Business finished, the van moves to the next town. Rolling over Puerto Rico's highways, the motorized "Banco Popular" reaches many of the island's towns which have no other contact with banks. With a bank, many rural islanders now have savings accounts.

I talked over the merits and demerits of public dancing this week with a young man whom I admire as a thinker and a sincere church member.

This fellow, who is an active worker in the First Baptist Church, explained that he associates dancing directly with lewdness, sin, nakedness, drunkenness, and immorality.

He says, in substance, that dancing often leads to "something worse."

And certainly, in this man's opinion, dancing has no place in the public schools.

"Our public schools," he told me, "are in business to educate young people, not to hold dances."

I don't agree. Education, certainly, is the primary function of the school system. But I think our public schools must of necessity accept a large responsibility in the field of providing wholesome entertainment for young people.

The crying need for some sort of wholesome diversion for young people is clearly apparent here, and in most other small towns.

Periodic dances—either conventional or square dance affairs—at the high school would help bridge that gap, in my opinion.

If my favorite brunette and I had a teen-age daughter, I'd much rather know that she was being escorted to a supervised dance at the high school than "just going out with Tom and ride around."

It seems to me that there is considerably more room for "suggestive ideas" to begin rolling around in the minds of our young folks when there is no adequate recreation for them than when a round of wholesome diversion is offered through the public schools or through other worthy organizations.

Saturday night dances, with nominal admission fees, were held regularly at Amarillo High School when I attended there. I mentioned this fact to my friend, and he replied to the effect that most of the boys who attended such affairs did so only because "they were on the prowl."

Nossir. Some few may have been, but those would be "on the prowl" in almost any situation.

It is incredibly hard for some people to believe that lots of folks enjoy dancing just because they enjoy dancing.

I like to regard myself as a reasonably good church member. At the same time, I would not deny that I thoroughly enjoy an occasional dance. To my way of thinking, the latter need be no deterrent to the former.

I think lots of our young folks would enjoy the opportunity to dance, too. Certain factions here have effectively closed that avenue of entertainment for them, however.

Instead, they are offered practically nothing in the way of adequate entertainment. Lots of high school "dates" then turn out to be nothing more than riding around in cars—or worse—parking in them.

And lots of our young folks are not unfamiliar with some of Lubbock's dance spots, where the atmosphere is scarcely as healthful as we could provide here, if we would.

The man with whom I talked suggested that dancing should be banned on the ground that it is a waste of time, aside from other considerations. Young people, he said, can do something more worthwhile with their time than dance. Maybe. That's hard to say. There's plenty of real good in relaxation and learning to mix with other people.

Here's the point, though. Do they? Do our young folks engage themselves in intellectual pursuits with the spare time they have? My observation is that they do not. And my prediction is that they never will. Young people are filled with a desire for entertainment. If we do not provide it, they will seek it elsewhere.

I think periodic dances at the high school would be a fine thing. It's just one man's opinion. But I think it is a matter we all would do well to consider. There are two sides to every question, and I would welcome comment from the "other side of the fence" and would be glad to print it in this column, if it's signed.

And just in case there's anybody on my side, I'd be mighty glad to know about that, too.

Was glad to see Southern California win the Rose Bowl decision. It was the first time since 1945 that the Pacific Coast representative emerged winner.

Do You Know?
The Slaton banker who prior to his marriage was a dancing instructor?

The Slaton coach and his wife who are expecting their first young'un this spring?

The Slaton man who was quite disappointed over Tennessee's showing in the Cotton Bowl?

Thanks, Bob Brasfield, for siding with my view that the double parking situation has gotten out of hand on the west and north sides of the square.

They're still a flain' it, though.

It would have been a real pleasure for me to meet THE ORIGINAL Momma and Poppa Kitten. So many Kittens I have never seen.

This week's nomination for one of Slaton's most pleasant people: Mrs. Bessie Donald.

The New Year, Slaton version, was ushered in on the wings of a good-sized duster. And according to an Associated Press story that was buried in the Jan. 1 issue of the Lubbock Morning Avalanche, we might as well get out the masking tape and the ear plugs and get set for lots more of them.

According to the story, 1953 is likely to bring this area the worst dust and sand storms we have experienced since the 1930's.

Authority for the statement is Louis P. Merrill of Fort Worth, regional director of the Soil Conservation Service and a former boss of mine.

According to Merrill, reports from area headquarters in the wind erosion sections of Texas and Oklahoma show 8,279,500 acres are not sufficiently protected by growing plant cover or crop residue to prevent destructive blowing in strong winter and spring winds. This total is nearly two million acres more than were in this category at this time during the last 12 years.

Right here in our own backyard, Area Conservationist Homer A. Taff at Lubbock has reported that 1,680,000 acres in his 12 county area are without sufficient blow protection. Most of this is cotton land which was mechanically stripped and sorghum land on which the crop was cut for bundle feed.

Kinda discouragin'.

Hope all of your girls made the big Lubbock sale this week. They pay such a whopping city tax here and do so much to help Slaton.

Visitors in the T. A. Turner home last week end were Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Hobbs and daughter, Barbara, of Dallas and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Turner and son, Pete, of Hobbs, N. M.

JUST TALK

by A.M.J.

we go around to the Public Service Gas Company, and Company to get figures on how many connections they did one year previous. We got curious about how many more were living in Slaton than were here the year before. We found out that we were fairly about the number of allowed per family as by the meters and tele-connections, but we made our married folks were compete with rabbits or and I now stand in aims that the Chamber in Lubbock and of Commerce in making in their the biggest cities in America. Wes Izzard in the Lubbock is taking Lubbock getting up estimates Garza and Crosby urges the folks of Amarillo not to take the fight lying down. In Amarillo's claim for 89,000, he admits that Canyon, and the smaller communities in Potter County, have been gobbled up, but he bemoans the fact that there are so few settlements in Potter County while the territory around Lubbock is cramped with farms and towns. Having once lived in Amarillo, and flung all the insults I could think of about Lubbock, it is hard for me to forget my loyalty to Amarillo, and in the smoke and fire over the subject of which town has the most pretty girls, the most fires, the greatest number of burglaries and in which town the greatest number of gallons of liquor is consumed, I make a feeble predicament that regardless of which town has the greatest number of inhabitants, at the present, writing, Lubbock will be the bigger of the two in 10 years, unless Amarillo can hustle some kind of big industrial development or get a much larger Government establishment of some kind. In the mean time I will be looking for the long arm of Lubbock to come down to Slaton and take over our City Hall, our water works and our taxable income. There is no danger at all, of them bothering about paying our bonds or trying to untangle our traffic system. They have plenty to worry about in that line themselves and besides the Slaton traffic regulations would probably bring a nervous break down to those who figure out the solar system, if they should ever undertake to straighten us out. I live in fear of getting my mail addressed to the Slatonite, Lubbock, Texas, and of being infected with the Lubbock germ that might cause me to get to claiming my neighbors house, yard and cocker spaniel. I find myself doing such things, when I do not watch my step and I would not trust myself to go out and get an estimate of how many million people might be living in Slaton and greater Slaton. Of course greater Slaton takes in the City of Lubbock. It must be that my enthusiasm, when I first bought our one hundred acre dust farm, got the best of me, for men like L. B. Kitten, J. H. Brewer and Chester Williams are consulting with me on farm problems and I find that I am in deep water on whether to knife, fork or scratch the land. Up until I got my name on a mortgage for the farm, I had no idea that the land itched or that it should be knifed on occasions, and I find it advisable to look wise and say little when I get into conversations about farm subjects, but just the same I am learning, and by the time spring comes around, I'll be able to tell as big a story as any one about the north forty or the south sixty; whatever they are. One of my friends tells me that Heywood Basinger, who is renting our one hundred, told him that I am just the kind of farm owner he has been looking for, as he has doubts that I know a potato plant from a stalk of cotton. For the past week, I have been trying to think of some good resolutions that I could make that might do some good, but I cannot quit smoking as I have not smoked in the past seven years, I am a lot of help around the house and am always kind to dogs, when they will let me be. Ed Haddock had a big load of flu during the holidays and said it nearly broke his heart that he did not get to work during the holidays. Last week he was back at his old stand counting the dollars, his eyes were weak, his whiskers were long and he looked like he was full of vitamin pills, new fangled shots and he acted as if a week at home was no end of trouble. Now that the papers, the farmers and the bank officials are all predicting the worst dust storms since the famous dust bowl days, I would like to stick in my prophesies. It won't be long before the Post Office lake will be over a good knee deep, it will be cold as an income tax collectors heart and the farmers will be howling because they cannot get to town to groan and moan about farming prospects. The merchants will be looking up all the time with tears running down their cheeks and pleading for the rain to stop and I'll be sitting in my broken back swivel chair feeling sorry for myself and Heywood Basinger. I'm basing my predictions on the fact that its bound to rain some day and on the fact that all the shrubs, grass and trees have not given up, but are nice and healthy looking, even if it does seem that nature has gone off on a vacation and left everything in West Texas to take care of itself. You may fool a banker, the newspapers and the merchants, but you cannot fool the grass, its just sitting tight and waiting for the flood.

What Good Is a Baby?

The story is told of a research man who had just discovered a new substance. A friend asked, "What good is it?"

"What good is a baby?" countered the researcher.

Babies and new products have to grow up before anyone knows how important they may be. Quite a lot of infants have been brought up at General Electric during the past 75 years. During the bottle stage, nobody could predict their future accurately. But as it turns out today, they were real prodigies. Here are just a few that were first brought to the American public by General Electric men and women:

- the first electric lamp
- the first home refrigerator with sealed mechanism
- the first high-vacuum radio power tube
- the first fluorescent lamp
- the first automatic electric blanket
- the first large steam turbine for electric power
- the first jet plane engine in U.S.
- the first disposer for kitchen food waste
- the first high-voltage x-ray

We don't ordinarily trot out the past like this. But 1953 marks a birthday. For it was in 1878 that Thomas Edison organized the first of the companies which, in 1892, became the General Electric Company. And, like anyone on his birthday, we do look back over our shoulder.

This is just the beginning, really. Research and engineering are bringing out new things faster than ever—"babies" to lighten labor and brighten everybody's life.

Tech To Try Tempe In Hub City Friday

One of the pre-season favorites of the Border Conference—Arizona State at Tempe—meets the Texas Tech Red Raiders in basketball here Friday night.

Bill Kaglawa's crew was tabbed for the crown because all of his 1951-52 starters return for this season. Last season the Sun Devils and the Red Raiders split-Tempe winning 48-47 at Mesa and Tech winning 75-54 in Lubbock.

Bob Bouldin of Sudan, senior who missed Tech's losses to North Carolina State and Miami and the Raider's victories over New Mexico and George Pepperdine, is expected to be back in the lineup. He suffered a shoulder separation against Oklahoma A&M before the holidays.

Next Tuesday, January 11, Tech and Hardin-Simmons University meet in another Border Conference game at Abilene. After that game Tech will be idle until Jan. 31 because of dead week and examinations.

The Pacific Ocean is the largest expanse of water in the world.

An election will be held on January 15, 1953, by the High Plains Undergrounds Water Conservation District No. 1, for the election of three District Directors from Districts 1, 2, and 4.

W. O. Furlentberry is the candidate for District No. 1, which contains all the territory in the District situated in Lubbock and Lynn Counties.

Willis A. Hawkins is the candidate for District No. 2, which contains all the territory in the District situated in Bailey, Castro, and Pecos Counties.

Jim Lutz, G. A. Dietz, and V. A. Deaton are the candidates for District No. 4, which contains all the territory in the District situated in Potter, Deaf Smith, Randall, and Armstrong Counties.

At the same time, three County Committeemen are being elected from each county within the Water District.

The candidates for County Committeemen from Lubbock County are: Henry Beck, G. W. Moore, C. E. Brown and E. K. Hufstader.

Polling places in Lubbock County are:

Polling Place No. 1, States Club House.
Polling Place No. 2, Friendship School House, Wallworth, Texas.
Polling Place No. 3, Slaton City Hall.

Polling Place No. 4, Shallowater Club House.
Polling Place No. 5, Lubbock, Old Court House.

These County Committeemen will play a very important part in establishing the regulations of the District and seeing that such regulations are carried out. Three committeemen of the five-man Board can approve an application for a permit to drill a well.

Beginning the first of February a permit will be required or any well that is to be drilled, either industrial, municipal, or agricultural. These permits will be issued free of charge. The forms can be obtained from any County Committeeman, well driller, or the County Agent in each county.

One of the purposes of this application is to obtain information from the High Plains area regarding underground formations and well construction. This has been pointed out to the District as being very important information, not only to the people of the High Plains, but to the U.S. Geological Survey and is information that should have been gathered many years ago.

All indications are pointing to the prospect of a lot of State legislation confronting the District in the next few years. The Directors feel it will take the full cooperation of all the committeemen as well as the farmers and businessmen of the High Plains to keep the control of ground water in the hands of the local county people.

Slaton, Robertson Tie Here Tonight

The Slaton High School varsity basketball team will tangle with the Robertson High School varsity at 8 p.m. this Friday in the H.S. gymnasium, it was announced Tuesday by Homer Tompkins, tiger cage mentor.

Next week's schedule includes Robertson there on Monday night and Southland here on Tuesday night. The Tigers will be idle for the remainder of next week because of final exams.

Tonight's clash is the first meeting of Slaton and Robertson this year.

Through Monday, the Tigers have wins over Southland, two over New Home, and single wins over Ralls, Wilson and Cooper. They have lost engagements with Crosbyton, Anton, Hale Center, Bernathy, Ralls, Snyder, Gallatin and Andrews.

The Tigers trounced Wilson, 61-21, in a Tuesday night clash at Wilson. Darrell Wiley had 17 points for the Bengals and Wilson's Jimmy Schneider had 16 points. Wilson salvaged both preliminary contests, taking the "B" game 38-28 and the girls' contest 32-21.

Game time for home varsity games is 8 p.m. Varsity tilts usually are preceded at 6 p.m. by girls' game, and at 7 p.m. by "B" team contest.

Two Here To Attend Monday Dam Session Before State Board

J. J. Maxey, city secretary, and J. E. Eckert, city commissioner for Precinct Three, will be in Austin on Monday, Jan. 12, when the State Board of Water Engineers will hold an official hearing on the need of a Water District proposed for 12 Panhandle and South Plains cities in connection with the Canadian River Dam project.

Representatives of each of the 12 interested cities will testify before the Board, Maxey said. Should the matter be given a green light by the State Board, it then will become necessary for each of the 12 cities to hold a municipal election to determine whether each will form a water district as part of the Canadian River Dam project, Maxey explained.

The 12 cities which are participating in the project are Slaton, Lubbock, Lamesa, Tahoka, O'Donnell, Brownfield, Littlefield, Levelland, Plainview, Borger, Pampa and Amarillo.

Insecticides And Herbicides

Which is the greater hazard—insects or insecticides?

Alarmists are telling the American people that insecticides are greater danger. They claim—and they're getting a lot of space in the newspapers and magazines—that we're being poisoned by new chemicals.

This problem was pointed out recently by Dr. Edward F. Knippling, president of the American Association of Economic Entomologists. Dr. Knippling maintains that such fears result from cases where insecticides were misused, with no regard for recommendations of entomologists. The toxicity hazard of any chemical is in direct proportion to how it is used, he claims.

Federal and Texas Department of Agriculture entomologists are aware that they must never underestimate their responsibility to the public in seeing that insecticides are used safely. When a new chemical is developed, they assume it is potentially hazardous to man and animal until adequate investigations prove otherwise. When tests are complete then recommendations are made for the safest methods of application.

When we consider that insecticides are man and crop savers rather than man and crop killers, it calls for an entirely different outlook on the insect control chemicals. We must realize that many diseases are transmitted by insects. Millions of dollars worth of crops are destroyed yearly by other types. Effective control programs, carried out through proper use of insecticides, then, are invaluable.

But there is another phase of control work carried out by the Texas Department of Agriculture which is sometimes confused with insect elimination. This is the regulation by law of hormone-type herbicides.

Herbicides, such as 2-4-D and 2,4-5-T, are used primarily in the eradication of weeds and brush. These herbicides are NOT poisonous, although their use is controlled by Texas Herbicide Law, House Bill 593 (1951). This law is designed to protect crops which are susceptible to the chemical.

Hormone-type herbicides differ from insect poisons in that they energize a broad-leaf plant, causing it to "grow itself to death." Careless use of the chemical can cause severe damage to crops such as cotton. Because of this, permits for its use must be obtained from the department in Austin. Officials act as advisors in chemical application and also estimate the value of crops accidentally damaged for future settlement.

The worth of herbicides, like insecticides, is only as great as its effective use makes it. It can be a boon to agriculture when used properly, or a disaster when misused. Farmers who wish to take full advantage of the chemical are urged to obtain complete information on herbicides and pesticides by writing John C. White, Commissioner of Agriculture, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas.

Orange Rolls

A yeast dough is twisted in orange sugar and topped with confectioners' sugar icing to make these tantalizing rolls. Serve them with hot chocolate or coffee for a tempting snack.

Send your family off to work and school with a good breakfast. It's easy to get them to eat hearty when you offer Orange Rolls.

Start the meal with grapefruit halves—broiled if you have the time. Follow this with soft cooked eggs and hot Orange Rolls. Give children a glass of milk and serve coffee for adults.

Make the Orange Rolls ahead of time and heat in waxed paper before serving. Or buy sweet rolls at the bake shop.

Follow this pattern with every breakfast you serve your family—fruit, eggs, bread or cereal, and milk. Then your family will have enough "staying power" to accomplish much more during the morning. The protein in the milk, eggs and bread work together to give this satisfied feeling. Bread, too, when made with enriched flour, supplies extra B-vitamins and food iron.

Make extra Orange Rolls for snacktime. They make attractive sweets to serve friends who stop in for coffee and a chat. This is an inexpensive way to entertain—and it's friendly and informal.

ORANGE ROLLS

1 package yeast, compressed or dry
1/4 cup water (lukewarm for compressed yeast, warm for dry)
1/2 cup orange juice
1/4 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt

1/4 cup melted shortening
3 cups sifted enriched flour (about)
1 egg
1 tablespoon shredded orange rind
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine

ORANGE SUGAR

1/4 cup sugar

1 tablespoon shredded orange rind

Soften yeast in water. To orange juice add sugar, salt and shortening. Add 1 cup flour and beat well. Add softened yeast, egg and orange rind. Mix well. Add enough more flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead until smooth and satiny. Place in greased bowl. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled (about 2 hours). When light, punch down. Let rest 10 minutes. Roll out to rectangle 12x18 inches. Brush with melted butter or margarine and sprinkle with Orange Sugar. Fold over in thirds to form rectangle 12x6 inches. With sharp knife cut into strips 3/4 inch wide and 6 inches long. Roll ends of each strip in opposite directions and bring together to form circle. Seal ends and place on greased baking sheet. Let rise until doubled (about 45 minutes). Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 15 to 20 minutes.

Makes about 16 Orange Rolls.

Weekly Stamp Day Program Installed At Evans School

The Evans School has agreed to install a Weekly Defense Stamp Day for the 1952-53 school year, as its part in a national campaign to make Defense Stamp purchases available to at least 15 per cent of all students enrolled in each state. The Texas goal is to make these Defense Stamp purchases available to 160,500 students enrolled in the public and non-public schools.

Milton Granville, principal of Evans School, says the program was started December 29, when the school reopened after the holidays, and $26 worth of stamps have been purchased to date in the campaign.

Each of the six classrooms is driving for 100 per cent participation. They also plan to reach parents thru the P-T-A. According to the present program the Jr. High and High School students are buying 25 cent stamps and the elementary students are buying 10 cent stamps. The teachers are also participating in the program and are purchasing 25 cent stamps.

During the orientation period the students bring money to their teachers, who turn it over to the principal, who goes to town to purchase the stamps. Future plans include a booth in one of the rooms, where stamps may be purchased from a chairman by representatives of the different classrooms.

Quick action on the part of two employees and the Tullia Fire Department, called by Effie Jean Cagle, extinguished what threatened to be a disastrous fire at the Tullia Herald plant Thursday afternoon.

Phillip Roland, son of Vernon Roland, shop foreman, was cleaning up after the Wednesday night run when a huge pile of waste paper which had accumulated near the big Babcock press suddenly burst into flames.

The flames threatened the press and eight pages of the Christmas edition of the paper which had been stacked nearby. Donald Crocker, advertising manager, and young Roland, only persons in the shop at the time, battled the spreading flames with fire extinguishers until the fire department arrived. Damage was confined to the rear doors of the building. A part of the press was scorched.

Cause of the fire was attributed to electrical wiring.

With the addition of possibly 75 new irrigation wells in the last three or four months, Lynn county will have fully 700 wells in operation for the 1953 crop, County Agency Bill Griffin estimates.

In fact the figure may far exceed this number depending on the number of wells drilled between now and summer.

Harley Henderson, who is contracting the drilling of water wells, predicts there will be nearer 1,000 water wells by this coming summer.

HOW TO CHECK POULTRY COLDS

The annual threat of flock colds is here again. And to the average poultry raiser, this means another season of coughing, rattling, and perhaps lowered disease resistance in his flock.

Yes, colds and respiratory conditions are prevalent in poultry this time of year. But such conditions can be controlled—and greatly reduced — if Mr. Average Poultry Raiser follows a few rules of management and takes certain preventive measures.

A Comfortable House

The condition of the laying house is all-important. Therefore, as part of the overall precautions against colds, it should be kept as free from drafts as possible. In doing this, the area around nests and roosts should be given special attention, since any sudden changes in temperatures is likely to upset layers — and production. But raisers must provide protection against cold air throughout the house. In fact, every effort should be made to duplicate springtime conditions in the laying house. A good ventilation system will go a long way in achieving these ends.

In guarding against colds, it also is necessary to keep the flock eating well. To do this, poultrymen must keep up the vitality of layers and see to it that birds' diets are well supplied with vitamins and trace mineral elements. Stomachic appetizers can usually be fed with good results.

Treat Colds Promptly

If poultry should develop colds during the cold-weather months, there are several means of easing trouble breathing. It is advisable to treat them with an inhalant. There are good vaporizing spray treatments available at most hatcheries, feed stores, and farm supply stores. Prompt use of a spray or nasal wash usually brings quick relief to birds' clogged nasal passages.

Sulfa-drug aids are also useful in bringing colds under control. Used in either drinking water or mash, sulfa aids are excellent treatments for such troubles as coryza and roup. Many poultrymen also use certain vaccines and bacterina for colds.

"A Look Ahead" Is Published For '53

"A Look Ahead for Texas Rural Families in 1953," is the title of a recent publication designed to guide rural families in planning for family living, crops, livestock, and production.

Mrs. Eula Newman, home management specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service says to look ahead, it is first necessary to glance back with a discerning eye to see the why of trends affecting the outlook for farm family living in 1953.

"Farm families used to live off the farm," she comments. "But in recent years the major part of the earnings for many rural families has come from non-agricultural sources. Families living on farms made approximately 16 of each 100 dollars income from wages or salaries other than farm operations."

Women in the farm families have contributed to the income during recent years from outside employment. In 1951 one-fifth of the farm wives of the Nation were working outside the home. The number was influenced by the size of the husband's income. Statistics show 29 per cent of the farm wives employed were from homes where the husband's income was under $2,000 a year.

There are varying effects of this outside employment for farm women. "Family relationships and management of the home have undergone a change," Mrs. Newman comments. "In some instances children have assumed duties and responsibilities. Families have become better consumer buyers and managers of the family income because they found it necessary to have a spending plan."

The specialist says there are more farm families in the lower-income bracket than in any other groups of families in the United States. "With little difference in the wants and needs of the rural families more need to find or accept employment. Farm families desire the best education and training for their children and will work to attain those objectives."

Copies of the leaflet, "A Look Ahead For Texas Rural Families—1953" are available in county Extension agents' offices.

"War paint may be defined as a lipstick smear on a married man's collar." — Robert Q. Lewis.

"The best time for a man's ship to come in is before he is too old to navigate." — Howard Hughes.

FROM MOUTH TO HAND—Attention of the congregation is seemingly riveted on the man's hands at right. The speaker is ignored. No discourtesy is meant, however, as the people sitting in this church in Paisley, Scotland, are deaf, hence cannot hear the spoken sermon. They have been brought to this church to "see" a translation of the Rev. J. G. Haldane's sermon eloquently gestured by Mark Frame at right. The church is built in the Institute for the Deaf and Dumb, has two pulpits. The one on the left is for the voiced minister, one on the right for his interpreter.

Pointers Offered On Developing Of Farm Irrigation

Texas agricultural producers know the value of water and what a lack of it can mean to a maturing crop or to a pasture. The present drought has greatly increased interest in irrigation—to make up this lack—even in sections of the state where little or no irrigation has been previously used.

For the agricultural producer who may be thinking about an irrigation system, R. V. Thurmond, an irrigation specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says farmers should give consideration to many factors before making a final decision. The water supply, he says, may come from streams, lakes, ponds or wells provided of course there is plenty when needed most. He points out that a supply equal to at least five gallons per minute per acre or storage capacity of from one to three acre feet per acre will be needed to irrigate most crops.

There are problems connected with the use of water regardless of its source and a big one, according to Thurmond, is its quality. A chemical analysis will show whether or not the supply is suitable for crop production and Thurmond recommends that such a test be made. He adds the state chemist, for a nominal fee, can make these determinations. If water is taken from a stream, river or lake, a permit of use should be obtained from the Texas Board of Water Engineers. Percolating ground water pumped from wells may be used at the discretion of the owner.

The topography of the field to be irrigated will determine whether furrow methods or a sprinkler system should be used. Soil best adapted to irrigation have sufficient depth for storage of water; texture and structure that readily permit water to enter; good surface and subsoil drainage and with sufficient fertility to produce good yields.

To be profitable, says Thurmond, irrigation must result in increased yields sufficient to more than pay the costs involved. These costs include additional equipment, land preparation, expense of operating the equipment and additional labor. A plentiful supply of water for irrigation, if properly used, can mean increased yields and may also make possible the successful growing in an area of higher priced crops which could not otherwise be produced without supplemental water.

Farmers interested in an irrigation system for their farm are advised by Thurmond to consult with their local county agent. He can furnish information on irrigation in the area.

It is now time to start the 1953 farm record book. The first job is to complete the beginning and ending inventory.

Eisenhower Urges Nation Support March of Dimes

President-elect Eisenhower meets 1953 March of Dimes Poster Girls Pamela (left) and Patricia O'Neil, of Raleigh, N. C.

NEW YORK CITY—President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower called on the American public to support the 1953 March of Dimes being conducted throughout the nation during all of January.

He joined in the annual appeal after meeting the two Raleigh, N.C., sisters who are pictured on the 1953 March of Dimes poster. They are Patricia, 6, and five-year-old Pamela O'Neil, both of whom were stricken with polio but now are recovered completely.

"It's hard to believe that these are the same little girls whose pictures are on the March of Dimes poster," he noted. "Now they're completely recovered from polio, thanks to the generosity of the American people."

He urged all Americans "to help the others like them by joining the March of Dimes."

Later, he joined the poster girls in making a short film which is being shown by television stations throughout the nation.

This year's March of Dimes follows the all-time record polio epidemic of 1952 in which more than 55,000 were stricken. At the beginning of 1953, there were 58,000 polio victims of former years still undergoing treatment, with financial help from local March of Dimes chapters.

New Oldsmobile To Go On Display At The Davis Motor Company Here

Milton Davis, owner of the Davis Motor Co., has two 1953 Oldsmobiles on display at the new home of the Davis Motor Co., at the turn of North 9th at the Lubbock Highway.

These new models will be shown today, Friday, Jan. 9th and tomorrow, Saturday, Jan. 10, said Mr. Davis. He invites any one who is interested in the new trends in automobile designing and improvements to come look at them and to inspect the very attractive new home of the Davis Motor Co. at the same time.

The details concerning the new Oldsmobiles are given in the announcement of the Oldsmobile in a large advertisement in this issue of the Slatonite. Mr. Davis refers those interested in what the new cars offer, to the Oldsmobile ad in this paper.

1953 Oldsmobiles are difficult to secure at the present said Mr. Davis, but he expects all models to be rolling off the assembly line in a few weeks. He returned Monday from Oklahoma City where he visited the distributors of Oldsmobiles for this area, and he says things look mighty bright for Oldsmobile in the future.

A TRIBUTE -- TO OUR SCHOOL TEACHERS!

Today, as no time before in history, the school teacher is recognized as the builder of tomorrow's America. With juvenile delinquency increasing apace and foreign ideologies creeping into our school books, it is high time that glowing tribute was paid to these patient men and women who instruct our young. Let's remember that teachers are human beings, not machines. Let's give them the support and confidence they so richly deserve. Let's attend P.T.A. meetings and contribute something more than children. This community is fortunate in having such fine schools and outstanding educators. We applaud their work and their good American achievements!
