By The Pinch-Hitter
"What's in a name?"

A rose by any other name would smell as sweet.
Sometimes we ask ourselves the same question. Men live, do their bits, pass away and are soon forgotten. We are told, however, that the good that men do, lives after them. This reminds us of a man about whom you and I studied in school, whose good deeds are on record, but whose name we never knew. His life is summed up graphically, in the little poem entitled, "The Village Blacksmith," by our own beloved American poet, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

It is the story of a real man who lived and experienced all the vicissitudes incident to the life of a laboring man. He was truly a great man, although his name is not known to the public. In the poem, Mr. Longfellow gives us much food for thought. He depicts many noble attributes of soul which lead to strong, virile manhood, and set an excellent example for the blacksmith's children and others who read about him to follow.

In the first stanza the poet describes his appearance, thus:
"The smith, a mighty man is he,
With large and sinewy hands;
And the muscles of his brawny arm
Are strong as iron bands."
Now, that is the description of a strong man, but not necessarily, a great one. He is mighty in a physical sense, which indicates that he has cared for his splendid body, the dwelling place of his soul, while he lives on earth.

Reading a bit farther, we find information concerning his character and habits.
"His hair is crisp and black and long;
His face is like the tan;
His brow is wet with honest sweat;
He earns whate'er he can;
And he looks the whole world in the face,

For he owes not any man."
My, what an array of virtues! A willing worker, earning whate'er he can, honest in his dealing with his fellow-men, paying his current bills as they become due and being able to hold his head high and look the entire world of people in the face, on an equality with the best of them. Taking the above mentioned attributes as a standard of excellence, how many of us are able to qualify as well as the village blacksmith?

But that is not all:
"He goes on Sunday to the church
And sits among his boys;
He hears the parson pray and preach;
He hears his daughter's voice
Singing in the village choir;
And it makes his heart rejoice."
Here, we find the true source of his greatness. He acknowledges God as the Supreme Giver of all good things. Realizing his own need of divine guidance and assistance in rearing his fine family of boys and girl, he seeks to follow in the footsteps of the Lowly Nazarene, who, according to the Bible, "went into the synagogue, as his custom was, on the Sabbath day."
We note that he did not merely send his children to church. He did not say "Go, children," as so many of us do, but led the way, admonishing, "Come, children," instead.

And his children behaved in church, during the services. How do we know that? Simply, because the blacksmith heard the sermon. He was there, had it been necessary for him to keep those boys straight during services. He sat by them and that was sufficient.

Moreover, our modest hero was loving and tender of heart. His wife had passed on to her reward, and the poet tells us that his daughter's voice reminded him of her mother's, which is now heard singing in Paradise; and that he must needs wipe a tear out of his eyes as he is thus reminded of her. So he carries on, striving to rear their children according to the plans which they, two, had made together.

Mr. Longfellow sums up these characteristics, by adding that he is also happy, and rejoices, at times. "Tolling, rejoicing, sorrowing,
Onward through life he goes;

Each morning sees some task begun;
Each evening sees it close;
Something attempted, something done,
Has earned a night's repose."
What does it matter whether the name of this good citizen and father was Brown, Smith or Jones? He has a name which is recorded in Heaven and we have the record of his exemplary life on earth. What a Man!

"What you are speaks so loudly, I cannot hear what you say," says one inspired writer. The silent example of a true Christian citizen who attends faithfully to his own business and is seen regularly at the house of worship on the Sabbath, is worth more than a multitude of loud speakers of the "sounding brass and tinkling cymbal" variety. And the story of our village blacksmith, whose name we do not know, will continue to be told until the principles of right living and right thinking take primacy in the hearts and lives of mankind.

BRIGHT KITCHENS MAKE HOUSE WORK MORE ENJOYABLE

H. D. Ladies Tell Ways They Have Used To Add Life And Color To Kitchens

Mrs. W. A. (Will) Young of the Enterprise Home Demonstration Club says that careful planning is the one thing that helped her make her kitchen the convenient, attractive place that it is. Mrs. Young improved her kitchen last year by completely remodeling it as a club project. A scrap book of kitchen articles and pictures helps one to crystallize her desires and needs. Mrs. Young thinks that careful planning keeps the old adage, "Haste Makes Waste" from working.

Mrs. W. E. McCollum, whole farm demonstrator of the Enterprise community says that a sink will save a home maker many steps. It has been estimated that in a year home-maker who carries water into her spends at least 30 union days carrying water. Mrs. McCollum added running water and a sink to her kitchen and believes that it is worth any effort to add this convenience to any kitchen.

Mrs. Lester Farmer of the Eula home demonstration club, remodeled her kitchen last year from a dark dreary room into a bright, cheerful place. If the saying is true "Man is what he lives in" and the average housewife spends 70 percent of her time in the kitchen, it pays to strive to make the kitchen a bright and cheerful place. Attractive surroundings have a very definite influence on our dispositions and outlook on life, so Mrs. Farmer believes that it pays to plan so as to have a kitchen that has a cheerful atmosphere. To do this, she would suggest the use of light colors for lightness with dashes of bright color to add cheerfulness on the floors, walls, ceiling and woodwork.

Mrs. Clyde Johnston of the Eula Home Demonstration Club improved her kitchen last year and believes that cheerfulness of the kitchen may be helped by adding light, airy, gray kitchen curtains. Hers were made of bleached domestic with an edge of tomato red print.

Mrs. Doyle Rhodes of Dressy Home Demonstration Club improved her kitchen last year by refinishing it. She believes that that because the food for the family is prepared in the kitchen, it is most important that this room be kept immaculate.

Mrs. Jim Yarbrough of the Union Home Demonstration Club says that time and thought need to go into the selection, arrangement, and working heights of the kitchen furnishings, will do much toward making any kitchen easy to keep clean.

Mrs. Don McCall of the Cross Plains Home Demonstration Club says that something growing in the kitchen makes it a better place to work in, ivy, Jew, or a geranium will bring the kitchen to life.

FIRST SNOW COMES ON EVE OF SPRING HERE MONDAY MORNING

Friday Is Official Beginning Of Spring, However, More Cold Weather Is Forecast

Winter waited until three days before the official arrival of Spring to decorate the Putnam trade territory with its emblem—snow—but the blanket of whiteness was soon lifted by rising temperature.

Sleet, changing into light sprinkles of rain and then into heavy flakes of snow put the month of March in the moisture column Monday with .04 inch of precipitation. A heavier flurry of snow fell Tuesday night.

Officially Spring arrives today, Friday, March 21, however, weather observers opine that additional bad weather is forthcoming.

A check up yesterday morning revealed that orchardmen believe the fruit crop is virtually undamaged.

Being cold-blooded animals, fish usually have body temperatures the same as that of the surrounding water of their habitat.

Fort Worth Cats Have Pot Of Gold In Cross Plains, Boy Says Baseball Scribe

The following story written by Lorin McMullen, Fort Worth sports writer, appeared in the Star Telegram Tuesday morning.

It may be he'll never climb above the Class D leagues, or he could be worth $100,000 on the open market within three years.

That's Bill Gray, giant 21-year-old righthanded pitcher whom the Cats picked up for precisely nothing last Fall in Manager Bob Linton's school and who is learning the tricks here in Spring training so fast Linton and Business Manager Cecil Coombs are suspecting that their luck has changed.

Of course, they're too experienced to hope that the boy will turn up the Texas League, or any league, this season. They realize only too well that a million things can happen to the kid to keep him from being a good pitcher.

But you can not look at a lean, rugged, loose-jointed, 6-foot-5 3/4 inch kid with all the necessary requirements of speed, agility and proper mental attitude without dreaming that here may be another Walter Johnson or Dizzy Dean.

Gray is as tall as a house and when he strides off that pitcher's mound he's halfway to the plate. He has a natural overhand delivery which has been developed surprisingly since the first day of Spring practice here.

At first, the kid seemed a bit timid about stretching out to get the full benefit of his long stride and tremendous reach. At suggestion of Umpire Rollie Naylor and Ed Greer, Gray began to bring the ball from way back yonder and followed it through from as high as he could reach.

"Tall as you are," Taylor said, "it ought to be easy to pitch that ball down hill."

Gray stretched a bit went through Naylor's suggested motion and found it loose, easy and natural. The batters became more cautious. Without even trying to throw hard, Gray's pitches were going in there pretty fast.

The boy can move around, too. He's quick to catch on to tricks about coming off the mound in order to be ready to field a bunt. When it's necessary, those long steps carry him over to cover first base in a hurry. And he's not bad at all at catching the tosses from the first baseman.

Lu his first test in a game Sunday, Gray lived up to all expectations.

Gray, of course, has no idea he's much of a prospect. He probably wishes he wasn't so big and clumsy so he wouldn't seem to be so much in the way of everybody.

But he wants to be a baseball player, which is one of the good big marks in his favor. Bill left McMurry College last year to go try out with the Pampa West Texas-New Mexico League club. He'd had a broken finger which had prevented him from working out, but he did not wish to snail his chances by saying anything about it so, on his first day in practice, he pitched to the batters and pulled a shoulder muscle which never mended. He was terribly wild and did no good at all. He started only one game and finally was dropped from the squad.

Bill went home to Cross Plains and played no more baseball until he saw in the paper that Linton had invited every young fellow in West Texas to come to Fort Worth for the Cats' school.

Bob was struck with Gray's size and his easy motion from the start and decided that he and the catcher, Wildon Hill, were the prize prospects. Both were signed to contracts and brought to the Spring training camp. Bob has a hunch it was one of the smartest things he ever did.

Sam Sealing, manager of the Lamesa club of the West Texas-New Mexico League, can use some of the ball players who were planning on the season's work in the disbanded East Texas League. Lamesa lost four players through the draft and, in addition, had several other openings.

DRESSY H. D. CLUB HAS MEETING ON MARCH 15 AT W. O. SPENCER HOME

Mrs. N. L. Louz had charge of the recreational period.

STUDENTS' FUND KEEPS MONGREL PUP IN LUXURY

BATON ROUGE, La. — "Oscar the Pooch" is living in the lap of luxury from the proceeds of a trust fund set up by Louisiana State University students.

The pup, mostly fox terrier, was run over by a motorist. It hobbled to the side of the street and was found by Miss Maureen Lawrence, a student from Los Angeles.

Miss Lawrence rushed the pup to a veterinarian, and the injuries were diagnosed as not serious. Later, the students set up a trust fund for Oscar until a good home is provided Ideas are like maple sap—you have to boil down about 35 gallons of them to get a quart of first-class product.

It is hard to reconcile a present surplus with a future shortage. A man's pocket bulging with money makes it hard for him to realize that the money may be gone in a few months, and that he may face a period when begging a dime is a vital necessity.

What Is Capitalism?

The head of one of America's largest banks recently had this to say concerning capitalism: "Business must have capital." What is capital? Savings. Where savings? The people's own saving, your friends, your neighbors.

"Everyone who saves something from his earnings and puts that money to work, or has it put to work for him, is a capitalist.

"This is the American way, the way which America has been built. Capitalism is democracy—at work."

That's simple, and it's sound. Capitalism is a term too often used to mislead the uninformed and create political discord. The truth is that capital is the collective invested savings of millions of people—the man with a hundred dollars, the woman with five hundred.

That's what the capital in the nation's banks consists of. The average bank deposit is small. But millions of these accounts together and you get real money—the money that goes to build homes,

MARKET SPECIALIST SEES EGGS BOUGHT BY POUND

ST. PAUL, Minn. — Housewives soon may be buying eggs by the pound or can instead of the dozen, according to W. H. Dankers market specialist at the University of Minnesota.

He said commercial bakeries, cafes, food processors, and manufacturers now prefer buying eggs "by the pound, in cans, frozen or dry, all yolk, all white or in known mixtures of the two."

As a result the trend is away from handling large quantities of fragile eggs in the shell, Dankers said.

TELEPHONE OPERATOR SENSES TRAGEDY, SAVES LIVES OF TWO PEOPLE

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. — A telephone operator who realized "something was wrong" when only the sound of a falling body came over an open telephone line is credited with saving the lives of two Bakersfield residents.

Betty Kruger, operator, received a call, but after placing it realized the person placing the call did not respond. Miss Kruger notified her superintendent, Mrs. Trixie Walton, who recognized the number called as the office of a doctor.

Mrs. Walton listened to the phone of the party calling. "I heard faint room noises," she said, "and then the sound of a gasp, followed by the thud of a falling body."

A resident across the street from the house was notified and the neighbor smashed a window in the house. A man and a woman had been overcome by gas escaping from leaky water heater.

If artificial lighting of poultry houses has been started it must be continued until early April. Sudden stoppage of lights before that time would seriously lessen egg production.

LIVE IN TEXAS BOYCE HOUSE

The top of the morain' to yez—and how about a joke or two in the St. Patrick's day spirit? This is one about two Irishmen who were named Mike and Pat, instead, of Pat and Mike, for a change. Mike fell into a gulch and Pat yelled, "Are ye killed? If ye are, speak to me." Mike replied, "I ain't killed but I'm speechless." A variant: After Mike had fallen, his friend a-keed. "Are ye killed?" to which Mike replied, "That I am." Pat said, "You're such a liar I don't know whether to believe ye or not." And Mike rejoined, "That proves I'm dead because, if I wuz alive, ye wouldn't dare call me a liar!"

The Irishman speaks in amusing contradictions as shown by his remark about the flea, "When ye put yer finger on him, he ain't there" or his description of a frog, "When he walks, he jumps and when he stands up, he sits down."

Thomas Jefferson once remarked that no system will work of itself—that its efficiency depends upon the individuals who administer it. With this observation of the founder of the Democratic Party in mind, an independent oil man comments on the proposal for a separate oil and gas commission: "How could you expect to get three appointive commissioners better qualified by experience than the three members of the State Railroad Commission? Leaders of the move do not deny that Col. Ernest O. Thompson is one of the best-informed men on oil in the world nor can they deny that Jerry Stadler learned the industry 'the hard way,' as a worker on the derrick floor, in laying pipelines, and as a refinery worker before becoming a successful independent operator. And Judge Olin Culberson, admittedly an authority on gas, is also fully conversant with oil. So here you have three men, who know the oil industry up one side and down the other, and they are working in harmony for the good of Texas. It's an old baseball maxim. Don't break up a winning team."

An Irish philosopher said, "Single misfortunes never come alone, and the greatest of all possible misfortunes is generally followed by a greater." A salesman said, of some window sashes: "These sashes will last you forever; and, after that, if you have no further use for them, you can sell them as old iron." A lover said, "It's a great comfort to be alone, especially when your sweetheart is wild ye." a debater, upholding ancient architecture as compared with the modern, demanded, "Show me a single modern building that has lasted as long as the ancient ones?"

Then there was the Irishman who enlisted in the 33rd regiment because he wanted to be near his brother, who was in the 34th. And there was the inlander who visited a port and stood for hours looking at a ship's anchor because "I want to see the feller who swings that pick." And there was an Irishman who saw a hunter shoot a duck high overhead and the bird spun over and plunged to the ground, whereupon Pat said "Ye wasted yer powder; the fall would have killed it." And an Irish jury brought in this verdict, "We find that the man who stole the mare is not guilty." Hearing that a man bought a marble coffin, Mike exclaimed, "Shure and a marble coffin would last a man a life time."

Some son of the Emerald Isle summed it up with, "Not more than half the lies they tell about the Irish are true."

Here and There:

In a brilliant speech recently, Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas pointed out that the United States has become "the great arsenal of democracy" and that the lend-lease bill "enables us to gain the time necessary for the development of our own defensive armament. The struggling democracies need aid; we need time. Under it, Congress retains the power of the purse."

One witness at a recent hearing in Austin on the scientific load limit bill pounded the desk and yelled that the trucks don't belong on the roads, according to press reports. The United States Postal Service uses 14,000 trucks; should they be put off the highway and the farmer receive his mail twice a week by horse-and-buggy? The railroad themselves have 63,000 trucks and the Railway Express (controlled by the railroads) has 10,000 trucks. Units of governments—State, county, city and school—have 208,000 trucks. Probably one half the pupils in the school system of which the witness is the head are brought to school each morning in buses, which are just a form of trucks.

THE ADVENTURES OF REDDY KILOWATT

Foiled by a Light Globe

Dear Friends: I didn't know what to do, the day those toughies laid their plans to steal Mr. Brown's car. But the idea came to me..

I went to the tool box and got wires and insulators and a hammer and some screws. It doesn't take much to run a line to the garage..

Then I got one of the outdoor flood lamps and hooked it up. I smiled as I finished the job because..

That night those thugs were foiled! I thought, "Why doesn't everyone depend on good light to protect their home and property?" It's the cheapest insurance you can buy. Yours for better light—safer living, REDDY KILOWATT.
