

Anderson General Store to Open in May

One of May's oldest and most colorful buildings, that was built in the early 1900's, of brick and stone located on the North East corner at the blinker light, where Highway 183 crosses Comanche street in downtown May, is receiving a complete new face lifting inside and outside. The building housed the first and only Bank May ever had. The First National Bank Inc. opened its doors for business in January, 1913 by George Washington Plummer, and operated only twenty years before closing the doors in 1933. They sold the building to Doctor A.M. Bowden, Md, March 17, 1937.

An office room is set up and a small family room with a stove where Mrs. Anderson will make fresh chili daily as needed.

Anderson said, "I will open a May General Store. I will have a fresh meat market, and carry a complete line of groceries and a variety of household needs, in fact I plan to have in stock just about everything needed to run a household, I will have homemade chili at all times.

Mrs. Anderson announces she will have a grand opening January 9, with the doors opening at 8 a.m. and will have drawings for cash and groceries as prizes to the lucky winner. She extends an invitation to everyone to attend this opening.

Senior Citizen's Year Ends Well With Eve Party

Due to ill health, Dr. Bowden sold the building to O.A. Burnett and wife March 24, 1948. The Burnetts soon opened a general Merchandise Store. The Burnetts operated the store until his death. Mrs. Burnett sold the business to Marshall Campbell October 23, 1969. Campbell operated the general store until his liquidation sale December 5, 1981.

The club has had a good year. Thanks to Elizabeth Chamberlain, our program director, we have had some outstanding programs. Under the leadership of Louella McKinnerney the Starbrites have experienced many happy hours and visited several new places along with all the old favorite places.

The 42 competition is getting hotter all time. I left early so don't know who won the competition New Years Eve. We hope for you and ourselves a Healthy Happy New Year.

Our New Years eve party and supper was attended by 37 people. Visitors from Cisco were Mable Thetford, Ray Aline, Ray, Jack Roberson and from Houston were Neoma Hutton, Karis McCutchen and Sue Allen. We were glad to have

Texas Department Of Human Resources Sponsors Aging Education Program

Concerned about your aging parents? Wish you could improve your communication with them? Would you like to learn more about physical and psychological processes of aging?

"As Parents Grow Older," a new educational program for family members of the aging is sponsored by Department of Human Resources and the Texas Association of Homes for the Aging, a non-profit agency serving the elderly. Through a series of six workshops, relationships between aging parents and their adult children are discussed as well as chronic illnesses, sensory loss, availability of community resources and ways to help aged relatives remain as vital and self-reliant as possible.

We could bring this program to our community. If you are interested or know of an organization that would like to help families, please let us know. A workshop to familiarize you with the "As Parents Grow Older" program will be held from 2-4 p.m. in the conference room at West Texas Rehabilitation Center on January 14, 1982. In February a special training series will be held for those wishing to bring the program back to their own community.

For more information, or to register for the 2 hr. workshop please call Evelyn Woltjen at 915-677-6914 or write As Parents Grow Older, 17 Greenbay, Abilene, Texas 79602.

OES Meets

Rising Star Eastern Star held its first meeting of 1982 on Jan. 5th with Claudie Mae Gardner, Worthy Matron presiding. Harold L. Evans, Worthy Patron, was among absentees due to illness.

Wilson H. Carleton, member of Grand Chapter Masonic Relations Committee, explained the purpose and work of this group. Their purpose is to strengthen ties between the Masonic Lodge and Eastern Star and to build stronger individual families. He also stated that the first masonic organizational meeting in Texas was held in 1835 under a tree in Brazoria County. A gavel made from a limb of this historic tree is now used by Rising Star Chapter 277. The gavel was presented by past Matron, Carrie Mae Bucy, now deceased.

The meeting closed with a memorial to Mrs. Viba S. Huffman, Worthy Grand Matron 1941-42, who dies Dec. 12, 1981.

Refreshments were served by Opal Dean and Claudia Mae Gardner.

COMMENTARY

By Myrtle Owen

I Peter 5:4, And when the Chief Shepherds shall appear, ye shall receive a crown of glory that fadeth not away. Jesus Christ is the Chief Shepherd. He cared for His sheep while on earth—even died for them—and appointed under shepherds to work under Him. "Lovest thou Me? He asked Peter, when Peter replied, "Yea, Lord: thou knowest I love thee," Jesus said unto him, Feed my sheep (John 21:15,16). This same charge has been passed down to other faithful shepherds whom the Lord has seen fit to entrust with His sheep. The undershepherds reward is not of things of this earth, for the Chief Shepherd is soon to appear in glory and His reward is with Him, "a crown of glory that fadeth not away"—which he shall bestow in that great day upon those faithful shepherds of the sheep who for His love have striven in patience and without self-interest to fulfill the charge given to them by the Chief Shepherd, Jesus Christ, God is not only telling us that it is time to think soberly and to look for the coming of the Lord, but it is to get busy, to become involved, to occupy! Time is running out—only enough is left for us to do what God has called us to do: and then only if we give time and strength to the task, wasting no moment of time or talent that God has given us. The decision as to what you do with the time that remains is yours. Accept Christ as your personal savior today. Be filled with the Holy Spirit. Witness for Christ today, love His appearing and look for Him to Come at any moment. In talking to God, you should use your own words. He knows you, and there's no use putting up a false front. You may try talking in this order: Lord Jesus, I believe that you died for me and can give me everlasting life. Please do this for me and let me live for you from now on. Thank you Jesus for saving my soul. Do it now. And we will see you in the kingdom!

Actors, Actresses

The recent deaths of William Holden and Natalie Wood are tragic in a different way. They exemplify the failure of people who have reached the top in the entertainment world to find happiness.

The fate of so many is the drug habit, suicide, alcohol, etc. Knowing this, how can parents encourage their children to go into the entertainment business? It's sometimes big money, but the odds for a happy, normal life are about as bad as one can find.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodson Emfinger Celebrate Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Woodson Emfinger of May celebrated their 61st wedding anniversary at their home Dec. 24, 1981. Friends and relatives dropped by to say happy anniversary and bring gifts.

Mrs. Emfinger was recently released from Brownwood Regional Hospital after spending several weeks in an Abilene Hospital, is recuperating at her home in bed.

On Dec. 24, 1920, Lois Edna Cox became the bride of Woodson Emfinger. Both were born in the Holder Community near May where they grew up.

The wedding vows were exchanged as the couple sat in a Model T Ford car in front of the home of the Rev. Sam Steele in downtown May. A number of friends and relatives attended.

The brides parents hosted a wedding supper for the newly weds and those attending the ceremony.

On Christmas day in 1920, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Jones, the grooms uncle and aunt hosted a dinner in honor of the bridal couple.

Mrs. Emfinger remembers that her wedding dress was her first bought ready made dress, "It was satin," she said.

The couple moved to Breckenridge in early February where he worked in the oil fields. Later they moved back to the Holder community settling on a farm that they had bought and lived on until their house burned about twenty years ago.

After the home was destroyed by fire the couple bought a house in May next door to a beauty shop, owned and operated by Mrs. Emfinger. While she worked as a beautician, Emfingers drove back and forth to farm his land and tend his cattle until a few years ago when health conditions forced him to discontinue his farming operations. They live on West Comanche Street in May.

The couple had three children, Thurman, Alyene and Roy Don. Thurman was killed in action while serving with the United States Military. Alyene died later. Roy Don is a resident in the Rising Star Nursing Center. The Emfingers have two granddaughters and several great grandchildren, these are the children and grandchildren of Thurman.

At the end of this happy life, the man with the most money will find it means very little.

I do not write anyone and know of no way to contact any relatives by mail. I do believe and pray that some of my relatives are still living in or around Rising Star. I thought that if you could find the time and kindness in your heart to print my letter in your newspaper, some relatives or a friend of relatives might see it and write me.

I would like very much to correspond with anyone in or around Rising Star as a pen pal. I am a white male but loneliness picks no certain age or color. So if there is anyone out there who cares to share a smile from time to time with a lonely person, please write me. If you could please enclose a stamp because I can't get any unless they are sent in to me by mail. Thank you for your time and kindness in my behalf. Billy L. GORDON

SPOT

By DeMarquis Gordon

It is the time of year when Eastland County cattlemen need to put up their guard against a pest that annually pilfers their pocketbooks of thousands of dollars.

Lice are the culprits and they begin to reproduce rapidly with the onset of cool weather.

Uncontrolled, lice can soon infest a whole herd, because with cold weather, cattle tend to bunch up more and the pests can easily move from one animal to another. Heavy hair coats on animals during cold weather also afford protection for the parasites and allow increased reproduction.

Costs to the cattlemen - both in control efforts and dramatic production losses - increase as lice populations build.

There are two types of lice - bloodsucking and biting - and both infest cattle. Sucking lice pierce the animal's skin and suck blood while biting lice feed on particles of hair, scale, scab and skin discharges.

Lice infestations irritate animals, causing itching, scratching and rubbing on fences or anything else available. This produces denuded areas, bruises and lacerations on the affected animal. Heavily infested animals will have an unthrifty appearance and will suffer weight reduction, decreased milk production, anemia or even death.

Lice infested animals may also be more subject to respiratory diseases such as pneumonia. Heavy lice infestations often stunt calves. Undernourished cattle of any age usually have the heaviest infestation.

Some cattle appear to be physiologically more susceptible to lice than others and thus have higher pest populations. Such animals are called "chronics" or "carriers" and are usually instrumental in reinfesting the herd annually in spite of repeated insecticide treatments. Culling "carrier" animals is a helpful management practice in reducing lice problems.

Insecticide control of lice is not difficult to achieve but there are some problems. Most insecticides don't kill eggs; therefore, re-treatment is required in two to three weeks to prevent another build-up. However, if the initial treatment comes late enough in the season, there may not be enough time for lice to build to economic levels again before warm spring weather.

Spraying and dipping infested animals with proper insecticides is an effective means of controlling lice. However, control measures are usually required when winter conditions are most harsh - a time when cold stress is a good possibility and respiratory diseases prevalent. Some of this problem can be prevented by treating animals on a day when they can be dry before sundown.

Pour-on and spot-on grubicides labeled for lice are effective and considerably reduce the problem of cold stress associated with dips and sprays. However, the possibility of a host-parasite reaction is always a threat if the material is applied after the cut-off date for grub control.

Systemic grubicides labeled for lice control usually recommend a lower rate than that to control grubs, which would help reduce the host-parasite reaction.

Use of nonsystemic dust applied by hand or in dustbags would eliminate the possibility of host-parasite reaction. But because of a lack of penetration of heavy hair coats, dusts do not provide as effective lice control as dips or sprays.

Self-treatment devices, backrubbers and dustbags, properly placed and maintained in a preventative program offer effective lice control. These devices should be placed early in the fall prior to lice buildup in order that cattle will become accustomed to using them. They should be placed in areas that cattle frequently use or placed in such a manner that cattle are forced to use them.

The spot-on formulation of chlorpyrifos (Dursban 44) is a new product that has been effective against lice. The product kills all stages of lice - eggs, nymphs and adults. One application is adequate for season-long control if the entire herd is treated and no untreated animals are later introduced into the herd.

Only a small amount of chlorpyrifos is required, thus eliminating cold stress from soaking animals with sprays and dips. The insecticide is not a grubicide, so it can be used anytime without fear of a host-parasite reaction. However, this product is not labeled for dairy animals, bulls over 8 months, or purebred exotic breeds.

Whichever lice control program is used, the cattlemen should be certain to read label directions and pay particular attention to warnings, restrictions and pre-slaughter intervals.

Additional information on control of lice and other external parasites of cattle is available in the publication

"Suggestions for Controlling External Parasites of Livestock and Poultry", at the Eastland County Extension Office.

Congratulations to several Eastland County pecan growers who won ribbons at the Central Texas Regional Pecan Show in mid December. Charles Walker of Eastland won two first place ribbons. He won one in the Barton class and one in the variety seedling class. Dan Childress of Cross Plains won a first in the other shelling variety class with an entry of Vogt pecans. Dan also won a second place ribbon in the Tejas class. Another second was won by the Lost Creek Pecan Orchard of Rising Star with a variety seedling. Lost Creek won a third place ribbon with a GraBohl entry. Dan Childress won two third place ribbons with entries of Caddo and Mohawk. The Lone Star Pecan Orchard of Rising Star won two third place ribbons with entries of Apache and Comanche pecans.

Rabies remain a constant threat in Eastland County. Dr. Kevan Blaser, Ranger Veterinarian, reports three confirmed rabies cases during the last month. Pet owners should make sure their animals get yearly vaccinations. It is easy to forget how much time has passed since the last vaccination.

We recommend annual rabies vaccinations for all dogs and cats three months of age and older. Vaccination is the number one weapon in the battle against the dreaded disease. While little can be done about rabies in wild animals, pet owners can take a positive step in protecting their animals with annual vaccinations.

Doctor Talk

By Dr. Harold B. Ligon

Everyone has the common cold and it affects some much more than others. Some people are more bothered by the symptoms, stuffiness of the nose, stopped-up sinuses, sneezing, drainage of mucus into the upper bronchial tree, etc., than others.

I remember when I was small my mother warned against going barefooted around the house, because it would cause me "to catch a cold." To this day, whenever I take my shoes off in the house, in a few minutes I begin to sneeze.

This lends support to a school of thought in the medical profession today that colds are sometimes of psychological origin. However, it's generally accepted that the common cold is more often caused by a virus.

There are more than ninety-five cold viruses, which in fact makes it almost impossible to cure them. This explains why there are many hundreds of different cold preparations on the market today and why there are actually millions of transactions over drug store counters every year--for both prescribed and non prescribed remedies.

About the best insurance against colds is to keep up one's resistance (good nutrition and vitamin balance and sufficient rest), to stay out of crowds in winter epidemics--and to wash one's hands frequently.

TRANSPLANT WOODY PLANTS

Trees and shrubs are essential to a pleasant home environment. If they fit into a well planned landscape, they greatly increase in value of your home. There are normally two ways trees are sold. The first is bare-root plants. When planting bare-root trees and shrubs, dig a hole large enough to allow the root system to spread naturally. It is not necessary, however, to dig the hole much larger.

It is very important not to allow the roots to dry out. If you plan to plant within the next 24 hours, it is a good idea to soak the roots in a pail of water during this time. If it will be several days before you plant, dig a shallow trench and cover the root with loose soil.

Before planting, cut back any broken or damaged roots. Mound a good topsoil in the bottom of the hole to form a cone around the roots. Then fill in the hole completely.

Another way trees or shrubs are sold are ball and burlapped or canned nursery stock. Balled and burlapped plants, as well as those grown in containers, have a distinct advantage over bare-root plants by having a relatively undisturbed root system. If this advantage is to be retained, use care to avoid breaking or damage the root ball. Most nursery stock of this type can be planted anytime of the year. Bare-rooted plants must be moved while the tree is dormant.

Occasionally you may buy a plant which has been growing in a container too long and has become root bound. This condition is characterized by a mass of roots spiraled around the bottom and sides of the drainage holes. Begin by thoroughly soaking the root ball. Unless you pry and loosen this root mass or cut some roots, the plant will probably never outgrow this condition. If you have to damage or remove parts of the root system, you will need to compensate by pruning off about one-third of the top growth. This should also be done with bare-rooted plants.

January 15 is Arbor Day and this would be a good time to plant a tree or shrub. If you have any questions, contact the Eastland County Extension Office.
