The Price Remains The Same

Their style, their quality, their guarantee of satisfaction has become the new standard of value for $17 throughout the nation. Their achievement enables men to be well dressed without being asked to pay one cent more.

Styleplus $17
Clothes

are still $17, but the price of ne everything else has jumped.

When the war came everyone in the clothing business thought that wool would go up. The makers of Styleplus Clothes $17 on account of their extensive advertising were duty bound to keep on supplying the public with "all wool fabrics, expert tailoring, the skill of a great designer," at the known price $17—provided there was any way on earth to do it.

What happened? These makers bought woolens and linings in tremendous quantity. They kept on adverising "the price remains the same." Volume doubled, manufacturing costs dropped because of the increased production—new efficiency and new economies came to light through the "necessity of the hour."

Incidentally, the makers as well as ourselves have been content with a smaller profit in order to keep your price the same.

Please do not forget—we are the only Styleplus Store here.

The City National Bank contemplates remodeling their present home and make the building strictly modern.

Of course new fixtures will necessarily follow the remodeling of the building.

AMPHOR—KELLEY

Mr. Marcus Amphor and Miss Clara Kelley surprised their friends by motoring over to Cherokee Sunday afternoon and being quietly married at that place. They returned to San Saba Monday and will make this their home.

Mr. Amphor holds a position with the Noble Garage and the bride is the daughter of Mrs. Laura Kelley.

CITIZENS LOYALTY MASS MEETING

The people of San Saba town and San Saba county are an American people, and, when our nation faces the most serious crisis in its history they have felt the emotion of patriotism that is sweeping this American continent, and in a mass meeting held in the District Court room at the Court House Tuesday night, they demonstrated this patriotism in a way that expressed their loyalty and sincere admiration for President Wilson.

A crowd, possibly the largest ever assembled in this little city, responded to the call of Mayor Smith, and before 8 o'clock the seats both in the parque and the balcony, were filled as were the aisles, windows and doorways there to express their loyalty to President Wilson in entering into the present world war. And it was a patriotic, home loving, God fearing crowd. They only wanted an opportunity to express themselves and it was afforded.

Mayor Smith was master of ceremonies and asked Rev. C. L. McDonald to open the meeting with a prayer. There was a musical number led by Miss Doyle and the school children, assisted by the audience, after which Mayor Smith asked R. W. Burselson to take the chair. In a few well chosen remarks Mr. Smith told the audience the object of the meeting, and was followed by Knight Rector, Jr., on "Why We Are at War." Mr. Rector handled the subject in a very acceptable manner, but was interrupted too often by applause, which sounded the response of his audience. Mr. Rector was followed by Jim Baker who handled the subject, "Th War as I See It" equally as pleasing to the audience as did Mr. Rector.

The committee appointed at the mass meeting last Saturday afternoon read a report and resolutions, pertaining to the home guard, which were accepted without a dissenting vote, and this body—the home guards, will meet tonight for the purpose of organizing. W. J. Hill followed Mr. Baker in which he told the audience he was a "warrior" and a member of the home guards. His talk was full of humor, but to the point.

The Cherokee band furnished music for the occasion, and each number was met by a hearty applause, as was the music appropriate to the occasion.

FAIR DIRECTORS MEETING

The fair directors held their regular monthly meeting Tuesday morning with President W. J. Moore, Secretary John Seiders and R. W. Burselson, E. E. Fagg, S. E. Kelley, T. A. Murray, W. A. Smith, Arch Woods and Joe A. Williams, present.

Mr. R. J. Edwards Superintendent of the Poultry Department was before the board making certain recommendations for his department. Hon. H. B. Savage of Belton was again elected Judge of that department and Mr. Edwards was instructed to make some changes in the coops in the poultry hall and to order the necessary prize cups for the year.

President Moore reported having secured Mr. J. E. Bogg-Scott of Coleman for the Judge in the cattle department this year.

The grounds and Building Committee was instructed to have the underpinning placed under the exhibit and the poultry halls for fire protection, etc.

Letters from Hon. F. W. Davis, Commissioner of Agriculture, Austin, offered to place the State Agricultural exhibit at the fair this year at the cost of transportation was accepted and the proper committees and superintendents were instructed to arrange for all necessary space for this exhibit.

The Printing Committee reported some progress on catalogue work and that this committee would begin work soon. Several suggestions were submitted and referred to this committee.

The question of free passes was discussed and was passed over, probably to come up later at a special meeting for this purpose.

WEALTH THAT WORKS

Money saved and deposited in a bank is wealth that works. Wealth that work is capital. Unlike brain and muscle, it does not wear out or deteriorate. It grows and improves. The only gain from labor is what is saved. Labor, therefore, makes wealth and when wealth works it is capital. Capital at work pays wages, which when saved, creates more capital. Labor is the producer when labor saves.

But This Does Not Bother Mrs. Burton, Under the Circumstances.

Houston, Texas.—In an interesting letter from this city, Mrs. S. C. Burton writes as follows: "I think it is my duty to tell you what your medicine, Cardui, the woman's tonic, has done for me.

I was down sick with womanly trouble, and my mother advised several different treatments, but they didn't seem to do me any good. I lingered along for three or four months, and for three weeks, I was in bed, so sick I couldn't bear for any one to walk across the floor.

My husband advised me to try Cardui, the woman's tonic. I have taken two bottles of Cardui, am feeling fine, gained 15 pounds and do all of my housework. Friends hardly know me, I am so well."

If you suffer from any of the ailments so common to women, don't allow the trouble to become chronic. Begin taking Cardui to-day. It is purely vegetable, its ingredients acting in a gentle, natural way on the weakened womanly constitution. You run no risk in trying Cardui. It has been helping weak women back to health and strength for more than 50 years. It will help you. At all dealers.

SOME GOOD ADVICE

"Don't think too much of your own methods. Watch other people's ways and learn from them." This good advice, especially when bilious or constipated. You will find many people who use Chamberlain's Tablets for these ailments with the best results, and do well to follow their example.

SAN SABA COUNTY FAIR AND ENCAMPMENT

The San Saba County Fair Association boasts of one of the biggest County Fairs in the State of Texas, and have reason for boasting. Situated on the beautiful San Saba river, in a pecan grove, a lay of ground well drained gives this association one of the most beautiful fair grounds in the State.

This year—the fifteenth—promises to be the best of all and it's a fact that—

IF YOU MISS IT YOU WILL MISS IT

The Association has booked amusements that are sure to please the crowds, and every entertainment will be of the highest class. There will be plenty of amusement for all who attend. You come, and bring your family, and your neighbor, too, and enjoy the occasion on—

JULY 31ST TO AUGUST 3RD

The Fair Association is booking new attractions almost every day, and Secretary John Seiders says the latest attraction secured—which will be one of the best at the Fair is an agricultural exhibit by the Agricultural department, Austin, and this department will furnish two men who will be here with the exhibit to make demonstrations and furnish any information desired by the crowds. This attraction alone, is worth the price of admission any day you go.

OUR CONTEMPT-ORARY

Week before last we printed an article captioned "Ignorance or Prejudice or Both?" which dealt with a savage attack made by the Richland Springs Eye-Witness made on Governor Ferguson, both from a political and a personal-integrity standpoint. We have come to the conclusion that "Eye-Winker" came out last week and poured out its little vial of wrath on the head of the editor of the Star.

Now, we are not mad at our contemporary of Richland Springs. Therefore, in a fraternal spirit we will inform him that the war on Jim Ferguson is over, and the war on the Kaiser has begun. Get busy, brother; get busy! Shoulder a musket and lay down your little squirt gun. Be are his enemies? Scattered in little Jim Ferguson is still upon his throne, looking better than ever. And where are his enemies? Scattered in little hamlets over our land, where they continue to make a noise. They are gone, true to that teaching of the Holy Writ, which says, "The wicked flee when no one pursues."

But does the "Eye-Twister" dare to impose ancient history upon an enlightened public? Are his brain-leaks now producing hash? Why not deal in the present; why does he not prepare for the future? What do people now care about the battle of Salamis, the great fire in Chicago, or the Ferguson investigation? Of course, we realize that the press is free. We are not criticising the acts of the "Eye-Twister," but our heart goes out to the suffering public. Neither is there a desire for revenge. Nay, the "Eye-Roller" has our prayers; "May the Lord have pity upon him, for he knows not how weak his dope is." Our beloved contemporary is safe; absolutely safe! Our insane asylums are full, and standing-room is at premium. Our colony for the feeble-minded is not yet in running order; therefore, be patient and firm, for there is hope. Bound for Sheol? Never! It would take half a century to run him through a Dry Kijn; and would the little "Twister" be worth the candle? It seems to hurt our neighbor's liver because we are climbing too fast the ladder of fame. To be Chief Clerk of a great State Institution and to be roost-a-bout for the Richland Springs "Ogler" are two different things. But this is not our fault. Should we be blamed because a higher power gave us power of brain, while it gave our neighbor power of lungs? We are working in different directions; that is all. Our Star tells us that some day we may guide with a firm hand the destiny of this great nation. Why should this arouse the ire of our "steamed" contemporary? We are not competing in his particular line. It would really make us feel good if we were informed that he had become the champion speller for Ringlin Brothers shows, and with his magnificent voice was drowning the steam piano. The war on Ferguson has ended. The scrap with the Kaiser has begun. Sonny, get your hog-leg out, and get busy.

The Governor's veto broad-ax has gutlined several measures of doubtful merit, since the Legislature adjourned.

If you have a good milk cow, a nice bunch of laying hens, and a healthy garden and you are pretty well healed against H. C. of L.

Mrs. C. F. Brown, of Forest, has returned home from a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Owens.

FOOD AND FEED

The cry for more food and feed is prevalent throughout the world. The shortage is not felt in Europe only, but is globe-wise. Many countries have adopted embargoes for the protection of their masses. Our own authorities advise diversification and more scientific farming, both very essential and necessary remedies. However we should bear in mind that our population in the last ten years has increased 20 per cent, while our production has increased only 1 per cent. This condition can be attributed directly to the exodus from the farm to the cities. Water flows down hill, and people will naturally drift to the populated centers where they can find inducements of life more inviting than country life. Nothing is more calculated to bring about the desired change than to make farming profitable. As farming is primarily a science of how to make both ends meet, and having something over, and on the over will depend whether the man will remain on the farm or not. Nothing will be more calculated to bring about the desired results than an equitable and fair dealing for the farmer. President Wilson has said: "It has singularly enough come to pass that we in the past have shamefully neglected the farming industry, his credit should be more permanent and easier available." This recommendation has already born fruit in the passage of our Federal Reserve Act and our Federal Land Bank Act. Our State Warehouse and Marketing Law is the key by which the farmer can take advantage of the provisions of both. Rural Credits and a Co-operative Marketing System are the purposes of the law. Theory that "the farmer owes us a living" should be changed so as to read "the farmer is entitled to a living," and when the antiquated system and customs are changed to conform to real conditions, the question of feed and food will solve itself. The government must save the farmer for its own sake. The selfish interest of the non-producer demands it. The Texas Warehouse and Co-operative Marketing Law is the first step in the right direction—all thinking men endorse it. It shortens the road between the producer and the consumer, and insures a living for both by eliminating the drone.

A MARTYR vs. THE PHARISEES.

Christ taught the doctrine of the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of men,—and yet, the Pharisee cried: "Crucify him!" And you may turn the pages of history and you can find on many a page, where, in many a land, reformers rose against men and espoused the cause of the poor thought of reward, merely believing that God, in his wisdom, would place a mark of credit to their names. They fought, they bled, they were vilified by the people, and yet—their soul's desire was the uplift of humanity, to make mankind grander, nobler, and better; and, in doing so, to draw them nearer to their God. Yet, through all the ages you can hear the Pharisee's cry: "Crucify him!"

Governor Ferguson is paying the penalty of having smashed a political machine. He pointed the finger of scorn in the direction of the old, worn out schoolhouse upon the hill. He had the audacity to proclaim that education must begin at the plow. He actually espoused the tenants' cause; and all this never will be forgotten. They have cried to crucify him upon the cross of prejudice and hatred. But history will record the fact that Jim Ferguson was the peer of all, because he took the cause that was right and just. What a pity that in the freest government under the sun men will turn their backs upon the Statesman and listen to the demagogue. And while we are writing these simple words, we can hear the rustle of angel's wings, and a clear celestial whispering, "What fools these mortals be."

Jim Baker had legal business in Austin the first of the week.

SEASON TICKETS FOR CHAUTAUQUA

Can Be Purchased Only From the Local Committee.

A number of our enterprising citizens have made the coming of the Chautauqua to our city possible by guaranteeing that our people would purchase a certain number of season tickets. These tickets have all been placed in the hands of the local committee, and none will be sold by the bureau at any price.

If you buy season tickets for your family you will do two things. You will save money for yourself over the price of the single admissions, and you will have the right to have your name listed among the real boosters for the town. The local committee will make a general canvass for tickets in a few days. Be ready to purchase when they call.

THE CHRISTIAN SABBATH RESPECTED

Co-operative Chautauqua Bureau Conducts No Assemblies on Sunday.

The Chautauqua movement grew out of a religious idea—really as a sort of Sunday School Normal Institute. It was natural, therefore, that it should run on Sunday the same as on a week day. In the evolution of the movement the moral idea has been retained, but the strictly religious idea has given way to education and entertainment. With this evolution there has arisen in many localities the question as to the wisdom of Sunday programs, which do sometimes wound the sensibilities of some. A few bureaus, and among them the co-operative, have decided against Sunday programs, believing that they want not only to "shun the very appearance of evil," but that the talent will do very much better work if they have the opportunity to rest on Sunday, according to nature's laws.

POWHATTAN HOLDS CHAUTAUQUA RECORD

Every Family but Three Has Chautauqua Season Tickets.

Powhattan, Kan., holds the Chautauqua record for 1916. Every family in town but three bought season tickets. This shows something of the hold that this form of amusement and instruction has upon the people. What other form of social activity can claim as near a unanimity as that? The circus in its palmest days never thought of getting more than one attendance to the main show, with a lesser fee for a concert and side show. But here the Chautauqua sells its season tickets at $1.50 to $3, and at this Kansas town all but three families have season tickets.

Elk Lick, Pa., is a town of 1,000 people, and yet the committee sold 1,300 season tickets for their Chautauqua at $2 each. This shows the splendid efficiency of the local ticket committee. Practically every farmer for miles around had one or more season tickets for his family.

PEANUT GROWING IN THE COTTON BELT

(By H. C. Thompson, Horticulturist)

plied in a narrow strip along the row, a 1-horse fertilizer distributor being used for the purpose. The fertilizer should be thoroughly mixed with the soil. Barnyard or stable manure should not be used the same as the peanuts are to be planted, because of the large number of weeds which are likely to be caused by the heavy growth of weeds. The manure, if applied to the soil, should be applied the previous season.

As a market crop, if a field is not exhaustive of food. In fact, the plant is a nitrogen gatherer, but the entire plant including the root, is removed and no part returned to the soil the peanut is almost as exhaustive of fertility as corn. By feeding the straw and other refuse to farm animals and applying the manure to the land, the ground is enriched. When grown exclusively for feeding purposes and hogs are turned into the field to root out the nuts, there is no better soil improving crop than the peanut.

Importance of lime in the soil.—Peanuts require an abundance of lime to insure proper ripening and the filling of the pods. Where the soil contains limestone or shell it may not be necessary to apply lime, but on soils that are inclined to be the least sour, lime should be used, 1,000 pounds of fresh burnt lime or 2,000 pounds of fine-ground limestone being applied every four or five years to each acre. The lime should be applied at the same time as the commercial fertilizer, but when plowing the land. The lime should be applied broadcast after the land is plowed and thoroughly mixed with the soil by harrowing.

The peanut as a nitrogen gatherer.—The peanut plant, in common with other legumes, has the power of collecting nitrogen from the air and storing it in nodules on its roots. For this reason the peanut is a very desirable soil improving plant. It should be born in mind, however, that in order to benefit the soil the main portion of the roots should be left in the ground. The nitrogen-gathering bacteria are usually present in abundance, even when the crop is planted for the first time. This is especially true when the unshelled nuts are planted. If the nodules are not abundant on the roots, artificial inoculation will prove an advantage.

The large-podded peanuts, such as the Virginia Bunch and Virginia Runner, should be shelled for planting while the small-podded Spanish peanut is usually planted in the shell. The large-podded varieties usually have thick shells and the pods do not fill the pods so that germination is retarded. The Spanish peanut has thin shells and the pods are usually well filled. When planting in the pods it is a good plan to soak the peanuts for a few hours to hasten germination. After soaking the seeds should not be allowed to become dry, as the vitality is seriously injured by drying. Shelled seed should never be soaked.

The peanut should not be planted until the soil has become quite warm, and, as a rule, a little later than corn. The Spanish variety may be planted later than the Virginia variety, as it requires less time to complete its growth.

In most sections of the cotton belt the Spanish and similar varieties of peanuts may be planted after oats or other crops that come off early in the summer; that is from the middle of June to the last of July. When growing the Spanish variety for feeding purposes it is a good plan to make three or four plantings, so as to have the plants to come to maturity at different times. The first planting should be made as early as possible and other plantings at intervals of three or four weeks until the first of July in the upper South and up to the last of July in the lower South.

The best distance to plant peanuts varies according to the soil and variety. The Virginia Runner variety on good soil should be planted 12 to 15 inches apart in rows at least 36 inches apart. Virginia Bunch peanuts are planted in rows 30 to 36 inches apart and 9 to 12 inches apart in the row. The Spanish and Valencia varieties are planted in rows 28 to 36 inches apart and from 6 to 9 inches in the row. When growing the Spanish variety for feeding purposes it is advisable to plant the seed 6 inches apart in rows 30 inches apart.

The quantity of seed required to plant an acre depends upon the closeness of planting. As a rule it requires 1-2 to 2 pecks of shelled Virginia and 1-2 pecks of shelled Spanish peanuts, or 5 to 7 pecks in the pod, to plant an acre. On light sandy soils the seed should be covered 1-2 to 2 inches and 1 inch to 1-4 inches on heavy soil.

A large part of the crop is planted with 1-horse peanut planters. Some of these machines are designed for planting the Spanish and similar varieties in the shell. Some peanut growers still plant by hand, opening the rows with a single-shovel plow and dropping the nuts at the desired distance. The row is then covered by means of a small cultivator with a notched board fastened across the back of the implement.

The cultivation of the peanuts should begin soon after planting and continue until after the vines cover the ground. If the surface of the soil gets hard before the plants break through, it is a good plan to run a weeder over the ground to break the soil. A 2-horse riding cultivator is employed to a large extent in the old peanut-growing regions, although 1-horse cultivators are used by many farmers. A cultivator will give better results than a sweep or plow. The surface should be stirred as soon as possible after a rain to prevent the soil from baking.

After the peanuts begin to "peg" or form pods, they should not be disturbed or given further cultivation. For the last cultivation it is a common practice to employ a cultivator that will roll the soil up under the branches, to provide loose soil for the "pegs" to penetrate.

Peanuts should be grown in rotation with other crops rather than as a specialty. For the best results the land should not be planted to peanuts oftener than once in three or four years. A good rotation is corn with cowpeas between the rows, followed by winter oats. After the oats are harvested the land should be prepared and Spanish peanuts planted. The next year cotton should be planted and burr or crimson clover sown between the rows of cotton at the last cultivation. The clover is turned under the following spring and the land planted to corn.

As no definite rule can be given by which to determine when peanuts are ready to dig, each grower must depend largely upon his own judgment. In the lower South, where frosts do not occur until quite late, the vines assume a yellowish appearance when the peanuts are mature. Peanuts should be dug when the vines have the greatest number of mature pods. Beginners in peanut growing should be careful not to dig too soon, as immature nuts shrivel and are light in weight when cured. A few early-formed peas are likely to sprout before digging time, especially if there is a period of rainy weather about the time the peanuts are maturing, but usually the loss by sprouting is not great.

Peanuts are usually plowed from the ground with a 1-horse turnplow which has the moldboard removed to prevent throwing dirt over the vines. This plow should be so regulated that the peanut root can be cut off at any desired depth. The machine potato digger does very satisfactory work and will dig from 8 to 10 acres a day. This machine removes the peanut from the ground and also shakes off the soil, leaving the vines laying upon the surface. The machine digger costs about $75, so its use is only practicable where a considerable acreage of peanuts is to be dug. The digging point of the machine digger can be set to cut the roots any depth desired.

After the peanuts are dug a gang of workmen shake the vines free from the soil and throw them in small bunches. Where the machine digger is used this shaking is unnecessary, as the machine frees the peanut of the soil. The vines are left on the ground or in small bunches for three or four hours and are then placed in small stacks around a pole to cure. If peanuts are allowed to lie exposed for a considerable time after digging, the pods become discolored and lose in weight and the leaves drop off in drying.

The poles for the peanut stacks should be 3 or 4 inches in diameter and 7 to 8 feet long. These poles or stakes are set into the ground 12 to 18 inches and are well tamped to make them firm. In setting the poles a crowbar or pointed bar of iron is necessary to make the hole.

Before starting the stack one or two pieces of lath, scrap lumber or sapling cut from the woods, about 18 inches in length, are nailed at right angles to the stake 8 inches from the ground in order to prevent the peanuts from coming in contact with the soil. In starting to build the stack a few vines are laid across these pieces, and the stack is then built up successive layers of vines, the pods being kept well to the center against the stake and top to the outside. The stems should have sufficient outward curve to shed water. Occasionally a few vines should be hung around the stack in order to tie the stack together. By this method the pods will be near the center and around the stake, where there is an upward circulation of air and a general protection. When the stack has reached the desired height, a bunch of vines is rolled together and pressed down over the point of the stake to form a top, or a little dry grass or a few weeds may be used for this purpose.

It is not a wise plan to use anything for topping out the small stacks that will prevent the circulation of air. A heavy covering or cover of green or wet hay will invariably cause the peanuts to spoil. Curing in barns is not advisable either when curing peanuts for market or where the entire plant is fed to stock, as the crop will cure better in small stacks than when stored in bulk. After the nuts have been cured in the stack for four to six weeks those intended for feeding purposes may be stored in barns or sheds.

Peanuts should cure in the stack at least three or four weeks before picking or thrashing in order to allow the pods to become dry and the peas firm. Peanuts are still picked by hand in some sections where the grower has only a few acres. Hand picking is a very laborious and dusty task, but hand-picked nuts are the standard of excellence on the market. The expense of picking by hand is greater than by machinery, and as it is difficult to get enough labor for handwork machines are used by practically all large growers.

Two types of machines are used for picking peanuts from the vines. The common grain thrasher with a special cylinder for peanuts gives quite satisfactory results in removing Spanish peanuts from the vine. The principal objection to cylinder machine is the tendency to break the pods, but by running the cylinder about 400 revolutions per minute and can be reduced to a very small percentage. If the peanuts are to be shelled soon after they go on the market, the breaking of the pods is not very objectionable. When oats or wheat are grown in localities where peanuts are raised, the cylinder machine can be used for all of these crops by having two cylinders, one for grain and the other for peanuts.

The peanut picker works upon an entirely different principle from the cylinder machines. The picking is done by dragging the vines over a horizontal frame covered with wire mesh. The nuts drop through the wire and at the same time rubber brushes attached to an endless chain act on the lower side of the screen to remove the nuts. In addition to removing the pods from the vines, staying devices which remove the dirt and the small stems from the pods. The picker type of machine does not break or injure the pods, and for this reason it is especially desirable for picking peanuts that are to be sold in the pod or stored through the summer months.

After the peanuts are picked they should be stored in a dry place, preferably in a mouse-proof building. If the peanuts are damp after their removal from the vines they should be spread on a floor or stored in a well-ventilated building. When the pods are dry they may be put into bags as they come from the machine. The principal varieties of peanuts grown for market are the Virginia Bunch, Virginia Runner, and Spanish. For roasted peanuts sold in the pod the Virginia type is mainly grown. For shelled nuts, used in making salted peanuts, peanut candy, peanut butter, etc., the smaller peas of the large-podded varieties are used; also a large part of the Spanish; North Carolina, and Valencia varieties. The Spanish variety furnishes a considerable proportion of the shelled nuts, and for stock-feeding purposes it is to be preferred, as it can be grown under a wider range of conditions and has a higher food value than any other variety. The Valencia and North Carolina varieties are also grown to some extent for feeding purposes.

As already mentioned, the peanut is a valuable crop for various types of live stock, especially hogs. Few, if any, crops will produce more pounds of pork on an acre of land or produce it at a lower cost per pound than peanuts. A 40-bushel crop of Spanish peanuts will produce 400 to 500 pounds of pork to the acre and if the hay is harvested before the hogs are turned in it will nearly pay for the cost of growing the crop. In addition to the profit on the pork, the crop-producing capacity of the soil will be materially increased. By making successive plantings, as previously suggested, the earliest crop should be ready for the hogs by the first of August, and the last crop should be available until the ground freezes. In pasturing hogs on peanuts it is best to confine them to small areas by using portable fences rather than to let them have the run of the whole field.

In some of the Southern states the peanut is extensively used for planting between rows of corn. After the corn is harvested the land is pastured by hogs to clean up the peanuts. In this way the stuppe and roots of the peanuts supply humus and most of the nitrogen stored in the nodules on the roots is left in the soil.

In addition to growing peanuts to

REV. W. B. SANSING, Evangelist
who will assist in the Evangelistic Services at the First Baptist church, beginning Sunday April 22.

be fed in the field, the crop can be cured as described for a market crop and stored in the sheds and barn for winter feeding. The entire plant is a very valuable food for nearly all classes of live stock and can be fed economically. For dairy cows the whole peanut makes almost a balanced ration. Peanut hay, consisting of the entire plant after the nuts are removed, has a much higher feeding value than any other grass hay and about the same value as clover hay. A good crop of peanuts grown for the market should yield a ton of hay or more to the acre.

When peanuts are harvested for the market hogs are usually turned into the field to clean whatever is left after the digging. Many growers fatten two hogs on each acre of peanuts so harvested.

Hogs fattened exclusively on peanuts will not yield a desirable grade of meat or lard, as the meat will be soft and the lard oily. By feeding exclusively on corn for the last two or three weeks of the fattening period this difficulty will be overcome. Sweet potatoes and peanuts together make a good ration for hogs, the sweet potato furnishing the carbohydrates and the peanut the protein and fat.

With a coming shortage of cotton seed from which to make oil and with the great increase in the demand for vegetable oils in this country there is a possibility of building up a peanut-oil industry in the South. By making both cottonseed oil and peanut oil in the same factories it would be possible to keep the mills in operation throughout the year. With the addition of cleaning and shelling machinery the mills now making cottonseed oil could be used for the manufacture of peanut oil.

Shelled Spanish peanuts contain 50 to 52 per cent of oil, and with up-to-date presses 42 to 44 per cent can be extracted. Good Spanish nuts will yield about 1 gallon of oil to 1 bushel of nuts weighing 30 pounds.

One ton of farmer's stock Spanish peanuts, after they have been cleaned and shelled, will yield 350 to 400 pounds of first-grade or edible oil, 175 to 200 pounds of second-grade oil, and 800 pounds of peanut cake. The cake has about the same food value as cotton seed meal. The present indications are that a considerable quantity of first grade peanut oil could be disposed of at 75 cents a gallon wholesale and large quantities of second-grade oil at 35 to 40 cents a gallon for soap making.

It will be impossible, however, to establish the peanut-oil industry in the United States until there is a much larger production of peanuts. At present the farmers are finding the production of peanuts profitable for the regular channels of trade and for stock-feeding purposes. A little encouragement on the part of the managers of oil mills is necessary in order to secure a supply of peanuts for oil purposes.

While the average yield of peanuts is only about 34 bushels an acre, with proper methods of culture a yield of 60 bushels of nuts and 1 ton to 1-2 tons of forage may be expected. A yield of 75 to 100 bushels an acre is not uncommon, and even higher yields have been obtained.

The cost of growing 40 bushels of peanuts for market should not be more than $20 or $25 an acre, including $5 for rent of the land. A yield of 60 or more bushels per acre would cost no more than 40 bushels except for thrashing and marketing.

During the past five years the price received by the farmers for Spanish peanuts has ranged between 60 cents and $1.25 per bushel; depending on the time they were sold. A yield of 40 bushels at 60 cents would give a return of $24 for the nuts and a ton of hay worth at least $10. Even at this low price a fair profit would be made after deducting the cost of growing.

WILL MAKE HUGE LOAN TO ALLIES

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Administration leaders in conference today decided to unlock at once the vast financial resources of the United States to the Allies.

To relieve the economic needs of the Entente governments, a huge loan of dimensions yet undetermined, but not less than two billions of dollars will be forthcoming from this country as speedily as congress can pass the necessary legislation.

Not a penny of profit, it was authoritatively stated, will be expected or received by this country on the loan. The loan will be America's immediate contribution to the Allies cause, with the promise of the bountiful contributions of money, munitions and foodstuff to come as needed.

Plan Bond Issue

An immediate bond issue, possibly totaling $5,000,000,000 is forecast by to-day's actions. The exact amount is to be yet determined. Legislation providing for the issue will be introduced in Congress not later than this week. Possibly before the end of the present month a substantial portion of the great loan is expected to be available for the Entente governments. The forthcoming bond issue it is said, will be placed before the public as quickly as possible in denominations down to $100, possibly $25, will bear "a reasonable interest rate" and the entire army and navy investors—banks, corporations and individuals—will be afforded a chance to subscribe.

Treasury Department and Federal reserve board officials believe that a $5,000,000,000 bond issue can be absorbed without difficulty by American investors and it is likely that that will be the first sum offered.

Present plans call for an exchange of American money, dollar for dollar, for foreign bonds at par. Bonds of the Entente governments would be accepted by the American Government as security for the loan. The interest rate on the foreign bonds, it is said, will be the same on the bonds to be issued by this Government in raising the big loan.

Details of Loan

Thus should the first loan to the Allies be $3,000,000,000—a sum indicated by one official participating in the formation of the program—the United States would make the sum available out of proceeds of its own bond issue, taking bonds to the face value of 3,000,000,000 from the Allied governments to which the loan is made. The Allied bonds would be held in the treasury here. Interest on them would be paid to the American Government at the same rate as the Government would pay on the bonds sold in this country.

Not all of the first bond issue, it was estimated would be loaned to the Allies, sufficient reservation being made to cover the naval and military needs of this country now on met by taxation.

A considerable portion of the $3,500,000,000 already asked of Congress for the military and naval estimates during the first year will be raised by increased taxation, possibly as much as $1,500,000,000.

The bond issue will be the first financial legislation of the war to engage the attention of Congress and until after its passage, Congress will not be asked to consider war revenue legislation.

Money First Need.

The immediate need of the Government's making common cause with the Entente Allies in the war on Germany was pointed out, is money.

Besides a large loan to the Allies, it was estimated that extension of the banking credits would be encouraged as well. It was also revealed today that the administration in recent communication with the finance ministers of some of the Allied governments learned of this immediate need.

Official deputations from the chief Allied governments probably will be sent to the United States, it was said, to co-operate with American officials in deciding the most effective methods of placing funds at the disposal of the Entente governments.

The decision to advance the Allies a great loan was reached in conferences this afternoon between Secretary McAdoo, Chairman Simmons of the finance committee, Senator Lodge and Smoot, the former ranking Republican member of the foreign relations committee, and Representative Shirley, ranking majority member of the appropriations committee and Fordney, Garner and Hull, of the ways and means committee, and Representative Mann, Republican leader in the House, were unable to attend the conference.

An Advertising Campaign

"We all found we were thinking along practically the same lines," said Secretary McAdoo.

"I expect to issue a definite statement within a day or two."

While officials foresee no difficulty in floating a $5,000,000,000 bond issue by popular subscription an advertising campaign will be conducted to impress the American people that by subscribing to a loan for the Allies they will be furnishing a most powerful weapon to their country.

PEANUT GROWING IN THE COTTON BELT

(By H. C. Thompson, Horticulturist)

The value of peanuts, both as a money crop and for feeding on the farm, makes it especially desirable in the cropping system in some parts of the cotton belt. The Commercial value of the crop increased from $7,270,515 in 1899 to $18,271,929 in 1909, and the increase since 1909 has been even greater than before that year. These figures do not represent the full value of the crop, for they do not take into account thousands of acres of peanuts grown for hog-feeding purposes.

The production of peanuts for stock food offers for the present time the greatest opportunity for increasing the acreage, as a few acres could be grown profitable for feed on nearly every farm in the cotton belt. The peanut is one of the best hog foods that can be produced, and it is also valuable for cattle, horses and mules. Poor soil can be improved very rapidly by growing peanuts for hog feeding purposes, especially if the hogs are turned into the field and allowed to gather the nuts for themselves. Even if the nuts are harvested and fed to live stock, the soil will be improved if all the manure is returned to the land.

The market demand for peanuts is growing rapidly, and this alone will take care of a considerable acreage. In growing peanuts for the market, however the beginner should bear in mind that it is necessary to have certain machinery that is not ordinarily found in communities where peanuts are not commercially grown.

It should also be born in mind that there are no well established markets for peanuts in most sections of the cotton belt and that the prices in this territory is governed by that paid in Virginia and North Carolina. No farmer should go into the production of peanuts for market without first knowing whether the quantity grown in his community will be sufficient to justify buying the necessary machinery and to enable the grower to ship the product in carload lots.

While peanuts will grow on nearly any type of soil, a sandy or sandy-loam soil, preferably light in color, gives the best results. Dark soils or those containing a considerable percentage of iron are likely to stain the shells, rendering them less desirable for market. For stock feeding purposes, however, the staining of the shell is of little consequence. Soils that become hard or compact are not adapted to peanut growing, owing to the inability of pod stems, or "pegs" to penetrate the surface.

Poorly drained or sour soils are not suited to the peanut. The ideal soil is a sandy loam containing a considerable amount of humus or vegetable matter together with an abundance of lime.

The soil for the peanut should be thoroughly prepared by plowing, harrowing and dragging or rolling. The time to plow depends upon the character of the soil and its previous treatment. Where there is no danger of the soil washing, fall plowing is advisable especially if any course material is to be turned under. Sod land should also be broken in the fall or winter. On land where there is no crop the plowing need only be done in time to allow the soil to settle before planting.

Lands plowed in spring should be harrowed a short time after plowing in order to prevent the loss of moisture. Fall-plowed land should be harrowed early in the spring and at intervals of a week or ten days until the peanuts are planted.

On soils fairly well drained level culture should be practiced, but where the drainage is poor it is advisable to throw up slight ridges upon which to plant the peanuts. Where water stand upon the ground for any considerable length of time peanuts should be planted on ridges, which should be as low and flat as the conditions will allow.

The peanut responds to the use of Commercial fertilizers when the soil contains a reasonable amount of humus, but on soils that are adapted to peanuts large amounts of fertilizers are not necessary. A mixture containing 2 per cent nitrogen, 6 to 8 per cent of phosphoric acid, and 6 to 8 per cent of potash is recommended for sandy or sandy-loam soils. This should be applied at the rate of 200 to 300 pounds to the acre depending upon the character of the soil. This year it will be difficult to get a fertilizer as high in potash as the one mentioned, but soils that have been well fertilized in the past should produce a good yield of peanuts with 3 or 4 per cent of potash in the mixture. The fertilizer is usually ap-

Nature Cures, The Doctor Takes Fees

There is an old saying that "Nature cures and the doctor takes the fee," but as everyone knows you can help Nature very much and thereby enable it to effect a cure in much less time than it usually requires. This is particularly true of colds. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy relieves the lungs, liquifies the tough mucus and aids in its expectoration, allays the cough and aids Nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition.

Constipation and Indigestion.

These are twin evils. Persons suffering from indigestion are often troubled with constipation. Mrs. Robert Allison, Mattoon, Ill., writes that she was a great sufferer from constipation and indigestion. Food distressed her and there was a feeling like a heavy weight pressing on her stomach and chest. She did not rest well at nights and felt worn out a good part of the time. One bottle of Chamberlain's Tablets corrected this trouble so that since she has felt like a different person.

SATURDAY afternoon
MAYOR Billie Smith called
A LOYALTY meeting at
THE Court House, and
WHEN I got there
BILLIE was oratin' in a
MANNER calculated to send
ALL the boys to
THE battle front in such A HURRY they'd forget to KISS their mothers and
SWEETHEARTS good-bye,
AND when he got thru,
W. J. HILL told that BREATHLESS crowd what they WERE there for, and
INTER ALIA, he said
HE came to Texas,
WITH his grand-father,
WHEN he
HIS grand-father,
WAS but a youth, and that
THERE aint enough
DUTCHMENS this side o'the
MOST POPULAR SYNONYM for WAR, to GIVE Mexico a
WARRANTY deed to TEXAS, and
OLE MITCH JOHNSON
GOT up and introduced
SOME resolutions
TO the effect that,
WHEREAS,
WE are now at war with the
IMP. Government of Germany
AND it aint none of
OUR FAULT,
THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED:
THAT we do our level best
TO bring the
MISUNDERSTANDING to a SUCCESSFUL terminus for
THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER
AND he was so full of
ENTHUSIASM
HE nearly choked, and when
HE STARTED readin'
HE DIDN'T just
PERSUE AUDIBLY, as one should
IN READING a douement to
A CROWD of people,
BUT HE sounded more like
A METHODIST preacher
AND HE didn't near PRONOUNCE some of the EUPHONOUS PHRASES, and
HE GOT so
DEAD EARNEST about it
HE STARTED to make a motion
THAT it be adopted, but
BILLIE SMITH had slipt out
AFTER more speakers, and
THERE wasn't any chairman to ENTERTAIN the motion, and
THEY called on me
TO SAY a word
TO KEEP 'em quiet
'TIL he got back, and when
I LOOKED in the bright faces of them
BRIGHT BOYS in that AUDIENCE
I COULDN'T think of nothing
BUT THEIR BURNING EAGERNESS, and I SAID:
"THE BOYS OF AMERICA ARE READY TO GO TO THE FRONT TO UPHOLD AMERICAN TRADITIONS
OF JUSTICE,
HONOR AND LIBERTY,
AND I was so overcome that
I STARTED to set down
IN CONFUSION
BUT the chairman returned
JUST THEN, and I
MADE A motion to adopt
MITCH'S resolutions, and
I WAS saved from DISGRACE
WELL, ever'body stood up
BEFORE Billie could hardly PUT the question; and
LEMME tell you!
THEY AINT any six
U. S. SENATORS could uv
FILLIBUSTERED
THEM resolutions and
THEN Billie said:
"WHAT next?" But
THEY wasn't satisfied
WITH them speeches of
OURS, and about that time
SOMEBODY spied Knight—
KNIGHT RECTOR, Jr.—
SITTIN' way back
LIKE he had come there
JUST to listen, but they never
HAD to drag him out to get
HIM to make a speech,
AND if he ever made one
IT was then
HE KNOWS European History
BY heart, and has been in
NEW YORK and knows a FEW things about
ECONOMICS, and what

WAR MEANS to us, but
HIS speech was
UNCONFED
AND he got so stirred up
BEFORE he was thru that
HE WAS add'n'
AH! Ah! to ever' word
JUST like a
HARDSHELL preacher, and STILL these patriots never HOLLERED "Nuff" and JIM BAKER of FORENSIC FAME, who was STANDIN' on the outside, but WANTIN' in, made his way to THE PLATFORM, upon the IMPORTUNITIES of that UNAPPEASABLE MULTITUDE,
and
JIM made the BIGGEST speech he EVER made in his life, for
HE HAD the BIGGEST subject, and his voice
TREMBLED too as he TOLD them that JUSTICE MAKES MIGHT, and PROVED it by the story of
GIDEON
AND HIS three hundred
BUT he wasn't
UNDERVALUING the importance
WHAT he meant was,
WE WILL WIN because
WE ARE RIGHT.
YOU would expect to see
PREACHERS' BOYS at a PLACE LIKE that, but I had
NO idea
A PREACHER was there, 'till the CHAIRMAN called on PASTOR LIGHT of the BAPTIST CHURCH, and that
PREACHER made the most
SENSIBLE appeal for a
THOUGHTFUL, considerate and
MODERATE attitude toward the GERMAN people
LIVING among us, that I EVER heard, and he
MADE us see that a man
WITHOUT a spark of love for
HIS native land must be
A DESPICABLE character
HE told us that he was born in
THE GOOBER state
AND that next to
TEXAS
HE LOVES Georgia's piney woods.
IT IS natural for these good
GERMAN people to FEEL kindly toward the LAND of their nativity, but
WE DO NOT doubt that
MOST of them, at least,
LOVE AMERICA MORE, and
THEY will
LOVE AMERICA BETTER, if
WE will help them to UNDERSTAND
THAT it is not
A WAR of conquest for GERMAN territory, or of HATHAD for the GERMAN race, but that it is
A WAR against the ideals of the PRUSSIAN DYNASTY and its PHILOSOPHY of
MILITARY OPPRESSION,
ALIAS, KAISERISM.
AFTER all, that
PREACHER was just as ENTHUSIASTIC in the belief that AMERICA is
"STAR led, to BUILD the world again,"
AS anybody there,
AND I believe that he'd make a good
CHAPLAIN in the
ARMY OF THE UNITED STATES
OF AMERICA.
Amen. BOB.

Mr. W. A. Smith, chairman, and citizens of San Saba county, assembled in mass:—
We, your committee on resolutions,
respectfully submit the following:
WHEREAS, The United States of America have, thru their President and congress, declared war upon the Imperial Government of Germany,
and,
WHEREAS, we are Americans,
faithful to American ideals of justice,
liberty and humanity, and are confident that the government did exert its most earnest efforts to keep us
at peace with the world,
Therefore be it resolved;
1st. That we hereby declare our absolute and unconditional loyalty to the government of the United States and pledge our support to President
Woodrow Wilson in protecting American rights against unlawful violence upon land and sea, in guarding the nation against hostile attacks, and in upholding international rights.
2nd. That we urge and preach loyalty and patriotism above everything else.
3rd. That we encourage preparedness by observing the strictest economy in living, thus consperring our economic resources and making them available to the use of our government in the prosecution of a righteous war.
4th. That we organize a home guard for the purpose of local protection, the detection of enemy spies or sympathizers and for the better encouragement of the above named purposes.
5th. That we shall strictly treat all foreigners as our friends so long as they remain loyal to the government of the United States of America, but that we shall conduct ourselves at

SHOW YOUR PATRIOTISM
To the Citizens of San Saba:
The congress of the United States,
supporting President Woodrow Wilson, has declared that a state of war exists between the United States and the imperial German government, as a result of Germany's ruthless, cruel and savage submarine warfare, and has authorized the President to take such steps as may be necessary for the protection of American lives on the high seas and the maintenance of the nation's honor.
The clock has struck the hour.
The nation faces a situation, the most serious in all its history. It is a time when our people should place patriotism above business; a time which calls for the fullest demonstration of loyalty and of nation-wide support of the President and the flag.
I believe, therefore, that our town and community should give expression to its patriotism in no unmistakable manner and thereby set a fitting example for all other communities in the state, and to this end I respectfully, tho earnestly and seriously, urge that all residents of San Saba town display the national flag at their homes, at or upon all places of business, the public school building and the county court house; thus teaching patriotism to our children and giving concrete expression to our loyalty to the republic and thus showing that we stand squarely and unreservedly behind the President and Congress in the defense of American honor on land and sea.

Miss Elmyra Wheeler Answers To The Call of Death.

After an illness of some ten weeks caused from cancer of the stomach, Miss Elmyra Wheeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Wheeler, died on Saturday morning, April 7th about 2 a. m. in the home of her brother, Daniel Wheeler in the neighborhood of Wallace creek.

She was born Feb. 25th, 1865, in New Braunsfel, Texas, and came to this county with her parents in early life, locating in Wallace Creek community. After the death of their parents, some years ago, she and her brother, Daniel, continued to live together and her death to him will be specially sad and she will be greatly missed.
She was converted some 31 years ago at Wallace creek under the ministry of Rev. S. M. Lewis and Rev. N. T. Straghorn and united with the Cumberland Presbyterian Church on Sept. 14th, 1886, with Rev. N. T. Straghorn Moderator.

Her membership was transferred to San Saba church in 1888. She lived a consecrated Christian life.
Funeral services were conducted by Rev. D. H. Kirkpatrick, Pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian church in the presence of a large body of sorrowing friends. Interment was made in the Wallace Creek cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Winkle and Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Dockery, Miss Nell Winkle, of Llano, George Gaddy, Miss Addie Jones were picnics last Thursday evening, on the river.

FEROL ONNOLEE LEGGETT.

Miss Leggett has won an enviable place among the leading operatic singers and will appear as the soprano of the Hinshaw Conservatory Party. The company is fortunate in having such a splendid voice for its foundation.

HAZEL BROWN.

Miss Brown, contralto, is a woman of splendid presence, admirably suited to the part of Katsisha in "Mikado," being naturally of a dramatic temperament. Her voice is glorious, rich and full, and has an appealing quality that wins friends and applause instantly. She is with the Hinshaw Conservatory Party on the first day of the Chattanooga.

BERNICE HARDY DUGGAN.

Miss Duggan is the Reader with the Lone Star Ladies' Trio. She is a Texan, born and educated in the southland with the very best advantages in her chosen line of work—Expression and Dramatic Art. Her audiences may confidently expect a program which will both entertain and captivate the most critical listener.

OVERHAULING

Honest Work at Honest Prices

There are two highly important points for a man to consider before having his car overhauled.

The first point is to assure himself that the men who are going to work on his car are mechanics expert enough to locate and properly repair all the parts that need attention.

The second point is to convince himself that he can trust the shop to give him an honest accounting of the amount of work that was actually done on the car.

We gladly welcome an investigation on both of these points. We have the facilities, the workmen and the business methods that will more than satisfy all who investigate.

WHITT BROS. MOTOR CO.

RUN OVER BY FORD

D. A. Autry was run down by a Ford, driven by Walter Fry, on East Wallace Street, early Monday morning, and received injuries from which he had to remain in his room all of Monday.

Mr. Fry was trying to avoid collision with another car coming up the side street when the accident occurred and witnesses say it was impossible to avoid the accident.

Mr. Autry was able to be up town Tuesday morning, but keeping his eyes upon the Fords.
