In a little Mississippi town last week there occurred an event which is not likely to receive much attention in the so-called liberal press. Certainly it will never be celebrated from the minarets of those political bleeding hearts who have damned Southern segregationism with such vigor.

It is an example of the integration of the human heart, accomplished without judicial mandate, executive decree or bayoneted coercion. No swarms of federal marshals went there with tear gas bombs to force those people, in the name of law and men, white or black, are broader, to acknowledge that all others and each the keeper of the other.

The recognition simply welled up from the hearts of those maligned Mississippi people in a practical demonstration of applied human sentiment responding to need. An elderly Negro couple and four grandchildren lost their home and its contents in a fire. There was no hope of replacing the loss. The old Negro, a former sawmill worker, was too crippled for his job. But the 2,100 people of Lumberton, Miss., had the answer.

Says the Ap saory:

"At daylight Saturday morn-carpenters, plumbers, day laborers and others who could be staying in bed greeted the sunshine that meant they could have the six victims of the fire in a new home by sundown.

"The narrow dirt road had never seen such traffic, with lumber trucks lined up along with fine new cars and ancient jalopies that carried the workers.

"Whites and Negroes worked side by side and the aristocrat was the man who could drive a nail straight. There were some sidewalk superintendents, but if they showed signs of lingering, they were handed a shovel or a hammer and put to work.

"By a miracle born in the hearts of the townspeople who respect the hard-working Negro pair, they slept Saturday night in new beds, warmed by heaters.

"Replacing the house itself was not enough. The people of Lumberton started offering furniture, all new, and today trucks were waiting to move a refrigerator, stove, three bedroom sets and a complete living room set into the new house."

Those people, no doubt, would have done the same thing for a white family in a similar circumstance. That the family in need were Negroes had nothing to do with the response. They were human beings, fellow-townsmen who had suffered a misfortune, and the real heart of the South responded.

Racial relations as such were not involved; there was no violence to attract the fringe elements which delights in anarchy. There were no emotional distortions, no issues of civil rights. A poor place, indeed, to fish for votes and political advantage.

But it was a wonderful demonstration of the kind of intergration that really counts, a fellowship which overleaps racial distinctions and social and economic definitions to find in mutual respect and common need the real brotherhood of man.

Clark Coursey Publishes Remarkable Documentary of Texas Courthouses

Brownwood — "Courthouses of Texas," a 260-page book showing photographs of the courthouses in the 254 counties of the state has just been published here.

Photographs of all the courthouses were made over a five-year period by Clark Coursey, former Brownwood newspaper publisher, who has been editor of the monthly magazine, "County Progress," for the past 20 years. The magazine is the official publication of the County Judges and Commissioners Association of Texas.

Coursey did not keep a record of the miles traveled to snap pictures of the 254 courthouses, but said it totaled many thousands. Of the book itself, thought to be the first complete collection of courthouse pictures in the history of the state, Coursey said: "It won't be rated as a work of art, but it could be classified as a feat of perseverance."

The book sells for $5 and is on sale at the Banner Printing Company which Coursey owns and operates.

Mr. Coursey is the son of Mrs. J. T. Coursey of Rising Star and learned the printing trade as a boy at the Rising Star Record under former publisher M. S. (Dock) Sellers.

The 258-page book, bound in orange covers and covered with a dust jacket designed by Si Blackstock of Brownwood, has a picture of one courthouse per page. Concise and vital information — without useless adjectives — captions each picture. The book is a valuable reference work and a downright interesting volume to thumb through.

A small outline map on each page locates the county.

Coursey began work on the book in 1956 and traveled about 15,000 miles to get the pictures.

CLARK COURSEY

Most of the information came from county clerks, who filled out forms Coursey sent. He had to mail some forms as many as four times and had to make a few long distance telephone calls before all the information could be gathered.

He chose his subject unintentionally. As editor of The County Progress, publication of the County Judges and Commissioners Assn. of Texas, since 1942, Coursey started using courthouses of surrounding counties on the magazine's cover. He decided it would be fine to have photos from all counties.

He spent four days once in the Panhandle, totaling up 1,500 miles, and photographed 36 courthouses. He used several different cameras for his work.

Coursey said Rice University's library had already ordered five copies of the book and the University of Texas has ordered two — although there has been no advance publicity for the work.

Eastland County Added To Great Plains Soil Program

EASTLAND — This county has been added to the Great Plains Conservation Program and an announcement is expected in about ten days concerning local participation in the program.

E. E. McAllister, local Soil Conservation Service manager, said Friday that his office has received official word and that data is now being assembled for the program.

Eastland was one of three Texas counties added to the GPCP and will benefit with the addition of more conservation projects.

These will include ponds, terracing, water-way control re-seeding and other methods, he said.

The local committee is made up of McAllister, Homer Cole, local Farmers Home Administration Agency and E. E. Blackwell, chairman of this county's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

There are now 372 counties in 10 Great Plains states eligible before all the information Congress has increased the Great Plains appropriation from the $10 million a year it had set aside since the inception of the plan to $12.5 million.

Of the $2,500,000 additional funds specified, Congress earmarked $1,173,000 expressly for getting soil and water conservation on the land.

The other Texas counties added by the Department of Agriculture were Archer and Clay, as well as the Colorado county of Custer.

A&M Experts Will Judge Entries In County Show

Ranger — Judging of entries at the 10th Annual Eastland County Pecan Show, Ranger, Dec. 14-15, will be done by horticulturists of A&M College, according to J. M. Cooper, county agent, who has done a wonderful job in promoting the pecan industry in Eastland County.

The Ranger Chamber of Commerce and the Pecan Growers Association are co-sponsors of the affair to be held in the Joseph building in Ranger.

Both papershell varieties as well as native seedlings will be on exhibition at the show. Some of the new varieties, including the Choctaw, Apache, Comanche and Wichita will be exhibited.

Ribbons will be awarded to the first, second and third place winners. First place winners will be entered in the state show at A&M in early January, 1963. Trophies will be presented to the exhibitors of both the grand champion paper shell and native seedling entries, by the National Shellers and Processors Association of Chicago, Illinois.

W. T. Eaton and Bill Herrington of Ranger are co-chairmen of the arrangements committee, according to Col. Roy Plumley, manager of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce.

The Pecan Queen Contest to be held on Thursday night, Dec. 13, will be sponsored by the 1947 Club. The girl chosen by the judges as queen of the Pecan Show will be honored at a luncheon on Dec. 15. The Commercial State Bank will be host to the affair, it was explained.

The pecan bake show and concession stand will be in conjunction with the nut division and will feature cakes, pies, candy and cookies and will be open to everyone, according to Mrs. Herman Schaefer, Nimrod, chairman of the County Home Demonstration Council.

Other officers of the Pecan Association includes Sam Kimmel, Cisco, vice president, Ben McKinnis, Eastland, secretary-treasurer. Directors include C. E. Smith, Rising Star, Edwin Schaefer, Cook, C. T. Barton, Pioneer and B. B. Freeman, Ranger.

30-Bed Nursing Home Is Planned Here By Dallas Firm

Charles Rutherford, president of the Rising Star Development Corp., this week announced that the organization had signed an agreement with Golden Heritage Inc., Dallas for the construction of a 30-bed nursing home for senior citizens in Rising Star.

The home will be located on a 150-150-foot lot out of the northeast corner of the City Park and will represent an investment of approximately $7,500, Mr. Rutherford said. Ample room for expansion of the institution to a capacity of 100 beds will be allowed by the size of the lot.

Construction will be of masonry, conforming to rigid state specifications and the equipment will also meet these standards. The building will cost approximately $50,000 and furnishings and equipment between $10,000 and $15,000.

Promotion of the project was made possible by the splendid cooperation of the City Council, Mr. Rutherford said.

The county surveyor was due to set corners of the lot early this week and Farren James, president of Golden Heritage, Inc., said that construction would start immediately. Foundations were expected to be poured Monday of next week, provided the surveying is completed.

The Rising Star home will employ an initial staff of 12 people, and the supervisor of the project plans to be in Rising Star 30 days prior to completion of the plant to interview applicants for the staff. There will be a payroll of approximately $2,500 a month. The home will use groceries amounting to about $500 per month, which will be purchased locally. Use of local labor and building materials was also assured by the company.

The building will be of masonry construction. Baths will be tiled and birchwood will be used in kitchen cabinets and furnishings.

Completion is expected within three months of the start of construction.

Golden Heritage now operates eight homes and is expanding. It has units at DeLeon and Stephenville as the nearest to Rising Star.

It's the Law in Texas

OUR "BILL OF RIGHTS"

December 15 is observed each year as "Bill of Rights Day" throughout the United States. What does this important "document" mean to us?

The American "Bill of Rights", consisting of the first ten amendments to our Federal Constitution, all adopted at one time in 1791, specifies in some detail a number of basic civil rights of the individual citizen. Unaltered by subsequent amendments and jealously guarded by our courts, these privileges must still be respected by our governing bodies today.

Among the most familiar of our constitutional guarantees are those relating to freedom of religion, speech, and of the press. The same article protects the rights of peaceable assembly and the privilege of petitioning the government for redress of grievances.

Another amendment secures our persons, houses, papers and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures, and specifies that no warrants shall issue but upon probable cause, and unless supported by oath or affirmation.

The due process of law amendment encompasses not one but several guarantees. Every American is secured against being placed twice in legal jeopardy for the same offense; against being compelled to be a witness against himself in a criminal case; and against having his private property taken for public use without just compensation.

He is also secured against being held for trial for a capital (death penalty) or other infamous crime, unless upon a presentment or indictment of a grand jury. And, of course, no person may be deprived of life, liberty or property without orderly court procedures, or due process of law.

The right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury, in the locality where the crime was committed, the right to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation, and the rights to compel attendance of defense witnesses and to have the assistance of defense counsel in all criminal prosecutions are secured by another section of the "Bill of Rights."

Excessive bail and fines, and cruel and unusual punishments, are prohibited in Amendment VIII. Other articles insure the right to bear arms and ban quartering of soldiers in private homes during peace time.

Then, to make quite clear to our governing bodies the underlying intent of the preceding provisions, the Ninth Amendment states: The enumeration in the Constitution, of certain rights, shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people."

The Tenth Amendment further emphasizes this basic theory by providing: "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people."

Thus, that fundamental philosophy expressed in the Declaration of Independence, that men are endowed with certain inalienable rights, and that "to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed," has been carried forward into the highest law of our land.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lee, Sr., of Cisco visited their son, John Lee, and also Mrs. Beyrl Heath Friday and went to Brownwood here.

About Your Health

AUSTIN — Early in January Gov. Price Daniel and Dr. Glenn Seaborg of the Atomic Energy Commission will meet in the Senate Chamber at the Texas Capitol where each will sign an important legal document.

The document will be a formal contract between the federal government and the State of Texas. And it will be full of the legal words and phrases usually found in such contracts.

But boiled down to its essence, the signed contract will mean that any Texas firm or individual who finds it necessary to use radioactive materials in their business or profession will deal directly with the State Department of Health for license and supervision, rather than with the Atomic Energy commission.

Thus will end months of tedious negotiations which began back in 1959. That was when the United States Congress amended the original Atomic Energy Act and gave states permission to set up radiation control programs of their own, provided they could convince the AEC they could handle the job.

It was in April of 1961 that the Texas Legislature accepted the challenge and passed the Texas Radiation Control Act. This law named the Texas State Department of Health as the state's official radiation control agency.

The same state law gave the health department the right to set up a program of licensing and registering all radioactive materials and all radiation producing equipment as a means of safeguarding against dangerous human overexposure.

Such a program was worked up by the department's radiation control engineers, and approved by a 9-member Radiation Advisory Board that Gov. Daniel had named earlier. Members of the board are experts in medicine, hospital administration, industry, labor, insurance, agriculture and public safety.

A written prospectus of the program was formally submitted to the Atomic Energy Commission on November 5. The AEC was asked to act on it promptly so the final contract could be signed early in January.

If the January deadline is met — and there is every indication that it will be — Texas will become the fifth state to assume the regulatory function. Kentucky, California, Mississippi and New York already have similar working arrangements with the AEC.

An aggregate of 509 radioisotope licenses have already been issued in Texas by the AEC. Subsequent licenses will be issued by the State Department of Health in a valid exercise of state responsibility.

After the Governor and Dr. Seaborg sign that document in January, Texans will be talking to Texans.

Around Kounty Korners With The County Agent

By J. M. Cooper

Walter Duncan, Staff, was telling me recently about growing some alfalfa in rows in his garden and how many times he and Mrs. Duncan cut it. We have always encouraged alfalfa growing. Some soils in the county are especially adapted to growing it. Clyde Brymer, Cisco policeman, used to have a big field of as fine alfalfa as you would want to see on his farm in the Pleasant Hill community. Alfalfa should be planted in October and inoculated with the A type of inoculant.

Mr. Duncan invited me to come down anytime for a fish dinner. Mrs. Duncan said that they finally killed the rat that lived in the house with them for several weeks. Got to be fat and sleek she said. Was delighted to get rid of him but had to try several things.

Red Cross Aid For Guam Victims Sought

Eastland County Red Cross officials are requesting voluntary donations to assist in meeting disaster needs in Guam, Mrs. Arthur Murrell, county chairman, has announced.

Early estimates indicate that the American Red Cross may spend up to $2 million in disaster relief in Guam, Mrs. Murrell said.

Local chapters are authorized to accept cash contributions for relief of victims in such disasters as the recent Guam episode.

Interested persons may make their cash contributions to the Red Cross Office, Court House, Eastland or to Mr. E. E. Freyschlag, Eastland County Chapter treasurer for the Red Cross.

PEACEFUL CO-EXISTENCE

In these modern days — in this Space Age — our next door neighbor is not some other State in our own nation; it is not Canada or Mexico; it is the world to which we are living next door; people everywhere are only a few hours distance from one another.

Even in the face of these conditions, there are different types of government in the world. There are, however, only two main kinds — communism and democracy. In the United States where democracy is practiced, there is also a theory of peaceful coexistence. This is a theory that the two nations leading in these differing types of government can live side by side at the same time peacefully and without conflict; that Russia and the United States can live together quietly and without war. With this theory goes the hope — indeed, the belief — that under our influence the Soviet Union will realize their fallacy and turn from their ways.

Can this theory be correct? Can our nation — does our nation want to live side by side with a nation whose leaders declared with confidence, "We will bury you!" The nation with whom we are dealing is dangerous to our peace, for they do not want peace in our own sense of the word. Their theory advocates revolution, violence, death to countless thousands. To a communist, peace is in the highest state of communism.

Can we hope they will change? The Soviets are determined to bring communism overpressing. Our "peaceful coexistence" has not brought a change of heart; it has only made their job easier.

It has made their job easier in the United States and abroad, for with this policy we are fighting communism as it spreads over the world with our hands tied behind our back; while here at home, our policy opens the gates for propaganda, treason, and subversion.

There are other reasons why this policy will not work in our favor. One of the reasons is that peaceful coexistence is already practiced with no effect other than the constant spread of communism. Another reason it will not work is this. Are we living peacefully while our government is practicing this theory? No; many Americans live in constant fear of outright war. Many Americans are trembling under our national security.

Besides all of these, there is another reason. Democracy and communism can not live side by side because communism will not let it. There is already war; in other countries it is active — in ours it is still called the Cold War.

NOT FINISHED, JUST BEGUN

Hi there,

What with going to ball games and working on the annual, we have been a little busy this week. Speaking of ball games, we would like to recognize our Senior boys on the team: Tommy Alford, Kenneth Nunnally, Mike Fisher and Charls Wade. You fellows are doing a good job; keep it up!

In English we are continuing the study of English Victorian authors — Browning and Tennyson, two favorites of Mrs. C. The Seniors are striving to complete poetry and book reports before the holidays.

The Civic class has begun the study of the various departments in the President's cabinet. In Bookkeeping we are continuing work towards our practice sets.

We have been discussing a few things in fifth period study hall. Cynthia has decided she has a cough, but Ted thinks it's a mere convenience to end a conversation. Vendell and Carol decided my shoes fit me better than Ted's do. I doubt that! Kenneth doesn't have much to say — he merely adds salt to our wounds.

That's it for this time.

Bye for now,
Katy

UPWARD AND ONWARD

Winter certainly is here, or is it? I think it is one day and then we'll have a crisp fall day the very next.

The Home Ec. III girls are combining a unit on the Home and Crafts together. One day we have a report; the next we have crafts. We surely do like it.

In English we are working hard getting in all the requirements due in English III Literature.

Our class would also like to welcome our new teacher, Mr. Kinser, to Rising Star.

Basketball season is well under way and with so many tournaments our players do stay busy. They certainly are doing a good job.

The band students are working hard on their Christmas Concert; while the Stage Band meets on Wednesday nights to practice.

C. M. Here comes Santa Claus, Hi, Santa Claus? ? hummm!!!! That's for telling on me! By the way, dir you enjoy "The Notorious Landlady"!

J. R. says if he didn't know his A B C's he'd be lost in Chemistry. Wonder why?

R. L. I'm so glad you are faithful on Sunday night or was it Saturday?

S. D. Whom you see when you were shopping for a certain somebody's Christmas gift? What was she shopping for? ?

Our Literature book is getting terribly interesting, isn't it, C. M.?

Our reporter has a secret!!!

KNOWLEDGE COMES BUT WISDOM LINGERS

We have all become aware of the fact that Christmas is drawing near; we are anxiously awaiting those holidays. All of us have made plans to have a very enjoyable time.

It is "Term-theme time" again for those who have chosen to write on "Silas Marner"; work hard on those themes, and book reports as well. You will enjoy yourself much more when you have these things completed.

The homemaking girls are looking forward to the party Monday night given by the ag. boys. We know there will be much fun in store for us.

Those Sophomore basketball players that I mentioned last week are doing so very fine playing. Our teams took part in the Carbon tournament last waak; We were proud of their accomplishments. Of course, all of us "Sophs" have written our letters to Santa Claus. Since everyone has been an angel, we are quite sure that we will get these things:

Mike Pruet wants a thundercloud.

Sandra Teagus wants a well-done corny dog.

Virginia Cook would settle for Scranton.

Terry Geye wants his Dad's car.

Charles Hubbard must have some painted potatoes and mail boxes.

Jay Ware wants something new this year—a few pigs!

Anna would settle for anything —as long as the number "54" is on her back.

Mr. Henry wants a new cough —he has worn the last one out.

I will try to inform you on some more "Santa Claus requests next week. See you then. Charlene.

LIVE AND LEARN

The freshmen class has settled down to studying and doing homework. Some of us have decided to improve our grades before mid-term exams.

The Biology I students are learning about the many things that make up the human body. We are not enjoying it as well as last week's study of prehistoric man and his advancement.

The General Math students are learning how to put savings in the bank. We hope they profit greatly from this chapter.

The H.E.I girls are finishing their reports on home management and are starting on their Christmas projects.

The Ag I boys are in the shop. They are working on woodworks. We hope they are being con-

How 45,000 companies help their employees buy security

The average American company is pretty busy tending to its own business. Yet many companies have sandwiched in a valuable service for their employees—the Payroll Savings Plan for U.S. Savings Bonds.

Through this plan, your payroll clerk sets aside a certain amount each payday for Bonds, buys them, and arranges to get them to you. It's completely automatic, and the easiest way in the world to save.

Save as much or as little as you wish Employees can sign up to save as little as $1.25 a week. The average among the more than 8 million folks on the Plan is $20 a month.

All in all, 45,000 companies help their employees save about $2 billion in Savings Bonds a year—a lot of future homes, vacations, college degrees, and nest eggs for retirement.

The security built into Savings Bonds

U.S. Savings Bonds are guaranteed by the Government to grow. $18.75 becomes $25 in 7 years, 9 months. In 10 more years, it becomes $36.25. Your Bonds can be cashed in anytime, with interest. And if they're lost or destroyed, the Treasury Department replaces them free.

Every Savings Bond you buy is an investment in Peace. What better way to help your government help you enjoy the things you're saving for.

Hats off to American Industry!

"American Industry has given the Savings Bond Program its greatest success," says William H. Neal, National Director of the Treasury's Savings Bonds Program.

"45,000 American companies have sold many billions of dollars in Savings Bonds—at no cost to the taxpayer," says Mr. Neal. "By operating the Payroll Savings Plan, these companies, big and small, are helping to keep our country strong. At the same time, they're helping more than 8 million people save automatically for the things they want. America owes a vote of thanks to these companies for their outstanding contribution to the 20-year success story of the U.S. Savings Bonds Program."
