As you will see by the advertisements in the Record this week, a number of our advertisers were thoughtful enough to buy space just to say a word of appreciation for a new Rising institution which has proved its worth over the first year of its existence.

The Twilite Acre Nursing Home was opened for service to the elderly of this area just a year ago. To say that it is an asset to this community is putting it rather mildly. It is certainly one of the finest things that has happened to the senior citizens of our town in many years. And because it is meeting a need in a most efficient and businesslike manner, it is also a great economic asset. Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Newton and particularly Mrs. Newton, deserve a big hand for their contribution to the climate of Rising Star, a contribution which adds much to the appeal and convenience of our town as a place to live. Mrs. Newton, as most of us know is the operator of the nursing home as modern and nice a place for elderly people to live their sunset years as you could wish for. Her able management and devotion to her job are the main reasons that Twilite Acre is a thoroughly successful institution.

I have said before, but it bears saying often, that we spend too much time hoping for what we don't have to be thankful for what we do have. A little recognition now and then is one of the best investments we can make in the growth and welfare of our community.

Every school child who has had a year or two of English in High School is familiar with Shakespeare's magnificent funeral oration over a dead Caesar which the bard put in the mouth of a Marc Antony — although I dare say precious few of them ever gain so much as a glimmer of the real meaning of those classic phrases.

"The evil that men do lives after them, the good is oft interred with their bones," said Mr. Antony.

To my way of thinking this much-quoted statement was not intended as a gem of philosophic meditation; it was, instead, a scornful and adroit chastisement of an ugly human fault. Caesar was no paragon of virtue, even by the pagan standards of his day; but he did his good and he saved a toppling Roman Republic for empire. And he had his enemies.

Shakespeare, great artist that he was, knew that truth, even unpleasant, is most effective and enduring when expressed through the emotional medium of great art; what he had Antony say, translated into the vernacular of our day, was: "Now he's dead, you'll magnify his faults and play down his virtues."

Well, isn't that true to greater or less degree even in our relations with the living? Don't we tend too much to disparage another, particularly when the talents or contributions of that other one tend to cast discomfort upon our little egotisms?

There are those among us who have given long and well of themselves to the service of the communities, their churches, professions and schools. But although we may know in our hearts-where, for heaven's sake, did that come from?-that they are entitled to the thanks of their fellows, we find it much too

RUBBER STAMPS AT THE RECORD

Rains Halt Peanut Harvest; Grains, Pastures Get Boost

Rains that totalled nearly 2.5 inches—the City Hall gauge registered 2.3 inches to noon, Wednesday—fell over the Rising Star territory Tuesday and Wednesday, bringing a halt to the peanut harvest, but giving winter grains and pastures a big boost. The peanut harvest, which was just reaching its peak, was brought to a complete standstill, but growers, hopeful of clearing skies and moderate, drying north winds later in the week, were not fearful of any great damage, barring the possibility of a freeze.

The rains were lighter north and west, and much heavier to the south and the east. The May territory received considerably more than did the Rising area.

The weatherman could promise no more relief than light drizzle and scattered thunder-showers for Thursday. But there was prospect that cooler weather would bring a clearing week-end.

City Will Lay 4-In Line To Boost Peak Supply

The City last week let a contract for replacement of the present two-inch gas line from the pipelines junction on the Reed Patterson farm south of town to the intersection of Pioneer and Main Streets, it was announced.

Two miles of four-inch pipe will be laid by Leroy Laughlin. It will be a welded line and work is due to begin within the next few days.

The main gas gate located on Patterson farm is the junction of a three-inch line from the two Moore wells near May and a two-inch line from the Crowover and Angel wells. By increasing the capacity of the lead line into the city it is believed that pressure all over the city system will be increased and the gas supply during the peak demand of the winter season much improved.

Mayor Walter Smith pointed out, however that much depends upon the capacity of the wells supplying the city.

"Gas reserves in the area are diminishing," he said. "Where we once could count upon strong production, the gas sands have been depleted over the years and reserves are not too promising. However, the increase in the size of the line should give us a considerable amount of relief. At least we hope so."

Another improvement under consideration is the building of a three-inch loop around the western and northern limits of the city. The City has about three miles of new three-inch left over from the construction of the pipeline to the Moore wells, which would be used for this purpose. However no decision has been made on this project.

Work Begins On Housing Project

Work began Monday on the site for the eight-unit low rent housing project for the elderly to be constructed on North Miller just north of the present low rent units.

Contractor is the B-F-W Construction Co., of Temple which also has the contract for the Gorman project.

Job superintendent for the Rising Star project is Charles Burnett of Hearne, Texas.

Elwin Fitch and Associates of Houston are the contractors. The project will consist of four duplex structures each of brick veneer construction.

The construction is expected to require about six months.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Smith and children of Lubbock spent the weekend here with his parents and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Scott and daughter recently spent an afternoon and night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Willett and daughters. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Ware and family. Starlitter Group Receives Awards

Mrs. Weldon Hill's group of 'Starliters' met Thursday afternoon at the library building for their first awards ceremony of the year. A group of interested parents, teachers, and friends attended the meeting. The girls received their award beads for completion of their Homemaking and Art requirements. Each girl also received attendance beads with a special bead awarded for perfect attendance in uniform.

The candlelight ceremony was impressive as each girl repeated a part of the Starlitter code as her candle was lit. The Awards jacket the girls were wearing for the first time will be decorated individually with the awards earned by the girls and will represent the achievements the will have accomplished and the worthwhile things done as Starliters.

Girls participating in the ceremony were Nancy Agnew, Shirlene Botts, Debbie Chambers, Donnetta Croan, Cynthia Hounsel, Mary Jane Kizer, Betty Fay Phillips, Barbara Richter, Cindy McCutchen, and Avelon Wells. Beeky Nowlin, assistant leader, played the piano and pinned the Starlitter pins on the girls.

Thanksgiving To Be Holiday Here

Rising Star schools, business and public service institutions will be closed for the most part Thursday, Nov. 25, as the town observes the traditional Thanksgiving holiday.

It is one of five holidays officially adopted for observance here by a vote of the business men some years ago.

The schools, due to close on Wednesday, will re-open the following Monday

HOBBY CLUB
The Hobby Club met on Nov. 16 with nine members present. The club finished one of two quilts which were started. The club members enjoyed barbecued sausage and pork and beans at lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Swift visited her brother, Earl Hill, on his ranch near Junction recently.

Achievement Day Exhibits Attract

The North Star Home Demonstration Club held its annual Achievement Days on Nov. 13 and 14 in the building formerly occupied by Higginbotham Motor Company.

Many visitors viewed the attractive exhibits of handicraft displayed by members of the club. Visitors were given directions for making various articles when they requested them.

Mrs. Hahn of Forked River, N. J. won the quilt and the second prize of a ceramic wall plaque was won by Mrs. Vada Arnold of Rising Star.

One feature of the exhibit which drew much comment was a live oak tree decorated with plastic roses and other flowers in such a manner that the flowers appeared to be growing from the tree. It occupied the center of the exhibit space; and the various other booths and exhibits were arranged around it.

The club expressed its thanks for the visitors and for all who helped in any way.

The proceeds from the club projects are used to help retarded children in Travis State School in Austin. There are 1850 such children who are being cared for in the school at this time.

The club also participates in many other community drives and civic programs.

District Title at Stake Here Friday

The Rising Star Wildcats Friday night will complete their 1964 football season with the Gorman Panthers upon which hinges the right to represent the district in the bi-district playoffs.

The Panthers, who seem to hold a jinx over Rising Star since they will be victors over teams, comes to the game with a perfect district record, and if they win they will take home the undisputed District championship and the right to take the district banner into the playoffs.

The Wildcats, on the other hand, have one defeat in district play — a one-touchdown loss to the Blanket Tigers whom Gorman defeated by the same margin—and the best they can hope for is a tie. If they attain that by defeating the Panthers, however, they will gain the right to represent the district, the only other team with a chance to take the flag.

With a two week layoff in which to get their crumpled back in shape, the Rising Star Wildcats are expected to be at full strength for the contest.

The game will be played at Rising Star football field beginning at 7:30 o'clock Friday night

WHO OWNS WOUNDED GAME?

Suppose you are hunting and shoot a deer or a duck, which falls mortally wounded. Before you can get to it, another hunter beats you there and claims the fallen game as his own. What are your rights?

Jim had been hunting all day without success, and had headed for home when he finally saw a deer. He took careful aim and hit the deer with his first shot. Although mortally wounded, the deer managed to run a short distance, with Jim in hot pursuit.

Roy was also deer hunting. He heard Jim's shot and saw a deer running toward him. However, before it reached the spot where he was standing, the deer fell to the ground.

Although it was obvious that the deer was about to die, Roy walked to within three feet of it, delivered the finishing shot, and quickly put his tag on it. When Jim ran up and claimed the deer, Roy said that such deer were wild animals and belonged to no one until killed. Since he was the one that killed the deer, Roy claimed that it belonged to him.

Which hunter has legal title to the deer?

In this case the deer belongs to Jim. Jim was the first to wound it, and did so before Roy appeared on the scene. He had mortally wounded the deer, and had it in such a situation that its escape was improbable, if not impossible. The prevailing rule is that the instant a wild animal is brought under the control of a person so that actual possession is practically inevitable, a vested property interest in it accrues which cannot be divested by another's intervening and killing it, or reaching it first.

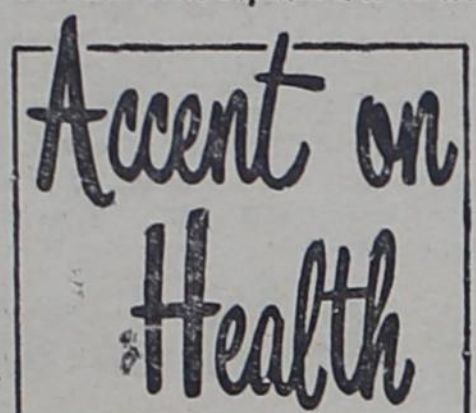

Jim had delivered the shot which so crippled the animal as to cause him to cease trying to escape, thus permitting Roy to walk up to the animal and deliver the finishing shot. Jim had effectually brought the deer under his control before Roy took a hand in the matter. The deer legally belonged to Jim.

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D.
Commissioner of Health

Your PH is showing . . . it always does.

PH (personal hygiene) always shows, whether you've brushed your teeth or combed your hair. And whether or not you've had a bath is quite obvious, too, to those people who work or play around you.

Not only is PH—call it cleanliness if you like—an investment in success but it's a definite investment in health and a disease deterrent.

How is this so? With good PH you can often break the chain of disease transmission. Disease don't just happen. The circle of disease transmissions—simply means that germs which cause disease are permitted to enter your body by some process. For example, if you cut yourself and the wound is not properly cleaned, germs may enter the body and multiply, causing an infection. Or someone with the flu may cough or sneeze in your face. The virus, inhaled into your system, may cause you to have a case of the flu.

The circle, or spiral as it may become, continues when you pass the germ on to someone else.

Handwashing — thoroughly scrubbing with soap in running hot water — is one of the very best known ways of preventing the spread of disease.

A mother who does not wash her hands before fixing baby's bottle may quite unknowingly precipitate a case of diarrhea.

Or if you are eating out and visit a public restroom without thoroughly washing your hands you may be inviting a case of infectious hepatitis, diarrhea or worse.

Home kitchens are certainly not immune. Foodhandlers especially need to be conscientious handwashers, for theirs is the responsibility for what goes into the family's mouths. Handwashing is repeatedly emphasized in short courses for food-handlers conducted by the State Health Department.

Build yourself a high standard of PH through a daily bath, tooth brushing after meals, frequent hand washing and good sanitation in your home.

Sparkling PH will pay off with health and happiness for you and your family.

Deer Hides Asked For Aid to State Hospitals, Schools

Abilene, November 13.—"If you bag one-bag it!" deer hunters are reminded by Mrs. T. C. Campbell, Abilene. "At least bag the hide," she pleads, "as we're begging every scrap of buck skin for patients in our hospitals and special schools."

The Volunteer Services Council, headed by Mrs. Campbell, once again will have donated hides tanned and distribute the leather among the 28,000 patients in Texas mental hospitals, tuberculosis hospitals, and schools for the mentally retarded. It is used in rehabilitation projects.

"Throw a handful of table salt on the hide, let it drain, 'bag it' in heavy paper and send it to Austin Taxidermist Studio, 2708 South Lamar, Austin, and we'll do the rest," explains Mrs. Campbell.

Extra Profits for Peanut Farmer Who Produces Superior Peanuts, Mold Free

The following is the second of two articles dealing with the problem of molds in peanuts furnished the Rising Star Record through the Southwestern Peanut Growers Ass'n.

There is promise of extra profit for the peanut grower who consistently turns out a superior product—bright shells with plump kernels free of molds. Though some molds are highly beneficial, others throughout history have plagued both man and animals by restricting their food supplies and even at times causing serious health problems. Since mold damage may occur in storage as well as on the farm, producers' efforts must be supported by handlers and processors to minimize economic and health hazards.

Recently, certain toxic substances (aflatoxins) were found in some lots of peanuts. Aflatoxins are thought to be associated with moldy kernels. A few cases of animal poisoning have been traced to this source, but there are no reported cases that humans have been affected. Taking no chances, however, government officials will make a careful inspection of the 1964 crop as it is marketed in order to assure consumers that they are getting a safe, wholesome product.

Although molds generally cause more problems in warm, moist regions, their distribution is world-wide and thus they pose a threat to all producers. Preventive measures should be taken, therefore, in all stages of production—wherever the crop is grown. The usual good cultural practices should be observed, including a sound program of insect and disease control because attacks from either contribute to mold development. Additionally, the following steps will materially reduce the mold hazard:

1. TIME TO HARVEST. Harvest promptly when most pods and kernels are mature. Importance of this point is emphasized by recent research which showed that mold damage may proceed rapidly following maturity. Spanish peanuts are mature when the pods darken on the inside and kernels are free within the pods. A visual check for maturity is a more reliable indication of maturity than age of the crop because drought and other factors may hasten or delay development.

2. WINDROWING. Rapid drying of pods after digging reduces the chance of mold damage. Remember that peanuts may mold in windrows if they are packed too closely or if rain occurs before combining. Turn plants in windrows contributes to fast, uniform drying. Peanuts can be cured completely in windrows under favorable weather conditions, obtaining a safe moisture content for storage (8.0 to 8.5 per cent.).

3. COMBINING. Combining excessively green or wet peanuts results in needless pod and kernel breakage and contributes to subsequent mold damage. Windrowed peanuts that are to be sacked and field cured should contain less than 15 per cent kernel moisture when combined. When peanuts are to be artificially cured, kernels should have less than 20 per cent moisture when combined. Proper adjustment of the combine also is required to minimize pod and kernel injury. The picking components should be adjusted as the weather and humidity conditions change throughout the day. Cylinder speeds should be reduced and picker clearances increased as vines become progressively drier. The amount of foreign material in threshed pods should be held at a minimum as dirt and trash increases the chance of mold development immediately following combining.

4. ARTIFICIAL CURING. High-moisture peanuts, either in sacks or bulk, should be dried as soon as possible to avoid mold damage and off flavors. The rate at which peanuts are dried and their final moisture content are important considerations in the drying process. Fast drying rates and over-drying reduce milling quality in peanuts. Careful combining and handling also is required to avoid excessive shelling and cracking. In addition, the following conditions should be met in the drying operation:

a. Peanuts can be artificially dried with heated air at 10 degrees to 15 degrees above the outside air temperature, but the heated air should not exceed 95 degrees Fahrenheit. The burner (heat) should be turned off when the outside relative humidity is 55 percent or below, but continuing the air flow. Use a setting of 66 percent on the dryer's humidity control to allow for the usual lag in the response of the instrument.

b. Air should be supplied at a rate of 10 to 15 cubic feet per minute per cubic foot of peanuts.

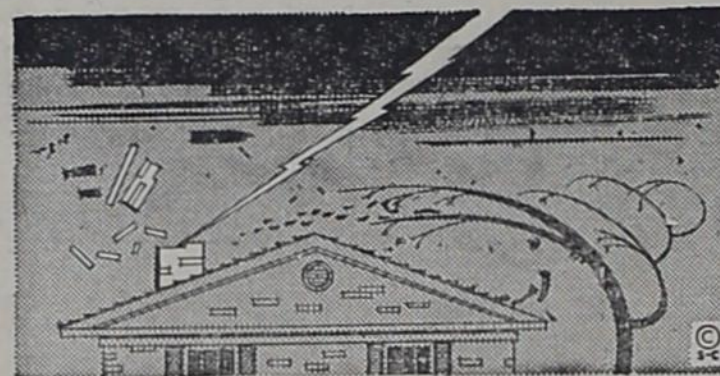

c. Peanut kernels should be dried to a moisture content of 8.0 to 8.5 percent for safe storage. Since the shells dry faster than the kernels, the drying operation should be stopped when kernels reach a minimum moisture content of 10 percent. After the moisture in the kernels and shells equalize, the kernels will then be at the desired moisture content.

Mrs. Zelmar Glover of Snyder and Mrs. Walter Barber of Kennedy, who are daughters of Mrs. Daisy Woodruff, visited their mother and also visited Mrs. Lee Clark and other relatives during the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Harris are away on a hunting trip. Mrs. Sula Harris and Mrs. Otis Wolf are taking care of their grocery store, while they are away.

Mrs. Olice B. Jones has returned from Saint Jo, where she visited her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Billie Phillips, and son.

1964 CORONATION

One of the most anticipated and enjoyed events of the school year is the annual Coronation. The Coronation was no disappointment to anyone.

The success of such an event is due to the combined efforts of many people. Much work was necessary in planning and carrying out the plans.

The annual staff members and their sponsor, Mrs. Claborn, were in charge of the "La Estrellita Coronation". Congratulations should go to those who worked to make the event a very memorable occasion.

The main purpose of the Coronation should not be forgotten; the event was slated to crown Miss Sharolyn Roach as "Miss La Estrellita of 1964. Sharolyn is also Class Favorite, Most Attractive, and cheerleader. She has been active in all school activities and has been a great asset to R. S. H. S.

The Queen's court was composed of favorites in the high school and junior high. The announcer was Sherry Jones, editor of the annual; and pianist was Becky Nowlin, co-editor. Sandra Teague served as stage manager; Carolyn Stover and Sharon Stewart acted as ushers. Entertainment for the event was provided by the Stage Band under the direction of Mr. Alton Roan.

We would like to take this opportunity to thank all of those who helped and made this an outstanding occasion. Our special thanks to Higginbotham's for their use of materials. The 1964 Coronation was one that will have a lasting place in the memory of those who were connected with it; again we thank each of you who assisted in the production of our "La Estrellita Coronation".

KNOWLEDGE COMES BUT WISDOM LINGERS

This has probably been the most exciting week the seniors have had this year. The last district game is tomorrow night bringing with it the excitement of the pinning and bonfire!!! The seniors are all looking forward to this, and plan to make this last one the greatest!

Plus, all this excitement we have the football banquet Saturday. The senior girls are all planning to look their best and are feeling a little sad to think this is the ending of the excitement of football and yelling for those great Senior Wildcats. The senior football players regret that this is their last year as fighting "Wildcats", but all agree that even after graduation they will always consider themselves a part of the "Wildcats". The classes have all been busy with six weeks' tests, and all the seniors have been burning the midnight oil to make good grades.

J. C.—James has a new hobby That's all for this week, Judy

LIVE AND LEARN

Hello, Readers! This again is six weeks' test week and we are burning midnight oil.

This week is also a very exciting one. We are playing a very important game at Wildcat Stadium Friday night. The Fighting Wildcats will take on the Gorman Panthers in a deciding district game. Saturday night the Cheerleaders will give the football banquet honoring the '64-65' football players.

The coronation last week was an overwhelming success, Mrs. C. Everything was beautiful even Becky's playing. Ha! (I was just kidding.)

This week, besides tests, we are still having lessons. The typing I students are working on Unit 10. The Bookkeeping students are in Chapter 11. The Chemistry class has finished the Chapter on Water. The Algebra II students are finishing the chapter on factoring. Civics students are studying the Treasury Department. The American History students are studying Chapter 14 which is about Great Inventions.

Get a Panther, Cats! We want a part in district.

Until next week, Marcia Lee

BUILDERS OF TOMORROW

We are pulling the curtain down on the twelfth week of school. Time passes fast; and if we realize it or not, two thirds of this semester is in the past. Let us strive, Sophomores, to improve our grades on the home stretch.

Two members from the Home Ec. II class have finished and graded our dresses. The remainder of the class should complete their creations this week. The AG. II boys are studying parliamentary procedure in preparation for district contest. We dissected the frog in Biology lab last week and were required to evacuate the parts of the digestive system and label the organs. We are completing chapter nine in our World History notebooks; a chapter test will be followed by a unit test. The English II students have finished the unit on the supernatural and have given memory lines from "The Rime of the Ancient Mariner".

The sixth period Health are studying the harmful affects of tobacco, drugs, and alcohol; we have had valuable and interesting discussions on these subjects.

The Wildcats will play their final game of the season Friday night against the Gorman Panthers on the home field. Good Luck, Wildcats!

P. B. You have not been accepting rides with a Junior boy, have you?

S. S.—Did you have fun twirp week? Are the cokes better in Brownwood?

NOT FINISHED JUST BEGUN

Our last district football game will be played Friday. The Cats are in shape after two weeks of rest and a disappointing defeat from Blanket.

The biology students have dissected the frog, which took three days. The first day we took out the digestive system and labeled the parts on a piece of paper. The second day we took out the circulatory and respiratory system. Last, we found the brain, eyes, and connecting nerve cords.

The Home Ec. girls are cooking breakfast foods and demonstrating to each other how to cook these foods. Then comes the hard part—eating them!!

In Algebra I we are adding, multiplying, and subtracting signed numbers. We are using the properties to simplify open sentences.

The General Science students are studying atomic energy and the structure of atoms.

The General Math students have had their six weeks' test. They are now studying types of insurance and the rates.

In Ag. I, we are preparing to enter teams in the Greenhand Quiz and Chapter Conducting contests. Everybody is trying to fail the Quiz Team tests!

Beat the Panthers, Cats!

James Gerhardt

DO RE MI

The marching band is going to put on a special show Friday night. "Stars and Stripes Around The World" is the theme. We are going to take a trip on the Danube; then we will go on to Egypt and from there we travel to China. When we get to China, it is time to come back to Texas, where we will be in the good old U.S.A.

We are very proud of the band members who went to All District band; Mike Pruet made the first band; while the second band members are Charles Hubbard, Ronnie Cotton, and Tommy Darnell.

This year the stage band has new stands so the Band Boosters voted to make covers for them.

Danny S., did you forget something last Tuesday?

Mike S., did you forget your uniform?

Come on, Wildcats! BEAT THOSE PANTHERS Trudi

F. F. A. NEWS

In Ag I and Ag II we are studying parliamentary procedure. We are using a new procedure method this year. Many of us are having to learn some new ways of making motions and unlearn some old methods. Both classes have efficient members trying out for the different parts. Ten members make up each team (seven officers and three members). The Leadership Contests are to be held at Tarleton State College in Stephenville on December 2nd.

"TOWARD NEW HORIZONS"

Last week our Freshman girls demonstrated the preparation of breakfast foods. The girls divided into groups of three and gave a demonstration on hot cereals, waffles, hot cakes, hot chocolate, bacon, eggs, toast and coffee cakes. The demonstration proved to be beneficial and also very delicious!

The Homemaking II and III girls are working very hard trying to get their garments finished by the end of this six weeks. The second year girls will soon be taking up units on family relations and dating. The third year girls are now beginning the study of marriage and child care.

Signing off, Pam

FROM THE WILDCAT DEN

This week the Wildcats will tangle with the Gorman "Panthers". This will probably be one of the toughest district teams the "Wildcats" have played so far. Gorman has proven to be a rough team this year. Like the "Wildcats", they too rank high in the district standings. The "Wildcats" have really done a fine job this year in their first three district games. They will probably be a much stronger team this week than they have been for a good while. This will be the last scheduled game of the season; however, if they "Wildcats" win this game, they will not only win the district championship, but they will have the opportunity to go on to bi-district play. This game is really going to mean a lot to the "Wildcats", so a of you home-fans come and back them all the way to victory.

"Pickle The Panther, CATS" REPORTER, Franz Pittman

SPORTS SCOOP

Wow! Did you see the girls play Carbon? If you did I will bet you were on pins and needles before the game was over. At the beginning of the fourth quarter Carbon was ahead four points but when the final buzzer sounded the score board showed Rising Star in the lead 26-24. That makes the girls four victories and no losses.

If you remember I promised you something different this week. I am going to take each girl on the team and tell you what she has contributed to girls sports. This week it is the two-senior girls.

Anna has lettered two years, was high rebounding guard last year, made the all-tournament team at Olden and May her junior year, and is Captain this year.

Sandra is a forward, she has lettered two years, and is a captain this year.

Next week our junior girls will be in the spot light. In the meantime go to the ball game Friday night and back those fighting Wildcats.

STOP THOSE PANTHERS!

This is the final game of our season tomorrow night, and I promise it to be one of our most exciting games. We meet the Tonight at 7:00, we meet behind the Market Building for our annual bon-fire. Do come and help us boost our school spirit. It is going to be a tough game tomorrow night, and the Cats are going to need plenty of spirit.

The date for our football banquet has been changed to November 21, this Saturday night. Our theme is to be "Autumn Leaves". Here all the seniors make their farewell speeches in conclusion of our football season. The school board members, quarter back members, and their wives are all invited and we sincerely hope all can come.

If you have lost your spirit, do find it quickly; we need it to beat those Panthers!

$18 Millions For Improvement of FM Road System

AUSTIN - Commission today acted to protect the investment of Texas taxpayers in their 37,600-mile Farm and Ranch to Market Road system by approving $18,090,200 for betterment in 1965.

A total of 3,305 miles of these all-weather roads will be improved under the 1965 Farm to Market Road Improvement Program to be executed in coming months by the Texas Department.

Commission Chairman Herbert C. Petry, Jr. said traffic increase and heavier loads, coupled with the age of many of the rural roads in Texas, are big factors in the need for periodic "resoling" of many F-M roads.

Under the budget approved today, 353 F-M miles will be reconstructed with new grading, structures and surfacing; 338 miles will be widened, reconditioned and resurfaced; 679 miles will receive additional surfacing, and seal coat improvements will be made on 1,924 miles.

Extensive bridge widening and shoulder improvement work is also included in the list of improvements scheduled for Farm to Market Roads under the 1965 program, Petry said.

Today's improvement budget was in addition to a $23 million Farm to Market Road construction budget approved by the Commission in May for new F-M road construction.

The Highway Department will spend about $22 million next year for routine maintenance—in addition to extensive betterment covered in today's action—on the F-M system.

Of the total completed F-M Road system in Texas, 33,560 miles are rural and 1,085 miles are within city limits. An additional 2,469 miles are under construction at this time or financed for construction in coming months.

Since 1948 the Texas Farm to Market Road system has grown from 3,060 miles to the designated system of about 37,000 miles today. An ultimate F-M system of 50,000 miles is envisioned for Texas by the Highway Commission.

M. G. Joyce and daughter, Mrs. Madelle Jackson, left Friday for a visit with Mrs. Alyn Seikman and her son, Bobby, at Pyote, and with Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Brown and children at Lamesa, and other relatives.

HORTON TIRE SERVICE
East Main Street Eastland, Texas

Many easy care qualities mark the all-cotton simulated leather fabric on the market. An Italian textile technician "made a mistake" and created the new fabric. It was discovered when a silicone finish was applied to the napped surface of a cotton fabric.

The fabric has the luxury and feel of real leather, but is water-repellant, comfortable, supple at temperatures from 40 degrees to 340 degrees Fahrenheit; crease resistant, and is dry cleanable or machine washable. It can be pressed safely on the treated or untreated side of the fabric at a woolen or steam setting.

A report from the National Institute of Dry Cleaning indicates a minimum shrinkage, or bleeding of the fabric. There was more bleeding in laundering than in dry cleaning.

Imported from Italy, Belgium, Spain and West Germany, the fabric is trademarked under the names of Aerpel, Cardoba, Haladora, Leatha-cotta, Leathakin and Wampolt.

A new commemorative stamp will salute American homemakers. The First-day ceremonies were held October 26 in Honolulu, Hawaii, in conjunction with the annual meeting of the National Extension Homemakers Council.

The stamp also is a tribute to the 50th anniversary of passage of the Smith-Lever Act, which created the Federal Extension Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This legislation opened the way to improved home life through America by providing home economists to advise women on better ways to feed and clothe their families. The National Extension Homemakers Council is made up of nearly 700,000 women, many of whom serve as local leaders to assist some 4,000 USDA home demonstration agents.

The colorful 5 cent stamp simulates the needlework of a sampler. It shows a farm scene in which husband, wife and small son stand beside their home watching their cows grazing peacefully. A deer and a pond of ducks complete the scene.

On wash day, do you play a "guess the fabric" game because you've lost the tag that came with the garment, the one that tells what material it is made of and how to care for it? Here are some suggestions to end such confusion and avoid costly laundering errors.

Whenever you buy a new garment, immediately remove the tag and label it. Mother's green shift, Barbara's blue blouse, etc. Then be sure to save the tag. If you have a bulletin board near the washing machine, hand it there. Or, use a card file for garment tags. Put in dividers with the name of each member of the family. Slip the tag from Barbara's blue blouse behind the card with her name. And you'll have no trouble finding it quickly on wash day.

If you know the fabric of a garment and how to wash it, you'll get better wear and satisfaction from it.

Thinking of adding a snack bar to your kitchen. Be sure you match the height of the counter with the height of the chairs or stools. A counter 30 inches high can be used with the average 18-inch chair. Allow 20 inches for leg space under the counter.

If you prefer to use counters 36 inches high, you'll have to use a 24-inch high stool. And remember, that the stool will need a footrest 6 or 8 inches from the floor. Figure 14 inches of knee space under the counter.

For easy eating and no bumping of arms-allow 21 inches for each person to be seated at the counter.

Don't save or re-use empty pesticide containers-and don't discard them where children may find them.

Do dispose of containers quickly and safely. Put them promptly into the garbage can and put its lid on tightly. Break empty bottles before you throw them away.

Flatwood 4-H'er Named In Food Awards Program

Sharon Harbin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Harbin of the Flatwood Community, has been named by the State Record Judging Committee as first alternate in the 1964 Food Preservation 4-H Awards Program. This means that in case the first place winner does not accept the award, Sharon will be next in line to attend the National 4-H Club Congress.

Sharon won her ribbon for the 1964 State Favorite Food Show at College Station, June 3 of this year. She was then eligible to enter her record book for judging at the state level. At College Station, Sharon prepared and exhibited Apple Dumplings. The exhibit consisted of a serving dish containing all of the food prepared except two servings. One serving was appropriately displayed in the "service for one" place setting and the other was served to the judge. A day's menu and the recipe for the favorite food was displayed on the table, along with appropriate-size table decoration.

She also gave a report on the mid-year check-up meeting of the district WSCS held at Olney Thursday of last week.

Mrs. L. R. Smith, longtime member of the church and active in the WSCS, was presented a going away gift. She is moving to Irving and will be greatly missed by the other members of the society.

awkward to give them even a word of appreciation.

Why? Why is it so hard to say "Thanks," or to give another a deserved recognition? Is it because we are afraid it will detract from our own fancied glory?

The American dollar in all its olden virtue was never so sound as a neatly turned and honestly spoken compliment, a handshake of real gratitude. Such a tribute can buy more of real value than pearls, for a man can be buried in his own conceit but he will live long in the heart of those whom he has spoken generously and kindly.

If we want to build a good town invest it with an atmosphere of appreciation to those who make contributions to it no matter how modest for we will thereby cultivate the only soil out of which good towns can grow.

REMEMBER WHEN?

"If you're under 40 you won't remember your grandmother straining her back over this old fashioned washing apparatus. It's hard to believe that a washing machine like this actually existed and yet this 1905 model was the first one put on the market. In only 59 years, washing machines have improved to the point of complete automation. All the modern young housewife of 1964 does is put the clothes and detergent in her automatic, press a button, set a dial, and forget it. Isn't modernization remarkable?"

You too can gain the pleasure and satisfaction of push button washing. See your local appliance dealer right away."
