ABOUT YOUR HEALTH

They're some great times ahead for Texas' swimming enthusiasts. They've got 13,000 pools to choose from, and the season is right at hand.

And things stand to break even better for the wet set in day to come. According to the National Swimming Pool Institute, Texas will have some 50,000 pools in 1970, almost quadruple the present number.

But play for plungers means work for someone else, namely State Health Department engineers and local health department sanitarians who sponsor training courses for pool managers and personnel from border to border.

The Department began its voluntary program of training operators in 1956. Day-long courses are held at various points throughout the State, and cover such diverse subjects as chlorination, filtration and sanitation.

So far 1,216 pool operators have been certified by the Department through the medium of short schools. Others will be added to the certified list by summer's end.

It's all in the interest of healthful recreation.

Four Texas cities with suitable meat inspection ordinances and inspection programs meeting State specifications have qualified under the new joint municipal-State cooperative meat inspection program.

Several other cities have their acceptance pending. Thirty-nine meat and meat product processing establishments have been surveyed under the new procedure.

Cities seeking qualification are surveyed by inspectors from the Veterinary Public Health Division of the State Health Department for conformance to State specifications and regulations concerning meat and meat product inspection approved by the State Board of Health.

Various establishments are also inspected for compliance. Meeting the requirements permits the establishment to affix the State approved meat label to their products.

The cooperative program became effective March 1, 1960. (A weekly feature of the Public Health Education Division of the Texas State Department of Health.)

The Division of Sanitary Engineering of the Texas State Department of Health has carried on a Vacation Camp Sanitation Program for many years.

During 1959, an effort was made on the compilation of vacation camps into an up-to-date directory. At present, 140 camps have been located.

Seventy of these camps were inspected. Total attendance at the camps was 140,000 children, according to inspection reports. A safe, properly protected water supply is the major problem faced by camp directors. The director must know that the camp water supply is bacteriologically safe.

Water samples are sent to Health Department or commercial laboratories at regular intervals to be tested for the presence of contamination possibly harmful to human beings. Other vacation camp sanitation problems confront the operators. High on the responsibility list is safety involving water front activities. In some instances, a modern swimming pool or natural bathing area is available, where sanitation is equally important.

Proper food sanitation and adequate insect control must be carefully planned by camp authorities. Extensive precautions concerning the disposal of human wastes and garbage disposal need to be taken to guard against the pollution of nearby streams and to prevent fly breeding.

Various camping activities call upon the Division of Sanitary Engineering and local health authorities for assistance and counselling as needed. While in most instances camp owners, camp directors and camping associations voluntarily endeavor to attain a high degree of sanitary perfection, the regulatory basis for sanitary practices are found in the Texas General Sanitation Law of 1945.

The Division of Sanitary Engineering will continue its Vacation Camp Sanitation Program this summer. (This is a weekly feature of the Public Health Education Division of the Texas State Department of Health.)

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cawley have returned to their home here after spending several weeks with their children at Port Neches. Mr. Cawley is much improved in health and is happy to be home again.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry White and son, Danny, of Tulsa, Okla., are guests of his parents here.

$81,613 in Cancer Fund Grants to Texas Scientists

Three Texas scientists and one institution received American Cancer Society grants totaling $81,613 it was learned here today by H. R. Garrett District Director.

Two of the scientists are at the University of Texas M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute, Houston. Dr. A. Clark Griffin received $12,846 "To isolate Factors from Malignant Tissue Affecting Metabolism" and Dr. Saul Kit received $13,900 to study "The Nucleic Acids of Normal Tissues and Tumors."

Dr. William C. Levin of the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston was awarded $39,767 to investigate the "Methods for the Diagnosis and Management of Dysand Paraproteinemias Associated with Malignancies." An institutional grant of $15,000 went to the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School and is under the direction of Jack A. Pritchard.

H. R. Garrett revealed that these new research grants brought to $1,839,736, the amount allocated for cancer research since 1945 in the state of Texas a part of the American Cancer Society's nationwide research program.

Currently, he stated, 13 grants totaling $228,356 are in effect in Texas, including M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Clinic, Baylor University College of Medicine, Houston; Southwestern Medical School, Dallas; and the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston. These, he stated, are part of the $15,409,353 in ACS research projects now in effect throughout the nation.

H. R. Garrett stated that these recent grants and others in effect are funds returned to Texas from the annual April educational fund raising Crusade conducted by the Society in each Texas community.

In addition to the 60c of every cancer dollar which stays in Texas, practically 30c is returned to the state in the form of cancer research grants, H. R. Garrett said.

Texas, he stated, are very fortunate indeed to share so largely in the cancer control dollars, being able to support a year round educational life saving program of cancer control as well as conduct vital research activities, which may one day find the answer to the disease.

The research approach to the cancer problem, H. R. Garrett stated, is complex and diversified because cancer is a complex disease. For example, he stated:

Is leukemia caused by a virus? Dr. Leon Dmochowski at Baylor University and Dr. John Trentin, also at Baylor, are con-significant in the case of the tie, it is true, but so far as the efficiency of the staff is concerned, not at all condemnatory. Such differences as occurred between the local count and the committee count were, I am told, due mostly to differences concerning the marking of some of the ballots. The county committee, I am informed, threw out every ballot that had even the appearance of being mutilated or improperly marked.

ducting research to answer this important question.

How does malignant tissue differ biochemically from normal? Research into this problem is under way in the laboratory of Dr. A. Clark Griffin at M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute, and Dr. Robert Hurlbert, also at M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute.

What changes in cell chromosomes take place in cancer tissue? Both Dr. T. C. Hsu and Dr. Saul Kit at M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute are pursuing different aspects of this question.

What new effective chemotherapeutic agents can be synthesized? Dr. Darrell Ward at M. D. Anderson Hospital is attempting to find new chemotherapeutic agents that are less toxic than those presently available.

Institutional research grants, H. R. Garrett stated, are currently in effect in the three medical schools in Texas. These grants are administered by a local committee of University scientists and physicians.

If a student — undergraduate, graduate, or medical — or a busy physician, or an inexperienced investigator, he stated, wants to try out a new research idea, develop a tangential idea to his main line of endeavor, or engage in research on a part-time basis, he may apply to his local Institutional Grant Committee for funds. These universities are among 56 institutions in the country receiving this unique type of grant which seeks to encourage new minds and new ideas to enter cancer research.

Boy Scout Camp Billy Gibbons Opens June 6th

By Boyce House

The first time I ever saw the name, "Moulton (Ty) Cobb", it was signed to a sports news story from the University of Texas where Cobb was a student. I was then editor of the Eastland Daily Oil Belt News and made use of all the articles he sent out, as did many other papers.

It was quite a few years later that we met for the first time. He was by then a popular personality in the Lower Rio Grande Valley with a radio program originating at Weslaco. Recently I was down his way and he had me as a guest on his program — now on television. He has presented five programs, a week for 28 years and has been unable to appear only twice, which is quite a record.

After the program (which featured Senator Hudson of Brownsville, a beauty queen and a Hawaiian dancer and, of course, Ty with his homey remarks), I was a guest at luncheon. We went by his lovely home and he plucked two grapefruit from a tree in the yard and we — Mrs. Cobb, Ty and I — enjoyed these as well as some huge, delicious Valley strawberries along with tender home-baked ham, and other attractive viands. "I GIVE YOU TEXAS"

By Boyce House

When an author visited Sir Walter Scott at his home, Abbotsford, the visitor suggested they view Melrose and quoted Scott's lines:

"If you would see Melrose aright, Go visit it by the pale moonlight."

There is an old saying, "Experience keeps a dear school — but fools will learn in no other." Isn't it a fact, however, that experience is the only way a man can learn anything — either your own experience or the experience of others? — (as, for example, in books, especially biography and history). And of the two methods, the smart man — as much as possible — learns from the experience of others. This is less painful.

"Who owns the Electric Company?"

A lot of our own customers can't answer that one. But there's certainly no secret about it.

The electric company is owned by people. Thousands of people, like you, who invest their money and help the company to grow.

Your electric company is not owned or run by the city. Not by the state either. Not by any kind of government. It is an independent business.

That's an important reason why you get the best possible electric service at such a low price.

Captain Griffith Takes Part in Army-AF Exercise

POPE AIR FORCE BASE, N. C. — Capt. Lester D. Griffith, of Rising Star, Texas, was among the Pope Air Force Base personnel taking active part in the Army-Air Force exercise, Towers Moon, in the Fort Bragg area, May 2-11.

He is the son of Mrs. Oleta Seales, Rising Star, and he was graduated from high school there in 1951. He is married to the former Joyce Garrett, of Mustang, Okla., and they are parents of two sons.

Capt. Griffith is a C-123 "Provider" pilot in the 464th Troop Carrier Wing's 347th Troop Carrier Squadron. In service nearly nine years, he came to Pope AFB in the summer of 1958 from Ardmore AFB, Okla.

More than 70 Tactical Command aircraft and 12,000 Strategic Army Corps troops took part in Towers Moon, an exercise designed to improve inter-service coordination and support. Concept of the maneuver was deployment of a United Nations task force to help settle a disturbance in a mythical nation called "Sinkonia." All the action took place on the big Fort Bragg military reservation, with the 82nd Airborne Division furnishing both friendly and aggressor forces.

Aircraft used were C-123 and C-130 "Hercules" troop carriers and RF-101 jet reconnaissance planes from TAC's Ninth Air Force, while fighter support was provided by F-84F "Thunderstreaks" of the Virginia Air National Guard.

To the Editor—

Dear Sir:

I think it is important that the citizens of Eastland County know the Eastland, Ranger and Rising Star delegates to the County Democratic Convention prevented the reading and further adoption of a resolution favoring a stronger states riter program and protesting further intervention in private enterprise. It is my sincere hope this act reflected only disrespect for the Cisco delegation and not the principle involved.

If the latter is true the county should be alerted to the fact it is sending to the State Democratic Convention a delegation controlled by members who obersalistic form of government. I sincerely favor a socialistic, federalistic form of government.

Sincerely,

Easter Service Where St. Paul Preached Moving Experience, Writes Mrs. Alford

(The following story from the Cisco Press was written by the wife of Col. D. G. Alford of the U. S. Air Force, base commander of the U. S. Air Force Base at Athens, Ga. Col. Alford is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Alford of this city.)

ATHENS, Greece — Easter is over. This I know. But over here it is hard to realize. So I would like to share with you the most wonderful experience of our five months in Greece. Let me amend that statement: the most awe-inspiring experience of my life.

This morning my family and

I attended Sunrise service on the Acropagus or Mars Hill, as it is called today. We traveled approximately the same route as Paul from our house (which is three blocks from where Paul landed) to the top of the Hill.

The alarm awoke us like a bolt out of the blue at 4:30 a. m. Struggling into our warm clothes (not Easter finery), walking shoes, and scarves for our heads, we managed to be at the Base Chapel by 5 a. m. Waiting there was the bus to take us the ten miles to Mars Hill, which is in the center of Athens, adjacent to the Acropolis. Instead of the expected 40, 75 people arrived. So another bus was quickly called. We departed the Base at 5:15, arriving at our destination at 5:45. Approximately 100 people were already there—mostly Americans employed by our United States government agencies in the Athens area. From this vantage point all of Athens, the old city of Plaka as well as the new city of over a million people, is clearly visible. In one direction the sea; surrounding us and forming a backdrop for this fabulous stage are the mountains.

At 6 a. m., as the sun desperately pushed its way through the low, overhanging clouds, 200 voices rang out, singing "Jesus Christ Is Risen Today!" The Lord's Prayer and Doxology followed. After the Responsive Reading, given by Reverend Hanna, pastor of St. Andrew's Church of Athens, he gave this Scripture lesson: Mark 16:1 — and Acts 17. "The Day of Resurrection" was then sung, and in the clear, cool morning air it must have reached the Heavens.

Captain B. G. Carnes, base chaplain, delivered the sermon, based on Acts 17:1-20 and I Corinthians 15:1-20. Then we realized on this very spot, nearly 2,000 years ago, Paul had stood and preached to the Athenians. As he referred to their temples of worship, our eyes turned to the right to the Parthenon; then Paul spoke of their market and our eyes looked to the foot of the hill to the ancient marketplace that has been reconstructed as it originally stood.

At the time Paul preached here Athens was quite small, built at the base of the Acropolis. In fact, Acropolis means "end of town." With the end of the sermon, all sang "Crown Him with Many Crowns" and then recited the Easter Litany. Needless to say, a very solemn group carefully picked their way back down the huge marble boulders that we had laboriously climbed earlier.

I cannot begin to truly express my innermost feelings during and after this service. It seems facetious to say it gave me goose pimples. But it did. In a building thousands of miles away and so many hundreds of years later one really has to stretch his imagination to "see and believe". But "on the spot coverage" is entirely different. You feel as though you are hearing Paul himself. Ancient History is all around us, but the greatest impact is still from our Lord and Savior. — Zona Miller Alford.

President McKinley Once Said—

... "I do not prize the word CHEAP. It's not a word of hope, nor cheer, nor inspiration. To the contrary, it is a badge of dishonesty, the sign of distress. Cheap merchandise means cheap men and cheap men a cheap country". The quotation reminds us of a friend who bought a ranch in another state, demanded a cheap abstract and got it. He's busted now and the abstracter who accommodated him died of a broken heart. The moral is, don't do it!
