

Greenhouse Tomatoes Booming; Short Course Scheduled At A&M U.

COLLEGE STATION, May—Greenhouse tomatoes are a booming little industry in Texas, according to John Larsen horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Interest has snowballed," he says. "More than half of the 800 letters I received last year were from people who wanted advice on growing greenhouse tomatoes. One grower in Montgomery County must have spent $200 for phone calls to get information."

This interest prompted the Texas A&M specialist and greenhouse tomato growers to schedule a short course on the special tomatoes for June 29 and 30.

A premium of about 10 cents per pound is paid for greenhouse tomatoes because they have outstanding quality. Their special taste and texture come from being "vine-ripe," Larsen explained. This gives them field fresh flavor.

Greenhouse tomatoes should not be confused with "hothouse" tomatoes, he says. Hothouse tomatoes are picked green in the field; then ripened in a warm room. Although many field-grown tomatoes from Mexico, Florida and California are claimed to be vine-ripe, Larsen says the green tomatoes often seen in cartons indicates many of them are not.

Amateur's interest in greenhouse tomatoes has been increased in recent years by availability of low-cost plastic greenhouses. Hobbyists and other part-time horticulturists can put up a plastic building for 40 to 60 cents per square foot. A glass house would cost more than $2 per square foot.

With the low-cost greenhouse, Larsen said, a conscientious producer can expect to make a tidy profit.

A Milam County grower reported that his one-eighth acre greenhouse had produced tomatoes worth $3,500 by late April this year," Larsen said. "Cost of producing these tomatoes was about $700 not including fuel bills or the initial expense of building the greenhouse."

Larsen said the grower can expect to take in about $1,000 more before the season ends about June 1.

Although returns seem high, Larsen cautions potential growers. "It's a 24 hour-a-day, seven day-a-week job," he said. Last winter a southeast Texas producer, who didn't have a temperature alarm system, walked into his 2,000 square-foot greenhouse one morning to find the temperature at 24 degrees. All of his plants died."

Temperature control and ventilation are two of the most critical factors in producing greenhouse tomatoes. The tomatoes cannot stand freezing temperatures, yet South Texas growers often plant in October to avoid extremely warm temperatures. In North Texas, growers usually plant in September.

"To keep temperatures just right, producers have evaporative coolers for warm weather and furnaces for cold weather," Larsen said.

Good management is crucial, he said. Watering needs to be done from two to five times per week. Fertilization requirements may call for 15 applications per crop. Manual pollination should be done every other day.

"You can make money with greenhouse tomatoes," Larsen said, "but it takes devotion and hard work."

The special way of growing tomatoes got started in Texas about five years ago when Dr. Clyde Singletary, Larsen's predecessor who is now with Mississippi State University, began publishing research findings at Texas A&M along with suggestions for growing the plants.

Greenhouse tomatoes have been an important business in some areas of the Midwest for more than 50 years.

Historic Spots Attract Student Of Texas History

Are you thrilled by Texas history? If so you will enjoy visiting some of the sources of historic spots that mark the challenging episodes of our frontier land.

The battle cry that spurred the Texans on at San Jacinto was "Remember the Alamo; remember Goliad," and it is quite fitting that the state, many years ago, established a state park at Goliad in southeast Texas. It was here that Colonel Fannin and his men were massacred on Palm Sunday, March 27, 1836.

Goliad is situated on U. S. Highways 59, 183, and alternate 77; and can also be reached on State highway 239 from the west.

In Goliad State Park there is a small museum of early Texas relics and the Mission Espiritu Santo de Zuniga. In 1749, this mission was moved to Goliad by the Franciscan padres to Christianize the Indians and civilize the frontier. It is open to the public.

Nearby is the Presidio La Bahia where the Goliad Declaration of Independence was drawn in 1835. Sunday mass is still celebrated there. Near La Bahia stands a monument to Colonel Fannin and his men. Goliad became the county seat of Goliad County in 1837. On the courthouse grounds you will find the famous "Hanging Tree."

City Park has a monument to the men who lost their lives at Goliad, erected in April, 1835, surmounted by two cannons found on the streets of the town after the Texas Revolution.

Twenty-five miles northeast of Goliad on U. S. 59 is Victoria, one of the first three towns of the Republic. Here you will find a number of beautiful ante-bellum homes, still in good condition, as well as the famed Dutch Windmill in Memorial Square.

If you'd like a bit of fishing to finish off your trip, drive on another 27 miles on U. S. 87 to Port Lavaca, where redfish and speckled trout abound.

Roberts Leave on Western Vacation

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Roberts and daughter, Pauline, left Wednesday for a ten day's or two week's trip to visit relatives in Arizona and New Mexico. They will go to the Birt Roberts ranch 40 miles north of Douglas, Ariz., for a visit with Fred's brother and family, then to Douglas to visit his sister, Mrs. C. E. Darnell. They will be met there by a sister of Mrs. Roberts, Mrs. Allie Hurt of Phoenix, Ariz., who will return to Rising Star with them. En route home they will stop at Hobbs, N. M., to visit another sister of Mrs. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. King.

Capt. Nichols Wins Engineering Degree

Captain C. B. Nichols, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Nichols of Rising Star, has completed an engineering course at SMU in Dallas and has been awarded his master's degree.

He has been assigned to Wiesbaden, Germany, U. S. Air Force headquarters, and will leave Dallas on July 1 for his new station.

His wife, the former Carlene Irby, and their children, Linda and Bill, will join him later. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Irby attended the graduation exercises.

Heart Program Attendance Is Disappointing

Attendance at the Heart program sponsored by the North Star Home Demonstration Club at the American Legion Hall June 2, was disappointing, the club reported. The program itself was very informative and interesting.

The club held its regular meeting at the club house on the same day, and named Mmes. Lee Burkhead, Tom Childers, Jesse O. Perry and Mabel Ralston, to attend the meeting of the County Home Demonstration council at Eastland on Wednesday, June 3.

"Road to the White House" was the name of the pattern chosen for the quilt which the club will enter in the Achievement day program.

A check for $5.00 was sent to the Austin State School to be placed in the playground equipment fund.

Mrs. Beverly Nicholson, county home demonstration agent, presented the program on "Consumer Credit Buying."

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Lee Burkhead and Clara Ridems, and Mrs. Hattie Goss directed the recreation period. Mrs. J. W. Morris won the door prize.

TO NEW PULPIT

The Rev. Bruce Stovall has resigned his pastorate at the First Baptist Church of Olden to accept the pastorate of the Lakeview Baptist Church, 20 miles south of Lubbock. He will move his family there soon.

Virgil Bowers and M. B. Bowers of Abilene visited relatives in Rising Star Sunday, June 8.

$166 Millions Budgeted for Spending On Safer Highway System In Texas

AUSTIN—More safety and less congestion for 2,067 miles of Texas highways was the objective today of a $166 million improvement program authorized by the Texas Highway Commission.

The biennial Consolidated Highway program is aimed at correcting traffic problems on parts of the Primary Highway System of U. S. and State-numbered highways in Texas.

The Highway Commission called the 2-year program "vital to our keeping pace with a traffic explosion that is increasing five per cent a year." In view of the diffusion of Texas' 22 metropolitan areas — more than any other state — "these city-connecting highways must continue to be systematically upgraded for the good of the cities they serve, as well as the safety and convenience of the through traveler," the commission said.

The 25,000-mile Primary Highway system carries a bigger burden of the state's 50-billion-mile-a-year traffic load than all other systems combined, commissioners pointed out. Yet some 20,000 miles of the primary system are considered obsolete by contemporary standards, they said.

Of the amount authorized for the Consolidation improvement program, $151 million is earmarked for construction and about $15 million for right of way. The program will be funded from state gasoline tax revenue, license fees and federal grants in aid. About 65 per cent of the cost will come from state funds.

Under the new program, heavily-traveled Primary highways will be upgraded, some to four-lane standards. Widening of bridges, paving of shoulders and other improvements for safety are also included for various highways over the state under the extensive program.

Highway Department studies indicate dramatic improvements in safety statistics result from such programs as the one authorized today. Upgrading a two-lane highway to four-lane divided status, for instance, reduces the fatality rate by more than 30 per cent. When "control of access" is added, the rate drops by 45 per cent.

Will Spend Month in Alaska This Summer

Mrs. Conrad Schaefer has returned from a visit to Houston where her son, Martin Walker, and his bride live. She returned by way of Austin and brought home her father, W. E. McLean for a visit with her and Mr. Schaefer.

July 1, she will go to Seattle, Wash., where she will join a school teacher friend, and the two will sail to Juneau, Alaska, for a month in that northernmost state during which they will fly to Nome and Ketchikan above the Arctic circle.

Mrs. Bess Rascoe of Sweetwater, and Mrs. Gladys Benson and Syble Robertson of Denver City were among the Amity homecomers.

Tests have demonstrated that milk in the containers stays fresh for as long as ten days because the containers do not have to be removed from the refrigerator for serving and the milk remains at a constant, cold temperature. Sealed in a sanitary, plastic bag inside the box, the milk is also protected from damaging light and food odors in the refrigerator.

What is your pleasure—pink or blue hydrangeas? You can make them whichever you want. For blue hydrangeas, water the plant two or three times with a solution of 1 pound of aluminum sulfate in 5 gallons of water. Drench the soil thoroughly, fertilize lightly.

If you want the flowers to be pink, use a phosphate fertilizer, such as 15-30-15, in the water.

Here's a useful tip on measuring refrigerated shortening, which is hard to pack into a measuring cup. Say your recipe calls for 1/2 cup solid fat. Put 1/2 cup cold water in a 1-cup measure. Add fat, pushing it under the water until water level stands at the 1-cup mark. Pour out the water, and you have a half-cup fat. Some water may cling to the fat, so it is best to use this method which calls for moisture.

Winter clothing and covers need correct care before storage for the summer. Proper cleaning, labeling and storage will assure that garments will be in good conditions and easy to locate when the first norther comes next fall. If storage space is limited, you may want to consider taking all woolen items to a professional firm for cleaning and storage. Near-zero temperature will destroy clothes moths in all stages of their development. Make a list and jot down values of all items—one for the establishment and one for your home file. You may give your own woolen clothing the cold treatment if you have enough space in your home freezer. First, clean the garments, seal them in heavy paper and store in the freezer for 24 hours. Then store in a closet, being sure the seal remains unbroken. All clothing should be cleaned before storing—whatever the fabric. The storage space should be clean, free of all dust and sprayed for protection from household insects. Woolen blankets or other woolen covers should be cleaned and sprayed with a moth spray,

PIONEER

By Mrs. Delma Dean

I am glad to be back home again and am feeling much better. I certainly appreciated Jean Fore, and thanks so much, Jean, for writing the Pioneer news for our column while I was away.

I would love to take this means of sending out thanks and appreciation to all that visited me while I was a patient at the Eastland Memorial Hospital, for the lovely cards I received, for the beautiful flowers that my Sunday School class sent, for each prayer and every kind word. Friends are wonderful. We could not get by without them.

One quilt was completed at our club meeting Thursday afternoon. Coffee and cookies were served Ethel Brown, Ida Gray, Eula Fore, Ruby Daniels, Anne Laura Alexander and Jean Fore.

Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Gray were visitors in Comanche Friday, with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brown. Mr. Brown is a patient in the Comanche hospital, having had surgery Thursday morning. He is reported as improving.

Mrs. Eva Smith of Baird visited Ethel Brown Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Fore were in Coleman Sunday afternoon to watch their nephew, Paul Huntington, of Melvin, play in the invitational golf tournament. Paul won the tournament.

Mr. and Mrs. George Scott were in Coleman Sunday afternoon visiting relatives.

C. C. Westerman attended the funeral of a cousin, Irwin Patterson, at Energy Saturday. Delores Stover was taken to the Rising Star Hospital early Sunday morning suffering from a spider bite. Delores, we hope you can soon be completely well.

Her husband, Donald Stover, had the misfortune of being struck in the leg by a piece of steel which pierced an artery. We hope it doesn't cause trouble later. His brother, Pete, is on the sick list also. Looks like, as the old saying goes, "when it rains, it pours."

William (Bill) Gibson and Eugene Gibson of San Antonio, played in the golf tournament at Coleman Sunday. They visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gibson in Pioneer.

The Rev. and Mrs. Dan Gaines were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Eakin Sunday.

Friends that dropped by to see Mr. and Mrs. Delma Dean after she arrived from the hospital Sunday, were The Rev. Dan Gaines and wife of Abilene, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Kirkham and son Rickey of Cross Plains, and Jean Fore Laverne Hutton and son, Lynn. Mrs. Eula Fore and Jean visited Mrs. Delma Dean Monday morning. Thanks, Jean, for the delicious cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Kirkham were visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fleming Sunday afternoon.

WYNNE CHESTER SAYS: Do Some Thinking on Your Holiday

We'll soon be celebrating our greatest historical holiday. Too many of us, however, think of it as "The 4th of July." We should try to remember that its true title is Independence Day, and that it means a great deal more than fireworks, parades and popcorn. Our forefathers gave us independence, but they also gave us certain freedoms. Unfortunately, one of the pleasurable freedoms that millions of us enjoy is being threatened. A sizeable segment of our people, stubbornly blind to the true facts, are trying to take our guns away. Intelligent Americans agree that certain guidelines must be established for the control of firearms. However, this control must be based on reason, not on emotion or misinformation. Existing laws should be strictly enforced, with severe punishment for people who use guns for criminal purposes. Meanwhile, the lawless few must not be allowed to threaten the rights and pleasures of the majority. This Independence Day, let's agree to reason the problem out calmly, to the best interests of us all.
