Santa Fe News

Santa Fe Railway's famous streamlined star train, the all-new Super Chief operating between Los Angeles and Chicago, will be the locale for "Three For Bedroom C," a Breco Pictures Corporation color movie starring Gloria Swanson.

A set of Super Chief equipment, including the swank "Pleasure Dome" car containing the private turquoise dining room, has been dismantled and moved by technicians to the film company's Hollywood lot for construction of authentic sets.

According to railroad officials, the dismantling job was the largest ever done on Santa Fe equipment by any studio. Thousands of individual items, including parts and furnishings, were removed from pullman, diner and dome cars, catalogued and reassembled at the movie sets. After several weeks of shooting they will be returned and replaced by the studio's property men.

Entire action of "Three For Bedroom C," a comedy, takes place aboard the Super Chief on a trip from Chicago to Pasadena. Location parties already have made running shots of the streamliner in the Indian Southwest and scenes at Albuquerque, Pasadena and Chicago's Dearborn station.

Use of the Super Chief cars will not interfere with regular schedules of the railroad's number one train, as the company owns six sets of the equipment and needs only five to maintain regular service.

B. Of R. T. Lodge No. 608 Celebrates 50th Anniversary

Fifty years of organized effort and service will be celebrated in Amarillo, Texas, September 28 and 29 when Frosty Hamrick Lodge No. 608 Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen plays host. It is a far different organization now, with 450 members employed on three major trunk line railways and one bus line, than it was fifty years ago when Lodge No. 608 was organized at Roswell, New Mexico.

In 1902 the Roswell Lodge No. 608 was moved to Amarillo. After the death of the late H. G. (Frosty) Hamrick, who had served as secretary and treasurer of the lodge for more than 34 years the name of 608 was changed in 1946 from Roswell to "Frosty Hamrick."

This 50th Anniversary celebration will see a most worthwhile program at which guests from Phelps, in Uueblo, Colorado; and visiting relatives in other parts of Colorado and Kansas.

er the nation will attend. Big event on the program, once business is out of the way will be a trip via chartered Panhandle Trailways Buses through the famous world's most colorful Canyon, the Palo Duro State Park, where a caboose feed will be served and a picnic enjoyed. The Canyon is 30 miles from Amarillo and is rapidly gaining world renown for its color and beauty.

Pvt. Weldon W. (Buzz) Becker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Becker, who has been stationed at Ft. Sill, Okla., flew to San Antonio last Friday and remained there until Sunday evening. He then flew to El Paso, and is in the Williams Beaumont Army Hospital there. He will be twenty-one on September 21 and would like to hear from some of the home-town people. His address is Pvt. Weldon W. Becker, U 554039853, Ward 12; Williams Beaumont Army Hospital, El Paso, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wilde have returned to Olfen after a visit in Slaton. They arrived Saturday evening and stopped at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Kahlich to inquire time of services at St. Joseph's Church across the street. Introductions were made and the Kahlichs invited the Wildes, who were tired and had not made reservations, to spend the night with them. Sunday and Monday Mr. and Mrs. Wilde visited with Mr. and Mrs. August Kitten and family. Mr. Wilde and Mrs. Kitten were classmates in school.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Lovett have returned from a trip in Colorado and Kansas. They attended the wedding of Jack Lester, formerly of Slaton, and Miss Zorada Irene

Easy Makes His "Cat" Tread Lightly

Driving home on Three Ponds Road yesterday, I was flagged down by Easy Roberts' boy Skeeter. "Take it slow," he advised. "Dad's crossing this road with our tractor, just beyond the bend."

Around the curve I saw why Skeeter stopped me. Easy had laid two rows of old truck tires across the road, and was driving his new "Cat" tractor over them!

"More trouble this way," Easy explains, "but it does keep those tank tracks from tearing up the asphalt when I have to cross over to our other fields. After all, the roads belong to all of us—and I guess I'd get mad if someone else chewed them up."

From where I sit, Easy is my kind of citizen. He doesn't just give democracy lip service. He honestly believes it's his duty to consider the other fellow's interests. Whether it's the right to use the public highways or the right to enjoy an occasional glass of beer, Easy's out to protect his neighbor's "right of way."

"I'm making hay while my son shines!"

I'm backing him up by buying Dense Bonds... and I'm helping the whole family we I'm helping him.

● My son's flying one of those jets... maybe not up there, but somewhere. And I'm getting behind him and all his buddies —by buying all the United States Defense Bonds I can.

I figure that putting my crop dollars in Defense Bonds is the best way I can show him and America I'm in this battle, too. And all along, I'm building up a nest egg that will make it possible for us to do the many things we've always wanted to do.

We'll be able to send Tom's kid sister to college when our bonds start paying off. Mary and I will be able to take that long trip. At best of all, when Tom comes back, I'll have reserves for a better farm, not to mention the nest egg we'll have set aside for rainy days.

Yes, I'm making hay while he's up there. And every $75 I plant in Defense Bonds will buy back $100 in 10 short years... $137 in 20 years.

"Jitters," Mistakes, Are Factors In Tigers, Floydada 6-6 Tie

Opening game "jitters" coupled with several miscues were the main factors in the Slaton Tigers 6-6 tie with scrappy Floydada last Friday night at Tiger Field, in this season opener.

The favored Tigers piled up an overwhelming advantage in the statistics, 12 first down to 2 for the Whirlwinds as an example and moved on the ground for a total of 262 yards while allowing Floydada only 72 yards.

The Tiger passing offense wasn't clicking either. R. A. Thompson and Glen Aiken between them completed only one pass the entire night.

Sprinting around left end after taking a hand-off from Glen Aiken, Bob Lambert started things off with a bank on the first Tiger play from scrimmage by going 55 yards for a touchdown.

After that the Tigers couldn't get closer than the Floydada five yard line. They controlled the ball the major part of the game but their fast starting offense stalled repeatedly within goal-line reaching distance.

An aggressive Floydada team, although lighter than the Tigers, managed to halt every Slaton drive. The Whirlwinds scored early in the fourth when end Frank Stovall grabbed an over-the-shoulder pass from Billy Carmack and scooted over the goal.

Both teams missed their extra point tries when the placement kicks went wide.

Before game showers dampened the field but failed to hamper either team. Floydada's running game—supposedly their main threat—was subordinated to a passing attack after running up against Slaton's defense.

The visitors drew a total of 45 yards in penalties, several in key moments of the game, while the Tigers tallied not one penalty.

Tiger B-Team Meets Wilson Thursday

The Slaton Tiger B-Team travels to Wilson Thursday (today) for their second game of the season. In their initial outing the junior Tiger eleven was soundly trounced by the Petersburg Buffs 48-6 at Petersburg last Thursday.

This game will be the season opener for the Wilson squad who are playing their first year of 11-man football. Wilson has a new football field and 12 lettermen returning from last year.

The two teams meet in a return engagement at Slaton on Sept. 20. The Slaton B-squad, made up mostly of freshman with a sprinkling of sophomores, has an eight game schedule this fall. Among the teams the junior eleven will meet is the Ralls Jackrabbit B-squad. Ralls, a district 4-AA member, plays the Slaton Tigers here on October 19.

Everybody Wins But The Tigers In District 4-AA

Slaton was the only 4-AA district team not to win last week. Post, Tahoka Spur and Ralls all rolled over their opponents by lopsided margins.

POST BEATS CROSBYTON

The Post Antelopes won their season opener handily last Friday night, turning back Crosbyton 39-7 at Crosbyton. The Antelopes star seat-back Jaok Kirkpatrick personally accounted for four tallies—one a 104 yard scamper to paydirt after taking a Crosbyton punt behind his own goal line.

SPUR SWAMPS MATADOR

At Matador last week the Spur Bulldogs unleashed a powerful running game to dump Matador 39-0. Highlight of the game was a 98 yard kick-off return for a Spur touchdown when the second half started. Charles Grimland, Spur's all-district quarterback, was the boy who brought the fans to their feet with this run.

TAHOKA TROUNCES SUNDOWN

Tahoka journeyed to Sundown in their opening game last week and slaughtered the Roughnecks 32-6, with halfbacks Benney Brookshire and Lynn Halamick and quarterback James Foster all contributing to Tahoka's touchdown totals.

RALLS TOPS NEW DEAL

The Ralls Jackrabbits ran over New Deal last week 26-6, scoring two TD's in the first quarter and another pair in the last. The Jackrabbits over-powered the lighter New Deal team, gaining 338 yards on the ground while allowing the home team only 66 yards.

Price Specialist Lee R. Gamble of the Lubbock district OPS office will be here next Tuesday morning, September 18th, to assist business men who handle toys, games and Christmas decorations in amending their pricing charts. The deadline for filing this addition to the charts is September 20. It should be filed with the district OPS office, 1202 Texas Avenue, Lubbock, Texas.

While here, he also will assist other types of merchants who may need help or information in complying with the federal pricing regulations.

Under the co-sponsorship of the Office of Price Stabilization and Slaton Chamber of Commerce, he will maintain offices in the Chamber of Commerce, but he will make personal calls on merchants if they will get the request to him.

Merchants of this area are invited to call on the OPS representative for the information they need. Present plans call for a clinic to be held here on the same day of each week throughout September.

A rattlesnake bit Demetria Gomez—and died.
Mr. Gomez, a civilian employ at Kelly Air Force Base, said the rattler bit him on the leg, had convulsions and then crawled fifteen feet and died. Mr. Gomez suffered no ill effects.

Evangelist Kirk told a good one at the Lions Club Luncheon on Tuesday. It was about a man up before the judge for hitting a woman.
The Judge asked him why he hit her. The man said she boarded a bus. She sat in front of him and when seated, unzipped a big leather purse, and took out a little purse and unzipped it and fished out a nickel.
Then she zipped up the little purse and put it back in the big purse and zipped it up. The driver of the bus got out and went into the station, so she unzipped the big purse and got out the little purse and unzipped it and put the nickel back in; then she zipped up the little purse and put it back in the big purse and zipped it up.
Just then the driver came out and she unzipped the big purse and got out the little purse and unzipped it and took the nickel out and zipped up the little purse and put it back in the big purse and zipped it up.
The Judge interrupted, said, "Shut up you're driving me crazy."
"Judge, that's why I hit her," the man said.

There Are A Lot Of Good Bugs

Douglas Meador in his Matador Tribune quotes an old timer as saying that before the days of screened doors, and windows, and before DDT had been developed, the way they got rid of flies was by cooking them.

No one can blame the farmer, or the housewife, for wanting to get rid of harmful house flies, cock roaches and boll worms, by spraying DDT, or other forms of insecticides, but eventually what is going to happen to the bees, lady bugs and other insects that either kill the harmful pests or are the means of spreading pollen for the fertilization of many species of plants.

The back alleys of Slaton, Idalou, Tahoka, Post and most all of the progressive towns on the South Plains are being sprayed regularly with DDT and practically all of the cotton fields over the area has been sprayed from once to three and four times, with poisons of different kinds. It is probable that a big loss of cotton from worms would occur if this practice had not been resorted to, but, how many years can such practice be continued?

It has been found that several South Pacific islands that were given heavy treatments of DDT during the early part of the war are practically barren now, although they were covered with luxuriant growth before the DDT was spread. The drugs not only killed the mosquitoes, roaches and other harmful insects but it finished off all kinds of insect life.

It could happen here just as the continued planting of cotton on the same ground year after year will eventually wear out the soil until it will have to be fertilized or it will be worthless as cotton land.

How seriously these questions have been considered by the agriculturists who depend upon farming for their living in this area is not known by this writer, but if they have received no more consideration than most questions that influence all of us, and farmers in particular, then they have not given the attention they should have.

Only a semi-calamity in the way of several crop failures will get action from the farmers or from restricting laws and we will all feel the effects when the full influence of such practices come due.

A Dangerous Proposal

During May, the Legislature adopted a joint resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to permit the University of Texas to invest its permanent fund in corporate stocks of private corporations.

This measure went through both House and Senate with little or no publicity, and, we are inclined to suspect, without adequate consideration of its dangers. Had the public been aware of the resolution and what it proposed to do, it is doubtful that it would have mustered the two-thirds vote necessary to submit a constitutional amendment.

Bonds, in which the university now may invest the permanent fund, pay a low rate of interest, but it is a fairly safe and certain return. The same cannot be said of stocks, and if the legislators had known of the beating which some of the big Eastern universities took during the depression from heavy investments in corporate stocks, they might have hesitated to approve such speculations on the part of the University of Texas.

Today the university is blessed with a board of regents of high integrity and intelligence. The character of future boards cannot be foretold. Some day, conceivably, lack of judgment or lack of integrity in buying stocks could bring financial disaster—or it could come from a mere lack of luck.

This huge fund is the property of the people, and should be safeguarded by every reasonable means. Over the years, any investment in stocks is speculative and risky, and susceptible to corruption; with bonds, these hazards are negligible.

The time allowed a governor for disapproving legislation has passed since this resolution was sent to him; indeed, it is very rare that a governor vetoes a joint resolution, which has received a two-thirds vote of the Legislature. So it is too late now to stop submission of this amendment. However, before it comes to a vote of the electorate next November, friends of the university should see that the people understand its demerits. — The Houston Post.

Getting Rid Of Chairwarmers

Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas is to be commended for his effort to get some of the "chair warmers" in the armed forces out of their soft and safe positions into combat lines.

Johnson showed that more than 95,000 officers and men now are being used in defense jobs that could just as well be performed by the Wacs, Waves or Spars or by some of the athletes who have been classified as 4-F's because of some disability that obviously does not preclude their playing professional baseball, football and other strenuous games.

The defense forces have many jobs that are essential on the home front, it is quite true. In some instances it is wise to use combat material in the training camps. But, as Johnson pointed out, the 95,000 men now in "chair jobs" in the army would furnish the forces we are now trying to get ready to send to Europe.

In the nature of things there is a lot of paper work to be done in the armed forces. Some of it requires the supervision of men expertly trained in the methods. But there is not now and never has been any good reason why the actual work could not be done by men unfit for combat work, by civilians or by members of the several womens organizations now comprised in our armed forces. — From the Hidalgo County News, Edinburg, Texas.

As To Price Control

If we could cut all this price control business of the government and take from the public teat payroll all those persons who are taking the tax money to pay their salaries for running around and snooping to see if any one is selling a few cents more than their arbitrary price setting, the people would save money. The cost of all those offices from janitors to top men, including the cost also of printing and other expenses piled up, would more than offset any high prices the government says it is trying to keep down. — Denison Press.

Quotes

With the coming of cold weather leaves lose their vitality and about nine months, according to the Treasury Department. Worn bills are called in by the government and exchanged for new ones.
A record is made of the old bills and then they are destroyed.
Surprisingly (in these inflationary times) the dollar bill is still the most used unit of our paper currency.

Why do leaves turn red, yellow, and brown in autumn?
With the coming of cold weather leaves lose their vitality and chlorophyll—the mysterious green coloring matter of plants—is the first of three pigments to fade out. The others, carotin which gives an orange-reddish color, and xanthophyll, which gives a yellow hue, show through for a while, producing the beautiful autumnal color scheme.

ON WATCH FOR WINGED DEATH—Throughout the darkest of the morning hours this soldier at an advanced air base in Korea has maintained a silent watch by his deadly anti-aircraft gun, constantly on the alert for enemy planes. And now as the first early light of a new day fills the sky an Air Force photographer catches him in silhouette, a lone sentinel upon whose observance and vigilance many lives depend.

Control Beetles
Research entomologists of the Pennsylvania State College last summer found that a well-timed application of DDT dust, when 50 per cent of corn plants were in silk, controlled Japanese beetle and left enough residue for protection for 5 to 7 days.

Accidents To Infants
The most frequent fatal accidents to infants are those caused by the swallowing of foreign objects—nipples, pacifiers, safety pins, buttons, marbles, or other things left within the baby's reach, and from asphyxia caused by the regurgitation
of milk and other liquid foods

Accident Causes
The three principal causes of accidents are said to be speed, liquor, and faulty vision on the part of drivers.

MAYBE you've noticed that dollars don't seem to talk as loud as they used to in a lot of places.

But you ought to hear what they say about this Buick.

They say—here's the big thrill—big mileage—
big power of a valve-in-head Fireball Engine
—eight-cylinder performance at the price
you'll pay for most sixes.

They say—here are size and room and comfort that are hard to match at anywhere near the price tag this Buick SPECIAL is wearing.

They say—here are such things as an oil filter,
air cleaner, vacuum booster, built-in summer ventilation — not as "extras" but yours at no extra charge.

They say that "smart buy's Buick"—by a wide measure.

But a smart buyer will also let this dashing darling speak for itself.

He'll take the wheel and feel how it snugs to the road on turns—holds its course on the high-

"Coop" Strikes Carson Rich

Gary Cooper and Jack Carson were arguing belligerently for a scene in the Warner Bros. drama, "Bright Leaf," currently at the Caprock Drive-In Theatre.

Carson discloses to Cooper that someone has set the government against their tobacco firm with a monopoly suit. And the guilty party is none other than Cooper's screen wife, Patricia Neal.

According to the script, Gary becomes very angry at this disclosure and wallops Carson full in the face with a sheaf of bank documents worth two million dollars.

The director yelled, "Cut," and Cooper apologized to Carson who was recovering from the blow.

"That's okay, Coop," Carson replied. "Getting hit in the face with two million dollars makes the pleasure all mine."

June Haver's Dancing Slippers Get Energetic Brush-Off In Film

Keen-eyed movie fans who delight in spotting movie boners can thank June Haver for averting a near-tragedy on the matter of these film fallacies.

For a scene in Warner Bros. Technicolor musical production, "The Daughter of Rosie O'Grady," coming Saturday to the Caprock Drive-In Theatre, the petite star wears a costume designed for her film mother to wear. In the picture, Miss Haver plays the daughter of an ex-vaudeville family. She invades a battered trunk and discovers a costume—complete with parasol and pantalettes, that her mother had worn. Putting them on, she starts a nostalgic dance, sort of an Irish jig. Then suddenly, she looks down at her feet.

"Cut!" roars director David Butler. "What's the matter? Don't your shoes fit?"

Everybody concerned looks at the tiny shoes. They're perfect as to fit, color, period and size.

"Aren't your shoes all right?" Butler is puzzled.

"That's just it. They're too much 'all right,'" June explains. "If my supposed mother was supposed to have worn them in vaudeville—wouldn't the soles be worn?"

Of course they would. With an abrasive powder and rag, an energetic prop man quickly put the required wear on the soles of the tiny dancing shoes.

Gordon Macrae co-stars in "The Daughter of Rosie O'Grady."

Judge R. C. Hopping of Lubbock had a choice dessert at the Lamb County pioneer reunion on Tuesday evening. Although it was only a pecan pie baked by a Spade pioneer, there was a courageous story behind it.

Back in the depression years, when farmers in Lamb county were financially unable to pay their installments, or the interest to the Spade company, or taxes to the government either, the company agent, Judge Hopping, visited a Spade farmhouse. The housewife tearfully explaining that there was no money, was reassured by the judge that the company would take care of their tenants. He explained that his company would help the pioneer ranchers over the bad years.

He noted with approval that the housewife had made a home of her farm. She had planted shrubs and trees, and a small pecan sapling was growing sturdily in the trim yard.

The woman's faith in Lamb county was repaid—the depression years were over. Through the help of the company which paid thousands of dollars taxes on the lands for their tenants, the farmers were able to make ends meet, and finally became prosperous.

The judge's faith in his Lamb county friends was repaid Tuesday—the pioneer Spade housewife presented the judge with a pecan pie, baked with pecans from the tiny sapling of the 30s. —County Wide News

This equipment is made available to all Lamb county farmers who are interested in the soil conservation program and in the improvement of their soils.

Equipment already available includes one grass drill, five land leveling machines and a motor grader. This equipment can be secured by contacting your local vocational agricultural teacher. The motor grader is operated by Hubert Dykes of Sudan who had been employed by the district. —County Wide News

A fifty seven year old Morton lady, wife and grandmother, didn't let age or household duties stand in her way when she decided she wanted to become a licensed beauty operator.

Mrs. Jesse Paulk, Polly to her friends, owner of Modern Beauty Shop, here for the past seven years, decided to attend beauty school this winter after experiencing considerable difficulty in keeping her shop staffed with operators.

Mrs. Paulk and a companion, Mrs. C. A. Moore, attended Isabella's University of Beauty Culture in Lubbock for 143 days. The trip to Lubbock from Morton and back is 120 miles. The mileage plus an 800 mile trip to Austin in August when the two ladies took State Board examinations totals right in the neighborhood of 18,000 miles.

In order to get in eight full hours of schooling each day they carried lunches and ate in school buildings, taking only fifteen minutes for luncheon period and were dismissed from classes at 4:45 p.m. instead of usual 5:30.

Mrs. Paulk, during the entire school term, arose at 4:30 a.m., cooked breakfast for her husband and did regular household chores before leaving for Lubbock. She arrived back in Morton in time to prepare the evening meal.

Both Mrs. Paulk and Mrs. Moore passed State Board examinations with flying colors, received their licenses to practice the art of beauty culture on Friday, August 17.

The next day, Saturday, August 18, the two new graduates donned crisp white uniforms, swept out the shop, gathered up the tools of their profession and started work at the job for which they'd trained themselves. —The Morton Tribune

A salesman in Missouri was held up in a small town because heavy rains had caused a washout on the railroad. "This looks like the flood" he observed to a waitress in the local hotel.

"The flood," he repeated. "You know the flood when Noah saved the animals on the ark. You must have read about that."
The waitress assured him gravely, "Mister, on account of all this rain, I ain't seen a paper in four days."

ALWAYS HOUSE GOOD PULLETS
Although the laying flock may be housed any time during the growing season, it is best to house pullets just before they are ready to lay their first eggs. Some poultrymen already have moved their layers from range to laying house, but others who have yet to transfer their pullets should keep the following information in mind. Housing time is extremely important, and the selection of the prospective layers has considerable influence on the productivity of the flock.

There are certain characteristics which are indicative of a pullet about ready to lay. For one, she usually becomes tamer. And her comb grows or enlarges and becomes brighter red in color. Upon inspection, a raiser may notice that the vent is moist and that it is beginning to lose some of its yellow color. In addition, the pubic bone (the bone on each side of the vent) will begin to spread a part when the pullets starts to lay.

Look For Well Grown Birds
Any pullet that is placed in the laying house as part of the laying flock should be well developed. For example, pullets of the light-weight breeds, such as Leghorns, should weigh 3½ pounds or more when housed. On the other hand, Barred Plymouth Rocks, White Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, New Hampshire, or Cross-breeds should weigh 5 pounds or more. Bright red faces, combs, and wattles should be characteristic for all of these birds.

In choosing healthy pullets, look for a bright clear appearance of the eyes, the smooth well-finished condition of the plumage, and the deep yellow pigment of the skin, shanks, and beak. Birds which lack a comparative amount of color usually are of poor quality. Such birds are likely to have feathering which is not fully complete and dull in appearance.

Boston Landmark
The famous landmark in Boston, known as the "Boston Stone," is an old paint mill which was imported from England about the year 1700 by a painter who had a little shop on Marshall Lane. It consists of a grinder or "muller"—a stone ball about two feet in diameter—and a stone beneath. The stone ball was rolled back and forth in the trough hollowed out in one side of the larger stone underneath it, thus grinding the paint. It has the words, "Boston Stone 1737" cut in its side.

JUST TALK

by
A.M.J.

There is no telling where an un-guarded statement may lead you. Several months ago I discovered a product called Ac-cent on the market. It is a powder that brings cheer to the jaded appetite and causes the kind of T-bone steak that we get now days, to taste better than the kind that we used to get before they started chasing calves in from the range and slaughtering them for market when they are nothing but gristle and have never tasted a grain of corn.

Before I knew what had happened to me I got a letter from a lady in New York City who works for Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn, Inc. They are the advertising agents for Ac-cent. Getting a letter from an employee of the firm with such an impressive name, or group of names, and especially with one of them Mr. Bruce Barton, who has written a lot of Americas most sentimental poetry, I grabbed my typewriter by the tail and went off the deep end over Ac-cent and the lady who wrote me the letter.

Her name is Electra Bilmazes, and a few weeks ago I stated that such a name conjured up mystery romance and tragedy in my mind and that the name would fit well into a novel. Here is what Miss Bilmazes says about her name:

"I am sorry to disappoint you, but my life history does not fit into a novel of high adventure. My life, in fact, has been quite prosaic. You may be interested to know the background of my name. It's this: The first, of course, is from the classic Greek tragedy. My mother didn't believe in doing things in a small way so she followed out the Greek trilogy by naming my sister Iphigenia and my brother was named Orestes. My father explains my last name which is Turkish and which literally translated means "I don't know" by telling us one of our great-great-grandparents was a strong silent man who would never answer questions, but merely shrugged his shoulders and mumbled "bilmazes" and was immediately tagged "The man who doesn't know" or Bilmazes. Is that complicated enough?"

"I'll say one thing though, even if Electra Bilmazes has not led a life of adventure, I did stir up some names that could break the monotony of having to call folks John, Mary and Henry. If Electra, Iphigenia and Orestes would not make you stop and gasp I do not know what would. Just to get things started I'm going to name my next child, Electra, Iphigenia or perhaps Orestes."

And while thinking of Ac-cent a Lions Club meeting that I attended not long ago, comes to mind, and a contest in which Max Arrants, George Brassell and Bland Tomlinson took part. The three tried to see which one could hold the most food. How three hides could hold so much is a mystery that science should investigate. The answer might solve the mystery of the atom, the reason for algebra or perhaps the law of gravity. It ended up by George Brassell dumping a big gob of string beans over a mammoth dish of ice cream that Max Arrants was eating. The ice cream and bean mixture did not phase Max, and it all went down the hatch with most of the other members of the club gagging at the thought. Perhaps all of the men had taken an injection of Ac-cent before they came to the club.

In a discussion about diseases and things Mrs. Ray Hickman said that she knew two women who got so nervous that they lost their voices. I can think of nothing that could cause any more suffering for a woman.

It is now the time of the year when women do not know what to wear, when the bath room is too cold for shaving and not cold enough to turn on a fire, it is supposed to be the most delightful time of the year, but I am seldom comfortable. If I dress to be warm in the morning, I get hot by noon, if I dress for the day time temperature I get cold at night. It is not the kind of weather for a lazy person who hates to change clothes.

Would you rather have four boys, four girls, and a boy, or two boys and two girls, or no children at all? Dr. Jay McSween and his wife have one son and four daughters and they made no secret of the fact that they were trying for another boy the last time, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Swanner say that the ideal arrangement is four boys.

The parents of little girls do not agree that little girls are as sweet and demure as they are supposed to be, but all the parents of the boys agree that the boys live up to their reputation and give plenty of trouble.

Last week I went out to visit Mr. Swanner and to swap experiences on hospital behavior. While there young Lanny Swanner came in with a small table lamp, he held all the light cords out of the sockets and was just one jump ahead of his mother who herded him into the other part of the house. He subsided for a minute, but directly came into the room with a shot gun. I was undecided for a few seconds as to whether he was after me or intended finishing off his father who was on a couch with his broken knee in a cast, instead he said he would like for one of his parents to tell all other members of the family that they should keep their hands off his gun. According to his account he had cleaned the gun until it shined like a mirror inside the barrel and now it was dirty. Some one had been using it and he intimated that he knew who it was.

"Go put that gun up," said Howard, and Lanny went back into the other part of the house mumbling about wanting folks to keep their hands off his property.

At the McSween home the lone boy has things his way as he is the oldest of the children. He keeps the four girls waiting on him as if he were king, but there is considerable rivalry among the predominating feminine factor. One of them has a definite trend toward thinking up trouble and a constant watch has to be kept. There's never a dull moment at either home and visitors need not be surprised.

As an occasional visitor I sit and watch the plot as it develops and hope for the best.

Last Saturday I tried to wend my way down the west side of the square when the box holders at the post office were rampant on getting the plunder out of their mail slots. Dogs were running under cars, kids were kiting across the street and six cars were double parked in the center of the street. My blood pressure hit the top, my wife tried to calm me down, and our cocker, who was in the back seat, wanted to start a fight with another dog on the outside that was big as a calf. He jumped on top of my head and I nearly tied into a gasoline truck. Somebody is going to get hurt some day on that side of the square. I hope it is not going to be me.
