SPORTS BRIEFS

by James Roy Lewis

Well, after a month of major league base ball, in the National league it looks like a dog fight right down to the wire between four teams for the pennant. They are the San Francisco Grants, Los Angeles Dodgers, St. Louis Cardinals and Pittsburgh Pirates. Late in August and September, you expect teams like the Chicago Cubs, Philadelphia Phillies and Houston Colt .45's to deal some of the top teams plenty misery and maybe know them out of a Pennant.

See you next week.

Dunbar Teacher, Miss Maurice Carter Receives Fellowship

Miss Maurice Carter, commercial and journalism teacher and sponsor of student publications at Dunbar High School, has been awarded a fellowship from The Newspaper Fund for advanced study at the University of Colorado beginning July 23.

The grant includes tuition, room and board, travel costs, and incidental expenses.

The course is designed to strengthen the quality of high school journalism courses, to improve scholastic newspapers and to provide teachers with information which will be helpful to them in advising talented young people who may be interested in a

Among the first to beat a path to the door of the man who builds a better mousetrap these days, it becomes increasingly evident, are the gentlemen in charge of enforcing the various government regulations against monopoly.

Take the case of the Brooklyn bubble gum manufacturer who hit on the idea of attracting young customers by including picture cards of famous baseball players with his product. He's charged with creating a monopoly because he signed up all the promising ball players he could.

The government's complaint is that other bubble gum manufacturers are hurt because the youngsters want the brand with the baseball cards. So the bubble gum company is suddenly confronted by government lawyers. In effect it is being told that success is against the law and that the only time a businessman has the right to monopolize the fruits of his ingenuity is when they turn out to be worthless.
