Santa Coming Again December 5th To Slaton's Trades Day Celebration

Merchants who are taking part in the Slaton Trades Day program report that more people are registering for the December Gifts than have ever registered before. The program is especially designed to encourage the people who live in this trade area to come to Slaton and it is hoped that the people who live in the Slaton Trade area will come in often and register at every business place taking part.

The November Trades Day featured old Santa Claus who gave the kiddies candy and he will be back again on December 5th along with some other surprises for the youngsters. The next Trades Day is expected to be the high point in the Slaton Trades Day program.

In the one held on Nov. 7th J. C. Champion enacted the part of old Santa to the delight of the children. Mr. Champion has been playing the part of Santa for several years, however he will not be able to take his part in the program, but a red checked, jolly old Santa will be on hand to see that the kids are taken care of.

Particularly entertaining as the Slaton Trades Day programs have been the Slaton Band concerts that are featured just before the gifts are awarded. The band is under the direction of Vic Williams. The Slaton Tiger Band will be on hand again on December 5th with an excellent program. ### Give A Gift Today For Disabled Vets

Have you bought a gift to put in the "gift boxes" for disabled veterans? It doesn't have to be wrapped and it can be a gift of any kind. These gifts are sent to one of our Veterans Hospitals where the American Legion Auxiliary is permitted to have a small room in which to handle the gifts. Gift boxes are located in many Slaton stores.

Members of the Auxiliary help the soldiers find the gifts (selected from those you put in the gift boxes) that he wished to send home to his Mom, Dad, wife or child. They wrap the gifts and mail them free for the soldier.

Everyone should place gifts in the boxes to help these soldiers have a happier Christmas; so buy as many gifts as you like and help fill up the boxes as soon as possible.

Two champs — Slaton's Tigers of 4-A South and Littlefield's Wildcats of 4-A North — will clash today at 2:30 p. m. at Jones Stadium, Lubbock, in battle for the District title.

Both teams advanced to the title playoff game last week end. Slaton nosed out Post 7-6, while Littlefield had a tough time downing Levelland 20-13. Use of the neutral field for the game was agreed on last Sunday at a meeting of school officials in Lubbock. Other major arrangements were also made by Superintendents J. C. Hutchinson and P. L. Vardy of Littlefield and Slaton.

Ticket prices, with tax included, are $1 for adults, 50 cents for Texas Tech students, and 30 cents for high school students. There will be no reserved seats. Tickets are still on sale here in Slaton and in Lubbock.

Slaton fans will be seated in the east stands at the stadium, and Littlefield partisans will have the west side. Game officials, agreed upon at the meeting, will be Harvey Dunn, referee; Curtis Barrett, umpire; M. O. Pittman, head linesman, and Earl Ince, field judge.

The Tigers came out of the Post tussle with few injuries last week, so the entire team should be in good shape for the meeting in Lubbock today. Ed Willis, star fullback, has been favoring a bruised knee this week in practice but will be ready to start the game today.

Littlefield has the edge in weight over the Tiger eleven. They boast a line average of 178 pounds per man and a backfield average of 168. This is compared to Slaton's average of 159 in the line and 132 in the backfield. They have two big men in the line, a guard weighing 204 and a tackle weighing 205.

Both teams are undefeated in conference play. Littlefield went through the season, getting eight wins and losing one. The Wildcats have scored 314 points to the opponents 47. After getting off to a shaky start, the Tigers came out of the hole and have scored six straight victories, racking up a total of 129 points to the opponents 65.

Probable starting lineup for the Littlefield Wildcats today will be Goff and Edwards at ends; Cotter (Co-Capt.) and J. Fowler at tackles; J. Fowler and Pinkerton at guards, and Hopping at center. The backfield will have Crossley at quarterback; Brock at wingback; Gage at tailback, and Bailes at fullback.

PICTURED ABOVE is a drawing of the new Slaton Methodist Church building which will be built as soon as contracts can be let after the close of the fund raising campaign which will get under way December 4 and will last about two weeks. To cost approximately $80,000 the building will accommodate 500 in its sanctuary. The new building will be erected directly west of the present structure to face north on Lubbock Street. A remodeling of the present structure into an educational building will take place at the same time of the construction of the new church.

A tower and cloister will connect the two buildings. The church has been in the present building since 1921. Seating capacity at present is about 350 including the balcony, the pastor, Rev. O. B. Herring, said. One of the principal objections to the old building, he explained is the height of the steps into the sanctuary. The new building will eliminate this, he said. Those recently elected as members of a building committee to lead the congregation in the building program are: V. B. Browning, Bruce Pember, Travis Reynolds, E. R. Legg, W. R. Wilson, C. A. ### Legend of the YULE LOG

In Virginia, the old Dominion, storied land of early American history, there is an old tradition of the origin of the Yule log that is retold every Christmas.

As the family sits around the Yule log and sips their Christmas eggnog on Christmas eve, the ancient legend is recounted again.

One very cold Christmas eve, when the frosty wind howled across a world of snow, an old man was sitting in his little cabin wishing that he had a fire to warm him.

Suddenly he heard the cry of a little child away out in the cold. The old man hobbled to the door and gazed out across the snow. The wind and the snow came rustling in and the old man shivered until his "oldest two feet" chattered with cold.

The plaintive cry of the child came again above the whistle of the wind. It went straight to the old man's heart and he wished with all his power of longing that he might have the strength to go out and find the unfortunate babe.

The cry came a third time — and then a wondrous thing happened. A miraculous power filled the old man's veins. His muscles became strong and tense, his crutch fell back into the cabin and he stepped from his threshold out into the snow.

Hurrying over the snow with a speed he had not owned since boyhood, by and by he came to a little child lying in a snow bank. He bent down and touched the child and a great new strength flowed over him, a strength which seemed to give him wings as he sped back to his cabin.

Arriving there, he placed the child upon the bed, tenderly drew the ragged coverlet about it and then looked to see if there were a bit of furniture he could use to make a fire with which to warm the little one.

At that precise moment a great log rolled across the threshold and into the fireplace. The little child looked at the log with eyes like stars—stars which sent gleams of light that kindled the log with the most brilliant fire the old man ever had seen.

The dingy little room immediately was filled with radiance and warmth, and as the light enveloped the child he laughed and laughed with a melody like a song from the heart. The old man turned his eyes to where the fire burned and watched the flames leap in beautiful rainbow tints over the log, and at his old eyes watched, the colors seemed to form the shape of the Cross in the fire.

The flames of the Cross leaped higher and higher, blue, red, yellow and white, and as the old man watched this display, suddenly and magically there appeared a table in the center of the room, covered with a Christmas feast such as never before had been spread before his eyes. And never again was the old man hungry or cold, and never after that was there a Christmas in old Virginia without the Yule log and the Christmas Child to give light and warmth.

And that is the story of the Yule log as it is told in Virginia every Christmas eve.

The ideal Christmas tree is the fir, because of its tendency to hold its needles longer.

A final step in trimming the Christmas tree is frosting it with fluffy snow. A simple and popular form of snow is ordinary soap flakes.

Society Clubs

Most women are worrying these days because chivalry is slowly dying a dreadful death, but ever once in a while someone gives the subject a new twist. The other evening I became involved in a friendly discussion with our able editor, Mr. Jackson, concerning the fact that most women consider "marriage" as being the horrible villain responsible for the complete and terrible downfall of courtesy and politeness. My picture was painted something like this: Before you're married, your suitor opens every door for you, helps you on with your coat, sends you flowers, compliments your hats and appearance and laughs at your jokes. After the knot is tied and married bliss has supposedly taken over where freedom and uninformed ignorance left off, the husband now jumps out of the car, stomps off into the house never knowing but what you broke your leg while crawling out of the auto with those three inch heels hanging on the torn seat covers; he lets you struggle in public eating places getting in and out of coats while he staggers toward the cashier turning pale and muttering unprintable words at the check; and as for laughing at your humor attempts, you're lucky if he even smiles in your direction. I went on to mention that there were a few men left that remained courteous and polite even after the wedding day.

After raving on and on like this for a while and getting myself worked up into a violent mental agitation which was rapidly approaching delirium, I looked up quickly only to find the editor sitting there with his usual knowing smile; and I knew before he said a word that I was licked. "Yeah," he said, "and those same husbands who are so all-fired polite in public aren't the ones like us (which includes my husband) who 'swipe' out the dishes, make up beds, polish windows, beat rugs, carry out the trash, and get down on all fours like a common beast of burden and polish the floors." And he's right too. To heck with chivalry, give us more common beasts of burden.

The week end holiday seemed to be very successful to everyone. We went back to East Texas for our first visit since Slaton was plagued with our newly established residence. The thing most impressive about going for a visit home was seeing the "mountains." We called them hills when we lived there, but since living on the plains they have grown into mountains. Something else typical was the blinding rain. It took us

Little Bobby Taylor boosted his points scored total this season to 13 last Friday at Post, and with his one point in that particular game he brought the Tigers a 7-6 win in a bitterly fought contest. The victory gave the home team, undefeated in district play, the South half conference championship, and now sends them into battle today against the strong Littlefield Wildcats.

Taylor came onto the field early in the third period after "Curly" Lewis had made his 82-yard touchdown trip and calmly booted the all-important extra point. That was just about the ball game.

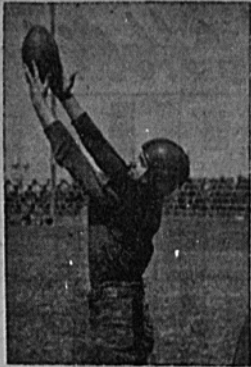

But Post came roaring back later on in the fourth stanza and scored their only touchdown. They had to drive 43 yards on three and a 15-yard penalty to get to the Quarterback Jack Kirkpatrick passing to Halfback Norman Cash for the alley. Kirkpatrick didn't get chance to try for the extra point because of a bad pass from center. The Antelope holding the ball was stopped by hustling Tiger linemen before he could get the ball over the double strip.

Had the extra point been made, the game would have been tied; and if the game ended that way the Antelopes would have won on both first downs and penetrations.

The first half ended scoreless, with play having been around mid-field. Post launched one offensive drive that reached the Tiger 30 before it bogged down late in the initial quarter, and then they reached the Slaton six in the second period only to have two running plays and two pass plays broken up.

The third quarter was strictly the Tigers, with the Antelopes trying to hold off. Post held two times, once on their own 35 and later on their 17. And that was Slaton's deepest penetration of the game, aside from the touchdown. Post launched two drives in the final period, but both were cut short, one by a Kirkpatrick pass interception by Cecil Bybee and the other by the end of the game. The Antelopes were on the Tiger 20 when the final gun sounded.

Slaton got in the hole after the second half kickoff, but a clipping penalty brought the team out and set them up for the lone touchdown. Willis took a shot at the line but was stopped for no gain. A short spot pass from Bybee fell incomplete. Then "Curly" Lewis took the handoff from Bybee, skipped around his own right end, and started down field. A timely block of Post's linebacker by Carl Williams sent the little black into the clear momentarily. On the Antelope 30, Bobby Thompson blocked out a Post pursuer, and then Lewis outdistanced three others and went on over the goal line.

Another year of play is in store for End Jerry Huckabay, pictured above. Jerry has been alternating at end and center positions this year and has one touchdown to his credit.

Slaton outgained Post on the ground, 181 yards to 119, but the Antelopes completed ten of 28 passes for 95 yards, as compared to two completions in seven attempts for 11 yards for the Tigers. Post had the edge in first downs, 15 to 7.

The entire Tiger team played heads-up football in their best game of the season. Outstanding men in the line were Pete Williams, Leon Moore, and George Young. Lewis and Bob Thompson, sparked the backfield offensive and were outstanding on the defense.

South Plains boxing fans got the opportunity to see a good scrap and help found a scholarship at the same time last night at Texas Tech when Bill Henderson took on Tony Olivias in a main event at Sled Allen's Arena. The Henderson-Olivias 10-round and four other bouts were scheduled for the program, which was sponsored by the Future Farmers of America Chapter at Tech. An FFA scholarship fund will be boosted from the fund.

Mrs. Marable Has 96th Birthday

Mrs. Cornelia Marable, mother of Mrs. J. F. Merrill of Slaton, celebrated her ninety-sixth birthday Tuesday, Nov. 15. Mrs. Marable seems to come from a naturally long-lived family as her grandfather lived to be 112 and her father 101. Mrs. Marable's husband died at the age of 64. A native of Kentucky, Mrs. Marable came to Texas at the age of 18. She had lived in Slaton with her daughter for the past twenty years, and prior to that time she resided in Cleburne, Texas. The mother of five children, Mrs. Marable also has seven grandchildren and seven great grandchildren. However, only two of her children are still living, Mrs. Merrill and a son, J. E. Marable of Ft. Worth. During the day, several people from Slaton called to wish Mrs. Marable a happy birthday, and she received over a hundred cards from friends both from Slaton and out-of-town. Mrs. W. T. Howard and her son Neill spent the week end in San Angelo where they visited Mrs. Howard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Neill.

Druids First to Use "Magic" of Mistletoe

The greens which are used for Christmas decorations found their way into early festivities because of certain virtues attributed to them by the ancients, and many of them which adorned pagan seasonal rites were later taken over to grace the ceremonies and celebrations of Christmas Day.

In both England and America, the holly and the mistletoe are associated with Christmas as invariably as are the plum pudding and Christmas tree.

It was the Druids who first used the mistletoe. "Heal-all" was their name for it. The plant was supposed to have curative values, and gradually they assigned to it all manner of magic powers.

Their priests, each year around the time when we now celebrate Christmas, would have high platforms built around the sacred oak trees which, in a manner of speaking, were "hosts" to the mistletoe. Robed in ceremonial vestments of white, they ascended these platforms, and with golden sickles especially made for the solemn occasion they cut away the mistletoe.

The Saxons also prized it and it was they who gave to it the name of mistletoe.

Eventually the green came to be regarded as a symbol of peace. Opposing warriors who met near it would call a truce, and it was customary to hang it over the entrance doors so that they who entered might be assured of friendship.

Food Leader

One of the rising young giants in the field of canned foods is frozen orange juice concentrate. The pack for this year is expected by food processors to be around 9 million gallons or 192 million six ounce cans.

Corn State

Iowa's corn feeds Iowa's hogs and around 12,000,000 porkers go to market every year giving farmers an annual income of around two and a half billion dollars annually.

Untamed Wilderness

Wild horses and wild burros still roam unrestricted in some of the more remote sections of Arizona.

While Christmas is the merriest of all seasons of the year it can also be a time of tragedy if certain hazards aren't avoided and some particular precautions taken.

The National Safety Council annually points out that the Christmas holidays are the most dangerous of the year, usually replete with casualties, home accidents, fires and falls.

The council has listed the following "don'ts" and precautions which if remembered will help make this Christmas season a safe one:

The Christmas tree shouldn't be placed near a stove or fireplace.

Don't give children any toys that could prove dangerous, such as those with sharp points. If toys are operated with electricity, be sure some grownup supervises their use.

The Christmas tree should not be decorated with lighted candles. Carefully-wired electric bulbs definitely are much safer.

Don't leave a lighted tree unguarded at any time. One should be on the lookout for fire all the time the tree is lighted. Especially dangerous is the practice of some families in leaving the Christmas tree lighted and unwatched all night long.

One should never use a rickety, unsafe ladder in decorating the tree.

Don't place Christmas candles near the tree, curtains, paper wreaths or any other inflammable decorations.

Remember, the Christmas tree can be made fire-resistant. According to the United States forestry service, it can be done in this manner: Divide the weight of your tree by four and buy that many pounds of ammonium sulphate. Dissolve it in water—one and one-half pints of water to each pound of ammonium sulphate. Cut the end of your tree trunk on a diagonal. Put some of the solution in a jar and stick the diagonal butt of the tree into it. Add more solution as the tree drinks it up.

Don't be excessive about Christmas "spirits." Keep toys out of places where people might trip over them.

Remove the tree from the house before it dries out.

During Christmas you'll probably have many guests, so sprinkle salt or sand on icy steps and sidewalks.

That's the record of 453 men and women, members of the 1700-strong Public Service Company families, who will be the guests of honor this week at service award dinners to be held throughout our service area.

The "old-timer" of this group has devoted 44 years to public service, while the "youngsters" to be honored have served you for at least five years.

As a company, we are proud of our record of 25 years of good citizenship and public service. As an employer, prouder still of the 453 men and women who, as a group, have spent 6183 years making that record possible.

National Plowing Champ

National plowing champion for the second consecutive year is Paul Stiefbold, Naperville, Ill., shown holding the gold trophy he won for placing first in the event near Runnells, Iowa, before 70,000 people. Stiefbold defended his National Level Land Plowing crown successfully against eight other finalists. A winner in 1946 and 1948, Stiefbold is the only three-time victor in the history of national plowing competition.

The Question Of The Week . . .

More domestic problems. Will we ever settle all of them? This week's question runs kinda like this, "Do you think a husband should discuss his business with his wife?"

Well, the fat's in the fire now. Since women usually have the last word, let's let them have the first too. Mrs. Bill Ball says, "I certainly do. In fact, very emphatically, yes I do. Of course Bill doesn't have much business, but if he ever does I intend to know all about it."

Speaking for the males, T. E. McClanahan thinks it is safer to tell her before she finds out for herself, and that it's a pretty good idea anyway; however, he goes on to say, "But I guess I don't tell her all the details."

Back to the girls, one fair damsel tells us, "I surely do think so. Some men think they're a little hen pecked if they have to reveal their business transactions to their wives; but my husband tells me all about his business and he doesn't think he's hen pecked, so I'm sure it's alright as long as he doesn't think he is." This revolutionary statement is the product of Mrs. W. T. Howard.

Lee Vardy, superintendent of Slaton schools, first just gave his familiar, jovial laugh and said, "Now you've got me on the spot." But after a few insistent remarks from our department he admitted, "Sure, there's no reason why the woman shouldn't know all about the business. After all, marriage is a co-operative partnership, and the woman should be as responsible as the man for her sake and the family's."

Mrs. Edwin Cummings promised to give us her honest opinion, so here's what she thinks, "Well, if his business involves big decisions that would affect or involve the family, I certainly think it should be discussed; and other than that, if the man's job is interesting to his wife and wants to listen, I think it should be discussed. Most men like to talk about their work, and I, as an example, am always interested in what Ed does."

Another thoughtful woman says, "I think a wife should see the bank account and know where the family stands. It's a fifty-fifty proposition and every woman should understand her husband's business; if she didn't, he might die and she would be left not knowing what to do about it. Some women's husbands won't even let their wives write checks or know what he is doing in his business. That is ridiculous." This dissertation comes from Mrs. A. M. Jackson, who incidentally was the only bookkeeper the Slatonite knew for many years, and it so happens she is still telling Mr. Jackson many things about the business end of the paper.

Enough of what the married people think about all this. Let's see what a few of the bachelors and women plan for the future. Cliff Cox very seriously says, "Speaking from an inexperienced position, I would say 'no' unless, of course, she agrees with everything you're doing."

Phil Brewer, another eligible, admitted, with tongue in cheek, "No! Never trust a woman." Asked if he'd care to be quoted further, he shuddered and said, "Isn't that enough? I'll probably be run out of town on a rail already."

Juanita Wright, one of the prettiest "questionees" (that's a coined word) of the week gave the problem this solution, "When it concerns money, women should know all about it; but then you could look at it this way—if the woman works, what she makes is hers and what the man makes is half hers." Juanita is also of the unmarried variety.

Last but not least, Dave Sanders put a stop to the questioning for another seven days. Asked if he thought women should know about the man's business, he said, "That's silly; my wife already knows more about mine than I do."

Mrs. S. A. Peavy's mother Mrs. G. F. Boone, and her sister Grace Boone, both of Ft. Worth visited over the week end in Slaton with Mrs. Peavy and her family.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. House of Wichita Falls were guests in the home of Mrs. O. D. McClintock week end before last. Mr. House is the brother of Mrs. McClintock.

Slaton Churches To Take Census Sunday

The churches of Slaton are cooperating in an effort to visit every home in Slaton to get a complete census. This Sunday, November 20, is the day set aside for this. Everyone is asked to stay at home so the workers can complete their work in one afternoon.

The churches participating are The First Christian Church, which will work east of 8th street and south of Division; The First Methodist Church, which will work east of 8th street and north of Division; The Church of Christ, which will work west of 8th street and south of Division; The Lutheran Churches of Possey and Southland, which will work west of 8th street and north of Garza, and the First Presbyterian Church, which will work west of 8th street between Division and Garza streets.

Everyone is urged to help in this census. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Anderson and daughter Nancy from Albuquerque, N. M., former residents of Slaton, were week end visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Fertig.

TSCW Experts Give Tips For Cooking

Time, fuel, flavor and food value can be saved by following a set of ten rules in cooking fresh vegetables say food specialists in the Home Economics Department of Texas State College for Women.

1. Prepare vegetables for cooking just when ready to cook.
2. Start cooking vegetables in a minimum amount of boiling salted water.
3. Cook vegetables whole (perhaps in jackets), or in as large pieces as possible to avoid exposing too much surface to water and

4. Cook in a covered utensil at simmering point.
5. Raise the cover and stir only when necessary.
6. Shorten the cooking time to have vegetables just tender.
7. If any cooking liquids is left, serve with the vegetables or use in soups and sauces.
8. Refrain from holding foods hot for long periods of time.
9. Cook frozen vegetables before they thaw.
10. Make raw salads or slaw at the last minute.

Home Town BUILDER!

Hack Lasater, manager of the Slaton Piggly Wiggly super-market, has been in the grocery business since 1929 when he started to work in a small grocery store in Idalou. His official title before the war was "Assistant Manager of Piggly Wiggly." In 1942 he went into the Army where he stayed for three years; and in 1946, after "winning the war," he returned to the store when the "assistant" was removed from the title to make it Manager Lasater.

Besides being a pretty good business man, Hack is what you might call a "Good Joe" as he likes joking almost as well as grocery selling. But perhaps his good humor should be attributed to his wife, Norma, who has a quick wit and a friendly smile. She also works in the store.

Slaton has had a Piggly Wiggly grocery for the past twenty-three years, but they have only been in their new location on the south side of the square since August 23 of this year. Asked how he managed for such a modern, new store, Hack said, "Don't give me the credit. The customers made it possible; I'm proud of it, but not wholly responsible." Slaton's Piggly Wiggly is the newest one in this area, and is one of the most modern on the Plains. They have all new and modern, open-type refrigerator self service cases for meats, produce, and dairy products, all to make shopping quick and easy. Modern fluorescent lights extend from front to back, and wide spacious aisles make shopping a pleasure.

Piggly's is really a one-stop store, as they try to handle all kinds of fancy and staple groceries and meats in order that their customers can do all their shopping at one time. As for stock, they have a complete line of Libby's fruits, vegetables and juices along with the same in Del Monte, Hunts, and many other nationally advertised brands. They also carry a complete line in Sunshine and National cookies and crackers. Their produce is bought daily to insure freshness, and every attempt is made to handle all the seasonable items. Meats of all kinds, cheeses, ice creams and frozen foods are also specialties of the Piggly Wiggly store. "We buy our meats from the best markets whether locally or from produce houses," Hack explained, "it just all depends on which has the better quality at the time."

During the fall months, it takes 25 to 30 people over the week end to keep the store rolling; and they have 18 full-time employees during the week. Head Butcher is Frank Williams, assistant butcher, Bobby Edmondson—and for something attractive behind the meat counter is Butcherette Jeffe Dowell.

For the customer's comfort the store has two automatic blower type heaters with thermostatic control to keep the building at an even temperature day and night. And for summer, they have a modern air conditioning plant installed on top of hte building.

If your problem in grocery shopping is carrying around the baby while trying to decide on what to buy, don't give the matter another thought. At the Piggly Wiggly store you'll find two modern baby carts in which both baby and groceries ride in comfort. And if you don't have babies, there are plenty of nesting carts without the "baby attachment."

You really can't miss Piggly Wiggly. It's the building with the modern glass tile front with nine foot windows for clearest visibility, located at 107 W. Lubbock.

Molasses For Steers
Steer-fattening tests by the Louisiana State university experiment station showed that molasses has an average feeding value of around 85 per cent that of corn when fed at the rate of four to eight pounds a day—about one-third to two-thirds of a gallon—along with cottonseed meal and other concentrates. Other experiments at the station showed that molasses could profitably be fed to work mules at the rate of two to three quarts daily and in these amounts was almost equal to corn.

Cause of Worry
Chronic worry actually is a state of mind which results when an inner sense of security is lacking. The turbulence caused by inner anxiety and bewilderment cannot be bottled up and seeks expression through the worry processes. The individual seeks to rationalize this insecure feeling by attributing it to some outside cause.

Lapo, Minister of Music of the First Methodist Church in Wichita Falls, a choir school will be held in Lubbock, Monday and Tuesday, November 21 and 22 at the First Christian Church. All choir members, directors, organists, and other interested persons are invited to attend the workshop period on Monday night at 7:00, during which Mr. Lapo will work out several anthems. Material interesting to organists as well as singers will be presented. At 9:00 p. m. a seminar for organists and choir directors will be held.

The second night of the school will include another workshop period at 7:00 p. m. and a program open to the public at 8:00 p. m. This program will include anthems presented by the choir and congregation singing led by Mr. Lapo. He will also speak on the multiple choir system and the importance of music in the church service.

Wood's Resistance to Decay

Wood is composed of about 60 per cent cellulose, 28 per cent lignin, and minor quantities of other materials. Cellulose forms the framework of the cell wall. Lignin constitutes the cementing material that binds the cells together and is mixed with cellulose in the cell wall. The color, odor, and natural resistance to decay come from materials other than cellulose or lignin.

JUST TALK

by A.M.J.

that did not go toward making Rotarians any fatter than they were before they started.

Now that it is nearly Thanksgiving my thoughts, along with a lot of other folks thoughts, have turned to turkey and dressing and I'm wondering whether my palate has become jaded or whether the old time turkey dressing was better than the kind that most people slish together these days.

If my memory serves me right my mother worked for days before a big holiday dinner. She cooked corn bread pones and went to a lot of trouble getting sage, spices and sometimes she roasted nuts to put into the turkey dressing, she fuddled with the turkey all morning and the cooking odors that sifted through the house had me half starved before all the company arrived. When possible I got my seat right next to my dad who sat at the head of the table and did the carving. It was quite a delicate job too for he had to have his knife as sharp as a razor, he stood up and twisted the bird this way and that and helped every one to big generous portions and I always got big platefuls of the dressing. Today they don't fill the inside of the turkey with the dressing but cook it on the outside and a lot of times it is made out of white bread and tastes like a big mistake, or it is that I'm getting old and hard to please.

Somewhere I saw a comment that one could not travel in these days. You have to take along a bale of money to pay expenses. And another commented that one does not have to hunt for a clerk in the stores these days, it's the prices that are out of sight.

Personally I used to have a lot of respect for fifty cents and a dollar made me give considerable attention but these days people very seldom carry bills under ten dollars, pennies are nearly worth picking up and the kids no longer ask for nickles, its quarters they want. Gimme a thousand dollars worth of cookies and ice cream and let me enjoy myself.

Most everybody is in a hurry these days even if they are going on a pleasure trip. Last week Harry Stokes and Doc Crow were darning hither and yon in a frenzy, not after the fleeting dollars but getting ready to go hunting.

On Saturday afternoon I was around talking to Harry and he said that he was supposed to meet Odie Hood, Heywood Bassinger and other men in the party at four o'clock in the morning at Tahoka and Harry was all in a dither and I'm sure his blood pressure was at the boiling point from then until he met the gang in Tahoka.

It makes no difference these days and it probably never did make much difference in the old days whether a man was going on a vacation or was up to his ears in business, most of us have always been steamed up most of the time but there are so many more things to keep one excited these days that we very seldom get time to sit down on a log by the side of a stream and consider what we are in such a rush about.

Some day I'm going to get things where I can go out in the country and associate again with the chiggers, squirrels and the chickadees, that is if I don't get into such a shape that the squirrels will grab me before I can get settled down.

It must be that one of my weather gauges has gotten a little out of fix, for last Sunday I met Charley Austin on the streets and he has not yet put on his long handles. He admitted that he should have attended to this matter several weeks ago and for overlooking this important task he is suffering from a severe cold.

In the past I have depended upon Charley and his long handles to predict the first real cold weather, but Charley is getting dependable and I'm going to have to find me something that is more sensitive than Charley.

One thing that I have noticed is that there are very few sparrows around, the trees have nearly all shed their leaves and several folks have complained to me about their rheumatism. Another thing that points to severe cold weather is the fact that my overcoat is three years old, there are four or five weak places in it and the lining flutters around like flags at a football game. Its real cool these mornings but not near as cold as it is going to get about a week before Christmas.

According to my zodiac, the way my big toe nail is growing and by the pains in my left knee I feel sure we will have a white Christmas this year.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to express our appreciation to our friends and neighbors for their many kind deeds after the death of our mother and sister, Mrs. Jim Allen. To those who brought food and flowers, we say thanks, also thanks to Dr. Cobb for his personal kindness.

West Texas Roundup

A gala occasion is being planned for Mexican farm workers in Tahoka Saturday afternoon and night, when a Mexican Fiesta will be held on the public square east and south of the court house. The celebration begins at 3:00 p. m., and will continue into the night.

Manuel G. Sepulveda of Lubbock will act as master of ceremonies at the afternoon program, when brief talks will be made, including one by a Consul from the Republic of Mexico, and many entertainment numbers will be furnished. — Lynn County News.

The first killing frost of the season came Monday morning, Oct. 31, when the temperature dropped to 28 degrees. Most tender vegetation was killed and practically all the leaves on the cotton. Of course all the squares and young bolls on the cotton were killed but they doubtless will never have matured anyway. — Lynn County News.

State Production and Marketing Administration is making plans to hold a cotton referendum on December 15, 1949 in every cotton growing county in the state, according to information received in the local PMA office, says Faust Collier, manager.

He said the statement follows the October 13 proclamation of Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan that a national cotton referendum will be held on that date. The Secretary also announced a national cotton acreage allotment of 21,000,000 acres. — The Hereford Brand.

Farmers are in a hurry to find boll pullers to gather their cotton crop, advises county agent Homer E. Thompson. "The situation is more than acute because three-fourths bale of cotton per acre is open on the farms, but no pullers are around to do the harvesting. A good freeze came Sunday night and ice and frost greeted the people Monday morning, Oct. 31. This will step up cotton harvesting by increasing the open cotton on the stalk. About 60 per cent of the farmers have storm proof cotton, so if Latin Americans are not available, cotton strippers can go to work in a couple of weeks in most of the storm proof fields replacing the old hand method," advises Thompson. — Morton Tribune.

Deaf Smith County farmers will vote on creation of the proposed Tierra Blanca Soil Conservation district Nov. 19th, according to V. C. Marshall, executive director.

Persons eligible to vote on the matter include all who hold title to farm or ranch lands lying within the district which embraces all of Deaf Smith, who have attained the age of 21 years, and reside within the county; and who own land within the county. — The Sunday Hereford Brand.

Texas Employment Commission office in Hereford placed 1,152 persons in jobs during the last three months of August, September and October, according to Tom McFarland, Amarillo Branch Representative for T.E.C., who manages the local office. — The Hereford Brand.

A special program officially opening the new $825,000 Senior High School building and auditorium was held last Friday night, November 4.

Dr. D. M. Wiggins, president of Texas Technological College gave the principal address. — Hockley County Herald.

Brownfield High school is attempting to better prepare its students for more successful family living by offering for the first time a course in "Home and Family Life Education," reports O. B. Douglas, principal.

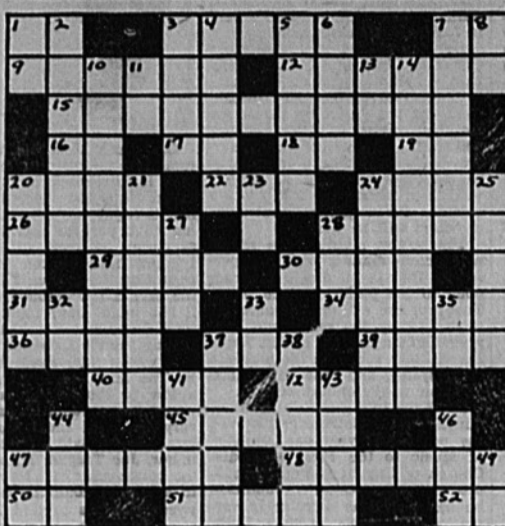

The course is for both boys and girls of junior and senior level. It is flexible in that the units are selected, planned and executed almost entirely by the students themselves, under the direction of their homemaker teacher, Miss Doris Foster. — The Brownfield News.

Mrs. Joan Dudley was appointed as secretary of the Seagraves chamber of commerce Wednesday morning with directors of the organization met at a breakfast at the community building.

The action followed consideration by the board of six applications for the position. It was expected that Mrs. Dudley would assume the work immediately. — Gaines County News.

Why Worry About The Future . . . .

One of Slaton's financiers made the statement not long ago that when a man begins to get older his heart and his head begin to soften.

It seems to take nearly a lifetime for most folks to realize the real value of money. To the young man in High School or College it means pleasure, or the lack of it, to the young business man it is often his idea of the most important thing in the world, but to the mature man or woman money is a necessity that will buy food, home and luxuries, but it ceases to be the most important thing in life and, he or she, if they are mature in mind, realize that even money has its limitations and that they have lost a goal when they lose the desire for making money just for the sake of money alone.

The Labor Unions and the Government with the old age pensions and Social Security, whether they intend to do so or not, are encouraging the people of our nation to be more and more dependent upon jobs and set incomes and less confident of themselves.

Very few young people seem to even be planning on going into business, and this in turn will likely bring more and more Socialism into our Government operations unless the trends change.

The old boy with the soft heart and head will soon be as extinct as the dodo and Uncle Sam will be taking care of everyone from the cradle to the grave, but will it be the kind of care that the individuals of our nation could give themselves?

Motorists Speeding On 9th Street . . . .

That traffic controls can be had in Slaton has been demonstrated by the greatly improved conditions around the Slaton Schools. There are still too many people driving at too high speeds around the schools, but at least we do not have triple parking and chaos around our school grounds that we had when school opened.

What has been done is fine but we have not gone far enough. There is far too much speeding on the streets inside the city limits and especially on South 9th Street out near the High School building. There has been two traffic tragedies on South 9th Street within the past four years and the probability of more is great. A few arrests out near the High School might do some good.

While the arresting of motorists driving through Slaton might hurt the reputation of the town to some extent it might teach some of the speed fiends that there are some traffic regulations still in effect and that life and limb are still valuable to those who live here.

Too many regulations seem to complicate traffic so much that the rules make toward more dangerous conditions as studies of traffic accidents have proven. Slaton, having few rules governing traffic, has so far fared better than most towns where more regulations are in effect and it is to be hoped that too many rules are not enacted into laws but the simpler rules should be inaugurated and inaugurated soon for Ninth Street is getting too great a hazard.

Some towns no larger than Slaton are installing parking meters and a few folks here seem to be in favor of having the meters but they are of no benefit to anyone except as a source of revenue to the towns. They solve no parking problems, they are a nuisance to the public, they cost a lot of useless man hours and a lot of money to install.

Token Of Our American Heritage . . . .

Thanksgiving Day, a holiday that is perhaps more exclusively American than any other day that we observe, will be observed in Slaton next Thursday by people of this community expressing their grateful appreciation for another year of peace and plenty. For this day is an important link between the humble beginnings of our nation and its present greatness and also its future, whatever that may be.

Many, many years have passed since the first Thanksgiving Day. On that memorable day long ago the brave Pilgrims met together for a feast and prayer, grateful to the Supreme Being for having led them to a land of abundant harvest and one with a limitless future. They meant the thanks they gave then to encompass the opportunity presented by their new found freedoms, as well as the happiness that they had achieved. And we, living today, are indeed fortunate to be able to partake of the tradition they established.

For us Thanksgiving Day is more than a commemoration of the occasion on which the Pilgrims gathered before an abundant board to celebrate the establishment of their firm footing in America. For us, Thanksgiving Day has become an occasion for pausing to count the blessings that have come to the peoples of America year by year.

Today, with pride and humble gratitude, we give prayers of thanks for the constant plentifulness of our harvests, for the consistently busy activity of our industries.

Above all — we celebrate Thanksgiving today with thanks for the good fortune of being citizens of a mighty Democracy that allows us to worship God as our conscious demands, that allows us to forge ahead with deed as well as word. And we offer a heartfelt prayer with this important wealth of freedom will continue through the years for ourselves and our children.

one of the biggest and happiest that people in Slaton have ever seen. We on the South Plains are fortunate, yes fortunate indeed. Business survey charts show this section of the state to be one of the most prosperous in the nation for this particular time of the year. In most other sections of the country, farm harvests are over and the people are living on last summer's income; but here in Slaton we are just now beginning to realize our profits.

To make the prospects come true for this to be one of the merriest Christmases ever, we've a suggestion. What makes us Americans Christmas conscious? Besides thinking of Christmas in its purest and spiritual nature, we begin our thoughts of old Santa when we see all the stores dressed up with red and green lights, mistletoes hanging above the doors, cedar dripping with shiny lights and cotton snow, and packages wrapped in bright paper and colored ribbon.

If every merchant in town will begin now to see that his establishment carries out the Christmas theme, Yuletide enthusiasm will begin early and his shopping season will begin now rather than allowing it all to fall on December 24. This same early shopping will help him have his share of the harvest money spent right here in Slaton.

Now the only question is, how to take the hustle and push, the fatigue and short tempers out of your annual Yuletide shopping tour. We've another suggestion.

Shop at home. Here you will be served by friends and neighbors, here you will be served best because your salespeople know you. Shop at home because you save time and money for yourself; and on Christmas Day you will have the knowledge that this Christmas, by shopping right here in Slaton, you have contributed to a better holiday season for yourself—and a better community for all.

Slaton Women Give Their Favorite Tested Recipes

At a recent church dinner, a certain cake was the talk of the occasion. All the men were asking who the genius was who had concocted the delicious pastry, and all the women were frantically searching for the cook in order to make arrangements for the recipe. It so happens that the cake was a very special one made by Mrs. G. A. Clevenger, and it must have always been a favorite among the men as she calls it "A Man's Spice Cake."

- The ingredients call for:
- 1/2 cup shortening
  - 1 1/2 cups sugar
  - 3 eggs
  - 1/4 cup buttermilk
  - 1 teaspoon vanilla
  - 1 teaspoon lemon extract (or fresh lemon juice)
  - 1 3/4 cup flour (Gold Medal suggested)
  - 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
  - 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
  - 1/2 teaspoon salt
  - 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
  - 2 tablespoons cocoa
  - 1 teaspoon cinnamon
  - 1 cup nuts (broken and toasted)

Sift dry ingredients four times, then blend in shortening and buttermilk, add one egg at a time and beat two minutes or 150 strokes per minute. Add flavorings and beat two more minutes. Evenly stir in the nuts. Put in grease and wax paper lined, nine inch cake pans, and bake at about 350 degrees F for approximately thirty minutes.

After the layers are cooled, frost each with the following icing: Blend 6 tablespoons butter, about 2 tablespoons hot coffee, 1 1/4 table-spoon cocoa, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, a dash of salt, 1 pound powdered sugar, and 1 raw egg. Beat until creamy and spread on cake.

Deepest Caves

Speleologists (cave explorers), with fanatical zeal, follow natural cave passages wherever they can squeeze their bodies through. Deep caves are plentiful in the Alps and Pyrenees notes the National Geographic Society. The deepest known, in the French Alps, stops short of 2,200 feet—one-fourth the African gold miner's floor. At Carlsbad, N. M., the third and lowest level of 32 miles of natural caverns is 1,320 feet.

Aided Japan in War

During World War II, all Manchuria was under Japanese military control, having been overrun in 1931 and reconstituted as the puppet state of Manchukuo. Together with neighboring Korea (in Japan's hands since 1910), this huge backland area served Nippon as an arsenal of food and strategic minerals.
