They Shot To Kill But Did No Damage

Garrison Brothers Near Elmer, Empty Guns at Each Other Without Effect

As a result of a shooting affray which occurred in the south part of the county four miles north of Elmer Tuesday afternoon about 4 o'clock, during the progress of which Ulysses S. Garrison and J. Abe Garrison, brothers, exchanged a regular fusillade of shots at a distance of 40 paces, emptying their revolvers without either doing any damage to the other, Ulysses is charged with assault with intent to kill, and is under $500 bond to appear before Justice L. A. Pelley on Friday, April 10, when his preliminary will be held.

According to the information given to County Attorney Hall there has been bad blood between the brothers for a long time; and when on Tuesday afternoon Ulysses drove down the road adjoining his brother's farm with his 14 year old son Hubert to fix a phone line, as he says, Abe was quietly harrowing in his field adjoining the highway. As Abe came down the field behind his team, Ulysses dismounted from his buggy, and sent his son up the road a short distance. When Abe got about even with the buggy Ulysses, from behind his horse, commanded his brother with an oath to throw up his hands, or he would kill him. Abe says he tried to pass on, but was again ordered to stop with an oath. At this he drew his own gun, and the fusillade began. Ulysses, in turn, claims that he was not the aggressor, but that the trouble was precipitated by the actions of his brother, Abe. Both revolvers were of heavy calibre, and shot after shot was exchanged without doing any damage on either side until the guns were emptied. Ulysses' horse received a shot through the foreleg, while a bullet went through the hat and shirt sleeve of one of the brothers. The bombardment is said to have sounded like a small battle of the Mexican revolution.

The battle over, Abe quietly harrowed to the end of his row, and took out, going to Elmer where he reported the facts to an officer and was advised to come to Altus and consult with the county attorney, which he did. Ulysses drove to his home, where he was arrested Wednesday afternoon by Officer Kimbell, and brought to Altus. The facts of the shooting, other than those given above, will probably come out at the preliminary on April 10. —Altus (Okla.) Times.

Another Man Wants Public Weigher's Job

Walter L. Ferguson's Announcement—What He Will Do If Elected Weigher

We are authorized with this issue of the Reporter to place the candidacy of Walter L. Ferguson of Vernon, before the voters of the county for consideration, his candidacy subject to the action of the July Primary.

We presume Mr. Ferguson is not at all a stranger to a big portion of the people in the county, as he has devoted a portion of his time since making his home in Wilbarger, in assisting the farmer in marketing their cotton. He has been a citizen of the state 14 years, has lived in the county six years and has followed farming all his life for a living. He is a man of many friends, who all speak of him in the highest terms both as a gentleman and a man of business qualities.

Following this we refer the voters to some rules Mr. Ferguson intends putting in force if elected, entitled: "What I will do if elected:"

1. Special favors to none.
2. Honest weight.
3. I agree to put Cotton Yard in good condition, and take care of all cotton to the best of my ability, turning and drying all cotton in my care.

4. I have on hand U. S. standard grades of cotton, recognized by all the cotton trade exchanges. Farmers will always have these grades to compare their cotton with, so they may know their own grades. I hold diploma as cotton grader and will gladly assist any one when requested to do so in arriving at the value of their cotton. Also will have cotton market at yard so every one may keep posted.

5. Will have office at yard and maintain phone. Also will place Public Scales at most convenient place for farmers.

Subscription School Closed Monday

Principal Attributes Success of Odell's School to Co-operation of Teachers, Patrons and Pupils

Owing to the great decrease in attendance in the subscription school I have seen fit to discontinue it. I do not attribute this decrease to lack of interest in school, but as many good people have told me, to lack of funds. And I thank the people of Odell for their support during the last month, as well as throughout the entire term, and for their hearty co-operation during the school year.

Although I have not gotten very rich this year as you well know, but it has been a pleasant year for me, and I have enjoyed my years work as much as I ever did one in my life, although our term was cut short, owing to the shortage in funds, I consider it a success to both teachers and pupils. I do not claim credit for this success, but share it equally with Misses Hazard and Bucy, trustees and the patrons of the school; and in sharing this we cannot forget the services of Miss Annie Hays in her work during the month of the subscription school. Although Miss Annie was short on experience as a teacher, she is long on effort and untiring energy, which I'm sure is crowned with the general satisfaction which she gave during the short month of her work.

I wish especially to thank the pupils for their constant, devotion to the teachers, for I realize the fact that the success of any school depends more on this than any one thing. And the boys and girls of Odell have shown both in words and actions, that speak louder than words that they appreciated the work we have done, and if I spend my life in this work and old age finds me a pauper I shall not feel that my life has been a failure.

The teacher, or any one else as to that matter, who spends his life in the cause of bettering the human race, and dies a poor man, but has instilled into the hearts of the rising generation a principle that will make them better men and women, or put before them some ideas that will develop into a complete thought, a pure unadulterated and independent thought that is not influenced by what people have thought or may think, which when fully developed becomes an electrical spark that sets the mental machine in motion, which will grind out new thought till time shall be no more, has done more for posterity and humanity than the man who spends his life in a selfish vocation and accumulates a mountain of gold that will debase, ruin and degenerate his posterity.

Although we have received but little financial benefit from this school. By the appreciation shown by pupils for the work we have done, we feel that we are not wholly unpaid for our efforts and time spent in Odell.

There's always some complaint to be made about a school in any community, it seems impossible to eliminate this altogether, though we have heard of but little here, or practically none, and if the people have had any complaint to make and did not make it, that we might find where the cause lay, the school has suffered just to that extent. Co-operation between school and home is the only remedy for discontent in this line, and as the discontent concerning the school has been so little I feel that the co-operation has been great.

Patrons should get acquainted with their teachers, for the teacher is sure to get acquainted with the patrons, and in order to make this acquaintance mutual the patrons should know the teacher.

Patrons, don't you think for a moment that the teacher doesn't know you, just as you are, she may not know you when she sees you, but she knows you inside and out. Your child is a mirror in which your character, your conduct and life, just as it is, is reflected in plain view of the teacher, and when she looks that child in the face for six or eight months, she knows you, so it is up to you to know her, and when this is done it will eliminate about ninety per cent of complaining about the school.

I hope that before the school starts next fall we will have the auditorium comfortable seated, which will enable us to bring the home and school closer together, by having a place for parents and teachers to meet and discuss subjects of interest to both.

We wish to thank again, patrons and pupils for their kindness and courtesy shown during the past school year.

Ask a candidate has he made his announcement in the Odell Reporter?

Even the town knocker believes the other fellow ought to be a booster.

That fellow of the town who is for ever preaching home patronage and then sends out of Odell for everything that he needs, ought to tell the people to do as he says—but not to do as he does.

Advertising

Advertise and push your stock,
Let the world know what you've got.
You are not in business for your health,
But for an ample living and some little wealth.
What you've bought, you've bought to trade,
And must interest some one, before a trade is made.
Then advertising surely pays,
In one hundred thousands different ways.
A wise man once truthfully said,
"Without advertising, a business is dead."
The minute you cease to advertise,
Slowly but surely, your business dies.

less it will satisfy their eager curiosity.

As a citizen you are either a booster or a drawback to your town, there is no neutral ground, if you do not praise its advantages you ought to and help those who are taking advantage of all available means that works to the town's interest.

If crops this fall measure up to the people's expectation, it will be a bumper crop year for Wilbarger. And we see no reason they shouldn't, as we are now facing far more brighter prospects for a good crop than we were at this time last year.

It looks as if the Anti Prohibitionists of Texas were going to fail in finding the right man to head their issue for Governor. Since the Prohibitionists of the state indorsement of Col. Ball, the Antis have betrayed a lack of confidence in their strength by some of their foremost leaders showing the white feather. The most perplexing problem that confronts the notables of the booze issue just now is to find the right kind of a man to put along side Thomas Ball in the race.

It is an admitable fact that when a candidate first makes known his desire for a public office, he may expect his character to be both abused and praised by those in whose hands it rests before the election. Every little mistake of his past life which is but a mole hill comparatively speaking, is made to appear a black crime by those who oppose him, and his little deeds of generosity great acts of charity by those who are for him. For this reason it is not always the best policy to accept as truth, the abuse of a candidate's worst enemies, nor the praise of his most loyal friends, but in our own judgment weigh impartially the arguments both for and against any candidate and vote our own sentiments.

The Demonstration agent of Jackson County, Oklahoma, is warning the farmers of his county, against planting cotton seed that is being introduced in that country. Agents are said to be going all over the country trying to sell and interest the farmers in planting different kinds of cotton that have not at all adapted to the climatic conditions of Southern Oklahoma, but are only proved to be productive in some of the far off eastern states. He especially warns them against the "Half and Half" cotton seed for planting, claiming that the cotton is not at all adapted to climatic condition, besides being a very short staple, it hangs loose in the bolls, and would scatter badly in a wind storm. Our belief is that a farmer should know by all means what kind of seed they are planting, and should not experiment on too large a scale with no new kind and depend on the crop for his money.

Our Fire Losses

The State Fire Marshal's recent report conveys the startling information that we have a fire on an average of every forty minutes, and the statistical classification is a ghostly indictment against our citizenship for unpardonable, if not criminal carelessness, for it shows that 9,600 fires per annum are preventable. Among all the elements of destruction, fire is the most complete destroyer and perhaps the most loosely controlled.

Most every village maintains a fire department, and we spend millions of dollars in labor and equipment in fighting fires and we are told in a most convincing manner that 80 per cent is preventable. We spend millions in fighting fires where we spend a dollar in preventing them.

Wheat Heading

Jas. Gribble, who has a fine farm south of town, has a field of wheat now in heavy "boot," and will be in full head in a few days. Mr. Gribble figures that his wheat will be harvested about the middle of May, and believes that it will break the record for early harvesting in the state. Prospects for a wheat crop never were more promising, and wheat growers say that the acreage this year is almost double that of any previous year. Some are estimating the number of acres in Foard county at something like 40,000. Our local merchants are already making arrangements to order under twinge by the car load—Foard County News.
