TRUTH AND FREEDOM

Homer Henderson

The truth is liberating. There is no doubt about it! "You shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." Knowing the truth about any given matter, knowing the facts, always brings the freedom of thinking and acting on the basis of the truth. Restrictions are placed upon freedom wherever the truth is unobtainable or concealed. For example, one aspect of oppression under Communist domination is the strict control of the government over certain areas of truth which are considered unfit for public consumption. We know of cases in which the Soviet press either has failed to print certain facts or has editorialized them to suit the view of the state.

In America, we value the freedom which comes from knowing the truth; we honor freedom of the press to print the facts whatever they are, however distasteful they may be. Yet we often have cause to wonder if our own freedom does not contain certain built-in limitations where access to the truth is concerned. Over the past decade of international crisis, we have learned that some newsworthy items are "put on ice" in the interest of national security or prestige. A case in point was the U-2 incident over the Soviet Union; our government officially denied spy activities only to admit later that the U-2 plane was indeed on a reconnaissance mission. Later we suffered through the various "official" versions of the Bay of Pigs invasion until a courageous President admitted a mistake. And even today, we find the truth of the Pueblo incident very difficult to ascertain among the Heinz-variety of claims. Adding to the confusion over how much truth is really revealable or available even in our free society there are the secret files of the Warren Commission Report regarding the assassination of John Kennedy; some of these files cannot be opened until after the year 2000.

Since we do not know the truth about all the circumstances regarding such situations, we are also denied the freedom of precise judgment about such limitations upon factual information. Some will insist that all the facts ought always to be revealed regardless of the consequences or embarrassment involved. Others will prefer to trust the censorship of those in control of the facts believing their judgment to be in the best interest of all concerned. Some where between these two extremes, there emerges the realization that, justifiable or not, restrictions upon the fact available to the public paralyzes the validity of public opinion. The people are denied informed freedom of response to certain areas of government policy which may be based on knowledge not known to the public.

During the U-2 incident over Russia, public feeling ran high against the shooting down of the plane until the American people were informed that the pilot had been on an intentional spy mission. Then public opinion changed. As long as we did not know the truth, we were denied the freedom of valid response to

Mahon Reports On Boll Weevil Program

Washington, D. C. — Representative George Mahon reports from Washington that the President's budget contains $408,000 for the continued maintenance of the boll weevil barrier along the eastern fringe of the caprock. The program has been underway for several years, the purpose being to prevent the migration of the boll weevil westward in to the South Plains and cotton producing areas in the western United States. Mahon said he was confident that the Committee on Appropriations, which he heads, will support the necessary funds for the continuation of the program. The program is a joint effort by farmers and the government, farmers sharing in the cost of maintaining the barrier.

The funds requested would carry the program at the same level as last year. United States Department of Agriculture officials are highly pleased with accomplishments.

Attend Young H'memakers Convent'n

The Sixth Annual Young Homemakers Convention was held January 12 and 13 at the Commodore Perry Hotel in Austin.

Among those attending were Mary Ann Jones and Genell Ward of Ropes and Harlene Cornett of the Loop Chapter.

The theme for this year's convention was "Building Family Unity."

State Young Homemaker Little Sister, Kathy Kobayashi, brought greetings from the FRA girls at the morning session Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bass of Lubbock gave an interesting oration with the topic "On Being One Among Much and Many".

Approximately a hundred door prizes were awarded at five different times during the convention. Mary Ann and Genell each received one of these gifts. A Tappan Range was also awarded to a Young Homemaker.

At noon Friday the Young Homemakers joined the Young Farmels for a luncheon at the Terrace Motor Hotel. Dolly Ware was speaker. Her topic was "Living with Laughter".

The evening session included a business meeting. An amendment to the Young Homemaker's Constitution was changed; reports given; and a new president Mrs. Linda Baker of Marlon, elected.

Nancy Ann English of Teath Area 8, was announced as the Little Sister for 1968. She was awarded a $500 scholarship, given by the Rural Electric Co-Operatives of Texas.

Saturday morning the group enjoyed a talk on "Focus on Creative Living" presented by Robert E. Ledbetter Jr. of Austin, Marriage and Family Counselor. This was followed by the installation of officers, and closing ceremonies.

While in Austin they visited a former Tech class mate, Mrs. Jerry Cook, who is attending the University of Texas.

They report a real nice time.

MRS. PETTLET REPORTED IMPROVED

Mrs. Sarah Pettlet of Pailicious, and former teacher in the Ropes School System, was reported to be improved last week.

During the recent hurricane in that part of the country, the residents were ordered to evacuate. In the process of loading her car to leave, the wind blew the door shut on her arm, crushing it.

JEST SOME THOUGHTS

We think maybe its cold, and all those winter clothes store / away last week during the heat, ways are again making an appearance.

The 'weather' of this week began with a beautiful spring day Sunday; Monday we saw, like a dense fog. It cleared for awhile, and later it began to rain, turning into sleet and snow. Monday night presented icy highways and hazardous driving warnings. Tuesday the sun ventured out for a short while only to be replaced by a beautiful snow that deposited about an inch of the white moisture on the already iced over roads. As it looks Tuesday night, we see icy roads, more snow is falling, and you'll have to look for yourself Wednesday because we will be 'snowed under' trying to put this paper out.

We understand local weather prognosticator Bill Chandler made the prediction awhile back that we would be treated to some falling weather between the 12th and 14th of February. Looks like he was right again.

We were almost forced to write a column this week as we have been too busy to gather news, and a couple of local residents handed us some pretty good material.

Our 6th grader came in the other day and inquired what they produce the most of in Brazil. Well, we couldn't beam, and reply 'coffee'. She says, "Nope, Brazilians".

And, handed to us this week are a few timely proverbs:

—Truth only has to change hands a few times to become fiction.

—Never miss an opportunity to make others happy — even if you have to let them alone to do it.

—It is better to know less than to know a lot that isn't so.

—One sure way to avoid any criticism is to be nothing and do nothing.

There you go, just quietly exist, let the world turn, take no active part in anything, express no opinion on any subject, and you are absolutely safe — no one knows you are alive to criticize.

That might get pretty dull.

Playing safe sometimes leads to failure — sometimes to happiness. Depends on the time and circumstances — and your judgment.

A woman watched a steel worker walking nonchalantly high above the street on the beam of a new sky scraper. Though pneumatic hammers and riveters were making a horrible noise, the steel worker was unconcerned. In a few moments he descended to the street and passed by the woman.

"My, but I have never seen anyone with such steady nerves," exclaimed the woman. "This ain't nothing, Lady," he replied, "I used to drive a school bus."

Wonder what the statistics are in the U.S. on tranquilizers for school bus drivers.

Man (getting a shave): Barber, will you please give me a glass of water. Barber: What's the matter? Something in your throat? Man: No, I just want to see if my throat leaks.

Know why he was at the barber shop getting a shave? Read on.

"What's wrong Frank?" asked his wife.

"My razor," boomed the voice from the bathroom. "It doesn't cut at all."

Replied the better half, "Nonsense. Your beard can't be tougher than linoleum."

Well, you better get out your snow shoes, skis, sleds and warm clothing and prepare to make the gas company happy. Looks like we've had it.

this incident. Properly, we are witnessing a public response.

Expert after expert takes the proverbial trip to Vietnam "to get the facts." Upon their return, we continue to hear the standard version, the revised version, along with countless authorized and unauthorized versions. According to what facts, according to whose version of the truth do we find the freedom to act responsibly as citizens whose tax dollars and whose elected officials are carrying out our policy in Vietnam?

Clearly, there is a problem here. The conclusion we must draw from it is not so clear. Millions have chosen to avoid the confusion, to avoid taking a stand, and as a result to remain apathetic and uninvolved. "Let those in the know fight the war and determine our policy." I believe that in our system of government "of the people, by the people, and for the people" we can ill afford the luxury of non-involvement. We cannot allow restriction or confusion of the truth to paralyze us. If we care about the freedom still available, we must dare to make a stand on the facts available. A perilous time is calling every citizen to be informed in order to exercise responsible freedom of choice in November, 1968.
