have got up in the middle of the night and gone off to jail because the Lord led them to do so. One man did.

In November, 1660, the authorities sent John Bunyan to Bedford jail for preaching the gospel. In the twelve years he remained there he convinced his jailer so fully of his saintly character that that official extended to him unusual liberties, sometimes allowing him to go as far as London.

When reports of this leniency finally filtered through to the ears of the "higher" ups an inspector was dispatched to Bedford jail with instructions to reach there in the night and take the jailer by surprise. If Bunyan were not safely in jail it would go hard with his keeper.

At home in bed that night Bunyan felt impressed to return to the jail. He arose hurriedly against the protest of his wife, ran to the jail, and aroused the jailer in the middle of the night with a request to take him in.

That official murmured against the annoyance of having to admit a prisoner at such an hour; but he had scarcely fallen asleep again, when thump, thump, a loud knock on the door awakened him. There stood an inspector with a demand to see John Bunyan the prisoner.

When John Bunyan showed up sleepy and uninterested it was the inspector's turn to be surprised. After that the jailer told John: "You just go and come as you please. You know better than I when it is safe."

Does God lead people today as he did in Bible times and in the days of John Bunyan? In spite of all the fanaticism and failures in the practice of following this blessed way of life, I am firmly convinced that the answer is yes, if they will let him.

FAVORITE RECIPES
By Doris E. Montgomery

The following recipe for cheese has proved a favorite because it is easily made and has an excellent flavor.

Many prefer it to American or other cheeses because of its added freshness.
To make this cheese, place one and one-half gallons of thick clabber on the stove. Allow it to become very hot, stirring frequently to separate the curd from the whey. Continue cooking and stirring for one-half hour when the curd will become very tough.

Drain off the whey and press the curd under a heavy weight until the whey is all pressed out and the curd is very dry. Failure in this means a poor finished product.

Next, place the dry curd with four tablespoons of fresh sweet butter and three-fourths of a teaspoon of soda. Chop until the curd is quite fine and the ingredients are thoroughly mixed. Press the mixture down in a bowl; then allow it to stand in a warm place for two and one-half hours.

Now, put the cheese in a double boiler with two-thirds cups of very thick rich sour cream, one and one-half teaspoons butter coloring (this may be omitted.) As it begins to heat, stir until all the ingredients melt into a mass which looks like melted cheese—which is exactly what it is. Then pour into a well-buttered bowl and set it away to cool. It is ready to be eaten as soon as it is cool. Pimentoes may be added when the cheese is set away to cool.

To cure this cheese, allow to cool, remove from bowl, and cover the surface with a coat of melted paraffin, then store in a cool place.

This amount of milk makes about one and one-half pounds of cheese.

TICK-TOCK

Idly the youth lolled in an easy chair and listened to the tick-tock of the old grandfather clock. He enjoyed the oscillating swing of the pendulum and unconsciously hummed the tune of a light air to the rhythm. Gently he drifted into a lullaby, and before long he yielded to the drowsy feeling.

Noislessly the door of the clock opened, and out stepped a wise old gnome who approached the dreamer. There were years on his face and wings on his feet.

"I am the spirit of the clock," the stranger announced; "my name is time. You were charmed by the tick-tock; it made you sing. Your feet kept time, and your spirit danced, until you drifted into the lullaby."

"But my clock is not there to entertain. Every tick marks the passing of time; every tock reminds us that another second has gone. Youth is enthralled by the rhythms of life:

morning and evening, day and night, summer and winter. But life is more than a swing to the right or a swing to the left. Time goes on. I never stop, and sometimes I fly.

"The tick-tock is an echo of the beat of your heart. That, too, sings melodies, but they are melodies of the meaning of life, and eternal life. Listen to them and you will understand the clock."

"Every minute counts, every hour is hungry for something to fill it with good, every heartbeat reminds us that we are pilgrims upon this earth. 'Someday, a voice within, our very own, will stop us and say, 'What have you done with your time? Give an account of your stewardship.'"

Chauffeur License Won't Be Collected

An injunction, restraining the collection of the $3.00 chauffeur's license tax from farmers, was granted by Judge E. J. Pickens, according to an associated press dispatch in Amarillo News-Globe some time ago.

The application was signed by a group of Ochiltree county farmers, who allege they are not chauffeurs and that they nor members of their families should not be so taxed.

Many have left their trucks standing for the first half of the year and are now paying for six months from July 1. To all such, the saving of the $3.00 tax comes as a substantial relief.

Los Angeles, July 13.—The cattle and hog markets are the brightest spots in the entire business situation with indications that other agricultural commodities are on the way to better returns for producers. Hog prices have advanced steady during the past month, with the result that prevailing prices on open markets are now the highest since last October. The cattle market has gained strength, particularly on fed cattle, which appear to be scarce throughout the country.

It is not unlikely that in the trend towards better and more prosperous times, agricultural products will lead the way. Present prices on hogs afford the hog feeder a fair margin of profit, based on grain and other feed costs. Cattle feeders likewise are making satisfactory profits, due to the low values on which feeder stock was purchased, and because of low feed costs.

Daily newspapers published in agriculture sections are giving much space to improve livestock markets because of the realization that when the farmer is able to make purchases, the industrial and business activity is bound to likewise improve.

There is no magic about the improved markets for livestock. It is entirely a matter of the workings of supply and demand. Supplies of fed cattle and hogs are found to be greatly reduced so that the market has improved in the face of narrow demand and reduced power of the consumer. If there is a more general acceptance of the fact that only through the natural laws of supply and demand can values be established, it will be better for both buyer and seller. The most unfortunate episode in agricultural history was the effect of the United States Government, through the Federal Farm Board, to attempt to overthrow natural economic laws in an effort to establish fictitious values on commodities such as wheat, cotton and wool.

Farm Board stocks of wheat are unofficially reported to be reduced to less than 50,000,000 bushels and this supply should soon be out of the way. Winter wheat yields were small and the total 1932 wheat crop is reported at 190,000,000 bushels less than a year ago. There is therefore genuine optimism in grain circles that a more satisfactory wheat market is in sight.

Centennial Conventions

Efforts already have been started to have as many national and international conventions as possible held in Texas during the Centennial year 1936. Among those already invited the National Editorial Association and the International Lions Clubs. The aim of the Committee will be to have one or more such big conventions in session in Texas every day of the Centennial celebration.

Filling The Gaps

Filling the gaps in important State Highways and completing roadways to and through leading State parks before 1936, in readiness for the enormous tourist travel to be expected that year, is already under way. Any Texas celebration that may be held will have for its purpose concerted effort to acquaint people with as much of Texas as possible.
