

Personally Speaking

By E. M.

It's funny what peculiar names food manufacturers can think up now isn't it? "Georgy-Porgy" is one of the newest in breakfast cereals, for example.

Probably I would not have especially thought about the oddness of food brand names, had I not recently read the following article in a magazine:

Foodsie-Woodsies

"I stopped at the grocery counter and took out the list my wife had given me. 'I want,' I said to the clerk, 'a loaf of Mumsie's bread, a package of Krunchies, some Good Sunny Spread, Ole Mammy's Lassies, Orange Puddy, Bransie Buns, and a pound of Auntie Annie's Sugar Can'y, Bitsey-bite size.'

"Sorry, no Krunchies. How about Krinkly Krisps, Oatsies, Maltsey Wheats, Ricelets, Cornsie Ponesies, or Wheatum's?"

"Wheatums, then."

"Anything else? Tooksies, Tatory Chips, Cheesie Weesies, Gingie Bits, Isey Cakes, Sweeties Toofums or Dramma's Doughnies?"

"Tan't det anysin' else," I said, toddling toward the meat department to look for teensey wienies and a leg of lambikins."

Now about "Frankenstein," this most-talked about movie of the season, did you know that the story upon which it is based was written by Mary Shelly, wife of the famous English poet, nearly one hundred years ago? Mrs. Shelly wrote the story about the scientist, Frankenstein, and his invention in the laboratory of a monster-man and won a prize in a contest with her husband and a group of friends to see who could write the most unusual story.

Edw'n Markham says that "Between the rich and the poor the difference is only a splinter: The rich man gets his ice in the summer, The poor man gets his in the winter."

Have you heard this one? "Your husband is sulking again. What's wrong this time?" "Oh, it's just because I used his silly old tennis racket to strain the potatoes."

Liberty Wins Rural Meet With Slight Margin Over Plains; Turner Is Third

With the narrow margin of eleven points over its nearest competitor, the Liberty school won first place in the Lipscomb Rural Track Meet held on March 18 and 19 at Lipscomb, according to Miss Vivian Keaster, director-general.

Easter Egg Hunt Is Sponsored By Junior Leaguers

An Easter egg hunt will be sponsored Saturday afternoon by the Junior League of the Methodist Episcopal Church, according to Mrs. A. Blair Grubb, director.

All children from the sixth grade down are invited to join the Leaguers on the hike, Mrs. Grubb stated. The children are to bring their Easter eggs, candy rabbits, Easter baskets, chickens, etc., to the parsonage by four o'clock Saturday afternoon. Easter eggs may be colored hen eggs or made of candy.

They will meet at the parsonage at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon to go on the hike.

Ladies Aid Play Given On Friday Is Well Received

An appreciative audience filled the Darrouzett school auditorium on Friday night at the presentation of "Judith of the Mountains," a three-act play, under the auspices of the Methodist Ladies' Aid Society.

Joe Dupont as Mr. Simpson, the rough mountaineer moonshiner father of Judith, and Mrs. G. A. Jenkins as "Grandma" an old woman who clung firmly to her beliefs that "mountain people have th' right to make liquor from their own corn" and "what's goin' ter happen is goin' ter happen," held the center of interest of the audience thruout the drama.

The red-headed George Hargis, mountaineer, portrayed by J. T. Mosley, and Nora, a mountain girl played by Mrs. Stella Beck, also added much to the humor of the situation.

The action in the play centered around Judith, portrayed by Mrs. Carson Altmiller, who is so very anxious to secure an education that she sells old quilts, raises tobacco, and even sells moonshine to get enough money to go to school. In her efforts to become educated she is helped by James Lykins, a young mining engineer in love with Judith, played by Pearl Lourwood.

Play Ends Happily
After a series of misunderstandings during which James is much sought after by Sallie Richie, a young society girl played by Ruby Messner, the love element in the play ends happily for Judith and James.

Other characters who added much to the success of the play were: Mrs. Simpson, Judith's mother, played by Mrs. D. R. Rush; Mrs. Richie and Mrs. Mason, society women collecting antiques in the mountains, portrayed by Mrs. C. H. Powell and Mrs. J. T. Mosley, respectively; Miss Henderson, a community nurse, Mrs. Myrtle Phebus; revenue officers, D. R. Rush and C. H. Powell; John Simpson, Judith's brother, Delmar Clark.

The beautiful quilts and rustic furniture used in the play assisted very much in enabling the audience to visualize the homes in the Kentucky mountains.

Mrs. Grubb Directs
The influence of religion and education in the lives of mountain people is shown thruout the play. The ways in which the older mountaineers cling to their customs while the younger ones adopt modern ways as they become educated are also brought out.

Probably a great deal of the success of the play is due to Mrs. A. Blair Grubb, director, who spent a year teaching and assisting in religious work in the Kentucky mountains. To her is also due the credit for the accuracy of the mountain dialect spoken by characters in the play.

Miss Ruth Friend was responsible for the facial make-up of players. Special numbers between acts were supplied by the band. Mrs. R. D. Hennigh also gave a reading, while Misses Oklahoma Tingley and Fyannell Walton sang several sections.

Easter Sunday Is March 27

Easter Sunday this year falls on March 27.

For a long while the proper time for the celebration of Easter occasioned many a controversy. Finally the Council of Nice meeting in 325 A. D. fixed Easter on the First Sunday after the full moon which happens upon or next after March 21. If the full moon happens on a Sunday, Easter is the Sunday after. In this way it happens that Easter never occurs before March 22 or after April 25.

As a festival commemorating the Resurrection of Christ, Easter is observed in many branches of the Christian Church. By the first Christians, it was regarded as continuing the feast of the Passover at which the paschal lamb, a symbol of Christ, was sacrificed.

In the ancient church the celebration of Easter lasted eight days. After the eleventh century, however, it was limited to three days; in later times it was generally observed two days.

During the present time Easter activities include the observance of Passion Week which precedes Easter and Good Friday, which commemorates the day of crucifixion.

The English name for Easter comes from the Anglo-Saxon "Eastre," the name of a goddess of light or spring whose festival was observed in April.

Many of the popular observances connected with Easter are clearly of pagan origin and traceable to the feast of the Saxon deity. The bonfires used in the earliest celebrations of Easter festivals may now be traced in the Easter tapers lit in churches on Easter Sundays. Another popular feature is the Pasch or Easter egg, and old emblem of the Resurrection. The Easter lily, a stately plant with waxy-white flowers and a profusion of long-pointed green leaves is also much used in churches during the celebration of Easter.

The Law Makes Good Citizens Free.

Laws are made that good citizens may be free.

How many of us really look at law in its true light?

How many of us unthinkingly or misguidedly consider law as a restraint put upon us to prevent our doing the things we might wish to do?

Let us consider some of the ways in which law makes us free:

The law of keeping to the right prevents many collisions on crowded streets.

A law against murder enables us to continue to live without constant fear of our lives.

A law against theft makes our property safe and permits us to keep what is our own.

All of us know how utterly impossible it would be to play the simplest game unless we follow the rules. Just as rules are necessary in playing a game, so is it necessary for us to be guided by very definite rules in the game of life.

Wise law is the greatest aid that a community can have in enabling it to do the things it wishes to accomplish.

Granted that THERE MUST BE LAW in any civilized community, let us also consider that greater respect toward law should be observed by every good citizen who is constantly protected and made free by its powers. His duty does not end here; he should train his children and all who come under his supervision to respect and obey the laws of our country.

GOOD OLD DAYS

The old-time livery stable and corner saloon have given way to the ornate garage and filling station; the movie show has replaced the town hall; we go in an hour now a distance it formerly took a day to travel. One can go from coast to coast in a single day in the air. He can telephone from a ship at sea to any one of the 18,000,000 telephones in the United States. He can listen on his radio to speakers thousands of miles away. In a short time he will be able to see them, too. Our homes are heated by scientific and healthful methods. We have our own cooling systems. Oil, gas and electricity have taken the place of coal. We have the news of the world on our doorsteps, morning and evening, thanks to the stride of modern newspapering. Our lives are full of events. We go places and see things. Our horizons have broadened. Back-breaking drudgery has been eliminated in every avenue of life. Household appliances, electrically operated, have come to lessen the work of the housewife. We have more time for play, and the golf links is an adjunct of every village and hamlet as well as the larger cities. We have improved our highways and have made our cities sanitary and attractive. But why go on? Truth is the so-called "good old days" are only a figment of the imagination. The days that we are now living are the best the world has ever seen up to now. And "we haint seen nothing yet."—News-Telegraph, Atlantic, Iowa.

Even capitalists seldom know how prosperous they have been until they make their income tax returns.

WHAT TO DO

By Mildred Crabtree Speer

What to do when you are down?
Tired, sick, a headache, no friends;
Work just will not go over;
Criticism cold and heartless
On every hand abound—
But it takes courage to die.

What to do when you are down?
If you stay stubbornly down
A reckless world will laugh and
Drive carelessly over you.
Cold pain to rise again—
But it takes courage to die.

What to do when you are down?
Nothing to do but get up,
And fall again to be
Laughed at, scorned; better
Do that than never to rise,
And it takes courage to die.

CALVARY

by Edwin Arlington Robinson

Friendless and faint, with martyred steps and slow;
Faint for the flesh but for the spirit free,
Stung by the mob that came to see the show,
The Master toiled along to Calvary.

We jibed him as he went with houndish glee,
Till his dimmed eyes for us did overflow;
We cursed his gentless hands thrice wretchedly—
And this was nineteen hundred years ago.

But after nineteen hundred years the shame
Still clings and we have not made good the loss
That outraged faith has entered in his name.

Ah, when shall come love's courage to be strong?
Tell me, O Lord—tell me, O Lord, how long
Are we to keep Christ writhing on the cross?

SOME SLOGANS FOR WET CAMPAIGNERS

The essential selfishness of the people at work to bring back the liquor trade is reflected in the following slogans proposed in a letter to a local paper in this city:
"Give me liberty and give me death.
"Liberty enlightening the world.
"A bar in every home.
"Help the poor get poorer.
"Millions for repeal, not one cent for enforcement.
"More liquor means safer highways.
"The tax on beer would help the poor little rich corporation.
"Three cheers for the Bars and stripes.
"The attention of Mr. Atterbury, Du Pont et al:
There is no harm in liquor
As far as we can see,
Let every fellow have it
But the one who works for me."
—Wesleyan Methodist.

THE EIGHTEENTH AMENDMENT

Rev. D. Rand Pierce
To the Eighteenth Amendment—"All hail, thee!" we say;
In the Old Constitution you're written to stay;

If the offspring of Pilgrims and patriots bad,
Will arise in this day, like their grandfathers of old.
And will battle with faith in their forefathers God,
You will live till your foes are all under the sod!

You have cost blood of martyrs, the prayers and the tears
Of our mothers, God bless them, through long, bitter years!
And the Christians and statesmen, your champions brave,
Fought the deadly drink traffic, their country to save,
Till the word "Prohibition" was written one day
In the Old Constitution, God grant there to stay!

But the demons of hell, now it seems, and bad men,
Are conspiring to curse our fair country again;
They are sweeping all barriers to passion aside,
And are lifting the flood-gates for damnation's tide;
While the rose-water millions, in church and without,
Have no conscience in voting the devil to rout!

'Tis a Gettysburg, now, and a real Waterloo
That we face, but the same God can carry us through,
Till the criminal bosses and gang leaders all,
In the face of an old-time revival will fall!
'Tis the need of America! God help us pray,
Till the Eighteenth Amendment shall bring a new day!

Some have been wondering what would be the main subject for people to talk about if the depression lets up. When they would probably be wondering if it were going to take a back-set.

After the track coach quit shooting at some empty tin cans with blank shells that we had to practice starts with, one of the boys remarked that coach was just as playful as a little kid.

The Mystery of Prospector's Cave

A Serial Written By The DARROUZETT PRESS CLUB
 (Conclusion)
 (anonymous)

The morning after Cook Fin had left the ranch in such a hurry, and Mr. Escrimm had been found unconscious and a portion of the gold missing was very uneventful until nearly noon.

Cook rode into the yard on an old black nag about eleven o'clock. She was apparently nervous and somewhat disheveled.

"Is the old man out of his fit yet?" she asked the cowpunchers. "Lawsy I'm not going to stay here anymore until he gets over them fits."

"Why, what's the matter, Cookie?" laughed Tom.

"Matter? Matter enough! Last evening that old man had a fit and he most scared me to death. He went into a trance and I thought sure he was dead! I'm not staying around here any longer. I only came back for my clothes and by wages."

"I'm sure Miss Rachel will be glad to give them to you, Fin. Sorry, you're leaving—'cause you could sure sling hash," said a cowboy.

"Yes, and I'm going where my talent will be appreciated too," and cooky marched into the ranch house door.

In the hall she came upon Rachel and Pete.

"Oh-er- pardon me."

"That's all right," said Rachel.

"May I present my husband-to-be? And, Cooky, he's going to give me Prospector's Cave as a wedding present!"

"Huh, I wouldn't have that, even for a gift," said the cook.

"Yes, you would," said Rachel, "if he'd just found a vein of gold running through it. Tell her how you found it, Pete."

"Oh, it wasn't hard after that cave in. It practically found itself."

"Well, I came to tell you I was leaving, but I think since I've found that you'll need me, I guess I'll stay."

"Fine! Now that you're staying, will you go on out," said Pete.

Primary Room Notes

By MRS. J. E. SPEER

More than one half of the students in the primary room were absent on Monday because of the storm.

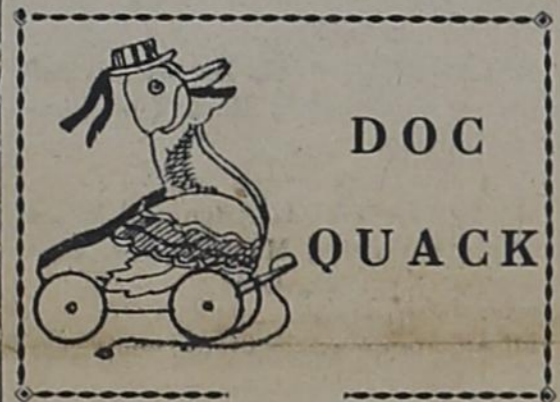

Class A is studying about Indians and their habits. The class is going to make some tee-pees and bows and arrows.

One of the prettiest pictures the Primary room has is the "Spring Song," by Glickich. A reproduction of the picture was mounted Monday, and the class that has the best reading lesson for a week is to receive the picture.

The front board in the room has a large tulip drawn on it. Mrs. Hennigh is going to draw a vase of flowers on the east board. The windows are decorated with cut out Easter Lillies.

The bookcase which belonged in the Primary room was returned Monday. Dorothy Woods and Viola Fausset cleaned it up and stacked all of the books in it neatly.

The Spring books, which are being made by the first and second grades, are almost completed; students from Mrs. Hennigh's room are to choose the book in each grade.

Doctor Quack:

I'm just a little country boy, in from the country, and I ain't very experienced yet. And there are just lots of things that I don't know, of course. So will you try to help me, and answer some of my dumb questions? I'm sure in need of a guiding hand in this here enormous city. Well, here are some things that I want to know:

What is a fire siren?
 Who was Pluto?

What does "stood-up" mean? and why did they tell me that's what I was when my girl friend forgot to meet me on the corner?

If the Indian women were called squaws, what were their babies called?

Why were the middle ages called the dark ages?

If you don't have time to answer all of them questions, please be sure and answer the last two?

Dumb R. Dumber.

Dumb R. Dumber,

Indian babies are called squawkers; and the middle ages were the dark ages because there were so many knights.

Lee Carter Talks To Class

"Learn all there is to know on the subject, and take state exams on it," is the advice of Lee Carter, Freshie at Texas Tech, gave to the Junior and Senior English Class in a short talk on Friday. He mentioned some differences between college life and high school life. "But," he said, "the one leads to the other, so, of course, high school education is very important."

Honorable Mention

Charlie Hennigh—for neither being absent nor tardy for six months of this school term.

Dean Terrel, Frances Fausset, and making the honor roll for the first three 6-weeks period.

Beulah McGee for winning a place on the honor roll for the four six weeks periods of this year.

Wilma Lash and Teresa Frass for ranking first in their classes every six-weeks period since school started.

Gerald Ludlum, Naomi Rush, and Mavis Altmiller for being neither absent nor tardy since school started.

Declaimers Speak In Assembly

Speeches by declaimers and extemporaneous speakers were features of the assembly program given on Thursday, March 17.

"The senior boy declaimer, Glenn Balch read "Washington," by Spence. "Patchwork" was given by Ramah Reger. G. A. Jenkins read "Song of the Pacificist," by Robert W. Service. Marguerite Hennigh gave "America's Uncrowned Queen," by Homer T. Wilson.

"Utilization of By-Products" was the subject of an extemporaneous speech given by O. C. Elfers. Nina Martin gave an extemporaneous speech on "Washington's Bicentennial."

The local Ladies Aid gave short scenes from their play, "Judith of the Mountains," which was to be presented Friday night.

TEAM WORK Editorial by Nina Martin

Team work is needed in business as well as on the play ground.

A business man and his employees can not cooperate if they do not use team work. They will make more money if they work together instead of pulling against one another.

Team work should be used on the play ground in most games. When each individual works for himself, it can not be used. Team work is needed in base-ball, volley-ball, basket-ball, etc. A team that works together is considered much more valuable than one that does not.

These and many other things depend on team work for their success.

Third and Fourth Grade Activities By Mrs. Lela Hennigh

Several students were absent the first of the week on account of the storm.

Easter rabbits were colored and cut out in busy work period last week for window decorations. Also an Easter Rabbit border was put on the blackboard in colored chalk by different students in the room. A vase of typical spring flowers was drawn on the board by the teacher to add color to the room and to be used later as a drawing lesson.

The third graders went into Mrs. Speer's room Friday morning to cipher the second grade. It was a very interesting race, but the third grade succeeded in winning by quite a large margin.

Health inspectors this week are Jack Phillips, Don James, and Charlie Hennigh.

Gertrude McGee is to keep the library, reading table and magazine rack in order this week.

Three sixth graders, Erma Hennigh, Naomi Rush, and Oscar Taylor judged some posters that had been colored by both grades. These had been given by the Listerine Company and a large and small bottle of Listerine were offered as prizes. John Chase won the large bottle for first prize, and Gertrude McGee won the small one for second place.

G. A. Jenkins was chosen to be the new librarian.

Ross Montgomery and Loren Fausset are housekeepers for this week.

Movable rabbits are being made in busy work period this week as an art project.

Sophomore Class Notes

Monday, as every one knows, was so bad many pupils could not come to school. Many came between 8:50 and 10:30 Tuesday however.

On Tuesday we received our report cards. Our teachers said our grades were not very good this last six weeks. Many of us knew some of them were without telling.

In history Wednesday we are going to dramatize the Crimean War. Each of us is given the name of a country to represent.

In Spanish we are doing our best to color the pretty pictures Mr. Mullings gives us to name.

In English and Algebra we are studying commas and quadratic equations respectively.

As a summary of what we are doing, you might say that we are trying to make better grades than the last six weeks.

ASSEMBLY NOTES

Assembly visitors on Thursday were Mrs. G. R. Mills and daughter, Myrtle Jean, Mrs. A. B. Grubb, Mrs. D. R. Rush, Mrs. Myrtle Phebus, Mrs. G. A. Jenkins, Mrs. Carson Altmiller, Mildred McVicker, Pearl Lourwood, and Joe Dupont.

Fifth and Sixth Grade Notes By MRS. RUTH WRIGHT

Movable Easter toys were made during the art class Thursday and Friday. A bright colored egg may be opened and closed to show a little yellow chicken.

Cut paper Easter lillies are now being made. The flower pot, stem, leaves, and flowers are each cut out separately and pasted on a corresponding color of construction paper.

Each sixth grade student was assigned one Western State to draw and fill in with proper products. The maps were all drawn to the same scale and placed in their proper position to form one large map.

Our campaign against bad English was ended with a large number of errors captured and put to death. The enemies "aint," "I seen," "yah," and "the boy he," were captured many times before they could be held. Wednesday the largest drive of the week was made and two divisions of the enemy's most active troops were taken captive. The officers in command, "Git," "Uh-huh," "I done," and "I got," were sentenced to be hanged. This campaign has done a great amount of good, and another will be started when our room is overrun with the enemy words.

Illustrated arithmetic problems afford some variety for the sixth grade class. Pictures of the articles mentioned in our problems were pasted on the page and the problem worked out in complete form.

Mrs. Hennigh's room loaned us their model store to use during arithmetic periods. Making change and writing out sales slips is very valuable practice for us, we find.

Only eight pupils were present Monday on account of the snow storm. During recess we chose sides and ciphered.

Mae Kemp's side is leading in the spelling race. Mae's chicken has been fed 40 grains and Naomi's 3.

We have received our catalogs from the Children's Flower Mission, and intend to order our seeds this week. Many of us are planning to have flower or vegetable gardens of our own.

SPORTING SHOTS

Eliminations for girls tennis were held this week. Laura B. Allen was the victorious singles champion, and Margurite Hennigh and Violet Phebus are the doubles team.

These girls will represent D. H. S. in the county meet at Follett.

Boy' tennis try-outs were completed this week.

Carl Hanschu won singles and Orval Chappell and Kenneth Jenkins won in singles.

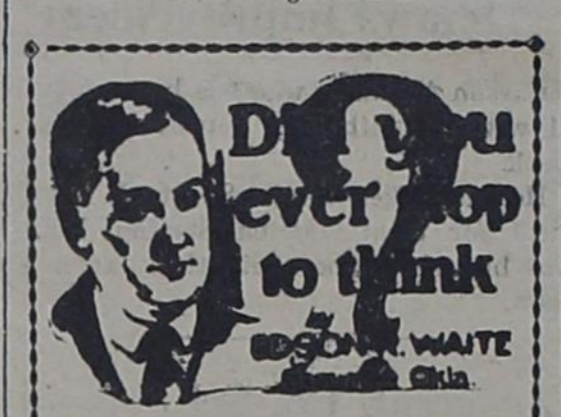

The track men have been able to practice only one or two days this week because of bad weather.

Character Sketches

I'm the "phisty-iest" little old Sophomore you ever saw. And am I independent? I do what I wanna when I wanna, and how! I'm blue-eyed and have long brown hair. Well, who am I anyhow?

I am a dark headed Sophomore boy. The good fairy asked me once: "Will you have beauty or brains?" Well, you folks can't say I cheated for I didn't get either. My favorite indoor sport is teasing someone. Guess who I am?

D. N. RAYNOR, EDITOR OF THE PORT JERVIS (N. Y.) UNION-GAZETTE, SAYS:

That there are 120 million people in the United States. There are millions of springs supplying water for the Mississippi River. The people are scattered in every nook of the nation and grouped in cities, and the springs are widely scattered.

Let us suppose that every little spring supplying water for the great river was frozen up for a month or a year. Let us imagine that the sources in the mountains of Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, etc. were withholding their supply—just a little in each case. All the great territory served by the Father of Waters would soon become a desert. Those tiny springs must get and give continuously—and there is life.

Industry in this country has been experiencing a crisis because the funds of the people—the little springs—are frozen, and are being hoarded and kept from doing their share to prevent idleness.

Advertising is the one thing that so speeds us along and is the life of industry, and merchants and other business men, big and little, must do their share to start the money flowing and keep it going, for it has a Midas touch when in action and helps the River of Industry to carry its cargoes to many ports. LET US HAVE A UNIVERSAL EFFORT TO THAW OUT ALL THE SPRINGS, AT ONCE.

Livestock Marketing By Co-op. Is Growing

Rapid progress in cooperative marketing of livestock in Texas is shown by the annual report of John C. Burns, secretary-manager of the Texas Livestock Marketing Association, delivered Wednesday at the Association's annual convention in El Paso.

During the first two months of 1932 the Association's receipts on the Ft. Worth market increased 131 per cent compared with January and February of 1931.

A total of 229,388 animals valued at $2,889,620 were handled during the year, of which more than 150,000 were sheep.

Loans totaling $4,874,026 were made Texas livestock men from Oct. 1930 to March 1 by the Association's subsidiary, the National Finance Credit Corporation of Texas. About $1,500,000 was loaned to further the breeder-feeder movement.

Officers of the Association are H. L. Kokernot, San Antonio, president; T. D. Hobart, Pampa, first-vice president; J. M. West, Houston, second vice-president; W. E. Connell, Ft. Worth, treasurer and John C. Burns, Ft. Worth, secretary-manager.

A Weekly SERMONETTE

By Arthur B. Rhinow

"If I had my span of life to choose, I believe I would choose some time in the future," a young man recently confided to his elderly friend. He has a crisp way of speaking, as one who has no time to lose, and he often seems to be under the spell of far-away adventure.

But why choose a life in the future in preference to our own days? I suppose the young man would answer, "Because scientific progress will make it more wonderful than the life of today." Any one who marches with the times and has any imagination at all, can see visions of marvels in the centuries to come. But will they make the world a better place to live in? Will youth experience the thrills of a finer adventure? Will the aged enjoy the evening of life more than they do now?

Hardly. No doubt we shall be able to save time and almost eliminate space with super-telephones, super-radios, and monster aeroplanes; but all that will only increase our speed and make the race more selfish than ever, unless we learn to love one another. And we may cherish that love today as well as in the future.

We boast of attainments in our times that were not known in the days of George Washington, but the father of his country probably enjoyed life as much as any one today or in the wonderful days of the future. He had his full share of adventure, he performed a prodigious task, and his last days on his beloved Mount Vernon were most likely as sweet as will be those of any "super-

On Texas Farms

By W. H. Darrow
 Extension Service Editor

There were 5 containers of food canned per inhabitant in San Augustine county in 1930, and 39 in 1931. Perhaps this is a greater ratio of increase than in the State as a whole, but it bears out the belief that Texans have gone a long way toward "selling the home market first."

F. G. Rodgers of Spur is making American cheese as coached by the Dickens county home demonstration agent and is selling it to his grocer. He says it is a good way to dispose of surplus milk.

"When $1 a week pays the grocery bill it isn't hard to sell enough eggs and butter even at low prices, to make the living," declares Mrs. John Eastman, 4-H pantry demonstrator in Mason County.

In Brazoria county the men who have been demonstrating the value of improved pastures claim that one acre of improved pasture is worth more than three of ordinary pasture. About 20,000 acres are reported by the county agent moved to rid fields of weeds, and shade trees have been planted, drainage ditches dug, and better watering facilities added.
