High Fluoride Levels Reported in County's Water Systems

Varsity Choir to Present Program Friday, Nov. 5

"Clerical Error" Turns Up In Commissioner's Race

Will the real winner in the race for County Commissioner Precinct 1 please stand up?

A 300-vote "clerical error" seems to have cast some doubt about who will be the next commissioner—Democrat Edgar Chance or Republican Gary C. Riley. But the error appears to be in the favor of Chance.

The mixup occurred Tuesday night during the reporting on vote tabulations for Box 27, Wester Elementary School. On election night, it was reported Riley had received 1,888 votes at the box, but the county clerk's tally sheet indicates the GOP nominee received only 1,588.

The unofficial final voting tallies reported Wednesday morning indicated Riley had slipped past Chance with a slim 38-vote lead. Now it appears Chance is the winner by about 260 votes.

"It defies explanation," Riley commented. "I want to wait and see the canvas. If we're down by 260 votes, we'd certainly consider a recount, but I'm not going to do it just because we lost."

Riley expressed disappointment with a system that has him a winner one minute and a loser the next. But, he added, don't count him out of politics yet. "We're looking at a large race in the future."

Chance received word of the vote mistake Wednesday and said he doesn't know if a recount would change that kind of vote. He said he might have called for a recount on the original 38-vote Riley victory—especially on the late box that came in after 3 a.m. Wednesday. "We knew who the President of the United States would be before that box came in," Chance added.

Commissioners will have a better idea of who the winner is after they canvas the vote Monday.

On Friday, November 5, the Varsity Choir will present a program for the student body and faculty of FHS during activity period.

Mark Wright will present a program on the guitar during activity period on Monday, November 8. The juniors will order their class rings on Tuesday, Nov. 9. On Wednesday, the student body will be treated to a film, "Third Man on the Mountain," sponsored by the Student Council. The junior class will prepare and take care of the concession stand—popcorn, cakes, candy, gum, etc.

The Varsity Band will be in Slaton on Nov. 11 to participate in Veteran's Day activities. The seniors will order invitations on Friday, Nov. 12. The Varsity Tigers will play their last game on Nov. 12 against Tahoka in Tiger Stadium.

Quarter finals are just around the corner. November 17 and 18 teachers have a work day on Nov. 19. Thanksgiving holidays will begin at 2:00 on Nov. 24. Students and faculty will return to the routine on Nov. 29.

bivalent type that inoculates against swine flu and the Victoria flu.

Additional clinics will be announced later for persons between the ages of 18 and 65 who will receive vaccine for the swine flu only.

Vaccines for the swine flu have been tested with persons over age 18 and are proven to produce very few side effects, according to the U.S. Public Health Service. Some people who received the vaccine had fever and soreness during the first day or two after vaccination.

Fluoride—dentists claim it's good for the teeth, but too much of the substance can be harmful to the human body.

Keeping fluorides and other contaminants found in domestic water supplies at levels safe enough for human consumption is the intent of the Safe Drinking Water Act passed by Congress in 1974. The act authorized the Environmental Protection Agency to adopt regulations that will go into effect in June, 1977.

Texas is one of about six states experiencing problems with too much fluoride in its public water systems, noted C.K. Foster, director of the division of water hygiene in the Texas Department of Health Resources.

Foster and other TDHR officials as well as EPA representatives conducted classes on the new federal water law and its impact on South Plains cities during a water utilities short course that started Tuesday in Lubbock. About 400 water utilities personnel from throughout West Texas participated in the three-day training session.

During a Tuesday morning press conference, Foster estimated that approximately 480 public water systems in Texas exceed the maximum fluoride levels, with about 200 of these systems located on the South Plains.

Although the City of Lubbock's water system has a safe fluoride level, the TDHR has identified 31 water systems in the county that contain too much fluoride.

"A good number of these (water systems) are in mobile home parks," explained Floyd Williams, chief of the domestic water supply branch of the TDHR.

Shallowater's water system also has been identified as containing more fluoride than the maximum level, Foster and Williams pointed out.

Compliance with the federal regulations does not have to be done immediately, Foster said, but by 1981, all systems have to be in compliance with the law unless they plan to join a regional system.

Under the act, communities can apply for a variance or an exemption to the law.

A variance can be granted if a community's water supply does not meet requirements of maximum allowable contaminants levels and no treatment techniques are available to remove the contaminant—if the water does not represent a risk to the public health. Foster said a variance could not be granted for water systems containing too much fluoride, however, because there are treatment techniques available to reduce fluoride levels.

If it is not economically feasible for a community to immediately comply with the act, an exemption may be granted if the water supply is not hazardous to the public health. According to Foster, the community must hold a public hearing at least one year after the exemption is granted and set up a compliance schedule.

Still to be determined is who will enforce the regulations, Foster said. The federal law allows states to assume the enforcement responsibility he said. But if the state does not enforce the law, the federal government will.

Starving Artist Sale Scheduled

The fifth annual Lubbock Jaycee-Ette Starving Artist Sale will be held this Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the former Woolworth's building in Monterey Shopping Center. Hours of the sale are 10 a.m.-8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, noon-6 p.m. Sunday.

Last year's sale had over 350 artists entered, and over 40,000 people attended. The sale this year promises to have even a larger number of artists with even more different mediums and types of crafts.

Artists from all over Texas, New Mexico, and Oklahoma have entered the sale. Art works and crafts range from painting, pottery, batik, sculpture, needlework, to macrame and jewelry.

Money raised from the sale's commission goes back to the community to help local service organization. In the past, proceeds from the sale have gone to Lubbock Meals-on-Wheels, the YWCA, Multiple Sclerosis, Texas Boys Ranch, Humane Society, Camp Kiwanis and other worthy community organizations.

The success of the sale depends solely on artist and public participation. All interested persons are encouraged to participate and purchase arts and crafts during the sale.

Poppy Day Set At Wolfforth

Poppy Day is Saturday, Nov. 6, at Wolfforth.

The George S. Berry American Legion Post Auxiliary members will be selling poppies at the American Bank of Commerce. Money raised will go to veterans and their dependents.

Swine Flu Vaccination Clinic Set At Lubbock High for Elderly, Ill

A swine flu vaccination clinic for the elderly and the chronically ill has been set for Saturday and Sunday at Lubbock High School's cafeteria.

Lubbock Health Department officials said the two-day clinic will be for persons aged 65 years and older and for persons suffering from chronic illnesses such as asthma, heart disease, diabetes, neuromuscular disorders and malignancies.

The clinic will be held from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. There will be public parking on the north side of Lubbock High School. The public is to enter the building on the east side along avenue T. Wheel chair ramps will be provided.

Health Department medical director Dr. David Cowgill urged all persons aged 65 or older to consider attending the free clinic. Persons who are chronically ill are encouraged to consult their private physician before attending the clinic.

Seating will be provided for those waiting to receive inoculations. All persons will be required to read and sign an information form explaining the swine flu prevention program before receiving the flu shot.

All inoculations will be administered under the supervision of a physician. There will be an interview with a doctor after a shot is given.

The vaccine to be given Saturday and Sunday is the

Lubbock County 4-H Awards Banquet Held

The Annual Lubbock County 4-H Awards Banquet was held on Monday, Nov. 1 at the KoKo Palace to honor 4-H members and leaders for their achievements during the past year. The banquet was sponsored by the South Plains Electric Cooperative.

Gold Star Awards for Lubbock County's outstanding 4-H boy and girl were received by Kenneth Berry of Lubbock and Cindy Mitchell of Wolfforth.

The Danforth "I Dare You" Awards were given to Terri Daniel of Idalou and Steve Lee of Lubbock.

Ropes FHA News

On Tuesday, Oct. 19, a workshop for FHA members and Homemaking teachers was held in Levelland from 4:30-7:00 p.m. FHA members attending the workshop from Ropes were Leah Bayne, Sarah Einerson, and Susie Rainwater. These FHA members had the opportunity to get acquainted with other Future Homemakers from surrounding schools, while becoming familiar with the three levels of Encounter.

Encounter is a project FHA members may work on in order to know themselves, their family, their school and their community better. FHAers may also receive local, area, and state recognition for completing the various levels of Encounter.

An FHA meeting was held on Monday, Oct. 25. FHA members elected their FHA Beau. Marley Huie, a senior, was selected to receive the honor. Susie Rainwater, sophomore, and Regina Melton, freshman, were selected by the chapter to represent the Future Homemakers on the Student Council.

Establishing Credit For Women
 Opening a checking and savings account "in your own name" is one of the first steps a woman can take in the establishment of a good credit rating.

Although these accounts will not appear on your credit history, they will be a means for borrowing or using credit, because it is the repayment pattern that counts.

Next, consider opening a charge account 'in your own name.' This account should be based on your own credit and ability to pay, not that of husband or parents. A retail credit card is one of the least expensive ways to start a credit history.

A bank credit card can also give a line of credit, meaning there is a ceiling on the dollar amount to be used, generally ranging from $300 to $1,000. This ceiling can be increased as income increases, if requested.

To speed up the process of establishing a credit history, apply for a small loan. Consider putting the money borrowed into a savings account and using it to repay the loan. A good repayment pattern is important on this loan, since it is the beginning of a credit history.

Basically, all lenders are interested in the borrower's ability to repay a debt and his willingness to repay.

And by following these steps, a woman can begin to establish herself as a credit-worthy individual.

Consumer Update

The Diabetic Exchange Lists for Meal Planning have been revised recently. The booklet now includes nutrition information about various foods and color coded food lists. The meat list now specifies lean meats, medium-fat meats and high-fat meats. A copy of this booklet can be obtained for

The predicted fabric trend for the next several seasons is away from shiny, lustrous knits and to soft, dull-finish wovens. These fabrics will retain a large percentage of synthetic fibers for easy care but look and feel more like natural fibers.

Shakespeare philosophized that "the fashion wears out more apparel than the man."

Interest the preschooler with a poor appetite in nutrition. When he realizes that meat provides protein to make muscles, he becomes more enthusiastic about eating his meat. Milk provides calcium for strong bones and teeth. Nutrition education should be in the formative years.

Heading Maize

When most of the feed was mature it was time for heading. The last maize that was harvested this way at our place was when I was about five years old. Dad harnessed up old Smokey, our work horse, making him ready to pull the slide. The slide was a sort of box, about six feet long and three feet wide. It had flat boards on the bottom to serve as runners and tapered sides made of slats of wood. It was always left at the field, a mile or so from the house. I sometimes got to go to the field when heading was being done and, when I did, I got to ride old Smokey on the way.

I pretended I was a knight atop a black steed going off to battle. Sometimes I was a cowboy, bustin' a wild bronc, maybe a jockey racing a thoroughbred toward the finish line. Smokey, of course, was never aware of the battles, clanking armor, or thundering races. He just knew he had a hard day's work ahead of him and was anxious to be about it. Once we got to the field I had to get off. I wasn't allowed to ride the horse while he was working. I usually rode in the slide or played nearby.

The horse pulled the slide between two rows of maize. One worker would be on each side, cutting off the maize heads, tossing them into the slide. A curved blade knife that folded up was the most common type used for heading maize but other things like regular pocket knives and even butcher knives were sometimes used. There was even a special device for heading. It was a sort of glove made of heavy leather, with a sharp blade fixed in it. The stalk could be grasped and cut off at the same time.

When the slide was full, the maize was dumped out at certain places in the field where it was left for a few days to cure out properly and allow the greener heads to mature. The slide was dumped by simply manhandling it over on its side and shaking it a little. Its tapered sides made the heads of grain come out easier. After the heads had cured and matured properly they were picked up in a wagon and hauled to the barn where they were stored in large bins or rooms. If the barn was too full they were sometimes stored outside where they were covered over with bundles of feed to keep rain off.

The heads were fed whole to the hogs and chickens but they were sometimes ground in the feed mill and mixed with other things for horse and cattle feed. Some grain was threshed from the heads to be used in planting the next year's crop. The feed stalks were left in the field after the heads had been harvested. Cattle were turned into the field and could graze several weeks on the remaining fodder.

SPORTS

by Joe Kelly

It was as good a football game as anyone would want to see, that battle between Texas and Texas Tech. The decision wasn't nailed down until Raymond Clayborn was stopped on a punt return.

Clayborn scares you. He's one of a bevy of fast backs that the Longhorns have and it was conceivable that he could return it all the way, not probable, but possible.

I was standing on the Texas side of the field. I saw Clayborn look up, make the catch. Then I saw what he saw, a solid wave of red bearing down. He didn't have a chance.

The Steers, champions that they are, came silently up the ramp to the dressing room. No tears showed, only the sweat of battle and obvious despair that they had lost. They had fought the good fight and lost a hard decision.

Darrell Royal also took it like the gentleman he is. There were no alibis, no complaints. He complimented Tech, Steve Sloan, his own Jim Johnson, Ted Constanzo, the Texas offensive team "we moved the ball better and scored better."

It was quiet and players dressed quickly and left. Probably telling the story better than anything else were the orange and white paper streamers over the doorway. They seemed to sag like the Longhorns.

Both coaches agreed that Rodney Allison's scramble for a first down was the turning point in the game, along with Texas' failure to move in for a 21-7 lead when the Steers had a first down at the Tech 20, leading 14-7.

Three plays forced the Horns back 26 yards and Russell Erxleben's kick was low and short.

"It was a mixup between the center and me," he said. "I wasn't ready when he snapped the ball."

Now the game is history, the sixth triumph in a season that has been one of surprises. And one of the big questions, partially answered in the A&M game, has been fully answered—can the Raiders play a physical game? Yes, they can.

They paid a price. Both teams did in a battle that had hard hitting from start to finish. Fortunately, it appears that Travis Mileur is the only Tech casualty.

Incidentally, when Greg Mahoney snapped the ball for the game's final punt, that was the first time he had centered the ball in a game! He answered the pressure.

Arkansas answered the pressure by overcoming Rice, although not exactly as expected and that leaves the Raiders and Razorbacks as the only undefeated teams in the conference. A step behind are Texas and Houston, neither out of the race.

Darrell said that he thought Tech was in the best position to win the title and Steve, in a way, agreed. He said that he didn't think Arkansas could beat both Texas and A&M. The Hogs do get both Tech and A&M in Little Rock, face Texas in Austin.

Sloan was relaxed at his press conference following the game. I was standing by the sandwiches (where else?) when he came in. We shook hands and I offered congratulations.

"Thanks a lot," he replied quietly.

"I just wish you'd quit scheduling those breathers, though, coach," I remarked.

Steve almost doubled up with laughter, and much of the conference, after that, followed that routine. It was serious, then humorous.

For instance, Steve was asked if the publicity Tech was getting had an effect on his team. It was pointed out that Sports Illustrated was here, along with writers from all over the state.

Steve's reply was that they tried to talk with the squad and that the publicity helped in recruiting, school spirit, alumni relations, in everything.

"I'll tell you one thing," he quipped. "I'm getting a lot more calls from around the nation since we've been No. 6 than when we were No. 83!"

Dan Cook San Antonio sports writer, broke precedent and was typing a column during the conference. He suddenly asked Steve if it bothered him to have him type?

"No, it doesn't bother me, Dan," he said. "I don't care if you take your clothes off!"

On Allison's apparent injury: "He was having cramps, in his calves. We chatted on the sideline with him and shoot, I'd have kissed his calves if that would have helped!"

On Billy Taylor's dives into the end zone:

"He goes so high that you'd nearly have to be on a stepladder to stop him. I was afraid that he was going over the crossbar!"

On Allison's three carries at the one, Sloan said that he wasn't worried "We've had good luck with the sneak this season. The trouble was that the line was blocking to the right and Allison was going to the left. I kept thinking he'd make it. Finally decided that we'd better try something else!"

TCU comes up this week and this game is scary. The Horned Frogs don't have a record worthy of fright, but usually, once a season, the Frogs play over their heads and upset someone. If Tech isn't alert, it could be this week.

Rice almost slipped up on Arkansas and the conditions are not dissimilar. The Raiders, bruised and weary after the Texas game, can't afford a letdown. I don't look for one, but with the possibility that an announcement about Jim Shofner's future might be forthcoming, it could be scary.

Producers Warned to Check Their 1977 Seed Tags

COLLEGE STATION — Farmers buying certified seed to plant their 1977 crop should pay particular attention to the labels on the seed bag—there's been a change.

"Certified seed sold after January 1 next year must bear two labels—one certifying the variety and the other indicating a number of seed quality factors," points out Dr. Robert B. Metzger, cotton specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Whereas in the past, seed was certified for both variety and quality factors, the certification now pertains only to the genetic identity of the seed. However, since the Texas seed law still requires that seed quality information be truthfully stated, an analysis label must also accompany all certified seed, explains Metzger.

"The analysis label will tell the farmer such things as purity, inert matter, other crop seed, weed seed, noxious weed seed and germination," notes the Texas A&M University System specialist. "The fact that the seed is certified has nothing to do with these particular factors."

Metzger explains the new certification labeling this way. "Take cottonseed, for example. TAMCOT SP37 sold as certified seed must bear a label (blue in color) that indicates that the seed is indeed the SP37 variety. The certification label will show net weight, kind and variety and who produced the seed, but nothing on quality factors. A second label on the seed bag will list the various quality factors mentioned above and will tell the farmer the percentage that the seed contains, such as the per cent of weed seed.

"The main thing for farmers to remember when buying certified seed for the 1977 crop is to look at both labels on the seed bag," emphasizes Metzger. "Both labels must be checked to get the complete story on the seed."

The change in seed certification standards in Texas came about recently in an effort to assure a

Insulation Firm Opens

Basin Insulation Co. has announced the opening in Lubbock of a franchise business dealing in the foam insulation of wall cavities in homes and commercial facilities.

Bill Harding, Lubbock manager, will operate from temporary headquarters at 4511 42nd St., according to J.W. Luchini of Midland, owner.

The firm's product is a urea-formaldehyde foam designed to be pumped into wall cavities under pressure from a small orifice in the wall. The fully expanded foam fills the smallest crevices, Luchini said.

This type of insulation is expected to reduce heating and cooling costs about 30 per cent, and up to 50 per cent, the company indicated.

Harding said the insulation is non-combustible to more than 1,200 degrees Fahrenheit. At that point it vaporizes, releasing a non-toxic gas, primarily water vapor, according to the company.

Relieves Pain and Itch of Hemorrhoidal Tissues promptly, temporarily, in many cases.

There's a medication that relieves occasional hemorrhoidal symptoms within minutes. Then it goes beyond soothing; actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues due to inflammation. The name: Preparation H®.

Doctor-tested Preparation H, with its exclusive formula, is America's leading hemorrhoidal remedy by far. Ointment or suppositories.

Eagles Lose To Anton

Ropes got beat 19-13 by Anton when they played there Oct. 29. The first touchdown for Ropes came in the first quarter with a 1 yard run by Steven Sims. PAT failed. The second touchdown was a 25 yard run by Dicki Arant in the second quarter. PAT by Gary Means was good.

Anton made a touchdown apiece in the first and second quarters, and scored their last touchdown with 24 seconds left in the game.

This is the last game of the season for the Ropes Eagles. They have an open date Friday night. Game statistics for Ropes are 10 first downs, 208 rushing yards, 38 passing yards, and 246 total yards. Ropes won/lost record is 6-3.

Anton game statistics are 13 first downs, 216 rushing yards, 56 passing yards, 272 total yards, and a 7-2 won/lost record.

Ropes Booster Club

Ropes Booster Club will hold their last meeting Thursday, Nov. 4, 1976 at 7:00. At the regular meeting on Tuesday, Oct. 26, a short business meeting was held, and a video of the Ropes-Amherst game shown.

Coach Don Parker extended thanks to all Booster Club members, but special thanks went to Gene Berry, Keith Streety, Ruffin Arrp, John Bob Pritchard and Cliff Nicholson for their extra work this year.

Ropes girls basketball action starts Nov. 2 at Whitharral at 7:00, so the booster club meeting was changed to Thursday. The varsity and junior varsity basketball girls will be guests. A video of their game with Whitharral, as well as the Ropes-Anton football game will be shown.

Ropes Booster Club will host a Junior Varsity and Junior High basketball tournament on January 13 and 15, 1977.

The forward looking employe is making plans for next year's vacation.

Sheridan's Ride

by Jack Sheridan

This would seem to be the week for the black people in Lubbock, as far as the local screen output is concerned. Two distinguished black films have arrived in town simultaneously and both prove that "black can be beautiful." Both are heartily recommended to persons of all calling, for they also represent the power of the motion picture medium and just what can be done with judicious handling and knowledge of subject and applied expertise as well.

Some years ago you will remember, I am sure, a gentle, moving film about a black share-cropping family in Louisiana about the time of the Great Depression of the 1930s. It was called "Sounder" and it won awards and made stars of two fine performers, Cicely Tyson and Paul Winfield.

Now we have the follow-up or "sequel" if you prefer. It is called "Part 2, Sounder," which bothers me a little. There are and have been too many "Part 2" films and this one could do without that identifying numeral. For it quite stands on its own and as a worthy successor or continuation to the original.

This time the family Morgan is the same but new names have replaced the originals and in this instance to excellent advantage.

The film, by the skilled Robert B. Radnitz, is at the South Plains Mall Cinema. It is G-rated and runs 98 minutes. It concerns the efforts of the black community and the Morgan family in particular to build a new school for their children.

It is, above all, a story of determination 45 years ago that is being reflected in self determination and advances which are being reflected daily on the national scene.

This is a warm, beautifully photographed and directed by William Graham film. It is definitely a worth while time in a movie house, for the color is not important, the purely human values are the ruling sign.

Of the original "Sounder" only Taj Mahal as the folk-singing neighbor has returned. In the key roles as the parents, replacing Winfield and Tyson, we have Harold Sylvester and Ebony Wright who carry on very well indeed. Darryl Young is the eldest child and Annazette Chase is the school teacher.

It is a comfortable, family film, this "Part 2, Sounder" and you could do far worse than budget your time to give it a look. You come away with rewards and with that warm glow that so seldom communicates itself to a movie audience.

Running just a minute less than the above film, 97 minutes, and contrasting sharply with the above with its PG rating, is a funny black film, "Car Wash" which has come into the Fox Theater complex. Here again is a cast of largely unknown players who play this wacky film to the hilt.

You have never quite seen or gone through a car wash establishment to match this one and where "Part 2, Sounder" is gentle and restrained, "Car Wash" emerges with no holds barred. It is a genuinely funny film and worth your attention.

The setting is Mr. B's downtown car wash and the whole broad canvas of hokum and funny situations involves not only the help but their oddball customers as well. The music is superb, by Normal Whitfield, and the visual and dialogue antics are just fine.

The best known name, perhaps, in the lengthy cast is Richard Pryor, the very funny, very talented black comedian who scores as the preacher, with his flashy car and a retinue, which includes the Pointer Sisters. His is a funny portrait.

There is a young woman, Lauren Jones, who touches as the lonely streetwalker, while Bill Duke shines forth as the frightened black militant.

Prof. Irwin Corey who has never gotten a real break visually on TV or the screen is a wow as the suspected mad bomber, and you'll like Lorraine Gary as the Beverly Hills uptight housewife. Add to these the gum-chewing caricature by Melanie Myron and the noticed return to the screen of veteran Clarence Muse and you have the ingredients for this better-than-average, funny film. That's "Car Wash" at the Fox.

Note please the upcoming one-night stand (at the Auditorium) on Nov. 19 of the musical hit, "A Little Night Music" probably the only first-grade, professional show that will cross the local boards this year.

This is the touring company of the Broadway hit that is being made into a film with Elizabeth Taylor in Austria these days. The local visitation of the live company is under the auspices of the Texas Tech University Center Cultural Events. Tickets are available at the Center and you are earnestly recommended to this one.

Old friends Whittemore and Lowe, the duo-pianists, make a return in concert with the Lubbock Community Concerts Association at the Monterey High School Auditorium on Friday night this week, while next Tuesday brings the brilliant Ray Charles in concert to Lubbock Christian College.

Later in the month we have the second concert of the Lubbock Symphony Orchestra and soon the opening of the Tennessee William's comedy, "Period of Adjustment" at the Lubbock Theatre Centre. So, you see, there is plenty to do, if one wishes. I'll catch most of them, I hope you'll take time off and see some of them, too. There's nothing like "live" entertainment, whether its at Jones Stadium, the Auditorium-Coliseum or Theatre Centre or where else. The old tube is fine, but it just doesn't cut it compared to the real thing.
