

Our Relations with France.—We learn with great regret that the present state of our diplomatic relations with the Court of the Tuileries is of the most untoward and unpromising character.

Whigs '34, and voted the Bank Panic ticket; another with equal recollection affirms that 'Every Abolitionist in the late Ohio Election strenuously supported the Van Buren tickets.'

New-York.—Our State Election appears to have been a very quiet and good-natured affair throughout; the whole number of votes cast being scarcely half so many as were given last year.

A Town Meeting of the friends of Gen. Harrison was held in Philadelphia on Monday. Benjamin Duncan, Esq., late Sheriff of the City and County, presided.

BETTERS FROM MR. BROOKS.—No. XXX. MEN AND THINGS IN LONDON.—HOUSE OF COMMONS.

The most circumstantial as well as simple view of the point on which the two Governments are at issue, is given in the Courier of Monday—unofficial, of course, and therefore not unlikely to be erroneous or imperfect in some particular, but in its main features substantiated by the facts which have otherwise transpired, and the whole attitude of the two Cabinets.

There is the greater necessity for disabusing the South on this head, when we see that the strenuous efforts of sundry journals in this State and at Washington to make something politically out of the excitement at the South against Abolition, is giving rise in that quarter to a very exaggerated estimate of the strength of the agitators.

For Senators, no regular opposition was made to the Administration candidates except in the Eighth District, though Ambrose L. Jordan was voted for in some Counties of the Third, Gen. John Stewart in the Fourth (Essex), Ziba A. Leland in the Sixth, (Cortland), and Henry W. Taylor in the Seventh, (Ontario).

Patrick G. Goode, Esq. (Whig) has been returned elected to the Senate of Ohio, instead of John E. Hunt, Esq. (Adm.) who was set down in our list.

After some preliminaries, such as the settlement of a divorce case, which must be a very sorry case by the way, if not in the love list, in the cost of the suit—for every private bill in Parliament costs about $2500,—and after an old looking figure had come in from the Lords bowing and scraping to the Speaker, the House opened with a roll call.

Mr. Rothschild hereupon addressed a letter to the President, assuring him, unofficially, that if he would but communicate officially to the French Government his approval of the letter of Mr. Livingston to that Government on quitting Paris, it would be deemed satisfactory, and the money paid over.

There is the greater necessity for disabusing the South on this head, when we see that the strenuous efforts of sundry journals in this State and at Washington to make something politically out of the excitement at the South against Abolition, is giving rise in that quarter to a very exaggerated estimate of the strength of the agitators.

For Senators, no regular opposition was made to the Administration candidates except in the Eighth District, though Ambrose L. Jordan was voted for in some Counties of the Third, Gen. John Stewart in the Fourth (Essex), Ziba A. Leland in the Sixth, (Cortland), and Henry W. Taylor in the Seventh, (Ontario).

Patrick G. Goode, Esq. (Whig) has been returned elected to the Senate of Ohio, instead of John E. Hunt, Esq. (Adm.) who was set down in our list.

After some preliminaries, such as the settlement of a divorce case, which must be a very sorry case by the way, if not in the love list, in the cost of the suit—for every private bill in Parliament costs about $2500,—and after an old looking figure had come in from the Lords bowing and scraping to the Speaker, the House opened with a roll call.

So much for the reports from Paris; but, on the back of these, we have a statement that a gentleman of Philadelphia, who enjoys the confidence of the Administration, recently declared that our Chargé d'Affaires at the French Court, has written such a letter to the French Ministry, under the instruction of the President, as cannot fail to produce a war in six months!

There is the greater necessity for disabusing the South on this head, when we see that the strenuous efforts of sundry journals in this State and at Washington to make something politically out of the excitement at the South against Abolition, is giving rise in that quarter to a very exaggerated estimate of the strength of the agitators.

For Senators, no regular opposition was made to the Administration candidates except in the Eighth District, though Ambrose L. Jordan was voted for in some Counties of the Third, Gen. John Stewart in the Fourth (Essex), Ziba A. Leland in the Sixth, (Cortland), and Henry W. Taylor in the Seventh, (Ontario).

Patrick G. Goode, Esq. (Whig) has been returned elected to the Senate of Ohio, instead of John E. Hunt, Esq. (Adm.) who was set down in our list.

After some preliminaries, such as the settlement of a divorce case, which must be a very sorry case by the way, if not in the love list, in the cost of the suit—for every private bill in Parliament costs about $2500,—and after an old looking figure had come in from the Lords bowing and scraping to the Speaker, the House opened with a roll call.

And now, relative to the whole business—we have reason to consider that, so far as the proceedings detailed in the intelligence from Paris are regarded, our Government is in the right.

There is the greater necessity for disabusing the South on this head, when we see that the strenuous efforts of sundry journals in this State and at Washington to make something politically out of the excitement at the South against Abolition, is giving rise in that quarter to a very exaggerated estimate of the strength of the agitators.

For Senators, no regular opposition was made to the Administration candidates except in the Eighth District, though Ambrose L. Jordan was voted for in some Counties of the Third, Gen. John Stewart in the Fourth (Essex), Ziba A. Leland in the Sixth, (Cortland), and Henry W. Taylor in the Seventh, (Ontario).

Patrick G. Goode, Esq. (Whig) has been returned elected to the Senate of Ohio, instead of John E. Hunt, Esq. (Adm.) who was set down in our list.

After some preliminaries, such as the settlement of a divorce case, which must be a very sorry case by the way, if not in the love list, in the cost of the suit—for every private bill in Parliament costs about $2500,—and after an old looking figure had come in from the Lords bowing and scraping to the Speaker, the House opened with a roll call.

It seems to us most palpable that the aspects now presented by this question afford a severe practical satire on the instincts of civilization and the subtleties of modern diplomacy. Here are two mighty nations, each perfectly invincible on its own soil and each miserably calculated to invade that of the other—each profiting to the amount of millions annually by their reciprocal commerce—each having vital interests which must be prostrated by even a suspension by the existing intercourse between them—each at this moment at heart appreciating the resources, respecting the character, and not bearing any malice against the people or the Government of the other—apparently about to plunge into a war which must cost hundreds of millions to either and involve the butchery of countless thousands of their citizens—and what? Not the acts of injustice which were the original cause of difference: for the one is ready to pay and the other to receive a stipulated sum in full satisfaction of the claim; but on a mere question of court etiquette, a matter of precedence, a point-a-point quibble, or not even sufficient consequence to give dignity to its discussion.

There is the greater necessity for disabusing the South on this head, when we see that the strenuous efforts of sundry journals in this State and at Washington to make something politically out of the excitement at the South against Abolition, is giving rise in that quarter to a very exaggerated estimate of the strength of the agitators.

For Senators, no regular opposition was made to the Administration candidates except in the Eighth District, though Ambrose L. Jordan was voted for in some Counties of the Third, Gen. John Stewart in the Fourth (Essex), Ziba A. Leland in the Sixth, (Cortland), and Henry W. Taylor in the Seventh, (Ontario).

Patrick G. Goode, Esq. (Whig) has been returned elected to the Senate of Ohio, instead of John E. Hunt, Esq. (Adm.) who was set down in our list.

After some preliminaries, such as the settlement of a divorce case, which must be a very sorry case by the way, if not in the love list, in the cost of the suit—for every private bill in Parliament costs about $2500,—and after an old looking figure had come in from the Lords bowing and scraping to the Speaker, the House opened with a roll call.

A Few Words to the South.—We have firmly resolved to have nothing more to say, in the present posture of affairs, in direct relation to the agitating topics connected with the subject of Slavery and Abolition.

There is the greater necessity for disabusing the South on this head, when we see that the strenuous efforts of sundry journals in this State and at Washington to make something politically out of the excitement at the South against Abolition, is giving rise in that quarter to a very exaggerated estimate of the strength of the agitators.

For Senators, no regular opposition was made to the Administration candidates except in the Eighth District, though Ambrose L. Jordan was voted for in some Counties of the Third, Gen. John Stewart in the Fourth (Essex), Ziba A. Leland in the Sixth, (Cortland), and Henry W. Taylor in the Seventh, (Ontario).

Patrick G. Goode, Esq. (Whig) has been returned elected to the Senate of Ohio, instead of John E. Hunt, Esq. (Adm.) who was set down in our list.

After some preliminaries, such as the settlement of a divorce case, which must be a very sorry case by the way, if not in the love list, in the cost of the suit—for every private bill in Parliament costs about $2500,—and after an old looking figure had come in from the Lords bowing and scraping to the Speaker, the House opened with a roll call.

For Lieutenant Governor the contest has been more equal. Mr. Hill, the Whig candidate, was nominated a few weeks since by a Legislative Caucus, and the inquiry appears to have been urged with some reason as well as pertinacity.—Who is George Hill? He is said to be a Mason; while his opponent, Hon. William Foster, avowed himself an Anti-Mason, and received the nomination and unanimous support of the Anti-Masonic party.

There is the greater necessity for disabusing the South on this head, when we see that the strenuous efforts of sundry journals in this State and at Washington to make something politically out of the excitement at the South against Abolition, is giving rise in that quarter to a very exaggerated estimate of the strength of the agitators.

For Senators, no regular opposition was made to the Administration candidates except in the Eighth District, though Ambrose L. Jordan was voted for in some Counties of the Third, Gen. John Stewart in the Fourth (Essex), Ziba A. Leland in the Sixth, (Cortland), and Henry W. Taylor in the Seventh, (Ontario).

Patrick G. Goode, Esq. (Whig) has been returned elected to the Senate of Ohio, instead of John E. Hunt, Esq. (Adm.) who was set down in our list.

After some preliminaries, such as the settlement of a divorce case, which must be a very sorry case by the way, if not in the love list, in the cost of the suit—for every private bill in Parliament costs about $2500,—and after an old looking figure had come in from the Lords bowing and scraping to the Speaker, the House opened with a roll call.

We believe no doubt exists of a strong Whig majority in the House of Representatives.

There is the greater necessity for disabusing the South on this head, when we see that the strenuous efforts of sundry journals in this State and at Washington to make something politically out of the excitement at the South against Abolition, is giving rise in that quarter to a very exaggerated estimate of the strength of the agitators.

For Senators, no regular opposition was made to the Administration candidates except in the Eighth District, though Ambrose L. Jordan was voted for in some Counties of the Third, Gen. John Stewart in the Fourth (Essex), Ziba A. Leland in the Sixth, (Cortland), and Henry W. Taylor in the Seventh, (Ontario).

Patrick G. Goode, Esq. (Whig) has been returned elected to the Senate of Ohio, instead of John E. Hunt, Esq. (Adm.) who was set down in our list.

After some preliminaries, such as the settlement of a divorce case, which must be a very sorry case by the way, if not in the love list, in the cost of the suit—for every private bill in Parliament costs about $2500,—and after an old looking figure had come in from the Lords bowing and scraping to the Speaker, the House opened with a roll call.

We allude to the very exceptional attempts which are now making by certain political journals of either Nationality to create the impression at the South that the Abolitionists are almost exclusively of the opposite party from their own.

There is the greater necessity for disabusing the South on this head, when we see that the strenuous efforts of sundry journals in this State and at Washington to make something politically out of the excitement at the South against Abolition, is giving rise in that quarter to a very exaggerated estimate of the strength of the agitators.

For Senators, no regular opposition was made to the Administration candidates except in the Eighth District, though Ambrose L. Jordan was voted for in some Counties of the Third, Gen. John Stewart in the Fourth (Essex), Ziba A. Leland in the Sixth, (Cortland), and Henry W. Taylor in the Seventh, (Ontario).

Patrick G. Goode, Esq. (Whig) has been returned elected to the Senate of Ohio, instead of John E. Hunt, Esq. (Adm.) who was set down in our list.

After some preliminaries, such as the settlement of a divorce case, which must be a very sorry case by the way, if not in the love list, in the cost of the suit—for every private bill in Parliament costs about $2500,—and after an old looking figure had come in from the Lords bowing and scraping to the Speaker, the House opened with a roll call.

Ohio.—We have exercised patience as well as some industry in endeavoring to compile a tolerably full table of votes cast at the recent election in Ohio, but thus far with indifferent success, owing to scantiness of the materials which have reached us.

There is the greater necessity for disabusing the South on this head, when we see that the strenuous efforts of sundry journals in this State and at Washington to make something politically out of the excitement at the South against Abolition, is giving rise in that quarter to a very exaggerated estimate of the strength of the agitators.

For Senators, no regular opposition was made to the Administration candidates except in the Eighth District, though Ambrose L. Jordan was voted for in some Counties of the Third, Gen. John Stewart in the Fourth (Essex), Ziba A. Leland in the Sixth, (Cortland), and Henry W. Taylor in the Seventh, (Ontario).

Patrick G. Goode, Esq. (Whig) has been returned elected to the Senate of Ohio, instead of John E. Hunt, Esq. (Adm.) who was set down in our list.

After some preliminaries, such as the settlement of a divorce case, which must be a very sorry case by the way, if not in the love list, in the cost of the suit—for every private bill in Parliament costs about $2500,—and after an old looking figure had come in from the Lords bowing and scraping to the Speaker, the House opened with a roll call.

We entreat the South, therefore, when public journals, professing untrusting and extraordinary zeal in her cause, shall continue to reiterate such statements as daily meet our eye, implicating this or that party as the open or secret abettors or apologists of the Abolition movement, to scrutinize well the motive, and to judge whether partisan zeal and partisan unscrupulousness are not quite as characteristic of their general character as devotion to the South or to the Union.

There is the greater necessity for disabusing the South on this head, when we see that the strenuous efforts of sundry journals in this State and at Washington to make something politically out of the excitement at the South against Abolition, is giving rise in that quarter to a very exaggerated estimate of the strength of the agitators.

For Senators, no regular opposition was made to the Administration candidates except in the Eighth District, though Ambrose L. Jordan was voted for in some Counties of the Third, Gen. John Stewart in the Fourth (Essex), Ziba A. Leland in the Sixth, (Cortland), and Henry W. Taylor in the Seventh, (Ontario).

Patrick G. Goode, Esq. (Whig) has been returned elected to the Senate of Ohio, instead of John E. Hunt, Esq. (Adm.) who was set down in our list.

After some preliminaries, such as the settlement of a divorce case, which must be a very sorry case by the way, if not in the love list, in the cost of the suit—for every private bill in Parliament costs about $2500,—and after an old looking figure had come in from the Lords bowing and scraping to the Speaker, the House opened with a roll call.

NEW-YORK.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.
'Day Dream' (P. O.) is accepted, and should appear soon.
'Lins' (L. H.) is so peculiarly appropriate that it will appear at once...

From the Rev. River Herald Extra.
LATE NEWS FROM TEXAS.
Nacogoches, La. Oct. 15, 1855.
The following letters were received, letter last evening by an express which left St. Augustine on Tuesday at sundown.

Gen. Menzies - It is with the liveliest emotion that the Committee of Safety of this municipality acknowledge the receipt of the preamble and resolutions of the meeting of the citizens of Natchitoches, adopted so patriotically on the 7th ult.

War is declared against military aggression. Public opinion has proclaimed it by one united voice; the campaign has opened. The military of Bejar have advanced upon Gonzales.

History of the Barbary States - The Barbary States, by Rev. Michael Russell, with a map and Engravings. Form No. 1, 1855.

Robbery - The Manhattan Bank was robbed on Monday afternoon last of two trunks containing bonds, notes, &c.

Robbery - The Manhattan Bank was robbed on Monday afternoon last of two trunks containing bonds, notes, &c.

Robbery - The Manhattan Bank was robbed on Monday afternoon last of two trunks containing bonds, notes, &c.

Robbery - The Manhattan Bank was robbed on Monday afternoon last of two trunks containing bonds, notes, &c.

From the Rev. River Herald Extra.
Commencement of the New-York and Erie Railroad - It is with feelings of the highest satisfaction that we announce the important intelligence, that the construction of this great work...

From the Rev. River Herald Extra.
LATE NEWS FROM TEXAS.
Nacogoches, La. Oct. 15, 1855.
The following letters were received, letter last evening by an express which left St. Augustine on Tuesday at sundown.

From the Rev. River Herald Extra.
LATE NEWS FROM TEXAS.
Nacogoches, La. Oct. 15, 1855.
The following letters were received, letter last evening by an express which left St. Augustine on Tuesday at sundown.

From the Rev. River Herald Extra.
LATE NEWS FROM TEXAS.
Nacogoches, La. Oct. 15, 1855.
The following letters were received, letter last evening by an express which left St. Augustine on Tuesday at sundown.

From the Rev. River Herald Extra.
LATE NEWS FROM TEXAS.
Nacogoches, La. Oct. 15, 1855.
The following letters were received, letter last evening by an express which left St. Augustine on Tuesday at sundown.

From the Rev. River Herald Extra.
LATE NEWS FROM TEXAS.
Nacogoches, La. Oct. 15, 1855.
The following letters were received, letter last evening by an express which left St. Augustine on Tuesday at sundown.

From the Rev. River Herald Extra.
LATE NEWS FROM TEXAS.
Nacogoches, La. Oct. 15, 1855.
The following letters were received, letter last evening by an express which left St. Augustine on Tuesday at sundown.

From the Rev. River Herald Extra.
LATE NEWS FROM TEXAS.
Nacogoches, La. Oct. 15, 1855.
The following letters were received, letter last evening by an express which left St. Augustine on Tuesday at sundown.

From the Rev. River Herald Extra.
LATE NEWS FROM TEXAS.
Nacogoches, La. Oct. 15, 1855.
The following letters were received, letter last evening by an express which left St. Augustine on Tuesday at sundown.

From the Rev. River Herald Extra.
LATE NEWS FROM TEXAS.
Nacogoches, La. Oct. 15, 1855.
The following letters were received, letter last evening by an express which left St. Augustine on Tuesday at sundown.

John P. Myers was tried in Boston on Friday 6th inst. for an assault and battery on the Rev. Hossa Ballou, of that city, and acquitted on the ground of insanity.

Marine Disasters - The editor of the Tallahassee Floridian, who lately visited Key West, says the stores are crowded with wrecks, and that the salvage will amount to near $200,000.

Prices of Country Produce.
Saturday, Nov. 18, 1855.
Sugar, per 100 lb. 50 00

Fatal Accident - Mr. William Costing, of Bradford Co. Pa. was accidentally killed by a discharge from the gun of a companion, while deer-hunting a few days since.

William G. Jones (late Editor of the Baltimore Gazette) was this day arraigned before the Circuit Court of the U. S.

Young Onderdonk Paroled - Governor Marcy has given a pardon to Henry Onderdonk who was convicted of burglary.

Young Onderdonk Paroled - Governor Marcy has given a pardon to Henry Onderdonk who was convicted of burglary.

Young Onderdonk Paroled - Governor Marcy has given a pardon to Henry Onderdonk who was convicted of burglary.

Young Onderdonk Paroled - Governor Marcy has given a pardon to Henry Onderdonk who was convicted of burglary.

Young Onderdonk Paroled - Governor Marcy has given a pardon to Henry Onderdonk who was convicted of burglary.

BRUCE'S NEW-YORK TYPE FOUNDRY.
This Foundry has added lately to its former unparalleled assortment several new styles of Slab-casting and other beautiful and useful type.

THE PATENTS - TREE TEGS.
The Utopias of the alchemists are realized, and a remedy discovered for the tooth-ache, and several other painful affections of the mouth, and the preservation of the teeth and gums is secured.

PHILADELPHIA CHRISTIAN MESSENGER.
In Discharge of the Duty imposed on me by the Board of Managers of the Philadelphia Christian Messenger, I have the honor to inform you that the same has been published and is now in the hands of the subscribers.

TO THE NEW-YORK.
Prepared of the Canine Flowers, are available in strengthening and removing the disease of the skin, and in restoring the vitality of the hair.

CLOCK ESTABLISHMENT.
The corner of BOWERY and DIVISION-STREET. A great variety of Brass and Wood Clocks of the very best materials and superior workmanship.

TO DISCERNING PUBLIC.
SACRED BEAVER HATS, far better than those in general use, at the reduced price of $5.00.

TO DISCERNING PUBLIC.
SACRED BEAVER HATS, far better than those in general use, at the reduced price of $5.00.

TO DISCERNING PUBLIC.
SACRED BEAVER HATS, far better than those in general use, at the reduced price of $5.00.

TO DISCERNING PUBLIC.
SACRED BEAVER HATS, far better than those in general use, at the reduced price of $5.00.

TO DISCERNING PUBLIC.
SACRED BEAVER HATS, far better than those in general use, at the reduced price of $5.00.

BY WILLIAM C. BRANT. Upon a rock that high and cheer... Rose from the mountain's breast... A weary bird had swooned to rest...

HINTS TO AUTHORS—No. I. ON THE PATHETIC.

LAUGHTER, whether long and loud, such as we see convulsing the ribs of a country squire when relating one of the achievements of his youth, or short and low like the giggle of a young girl who has just seen a butterfly...

It is our object on the present occasion to show the infamous and contemptible nature of liveliness in all its branches. In conversation, without making any reproach, the attempts we see so pertinaciously made to set the table in a roar, for we uniformly perceive that a languid melancholy succeeds all their efforts, and that vivacity which is meant to dispel it, produces a deliciously sombre tinge...

THE FATAL TEARS—A TALE OF WOE.

Is one of those untragic valleys which stretch their perennial wretchedness in lingering expanse on the sandy shores of the vast Atlantic, where huge forests shade their leafy honors over the barren and shrubless wilderness...

THE PRINCESS JEANNE.

THE PRINCESS JEANNE, daughter of Louis XV. was divorced by her husband Louis XVI. after his accession to the throne. He afterwards married Marie Antoinette.

THE PRINCESS JEANNE.

PARKEWELL would 'twere a word indeed! It hath a meaning deep, And yet mine eyes no tears may shed— I am too proud to weep...

Virginia Lindsay—the Man of Feeling—Paul and Virginia—similar works, do not come within our category of the pathetic, and seem as if they had been written in direct contradiction to our rules.

There is another almost certain proof of the profundity of sorrow, and that is its extravagance. People in despair usually scratch their faces, and pull handfuls of their hair by the roots. This is a known fact, as may be seen in the faces of those who are in the next time you see the character represented by a lady of stronger feelings than Miss O'Neill.

There are two rules applicable almost equally to the author and the hero, viz. be handsome—and be melancholy. The others, which apply more to the personages and incidents of the story, are: plainness, civility, and modesty, if such a word is allowable.

THE PRINCESS JEANNE.

THE PRINCESS JEANNE, daughter of Louis XV. was divorced by her husband Louis XVI. after his accession to the throne. He afterwards married Marie Antoinette.

THE PRINCESS JEANNE.

PARKEWELL would 'twere a word indeed! It hath a meaning deep, And yet mine eyes no tears may shed— I am too proud to weep...

THE PRINCESS JEANNE.

THE PRINCESS JEANNE, daughter of Louis XV. was divorced by her husband Louis XVI. after his accession to the throne. He afterwards married Marie Antoinette.

There is another almost certain proof of the profundity of sorrow, and that is its extravagance. People in despair usually scratch their faces, and pull handfuls of their hair by the roots.

There are two rules applicable almost equally to the author and the hero, viz. be handsome—and be melancholy. The others, which apply more to the personages and incidents of the story, are: plainness, civility, and modesty, if such a word is allowable.

THE PRINCESS JEANNE.

THE PRINCESS JEANNE, daughter of Louis XV. was divorced by her husband Louis XVI. after his accession to the throne. He afterwards married Marie Antoinette.

THE PRINCESS JEANNE.

PARKEWELL would 'twere a word indeed! It hath a meaning deep, And yet mine eyes no tears may shed— I am too proud to weep...

THE PRINCESS JEANNE.

THE PRINCESS JEANNE, daughter of Louis XV. was divorced by her husband Louis XVI. after his accession to the throne. He afterwards married Marie Antoinette.

There is another almost certain proof of the profundity of sorrow, and that is its extravagance. People in despair usually scratch their faces, and pull handfuls of their hair by the roots.

There are two rules applicable almost equally to the author and the hero, viz. be handsome—and be melancholy. The others, which apply more to the personages and incidents of the story, are: plainness, civility, and modesty, if such a word is allowable.

THE PRINCESS JEANNE.

THE PRINCESS JEANNE, daughter of Louis XV. was divorced by her husband Louis XVI. after his accession to the throne. He afterwards married Marie Antoinette.

THE PRINCESS JEANNE.

PARKEWELL would 'twere a word indeed! It hath a meaning deep, And yet mine eyes no tears may shed— I am too proud to weep...

THE PRINCESS JEANNE.

THE PRINCESS JEANNE, daughter of Louis XV. was divorced by her husband Louis XVI. after his accession to the throne. He afterwards married Marie Antoinette.

There is another almost certain proof of the profundity of sorrow, and that is its extravagance. People in despair usually scratch their faces, and pull handfuls of their hair by the roots.

There are two rules applicable almost equally to the author and the hero, viz. be handsome—and be melancholy. The others, which apply more to the personages and incidents of the story, are: plainness, civility, and modesty, if such a word is allowable.

THE PRINCESS JEANNE.

THE PRINCESS JEANNE, daughter of Louis XV. was divorced by her husband Louis XVI. after his accession to the throne. He afterwards married Marie Antoinette.

THE PRINCESS JEANNE.

PARKEWELL would 'twere a word indeed! It hath a meaning deep, And yet mine eyes no tears may shed— I am too proud to weep...

THE PRINCESS JEANNE.

THE PRINCESS JEANNE, daughter of Louis XV. was divorced by her husband Louis XVI. after his accession to the throne. He afterwards married Marie Antoinette.

There is another almost certain proof of the profundity of sorrow, and that is its extravagance. People in despair usually scratch their faces, and pull handfuls of their hair by the roots.

There are two rules applicable almost equally to the author and the hero, viz. be handsome—and be melancholy. The others, which apply more to the personages and incidents of the story, are: plainness, civility, and modesty, if such a word is allowable.

THE PRINCESS JEANNE.

THE PRINCESS JEANNE, daughter of Louis XV. was divorced by her husband Louis XVI. after his accession to the throne. He afterwards married Marie Antoinette.

THE PRINCESS JEANNE.

PARKEWELL would 'twere a word indeed! It hath a meaning deep, And yet mine eyes no tears may shed— I am too proud to weep...

THE PRINCESS JEANNE.

THE PRINCESS JEANNE, daughter of Louis XV. was divorced by her husband Louis XVI. after his accession to the throne. He afterwards married Marie Antoinette.

There is another almost certain proof of the profundity of sorrow, and that is its extravagance. People in despair usually scratch their faces, and pull handfuls of their hair by the roots.

There are two rules applicable almost equally to the author and the hero, viz. be handsome—and be melancholy. The others, which apply more to the personages and incidents of the story, are: plainness, civility, and modesty, if such a word is allowable.

THE PRINCESS JEANNE.

THE PRINCESS JEANNE, daughter of Louis XV. was divorced by her husband Louis XVI. after his accession to the throne. He afterwards married Marie Antoinette.

THE PRINCESS JEANNE.

PARKEWELL would 'twere a word indeed! It hath a meaning deep, And yet mine eyes no tears may shed— I am too proud to weep...

THE PRINCESS JEANNE.

THE PRINCESS JEANNE, daughter of Louis XV. was divorced by her husband Louis XVI. after his accession to the throne. He afterwards married Marie Antoinette.