LAKE E. V. SPENCE REPORT

Fishery biologists who have been keeping a very close eye on the striped bass situation at Lake E.V. Spence near Robert Lee reported last week that they have netted female strippers which have evidently spawned in Lake Spence.

The fishermen had doubts that the exotic saltwater transplants would spawn in the fresh water lake and they still are not sure if any of the eggs hatched. They say more study and 'net' work will have to be done before a thorough analysis can be made.

However, fishery chief Bill Follis has successfully raised striped bass in hatchery equipment at Lake Spence, thus insuring a supply of strippers for Lake Spence and other West Texas lakes.

While fishery men have been busy with the striped bass program at Spence, anglers have been taking some excellent hauls of black bass and 'giant' crappie. Crappie have moved into shallow water and some good sized ones have been noted lately.

Hot dog war brewing over use of offal

A major controversy has broken out in the United States over whether the meat in the great American hot dog should or should not be allowed to contain offal.

The state of Michigan bans the use of offal. But this conflicts with the federal Wholesale Meat Acts, which allows offal, and forbids states to establish standards differing from the government's.

Curbs are urged on sports

By DAWN ROGERS
Copley News Service

If you're making your boy warm up for Saturday's baseball game every day after school, you may be throwing him a bad curve.

That is the opinion of Dr. H. Paul Bauer, an orthopedic surgeon in private practice and team physician for the San Diego Padres baseball club, who advised against dads and sons throwing the ball every night. "It can cause problems," he said.

"In youngsters under 16, the elbow just won't take a great deal of stress." And the reason is, he explained, that the growth center on the inside of the bone, the epiphysis, hasn't united with the rest of the bone. Extensive use of the elbow, as in a lot of pitching, tends to pull or prevent these elbow parts from joining.

Throwing curve balls also aggravates the condition, said Bauer, and he is for banning its use in boys' baseball.

"Of course if one team is using the curve ball, and another team isn't, you're going to have a problem. I'm for setting up uniform rules on Little League."

The rules, he said, should ban the use of the curve ball until a youngster is 16, and pitching should be limited to three innings.

Little League fans may not agree, but say the doctors, the youngsters' health must be considered first.

Parents may have to cool their enthusiasm for winning and concentrate on the antidote prescribed by Dr. E. Paul Woodward: Winning isn't everything. Teach kids to be good sports.

Dr. Woodward, team physician for the San Diego Chargers, and in the private practice of orthopedics, said that he feels that sports are good for kids, but with certain restrictions.

"It is important that parents do not regiment all of their children's time into playing sports. They need more time to do other things," he said.

"More emphasis should be placed on learning sportsmanship, rather than always on the winning."

Dr. Woodward also added his suggestions on what can be done to reduce injuries among kids who play in Pop Warner football.

Many times, he said, knee injuries are caused by a cleat which catches, causing the knee to lock and twist.

"I recommend that we change the type of shoe — either use smaller cleats or eliminate them altogether. Use ripple-sole or tennis shoes."

Woodward was also against open field blocking, and for limiting blocking in Pop Warner to above the waist. "Studies have shown that this can be done effectively, and reduce injuries."

For the athlete who is past the years of Pop Warner and Little League, a little young for the rocking chair, but enjoys a game of tennis, the doctors also had some advice.

At one time or another you may dislocate your finger. (Even if you are an armchair athlete, you can do it flipping open the beer can.) And if you're a do-it-yourselfer, you may be tempted to pop the old finger back in place.

Dr. James Borden, a hand surgeon, grimaces at the thought. "Don't do it yourself," he advises. "It's just not a good idea."

"It may be that you also have a fracture, and if you replace the finger, it may be that a doctor can't see it, even after it is X-rayed."

In Appreciation

By HECTOR SERNA
As the school year ends, there has to be someone that deserves a lot of credit for working so hard with the Junior Class. Our sponsors are Mrs. Cole and Mr. Grigsby. Both of them deserve a lot of thanks for helping us so much.

But Mrs. Cole has really been wonderful to the Junior Class. I have never seen a teacher who displays as much patience over OUR Junior Class of 1973. The class needed a lot of unity and discipline at the beginning of the year. Mrs. Cole accomplished this impossible task.

Mrs. Cole unified the class to a successful car wash, to a successful Junior Play, and to a successful Jr.-Sr. Banquet. The Jr.-Sr. Banquet was the goal of the class from the start of the year. Mrs. Cole was a new teacher in Shallowater High School and was appointed as a sponsor of the Junior Class. What a job for a newcomer to this school! As President of the Junior Class, and in behalf of all the class, thank you!

Retirement party

Last Friday afternoon, Mr. Morris called all the Jr. and Sr. High Students to the gymnasium for Mr. Todd's retirement party.

Mr. Morris said a few kind words and then turned it over to Gary Farris, the chairman of the party committee. Gary told us that the Sr. class put up the sign "Todd Field" over the football field. Then Gary gave Mr. Todd a one hundred dollar certificate from Sears. The money was collected from Jr. and Sr. High students and from the teachers.

Mr. Todd gave a little speech and thanked everyone and then told us to help keep the building clean since he'll be gone and to help Mr. Whitby with his work too.

All the students and teachers got a small piece of the cake, which was beautifully decorated. It was a really nice party and Mr. Todd enjoyed it!

'A' honor roll

Elementary Honor students are Fourth Grade: Mark Jungman and Kelly Pipes.

The Sixth Grade are Connie McCollum and Dana Vickery.

Elementary students with perfect attendance are as follows:

4-H Club project pays off

On May 17, Maureen Pair received a check for $142.78 from Lubbock County 4-H Club in payment for the sale of Freddy plus a $60.00 premium.

Freddy, a Chesterwhite barrow, placed second in the Shallowater Junior Livestock Show on March 10, and placed fifth in the Lubbock County FFA and 4-H Livestock Show in Lubbock.

Freddy was housed on her uncle's farm three miles out of Shallowater and Maureen went out daily to feed and exercise him.

Freddy was purchased from Garland Booser's Chesterwhite stock and was fed rations suggested by Garland, the price of which amounted to approximately $40.

According to Maureen, the most fun in following up this project was exercising and playing with Freddy, the most unusual experience was bathing and dressing up Freddy on a cold rainy night in the Booser's barn just before the stock show.

The saddest time was saying goodbye to Freddy at the Lubbock sale, but the most exciting time was May 17, when she received her Lubbock County 4-H check.

New table wines premier

By MARY LESTER
Copley News Service

Three outstanding table wines will be premiering any day now in the marketplace: two are red and one white.

Although both reds are Zinfandel, that is where the comparison stops.

When I tasted Paul Masson's new Zinfandel, it had had but three months' bottle aging. The aim is six months plus a previous three years of aging in small oak barrels. The first bottling is a blend of 1968 and 1969 wines.

It seems to me that Joe Stillman, Masson's winemaker, has come up with another winner. Aged just long enough to give it a deep red color with a mere tinge of brown, it still has a fresh, fruity flavor rather than the characteristics of a Bordeaux.

Korbel's Zinfandel is another story. Less than a year old, six or seven months to be exact, from the time of fermenting to bottling to shipping, it is meant to be a light, easy-to-become-accustomed-to wine.

A clear ruby red, I discovered it to be almost zingy in its taste; fresh, a wine that is expected to be drunk young and not meant for aging. It definitely has more body and distinctiveness than a rose and is a bright addition to the red wine scene.

Oakville Vineyards' with their 1973 total wine production set at only 20,000 cases, has created another superb white. Their first masterpiece, introduced last year, was a Sauvignon Blanc. The latest is a Gewurztraminer.

This wine is soft, lucite in color and has every reason to proudly carry its main characteristic of spiciness. (The German word for spicy is "Gewurz.") I love Gewurztraminer and I cannot recall ever having had any better, from the United States, than Oakville's. This winery and its across-the-road neighbor, Robert Mondavi, make their white wines in the German method that allows them to hold up two to three times longer in age.

Even though by no means new in the wine market, I recently "rediscovered" the excellent Cabernet Sauvignon of Novitiate Winery.

The senior trip

Last Thursday, the Seniors went to Palo Duro Canyon for their Senior Trip.

Mr. Grissom, their sponsor, went with them and had a good time. Most of them got a sunburn. They ate lunch up there and they climbed mountains and went swimming.

All of them had a pretty good time.

What a Year!

By HECTOR SERNA
The weather has really become very beautiful! As the days become warmer, the school bells are now resting after a long nine months work. The halls will be empty and lonely without the three-hundred students rushing back and forth to classes.

It's really been a good year for all of us. We're all trying to learn as much as we can, but we still like to have a little fun. And that fun always includes sport events. Through Football and basketball, we've all backed the teams through wonderful victories and agonizing defeats.

We saw so many little things at school also. Learning has to be a little entertaining, because not every day is the same. Each day, something new occurs which inspires many to learn more about this big world and its problems.

The teachers have really been wonderful this year. They have so much patience and understanding in trying to help us young students as we mature into promising responsible adults like those reading this article. We, the young people, will always try our best to become better citizens and straighten out some of the problems that are in life right now.

NOTICE
The 1973 edition of the MUSTANG is slated to arrive in August.
If you are moving, YOU must make arrangements to have your annual picked up. No books will be mailed unless prepaid to the annual staff.
A notice of arrival will be printed in this paper. All books will be delivered from the high school.

Merrell graduates

Cres Merrell, of Route 1, Shallowater, was a member of the 1973 spring graduation class of McMurry College in Abilene, Texas. Commencement exercises were May 20, 3:00, at the Abilene Civic Center Auditorium. He has attended McMurry all four years and will receive a diploma representing a Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in religion and a minor in history. Cres will graduate with a 3.45 grade point average out of a 4 point system.

At McMurry, Cres is a member of the Phi Alpha Theta international honorary history society; has been secretary and historian of the Eta Epsilon Iota men's social order; vice president of the college choir the McMurry Chanters; secretary and assistant floor counselor of Hunt Dormitory; member of Kappa Delta Sigma, and named on the Dean's List and the 4.0 Dean's List.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Merrell of Route 1, Shallowater, and is a 1969 graduate of Shallowater High School.

Rehabilitation program enters fourth season

A special program aimed at preparing people from minority and low socio-economic groups for new careers in social and rehabilitation services in public schools will enter its fourth year of operation this summer at Texas Tech University through the renewal of a federal grant.

The program trains teacher aides in speech, hearing and language problems in pre-school and early school-age children through the Speech and Hearing Clinic at Texas Tech.

Upon completion of the training program, the aides, or paraprofessionals, are able to work as teacher aides to speech clinicians or in bilingual education programs, migrant education programs, and programs designed to teach English or Spanish as a second language.

The program re-funded by a $50 thousand grant from the Social and Rehabilitation Service of the Health, Education and Welfare Department, includes three levels of training.

The first level is an eight-week training program in the Speech and Hearing Clinic at Texas Tech. Approximately 20 individuals are trained in the eight-week program.

During their eight-week session, the trainees participate in clinical observation, and classroom and lecture sessions designed to enhance the general educational background of the individual. They study speech and hearing problems, behavioral patterns and problems, techniques of training and therapy, disciplinary control methods, general office procedures and machine operation, and how to structure material used by teachers in language lessons.

Advanced levels of training are given through workshops at the university and in the schools where the aides are employed.

In its fourth year, the program will conduct more training through workshops for aides already employed, said Jason O. Rodriguez, program coordinator. Some 170 aides have already been trained during the program's first three years, he said.

The program is interested in introducing more members of minority groups to the profession of speech and hearing training, said Rodriguez. The program offers a professional level of training to advanced individuals who are qualified and wish to pursue a degree in speech and hearing therapy at Texas Tech, he said.

Trainees in the progra must meet certain qualifications before they can enter training, said Rodriguez. Applicants for the program must be unemployed or under-employed at the time of application, but must be under consideration for employment by a school within a year following completion of the training. They must come from families with a specified maximum income or an income below that.

Applicants must have a high school diploma or a GED certificate and be able to take class notes and participate in discussions and practice sessions. They must enjoy working with children regardless of their ethnic background or handicap, he said.

While in the training program, the grant monies pay for travel expenses for commuters or room and board in university facilities for those who live too far from the campus to commute. Textbooks, notebooks, pens and materials for language presentation are also furnished through grant funds. Trainees are paid a per diem stipend while in the training program, explained Rodriguez.

1040 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

- Q. Can every taxpayer participate in the Presidential Election Campaign Fund Check-off?
A. Yes. Every individual, other than a nonresident alien, may participate if he has a tax liability of one dollar or more. Participation in the check-off will not change any of the figures on your tax return.
- Q. Taxpayers electing to participate must complete Form 4875 (which is included in their tax forms package or is available at any IRS office) and attach it to their Federal income tax return.
- Q. I pay finance charges on my bank credit card and oil credit card purchases. Can I deduct these finance charges on my income tax return?
A. Yes. Oil company credit card customers and bank credit card plan users can deduct finance charges as interest if they itemize their deductions. In addition, amounts levied by retail stores on customers' revolving charge accounts and designated "finance charges," are deductible as interest.
- Q. How does income averaging work?
A. The income averaging method permits a part of an unusually large amount of taxable income to be taxed in lower brackets, thus resulting in a reduction of the overall amount of tax due. To use this method, your averageable income for 1972 must be more than $3,000, you must have been either a citizen or resident of the U.S. throughout 1972 and the four preceding years and, with certain exceptions, you must have furnished 50 percent or more of your support during each of the four base period years.
- For a more detailed explanation of these requirements, see IRS Publication 506, "Computing Your Tax Under the Income Averaging Method." It's available free by writing your Internal Revenue district office.
- Q. I received an estimated tax forms package in the mail. Do I have to file the Form 1040-ES?
A. Whether you are required to file a declaration of estimated tax for 1973 depends upon how much you estimate your taxable income will be and how much of it you estimate will be subject to withholding.
- Q. Do you have a free booklet that shows you how to fill out your tax return?
A. Yes. Just write your Internal Revenue district office and ask for IRS Publication 528, "Information on Preparing Your Tax Return." It's available free.
- Q. I don't have enough income to file a return this year, but some tax was withheld from my pay. Should I file anyway?
A. Yes. To get a refund for income tax withheld, you must file a return even if you are not otherwise required to file.

For this year's crop...

Whatever the reason, if you did not have the opportunity to put down enough nitrogen before you planted, by all means apply NITROMITE as an early sidedressing. It's 82% nitrogen . . . Shamrock's fine brand of anhydrous ammonia.

Filling stations feel the pinch

Editor's Note: This is the first of two articles on the gasoline shortage, and how it will affect dealers and consumers.

By RALPH MOSELEY
Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — Drivers pulling into service stations, especially the independents, are beginning to notice the absence of that age-old question by the attendant, "Fill her up, sir?"

Some stations are limiting either by gallon or dollar purchase, the amount of gasoline sold to any single driver.

Some major oil companies, getting ready for the expected pinch in supplies, are limiting allocations to their dealers.

Predictions of a gasoline shortage in New England, the Southwest and the Midwest are bringing a flood of protest on Capitol Hill.

The Chase Manhattan Bank, in its review of the petroleum situation, said the oncoming shortage could "tend to cripple the nation's transportation system."

The study said the shortage could be relieved if the refineries would increase the proportion of yield per barrel of the crude above the presently projected 48 per cent.

This in turn could cause a shortage of fuel oil next winter.

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., announced his subcommittee on Activities of Regulatory Agencies will resume hearings in Detroit on gasoline marketing practices.

Dingell will continue to focus on current marketing activities and their effects on the small businessman.

Conflicting stories from different sources come out daily. The American Automobile Association (AAA) said motorists need not worry about gasoline shortages later in the summer.

The association said, "Most company dealers will have fuel supplies somewhat larger than they received last year, although occasional pinches may occur."

They added that lessened reserves would mean there would be little gasoline at cut-rate prices "but even independent dealers should have supplies to offer at regular prices."

On the other hand, most independents sell at cut-rate prices as they don't have mechanics to bolster their services and their only source of income is from gas and oil.

Independent refineries can no longer get crude oil from the major refineries as they simply do not have the stockpiles.

And major refineries are stuck with large supplies of fuel oil — the winter was not as harsh as expected. Also the Clean Air Act has forced many states and cities to convert from coal to oil to produce electricity.

Consumption of gasoline is up 7 to 8 per cent, and the newer automobiles using a lower compression ratio have larger cylinders.

Tom Powers on the subcommittee on Activities of Regulatory Agencies said in an interview that he understood many independent stations were already out of business with more to follow.

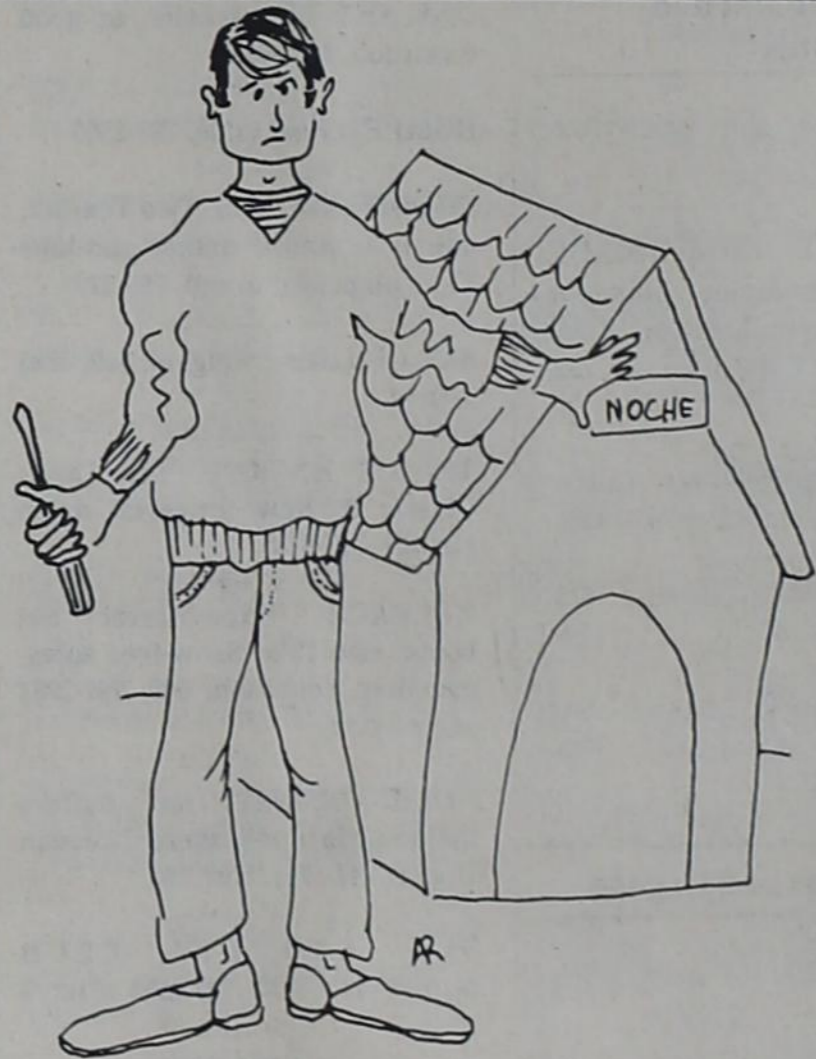

The Independent Oil Men's Association of New England predicts a shortage of 125,000 barrels of gasoline daily in the second and third quarter of this year, and calls for unlimited and tariff-free fuel oil and gasoline imports over the next two years.

The New York-based Petroleum Industry Research Foundation (PIRF) prepared the report for the association.

The shortage at the refineries could increase if a hot muggy summer comes and cities have to burn more fuel in order to supply enough electrical energy to avoid a brownout.

And of course the price of gasoline, which for years has held pretty steady, is starting to accelerate.

The fifty cents a gallon and up is just around the corner. The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) whose 11 members represent 85 per cent of the world's exported oil have asked for a 10 per cent increase in price to compensate for the dollar devaluation.

All you need is a screwdriver

By ANN RUDY
Copley News Service

We built a dog house the other day which was a little like a barn-raising in that our dog is huge and it took a few neighbors to put the thing together.

My husband began this project armed with a 29-cent screwdriver I tucked in his Christmas stocking 10 years ago before I realized he flunked wood shop as a lad. It is my husband's habit to seize this screwdriver whenever there is a job to be done and wander up and down the driveway with it until a neighbor sees him and waves a greeting.

Then my husband waves back with the screwdriver and the inevitable question is asked: "What are you up to with that thing?" It is a loaded question.

So far, we have fixed a fence, hung a gate and built the dog house with that screwdriver and that question.

So it was with the dog house. First one neighbor and then another converged in our garage to offer advice to my husband who was standing, screwdriver in hand, staring at a pile of wood and emitting small moans on the average of one every 15 seconds. "Look, man," said the bearded youth from across the street who, up to now we had considered slightly weird, "You got to have a power saw to make that dog house scene."

"Yes," put in our bookish neighbor to the right of us, "that would be a suitable piece of equipment for such an undertaking."

My husband moaned again. The bearded youth ambled off and the bookish fellow said please excuse him for a moment.

But they both returned in ten minutes with a power saw, a book on construction and a hammer for my husband. The three of them set to work and the dog house was up before you could say, "Ouch, I hit my thumb."

And a darn handsome dog house it is, too. All the more so because we found out the kid with the beard not only has a power saw but a great sense of humor, and our bookish neighbor can cuss with quiet eloquence.

Maybe my husband isn't so helpless with that screwdriver after all — it certainly is a marvelous tool for communication.

Drive the car with no pistons, valves or rods.

Mazda's rotary engine has only three basic moving parts. So there's not much to cause you trouble. It develops twice the usual horsepower for its size. So it gives you startling performance along with uncanny smoothness. And the rotary-engine Mazda RX-2 comes with radial tires, power-assist brakes including front discs, full instrumentation, bucket seats, lots more. Sport Coupe or Four-door. Take a test-drive today.
