Railroad is at Spearman

At last we can announce to our readers that the railroad is running into Spearman and the whistle of the locomotive is heard in our fair land. The construction crew will reach the Spearman townsite today, will finish laying steel on the main line tomorrow and begin work on the switches Monday. A depot agent is expected to arrive and begin receiving freight Monday or Tuesday. Hansford, for once in its long and uneventful lifetime, is on the qui vive. A mad rush to move to the new town is expected to hit this old burg full in the face on Monday morning, October 20, at 8:00 o'clock. John Dailey, official house-mover of Guyton, has been here this week negotiating with property owners and it is thought that he will do a considerable portion of the moving of Hansford to Spearman. It is reported that Spearman is to have a four-stall round house, but that won't be a starter. When our oil fields are developed and refineries are built, when our natural resources just begin to be developed, a four-stall round house will be inadequate. Watch Spearman grow.

Oil Wells and Everything

Verily Hansford county and the immediate vicinity is coming into her own, and the development of her resources is beginning to take on a noticeable appearance. The material for the derrick of the Coble-Eyewood oil well is now being placed on the site. The contractors on this job have been handicapped on account of the difficulty in getting the material for the derrick across the Canadian river, but expect to begin drilling about November 1. This location is in Hutchinson county, twenty miles south of Hansford. The derrick is up and everything is in readiness to begin drilling the Beaver Oil and Gas Company's well, twenty-five miles north of Hansford. At last report they were waiting the arrival of an engine, which was expected to arrive the first of this week, when the drilling would begin. The actual work of drilling in the immediate vicinity of Hansford has been deferred, waiting the arrival of the railroad at Spearman, as hauling the material from other roads was considered too expensive to be practicable. However, the locations have been made, the Panhandle Lumber Co.'s yard at Spearman specializes in oil well outfits, so we may confidently expect to hear of a rig being erected on the Palo Duro at an early date. Geologists say that stronger indications of oil are found in the Palo Duro basin than on either the Coldwater or Canadian. Several companies are all ready, with locations made, to begin operations as soon as the material for derrick and rig can be bought at Spearman. Sit steady in the boat; things are coming our way.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Close are happy over the arrival on the 10th inst., of a fine boy at their home.

George W. Matze is reported to be seriously sick at the home of his son Finis Matze, six miles east of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Brandt journeyed to Buffalo, Oklahoma, last Sunday, returning Monday accompanied by Mrs. F. C. McCorkle, who will visit definitely at the Brandt home in Hansford.

A Word to the Wise

A wise man would not think of being without a bank account—large or small—any more than the wise little squirrel would think of going through the summer without storing up nuts for the winter.

We should all be wiser than the squirrel.

Think it over—then act.

Promised Relief

The Panhandle-Plains Chamber of Commerce is always on the job working for the good of the Panhandle farmer and stockman. Recently they have been beseeching the powers that be at Washington to send cars to the Panhandle to move the wheat. They made the appeal by wire to the Interstate Commerce Commission on the 7th inst. and on the 10th inst. received the following answer to their telegram from Washington:

"Director General of railroads has requested shipping board provide more russels Galveston and has requested grain corporation move much wheat as possible from Galveston. Has ordered his regional directors to provide cars and movement for all that can be unloaded from cars at destination, giving preference to wheat on the ground. Please advise others interested. Signed, McGINTY, Secretary.

Since our earliest recollection we have believed that McGinty was at the bottom of the sea, and several times during the past two years we have wished that the entire force of government employees in charge of the railways were there. Now it seems that the old song is all wrong and that McGinty is no where near the middle of the sea, but is a resident of Washington, D. C., and holds an important government job. Frank Jamison, secretary of the Panhandle-Plains C. of C., is always doing things for the panhandle, but in his eagerness to relieve the car shortage situation, has nearly "ruined" a fine old song.

The Well at Spearman

The well-at-Spearman committee of the Hansford County Chamber of Commerce report satisfactory progress being made and assure us that Spearman will soon be supplied with an abundance of water. They have recently received the bids of several different drillers and expect to let the contract for the drilling within the next few days. All the finer details are being worked out and work on the well will begin as soon as a driller has been selected and the material arrives.

Cap Bernstein was in from his fine ranch on the north flats Wednesday, and reports splendid rains in his community.

Grandpa O. P. Combs, who has been on the sick list for the past several weeks, is considerably improved at this writing.

Considerable complaint is heard among the farmer folk that the work of wheat sowing and plowing is far behind schedule, occasioned by the rains of the past two weeks and scarcity of help.

Horace Weaver and J. H. Buchanan, local sports, and George Hays of Hazleton, Kansas, were out on the waterfowl and duck hunting last week. They report having found several ducks.

Will Build Real Roads

The new machinery for the county road grading is now at Perryton and will be brought here and given a thorough test at an early date. If the machinery proves to be satisfactory, the work of grading our roads will be begun at once. J. H. Buchanan will have charge of the elevator road building machine and we understand the first job to be tackled is to build a civilized road leading out of Hansford toward Spearman. It begins to look now like we are to really have some passable roads in Hansford county. Amen, and three cheers for our board of county commissioners. We understand, also, that John Graham has made a deal with the commissioners to build a road leading east out of Hansford, according to the survey recently made by T. O. James. Let the good work go on and on, and let us repeat, three cheers for our county commissioners.

Exchanged Farms

J. T. Warren and J. O. Adams, real estate dealers of Clarendon, arrived in Hansford Wednesday night, coming here with B. F. Wallin of the Grand Plains community and M. L. Putman of Hedley, to iron out the finer points and put the finishing touches to a deal wherein Mr. Wallin exchanges his farm, sixteen miles northwest of Hansford, with Mr. Putman for a farm two miles from Clarendon. Mr. Wallin informs us that he will move to Clarendon at once, having bought the P. M. Woodring home there, and that Mr. Woodring and family intend to go to California, where they will reside in the future. A. P. and F. R. Wallin, sons of B. F. Wallin, are also moving to Clarendon. Mr. Putman will move out from Hedley to his newly acquired possessions in the early spring. He is a nice appearing gentleman and we gladly welcome him to our midst. We regret that the Messrs. Wallin are leaving Hansford county. They are successful farmers and good citizens.

Will the gentleman who took the two pairs of double-trees off of two-row godevil north of P. M. Matze & Co.'s store please return same. They are mine and I need them.

RED CROSS ARMY NOW MOBILIZING

STATE CONFERENCES RECENTLY HELD IN SIX CITIES TO DISCUSS PLANS.

FIGHTING MEN VOLUNTEER

Responses by the Hundreds Pouring In to Appeal For 1,000,000 Workers.

Mobilization of the vast army of Red Cross workers has begun. Reports reaching Red Cross division headquarters in St. Louis indicate that plans for the Third Roll Call, November 2 to 11, are well under way in almost every one of the 655 Red Cross Chapters in the five states—Missouri, Kansas, Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas—comprising the Southwestern Division.

Chapter Roll Call Directors have been appointed in virtually every city, town and county and with but few exceptions working organizations are in process of formation at each place. State Directors have been appointed to take charge of the rapidly forming machine. Added impetus has been given to the preliminary campaign by the holding of State-wide Roll Call conferences recently at St. Louis, Topeka, Dallas, Houston, Oklahoma City and Little Rock, at which definite campaign plans affecting every section of each State in the division were decided upon.

Meanwhile, responses to the call for 1,000,000 volunteer workers to serve during the coming drive are pouring in by the hundreds to Red Cross headquarters. "Once a Red Cross worker, always a Red Cross worker" is the slogan adopted. Soldiers, sailors and marines, some of whom were in the thick of the fighting overseas, are offering their services. Many of these men will be utilized as speakers to describe some of the benefits accruing to the fighting men by reason of the presence of the Red Cross in the field of hostilities.

During the first part of the campaign there will be a house-to-house canvassing for Red Cross memberships under a distinct arrangement; but on the last two days district lines will be disregarded and former service men as well as women volunteer workers will take up their tasks with roving commissions. Not only are discharged service men wanted as Red Cross canvassers but State and National Guardsmen are urged to enroll as quickly as possible. The Red Cross welcomes assistance of all former Army and Navy officers and men who approved of the work of the Red Cross during the war.

Speakers and writers are being sought by the organization and asked to "do their bit." Numerous acceptances already have been received from speakers and at present a determined effort is being made to obtain the services of all newspaper men who saw service overseas and are qualified to speak or write of their adventures. A preliminary campaign is being waged through text posters and other printed matter that has been sent to throughout the country.

Red Cross officials are stressing the point that the drive is to be made for memberships only and that no appeal is contemplated wherein the general public will be asked for funds. An encouraging number of public spirited men and women through the division already have applied at Red Cross Chapters asking a renewal of their memberships for next year.

Honesty the Best Policy.

"Did you ever buy votes?"
"No," replied Senator Sorghum. "I always thought that an effort to buy a man's vote was as good a reason as you could possibly put into his mind for voting against you."

Unfortified.

"That man has a most agreeable personality and a very persuasive address, yet he never seems to get anywhere."
"Yes," replied Mr. Dustin Stax. "It's a case of wonderful salesmanship, with nothing to sell."

AROUND THE WORLD WITH THE AMERICAN RED CROSS.

In Roumania.

Soon after the entrance of the United States in the war the successes of the Central Powers in Roumania had reduced that country to a most tragic condition and in the summer of 1917, the American Red Cross dispatched its first Roumanian relief contingent. Two hospitals were at once taken over and operated by the Red Cross, a canteen for the starving refugees established and food and clothing distributed over a large area.

Transportation was one of the toughest problems with which the Red Cross workers in Roumania had to deal. Here is seen an oxcart used by the Red Cross to carry its relief supplies up into the mountains.

HAD CHRONIC BRONCHITIS FOR TWENTY-SIX YEARS NOW WELL AND HAPPY THIS IS WORTH READING

The experience of Mr. E. J. Touppalik, 1438 Rose street, LaCrosse, Wisconsin, is chiefly remarkable on account of the length of time he was afflicted.

He writes: "I have been suffering with chronic bronchitis for twenty-six years and every winter I would catch cold and become so hoarse I could not speak for six or eight weeks. I could get only temporary relief.

"This winter I was taken with Grip and was in awful shape. A fellow workman advised me to take PE-RU-NA. By the time I had used three-fourths of a bottle, the hoarseness was gone, also that tired feeling. I am on my second bottle. Hereafter PE-RU-NA will be constantly in my house. It is the best medicine ever put up for the purpose."

For any disease due to catarrh or catarrhal conditions, PE-RU-NA is equally dependable. Coughs, colds, catarrh of the head, stomach trouble, constipation, rheumatism, pains in the back, side and loins, bloating, belching gas, indigestion, catarrh of the large and small intestines, are some of the troubles for which PE-RU-NA is especially recommended.

PE-RU-NA can be purchased anywhere in either tablet or liquid form.

POSTERS FEATURE DRIVE

ONE NAMED "THE SPIRIT OF AMERICA" BY ARTIST.

Foremost Painters Portray "Greatest Mother in the World" and Red Cross Nurse.

The services of some of the foremost artists in the country have been obtained in connection with the Third Red Cross Roll Call, November 2 to 11. Posters by Howard Christy and Haskell Coffin are features of a preliminary text poster campaign that is being inaugurated.

The Red Cross nurse is also the subject of the poster by Coffin. This is in pastel shades and portrays one of the merciful workers with arms outstretched in supplication. The poster bears only the inscription "Third Red Cross Roll Call." Another poster has to do with the better health program of the Red Cross and has the "Greatest Mother" as a background to a text which reads "Make our Red Cross in Peace as in War—The Greatest Mother in the World."

More than 40,000 window displays are being prepared for use in mercantile stores throughout the country. Department stores in the larger cities have promised to feature these displays during the Roll Call period. Special moving picture slides and motion news pictures have been arranged for and will be provided for use prior to and during the campaign.

From The Depths

By VICTOR REDCLIFFE

(Copyright, 1915 by the Western Newspaper Union.)

"Go in and win her, Maxwell. You've got everything in your favor—money, position, good looks."

Grant Maxwell perked up considerably. He considered the compliment well bestowed. A presumptuous, conceited individual, he did not pause to number other qualifications that he did not possess, but which might have a good deal to do with Miss Vera Gordon's ideal of a perfect man.

"I fancy I've made a hit already," he observed with an air of confidence.

"Of course Wayne Merton is quite a favorite with the Gordons," went on Maxwell's friend, "but his humdrum ways are no comparison to your fetching qualities, hey?"

"That's all!" blared forth Maxwell in a really riotous way. "How I hate him! They say he has money, but he doesn't show it. He'll never last with the exclusive and aristocratic Gordons, though, I can tell you that. Between you and me a little investigation on my part has brought to light a solution of his mysterious past to which he never refers. When the tactical moment arrives I have a mine to spring."

And the man of egotism and vanity went his way, puffed up over the cheap and insincere admiration of a hypocritical friend and chucking as he reflected over the clever trap he had set to discredit Wayne Merton.

Maxwell had reason to dislike and fear his rival. While all the Gordons knew about him was that he was reported of independent means, he had attracted Vera because he was so different to the average young man of her set. It was a pleasure to have his company. She knew he was the author of a series of powerful and practical articles in the newspapers along philanthropic lines. He depicted in these the crying needs of the poor, the ignorant and the oppressed. She had been fascinated while attending a lecture he delivered.

Vera had done considerable in church relief work and was absorbed in it. The evenings when Maxwell called had little interest for her. His curriculum began with golf and ended with automobiling. He had no inspiration of imagination and helpfulness.

Maxwell felt very sanguine of making a "ten-sidke" one day as he called upon Vera. He had got fully ready to extinguish Merton. An adjunct to his plot was a police sergeant whom he had bribed and cajoled into assisting him in a certain way.

"Miss Gordon," said Maxwell, "my cousin, Miss Bruce, has come to the city for a week. She is quite a social worker and is anxious to see something of the sunny side of life. I have arranged to give her a view of a police court session. Wouldn't you like to join us?"

Vera was at once interested and the next morning Maxwell and Miss Bruce called for her. His automobile landed them at the police station and the trio entered the courtroom. The experience was novel, pathetic, illuminating all at once to the two young ladies. They were serious, shocked to tears at times, as poor humanity was paraded before them in various appealing guises. Then Maxwell suggested that they view the station routine. In its main room a police sergeant met them and showed them the cells, the food given the prisoners and told of the daily grist that went through the mill of justice.

"A terrible record these books contain," he observed, placing his hand on a heap of large volumes. "That is an old one—1911," added the sergeant as Maxwell casually, apparently, opened a book.

"Look, Miss Gordon," spoke the latter; "nearly fifty names to the page. Why, it can't be possible! Wayne Merton, disorderly, age twenty-two; fined ten dollars and costs."

"Oh, that cannot be our Mr. Merton!" spoke Vera, startled and with a quick catch in her breath.

"What's the name? Wayne Merton," spoke up the sergeant. "He was a pretty regular old timer. Drink was his failing. Haven't heard from him of late years," and then the speaker described the man he was speaking of and Vera turned sick at heart, for the description of that Wayne Merton precisely accorded in general terms with that of her Wayne Merton.

"I'd like to show you our rogues' gallery," said the sergeant, and Maxwell and Miss Bruce followed him. Vera did not join them. She stood pale and agitated, her eyes fixed upon the record book where the name of Wayne Merton appeared. The police clerk stared strangely as he noted a tear fall upon the soiled page.

"Do you know Wayne Merton, miss?" he asked. "It is a name we are very proud of. For two years he seemed trying to drown his grief over the death of two sisters. About three years ago all of a sudden he found his right mind. Ever heard of the Refuge home? Well, many a tramp can tell you who built it—Wayne Merton. They say he gave half his fortune to supply a cheap hotel for poor country girls coming to the city to find work."

And now the tears flooded the fair face of Vera Gordon, but for joy. "I heard of him!" she whispered in a sudden exclamation: "and I
