WATERMELONS ROLLING IN

Your first impression of the Anderson Produce Co. watermelon shipping dock just west of town may be one of complete chaos.

Huge semi trucks jockey for positions at the loading docks. Dozens of workers are in field trucks, tossing melons to other workers at conveyor belts, which carry the watermelons into the truck trailers, where they are hand stacked in amazingly uniform fashion. Fork lifts speed here and there, hauling crate after crate of the sweet chunks from one area to another. Field trucks are lined up as they come in, then driven to one of several unloading docks. This is a truly busy place.

Harvesting of the area watermelon crop is in full swing, and the nearing Labor Day market is probably the busiest time in the Anderson family' year round business. Todd Anderson, office manager, reports they are now averaging approximately 576,000 pounds of melon loading every day, some twelve or thirteen trailer truck loads.

Deroy Anderson, senior member of the firm, has been loading and shipping watermelons thirty four years. He is a former Yoakum County resident, and operated a hardware store in Tokio many years.

He is the son of local resident Wilma McDonald. Also a member of this busy company's staff is Scott Chambliss, who along with Todd Anderson, are Wilmas grandsons. Guy Jones is another busy young man wearing many hats in the complex operation. Gerry Anderson, wife of Deroy, helps Todd in the hectic office.

Local producers, Macky McWhirter and Eddie Earnest are the principal producers supplying Anderson with melons here. The two will harvest some 800 irrigated acres of seedless and allsweet watermelons and dew melons. This is the first year dew melons have been grown in appreciable amounts here.

Todd Anderson says the local melons are the best quality and sweetest they handle, and attributes this to our climate, soil, and water qualities.

The company's annual harvest trek starts in the spring at Edinburg, in the valley. Finishing there, they move to Dilley, the home base for the company. When melon shipment ends there, they move to Knox city crop area, then to Plains, the northernmost melon Area they serve.

Finishing here, they will move back to the double

PLAINS LIONS HOLDING BROOM SALE

The Plains Lions Club will conduct their annual broom sale on September 15, at the Old Courthouse. The sale will be from 8:00 am to 5:00 pm. Merchandise for this sale is made by the blind and distributed by Caravan Sales for the Blind.

Advance orders can be placed by contacting David Brunson at 456-2288 or Harry Richardson at 456-8888. Proceeds from the sale will be used for the various service projects of the Club during the coming year.

The Plains Lions Club is an organization that provides service, aid, and assistance to those who are less fortunate. One of the primary goals of Lions Clubs worldwide is to help the blind and the visually impaired. With programs such as the Caravan Sales for the Blind, regional eye banks, training centers for seeing eye dogs, diabetic camps, and local programs that provide eye exams and glasses for needy children, Lions Clubs reach thousands of people each year with many seeing problems.

Other programs supported by the Plains Lions Club include Girlstown at Whiteface, the Lions Crippled Children's Camp at Kerrville, Plains annual Christmas food drive.

COBBS FETE CUSTOMERS

TWO J-S Flying Service hosted a crowd of some one hundred customers and friends at Stanford Park Thursday, Sept. 1, and fed them a meal of barbecue and all the trimmings.

Owner Jack Cobb and pilot Michael Cobb have been holding these cook-outs a number of years. Jack stated "We think its a great way to show these farmers and ranchers, the people who keep us in business, how much we appreciate them".

Michael wondered, "I don't know if its because they aren't being fed at home or what, but these guys can really stuff the food away".

Norris Blount, area representative for Monsanto Chemical Co., helped with the preparation and sponsoring of the event. Gary Six and Rex Swann did the lions share of the cooking, which was great.

COWBOYS PLUCK EAGLES IN SEASON OPENER 23-13

People who chose to skip Friday nights game against Seagraves missed a mini-historical event. The stadium should have been jam packed, to witness a Cowboy team beating the Eagles at home the first time since 1981.

Seagraves has been a fierce rival of the Cowboys for many years, and the impressive victory against the class 2-A team gets our grid iron warriors off to a fine start for the long season ahead.

The Cowboys received the opening kickoff, and with a pass completion to Shannon Ward for a first down and runs by David Bitolas, were finally stopped with an Eagle sack of QB Victor Bernal.

The Eagles started from the 41 yard line, and the Cowboys promptly showed they too knew how to sack a quarter back. Following two more stalled plays, they were forced to kick, with disastrous results for the Eagles.

Shannon Ward took the punt on the four, and with good blocking and skilled running, sped 96 yards for the Cowboys first score, and with Bernals PAT, led 7-0 in the first quarter.

Seagraves received Bernals kickoff, and on the second play from scrimmage the Cowboy defense erred for the first of only two major mistakes of the night, when the Eagle quarterback shot to his left and down field for a 65 yard TD run, and the game was deadlocked, 7-7.

The Eagle kickoff was brought out to the 20 yard line, and in a series of runs from Ward and David Bitolas, and the help of a pass interference call against the Eagles, the Cowboys moved the ball well until finally stopped on the 39. Eric Ramos' punt placed the Eagles deep on their 8 yard line.

An excellent effort from Chase Clanahan, Brad McMinn, Ken Mc Adams, Joey Guerra and Lee Roy Vasquez stalled the Eagles, who were forced to punt, and the Cowboys took over on the 50.

Bernal threw unsuccessfully twice to Mc Minn, but eased his frustration with a fine toss to Ward. Good down field blocking and more fine running paid off with a 50 yard touchdown, and the Cowboys were up 14-7.

The Eagles were once more stymied after receiving the kickoff, with their QB trapped in the backfield, and a run stopped cold. A pass completion brought them out to the 36, and finally to the 42 yard line, where they were again forced to kick.

From the 25, Bitolas runs moved the Cowboys swiftly to the Eagles 20. Eagle defender Arguijo then stepped in front of the intended Cowboy receiver and ran the interception back to their 43.

The Eagle offense showed momentary improvements, and moved to the Cowboy 31 yard line, but cuffed up the ball, with Chase Clanahan recovering.

After a nineteen yard run from Stephen Bitolas, and a twenty one yard pass from Bernal to Ralph Ramirez, The Cowboy offense stalled.

The first half ended with the Cowboys remaining on top 14-7.

The second half opened with both teams exchanging offensive blows were less effective, Coach McMinn and his thanks to the Cowboys excellent defensive play.

An Eagle punt to Ward saw the Cowboys soon moving the ball to the Eagle two. Following a crunching block from Lee Roy Vasquez, David Bitolas found the goal line, and Plains led 21-7.

Following the kickoff, the Eagles were once more faltering. Forced once more to kick, the Eagles punter saw the snap from center sail over his head and into the end zone, where he was downed by Joe Luna for a Cowboy safety, and Plains comfortably led 23-7.

Neither team could muster an effective offensive attack in the fourth quarter until the last few minutes.

Cowboy defenders were unable to halt a good run by Eagle Rodney Lucky until he was finally chased to earth by Chris Payne on the two. With one minute to go in the game, the Eagles punched across the goal, but the two point conversion failed and the Cowboys had a well earned 23-13 victory.

PEANUTS TO BE STORED HERE

Doyle Welch, independent broker from DeLeon, announced plans to store previously contracted peanuts from this years nearing harvest. To our knowledge, this is the first time the nuts have been stored here.

Welch, formerly associated with DeLeon Peanut Co., arranged to lease the Goodpasture, Inc. grain warehouse here. The areas declining amount of milo production led Goodpasture officials to close the long standing grain facility here in March of this year.

Welch, a former classmate of local farmer Larry Morrow, anticipates peanut production in this area to increase both in number of acres planted and per acre yields. He believes peanuts are an excellent alternative crop to cotton and milo.

Barring always unpredictable weather, Welch plans on storing some 6500 tons of peanuts here, all of the Valencia variety. They will remain in the warehouse probably until February, then will be shipped, most of them to his principal purchaser, the Golden Peanut Co.

NEW DOCTOR SEEING PATIENTS AT LOCAL CLINIC

Last Thursday, Dr. Larry C. Boyd of Denver City began seeing patients for the first time at the local county clinic here. Some 19 patients took advantage of the new and convenient opportunity to receive medical treatment at home.

Dr. Boyd reports he was satisfied with the response from Plains citizens, and expects many others to utilize the program. He feels, "This facility will enable me to return something to the county and its people. The county is responsible for bringing me to this area to establish my practice, and I feel an obligation to serve everyone in the county."

The Doctor added, "I have plenty to do in Denver City, working in my own office, but if we can continue the practice of caring for Plains people crop harvest of melons at Dilley and Edinburg. They also ship melons from Mexico during the fall.

Local melons will be enjoyed on dinner tables, picnic blankets, and restaurant tables in virtually every state this year, and many often make their way to Canada.

The Anderson Company is followed from location to location by some twenty field trucks. Approximately one hundred workers are here now, enduring long, hot and physically demanding days either in the fields or at the docks. It is unusual to find such a hand labor intense business in this high tech era, but the only way to get these juicy delights to consumers is with man power, and lots of it.

Area watermelon production has become an important part of our area agriculture structure, and will probably continue to grow in number of planted acres.

Deroy stated, "These watermelons are for sale at the very low price of $1.00 each, with all proceeds donated to your schools 4-H club members", a generous project they have conducted a number of years.

NEW NINE HOLE GOLF PROJECT NEARS COMPLETION

Yoakum County's golf course expansion project is now in the final stages. The addition of nine holes, allowing for a regulation eighteen hole course, began in April, 1992.

When initial plans were discussed by county officials, Yoakum County Golf Club directors, club pro, Willy Osborne, and architecture firm, Mesa & Associates of Snyder, it was apparent that additional land around the present course would be needed for the new nine holes. Local rancher, Gene Bennet, who donated the land from his ranch for the park and original course, very generously offered an additional thirty acres of land on the east side of the existing facility.

Three additional wells were drilled nearby, and lines were laid to water the always thirsty course. A very large lake site was excavated, over 20 feet deep in places, to serve as a water supply holding tank. A state of the art computer controlled automated watering system is now in place on both the original nine holes and the new nine.

A new maintenance shop has been built to store and maintain the course equipment. The golf club provided funds for the purchase of new fairway and green mowing units, fringers, spray rigs and utility carts.

This large project has been a joint effort involving all four county precincts in the extensive earth moving stage. Dozens of other free contributions of time, labor and equipment came from both contractors and individuals.

Jim Brown of Denver City is president of the club. Club directors are Frank Valli, Leo Daniel, Teresa Young, Bruce Fletcher, Mike Smyers and Charles Ralston.

Wiley Osborne has been the club pro for ten years, only the third club pro since the course opened to play in 1966. Roy Fain was the first, followed by Larry Klafka. Osborne came here from Dallas, where he was assistant pro at Northwood Country Club.

Osborne says there are presently 177 golf cart rental sheds at the course. The club normally schedules ten tournaments of varying formats per year, the next a three man scramble on Labor Day.

The counties citizens have been fortunate to have an excellent nine hole golf course all these years, and the additional nine will greatly enhance both the park and course.

The golf course is easily the most heavily used recreational facility in the county. Yoakum County Golf Club has over 320 annual dues paying members, and Club pro Osborne reports more than 3500 daily green fee players are enjoying the present nine holes, a figure expected to greatly increase when the new nine come into play.

The fairways have been seeded, and grass on the new greens is showing good growth. The first three holes of the new nine are playable now, and the other six should be in play by spring, 1995.

All the new addition needs now is more time for the fairways and greens to grow to a playable stage.

Club members Charles Ralston, Bob Blundell, Matt Ralston and Eddie Taylor on #8 tee box.

ABOUT OUR MASTHEAD WINDMILL

We hope you noticed our new masthead across the front page. We are particularly proud of the windmill on the right corner.

The windmill is a very common subject of west Texas artists, but this one is special. Our friend Jimmie Bayer entered this picture in the annual Yoakum County Art Association show many years ago. It caught the eye of the late Blanche Dyer, who purchased it, and of course, it now hangs in our house.

here, it will help keep some money here in the local economy."

Before entering the medical profession, Boyd served two times in the navy, the first as an enlisted man on a destroyer. when discharged, he entered and graduated from college, and accepted a commission in the navy, received pilot training, and flew jets off the USS Lexington.

He resigned his commission and entered med school at Mercer Univ., Macon, Georgia. Upon graduation there, he won a navy scholarship, and again returned to that service. Part of that tour of duty found him stationed on a supply ship in the Gulf during Operations Desert Shield and Storm for two years, as a medical officer on the USS Jason.

He returned to civilian life, and started his practice in Denver City this July.

He and his wife, Sharon have eight children; Chip, 20, Nick, 15, Josh, 14, Patrick, 13, Lindsay, 13, Molly, 12, Jennifer, and Rory, 11. When asked if Patrick and Lindsay or Molly and Jennifer were twins, he laughed and said, "No, we just sort of rushed things along there."

If you are having medical problems, we suggest you meet the new Doctor. Clinic hours are 11:00-4:00 each Thursday, and appointments are urged.

coaching staff expressed their pleasure with the teams super efforts in the first game, and termed it a true player victory.

The coaches were especially impressed with defensive work of Chase Guerra, who each had eight solo tackles. Lee Roy Vasquez scored five tackles and a fumble recovery.

Clanahan covered a fumble, and he and Brad McMinn also deflected passes.

QB Bernal had a passing record of 7-15-1 for 101 yards. David Bitolas, suffering all week with a bad leg, ran very well, racking 116 yards in 25 carries. Ward was an excellent offensive weapon, with kickoff returns of 40 yards, punt returns of 18 and 94 yards and one T.D., 152 yards of the teams total 247.

Coaches were especially impressed with team discipline, having only one fumble, and two red flags thrown against them.

SCHOOL AND STUDENT COUNCIL GET BOOST FROM TEXAS ALLTEL

Texas Alltel, Inc. made another much welcomed contribution to our school system Thursday, Sept. 1.

Robert G. Williams, Operations Supervisor for the company, brought his company's check in the amount of one hundred dollars to town, and the donation was presented to the Student Council by long time local employee Travis Jones

Williams said "This is a way the company can show its appreciation for all the customers in our local system, and we know of no better place to put the money, in the hands of the Student Council themselves. They can use it any way they see fit."

The company also recently donated book covers for the entire school, printed with the slogan "Be Drug Free!" Mary Pettigrew, who sponsors the council activities, stated the council contribution will be used in a school project of their choice.

The condition of the playing field at Cowboy Field is excellent. Walking across the grass is like walking on a very thickly padded carpet. Several fans lining the homeside fence rails commented about the quality of the grass, and how well the stripes and yard markers looked.

WILLIAM CHAVEZ NAMED STUDENT OF WEEK

Student of the week William Chavez was nominated by Malisa Rogers, High School English teacher.

At the school assembly honoring a student each week, Ms. Rogers said, "I am proud the student I nominated was chosen by the faculty. I think this shows I am not the only teacher who has seen a change in this young man."

She added, "I chose William because of how hard he has worked this year compared to last. I see a remarkable change in his attitude, as well as the quality of his work. He is trying very hard, and I want the entire school to know how proud I am of him."

This paper adds its congratulations.

PLAINS VOLLEYBALL GIRLS READY FOR LONG, TOUGH SEASON

The Plains Cowgirl Volley ball team is well into a long and grueling schedule of competition which started August 13, and won't end until, hopefully, the girls reach the state tournament November 18.

The Cowgirls, never intimidated when facing squads from much larger towns and schools, have already met competition from Lubbocks Monterey, Coronado, Estacado, and Lubbock High. They have also played Snyder, Bronte, San Angelo Lakeview, Sweetwater and Ruidoso, and considering the competition, own a very respectable 7 win - 4 loss record.

Head Coach Charles Cain thinks this years team could use a bit more depth and experience, but is impressed by the girls speed and quickness, and appreciates their hard work habits. "We could certainly use some more height, but every coach feels that way", Cain admits.

Returning starters from last years squad include Kylie Bearden, Soph., Stacey Jones, Sr., & Valerie Blair, Jr., who will again see starting action this year. They will be joined by Sr. defensive specialist Misty Willitt, Sr.

outside hitter Amber Bryan and Soph. setter Robin Squyers, with Sr. Def. specialist Margie Gonzales and Jr. Heather McDonald seeing considerable action.

Cain has been in the Plains school system since 1979, and assumed head volley ball coaching status in 1984. His assistant, Joyce Pierce, has worked with him in the program that same period of time, and also serves as coach of the girls J.V. and 9th grade coach. They are ably assisted by Linda Harrigan and Steve Osborn.

Their next game will be in the Wink tournament on Sept. 10, where Class A, AA, and AAA area teams will be in competition.

"Our chief goal each and every year I have coached the girls, is to qualify for the state tournament in Austin, and naturally, win the thing", Cain stated.

Since 1967, our Cowgirls have made the trip to Austin for the big showdown a total of twenty times, and what is even more amazing is the fabulous record of 14 state Class A championships they have brought home. We know of no other school in the state which can lay claim to such a feat.

"The people of Plains have always been great about supporting our girls, and we're counting on their help again this year", Cain stated. Let's all do our part to continue this help-----

"SIT' JONES FIRST SENIOR OF MONTH

SARA JANE SHELTON & MOTHER "SIT" JONES

It was easy for us to choose the honoree for the first Senior Citizen Of The Month feature. To the best of our knowledge, Sit Jones is the Senior of Seniors in Plains.

Sit is one of those rare ladies with no qualms about revealing or discussing her age. She was born on her grandparents farm in Burleson county on Easter Sunday, 1903. Her father was county tax assessor, and her mother was busy raising children.

Her formal name is Olive Jones, being named for an uncle, Oliver. She acquired the nickname Sit when one of her younger brothers was unable to call her sister, managing just Sit, which has stuck with her all these years.

Sit attended grade school in that county, and when her family moved to Tahoka in 1917, graduated from high school and later taught two years there.

Asked how she learned to read aloud so well, she replied, "I studied Expression in school. Things were much more formal those days, and young people were expected to express themselves well". If you have heard her read scripture in the Methodist church, or from any other written source, you know she learned well.

She met her future husband in Tahoka. She told us business people, especially bankers, dressed formally, with coats and ties on despite summer heat. One day her father came from town and told her, "I've just seen the strangest thing. There's a young man working at the bank without a coat or tie, and he's wearing cowboy boots!". That, of course, was Casey.

He had served in the army during World War One in France, where he contracted a rare and debilitating form of tuberculosis of the spine, a condition that plagued him the rest of his life.

Sit first came to Plains in 1936 to work for Durwood McGinty in his abstract office. He was married to a sister of Sits'. She and Casey bought two sections just north of the town site in 1939, where she still lives.

They would have three children, Sara Jane from Bronco, and son R.B. of Lubbock. Another daughter, Grace, died in Mexico after receiving two college degrees. She says the years of '39 and '40 were vivid in her memory because of the oil discovery in the county. She worked in the courthouse then, and says the area teemed with wildcatters, drillers, all sorts of oil field people. Plains grew, but Denver City boomed. "It was really exciting", she added.

She says "Faith, an unquestioning faith in God, has been a large part of my life." She is a remarkable lady. Her smile is sincere and her no longer young eyes still sparkle. When she told us she had never smoked or drank, we asked if she had ever "cussed", she laughed, and confessed, "yes, I have, but never in front of my children when they were growing up."

Space limitations won't allow us to cover all the amusing, interesting Sit told us during this interview.

Ms. Jones, we salute you!

LIBRARY FILM TIME

The County Library's first Childrens Film Time program got off to a big start last Wednesday, with thirty-five pre-school kids enjoying the many events.

In attendance were Kimber Williams, Jacob Brink, Morgan Willis, Britnie Duran, Lepus Jiminez, Derek Garza, Ryan Crump, Joani and Jaaron Bell, Landon and Dakota Earnest, Kevin Gass, A. J. Martinez, Katie Winn, Holden and Hunter Welch, Brandon Craft, Danika Cerna, Wyatt and Lee Dearing, Amber and Cody Friesen, Lauren Hise, Christopher and Stephanie Addison, Kenyon Powell, Jason Durham, Hannah Crump, Magdalena and Greg Andazola, Christopher Gonzales, Jonathan Penner, Rhaela Stahl, Lauren Davis, and Cody Mayes.

The kids enjoyed songs, balloons, games, films, and refreshments. People from our Volunteer Fire Department and a trooper from The Dept. of Public Safety will visit the children soon, an event always enjoyed.

Filmtime is scheduled each Wednesday morning at 10:00 am, and parents must pick children up no later than 11:00 am.

FROM THE HACK

The term HACK, or HACKER, brings to mind several images. There are golf hackers, but I am not a true hacker. I also slice, hook, fade, draw, chili dip and whiff a golf ball.

Another image is that brought to mind in old black and white movies, the term hack used to describe some sleeze ball type journalist, a guy with a big cigar sticking out of his mouth, reeking with the odor of Scotch whiskey, the word "PRESS" printed on a band wrapped around his hat, always of low moral character, prone to stretch the truth, willing to write anything to satisfy his evil, sensation hunting editor.

AHA!! Now this type of Hack I can identify with. Thus, the name for this column, in which occasionally I will try to bring you something amusing, weird, or just plain stupid. If you like this type of small town story telling, be sure to tell me. If you don't, please tell my wife. I seldom listen to her anyway, so she says.

I read in a recent issue of CAPITOL UPDATE, which our Library receives each two weeks, an article about casino gambling coming to our state, a very hotly debated subject.

Seems our Lt. Governor, Bob Bullock, has been saying he is personally opposed both to the lottery and casino type gambling, yet he has received more than $150,000 in campaign donations from folks with casino gambling interests.

HMMMMM. Now let's see. If I should run for some state office, and announce I am violently IN FAVOR of a casino in each and every city and hamlet in Texas, wonder what kinda megabucks that would bring me?

Another political thing in the same publication caught my eye. Ramsey Muniz, who unsuccessfully ran for governor twice, has been convicted on federal charges of drug crimes.

Guess when he learned he wasn't going to get into state politics, where the really BIG money is, decided he'd settle for a slightly less profitable field of endeavor.

Heard about this at the "Table Of Wisdom"; A guy there said his wife has broken her big toe fourteen times in the last three years, getting up in the night to visit the necessity room, stubbing the toe on a certain chair in the dark room. The guy, fed up with Doctor bills and her limping around, asked her why she didn't just move the chair, or turn on the light. "NO!", she replied, "That's the only place that chair looks good, and I'd rather break a toe than have you awake!"
